Fort Worth Man Will Make Trip On China Clipper

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12. (AP) —Keeping a pact made for him by the late Will Rogers four years ago, Amon Carter, publisher of The Star-Telegram, Fort Worth, Texas, arrived here Sunday by airline en route to the Orient as one of the first seven passengers in the trans-pacific China Clipper plane of Pan-American Airways.

In 1932, when the transpacific line was proposed, Rogers was declared by company officials to have given them a blank check with the request:

"See that I get the first ticket, and put Amon Carter down too, because he wouldn't miss a chance like that."

Rogers and Wiley Post were killed last year on an Alaskan flight, but Carter is keeping the tryst.

Soon after his arrival here yesterday, the Texas publisher went with friends to the St. Mary's-Loyola football game.
