THE BUILDING OF CHARACTER.

Of all the things that man has made, none are so full of interest and charm, none possesses so distinct a life and character of its own as a ship. "Ships are but boards," says Shylock in The Merchant of Venice. But we feel that this is a thoroughly wooden opinion, one of these literal judgments which stick to the facts and miss the truth. Ships have something more in them than the timbers of which they are made. Human thought, human labor, and human love,—the designers clever conception, the builders patient toil, the explorers daring venture, the merchants costly enterprise, the sailors loyal affection, the travelers hope and fears. There is a spirit within their oaken ribs, a significance in their strange histories. The common language in which we speak of them is an unconscious confession of this feeling.

Whither is she traveling, that long, four-masted schooner, with all her sails set to catch the fickle northwest breeze? Where is she bound, that dark little tramp steamer trailing the black smoke behind, and her way eastward in the teeth of the gale? Is it in some sunlit post among the bare purple hills of Spain, or in the cool shadows of some forest-clad Norwegian fiord, that she will find her moorings? Whither away, ye ships? What haven? Where are you bound my friends? There are multitudes of people in the world today who are steering and sailing for Ophir, simply because it is the land of gold. What will they do if they reach their desired haven? They do not know. They do not even ask the question. Let us look ourselves squarely in the face! To win riches, to have a certain balance in the bank, and a certain rating and the exchange, is a real object; but it is a frightfully small object for the devotion of a human life, and a bitterly disappointing reward for the loss of an immortal soul. If wealth is our desired haven, we may be sure it will not satisfy us when we reach it.

But deeper still the question goes when we look at it in another light. Our life is made up, not of actions alone, but of thoughts and feelings and habitual affections; these taken all together constitute what we call our present character. In their tendencies and impulses and dominant desires they constitute our future character, towards which we are moving as a ship to her haven. What is it, then, for you and I, this intimate ideal, this distant self, this hidden form of personality which is our goal?

I am sure that we do not often enough put the problem clearly before us in this shape. We all dream of the future, especially when we are young. The stuff of which our day dreams are made is for the most part of very cheap material. We seldom weave into them the threads of our inmost spiritual life. We build castles in Spain, and forecast adventures in Bohemia. But the castles is without a real master. The hero of the adventure is vague and misty. We do not clearly recognize his face, or know what is in his heart. We picture ourselves as living here or there, we imagine ourselves as members of a certain circle of society, taking our places among the rich, the powerful, the "smart set." We fancy ourselves going through various experiments of life, a fortunate marriage, a successful business career, a literary triumph, a political victory. Or perhaps if our imagination is of more sombre type we foreshadow ourselves in circumstances of defeat and disappointment and adversity. But in all these reveries we do not really think deeply of ourselves. We do not stay to ask what manner of men and women we shall be, when we are living here or there, or doing this or that. Yet it is an important question. When we choose between two lines of conduct, between a mean action and a noble one, we also choose between two persons, both bearing our name, the one representing what is best in us, the other embodying what is worst. When we vacillate and alternate between them, we veer as Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. We say that we "make up our minds" to do a certain thing or not to do it, to resist a certain temptation or to yield to it.

It is true we "make up our minds" in a deeper sense than we remember. In every case the ultimate decision is between two future selves, one with whom the virtue is harmonious, another with whom the vice is consistent. To one of these two figures, dimly concealed behind the action, we move forward. What we forget is, that, when the forward step is taken, the shadow will be self. Character is eternal destiny. Oh, for a new generation of day-dreams, young men and maidens, who shall see themselves as the heroes of coming conflicts, the heroes of yet unwritten epics of triumphant compassion and stainless love. From their hearts shall spring the renaissance of faith and hope. The ancient charm of true romance shall flow forth again to glorify the world in the brightness of their ardent eyes, and as they go out from the fair gardens of visionary youth into the wide, confused, turbulent field of life, they will bring with them the marching music of a high resolve. They will strive to fulfill the fine prophecy of their own best desires. They will not ask whether life is worth living—they will make it so.

They will transform the sordid

"struggle for existence" into a glorious effort to become that which they have admired and loved.

What manner of men and women do we truly hope and wish to become? The number of ideals seem infinite. But after all, there are only two great types. Paul calls them "the carnal" and "the spiritual" and I know of no better names. The carnal type of character, weak or strong, clever or stupid, is always self ruled, governed by its own appetites and passions, seeking its own ends, and even when conformed to some outward law or code of honor, obedient only because it finds its won advantage or comfort therein. But we all know who it is who stands at the very summit of the spiritual pathway Jesus Christ the

RADIUM.

Radium is one of the greatest of recent discoveries. The effect it has upon life is marvelous. A short time only is required for its rays to produce blindness and even death.

It is an element because its spark-spectrum has been measured and shown to be different from every other form of matter. It has been found that radium was characterized by a special spark-spectrum of fifteen lines, with no lines of any other element. Radium is a metal, and belongs to the alkaline group of elements, being related to barium and thorium in its elementary character.

It is obtained from pitch-blende, or uranite, which is a black, heavy, pitchy
looking substance found in Saxony, Bohemia, Cornwall, Colorado and various other localities. It has been the principal or almost the only source of uranium.

The discovery was made by Madame Curie and her husband, Prof.
Curie of the Ecole Polytechnique at Paris. They began experiments with the object in view of finding the new element. In the testing they realized that such a substance must exist in a greater proportion in pitch-blende and uranium than in any other substances. Madame Curie has termed these two peculiar qualities radium and polonium.

Pitch-blende is an exceedingly complex mineral containing eight or ten elements. A discovery has been made to the effect that it contains all the other metals, which may enter into it after the uranium oxides have been removed.

Radium accompanies the barium
obtained from pitch-blende and is separated from barium by taking advantage of the difference of solution of chlorides in water or alcohol containing hydrochloric acid. The remarkable power of radium over barium is shown in mixing radium and barium salts. The ——— is that radium holds all the radio-active properties and the barium of itself has none.

TEXAS STATE PROHIBITION ORA- TORICAL CONTEST.

The first State Prohibition Contest ever held in the state will be held in the chapel of Baylor University on Friday evening, May 12th.

Mr. Dallas, our representative, has a fine oration, and as this work is new in the state and as Mr. Dallas has had a great deal of drill along prohibition lines of work we feel safe in saying that we are confident he will win a high place of honor, if not place. Baylor will be there in full to yell for her representative and I do not see why everyone of us should not go and give Mr. Dallas our support. It is our duty to support him by being present at the Contest.

Let us all go in a body and show

WACO, TEXAS,

is the largest and most thoroughly equipped school belonging to the brotherhood in all the Southwest. More than 30 professors, teachers and officers are in charge of the various features of the school work. Last year there were enrolled as follows: College of Arts and Sciences, 102; College of the Bible, 37; College of Business, 110; College of Music, 127; College of Oratory, 39; College of Art, 108; Preparatory College, 188. The leading Universities and Conservatories of America and Europe are represented in the Faculty. Well equipped libraries, laboratories and studios are at the disposal of the students. A large number of the new upright pianos, three grand pianos, a pipe organ and a full set of band instruments constitute the musical equipment. No school has better pianos for practice purposes. We use largely the Starr and Knabe, which are supplemented by the Emerson, Ivers and Pond, and Chickering. Graduating pupils practice on Chickering and Knabe full concert grand pianos. The Church Parson's system of Kindergarten music is taught by a graduate of the system.

LECTURE ON NEW ZEALAND.

Mr. T. H. Mathieson's lecture on New Zealand was very fine. In our imagination we hurriedly crossed the peaceful waters of the Pacific and viewed the beautiful scenery of New Zealand. Sometimes we were upon the top of some high mountain, again we were scrambling along the rugged hill-side, viewing the winding banks of some clear stream. On each side of the river there were beautiful flowers, and again the scene changes into a beautiful lake in the midst of which was a row boat with only two inhabitants enjoying a pleasant boat ride. He viewed the great geyser in one of its greatest throes of agony. Taking the train we rode around mountains, through tunnels, down narrow valleys, passed green fields and finally landed in the beautiful town of Auckland, the capital of New Zealand, here upon a small hill was the home of our distinguished orator and lecturer, Mr. T. H. Mathieson.

All enjoyed the lecture fine and as a result of the fifteen cents fee admission, or two for a quarter, the Endeavor Society were enabled to give something over eleven dollars to the Industrial Department of T. C. U.

Mr. Mathieson closed his lecture by throwing our Stars and Stripes upon the canvass. Every true American's heart leaps with joy at the sight of the flag of his country.

T. C. U. vs. MISSOURI UNIVERSITY.

The Missourians on their southern tour crossed bats with the champion team of the state on Saturday afternoon, at West End Park. They were very anxious to win over our boys as it always means something to win a game over a team which has a wide reputation. For several days before the game, Missouri had been saving her best men for the final contest in Texas. In former games she had played her subs, thus losing games with her other foes in order that she might win over T. C. U.

The game was called at 4 p. m. and Missouri took infield. In the first half of the first inning Missouri was enabled to see two of her men pass over the home plate.

T. C. U. was shut out in the first and second innings, but Gallaher safely passed over the home plate in the third inning. After this inning neither side scored any more.

Did you ever take a bath—at the St. Charles Barber Shop?

MRS. LEE CLARK'S VOICE RECITAL.

Among one of the feasts of good things given this week in the chapel of the University was the recital given Monday evening by Mrs. Lee Clark.

The chapel was beautifully decorated and at a few minutes past eight Mrs. Clark appeared. L. Reic Schockey, piano, and R. Dyksterhuis, violin, accompanists.

Mrs. Clark has a sweet melodious voice, captivating the hearts of her audience by her clear spoken words.

After listening to a voice recital, equaling any of the pay entertainments given in the city, the crowd went away feeling that they had spent a very profitable and enjoyable evening.

A wise man knows a good thing when he sees it, but a fool doesn't know a good thing when he has it.

The delegates to the Southern Baptist convention at Louisville left for that city Wednesday. Waco will be well represented in this great convention. Dr. S. P. Brooks of Baylor, Dr. B. H. Carroll, Dr. Dement and others being Waco's representatives.

Texas Christian University WACO, TEXAS,

is the largest and most thoroughly equipped school belonging to the brotherhood in all the Southwest. More than 30 professors, teachers and officers are in charge of the various features of the school work. Last year there were enrolled as follows: College of Arts and Sciences, 102; College of the Bible, 37; College of Business, 110; College of Music, 127; College of Oratory, 39; College of Art, 108; Preparatory College, 188. The leading Universities and Conservatories of America and Europe are represented in the Faculty. Well equipped libraries, laboratories and studios are at the disposal of the students. A large number of the new upright pianos, three grand pianos, a pipe organ and a full set of band instruments constitute the musical equipment. No school has better pianos for practice purposes. We use largely the Starr and Knabe, which are supplemented by the Emerson, Ivers and Pond, and Chickering. Graduating pupils practice on Chickering and Knabe full concert grand pianos. The Church Parsons system of Kindergarten music is taught by a graduate of the system.

Music Refreshments Souvenirs

To those who are not acquainted with the significance of this new holiday, which has so recently taken its place in the calendar among the other red letter days, we take pleasure in giving the following explanation:

From the time the INNOVATION APPARATUS, "the only new idea in soda water dispensing in SEVENTY-THREE YEARS," was first installed at the 'Old Corner,' to date, it has been a general favorite with all discriminating lovers of the "Great American Beverage." And since the "Innovation" has ushered in a new era in the down-to-date serving of soda water and in gratitude for the many blessings it has brought, the people will hereafter make the fifteenth of May a day of rejoicing and will assemble at the 'Old Corner' at the appointed hour in gay attire where they will receive a cordial reception and enjoy our hospitality.

THE OLD CORNER DRUG STORE, J. N. Lyle, Jr., Sec. and Manager.

Here and There

"Dear" she cooed, "do you think that you can continue to shower candy and flowers and such things upon me after we have been married, in addition to meeting the household expenses?"

"Good gracious!" exclaimed he. "You don't expect that sort of thing to go on after we're married, do you? And me only earning $13 a week! Great jumping Jehosaphat!"

"Well, how'd your investigation turn out?" casually inquired the oil magnate. "Are they going to jail you?" "Oh no," laughed the beef magnate. "We easily convinced 'em that we were losing money, and now there's some talk of granting us a subsidy."

"That so. Gosh! Believe I'll court an investigation."

"What's your son doing now?" "Oh, he's bookagentin' through the country and writin' fer money."

"Does he get much money for what he writes?"

"Wa-al, when he writes fer twenty I ginerrully send him ten."

"Why is it that a widow is able to captivate more men than a debutante?"

"The debutante talks to the man about herself."

"Yes?"

"And the widow talks to the man about himself."

"I told you it wouldn't do no good to start a fuss with Johnny's teacher, pa."

"What's she up to now?" "She's teachin' him that he's descended from a monkey."

"Why are you here?" queried the benevolent visitor.

"Because I ain't nowhere else," growled the wicked prisoner.

"Suppose your father gave your mother $25 and then took half of it back, what would your mother have?" "Hysterics, I reckon."

MISTROT'S

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

The Christian Endeavor Society meets regularly every Sunday evening at four o'clock. For the last two months, the Society under the efficient administration, has been steadily increasing in interest and numbers. It has reached such a point that it is hard for its members to confine their meetings within the limit of one hour.

Since the District Convention at Hillsboro, the members seem to have taken on new life and interest is never lacking in its meetings.

With our State President, Miss Tyler Wilkinson, and rustling Sister Kirby, T. C. U. boasts of having the greatest Endeavor Society in the state.

THE CHURCH SERVICE.

The pastor of the University church will preach as usual in the chapel on Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. The morning theme will be, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" The evening subject, "Jesus Christ and Him Crucified."

If a young man kisses a girl she doesn't want him to tell of it—but she is disappointed if he doesn't repeat it.

The man who can't trust himself always thinks other people ought to trust him.

If you have any loyalty, patronize those who ad in the Skiff.
