ORATORICAL ASSOCIATION ORGANIZED FOR THE YEAR

Floyd Sweet Elected President—Many Contests to Be Held During the Year.

The Oratorical Association of T. C. U. met Tuesday afternoon immediately after lunch for the purpose of organizing for the year. Last year, because of the unsettled conditions and the uncertainty as to who would be back in school this year, the usual custom of electing officers before the close of school for the coming year was dispensed with, and the more practical plan of letting this business run over to this year was adopted.

The officers who were elected were: Mr. Floyd Sweet, President; Mr. John Sturgeon, Vice President, and Miss Gladys Richards, Secretary.

Association Very Strong. For the past few years the Oratorical Association in T. C. U. has been one of the strongest organizations in school. It has been put on a sound business basis, and each year is in a position to offer some very handsome and valuable prizes to the winners of the several contests which are held during the year.

Two years ago it was decided that Oratory in a University was one of the things that should be encouraged more than almost anything else, with the exception of the regular class work. After careful consideration and much discussion, it was decided that there should be a certain fund, each year at the disposal of this association, which could be used for the stimulation of a greater interest in the Public Speaking contests.

Accordingly, a regular assessment on each student was made, to be paid on matriculation. This assessment is turned over to the Oratorical Association to be used in the way that the members feel is most beneficial to the interests of oratory. On the payment of the Matriculation fee at the beginning of school, each student is given a card which entitles him to admission to all the Oratorical Contests of the year.

This same system has been used in connection with athletics; this same matriculation card will admit the holder to all the athletic contests during the term.

This plan has been found to be very practical and not only divides the burden of the support of these several kinds of university activities, but makes it possible that each may be enjoyed by all the students at a smaller individual cost. At the same time such a system makes it possible that the Oratorical Association shall have on hand ready cash to carry on its regular business without making frequent calls upon the student body, for voluntary contributions.

Association Offers Over $300.00 In Prizes.

This year the association will have at its command something like three hundred dollars which may be offered as prizes for the several contests during the year. During the year, there will be something like six contests which are the regular scheduled contests from year to year. Besides these, there will be several others, to be decided upon and announced later.

The regular contests which occur each year are as follows: Old Men's Declamatory Contest; New Men's Declamatory Contest; Preliminary for the Triangular Debate; Final in the Triangular Debate; Preliminary for the State Oratorical Contest; Prohibition Contest; Inter-society Debate; Reed Oratorical Contest. For each of these contests there is offered valuable prizes in money to both the first and second men. These prizes vary from year to year, as the amount of money which the Oratorical Association has at its disposal.

This year on account of the large student body, this fund is a little larger than usual. Therefore, it may be possible for larger prizes to be offered than has been the case in the past. However, these details will be decided by the Oratorical Association this year, and will be announced later.

Oratorical Outlook Very Bright.

The Oratorical outlook for this year is very bright indeed. There are many of the older men here in school, who have participated in many of the contests in the past, besides many of the best speakers from the different high schools over the state. Among the old men, who have won laurels in Oratory and debate, are such men as John Sturgeon, John

T. C. U. PIGSKIN WARRIORS SURPRISE ON "DOPESTERS"

Christians Outplay Methodists in Every Phase of the Game—Game Opens With All New Men in Line Up.

With every player on the team a new man in college football, T. C. U. outdid the husky little bunch from Meridian College Saturday afternoon by a score of 20 to 0. This being the first game of the season, and a victory, it looks as if T. C. U. will have a winning team this season, regardless of the fact that practically all the men will be absolutely new in college football.

In the first quarter, T. C. U. chose to receive and immediately started down the field with the ball, while the band played "When that Old T. C. U. Team Falls in Line." After a very short period of line plunging, end runs, and short forward passes by Prinzing, Miller, Lockman and Martin, the T. C. U. warriors had crossed the goal for the first touch down of the season.

During the second period of the game there was no scoring by either team; however, the ball was kept well in the Methodists' territory most of the time.

In the third quarter, the Methodists chose to receive, but soon lost the ball by failing to make the necessary ten yards in the four downs. They punted to T. C. U., to regain the ball from time to time. On one punt the ball was recovered by Green of the Meridian team after a fumble, and he would have scored had it not been for the spectacular tackle made by Miller from behind. This placed the ball well in T. C. U.'s territory, with one or two short gains and several long penalties, the ball was brought to within one yard of the T. C. U. goal. The Meridians tried to buck the ball over, but met a stone wall defense on the first trial. On the second trial Lockman of the Christians, scooped the ball up and was gone the full length of the field for a touchdown.

BRUSHES INITIATE MANY NEW MEMBERS

Riding the Goat Too Tame for Brush Initiation—Senior Man Intrudes And Gets Initiation.

The annual initiation of the "Brushes" took place on Monday evening, October the first. Almost every one of the members were present to see the fun, to say nothing of the many new members who were to be the recipients of the different kinds of degrees that are given by this organization.

As has been stated in a former issue of the Skiff, the organization of Brushes is composed of the students in the University who are actively engaged in the study of art.

This year the number in this department of the University is exceptionally large and therefore there were many new members who must be put through the different degrees before they could be held to be worthy of membership in this well known organization.

Throughout the entire initiation, the old time "pep", so characteristic of the Brushes, was present. Different features of the initiation were: Swallowing marshmallows that had been soaked in water; walking across the floor in bare feet where there had been placed fly paper, with a blind fold over the eyes. After being thoroughly frightened by this operation, each girl was then escorted across the floor, where she was made to step into a tub of ice cold water. This done, they were made to give still another evidence of their desire to be a real Brush by sliding down a greased pole, all the time wearing the blind fold.

After a few more stunts, which are not for the public to know, the official brand of the Brushes was placed on each member, entitling her

FORT MORGAN ALABAMA DEMOLISHED BY HURRICANE

T. C. U. GRADUATE TAKES ACTIVE PART

Troops Will Probably Be Transferred.

The hurricane which had been scheduled for some two or three days previous, reached Fort Morgan, Ala., at 10 o'clock Friday night. At that time the officers were informed from the Naval Radio Station that the barometer was falling and that the hurricane was coming. The officers sent out squads of men to assist people living near the fort to get to the batteries. It was raining hard and the wind was blowing then about fifty miles an hour. The storm was so severe that some of the people were almost drowned while trying to reach the batteries.

The wind began to rise gradually until about 1 o'clock, when the real hurricane struck from the northeast. It blew at 150 miles an hour until 3 o'clock, when it changed directions. Until about 6 o'clock, it blew from the north and A. A. W. at an even greater velocity.

From the batteries nothing could be seen but rain flying through the air horizontally—carrying bricks, slate roofing, timbers and whatever else happened to be in its way.

About 7 o'clock the wind began to die down, and by 9 o'clock the troops were able to return to their barracks.

The post is a complete wreck. Numbers of houses were completely demolished and all suffered.

Lieut. W. M. McGregor, a last year graduate of T. C. U. has been stationed at Fort Morgan for the past few months. In writing of the hurricane, he says that the post is absolutely ruined, and that in all probability the troops will be transferred to some other fort.

"Mac" says that there is one thing he learned from the hurricane, and that is that a 150-mile wind is "some breeze."

FINE ARTS NUMBERS ARE ENTHUSIASTICALLY RECEIVED

Miss Wilson and Miss Bryant Give Numbers in Chapel.

The regular Fine Arts program given every Wednesday morning in chapel was one of double interest this week.

Miss Aliene Wilson, of the piano department, who in the two years which she has been with us, has proven herself to be a very capable teacher and a most pleasing pianist, rendered the Valse de Concert by Wienjowski. The applause did not cease until she responded with an encore, Marche Mignonne by Soldini. It was a light delicate little selection which left the hearers with a quiet, agreeable feeling of content.

The second number was given by "the very latest addition to our Fine Arts Faculty"—Miss Marjorie Bryant, who comes to us from the Cummock School of Oratory to assist Miss Powell and Miss Meossey. Her first reading was "The Marriage of the Flowers," by Lucy M. Montgomery. It was a delightful, estatic flow of pretty words and sweet sounds, which somehow lifted one above the realm of the commonplace. The second selection was "The Afterwhites," by Riley. The noticeable thing about it was the varied interpretation which Miss Bryant put upon it. It was pleasing to note the nice distinction which she made in her tone of saying "afterwhile." The last selection was Longing by Lowell. It was interesting because she made it so, and worth while for its theme:

"The thing we long for, that we are, For one transcendent moment, Before the present poor and bare, Can make its sneering comment."

And again, "Perhaps the longing to be so, Helps make the soul immortal."

When she had finish, President Waits rose to quiet the applause; and favored us with his broadest smile, as he said:

T. C. U. HUSRIES PREPARE TO MEET ARTILLERYMEN SATURDAY

Heavy Scrimmage on Local Field—Rooters Hold Pep Meeting on Band Stand.

The second game of the season will be played on the local field when the T. C. U. team meets the First Texas Artillery team from Camp Bowie Saturday afternoon at four o'clock.

It is needless to say that the Varsity boys will be entirely outclassed when it comes to weight, and probably foot-ball experience. However, this may be somewhat equalized by speed and team work, coupled with the grit that has been shown by all the men in the scrimmages and in the game last Saturday.

The Artillerymen are coming over with all the confidence in the world, thinking that they are going to wait from one end of the field to the other at their own pleasure; however, the Varsity men feel that there may be some changes in opinion to take place among these seasoned warriors before the game is over Saturday afternoon.

Heavy Scrimmage Wednesday Afternoon.

Coach Daniel has been driving the boys hard since the game Saturday, in order to have them in shape for the game this Saturday. All the men were put through a heavy scrimmage on Wednesday afternoon, and several new plays were given the teams to be tried out on each other. The scrimmaging will probably be lighter for the rest of the week, as Coach will not want the boys to be sore and bruised when they go into the game. Rooters Stir Up Pep for the Game.

All the rooters met around the Bandstand Wednesday night to stir up more pep for the coming game and to become more familiar with the University yells. John Sturgeon made several fiery little talks to the students and then after each led them in some of the yells which will be given during the game Saturday. All the students are becoming familiar with the yells and by Saturday it is hoped that there will not be a student or professor in the University who will not only know every yell, but will be out in the bleachers to do their share in helping the Varsity men tame the "Gun Rollers" from Camp Bowie.

LAWYERS HAVE FIRST MEETING OF YEAR.

On last Monday morning all the men in the university who are actively studying law, together with those who intend to be admitted to the bar for their life work, met in the Law Room on the second floor of the Administration building for the purpose of organization. But as the time allowed for the meeting was somewhat limited, no business of an executive nature was actually completed. But every Law present came away with the feeling that as far as the spirit is concerned the organization has already been affected.

The enthusiastic speech of Prof. Milton Daniels was perhaps the decided feature of the occasion. Mr. Daniels in glowing terms spoke of the Patron Saint of the Law Department, told of how Rhadamantus sprang in direct line from Zeus, the famous god of antiquity, emphasized the affection which should be in the heart of every member of the department for this divinity of theirs, and expressed the opinion that the Law Department of Texas Christian University could not but climb on to fame with such guidance of the immortal gods. It is Mr. Daniel's firm opinion that many a jury in the U. S. A. will have the opportunity of feeling the spirit of Rhadamantus and that many a youth will be led on down the hall of fame by the kindly hand of this patron saint of his college days. Before long the Freshman Laws will be introduced to the corporal representation of this supernatural inhabitant of ethereal spheres, and many are looking forward with a mingled feeling of fear and joy to the moment when they shall be ushered into his divine presence.

Mr. Jesse Martin gave an excellent sketch of the history of the Bar Association of Texas Christian University, and proposed some very thoughtful suggestions which will undoubtedly influence the final organization of the Laws to be perfected at another meeting in the very near future.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES.

More than 2,000 Red Cross nurses are now engaged in active nursing service, and another 2,000 in teaching and committee work. Nine thousand more stand ready to serve at once and the number of trained nurses volunteering for service with the Red Cross now averaging 1,000 a month.

It is announced that the general scheme of unit organization was to keep together groups of nurses and doctors with experience in the same training schools and hospitals.

Infant welfare nurses have already been sent to France and to Rumania. Plans are also under way for a special unit of nurses trained in the care of mental diseases to serve mental wards of the hospitals established at the thirty-two army cantonments.

Ninety-five Red Cross nurses in the town and country nursing service are engaged in teaching and nursing in rural and mining districts that the public health at home shall not suffer needlessly.

These are some of the reasons why all wage earners are interested in Red Cross work and should be willing to contribute to the Red Cross fund. This is a work of humanity, and the sufferers those who need assistance, are toilers of the world.

It isn't a selfish cause, a money-making cause.

Every dollar contributed is a dollar given for the relief of the suffering and for the alleviation of human misery.

THE MERCIFUL THINGS THAT STAY.

"The birds have built as usual on the edge of the firing line."

Was there ever at time when war was not?

And what did we talk of then? And what did the papers find to print?

And what will they print again,

When the eastern front and the western front

And the gas and the submarine

And the thin brown lines and the Zeppelin raid

And the loss and gain of the sea blockade

Are as if they had not been?

Was there ever a time when we slept serene,

With hearts that were not oppressed?

When we woke with spirits unperturbed

By the pulse of the world's unrest?

When we did not flinch from the headlines' tale

Of the ruthless waste of men?

When we were not wanted to cruelty

And things were just as they used to be,

But never can be again?

We sigh as we think of those far-off days,

The time when the war was not.

When our land was at peace with all the world

And ancient feuds forgot.

When the lost bells chimed from their belfries high,

And the harvests waved below,

When undisturbed by the bursting shells

In the peaceful Long Ago.

But out where the trenches scar the earth

And the ground is torn with the shells,

The grass is green in the valley's lap

And the violets bloom in the dells;

And under the trees with their branches shorn,

In many a sunny glade,

The little birds build on the firing line,

And Nature covers with leaf and vine

The wounds that man has made.

Thank God for the things that are just the same,

The merciful things that stay!

The dear and the lovely, unestranged,

Unmarred, unchattered and still unchanged

By the heartbreak of today!

For the sun that shines through the battle-cloud

For the birds that sing where the guns are loud,

For the flowers that grow from the grave's dark shroud

In the beautiful-olde way.

Thank God for the things more precious still—

For the love and the trust that are sure,

For the faith and the hope that our souls have known

That are set too high to be overthrown,

And shined in a peace secure;

The faith in God and His guiding hand,

The hope of a home in a better land,

In the kingdom that shall last;

For the deathless dead who are waiting there

Beyond our sorrow and our despair

And the wreck of our crumbling past.

—Annie Johnson Flint, Christian Endeavor World.

EDITORS NOTE.

This year there have been some marked changes made in the rules and regulations regarding the student privileges here on the campus. Everyone feels that some of these regulations are for the best, yet there are some of these regulations of which many are not so sure; at least many of the students are in doubt as to the justice or wisdom exercised in their passage.

The general sentiment of the student body is to obey whatever rulings are placed on them by the rules committees without question. However, it must be remembered that the very purpose for which these students have come into the University is for them to learn to think for themselves. Some of these students, or in fact almost all of them, are developed along this line enough to do some real independent thinking concerning the recent announcements made in regard to the student privileges here on the campus.

There have been many of the students who have expressed widely different opinions as to these regulations. However the prevailing opinion of the student body seems to be pretty well voiced by the following article, which was placed in the Skiff box this week. These sentiments, as expressed by the students, are not given in a spirit of trying to dictate to the Faculty Committee, the course that should be taken, nor even in a presumptuous spirit, but merely as the opinion of a student body, capable of thinking and acting for itself, on the affairs in which they are vitally interested.

The Psychology of Student Government.

The person who has anything to do with the government of any other person, or persons, ought to be a philosopher. It does not require an omniscient person, I take it, to recognize the validity of such a statement.

Lemon juice makes castor oil go down with a little better taste; but it doesn't take away the smell, or the knowledge in the mind that it really tastes very badly. Mr. Bryson's apologetic manner and sympathetic smile made the social rules, which he read in chapel Wednesday morning, sound better (to the Freshman, maybe) but it didn't make them sound any better in anybody's mind. The listment something like this:

1. Privileges will be granted on Sunday afternoon from 4 to 5:30, and for church on Sunday night; "but the young men must be sure to leave the young ladies at Jarvis Hall."

2. Privileges will be granted on the occasion of a band concert, but students must not stroll off the campus, and the young ladies must again be left at Jarvis Hall.

3. As yet there is no provision made for Junior privileges.

4. The position of the Seniors is also unsettled.

5. All students not lined up with some church in the city must (Mr. McFarland really said "must") go to church every Sunday morning.

6. No provision is made for privileges in the evenings just after supper.

There is a certain stage when a child becomes familiar with his A B Cs, that he does not have to have a teacher drill him on them; he has learned when and where to use them himself. There is a time in the development of a child's discretion when he is permitted to go across the railroad to town alone; his parents, no matter how fond and doting, realize that it is only by placing him upon his own dependence that he will ever be independent. There is a later stage when wise parents do not tell their children that they must not do a thing; they know that it arouses an insatiable desire in the child to do that thing and to do it in its most violent form. Whether you like it or not, it is a notorious fact that any active minded person rebels against doing that thing which he is told that he must do. Anyone can instantly call to mind cases in which overly stern and underly wise parents have kept a youth close at home, without any liberty of thought or action, until the very day when he must leave. And you have seen that youth get so drunk with his freedom and so disrespectful to the laws of convention, that he becomes a menace to society.

If college is not the place in which every student, regardless of his early environment, learns to differentiate between the worthwhile and the worthless, gains a sanity and clarity of mind, finds an independence of judgment and action, then every student might as well go home today. These virtues are not forced into a person's mind, or scared into it; and there was a sight in the main hall Monday night after the society meetings which would be calculated to scare a Freshman out of a year's development.

Judge Lindsey, who is known all over the world for his work in the Juvenile courts, does not punish, nor restrict his boys in any way. He trusts them, not merely in word, but in action. Statistics show that the percentage of boys who return to him is very slight. Are the students of Texas Christian University not to be treated equal with the waif of a city.

Undoubtedly, a readjustment comes to college students, such as is probably not experienced anywhere else in life, but if the student is even on the average it does not take him four years to find himself. If by the middle or end of the second year he has not become law-abiding and gained some discretion, either because he knows it is right and best for himself and society, or because he loves his school to the extent that he would not cast any reflection upon it; then something is radically wrong with the student or the school. Yet the authorities of Texas Christian University would have the public believe that its institution and its students are the best.

Just a word about compulsory church attendance, though it really needs words. Texas Christian University, as an active, intellectual, social and business center, needs a church. But religion in young people is a situation too delicate for words. Their faith hangs dangerously in the balance; the tiniest impulse may swing it forever in one way or the other. Many young people have a feeling toward religion much like the first consciousness of Adam and Eve. The person who has passed this critical stage really enjoys going to church, but the person who has not, finds more religion out in God's green open. I would earnestly ask you, professors, think twice, think seriously, think sympathetically before you compel any student to attend services — it may not be for the best.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB GET TO WORK

Large Number Among Those Making Tryout for the Different Places.

odSuh,U.....f.ydYTF.....Rrer LD h h

The T. C. U. Glee Club, or the group of young men from which a Glee Club will be made, met for the first time in Professor Cahoon's studio immediately after lunch Wednesday.

From the large number of young men who showed up at the first meeting and also the melodious strains that were heard issuing from this room a few minutes later, it is believed that the prospects for a fine Glee Club, were never better.

There were something like twenty-five men who attended this meeting, and there are many more who will be out at later meetings, but who were prevented from attending this meeting because of conflicting meetings or classes.

Like all the other organizations in the University this year, the Glee Club will have a large number of new men in it this year. However, there are enough of the old men back to help Coach Cahoon to get the thing started off without any of the difficulties that would be met if the material were entirely new. The old men who are back this year and who will be on the club are: John Sturgeon, Shirley Sweeney, Loraine Dutton, Jesse Martin, Munroe Rochester, Sam Jagoda and possibly Glenn Hutton.

Besides these men there were many of the new men who reported for practice who seemed to have exceptionally good voices. Almost all of these men can play some kind of band or orchestra instrument, and therefore it will be possible for the club to have a fine orchestra this year as has been the case in the years passed.

The T. C. U. Glee Club has established such a good reputation in the past throughout the state that it will be hard to excel the past record. However, Professor Cahoon has shown his ability each year in surpassing the Glee Club work during the past year until all those who know him have come to think there is nothing that he cannot do along this line of work.

With prospects as bright as they are this year, we feel sure that the club will be a credit to the University.

Morgan Davis to Head Middle Classmen.

The Sophomore class met last week for the first time this year. The first matter of business to be brought before them was the matter of the election of officers. The following officers were elected: Mr. Morgan Davis, President; Mr. Earl Jones, Vice President; Miss Beulah Bell, Secretary. Besides these, the representative to the Honor Council was elected. The man selected for this place was Mr. McKee Caton.

There were several other things of importance discussed at this meeting, which were postponed for final settlement until a later meeting, and which will be reported at that time.

B. R. T. CLUB ORGANIZED.

Honoring T. Clyde Tomlinson of Hillsboro, an old student of T. C. U. and a graduate of the 1916 class, the B. R. T. Club was organized, at Fords Store, Saturday night—this place being the official club house, and the meetings will be held here regularly throughout the year. Skeete Richards was hostess at an informal repast Saturday night. Sunday morning, Miss Ruth McFadin, Miss Ruby Douglas, and Miss Genevieve Goff very graciously entertained the newly organized club with a breakfast at the "Club House." Mr. Clyde Tomlinson gave his farewell party at 6 o'clock Sunday evening.

The members of the club are: Ruth McFadin, Genevieve Goff, Ruby Douglas, Gladys Richards, Clyde Tomlinson and Shirley Sweeney.

NEW CARGO-SAVING BALE.

Cotton men are to consider a new cargo-saving bale. This refers to cotton manufacturers has called a meeting of representatives of all cotton factories in Washington for today to discuss a new standard for baling cotton whereby cargo space may be materially saved.

A bale of cotton is known the country over as 500 pounds average weight. Custom has also established a 100-bale lot as the ordinary basis of trade and sale. As baled at present a 100-bale lot cannot be transported in a single freight car and is not enough for two. By the universal adoption of a cotton bale of density of from thirty to thirty-five pounds per cubic foot one car will practically do the work of two and the increase in steamship-carrying capacity will be great.

For this reason a standard bale of approximately thirty-five pounds density, a "100-bale-per-car" bale has been recommended not only as a war measure but as an economic measure to continue Cotton speculators have their exchanges. They are thoroughly organized. Cotton importers are thoroughly organized. Cotton exporters are thoroughly organized. Cotton manufacturers are thoroughly organized. Wholesalers of cotton goods are thoroughly organized.

There are 2,000,000 southern families engaged in the production of cotton.

Why shouldn't this large army of wealth producers be thoroughly organized. Organization leads to co-operation. Organization wins battles. Organization protects the interests and the property rights of the producers. The southern cotton grower should come out of his trance.

DRAFT THE WORKERS.

W. D. Haywood is the leader of the Industrial Workers of the World. Haywood and 166 of his lieutenants are under arrest and indictment. The woods of the Northwest are full of them. The jails of the land will be crowded with them. Haywood and his lieutenants were great letter writers. They must have worked an army of typewriters and they printed and distributed thousands of pamphlets. They declared that the I. W. W. was a revolutionary union; that I. W. W.s are absolutely and irrevocably dissatisfied with the present system of society; that they consider it a useless system and they mean to destroy it. Another excerpt from an I. W. W. letter is interesting. "We have shown the world how to go to jail in numbers, exasperate the taxpayers and block the machinery for himself. Self preservation of justice. The I. W. W. is fighting, like the copper trust, knows no law." Why not draft the I. W. W.s, organize them into regiments and send them over the seas? They say they are opposed to oppression. Then the hour has come for them to strike a blow at military autocracy.

GRAND OLD TEXAS.

Red River county is the home of long staple cotton. One planter sold five bales and one bale netted him $345. This included the seed as a matter of course. Red River planters are in luck this year. Neither the Mexican weevil or the pink boll worm from Egypt devastated their fields. There is an extraordinary demand for long staples and the price is going to the sky. Grand Old Texas, the land where the people triumph over droughts, winged pests, peanut politicians, oily chalatans, unctious Uriah Heeps racous voiced demagogues, spring floods, September hurricanes, ravenous cotton bears, the blue bottle fly and the mid-summer mosquito with a beak like a hawk. Come to Texas, the land of opportunity and the paradise of the man who is willing to hustle.

SUGAR DIRECTOR ROLPH

George M. Rolph of San Francisco, through whom all purchases of sugar for the allied nations and for the United States government, in the American market, must be made, according to the Christian Science Monitor, is of a famous San Francisco family conspicuous for its share in developing the shipping of the port, and in the refining of sugars for the markets of the Pacific coast and of western mining states. Brought to Washington as an expert, he is now in a position to protect the interest of consumers, throughout the world, who otherwise would have been at the mercy of the producers of sugar in the United States and in Cuba, chiefly the latter. It is estimated that his power, wisely exerted, will save the people of the United States alone not less than $90,000,000 a year, once the system becomes fully operative.

According to Washington advices the government is in urgent need of stenographers and typewriters. Woman appears to be coming into her own. After peace has come the world will not be without difficult economic problems which will demand solution.

Chicago Swedes held a patriotic rally and one of the speakers declared that the only American who came to America before the Swedes did were the Indians. There are wild men running at large in the big city on the banks of Lake Michigan.

Former Ambassador James W. Gerard has issued his ultimatum. A man cannot be neutral and live in the United States. There are millions of neutrals living in the United States. There are millions of aliens. All these are profiting by the war.

RICHARDS PRESIDENT

The members of the Dramatic Club met last Friday for the purpose of electing officers for the coming school year. The following officers were elected: Gladys Richards, President; Ruby Walker, Vice President; Lena Gilbert, Secretary and Treasurer; Inta Robison, Press Reporter.

The Dramatic Club is composed of the students of the oratory department which is the largest in its history. The old students will remember the series of plays given last year under the auspices of this club, and how much they were enjoyed by everyone. Because of the large number of members, the talent and the undying enthusiasm and "pep," there looms success and achievement not only for the club itself, but for the advancement of T. C. U.

S. I. N. S. HAVE FIRST MEETING OF THE YEAR

Friday night, the S. I. N. S. had their first meeting of the year in the room occupied by "Slang" Douglas and "Levity" Richards. After discussing old times, and recalling many of the stunts that were had during the school year that has passed and gone, a midnight supper of sandwiches, salad, olives, tomatoes, potato chips and candy was served to all the old members who are here this year. Those present were: "Nerve" Wester, "Vanity" McFadin, "Sarcasm" Marrs, "Slang" Douglas, and "Levity" Richards. This includes all the original S. I. N. S. with the exception of "Lazy" Eldridge and "Selfish" Bailey, who are not back in school this year.

SENIORS MAKE FURTHER ARRANGEMENTS FOR THE "FROG"

Committees for the Different Departments Are Appointed.

Almost all the arrangements for the publication of the University year book have been completed by the members of the senior class. Last week this class met and elected their officers, and discussed many of the matters of business which are of vital importance to them at this time of the year. It was decided at that time that the appointment of the different committees which would assist the officers elected to be directly responsible for the publication of the annual should be left to these officers.

These officers feeling that this was a rather important part of the organization of the publication machinery, felt that should be given a longer time in which to make their selections. However, all the committees have been selected, and the real work will be actually begun in a few days.

Last year the "Horned Frog" was subdivided into ten books. As this was a logical division and covered all the activities of the University, it was felt that this should be the regular arrangement this year. Accordingly, the committees have been appointed to be, each responsible for the working up of one book. The following committees were appointed:

- I. Literary Committee:
 1. Ruth McFadin, Chairman.
 2. H. T. Rhodes.
 3. Merle Holsapple.

FORT WORTH SCHOOL OF MEDICINE OPENS FOR TWENTY-FOURTH SESSION

After a four months' summer vacation, the Medical Department of Texas Christian University opened its doors Monday, October 1, to welcome back the old students and to usher in the new. Despite the call of the army which has taken away a number of the students, the Assembly Hall was crowded with both old and new students Monday morning when Dean S. A. Woodward opened the exercises of the day.

The trend of thought from each and every speaker was turned toward the war, and its influence on the medical profession. Among other things, President E. M. Waits said: "The need of doctors is greater than it has ever been before. This is America's opportunity, and America's duty in this hour of the world's greatest suffering." Texas Christian University, he said, had contributed her share of soldiers. Now the Medical School must affiliate itself with the world life. He called upon those who had chosen medicine as their profession to do their share in the world's work. "We are not here to play, to dream, to drift,

We have hard work to do, loads to lift,
Shun not the peril, 'tis God's gift,
Be strong."

Dr. Bacon Saunders, who has so successfully piloted the school through rather stormy waters for the past quarter of a century, welcomed the students in his usual cheery and enthusiastic manner. He bid "a welcome to the new, and God speed to the old." He reminded the students that this urgent need of doctors would be not only for the period of the war, but for years afterward. "No medical men are being trained in the schools of Europe. In America all medical schools are thinned by men gone to the front. Of the five hundred alumni of this school, fifteen or twenty are out here at Camp Bowie. Over one hundred, twenty percent of the entire alumni, are in service now. So you see the extent of the task before you."—"The time is here which demands more effort than ever before"—"I bid you God speed, and pray you will make the best doctors that the world has seen. That, is the kind of doctors America's doctors are."

Judge Powell, in a few well chosen words to the students, urged them to keep up with the strides of the medical profession. "I don't mean for you to be a doctor," he said. "Anyone can be a doctor. But be a great doctor. Then the world will rise up and call you blessed."

Prof. W. M. Winton made some announcements in regard to the relation of the medical student and the draft. Among other things he advised the students to enroll in the Medical Reserve, so that they would be left free to finish their medical education. Rev. Colby D. Hall, of the Britte Bible College, pronounced the Benediction, which closed the opening exercises. Music was furnished during the program by the T. C. U. orchestra.

Altogether, the present enrollment seems to indicate that this year will be one of the best the school has known. Although a dozen of the Freshmen class were lost by enlistment in the army, their places have been filled with others, so that the total enrollment is the same as usual. Had it not been for the war draft, the school would have gone far beyond its enrollment in any previous year.

FRESHMEN ELECT ANOTHER PRESIDENT.

Despite the fact that Mr. Briscoe was unanimously elected president of the Freshman Class, some of the members, acting as if they were of northern descent deemed it wise to hold another election, and therefore, last Saturday morning the following were elected officers of the Freshmen Class: Mr. Terry King, president; Mr. Day, vice president, and Miss Avery, secretary and treasurer.

Mr. King comes from Fort Worth High School, and there was editor of the Athletic Department in their Annual. He also has been a member of the football team. For some few years he has been living in Clark Hall, and we believe that he will pilot the Freshman Class safely over the troublesome sea, to the Sophomores Class.

This year the Freshman class is no doubt the greatest in the history of T. C. U. and about Thanksgiving, there's going to be a "hot time" on the football ground between the Freshmen and the upperclassmen, as is predicted by the president. Besides the class, game four of the varsity squad are Freshmen, Bralley, Woods, Prinzing and Myers.

before anyone had time to realize the change of conditions.

During the last period of the game, Miller added another touchdown to the Christians' credit, by skipping around the end for a twenty-yard run to the goal. In the last few minutes of play, Meridian gained the ball, and by a succession of penalties the ball was carried within a few yards of T. C. U.'s goal, but were thrown for a loss on each down and lost the ball.

Cross, who went in in the latter part of the game, was taken out by the referee after he had played only two downs, because of his pugilistic attitude toward the other players.

The T. C. U. men fumbled the ball several times, but were able to recover almost every time after a short struggle.

The stars for the Meridian team were the two Bird boys, Edmondson and Green. Every man on the Varsity squad played well and showed lots of grit and fight. Those who showed up best for the Varsity were Miller, Lockman, Prinzing and Bradley.

The next game in which the Varsity men will engage will be next Saturday when they will play the First Texas Artillery team from Camp Bowie. This promises to be a much harder game than the one which has just passed. However, several of the old Letter men will probably be back in the game by that time to help the gritty bunch buck the army huskies.

The lineup for Saturday's game was:

Meridian	T. C. U.
Green	Jones
Left End
Hooper	Meyers
Left Tackle
Lattimer	Bradford
Left Guard
Edmondson	Bralley
Center
Mayhew	Spikes
Right Guard
Meyers	Hare
Right Tackle
Sloan	Kikes
Right End
Lawson	Martin
Quarterback
C. Bird	Miller
Left Half
H. Bird	Lockman
Fullback
Pitts	Prenzing
Right Half

The T. C. U. players were partly changed every quarter and the other men that came in during the game were Bradley, Sharp, Hawes, Haden, McGill, Dutton, Ligon, Cross and Groves.

Touchdowns—Lockman, 2; Miller.

Goal Kicks—Lockman, 2.
Officials—Keisker (Kentucky) referee; Keen (Southwestern) umpire; Muse, (First Texas Artillery) Head Lineman. Time of Quarters 12 1-2 minutes.

Keith, Floyd Sweet, William Jones, B. S. Smelser, Charles Butts, Ben M. Edwards, and others. These men will make the Oratorical contests of the year very interesting, even if there were no new men, who will likely develop into some worthy contenders for honors, before the close of the year.

With all these things in view, taken in connection with the fact that we have a new set of officers who will give their strict attention to the best interests of the Association, we feel that all the arrangements for the year will be speedily made, and be in shape for announcement in an early issue of the Skiff.

Watch for these announcements. One thing that is of vital importance to many of these speakers, is the settlement of the question for the Triangular Debate, which occurs each year between Southwestern University, Trinity University and T. C. U. It is the custom for these schools to come to an agreement as to this question for the debate much earlier than has been the case this year. However, because of some irregularity, this has not been pressed as it should this year, and consequently the question is as yet unsettled.

to all the privileges of the famous Brush Club.

The new members began to feel that the evening was destined to turn out real pleasantly for them after all the excitement, when they saw delicious looking plates of ice cream and cakes being prepared to serve. However, they were doomed to another disappointment because the perfectly innocent looking cakes had been filled with quinine. Many were the disgusted expressions and exclamations of disappointment when these hungry damsels took the first dainty bite of the tempting looking morsels.

The laughter from the old members had hardly died down, caused by the distorted faces made by some of the girls who had received an extra heavy portion of the quinine, when a step, low and cautious, was heard, coming through the side door to the art room adjoining the one where the initiation was being held. Every one turned their eyes in that direction in time to see one of the very dignified members of the Senior class reach for the plate of cookies that had been left over from the recent serving. This Senior in his haste to get the cookies before he was detected by some of the girls, crammed a few in his pockets and also one in his mouth. No sooner had his mouth been closed over the perfectly delicious looking cake than did the expression of delighted cunning on his face turn to one of surprise, disappointment and embarrassment—the fact of the matter was that he had, in his haste, taken one of the cakes that had been loaded with quinine. While he was sputtering, trying to get the taste of quinine out of his mouth, the watching girls burst in upon him, and it is needless to say that the jar he received to his usually well maintained dignity was much more severe initiation to him than had been all the earlier stunts to the girls.

After everything had become somewhat quiet, following this little intrusion, the brushes continued with their regular program for the evening. All the applicants were duly received into the club and really served with delicious ice cream and cake.

Those present were: Ruby Parks, Vineta Saunders, Patti Richardson, Fern Rundle, Rosa Nelle Rodgers, Lena Stafford, Miss Lalla Cannon, Skeete Richards, Winifred Yates, Rosalyn Petta, Ruby Douglas, Billie

Wells, Ruby Jones, Fannie Belle Darter, Annie Jo Pendleton, Annie Lee Harris, Mrs. Cockrell, Mrs. N. B. Petta, Mr. and Mrs. Corley, Dr. Maley, Miss Brokaw, and the Senior, who came so inopportunely and left in the same manner

"The new addition is alright, isn't she?"

Heartily applause endorsed his sentiments as he continued:

"Because, first, she is fair to behold; second, she has a voice like a Nightingale, and, third, she is as graceful as the flowers of which she speaks."

JUNIORS MEET AND ELECT OFFICERS

Charles Butts Selected to Head the Junior Class.

The Junior Class met the latter part of the week for the purpose of organizing for the year. The first matter of business that was brought before the body was the election of the officers of that class. The following officers were elected: Charles Butts, President; Miss Thelma Smith, vice President, and Miss Skeete Richards, Secretary.

Several things of interest were taken up at the meeting, but were left incomplete for further discussion and thought. The size of the Junior class this year is not exactly known as all the classification has not been finished. However, it is certain that the number this year will not be less than last year, and it is expected that the class will be much larger.

The two representatives were elected to the Honor Council from this class at this time also. It is the custom that the Junior and Senior classes have two representatives to this Council, while each of the other classes have only one representative each. The representatives elected by the Juniors were: Miss Ethel Biggerstaff and Mr. Loraine Dutton.

T. C. U. ARTISTS ENTERTAIN WITH INFORMAL MUSICAL

Tuesday evening Mesdames Cahoon and Doering entertained with an informal musical. A delightful program of Vocal, Violin and Piano numbers was rendered, after which a delicious ice course was served to the following guests: Dr. and Mrs. G. V. Morton, Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Sellars, Mr. and Mrs. Lanham, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Richardson Pitner, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Brown, Mr. Gans, Miss Faytine Dowle, and Lieut. Tibbett.
