T. C. U. LOSES GOOD GAME TO DENTON

Game Not Decided Until the Last Minutes of Play.

Away from home for the first time, playing on a dirt court, and unaccustomed to certain rules which the referee employed, the Varsity basketballers went down before the Denton Normalites 20 to 15. So strong was the Normal team that people in Denton were betting that their bunch would win by twenty points.

At the end of the first half the score was 11 to 10 in our favor. It was just a repetition of the Texas game, nobody could get their eye fixed on the goal. A few random shots were made that elicited praise but most of the efforts were decided failures. Haire got back at center and helped things out some but the forwards had joined the Anti-Point Gainers' Union. Shots of all descriptions were missed.

Then came the second half. Up until the last few minutes of play the purple and white boys were in the lead. Then it was when Denton grabbed three balls in succession from out of bounds and threw them into action before the referee's whistle. Captain Prinzing contested this action but his point was not upheld. These three were enough to win the game.

Dutch Meyers, who has been showing so much life and fight in all the games of the season, was unfortunate enough to sprain his ankle in the first half and of course this slowed him up to a remarkable degree. Dutch now likes to use a cane, but he hopes that by careful attention he may be able to get in for the next game.

PRINZING MADE CAPTAIN

At a meeting of the basketball squad held Saturday, the 26th, to elect a captain Heine Prinzing was chosen. Dutch Meyers was considered at the same time and on the vote received three and Prinzing five votes.

Prinzing is undoubtedly a good man for the place. He always plays good, clean athletics, no matter what his opponent's sentiments along that line are. In football he "gave 'em fits" when he hit the line or had the ball. In basket ball he "gives 'em fits" when they have the ball or start for their goal. Active and quick at all times, he is one of the hardest guards to elude that has flashed across the basket ball courts of Texas for several years.

MRS. COCKRELL LECTURES.

On Friday, Feb. 1, Mrs. Cockrell, assisted by Miss Darter, gave a very gratifying lecture on "How to Judge a Picture" at the Carnegie Library Art Exhibit. This collection of pictures is a special loan from New York organizations and embodies the work of modern American artists. While speaking, Mrs. Cockrell cited illustrations from the pictures there displayed. In honor of this occasion, the Brushes poured tea from 3 to 6.

STUDENTS ACCEPT CHALLENGE TO STUDY CHRISTIAN WORLD DEMOCRACY

A meeting was held under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. at the First Christian Church Jan. 29th, for the purpose of "mobilizing students of North America for Christian world democracy." The schools represented were as follows: S. M. U. 43, T. C. U. 23, T. W. C. 19, North Texas State Normal 7, Baylor 5, Texas Presbyterian College 3, Trinity 3, and C. I. A. 1.

Dr. E. C. Holt, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, led the devotional services. His subject was "Individualism of the Followers of Christ."

Dr. Allyn K. Foster, director of the religious work for the Y. M. C. A. of New York, was the main speaker of the morning. His subject was the "Present World Challenge to Students." His three main points of how to meet religion the challenge of the hour were: First, enlarge the appeal of Christianity; second, fundamentals must come to front; third, new interpretation of joy. The following girls' quartette of T. C. U. rendered a special number: Misses Bernice Holmes, Mary Wilhite, "Cobby" Stivers and Lena Gilbert.

Miss Grace Loucks, student secretary of the Southwestern Field of the Y. W. C. A., recommended the following program to the conference, which program was accepted by the Northfield Conference Jan. 3-6.

1. Two hundred thousand students enlisted in study and discussion of Christian principles based on:
  - (a) The life and teachings of Jesus Christ.
  - (b) The need of these principles in the world today.
  - (c) The need of these principles in the inter-racial and social life of North America.
2. A decision for Christ and His service at whatever cost—in the campus, in the nation, in the world.
3. An adequate number of qualified men and women enlisted for the foreign missionary program of the church.
4. One-half million dollars for the foreign missionary program of the church, and such funds as may be necessary to meet the need arising from the war situation in 1918-1919.

Mr. T. C. Havighurst, traveling secretary for the Student Volunteer, made a short talk on "The College Graduates Must Be Leaders."

Miss Marguerite Stuart, student secretary of the Southwestern Field of the Y. W. C. A., led a discussion among the delegates with reference to the need of carrying out such a program.

In the afternoon session the men's S. M. U. quartette rendered a special number. Next, Dr. Wanamaker of S. M. U. spoke on the "Cost of Leadership." His main points were that our religion must be social, actual and broad as it is long.

The remainder of the afternoon was given over to Mr. Aldridge, also an army leader of the Y. M. C. A., from New York, who spoke on the details of the

THE SENIOR

The Seniors are a jolly bunch,
Who never break a rule;
In fact, they know most everything
That may be learned in school.

Of course, as Freshmen, new and green,
They knocked upon the door
And waited patiently a year
To be a Sophomore.

Now everybody knows full well
The second year is bad,
And when to Junior rank they came
The heart of each was glad.

As Juniors they became quite proud,
And haughtily were their features;

MR. HAVIGHURST SPEAKS ON CAMPUS DUTIES

On Wednesday morning, Jan. 30, Dr. Cockrell introduced to the student body at the chapel hour, Mr. H. C. Havighurst, who is one of the leaders of the great movement of introducing the study of the principles of Christian democracy to the students of America.

Mr. Havighurst very enthusiastically emphasized two important problems confronting those who are in actual training for the trenches and a solution to these problems.

First he said there are those who are left in the colleges and universities, who feel that they are not satisfied to have their classmates and loved ones fight their battles for them, but are yearning for an opportunity to

UNIVERSITY LIFE VS. SEMINARY LIFE

The theological student is often asked many questions, by university students and others, concerning student life and the course of study in the seminary. The inquirer is often surprised to learn in answer to his questions that student life in theological institutions does not differ greatly from university or college life.

It is easy, however, for a university student, upon entering a seminary, to note some of the things in which the institutions are different.

In the college and university the age range for the majority of students is from sixteen to twenty-five, while in the seminary the age range is from twenty-five to forty plus. This one thing is a determining factor in

THE SENIOR CLASS OF 1918

From every hand there comes to us young people the message that the year 1918 is the year which is to bring the greatest opportunities the world has had offered it for a long time. Many avenues are open to both men and women—especially college men and women—which heretofore have been closed. Great possibilities are lying in wait for those who show themselves capable of assuming responsibilities in this great era—both during the war and after it, during the period of reconstruction.

Such men and women are to be found in the Senior Class of 1918 in Texas Christian University. If this year is to be one of the most momentous, so is this class one of the most admirable which has ever left the portals of its Alma Mater. The thirty members of this class are imbued with lofty ideals, big purposes in life, altruistic purposes, for the most part, as the trend of the times would suggest. All are striving to attain that state of development whereby they may acquire the ability to furnish something to their country in the time of its greatest need.

The president of the class is B. S. Smiser, a man who has been allied with this group since its Freshmanhood, and who was its Junior President last year; a man who is ever known for his untiring energy and effort in behalf of the class he was chosen to lead; a man who is ever infallible and ready to do his part in every undertaking, whether it be for individual, class or school. And now again he has shown his dependable nature by applying for a chaplaincy in the U. S. army, in which position he feels he may better serve his country.

Our Vice-President is E. B. Sewell, who is also Editor-in-Chief of the Horned Frog. He has several times been prominent on our declamation teams, and has also figured in other college activities. After June he expects to go into military service.

Elva Baxter, the Secretary-Treasurer, is one of the fourteen young women of the class who are preparing themselves to fill the needs made urgent by the great world war.

The much-loved President of the Y. W. C. A. is Mary Biggerstaff, a valuable member of the class of '18, who has made an enviable record during the entire four years she has been in T. C. U.

Harry T. Rhodes is a new man come to us this year, who spent last year in Baylor. In the short time he has been here, he has shown himself most capable in oratorical and debating lines, and has been chosen as one of the four men who are to represent T. C. U. in the intercollegiate triangular debate. And, too, he has lately been elected to succeed J. H. Monk, who has withdrawn temporarily from school, as Art Editor of the Horned Frog. Mr. Rhodes has applied for a chaplaincy in the army, and expects to be called at any time.

Another new man is H. S. Frazier, who will receive his Th. M. degree from the Baptist Semi-

THE HORNFROG OF 1918.

A university is judged by its students. A student is judged by his activities as a student. He may not be president of his class every year, president of the student body every year, member of the varsity team in every contest, but nevertheless he is a student and plays an important part in the University which he attends. It has been said that there was never an association of one or more individuals but that the life of each one was in some degree influenced by the life of the others. Especially is this so in college. Little do you think that you are in some degree shaping your life, by being a member of your college club, attending your literary society, enjoying a concert by your glee club, watching the old team roll Old Baylor in the sod, and many other activities in which you participate while you are in college.

All these organizations you will be able to look back upon in the years to come by simply getting out your old Horned Frog, which you will keep as a priceless treasure. You will see some of the boys who have heard the call of their country. You will see that old team that rolled Old Baylor in the sod on Thanksgiving of 1917. You will probably see on more than one page the already familiar sight, "34-0." In the years to come you can see these figures and it will readily come in to your mind what they mean, and you will again enjoy the game by going through it in your mind. You will see that Old Girl you thought so much of but has since been married to someone else. But this isn't all. Looking at the more serious side you will be reminded of the classes that you were supposed to attend. As you scan the pages of the faculty you will pick out that old wise looking, bald headed teacher of yours and commend yourself the way you slipped it by him on several occasions. You will look at another one and say to yourself, "That is the old bird that flunked me; I never could give him much, anyway."

Then you see the faces of those old schoolmates, the best acquaintances that you ever formed. There is old Oscar, old George, Ruby and Mary. You will see them as they walk across the campus or up and down the halls. You will wonder what part of the world they are in now. And how about those boys who heard the call of their country, those who went to far-away France to fight the battles of their homeland? I wonder if they ever got back and what they are doing. All these familiar scenes and sweet reminiscences of the part of your life most dear to you will come back as a moving picture as you turn the worn pages of the old Horned Frog of 1918.

CLUBS IN JARVIS HALL.

The following clubs organized in Jarvis Hall will be represented in the Horned Frog for 1918.

The T. B. C. Club, composed of Blix Holbrook, Bayden Tynes, Grace Abernathy, Gertrude Hendricks, Ruth Greene, Madeline Jones, Ruth Neiland and Mabel Lou Chapman.

The R. A. G. S., consisting of Lena Gilbert, Joan Neal, Nina Phillips, Gertrude and Bess Hendricks, Elsie and Elva Baxter, Lula and Nellie Elkin.

The S. I. N. S. has for its membership the following young ladies: Ruby Douglas, Ruth McFadin, Gladys Richards, Ava Maude Wester, Ava Lee Mars and Genevieve Goff.

The F. U. N. Club is enjoyed by these young ladies: Ruby Denis, Zada Stafford, Marjorie Hamill, Lela and Ethel Johnson.

Mary Wilhite, Ruby Jones, Grace Fancher, Beth Coombes, Lula and Nellie Elkin and Ruby Parks maintain the organization of the Lallapaloosa.

The G. S. L. B. is composed of Odessa Hensley, Kathaleen Jackson, Lillian Johnson, Mabel Lou Chapman, Dorine Gee and Winnie Sue Johnson.

The L. I. D. organization is composed of Maidel Roberts, Rosa Nelle Rogers, Rufia Lee, Lottie Oldham, Lucille and Vernon Miller.

The C. U. S. S. E. S. (quite a suggestive name) has for its members, Cobby de Stivers, Nina Phillips and Rosa Nelle Rogers.

Merle Holsapple, Sybil Black, Cabby de Stivers, Nannie Carter, Carrie Crisp, Ruby Green and Ruth Martin compose the organization known as the P. A. L. S.

HORNED FROG ART.

The art work for the Horned Frog is progressing very creditably, under the able direction of Mr. Harry Rhodes, who is assisting Mr. Eugene Sewell in the capacity of art editor. However, it is very difficult for them to discover the latest artistic ability of the different members of the student body.

If you do cartoon or panel work of any kind, by all means do not hesitate to turn in such drawings as you think may be eligible; the annual should be the open expression of the talent of the entire student body.

AMUSEMENTS.

Strand Theater presents Vivian Martin in "A Petticoat Pilot" Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. On Wednesday for four days Pauline Frederick will appear in Madame Jealousy. This play was written for her by George V. Hobart, author of "Experience," "Everywife" and other allegorical plays. The costumes in this picture are exquisite and an elaborate church wedding takes place at the commencement of the story is carried out to the last detail.

Hippodrome—Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, "The World for Sale" will be shown. This is from a novel by Sir Gilbert Parker. Beginning Wednesday for four days, "The Masque of Life" will be shown. In this "grand pantomime" the complete ballet from the La Scala opera house, Milan, appears. This will be in every sense a "thrill film."

ABSENCE.

By Harry Travis Rhodes.

Little brown eyes, little clown eyes,
How I miss your blinkin' an' your winkin'
At me with break o' early morn,
An' your gurglin' while a sinkin'
Into my gladsome arms that kep' me thinkin'
You was a sayin' "Mornin', Daddy, morn."

Little sweet eyes, little neat eyes,
How I miss your trustin', never fussin',
Gaze at me while I held you close
To my heart almost a bustin'
With love, an' your hands that kep' a mussin'
My hair an' a pullin' my nose.

Pure as dew eyes, little true eyes!
How I miss the teachin' an' the preachin'
That burned from them into my soul
With a theme an' power farther reachin',
An' a guileless prayer far more beseechin'
Than any sermon man has ever told.

Little dove eyes, full of love eyes,
How I miss your peepin' an' the creepin'
Of two soft arms around my neck,
An' the kiss just 'fore you fell a sleepin'
Oh, how my hungry heart is keepin'
The fullness of your "bushel an' a peck."

Oh, so far eyes, little star eyes,
In the night tide glowin', are you knowin'
How the hot tears sometimes come to me?
Oh, how I dream and long to be goin'
To you, angel eyes, an' reap my sowin'
In the land God made like thee.
(This poem was published in 1916-17 College Anthology.)

THE TRAINING OF AN AIRMAN

Steps Leading to the Conquest of the Air, a Commission in the Air Service, and a Place in the Battle Skies of France.

The training of America's new airmen is one of the most scientific and the most fascinating courses of study ever evolved. It has every need to be scientific because it provides a general knowledge of the world's newest sciences; it has every certainty of being fascinating because it goes far into the mysteries of flight, of wireless, of codes, of reconnaissance. It is stimulated all the way through, moreover, by that irresistible urge of national service and by the knowledge that every bit of added skill gained will return with interest in one of those forthcoming crises in the skies of France.

The course is divided into three distinct steps—the ground schools, the flying schools in this country, and the final advanced flying schools abroad. This has been necessary because it provides an admirable means of measuring the men and rapidly and logically sifting out the unfit; and also because it allows the greatest mobilization of resources—the big universities in this country for the preliminary technical work, the new flying fields here with America's good training planes, and the wonderful schools abroad with their supply of fighting planes and seasoned pilots and their atmosphere of battle. Under this system Americans are assured of a composite course based upon the best of everything gained in three years of warfare abroad, and are not held back by the original lack of facilities here. Immediately a cadet is called into active service he is directed to a "ground school" at one of the eight large engineering universities which have placed their resources at the service of the government. Here the student aviator is under military discipline, but with all the comforts, the facilities and the atmosphere of collegiate life.

The purpose of this work is two-fold: First and most important, it provides a fundamental knowledge of the principles of all the sciences of aviation, which gives a rock-bottom foundation to a cadet's training. Second, it quickly uncovers those who, both for the good of the service and of themselves, should not go further.

The cadets learn here how to take an engine, a machine gun, or a plane apart and put it together again. They become so familiar with the mechanisms they will soon be using as to have an instinctive mastery of them. No one of them will be allowed to go up into the air until he understands every phase of the machine under him. He will then have all the confidence that an expert horseman has in his father.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR MAKING PICTURES FOR THE HORNEFROG

Owing to the crowded condition of the studio for the past week and the inclemency of the weather, the management of the Horned Frog wishes to announce that it will extend the picture-making through the week of Feb. 3rd. This is a necessary move as some of those holding receipts have not had an opportunity of having their pictures made and to further give those, who have not as yet paid up, a chance to get in this year's annual. This will positively be the last chance to get in the Horned Frog, and the management is sacrificing precious time in making it. Students, get busy and get your receipt. Judge Raley, E. B. Sewell and the business office will continue to issue these receipts during this extension of time.

This is man's work. It requires physique, brains, and concentration. It is worked out upon the principle of complete mastery of every step before another step is taken. It is surrounded with every precaution of safety, as is shown by the fact that not a dozen fatal air accidents have occurred among all the hundreds of men trained. It requires the highest type of college men, not more men, but better men.

The final article in this official series will appear Feb. 7, 1918.

Wireless and the Morse code are also mastered so that the man can talk to their guns from the air as they would through a telephone. Then they are set at "spotting," looking down upon an exact reproduction of a part of the front and wireless back the location of flashes made to represent bursting shells. Aerial photography, reconnaissance, air tactics and the like are also studied, and military drill, calisthenics, and army regulations mastered. By the end of eight weeks the cadet is thoroughly "grounded" in aviation and assured, as far as it is humanly possible to give assurance, that he is prepared to go off the ground.

Then come the flying schools. It is not possible for military reasons to describe them in detail. It can be said, however, that the size of these schools would be startling to the uninitiated, who would see in them a life of which he had hardly dreamed, a life that ushers in the new day of air travel for man. And he would also see groups of cadets, flying, studying, working, oblivious of time and of hours, fascinated by the romance of their subjects, earnest to prove equal to every test in the realization that the great test of all lies just over the hill of tomorrow.

Picture the thrill of the first flight with the instructor; then the feeling of power that gradually begins to come as the control of the machine is more and more taken over; the exasperation and then the joy as the all difficult work of landing is conquered; finally the exultation of the first soaring aloft, alone. Bit by bit the airman stretches out his wings, flying a little further, a little longer, a little higher each day, until he feels himself master of the air. Then with a thirty-mile cross-country flight and a 10,000-foot altitude test, he is proved—a Reserve Military Aviator and a commissioned officer in America's air army, wearing the coveted wings and shield of Uncle Sam.

One step remains. Final training in evolution, in squadron formation, and in battle practice is given, in France, on the latest, up-to-the-minute machines under seasoned French airmen, in the actual atmosphere of battle. At its conclusion, the aviator is trained as highly as it is possible to train him, is awarded his Junior Military Aviator brevet, promoted one grade and is ready whenever duty calls him.

"Advertising is the education of the public as to who you are, where you are, and what you have to offer in the way of skill, talent or commodity. The only man who should not advertise is the man who has nothing to offer the world in the way of commodity or service."---Elbert Hubbard.

MME. SCHUMANN-HEINK TO VISIT FORT WORTH.

A great opportunity is to be given lovers of music to hear the world's greatest and most renowned contralto singer.

This fine opportunity ought to be taken advantage of by a large number of T. C. U. students.

The Harmony Club of our city deserves much credit in securing for its citizenship talent like Mme. Schumann-Heink.

nary along with his A. B. from
T. C. U.

The graduates in law are J. N.
Baldwin, Howard Vaughn, Jesse
E. Martin, W. E. Baldwin, and Judge Raley. Among these, we find representatives from every college activity: Skiff and Horned Frog editor and business manager, debating and athletic teams, and Glee Club. All these men are planning to take their places in the ranks in the near future.

Two more of our orators are Ben M. Edwards and Floyd
Sweet, both of whom have won many honors on the platform.
The former intends resuming his pastorate at Vernon after June. Mr. Sweet is waiting only to receive his degree before enlisting in the Service. Claude Grady and Ray Skaggs are representatives from the Bible College and the Medical College, respectively.

The other girls of our class,
each of whom is doing her "bit"
in her own way, are Fan Darter, Lula Elkin, Mary Wilhite, Marie Louise Foster, Ruby Douglas, Lucille Routh, Nellie Elkin, Bernice Holmes, Merle Holsap-
ple, Annah Jo. Pendleton, Elsie Baxter, and Ruth McFadin. These are typical twentieth century
girls who realize the seriousness of living, and who are aiming at lives of altruistic service. Some aspire to government positions; some fancy the pleasurable work of entertaining soldiers who are preparing to go

"over there;" some plan to do further study; all knit! One sei-dom finds a more earnest, sincere group of girls, with bigger ideals than these who are to walk forth in June—proud possessors of their sheepskins.

Completing the personnel of the Senior Class are three postgraduates who are candidates for
M. A. degrees: William Jones receives his degree in Political Science; J. Shirley Sweeney, in Biological Science, and John M.
Keith in Political Science. Mr.
Jones is President of the student body, Mr. Sweeney is in the enlisted medical reserve corps, and will continue his medical work in Vanderbilt next year, until he is called into active service. Mr.
Keith is an A. B. graduate of 1916, who was student body president that year. He is busily engaged in a good work in the city.

Closing with a verse borrowed
from a Senior of 1916—

"What in the world will this school be
When the Senior Class is through?
Without us, it is certain me,
There'll be little to T. C. U.

But a greater problem confronts
the mass;
We must face it squarely and
true:
What will become of the Senior Class
When we've finished from T.
C. U.?"

study group and conducted a demonstration class.

At the night session Dr. Foster spoke on "Our Objective." He says the world can only be saved by "keeping the vision"
and by remembering that "impossible things can happen."

Before adjournment the conference unanimously accepted
the challenge to join in the study of world democracy.

At a meeting of some twenty or more students of T. C. U. Jan.
30th, the Northfield program
was accepted and plans were discussed for enlisting students in a study of, and a commitment to, those principles of Christian democracy. The following "campaign council" was selected by this group to make and launch
further plans: William Jones,
Harry T. Rhodes, Mary Wilhite
and Mary Biggerstaff.

Ruth McFadin, Ava Maude
Wester and Golden Kimmer spent the week-end with Ava Lee Mars.

THE SENIOR.

It was not long ere they could teach
The brightest of their teachers.

But when they reached their Senior year
There came some changes,
hence,
Like every class that's gone before,
They now possess some sense.

There's nothing left in books nor sport,
Nor new beneath the sun,
That these bright, sturdy Seniors
Have not bargained for or done.

They know more than the kaiser,
Be he knave or be he fool,
And when the end comes, I am sure They'll know more than the school.

Then give three cheers for Seniors,
And help them to strive on,
For remember—1, 2, 3 years,
—FIVE—Skiff XB
You'll miss them when they're gone.

ON CAMPUS DUTIES

do what they can. The second problem confronts the students
do what they can. The second
when each one asks himself, "Am I worthy of the life's blood of my classmates and loved ones who are now in France?" Can the students on this campus ask themselves this question and be satisfied with the answer? This war, as Mr. Havighurst made clear to these boys and girls, has both a negative and a positive side. Negative in the sense that property and lives are being destroyed. This is the work of those who have given up their school work and those dear to them to help fight the battles.
The war is positive in the sense that it is constructive. It is in this constructive side of the war
that an opportunity is being given the T. C. U. students to enlist and do their part toward reaching the goal of America.

DR. AND MRS. E. R. COCK-RELL TO ENTERTAIN
SENIORS

On Friday evening, Feb. 15th,
the members of the Senior Class
will be entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Cockrell.
Dr. Cockrell is class professor of the Senior Class. The Seniors are looking forward to this event with much pleasure, for they have on several occasions enjoyed the hospitality of this beautiful home.

UNIVERSITY LIFE VS. SEMI-NARY LIFE.

the activities of student life.
Since the students are older, naturally they view life seriously and have greater responsibilities, therefore less of time for the various activities that generally characterize student life.

The university student's life is full of pep, ginger, enthusiasm and a keen interest in class, society, club and athletic organizations; all of this is absent from the student's life in the seminary. It is true, there are many things that sustain interest, but they are of a different nature.
All interest centers in the desired preparation for the particular phase of religious activity in which the student is soon to engage.

We are acquainted with student life and its many activities in the university, and it might be interesting to give here a short description of life in the seminary.

The courses of study include
Hebrew, Greek, Theology, Bible
Interpretation, Bible History,
Literature, etc.; Religious Education with special emphasis upon the Bible school. The course pursued is determined by the line of Christian service in which the student is to engage.
The average length of time required to complete a course leading to a degree is three years.

Upon entering the seminary
the student registers and classifies. Class room work is pursued four days each week, and the professors are conscientious with regard to meeting their classes, for they are present each day, and the students are required to be present or stand a special examination. Each class is opened with prayer. Examinations are held every nine weeks, and the school year is divided into four nine-week terms.
There are no clubs, or class organizations, except the senior class organizations. In fact, the seminary continues the work of the university or college along the line of specialization. In a measure the two institutions
have a common task.

There are a few things in which the university and seminary are alike. We will mention
some of them.

1. Both give examinations.
2. Rules governing co-eds.
3. Dignity of seniors.
4. Announcements in chapel.
5. Table course exactly alike.
