A FEW SUGGESTIONS FOR THE STUDENTS DURING BASEBALL SEASON

Students May Make a Winning Season or They May Ruin the Season.

Every one has heard many times that one of the greatest factors in making a winning team of any kind in College Athletics is that the student body, from which that team comes, have plenty of pep and the right kind of pep. This has been said so many times and under so many different circumstances that it has become rather common to all of us, and we have a tendency to pass it up as being something that we are already familiar with, and consequently in which we are not much interested.

However, there are facts which have been called to our attention of late, or should have been called to our attention, which should make us reconsider this well known and well established theory. These facts have been furnished to us by the recent basketball season taken in comparison with our glorious football season.

We all know if we will take the time to recall the facts, that during the past basketball season there was very little support for the team manifested by the members of the students; after the team had lost a game or two, although the students should have known that it was because of the lack of training, they would be found saying that they "thought so" and "that it was nothing more than they expected." Such remarks as these reach the players and they in

TRINITY WINS TRIANGULAR DEBATE

T. C. U. Win One and Lose One Debate.

Trinity University won the Triangular Debate Monday night when the two teams from that institution defeated the team from Southwestern University at Trinity and also won over the T. C. U. team which debated here in the T. C. U. auditorium on the same night.

All the contests between the three schools are held on the same night; each school having two teams, one remaining at home and one being away from home. This year T. C. U. sent the visiting team to Southwestern, Southwestern sent her visiting team to Trinity University, and Trinity sent her visiting team here to T. C. U.

In the debate, which was held in the T. C. U. auditorium, the Trinity debaters, Lackney Connally and Edwin Hrding, took the negative side of the question and defeated Harry Martin and Ben M. Edwards, who took the affirmative side of the question.

The T. C. U. team which was sent to Georgetown to debate against the Southwestern University team was composed of John Sturgeon and Forrest McCutcheon, who took the negative side of the question and defeated the opposing team.

The subject for the debate was: "Resolved, That Judicial Decisions Should be Subject to Recall by the People."

The judges who acted in the contest which was held here were: Dr. Forrest Smith, pastor of Broadway Baptist Church of Fort Worth; Ike

T. C. U. BREAKSEVEN WITH SIMMONS COLLEGE QUINETTE COLLEGE ON TRIP

T. C. U. Team Gives Simmons College First Defeat of Year; Christians Show Real Form at Close of the Season.

In what is said to be the hottest contests of the season, by the Simmons College basketball fans, the T. C. U. team showed real form and were able to outclass the strong Simmons College quintette which has been considered as one of the most likely bidders for State Championship this year.

Both the games were played on the Simmons College court and were witnessed by about fifteen hundred basketball enthusiasts, from the school and town.

Both games were hotly contested from start to finish and at no time was it absolutely certain as to who was to be the winner of either contest until the final whistle blew.

The first game went to the Christians by a score of twenty-five to twenty-three. The second game went to the Baptists by a score of twenty-four to twenty-one.

It was very evident throughout the entire time of both contestants that under normal circumstances, the Christians had a little bit of the edge on the Baptists, but with the assistance of the terrible rooting machine, which was kept constantly at work by the Simmons supporters, things were pretty well evened up.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB GIVES CONCERT OF OLD SONGS

The Girls' Glee Club held its annual concert in chapel Tuesday evening at 8:30. The thing which gave it the most interest was the fact that the members of the club were dressed in colonial costumes. There is always something very fascinating and appealing about a colonial atmosphere, and that element was certainly not lacking. Every girl looked pretty and sweet in her quaint costume and powdered hair. The Service Flag, which hung in the rear of the stage, made a very pleasing background for the scene. The chorus showed very careful training on the part of Mrs. Cahoon, and much diligent study on the part of the girls. The three numbers by the entire club were very well rendered.

In keeping with the setting, the program consisted of old songs. Three of the feature numbers in particular, were very enthusiastically received. One of these was a medley of old-fashioned songs by the men's quartette. The quartette never fails to bring down the house and to the old students there was an added pleasure to this particular appearance—the old bass singer was in his place. It was good to hear Lieut. Willis M. McGregor reverberate that familia "Bum Bum, Bum Bum."

Perhaps the most clever thing on the program was the duet sung by Vardeman Cockrell and Dell Cahoon. We predict that they will be real artists some day.

The last number, an old fashioned

MILITARY TRAINING IS NOW ON SOLID BASIS

Lieut. Kimball Takes Active Charge of Drilling.

At last it seems that the military training is to be an assured thing without the usual interruptions which seem to be the trouble in all such undertakings at the very beginning.

Lieutenant Kimball, who is to have charge over the training, has now returned from Chicago where he has been to be present at the death bed and funeral of his mother.

The work which he has been planning to be given in T. C. U. was actually begun Tuesday afternoon when Lieutenant Dietrich, who is to assist him in the work, appeared on the drill ground and met the group of students who were assembled there in anticipation of their coming.

Immediately upon the arrival of the two lieutenants, everything took on a very business-like atmosphere, all the men present were placed in the different squads according to the amount of military training that they had had and the regular work of making soldiers out of them was begun.

A number of the students who have had some military experience will be appointed as assistants and as student officers to assist in the training of the less experienced men.

As has been stated at several different times before, it is the intention and purpose of the authorities of the institution that there be regular military training in T. C. U. by the beginning of the next school year, and be put on such a basis that this work will be recognized by the government.

It is felt that the only sure way by which this end can be accomplished is for the students to join the military training class that is being organized and placed at the service of the students, and for these students to join the military training class that is be-

BAR ASSOCIATION HOLDS SECOND INITIATION

Five More Men Ushered Into the Presence of Rhadamanthus; Active Program Outlined for Remainder of Year.

Last Thursday night at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Dr. Cockrell, the Bar Association held the second initiation ceremony of the year. As is the usual custom, all the applicants for membership were put through the regular steps which lead the ambitious young J. A. into the presence of Rhadamanthus, which makes him a real bona fide member of the Bar Association.

The real faith and intentions of all candidates was tried out in every conceivable manner before they were allowed to become full fledged members of the association, which membership entitles them to go into the presence of Rhadamanthus, the Patron Saint of the Law Department, and also the Bar Association.

The men who were taken into the organization were: William Dewey Lawrence, Bruce George Cross, Edward Samuel Bond, Peter Marion Scardino, Henry Edward Fussell. All these men are either full fledge law students or are taking work in that department and also work in other departments of the University, preparatory to the study of law. These men, with several others, who will be admitted into the Bar Association at a meeting in the near future, have come into this department or into the University since the first term, when the first initiation was held.

There are also other men who are in this department who are eligible for

WOMANLESS WEDDING PROVES A REAL GRIEF KILLER

Judge Raley and "Miss" Henery Fussell Joined in the Doubtful Bonds of Matrimony.

The womanless wedding, which was given under the auspices of the T. C. U. Domestic Science Department on Thursday night in the University auditorium, proved to be one of the funniest and most ludicrous things that has ever happened in the University.

It was a real novel idea, which had originated in the Domestic Science Department.

The wedding was carried out in every particular, with all the frills and festivity of a regular twentieth century wedding. Not only was it a remarkable wedding from the standpoint of dress and brilliance of color, but there was not a woman in the whole thing.

Every one is saying, during these war times, that women are now learning to do so many things that have previously been considered purely man's work, until it will be only a short time until it will be possible to do without the men entirely. However, the wedding which was staged here in the University auditorium Thursday night, might be used as some evidence that some of the most vital things might be accomplished by man alone, without the oft considered, necessary man.

Half of the boys who took part in the wedding had been dressed up as dressed in the regular men's full dress. It is needless to say that there were a number of handsome men, and also some of the boys who were dressed as girls made exceptionally beautiful girls.

The bride appeared very beautiful in the exquisite white wedding gown girls and the other half of them were in which she moved so gracefully. She certainly was a fine looking woman, being something over six feet in height, which height was made to seem even greater because of the fact that the groom is only an inch or two over five feet in height.

The wedding ceremony was begun when Miss Shirley Sweeney and Howard Hill sang the wedding song, accompanied by Miss Carl Rupp Doering. Immediately after this the wedding march was played by Miss Doering as the wedding part moved gracefully down the long chapel aisles.

Those who took part in the wedding were: Miss Henery Fussell, the bride; Judge Raley, the groom; Shorty Vaughn and William Jones, flower girls; Eddie Bond, ring bearer; Joe Wilson and Roy Graves, trainbearers; Tony Pecora, maid of honor; Clyde Loky, best man; Shelby Faulkner, the bride's father, who gave the bride away; pianiste, Carl Rupp Doering; violiniste, Homer McCartney; soloists, Shirley Sweeney and Howard Hill; bridesmaids, Ira Taylor, Jewell Bawldwin, William Skaggs, Calvin Kiker, Hirschell Upton and Jesse Martin; attendants, Joel Haden, Eugene Sewell, Houston Spikes, Dick Bailey, Wiggins and Herbert Jones. Dewey Lawrence acted as the minister and performed the ceremony.

As soon as all of the wedding party had assembled on the rostrum, the Right Rev. Mr. Dewey Lawrence said the ceremony, which was extremely impressive, after which a chair was brought in for the groom in order that he might kiss the bride.

The following is the ceremony as was said by the Right Rev. Mr. Lawrence:

Dearly beloved, in these times of meatless Tuesday, wheatless Wednesdays, sweetless Thursdays and other eatless days in homes that are heatless, in a waterless town it is but fitting that we gather here in the presence of these misguided witnesses at a womanless wedding to unite this manless man and womanless woman in the doubtful estate of matrimony; which was instituted farther back than I can remember and is declared by the young and inexperienced to be altogether delightful and is even sought after by a few old maids and others, the warnings to the contrary on every hand notwithstanding. Into which doubtful estate, these two persons present come now to be joined.

Therefore, if there be any one present who can think of one solitary reason why they should thus be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter forever hold his peace.

I now require and charge you both (as ye shall answer at the dreadful day of judgment in the divorce court when the secret of your hearts shall be disclosed) that if either of you can think of any reason on the face of the earth why you should thus be joined together that you do now confess it, otherwise this entire proceeding will prove a leap in the dark and excusable only on the ground that love is absolutely blind.

Gene, wilt thou have this womanless woman to be thy wedded wife to live together in the doubtful estate of matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor her and obey her in all things justifiable or unjustifiable; and forever forsaking all other, and renouncing all flirtatious intentions and capers, keep the only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?

Your answer should be: I will for a fact.

Hub, wilt thou have this manless man to thy wedded husband to live together in an estate of uncertain matrimony? Wilt thou love, caress, manage and control him after the fashion of thy kind from now until such time as the courts shall otherwise decree?

Your answer should be: I will for a fact.

With this ring I thee wed and with all my worldly goods I thee endow, in the name of Wilson and Hoover and without regard to Teddy Roosevelt, Amen.

The audience will now join in singing "This is the way I long have sought, and mourned because I found it not." But before we do that you will please join your left hands.

For as much as Gene and Hub have consented together in ridiculous wedding, and have witnessed the same before this company and thereto have pledged their faith either to the other, and have declared the same by joining their hands in token of how badly they are left, let no meddling maids or widows put asunder and I therefore pronounce you wifeless husband and husbandless wife in the name of Wilson, McAdoo and Hoover aforesaid. "May your Tuesdays be meatless, Your Wednesdays wheatless, May you get more eatless each day; May your home be heatless, Your bed sheetless, And all be sent to the Y. M. C. A. May your drink stands be treatless, Your coffee sweetless, Each day may you get poorer and wiser, May your stockings be feetless Your trousers seatless, Until forever you hate the Kaiser"

ADD-RAN SELECT REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEW MEN'S CONTEST

ADD-RANN SELECT REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEW MEN'S CONTEST

Final Contest to Be Held Friday Night.

The Add-Rann Literary Society held the preliminary for the New Men's Declamatory Contest, Wednesday night. This preliminary was held for the purpose of selecting three men who would represent the Add-Rann Society in the final contest against the Shirleys.

The men who were selected to represent the Add-Ranns were: Dick Bailey, Henry Fussell, and Ben Terrell.

The Shirleys held their preliminary several weeks ago and at that time selected their team which will be in fine shape to battle against the strong Add-Rann team. The men who are to represent the Shirleys are: Jewell Bawldwin, Bryan Blaylock and Ben Hill.

In both societies there was a large number who made the try out for the preliminary contest, and this means that since there was a great deal of competition, the men who were selected to be the representatives in the final contest will be speakers of ability.

This contest will be the first opportunity for a number of the new men in the University to show what they can do in this kind of work. Every year there is some man who makes an impression for himself as a speaker, in this contest. It is expected that this year will be no exception in this respect as there are several men who are expected to spring surprises on the student body that night.

Every member of the respective societies will be present at this contest and will all be found rooting for their team and their society.

The first contest of the year between these societies, the Old Men's contest, was won by the Shirleys. In

All the speeches which will be given in this final contest will not be original but will be orations from different speakers which will be selected by the different men. The men will be graded on delivery and general stage appearance alone, and will not be graded on manuscript as in the case in an oratorical contest proper.

There will be two prizes awarded; one to the winner of first and second places. The winner of first place will receive a cash prize of ten dollars, while the winner of second place will receive a cash prize of five dollars.

THE FAIR

T. C. U. BREAKS EVEN WITH SIMMONS COLLEGE QUINTETTE ON TRIP

T. C. U. rooters should let this be a gentle reminder to them that there is really a responsibility resting on them as to whether or not they are to be able to have a winning team in the University.

We all remember that when the first basketball game was lost by the team, almost every rooter in school ceased to support the team, thinking that it was not possible to have the same caliber of basketball team as our football team this year. Despite this fact, the members of the team came back at the very last of the season and showed what might have been accomplished throughout the season, had every one shown the proper interest.

The first indication of this exhibition of real basketball came when the Christians again demonstrated that the ystill have Baylor's hat by giving the a real honest to goodness beating on the First Baptist Church gymnasium court.

When the team went to Simmons they were placed up against a team which had not been defeated by a single team this year, and a team which seemed to have a straight shot at State Chmpionship. However, the plucky Christians showed what they were made of by splitting the games with the Baptists and thus giving a serious blow at their championship aspirations. They showed by the last two games with the strongest team in the State that they were in the same class with the champions of the State at the close f the season, even if they did not arrive at this state of perfection too late to figure in the advance standing of the clubs of the State.

At present the military training is not compulsory but it is entirely left to the choice of the student as to whether or not he will take the training. Because of this fact it seems that it may be a little hard to obtain the proper military discipline that is desired, or that is usually required. However, it is hoped and believed that since every one who enters this training class realizes the great benefit to be derived from such training, there will be no serious breaches of the regulations which are laid down to them by the commandant.

On Tuesday afternoon, there were thirty or forty of the students out for the first actual drill under the new plan. There are many more who will take up the work as soon as they see that we are really to have the thing in earnest this time.

It has been rather unfortunate that there have been so many different things that have come in the way of the carrying out of this work as it had been planned from time to time. However, everyone may rest assured that at last they will be satisfied in believing that they are to get some real military training by joining this group under the direction and instruction of Lieutenant Kimball and the other men from Camp Bowie whom he will be able to procure to assist him from time to time.

membership in the Bar Association, but who have been out of the city at the time of both initiations. For the benefit of these men, another initiation service will be held at some time in the near future.

This association is planning to do some real hard work during the remainder of the year. Immediately after all the candidates had been duly received into full membership, the association was called into a business session by the president. There were many questions of interest discussed and also many plans were laid for further activity of the association in the near future.

Following the real business activities of the association, all the members of the association were served with delicious refreshment courses by Mrs. Cockrell. The meeting was ended by the rousing Law Yell, in which every member did his best to pay tribute to his Patron Saint and also to the host and Dean of the Law Department.

Those present were: E. B. Sewell, Eddie Bond, William Jones, John Sturgeon, Forrest McCutcheon, Henery Russell, Jewell Baldwin, Peter Cearno, Harry Martin, Dewey Lawrence, Mary McBride, Bruce Cross, Howard

lar students in school when he was here. He made an exceptional record for himself in many lines while he was in school, being one of the best orators that has ever been in the school, and also being a member of the Glee Club and the Quartette.

All the students were glad to have him pay this short visit here and regret it very much that he could not stay longer.

We are very much pleased to see that one of our classmates is spending his hours of leisure playing cow-pasture pool. This freshman is known as Mr. William Skaggs. However, we feel very sorry for the one who has to teach him.

WOMANLESS WEDDING PROVES A REAL GRIEF KILLER

Judge Raley and "Miss" Henery Fussell Joined in the Doubtful Bonds of Matrimony.

The womanless wedding, which was given under the auspices of the T. C. U. Domestic Science Department on Thursday night in the University auditorium, proved to be one of the funniest and most ludicrous things that has ever happened in the University.

It was a real novel idea, which had originated in the Domestic Science Department.

The wedding was carried out in every particular, with all the frills and festivity of a regular twentieth century wedding. Not only was it a remarkable wedding from the standpoint of dress and brilliance of color, but there was not a woman in the whole thing.

Every one is saying, during these war times, that women are now learning to do so many things that have previously been considered purely man's work, until it will be only a short time until it will be possible to do without the men entirely. However, the wedding which was staged here in the University auditorium Thursday night, might be used as some evidence that some of the most vital things might be accomplished by man alone, without the oft considered, necessary man.

Half of the boys who took part in the wedding had been dressed up as dressed in the regular men's full dress. It is needless to say that there were a number of handsome men, and also some of the boys who were dressed as girls made exceptionally beautiful girls.

The bride appeared very beautiful in the exquisite white wedding gown girls and the other half of them were in which she moved so gracefully. She certainly was a fine looking woman, being something over six feet in height, which height was made to seem even greater because of the fact that the groom is only an inch or two over five feet in height.

The wedding ceremony was begun when Miss Shirley Sweeney and Howard Hill sang the wedding song, accompanied by Miss Carl Rupp Doering. Immediately after this the wedding march was played by Miss Doering as the wedding part moved gracefully down the long chapel aisles.

Those who took part in the wedding were: Miss Henery Fussell, the bride; Judge Raley, the groom; Shorty Vaughn and William Jones, flower girls; Eddie Bond, ring bearer; Joe Wilson and Roy Graves, trainbearers; Tony Pecora, maid of honor; Clyde Loky, best man; Shelby Faulkner, the bride's father, who gave the bride away; pianiste, Carl Rupp Doering; violiniste, Homer McCartney; soloists, Shirley Sweeney and Howard Hill; bridesmaids, Ira Taylor, Jewell Bawldwin, William Skaggs, Calvin Kiker, Hirschell Upton and Jesse Martin; attendants, Joel Haden, Eugene Sewell, Houston Spikes, Dick Bailey, Wiggins and Herbert Jones. Dewey Lawrence acted as the minister and performed the ceremony.

As soon as all of the wedding party had assembled on the rostrum, the Right Rev. Mr. Dewey Lawrence said the ceremony, which was extremely impressive, after which a chair was brought in for the groom in order that he might kiss the bride.

The following is the ceremony as was said by the Right Rev. Mr. Lawrence:

Dearly beloved, in these times of meatless Tuesday, wheatless Wednesdays, sweetsless Thursdays and other eatless days in homes that are heatless, in a waterless town it is but fitting that we gather here in the presence of these misguided witnesses at a womanless wedding to unite this manless man and womanless woman in the doubtful estate of matrimony; which was instituted farther back than I can remember and is declared by the young and inexperienced to be altogether delightful and is even sought after by a few old maids and others, the warnings to the contrary on every hand notwithstanding. Into which doubtful estate, these two persons present come now to be joined. Therefore, if there be any one present who can think of one solitary reason why they should thus be joined together, let him now speak, or else hereafter forever hold his peace.

I now require and charge you both (as ye shall answer at the dreadful day of judgment in the divorce court when the secret of your hearts shall be disclosed) that if either of you can think of any reason on the face of the earth why you should thus be joined together that you do now confess it, otherwise this entire proceeding will prove a leap in the dark and excusable only on the ground that love is absolutely blind.

Gene, wilt thou have this womanless woman to be thy wedded wife to live together in the doubtful estate of matrimony? Wilt thou love her, comfort her, honor her and obey her in all things justifiable or unjustifiable; and forever forsaking all other, and renouncing all flirtatious intentions and capers, keep the only unto her, so long as ye both shall live?

Your answer should be: I will for a fact.

Hub, wilt thou have this manless man to thy wedded husband to live together in an estate of uncertain matrimony? Wilt thou love, caress, manage and control him after the fashion of thy kind from now until such time as the courts shall otherwise decree?

Your answer should be: I will for a fact.

With this ring I thee wed and with all my worldly goods I thee endow, in the name of Wilson and Hoover and without regard to Teddy Roosevelt, Amen.

The audience will now join in singing "This is the way I long have sought, and mourned because I found it not." But before we do that you will please join your left hands.

For as much as Gene and Hub have consented together in ridiculous wedlock, and have witnessed the same before this company and thereto have pledged their faith either to the other, and have declared the same by joining their hands in token of how badly they are left, let no meddling maids or widows put asunder and I therefore pronounce you wifeless husband and husbandless wife in the name of Wilson, McAdoo and Hoover aforesaid. "May your Tuesdays be meatless, Your Wednesdays wheatless, May you get more eatless each day; May your home be heatless, Your bed sheetless, And all be sent to the Y. M. C. A. May your drink stands be treatless, Your coffee sweetsless, Each day may you get poorer and wiser, May your stockings be feetless Your trousers seatless, Until forever you hate the Kaiser."

ADD-RAN SELECT REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEW MEN'S CONTEST

ADD-RANN SELECT REPRESENTATIVES FOR NEW MEN'S CONTEST

Final Contest to Be Held Friday Night.

The Add-Rann Literary Society held the preliminary for the New Men's Declamatory Contest, Wednesday night. This preliminary was held for the purpose of selecting three men who would represent the Add-Rann Society in the final contest against the Shirleys.

The men who were selected to represent the Add-Ranns were: Dick Bailey, Henry Fussell, and Ben Terrell.

The Shirleys held their preliminary several weeks ago and at that time selected their team which will be in fine shape to battle against the strong Add-Rann team. The men who are to represent the Shirleys are: Jewell Bawldwin, Bryan Blaylock and Ben Hill.

In both societies there was a large number who made the try out for the preliminary contest, and this means that since there was a great deal of competition, the men who were selected to be the representatives in the final contest will be speakers of ability.

This contest will be the first opportunity for a number of the new men in the University to show what they can do in this kind of work. Every year there is some man who makes an impression for himself as a speaker, in this contest. It is expected that this year will be no exception in this respect as there are several men who are expected to spring surprises on the student body that night.

Every member of the respective societies will be present at this contest and will all be found rooting for their team and their society.

The first contest of the year between these societies, the Old Men's contest, was won by the Shirleys. In

All the speeches which will be given in this final contest will not be original but will be orations from different speakers which will be selected by the different men. The men will be graded on delivery and general stage appearance alone, and will not be graded on manuscript as in the case in an oratorical contest proper.

There will be two prizes awarded; one to the winner of first and second places. The winner of first place will receive a cash prize of ten dollars, while the winner of second place will receive a cash prize of five dollars.

T. C. U. rooters should let this be a gentle reminder to them that there is really a responsibility resting on them as to whether or not they are to be able to have a winning team in the University.

We all remember that when the first basketball game was lost by the team, almost every rooter in school ceased to support the team, thinking that it was not possible to have the same caliber of basketball team as our football team this year. Despite this fact, the members of the team came back at the very last of the season and showed what might have been accomplished throughout the season, had every one shown the proper interest.

The first indication of this exhibition of real basketball came when the Christians again demonstrated that they still have Baylor's goat by giving them a real honest to goodness beating on the First Baptist Church gymnasium court.

When the team went to Simmons they were placed up against a team which had not been defeated by a single team this year, and a team which seemed to have a straight shot at State Championship. However, the plucky Christians showed what they were made of by splitting the games with the Baptists and thus giving a serious blow at their championship aspirations. They showed by the last two games with the strongest team in the State that they were in the same class with the champions of the State at the close of the season, even if they did not arrive at this state of perfection too late to figure in the advance standing of the clubs of the State.

At present the military training is not compulsory but it is entirely left to the choice of the student as to whether or not he will take the training. Because of this fact it seems that it may be a little hard to obtain the proper military discipline that is desired, or that is usually required. However, it is hoped and believed that since every one who enters this training class realizes the great benefit to be derived from such training, there will be no serious breaches of the regulations which are laid down to them by the commandant.

On Tuesday afternoon, there were thirty or forty of the students out for the first actual drill under the new plan. There are many more who will take up the work as soon as they see that we are really to have the thing in earnest this time.

It has been rather unfortunate that there have been so many different things that have come in the way of the carrying out of this work as it had been planned from time to time. However, everyone may rest assured that at last they will be safe in believing that they are to get some real military training by joining this group under the direction and instruction of Lieutenant Kimball and the other men from Camp Bowie whom he will be able to procure to assist him from time to time.

membership in the Bar Association, but who have been out of the city at the time of both initiations. For the benefit of these men, another initiation service will be held at some time in the near future.

This association is planning to do some real hard work during the remainder of the year. Immediately after all the candidates had been duly received into full membership, the association was called into a business session by the president. There were many questions of interest discussed and also many plans were laid for further activity of the association in the near future.

Following the real business activities of the association, all the members of the association were served with delicious refreshment courses by Mrs. Cockrell. The meeting was ended by the rousing Law Yell, in which every member did his best to pay tribute to his Patron Saint and also to the host and Dean of the Law Department.

Those present were: E. B. Sewell, Eddie Bond, William Jones, John Sturgeon, Forrest McCutcheon, Henry Russell, Jewell Baldwin, Peter Car-din, Harry Martin, Dewey Lawrence, Mary McBride, Bruce Cross, Howard

Vaughn, Hirschell Upton, Calvin Kiker, Judge Raley, Herbert Jones, Jesse Martin, Professors Rouer, Rec-tor and Cockrell.

WILLIS MCGREGOR RETURNS TO FT. MORGAN, ALABAMA, THURSDAY

Willis McGregor returned to Fort Morgan, Alabama, Thursday night. He has been here on a ten-day leave of absence from his duties there as a lieutenant in the Coast Artillery that is stationed there. He arrived in Fort Worth last Friday.

Willis graduated from T. C. U. last year and was one of the number of boys who went to the training camp for officers at San Antonio last year. He was one of the most popular students in school when he was here. He made an exceptional record for himself in many lines while he was in school, being one of the best orators that has ever been in the school, and also being a member of the Glee Club and the Quartette.

All the students were glad to have him pay this short visit here and regret it very much that he could not stay longer.

We are very much pleased to see that one of our classmates is spending his hours of leisure playing cow-pasture pool. This freshman is known as Mr. William Skaggs. However, we feel very sorry for the one who has to teach him.

BASKETBALL SEASON REVIEWED

After Making a Poor Beginning Team Closes Season Strong.

A simple review of the scores for the past basketball season show things up in a rather doleful manner for the Horned Frogs. They show that only three games were won. However, these scores do not reveal the difficulties that were overcome and the work of developing new material. Rice started the season with Kingsland, Dodge and Dormant of last year's quint. Texas had as her captain Al De Vinney of last year's team, and Baylor had Spencer and for a while Wielbusch. In fact, nearly every team in the State except T. C. U. had one or more veterans to start the season with.

The first of the season there was a decided lack of teamwork. The men were all there at top speed and fighting hard, but they could not get together. It was somewhat of a hit and miss affair. Then came the Baylor game. The team had just returned from a rather disastrous road trip and the student body did not know how well prepared it was to meet the Bears. But, when that time came the team suddenly ran off like a machine. Fighting like bear cats themselves they steam-rolled the Baptist Bruins, 36 to 30, in one of the smoothest, hardest-fought and prettily played games ever staged. The individuals had been submerged in the stronger unit. Four games remained on the schedule and they were all on foreign territory. The two with the junior colleges were split and then the Simmons trip came as the end on a fifty-fifty draw. These last games were jam-up affairs and showed that out of the raw material coach had developed a team which was in a position to compete favorably with any in the State.

Prinzing as captain and guard was perhaps the most consistent player on the team. He was a perpetual nuisance to all opposing forwards and in several games led in ringing baskets. At the other guard Meyers kept Prinzing company. He was fast on his feet and was able to cover a good part of the court. Due to his decided basket ringing proclivities coach shifted him to forward several times. Wiggins at forward played good ball nearly all season. He was handicapped by sickness at times, but he was a crack shot at the basket. Easley was one of the best defensive players on the team. In mid-season he took a slump in basket shooting and turned in some low scores, but toward the end he came back strong. Haire at center, most of the time, was a good, strong man. He usually got the jump on his opponent and was a dangerous man with the ball when near the basket. Bradford perhaps developed more than any other player. At the first he was awkward and rather slow, but he later bloomed out as one of the most finished players on the team. In the Baylor game he tossed 'em in like a professional and was high man in nearly every other game.

BASEBALL COMING STRONG

Practice Opens With an Abundance of Tryouts and Much Good Material.

When Captain Raley and Coach Poll Perritt called for volunteers at the first of the week, the recruiting office did a rushing business. Dirty suits, stiff gloves and about thirty Cobbs, Mathewsons, Schalks and Barrys in the embryo came out to loosen up. Judge, Shorty and Shadie are the only old men back. However, there is no dearth of new material. The outfield looks like a camp meeting and there are plenty cavorting around the infield to start a Cox's army.

Meyers, Hogg, Haire, Vaughn, Raley and Hardisson will attempt to worry the opponents' artillery with divers slants and crooked shoots. Raley, Spikes, Hill and Rutledge are trying to prove to coach their wonderful ability as receivers. Graves and Jones are fighting valiantly for the third coaling station and it looks like the bag will be most efficiently covered. Shadie has no opposition at short and apparently needs none. As yet Peanuts McKee has not reported to take charge of the second bag and if he does he will have to hustle because Bobby Stovall is putting all sorts of pep into that section of the diamond. Shorty has retained his ability to snag flying missiles as they whizz past first. In his absence Rats is still of the opinion that a few more catches are left in his glove. Miller, Sewell, Hayden, Prinzing and several others of equal fame are bagging balls in the outer gardens. In fact, with the materials at hand and with the efficient coaching of Perritt there is apparently no reason why the Horned Frogs should not bring home the bacon and the T. I. A. A. championship.

THE COLLEGE WOMAN'S PART IN THIS WAR.

A question which should be very vital to every college woman today is, "What is my part in this great war?" or "How can I best serve my country?" Besides joining the Red Cross, helping in the conservation of food, and contributing to the Student Friendship Fund, there are many other things that the girls can do.

In many of our American colleges today there is too much snobbishness. Because a girl does not belong to a certain group, or because she does not measure up to certain superficial standards, she is treated as an inferior and yet at the same time our men are even dying "to make the world safe for democracy." The college women should begin by being more democratic toward those around them.

Very few women ever have the opportunity to go to college. What are we going to take from college to these women and girls at home? Are we going to drift into our old plans for a life of pleasure and ease, or are we going to deny ourselves some of their pleasure that we may guide others in serving their country? We should put ourselves into our college work with new zeal, and school ourselves in high idealism which will be needed in the years immediately following the war. When we return to our homes for the summer vacation, we should teach these high ideals to groups of women and girls there. While thousands of college men are offering their lives in the struggle for democracy, may the college women do their part and may they not be slackers!

PAULINE ALLEN.

STUDENT EXPRESSION.

The Need for a Gymnasium.

Often we have heard the various "needs" of the University as expressed by members of the faculty and by many members of the student body.

Some have stated the need of a fine arts building, others have argued the need of a library building and still others have brought forth reasons why T. C. U. should have a greater outlet to the various parts of the city. But Prof. Cockrell "hit the nail squarely on the head" when he recently stated "that probably the most needed institution for the Texas Christian University is a well equipped gymnasium with swimming pool, shower baths, and a complete line of gymnastic apparatus."

There are numerous reasons why a gymnasium is the institution most needed at the present time. First, it would be a great drawing card for the obtaining of new students and our representatives that we send over the State at various times could easily persuade the parents of young men and women to send their children to T. C. U. because with a gymnasium we would be able to build up their children physically as well as mentally, each of which is of very little importance without the other.

Second, most of the leading schools have gymnasiums and they take particular pains to see that their students are prepared physically as well as mentally to resist the obstacles and hardships that they are forced to face in their later life. Therefore, we must, if we expect to rank with the best known colleges, make this needed and necessary addition to our University.

If the boys and girls of T. C. U. had a gymnasium in which to spend their spare time there would probably be a noticeable decrease in the number of students standing about the halls, a thing to which the officers of the University are strictly opposed. Those students who would ordinarily go to town in search of recreation would in all probability frequent the gym instead, and furnish themselves with good and upbuilding exercise.

Therefore, we hope that both for the benefit of the school, which will be noticeable indeed, and for the benefit of the students, that the trustees who determine the destinies of T. C. U. will come to a common understanding and have built as soon as possible our most needed institution, a well equipped gymnasium.

opticon lectures that night in the chapel were amply rewarded for their outlay of time. The pictures on the screen and the vivid word-pictures of the two missionaries served to greatly impress upon our minds and hearts the great need in these lands of ignorance, vice and superstition.

The T. C. U. church audiences were further blessed in having talks from Dr. Pickett at morning and night services. "The Call of the East to the Church of the West," and "The Value and Need of Medical Missions," were the subjects for his sermons.

UNIVERSITY'S NEEDS.

Prof. Cockrell Advocates Changes in Equipments and Surroundings of the School.

First, that in spite of the war this is one of the most successful and promising years in the history of Texas Christian University.

Second, that probably the most needed institution for the University is a gymnasium with swimming pool, shower baths, and gymnastic apparatus.

Third, that another much needed institution both from the point of view of the Brotherhood of Texas Disciples and of the University is a University church edifice.

Fourth, a much needed building is one for the Fine Arts and the Library.

And last and best, he is delighted because of the splendid response the churches of the Disciples of Christ are giving to all recent educational appeals.

while they are at the front fighting our battles.

However, this is the situation, and if something is not done to gain the cooperation of all the people, then we cannot be sure that all our soldiers will be well clothed and fed while they are at the front.

If we do not conserve wheat, sugar and the fats to send to our men at the front, it will be only a short time until they will be in worse state than are the soldiers of our allies. An idea of this condition may be gained by recalling the rations of a French soldier as given by Miss Deplanter. Today the rations of a French soldier consists of three slices of bread, three ounces of oat meal, two ounces of rice, and one-half teaspoon of sugar, per day. This is the regulation, and is what they are supposed to get according to the schedule of food supplies and demands that has been worked out by that government. Sometimes many of these soldiers get much less than this. To make the real condition more vivid to all the students, Miss Deplanter told of how the wounded French soldiers are so in need of fats that they will eat face cream or any other thing of this nature that they can get their hands on that has any ingredient of fat in it.

The many things that were told to the students by this splendid representative of the Government were put in such a striking way that they could not fail to have their effect.

The final appeal was made to the students that they do all in their power to help the University to do its bit in the conservation of food. Several different rules were given to the students which were to be followed by them. However, the gist of the whole thing was that they do not take more food on their plates than they intend to eat nor take more than is good for them to eat. Also all the students should restrain themselves from eating candy as has been the custom. If all these rules are regarded by the students, they will not only be helping to win the war by saving food that should be sent to our allies but they will be keeping themselves in better physical trim than could be the case when they eat to an excess as is the case with a number of them at present.

There is no doubt that this address by Miss Deplanter had a great effect with the students, because a number of them have sworn off from the use of candy, and many of the students have been heard to make resolutions with regard to all kinds of food conservation.

We are glad that Miss Deplanter came here at this time and made this splendid address and also we are glad that the students are taking the proper attitude in regard to the things that were suggested that they do in order to be most useful and helpful in this war.

points. Dick Raley won the first place. He comes to us from Detroit, Texas, where he has achieved numerous successes in declamatory contests. Last year he won out in the district contest, which entitled him to enter the finals at the University of Texas. Mr. Bailey speaks with perfect ease and freedom, and the personality of his physical self is lost in the artistry of his oratory.

Ben Terrell and Henry Fussel, Add-Rans, and Jewell Baldwin, Shirley, ran each other a close race; and it was not until after some argument that Mr. Terrell was given second place and Mr. Fussell third. There is a prize of $10.00 for the winner of the first place, and of $5.00 for the winner of second place.

This contest seemed to have aroused an unusual amount of interest from the very first. The Shirleys had six men to go out for the preliminaries and the Add-Rans had eight. That shows a true society spirit, and, what is better still, true literary spirit—a thing which the entire University and particularly the literary societies should certainly foster.

The speakers and their orations were:

- Liberty.....Robert Ingersoll Hill
 - A Message to Garcia.....Elbert Hubbard Fussell
 - Patriotism.....Lee J. Roundtree Blaylock
 - World Progress and Peace.....Reupert P. Winters Baley
 - National Apostasy.....Unknown Bauldwin
 - Eulogy on Wendell Phillips.....George W. Curtis Terrell
- The judges were Mr. Miller, Mr. Potts and Mr. Jennings.

JUDGE RALEY SICK IN BED

Will Be Out of Baseball Practice for a Few Days.

Judge Raley will be out of baseball for a few doys on account of oillness. He has been very ill for a day or two, but is now able to be up and around. He says that he will be in good condition in a few days and will be out at that time with more pep than ever.

A doctor was called Wednesday night to look him over and see what was the matter with him, but at that time he was not able to say what was the trouble, but was of the opinion that he was suffering from indigestion.

We will all be glad to see Judge back in his baseball suit next week.

New Material Is Coming In All the Time.

During the past year the Library of Texas Christian University has been rapidly increasing. Starting out with virtually nothing after the Waco fire, it has increased until at the present time it contains some 14,727 volumes, 2,700 of which have been added this past year. Of course this includes the three libraries, law, literary and ministerial.

The Board of Trustees has recently appropriated $500 for new books and this is being used as rapidly as possible and at the same time as sagaciously. From different sources some 700 volumes have been added since September. About sixty-five students and professors have become donors of books and documents to this branch of the school, and with the prospective shipments we will soon have one of the best or most select libraries of any institution in the state.

ADD-RANS TAKE FIRST THREE PLACES IN MEW MEN'S CONTEST

Dick Bailey Wins First Place

The annual New Men's Contest between the Add-Ran and Shirley Societies was held in Chapel Friday night, March 1. This is always one of the best contests held under the auspices of the Oratorical Association, and the interest ran unusually high at this time. Both societies had a large representation present, and much enthusias was manifested by the supporters of each team.

The Add-Rans won each of the first three places, thus winning the contest by thirteen food, during this time of war and shortage of food in the war zone, was a traitor to the United States and to the cause of world democracy.

According to the facts that were presented by Miss Deplanter, the people in the South are not nearly as observant of the principles of the conservation of food as are the people of the North. The people of the South have not yet come to realize the importance of this thing as well as is the case with our neighbors further North.

It is up to the people of the South to wake up to a greater and better and more active realization of the real necessity of food conservation at this particular time. In the United States we have been so used to doing as we pleased that it is hard to realize that each of us must do without the things that we have been in the custom of having in order that some one else might have more of that thing branch of college sports. Every one remembers how he could plow the line almost at will in every game of the season. They also remember that he was one of the best guards in basketball that has ever been seen in the State. Another good thing about Heine is that he always trains, and is well liked by all the boys.

There were several boys on the team who would have made excellent men for this position, but there are none who could have filled the bill better than Heine.

Heine is not only an athlete of much natural ability, but he makes a study of every game that he plays and always sets a good example for the other members of the team by training himself.

Every one in the University feels that the leadership of next year's football is in good hands when it is in the hands of Prinzing. With many of the best men on this year's team back in school next year, there is no doubt as to the quality of team that the Horned Frogs will have.

There is but one thing to do and that is to remember what we did to the Baylor Bear this year, and do it again next year on their own field. Every man who is to be here next year has expressed himself as being behind Captain Prinzing, and every man will do their best to pull down the State championship next year.

A short program was given by the members of the Bar Association, and an interesting address by Mr. Higgins made it complete. There were several guessing contests which were participated in by all those present. In one of these contests, Shelby Faulkner was the winner, and received an almost life size baby elephant. This animal may be seen now where it is on exhibition in his room.

Although the lawyers were very sorry that the soldiers were not able to be present, they were glad for the rain that we had on that night, and feel that since they had such a fine time, the evening was anything but a failure. At the close of the entertainment all joined in thanking Dr. and Mrs. Cockrell for allowing them to use their home.

Those who were present were: Misses Estes, Yates, Lee Richardson, Cannon, Smith, Petta, Andrews, Mabry, McBride, Parks, Wester, Strange, Hartgrove and Richards; Messrs. Jesse Martin, Howard Vaughn, Judge Raley, Eugene Sewell, Bruce Cross, Shadie Hale, Eddie Bond, Calvin Kiker, Ed Bawldwin, Jewell Bawldwin, Radford Peter Scardino, Hirschell Upton, Professor Cockrell, Professor Roer, Mr. W. Coach Perritt will be with the Horned Frogs during the beginning of the season. He will be called to join the Panthers in about a month or so, but he thinks that he will have the club in such a condition by that time that Coach Cahoon will have no trouble in keeping the club in shape.

SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Alstynne, they had lost Shirley Sweeney, as he had received a wire from the University telling him that Mrs. Sweeney, who was sick, was not doing well. Glenn Hutton was forced to go to Cleburne to meet some of his voice pupils there. Taking all this into consideration, it seems that any other club in the state would have been feeling pretty blue over the prospects of entertaining an audience.

However, a few more minutes were spent in consultation by coach and a few members of the club, and everything was arranged. It was decided that the Jazz Trio should occupy the number left vacant by the quartette. This trio, composed of Emil Martin, Rats Hill and Walker Stallings with the two cornets and the clarinet, made things hum. By the encores which they received, it was easy to see that they could well fill any gap that might be left in the program.

There were good audiences in every town of the trip, and they were very enthusiastic. In no place could they have told that there were substitutes being made in the regular program, if they had not been told, as the quality of the entertainment was above what they were in the habit of receiving from College Glee Clubs.

From a social standpoint, the trip was even a greater success than in other respects. The boys were well entertained in every place, and in each town they were given a reception by the girls.

There were many funny things which happen all along a trip of this kind, which serve to keep the boys in the best of spirits. In Plano, there was a young business men's club to which the boys were invited. The boys found all kinds of means of entertaining themselves in the club rooms, including pool tables. Emil Martin had just finished telling a number of boys how fine he was at the game of pool when he called out: "Where is that 'taw' ball."

In one town Rats Hill was complimenting everything in town, as was his usual custom. They were all seated around the dinner table—Hats had had two or three helpings of everything in sight, when he happened to think of one more thing that he might compliment. However, the hostess was hard of hearing and had to watch the boys actions in an attempt to understand what they wanted or what they were talking about. Rats said that he thought the town had a fine auditorium, and the hostess, watching his motions, misunderstood, and replied that she was glad that he liked it and would he not have some more.
