TEAM HAS GREAT ROAD TRIP.

T. C. U. Ball Club Put on the Map by Four Victories Out of Six on the Road.

Six days of baseball and four clean wins is the record set by the ball tossers representing T. C. U. Baylor and Southwestern fell victims to the onslaughts of the Christians, and the Frogs in turn went down before the Longhorns in a brace of games. Five to three, sixteen to seven, six to seven, three to five, two to one, and six to three tells the story of a whole week of hard playing.

The Texas games were the only ones that proved hard for the local boys. In the first game Meyers was twirling for the Toads and Hill started out behind the bat. With the score standing six to three in our favor in the last part of the ninth, that far famed "Texas spirit" hit their team and before the Christians could stage a strategic retreat the Longhorns had gored them and run four scores over the pan—enough to win the game.

Things were looking good for the fellows up until that last inning. Shadie had knocked the horse hide off of two or three balls, Judge had garnered an opportune hit or two, Peanuts was connecting, Baker continued to hit 1000, and the fielders were taking the balls that came their way in good clean catches. However, Billy Disch pulled some of that inside baseball on his pupils and inspired them with that same fight that has been his custom for so long and

CONTESTS FOR THE ARTHUR A. EVERTS' PRIZES.

As has been announced, Mr. Arthur A. Everts of Dallas offered a diamond medal for the best oration and a solid gold watch for the best essay on the subject "Christian Stewardship in Property." There are four contestants for the medal and a larger number for the watch. Judges, entirely unknown to the contestants, will grade the papers and the orations. The highest average will win the prizes. The papers are now in the hands of the judges and the orations will be delivered on Tuesday evening, next, at the First Christian Church. Both prizes will be awarded on that occasion. The students who are to take part in this contest will very much appreciate it if their fellow students and their instructors will encourage them by their presence. Admission will be free. The addresses will be only fifteen minutes each, with no extension of time granted. Let T. C. U. show to Fort Worth that her people appreciate mental culture as well as athletics and other features of development. The program will begin at five minutes past eight o'clock that those who reach the city on the eight o'clock car may secure their seats in time. Mr. Everts has been asked to present the prizes to the winners, in person.

Two quartettes will furnish special music. The ladies are: Misses Mary Wilhite, Bernice Holmes, Lena Gilbert and Lalla De Stivers; the gentlemen are: J. W. Shockley, John Luck, S. W. Hutton and Glen Hutton.

STUDENTS STAGE BIG MAY DAY PICNIC.

Lake Worth Scene of Many Activities and Diversified Sports.

In more ways than a farmer can come to town the students and faculty members of T. C. U. roamed in, around and over Lake Worth last Wednesday. If there was anything to do that was not done at some time during the day, no one discovered it.

At 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning the Traction Co. sent out two special cars to carry the students to the end of the Rosen Heights car line. The girls, and the boys who were fortunate enough to have dates with said damosels, filled the first car and the rest of the male tribe occupied the seats on the last car. However, Messrs. Norris and Hammond tried to rid themselves of the lonesomeness of the last car and boldly took their seats with the ladies. This lasted only a short time, though, because the boys felt the need of their presence to such an extent that at the first switch they were induced, with a little physical persuasion, to alight and go with their tribe. In this combat Rats Hill turned traitor and stuck in the first car, but as soon as both cars reached the city he was led to see the error of his way and returned to the fold in a meek and docile manner.

The special cars were met at the end of the car line by busses and the students were taken on out to the lake where the fireworks immediately began. Boats were hunted up, rented and started on their way rejoicing. Bathing suits were dragged out, motor boats began chugging, and faint sounds were emitted by the young ladies as they felt the soothing effects of sand rolling down their backs or were brought threateningly near the water's edge.

After this line of action had run on for about an hour and a half a sudden realization of nobler things entered the minds of every one. Joe, in his white cap and coat, was seen promenading in and out around the tables in a very suspicious manner and about 12:30 o'clock every one lined up in cafeteria style and marched in two long lines past the tables and partook of what edibles they preferred. This was given time to settle and the activities of the morning were again begun.

At 1:30 o'clock, however, practically everything stopped and the students and faculty members paraded over to the

BIG MAY FETE SOON.

Girls' Gym Classes Planning to Give Big Exhibition.

In the near future T. C. U. will have one of the big attractions of any school year. Miss Duncan says that the way this is to be pulled off is going to give an individuality to T. C. U.'s performance of which no other school in the State can boast.

The girls are rapidly rounding into form, as the baseball expression goes. They are getting the fancy dances and classical actions down to a fine point and by the time of the Fete they will be able to give a truly first class exhibition of rhythmic and graceful interpretation of the classics.

It has not as yet been decided when the Fete will take place but it is thought that it will be somewhere near the end of the month.

One of the features of the May Fete will be the necessary election of the May Queen. This will be one of the young ladies who would take part in the performance, and the whole school will vote on the fortunate one. It is needless to say that this is quite an honor and the young lady who is so lucky as to be the Queen can consider that she has had one of the highest honors bestowed upon her that anyone can have in T. C. U.

DR. COCKRELL REPRESENTS T. C. U.

Influential Law Professor Goes Over State Urging Prospective Students to Give T. C. U. Due Consideration.

For the past week Dr. Cockrell, the head of the Law Department in the school, has been visiting in nearby towns in order that he might get in touch with students who will go off to school next year. So far he has visited Arlington, Grand Prairie, Garland, Palmer and Handley.

On these trips Prof. Cockrell tries to get in personal touch with the prospective students of the communities, and he also has been addressing the senior classes of the high schools. The results are very favorable indeed so far, and no doubt before school opens next September there will be many here who are undecided at present.

For several years Dr. Cockrell has done this and similar work and has always been one of the chief men in bringing new students to the University and welcoming them after they arrive. These trips that have been taken up to date are only the forerunners of more extended visits in which most of the cities and towns of importance will be visited.

FACULTY TAKE-OFF BIG SUCCESS.

Students and Faculty Enjoy Seeing Peculiarities of Professors and Instructors Duly Stressed.

Last Tuesday night in the chapel the students put on the annual faculty take-off. Practically every member of the faculty came in for his or her share of comic mimicing. If any one was so unfortunate as to make a break in the past he was reminded of it. If any "Prof." has an idiosyncrasy or noticeable peculiarity he undoubtedly saw it emphasized if he was present.

The scene of action was supposed to be a chapel service on Wednesday morning, and the regular fine arts program was rendered. Mrs. Cahoon (Miss Bonita Martin); Miss Duncan (Miss Baby McBride) rendered very delicate and pathetic numbers in which the ones being mimiced were ably "shown up." Then there was a series of announcements. Dr. Lockhart, Dean Hall, Prof. Smith, Prof. Garrett, Dr. Wilson, Dr. Winton, Prof. Cockrell, Prof. Bryson, Mrs. Gardner and others were prominent in this.

Perhaps the best actor of the evening was Mr. William Jones, as the Prexy. If Pres. Waits had been there he would have seen himself as others see him, "as Burns would say." Mr. Jones had all the peculiarities of the president down to perfection.

After the faculty meeting there was a meeting of the Committee on Student Welfare. Miss Tyler, Mr. Brouse and

SIMMONS HUMBLED BY LOCAL BATTERS.

Abilene Institution Loses a Brace of Games to T. C. U. Ball Tossers.

Monday afternoon on the local diamond Simmons had their hopes and ambitions smashed in a most unceremonious manner. They brought a club that was touted to work havoc in the ranks of North Texas Clubs, and just to show T. C. U. where they stood they started their star pitcher in the first game. They started him but that was all. He was knocked to all corners of the lot.

The first inning opened with neither side scoring, though Shadie did get a hit. Then in the second three hits netted a run for the homelings. In the third, a base on balls, a stolen base, an error, and a hit brought forth another run and gave Dutch a two-run lead. All this time Simmons was going out in nice order and seemed very thankful that they did not have to look at Meyer's crazy shoots for more than three outs an inning.

In the fourth Ashburn for the Cowboys garnered a hit and pilfered second but McDonald was trapped by Prinzing in the sun field and Sanderford got his eyes crossed on three good ones. T. C. U. came back and batted around, incidentally chalking up four scores. In the fifth neither side scratched.

T. C. U. added another in the sixth. In the seventh Simmons made one run on three hits after Meyers was beginning to ease down. However, lest the six run lead should prove insufficient the Christians came back and on three hits and a hit batter got two more runs.

Both sides rested in the eighth and the Cowboys added one more lonesome tally in the ninth, making the final score nine to two.

The Second Game.

The second game opened very inauspiciously for the home team. Vaughn was on the mound and had hardly warmed up when the game began. The result was that a hit, two errors and a stolen base netted three runs right off the reel for the visitors. In the second and third things were shaky for the Frogs and it looked as though Norman would make a come-back in the box for Simmons.

However, after two scoreless innings T. C. U. found the elongated twirler for a hit and that coupled with three walks, an error and a sacrifice was sufficient to bring in four runs and win the game. The rest of the game Simmons was guessing at everything. T. C. U. came back in the fourth and counted for a couple and dittoed it in the fifth. They rested in the sixth and came back for another in the seventh.

Simmons got all the damage out of their systems in the first inning and were as docile as lambs for the rest of the game. Norman had to give up the pitching duty again. This time he was relieved by Bradley, who though he did not have much, was able to ease the Christians down after their hard race around the bases in the other innings. The score was nine to three.

T. C. U., wake up and take notice. There are only five more weeks until the 1917-18 session is ended. Think of it, just five weeks and then the old campus will be empty. Some will go expecting to return, some will laeve to come back on visits only, and some will be gone for ever.

Let us crowd into these five short weeks as much as possible; let us end this session with a bang-up finish. Then those who return next year will start in with the inspiration gathered from this year, and those who never return will have still sweeter remembrances of the old college.

There is something we want you to know—every student should know. Listen! Now comes the mystery. The other night (a Monday night) in a certain room of the administration building there was nothing or thought to be nothing but darkness. All of a sudden there could be seen a faint glow coming forth from a few cracks and a transom. Nothing could be heard. Look out! There was a crashing noise as of thunder. Throughout the length of an hour and fifteen minutes this noise could be heard intermittent with what was thought to be dead silence.

What was it, do you ask? Again the mystery. It was (don't let your nerves get away with you) a session of the members of the Shirley Literary Society only. In fact, a secret program had been given. The best program ever given in T. C. U.

COLUMN OF STUDENT EXPRESSION.

It is the desire of the present editor for the students of the University to feel free in contributing to the Skiff articles of general interest to the other students of the University. It is believed that the Skiff should be a student publication and as such the students should have a right to express their views on matters of importance, either past, present or future.

However, there must necessarily be some restrictions on anything of this kind. One of these that seems perfectly just is that any student wishing to contribute such articles should sign his or her full name. The other is that the editor shall reserve the right to restrict parts or the whole, if necessary, because of extreme rabidness or undue curttness.

A boy or girl in a school of this kind should think on problems that arise from time to time in student life. If the thoughts thus generated are worthy of his belief they are certainly broad enough to let others think of them. About the only way in which such matters can be taken up publicly, without getting on the stump, is to take them up in print. This is essentially the students' paper. Let's have the student contributions.

HOWARD HILL INJURES FINGER.

Howard Hill, commonly known as Rats, had the misfortune to seriously injure his finger in the first Texas game. He was on the receiving end of the line and also was cracking them out in great style when the accident occurred.

Rats will be missed on the team. He has been Judge's understudy behind the bat and was the first substituted first baseman. On the road trip he caught the first Baylor game and played first during the next. In the Texas game he was catching when the ball hit him on the finger and drove it into his hand. To add to the glory of the situation one of the medics on the trip became over-zealous in doctoring the injured finger and blistered it with iodine. The result is that Rats will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Out of 12 trips to the plate on the road he poled seven hits.

TEXAS I. C. P. ASSN. MET AT BAYLOR.

At the annual meeting of the T. I. P. A., held at Baylor University this year, five schools were represented. They were C. I. A., Simmons, Trinity Baylor and T. C. U. The meeting opened Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a two and a half hour business session, in which the work done the past year was taken up and discussed.

Friday morning the convention reopened and at this time the winning poem, essay, and short stories were read. The winning poem was "Lines to an Atheist Friend," by Mrs. Cahill of Baylor. Miss Martha Cheavens of Baylor won the essay contest with "Tagore and Indian Child Life." There was a tie for first place in the short story.

COACH DANIELS SPENDS TWO DAYS IN T. C. U.

Coach Daniels was here in the university for two days this week. He arrived here Saturday afternoon and remained until early Monday morning.

Coach Daniel has been in Austin ever since he left the university. While he has been stationed there he has been an instructor in the aviation school, teaching radio telegraphy.

Several weeks ago coach received a commission as a first lieutenant in the infantry. While he was here he was waiting for some orders and also some further developments of several different things that he had on his mind at that time. He was not sure where he would go into service when he left here Monday morning; nor was he sure of the exact kind of work that he will do. We are expecting to hear from him at any time in a few days. We are sure that whatever he does will be the best thing possible.

The "Wages of Love," by Eleanor Jones of C. I. A. tied with "Plato," by Mrs. Cahill of Baylor. These were all exceptionally good and it is only to be regretted that we did not enter any manuscripts.

Two more contests were added for the last part of this year and then are to be made permanent. The first of these is a humorous story and the next is a news article. Mr. Mussleman of Waco has offered a complete set of Mark Twain's works each year for the winning humorous story and the Press Association voted another cash prize for the news article. The humor story contest will be worked up for this year. All manuscripts are to be in by May 12.

The delegates were royally entertained while guests of Baylor. Thursday night there was a box party for them, and Friday afternoon they were given an automobile ride over the city, including a trip to Camp MacArthur. Then Friday night they had the annual banquet, which was indeed an enjoyable affair. Things were strictly informal but every one seemed to enjoy it all the more.

COLUMN OF STUDENT EXPRESSION.

It is the desire of the present editor for the students of the University to feel free in contributing to the Skiff articles of general interest to the other students of the University. It is believed that the Skiff should be a student publication and as such the students should have a right to express their views on matters of importance, either past, present or future.

However, there must necessarily be some restrictions on anything of this kind. One of these that seems perfectly just is that any student wishing to contribute such articles should sign his or her full name. The other is that the editor shall reserve the right to restrict parts or the whole, if necessary, because of extreme rabidness or undue curtness.

A boy or girl in a school of this kind should think on problems that arise from time to time in student life. If the thoughts thus generated are worthy of his belief they are certainly broad enough to let others think of them. About the only way in which such matters can be taken up publicly, without getting on the stump, is to take them up in print. This is essentially the students' paper. Let's have the student contributions.

HOWARD HILL INJURES FINGER.

Howard Hill, commonly known as Rats, had the misfortune to seriously injure his finger in the first Texas game. He was on the receiving end of the line and also was cracking them out in great style when the accident occurred.

Rats will be missed on the team. He has been Judge's understudy behind the bat and was the first substituted first baseman. On the road trip he caught the first Baylor game and played first during the next. In the Texas game he was catching when the ball hit him on the finger and drove it into his hand. To add to the glory of the situation one of the medics on the trip became over-zealous in doctoring the injured finger and blistered it with iodine. The result is that Rats will be out of the game for the rest of the season. Out of 12 trips to the plate on the road he poled seven hits.

J. W. SHOCKLEY PREACHES COMMENCEMENT SERMON

Bro. J. W. Shockley of the Bible College preached the commencement sermon for the High School of Oakwood last Sunday. It is reported that he gave a very fine address and that the people of the community were highly appreciative of his courtesy.

Mr. Shockley has been doing several things of late that warrant commendation. During the past week he held services at

TEXAS I. C. P. ASSN. MET AT BAYLOR.

At the annual meeting of the T. I. P. A., held at Baylor University this year, five schools were represented. They were C. I. A., Simmons, Trinity Baylor and T. C. U. The meeting opened Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with a two and a half hour business session, in which the work done the past year was taken up and discussed.

Friday morning the convention reopened and at this time the winning poem, essay, and short stories were read. The winning poem was "Lines to an Atheist Friend," by Mrs. Cahill of Baylor. Miss Martha Cheavens of Baylor won the essay contest with "Tagore and Indian Child Life." There was a tie for first place in the short story.

COACH DANIELS SPENDS TWO DAYS IN T. C. U.

Coach Daniels was here in the university for two days this week. He arrived here Saturday afternoon and remained until early Monday morning.

Coach Daniel has been in Austin ever since he left the university. While he has been stationed there he has been an instructor in the aviation school, teaching radio telegraphy.

Several weeks ago coach received a commission as a first lieutenant in the infantry. While he was here he was waiting for some orders and also some further developments of several different things that he had on his mind at that time. He was not sure where he would go into service when he left here Monday morning; nor was he sure of the exact kind of work that he will do. We are expecting to hear from him at any time in a few days. We are sure that whatever he does will be the best thing possible.

The "Wages of Love," by Eleanor Jones of C. I. A. tied with "Plato," by Mrs. Cahill of Baylor. These were all exceptionally good and it is only to be regretted that we did not enter any manuscripts.

Two more contests were added for the last part of this year and then are to be made permanent. The first of these is a humorous story and the next is a news article. Mr. Musselman of Waco has offered a complete set of Mark Twain's works each year for the winning humorous story and the Press Association voted another cash prize for the news article. The humor story contest will be worked up for this year. All manuscripts are to be in by May 12.

The delegates were royally entertained while guests of Baylor. Thursday night there was a box party for them, and Friday afternoon they were given an automobile ride over the city, including a trip to Camp MacArthur. Then Friday night they had the annual banquet, which was indeed an enjoyable affair. Things were strictly informal but every one seemed to enjoy it all the more.
