"BEAT TEXAS" IS CRY OF FROGS

FUTURE OF T. C. U. ASSUMES ROSY ASPECT AS BUILDINGS AND OTHER EQUIPMENT BEGIN TO LOOM AHEAD

BOARD MEETS AND TALKS OF BETTER DAYS

A Church, a Dormitory, and a Gymnasium to Be Built in the Near Future.

For the first time since the founding of Texas Christian University those most interested in the welfare of the school can look forward to the ultimate fulfillment of their dreams; for the day has come when the million-dollar endowment, which has become almost a necessity for the future development of the University, is in sight.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees held in Fort Worth last week, it was decided that at least three new buildings were necessary: a church, a dormitory, and a gymnasium. It was further decided that these three buildings should be erected in the near future.

The present Texas Christian University is hardly ten years old. In 1910, the trustees selected the site where the University now stands, at that time a lonesome-looking spot far away from everything. Since then, it has grown into a school that can boast some of the best buildings in the state. But the present buildings have proved inadequate. Each year students are turned away because there is not enough room to accommodate them. The dormitory for ministerial students has been taken for a girl's dormitory and the authorities have been compelled to convert a part of Brite College of the Bible into a home for the ministerial students.

As for a gymnasium, there is no place at present on the campus or near it where indoor contests can be held; consequently the basket ball games have to be held in the Baptist gym downtown. In fact, there is no place where the young men and young women can receive that training that is such a necessary part of modern education, nor where the student body can meet for their games and pep-meetings.

The need for a church is evident; at present the same auditorium is used for picture shows, chapel, rallies, class plays and church services.

With these new buildings soon to become a reality, T. C. U. can offer inducements to the students over the state that no other school in the country can offer. Then it is hoped that the million-dollar endowment toward which they have been working for so long will soon be gained.

In speaking of the plans for the future, President Waits said: "Never before have we been able to look forward with such hope and sureness of victory. We feel sure that before long T. C. U. will have an endowment that will make it one of the best-equipped schools in the state. The Board of Trustees

EXECUTIVES GIVE AFFAIR FOR FACULTY

Past and Future of T. C. U. Were Topics at Luncheon Recently.

One of the most enjoyable and profitable affairs of the year was held last Tuesday evening at the Fort Worth Club, when the President of the Board of Trustees and the President of Texas Christian University entertained the members of the faculty and the trustees at luncheon.

The following menu was served to the guests:

Grape fruit cocktail, broiled steak on toast, creamed potatoes, peas in cases, celery, pickles, lettuce, French dressing, ice cream, assorted cakes, demi tasse.

President E. M. Waits was toastmaster. His words of welcome to the guests were well chosen and his manner of introducing the speakers of the evening was pleasing and entertaining. The different speakers gave a most interesting review of T. C. U. from its earliest days.

Dr. Cockrell talked of "The Past T. C. U.," and Dr. C. Lockhart told of the wonderful development that had gone on since the days when the school was first founded. Van Zandt Jarvis told a very humorous tale of the trials and tribulations of a student of T. C. U. in the older days. Dr. Colby D. Hall told of the religious side of the school, and Mrs. Jarvis and Dr. Saunders spoke of the advancement the school has made in the past several years.

But possibly the talk that was most interesting to all those present was that made by Sam J. McFarland, President of the Board, on the "Future T. C. U." The plans for a greater and better University were unfolded in that short talk and every one present seemed to see a wonderful change take place in the school in which they were all so interested.

Dr. McPherson expressed resolutions of regret because there were some members of the faculty and of the Board who could not be present.

During the evening several very pleasing musical numbers were given by Mr. Uniache, Mrs. Cooper, and Miss Arlen McKenney.

Thanks Friends for Kindness.

C. N. Calmes, a student of Brite College, with his wife, has asked the Skiff to convey thanks to their friends among the students who were kind to them during their recent bereavement when they lost their first and only infant. Mr. Calmes assures his friends that the floral offerings and the many acts of personal kindness are greatly appreciated by him and his wife.

TRINITY FIVE HELPLESS AT FROGS' HANDS

First Half of Game Snappy, but Loose Playing in Last Period—Score 37-21.

The prophecy of last week wasn't far amiss. The Frogs won the next game played. Austin College and Henry Kendall will have to eat dirt in that First Baptist gym Thursday and Friday afternoons.

It was Trinity from Waxahachie this time that saw how the little old Horned Frog can eat tigers when the notion strikes him pretty hard. The score was 37 to 21. If the game had been up to standard in pep, the score would have been much larger. The first half started with the old stuff. The Trinity men were not even in the same class with the Frogs, who scored almost at will. The Trinity men managed to make about twelve points to the twenty-nine of the local five. It was simply a walk-away. Then in the last half the play was loose. Nobody seemed to care to make points, and as a result they didn't. For half of the period the score was only changed one point, when Douglass threw a foul. Finally the Frogs got hold of the loop again and scored a few more before the game ended.

As for individual work, Douglass worked mighty good at center. He not only out-jumped his man every time but he allowed him to make only two points during the entire game, while he himself scored eleven, the highest of the team. He is doing some mighty good work in the center position now. Haire and Easley threw several baskets and did good work on the floor at all times. Prinzing was the scoring king of the first half. He had an eye for the ring right. The second half he had very few chances to score. Berry played his usually great game at guard. He allowed only two easy shots for the Trinity quintette. All the rest of them were difficult, so close was his guarding.

For the visitors, Derden was the chief point getter. Twielgam was a close second to him. The rest of the team had to be satisfied with one or no baskets. The score was:

THE BRUSHES STAGE NOVEL CELEBRATION

Give Valentine Program Which Is Enjoyed by Many T. C. U. Students.

On Saturday evening, Feb. 14, the Brushes tried something new in the way of a Valentine celebration, and from the pleasure that their friends seem to have derived from it they think they will try it again on a larger scale next time.

It was a "Living Picture Show" where famous paintings were reproduced before the audience by models furnished from the Art Department. An immense Valentine, filling almost the entire stage, had been arranged with an opening large enough for the life-size figures. A spot light in appropriate colors was thrown on the figures as they appeared in the Valentine. Miss Rose Fred arranged the placards announcing each scene, and Prof. Norris was stage director. The following program was given:

A Valentine—Mary Strange. I'd Give You My Heart if I Thought You Wouldn't Break It—Ima G. Woodward.

A Valentine—Esther Haltom. Reading—Miss Sansom. The Pot of Basil—Lucile Miller.

The Broken Pitcher—Lois Moore.

Madame LeBrun and Her Daughter—Mary Clifton and Florence McDairmid.

Age of Innocence—Baby McLean.

Solo—Miss McKenney. Madame Le Brun—Geneva Horn.

T. C. U. Girl—Bertha Hensley. A Refuge—Nellie Moulden.

The Greatest Mother in the World—Maudet Hook.

The reading by Miss Sansom and solos by Miss McKenney were highly appreciated. The pictures looked very beautiful in their artistic setting and quite true to the famous models which they represented.

FINE ARTS FACULTY WILL GIVE PROGRAM

The faculty of the Fine Arts Department will give a program Monday evening in the auditorium of the Main building. The program will begin at 8:30 o'clock, and will consist of vocal and instrumental selections and readings, according to an announcement made by Dean McKee.

The recital will be a public affair, and the entire student body and visitors are invited.

Fine Arts Entertain.

The faculty of the College of Arts and Sciences was entertained in the Shirley-Walton Hall Tuesday evening by the faculty of Fine Arts Department, under the direction of Dean Carroll C. McKee. A good program was given and well received, and refreshments were served.

ALL SET FOR TRIANGULAR BOUT FRIDAY

Trinity Will Meet Defeat Here at Same Time Pirates Get Theirs in Georgetown.

The stage is set for the annual triangular debate with Trinity and Southwestern Universities, which will take place Friday evening. J. E. Sentell and Forrest McCutcheon will meet the Trinity team here, and at the same time Bryan Blalock and Cedric Hamlin will engage the Pirates in their own arena at Southwestern.

The question of the debate this year has to do with compulsory arbitration of labor troubles, and in view of its timeliness is attracting no little attention over the state. Because of the brevity of the time between the preliminaries and the finals, the T. C. U. debaters are not so well prepared as they have been in other years for the triangular meet, but they have expressed their determination to win in both contests.

T. C. U. has always produced winning debating teams, and the entire state, as well as the student body of the institution is looking forward with interest to the outcome of the annual clash.

MISS KEEBLE MADE EDITOR SENIOR SKIFF

Seniors Planning Unusually Good Edition for Next Week—Juniors Follow

Miss Dorothy Keeble was elected editor of the Senior Class Edition of the Skiff at a meeting of the class last week. Miss Keeble is now working on some original ideas for the Senior issue, and it is expected that the first class edition will set an example that will be hard to emulate by the other classes. Miss Keeble has been on the staff of the Skiff as Y. W. C. A. reporter during this year, and is considered unusually competent to edit the Senior Class edition.

The Senior Skiff will be published under date of February 25, and will be followed by the Junior Edition, which in turn will be followed by the Sophomore and Freshman issues. Much class spirit is already being shown, and it is expected that the rivalry will be keen.

TWENTY-MINUTE CAR SERVICE IS REALITY

The plea of the students of T. C. U. for more adequate car service has at last been heeded by the traction company, and instead of thirty-minute car service as heretofore a certain hour of the afternoon, twenty-minute service is given all day. The service is doing a great deal toward eliminating the congestion, and the student body is grateful to the traction company for granting its request.

RUTHERFORD PREDICTS BIG BALL SEASON

Captain of T. C. U. Nine Sees Nothing But Victory in Sight for Frogs.

Inasmuch as this is the beginning of the baseball season I have been requested to make a prophecy regarding said season. With things lined up as they now are, the material in hand, coach, etc., and with the proper backing by the student body and faculty, we should enjoy one of the best seasons ever. As yet our schedule is not completed, but we have twenty-three games, some of them with the leading schools of the state, such as Texas University, A. & M., and others. We have not matched Rice and S. M. U. as yet, but hope to soon.

The first games of the season are with Denton Normal here and East Texas State Normal; these games will be more or less practice affairs. The first real game will be with Texas University, at Austin. We will be satisfied with one of these games for we get a comeback at them later in the season on the home grounds. We have four games with Southwestern and expect to win at least three of these. We also have four with Trinity University and expect to win the majority of those also. A. & M. comes here for two games and we can't afford to lose either of those, as they would then have grounds on which to dispute our right to the State Championship.

We also play Austin College two games and Simmons four, but we must win these. We play Baylor two games there, and we are going to get revenge for our defeat by them in football.

This prophecy is written merely from the present outlook, and of course we may not do as well as we expect to, but we are all from Missouri when it comes to that; they'll have to show us.

J. SCOTT RUTHERFORD.

WEEKLY PROGRAM OF STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

At the weekly meeting of the Student Volunteer Band, held in the Brite College Chapel, Friday, Feb. 20, the following program will be given:

- Devotional—Fred Norris.
- Shanghai—John H. Luck.
- Chuchow—Miss Gladys Smith
- Luchowfu—Miss Hallie Strange.
- Waumeichow—Russell Smith.
- Music—Ladies' Quartet.
- Nantunghow—Miss Julia Walker.
- Nanking—Miss Lorena Stuart
- Wuhu—Miss Lillie Bell Ray.
- Needs of Our Boards—To be supplied.
- Benediction.

The famous Belgian Trio, who furnished the music at the Belgian King's reception to President Wilson, came to Waco Feb. 9 and presented a splendid program at Carroll Chapel under the auspices of the Waco Lion's Club.

FORGING AHEAD.

T. C. U. is moving with swift, yet stately tread to take her place with the really first class schools. Every day we hear some one remark the great strides which the institution is taking toward the coveted goal.

The Board of Trustees met the other day. Those men decided that T. C. U. must be pushed to the front with all possible haste. They opined that an institution of this size must have a new church building. They averred in no uncertain terms that the new program must include a new gymnasium—not a few clapboards thrown together as a temporary shack, but a modern, permanent one. They further declared that the need of a new dormitory was so obvious as to permit of no argument. The climax of all their interesting discussion was the announcement that these buildings would be erected ere many moons have come and gone.

Not the least among the objectives of the management of T. C. U. is the small matter of a million dollars endowment. The Trustees declare that they know where they can get part of that sum, and they believe that they can find out where the rest of it will come from. It is enough to say that a group of men who want what they want when they want it usually brings home the bacon.

PLAYING THE GAME.

You may not think very much of it now, but in after years, when you look back upon your days of preparation, you will begin to count the cost. You will begin to wonder if you have played the game just exactly right—if you have been square in every activity of college life. If you have played according to the rules, there will come a great satisfaction. If you have cheated your way through your courses, if you have lied your way into the confidence of friends, there must come an opposite reaction.

It is deplorable, yet true, that there are some individuals who set rigid honesty at a very small premium. It is not that they want to be dishonest, but it is due entirely to thoughtlessness. Those same individuals would scorn to take an unfair advantage of an opponent in an athletic contest, yet when they come into the classroom, they are not so honest with themselves.

This is no trivial matter. It has to do with the future success of every student who makes a practice of it. The man who plays the game fairly in the classroom, chances are, will treat his fellows with the same consideration when he gets out into the world. It is also true that no man receives a worse end of the deal than the man who takes the unfair advantage.

There are too many profiteers and grafters in the world today. What we need is men who are anxious to give their fellow men the biggest end of the deal. Play the game squarely.

PHRESHMAN PHANCIES.

We have noticed one difference between olden times and Nowadays: They used to rent their garments when they feared the anger of the gods; now they rent them when they go to Junior-Senior banquets.

And then they called it the pillory; now they call it formal evening dress.

'S funny thing, but no matter how many letters a man wins on the athletic field, none is so welcome as that periodical misssive which contains the all-important check.

Then there are other letters—of course.

Mary had a little man,
So nice and cute and meek;
He followed her around so much
She's campussed for a week.

Moral: Treat 'em rough.

ANNIBEL FEELS BETTER;
DISCUSSES SANITATION

Dear, sweet Ethyle,
I bet you know already that I feel a lot better tonight than I did the last time I wrote you. I don't know what WAS the matter that night. I must have surely had something to eat that didn't agree with me, because I certainly did have a life-size grouch on.

Aw, there went one of those dinky telephone bells that we've got all screwed up on our walls. You know I wrote you that I heard some of the Powers that Be talking about how we were going to have phones by the dozens over here? Well, don't get excited. We aren't a bit stylish-er than we were. I think they must have found a sale on phones down at Kress or somewhere. They look just about like the kind you get when you are on the railroad going somewhere full of candy, Ethyle. And all the far you can talk is from one floor to the other, Ethyle. And nobody has ever called me up on one of them, and so I haven't answered them at all. But I just bet you cant hear a thing over them, because all the time I hear girls yelling "Huh? Huh?" and sounds like to me that they never can tell who's wanted. Anyhow, I'm glad that one isn't screwed up on my wall, for I do know to my soul that I cut the wires about the second day, for they ring all the time, and it's bad enough when you live a good piece away from it. I thought that we'd have more phones to talk to town over or something useful. Why, I don't need any infantile telephone, that more'n likely you can't hear over after all, to get in connection with any of the girls on these floors. Thank Heaven, I've still got my lungs, and my throat, too, and so I'll just not indulge in the contraption until they give out.

I was in a store the other day down town when an inspector was investigating some unsanitary conditions, and I just thought that that man would quit his job if he had to eat off of one of the plated that we have out here. I don't guess that he'll come out here tho'. Still, you never can tell. Mistakes will happen in the best regulated boarding places. And after all, the plates aren't as dirty as the glasses, come to think about it. But, anyhow, I'm glad we've got the cafeteria, because now we don't have to go to breakfast unless we want to, and I do believe, Ethyle, that I'd eat out the plate with Joe's cats or a trough with somebody's pigs than get up some of these good old sleepy mornings.

I heard the other day that all the professors were going to be raised 25 per cent on their salaries. Now, all I've got to say is, that if any of them think that just because they're getting to be better paid that they ought to make their courses any harder, that I'd just as soon they hadn't got any raise, and then some! Why, I'd rather they'd a-got that 25 per cent taken OFF their salaries than have any more to do right now. Honest, Ethyle, you don't know how favored you are to be hearing from me. Why, it's just like getting a note from "Woody" Wilson, or somebody like that whose time is all occupied with vital affairs. Sure enough, I am so busy that I never do get time to wash my stockings, or handkerchiefs or anything domestic like that. I just change from pair to pair with the stockings, letting the other pair air while I wear one pair, and just assuming that the air-bath is equivalent to a water-bath, which, as you know, Ethyle, is not very good logic, when you come to considering the delicate matter of hose. And as for handkerchiefs—well, I've already had one cold, and I haven't had time to wash them, and I don't know whatever in the world I would do, or COULD do, if I were to catch another cold right now, before I have time to let them soak, at least.

I had my picture made for the Horned Frog the other day, and Ethyle, I didn't know I was such a nice-looking girl. They flattered me some, I'll admit, but then they were just good likenesses, too. It's nearly always the case that the photographer can't get a good picture of me, but lemme tell you! I certainly did get done justice this time. I will send you one. I know you will be proud of it, too. I am glad that you are going to be.

One thing that bothers me, Ethyle, is that everybody out here is rushing the season in clothes. Why, at this rate, everybody else will have their fall hats, and coats, too, I guess, before I ever get my spring hat.

Now, I know it's all very well to be stylish and early, and all of that, but it seems to me that there ought to be moderation in all things. Now, it may be "sour grapes" with me, but then sure nuff Ethyle, I don't believe I'd like to get so far ahead of myself, for fear I'd get caught out in a snow in a summer dress, and get froze to death or die of a sudden sun-stroke in a fur coat some day. Still, for all my being sensible, and you know me, Ethyle, I am always that—sensible if nothing else, that's me, Ethyle, just as I used to be! As I say, for all my sensibility, I wouldn't mind having one of those new perky kind of dresses that are all ruffles all over. But I know I am going to wait until the style of hats changes. I never could look very good in this style that turns clear back without ever thinking of casting an obliging shadow over your most prominent defects. Yessir, I am going to wait until the style changes. Very probably, by the time I have made up my mind—in a week or so—the new fall hats will be in, and so I guess I will save an unnecessary expense, after all.

The lights have winked, and I have to study, and I am not supposed to have a light, you know, and so I have to stop, and fix so I won't get caught "with the goods."

Lovingly, even if it is hurriedly,
ANNIBEL.

$250,000,000
BEING SOUGHT
BY COLLEGES

Harvard Fund of $15,250,000
Fast Approaching the $12,000,000 Figure.

New York, Feb. 18.—That following the example set by Harvard, more than one quarter of a billion dollars is now being sought for additional endowment by hundreds of institutions of higher learning in this country, is pointed out by Eliot Wadsworth, chairman of the Harvard Endowment Fund, in an article which he has written for the March issue of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine. The Harvard Fund of $15,250,000 is fast approaching the $12,000,000 figure.

Mr. Wadsworth has gone to Europe to attend the first congress of the League of Red Cross Societies in Geneva as one of five American delegates. He was former vice-chairman of the American Red Cross, and because of his work in that organization he recently received the Distinguished Service Medal awarded by the President.

"The fact that individuals had any definite responsibility to the maintenance of our educational machinery was hardly recognized," said Mr. Wadsworth. "Citizens voted once a year for members of the School Board. College Alumni voted at Commencement for Alumni Directors and members of the Governing Board. This, to a large extent, was the measure of our interest and thought."

Looking back over the last six months since the Harvard Fund was started, Mr. Wadsworth says:

"It may be safely said that Harvard has played a very important part in leading this movement. While making the first plans for the campaign it was determined that the publicity for the Harvard Endowment Fund should have two objects: First, to show the need of Harvard; second, and far more important, to show the serious situation which confronted all educational work."

These objects have since been achieved, for the country has been aroused to the need of supporting higher education. There is a story, too, that is told in this connection. A well-known banker has asserted that the Harvard Endowment Fund caused him to realize what he owed his alma mater for the start she gave him in life.

In the course of the article, Mr. Wadsworth says:

The Power of Electricity in Transportation

ELECTRICITY has leveled out the Continental Divide. The steam locomotive, marvelous as it is after a century of development, cannot meet all of the present demands for transportation facilities. Its electric rival has proved to be far superior.

On the mountain divisions of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway—the world's greatest electrification—giant electric locomotives today lift an ever increasing freight tonnage over the mile-high Rockies and also make traveling clean and comfortable. They utilize the abundant energy of distant waterfalls and then, by returning some of this power to the trolley, safely brake the trains on descending grades. And their capabilities are not impaired by excessively cold weather when the steam engine is frozen and helpless.

Electricity is the power which drives the trains of New York City's subway and elevated systems. It operates the locks and tows the ships through the Panama Canal. It propels the Navy's latest super-dreadnaught, the New Mexico. Electric mine locomotives have replaced the slow-moving mule and the electric automobile has also come to do an important service. Such achievements were made possible by the extensive research and manufacturing activities of the General Electric Company.

Electricity has become the universal motive power. It has contributed efficiency and comfort to every form of transportation service and in this evolution General Electric apparatus has played a large part—from mighty electric locomotives to the tiny lamp for the automobile.

Some Advantages of Railroad Electrification

- Saving the Nation's coal
- Lower maintenance costs.
- Greater reliability and fewer delays.
- Ability to haul smoothly heavier trains at higher speed.
- Operation of electric locomotives unaffected by extreme cold.
- Ability to brake trains on descending grades by returning power to the trolley.

methods for bringing this about are suggested, nearly every one of which involves more education.

"And so, side by side, have arisen these two great changes in public sentiment: First, a sense of responsibility among individuals for the support of the educator and the upholding of the standard of education; second, the realization of the enormous importance of universal and proper education in the future development of America."

Mr. Wadsworth lays stress upon the practical support given by the late Henry C. Frick, who "wrote in his will a testimonial as to his opinion of the value and importance of our institutions of higher learning." Mr. Rockefeller, he says, "has expressed, in no uncertain terms, his feeling as to the importance of higher education to this country by his gift of $50,000,000 for distribution among colleges of the country."

SOCIETY

Announcements have been received by members of the faculty which read as follows: "The Khem Club entertaining in honor of the Faculty the last evening in February at eight o'clock. Administration Building, Texas Christian University." The Khem Club is a newly formed organization of the students and professors of chemistry, and is rapidly gaining recognition as a wide awake group.

Mrs. Cahoon Entertains.

A number of T. C. U. students received invitations to a Valentine party given by Mrs. Frederick M. Cahoon in her home on Ninth Avenue, Feb. 14. The house was made very attractive with red hearts and other Valentine decorations. An entertaining program of instrumental and vocal music was given. Miss Elizabeth Fouts, a T. C. U. student, and sister of the hostess, sang three selections which proved her unusual talent and ability. After this, a cup of tea and various other dainties were enjoyed by the number of friends and students present.

Pretty Home Wedding.

A wedding of interest to many T. C. U. people took place at the home of Prof. and Mrs. Cockrell on Sunday, Feb. 15, at 5:30, when Pattie Anna Richardson was married to Normand H. East. The bride was a graduate in Art in 1917 and this year was teaching art at Carr-Burdette College, Sherman, Tex. Mr. East is a ranchman from Kingsville. Miss Beulah Bell played the wedding march as the wedding party, consisting of the bride and groom, Miss Hill and Mr. Tadlock, entered the living room where an altar was arranged in front of the fireplace with ferns and spring blossoms.

Prof. Cockrell spoke a very impressive ring ceremony before a few guests and relatives. The bride wore a spring coat suit of blue serge, and her corsage bouquet was fusions and violets. The couple left immediately for San Antonio, and from there they will make their home.

Shirley-Walton Reception.

Few affairs thus far held during the winter term have been termed so delightful as the Valentine party given by the Shirley-Walton Literary Societies in their hall Friday evening. Miss Potsie Garrett played several Jazz selections on the piano, and an impromptu orchestra also made music during the course of the evening. All new Shirleys who contemplated entering the New Men's Contest were given an opportunity to make brief talks, and all who were present responded.

have been levied to meet this universal cry from a hard-pressed profession.

"Together with the growing sense of the danger threatening our institutions, there has come a constantly growing cry for more education. The steel strike, the coal strike, the evident need for better Americanization have developed writers and orators galore, all raising their voices in the same cause. More and better education for the masses; a higher and broader intellectual development of the college students, has been advocated in no uncertain terms. No political speech is complete without its mentions of our needs for better Americanization—which means, as a fundamental, better education. No discussion of the industrial problems which confront the country fails to bring forth the need of a better understanding between employer and employee. Many tees is standing behind the movement for better equipment, and not one thing that was asked of them did they refuse."

Such is the prospect of the future T. C. U. With the endowment will come other things; possibly the longed-for library building will become a fact and the equipment for some of the other departments that would make for higher efficiency take a tangible form. With such things in view, the future success of the University is assured.

ROSENTHAL IS WORKING NOW ON BIG BAND

Fine Arts Faculty is Fast Reviving Musical Features Until Recently Missed.

Under the direction of Dean Carroll C. McKee of the Fine Arts Department, T. C. U. is fast regaining and reviving some of the musical features which have been missed from the school life during the present term.

Just recently the student body had the pleasure of again hearing an orchestra in chapel. Prof. Ralph R. Uniacke, head of the Violin Department, is building up an orchestra which bids fair to be equal to the best orchestra T. C. U. has ever produced. He is working now on a concert which he promises will be given soon.

Prof. Rosenthal, of the Wind Instrument Department, is also far from idle. He is working diligently with the end in view of producing a band of thirty-five or forty pieces. The great need of a band in keeping up the spirit of the student body has been remarked, and not only is Prof. Rosenthal promising a large band for use at the athletic contests, but he also holds out the promise of the old-time campus concerts. Prof. Rosenthal will direct the music at the Annual Stock Show of the Texas Cattleraisers' Association, which will be held in Fort Worth soon.

State University.

An accident, an acid explosion, occurred last week in the laboratory of the Bureau of Economic Geology and Technology. The material damage, however, was very slight, and the accident was said to be entirely unavoidable.

The general health conditions of the University are good. The doctors report only 28 students in the hospital, most of the cases being of a light type of influenza.

The Pre-Medics have planned a Jazz Leap Year Holiday Party for Feb. 20.

B-Hall anecdotes are being collected, which will include the most humorous incidents connected with the history of the hall. Letters are being sent out to the former students of this hall, requesting them to submit to the Archives Committee all anecdotes which would add to this interesting collection.

Oklahoma A. & M.

The new gymnasium has been opened and the Y. M. C. A. given new quarters there. Also the swimming pool is now open to students upon a deposit of $2.50 fee and a physical examination.

An athletic carnival is to be staged in March. All the college organizations are to take part in the competition for prizes. Everyone who enters the carnival will be masked, and all who can will be expected to go costumed. Prizes are to be given for the best costumes.
