ANNUAL RECEPTION OF OLD STUDENTS TO NEW WAS ONE OF MOST BRILLIANT IN YEARS

HORNED FROG SALE BEGINS IN GOOD SEASON

Friday morning in chapel the members of the Senior class launched the campaign for the selling of Horned Frogs for the coming year. Plans for the publishing of the annual were placed before the student body in a very interesting way by the following speakers: Bryan Blalock, business manager of the Annual, spoke of the plans of raising the necessary amount for putting out the book, and also made very clear the need for every student to buy his Frog soon. Then Forrest McCutcheon, editor-in-chief, placed the matter before the students in regard to the literary end of the annual, and also brought out the matter of photography. Mr. Elliott followed this with a short talk on the school loyalty and what it means not to own a Frog, and then Dean Hall expressed his viewpoint from the faculty's view.

Plans for the book are well under way, and if students make their payments at once we are assured that we will have the books off the press by the 25th of May. This should be one great inducement for the students to purchase their Frogs now. It was brought to light that the contract with the printer calls for 500 books. This means that every student and member of the faculty must buy a Frog. Be loyal to the University. Don't go home next spring regretting that you do not have a Frog. Do it now! It is important!

The annual Old Student's Reception, held at Jarvis Hall on the evening of Friday, Sept. 17, was one of the most brilliant and most successful fetes of its kind ever attended on this campus. The affair is given every year at the beginning of the fall term, and is designed to welcome the new students within the walls of the University and to give every one a chance to become acquainted with every one else.

Nobody could ask for a more ideal evening than that with which the weather man favored the entertainment Friday evening. There were an autumn moon and a clear sky that harmonized admirably with the gay spirits of every student present, and a pleasant breeze continued throughout the evening to fan the multitudinous throng that surged around the front door of Jarvis like bees around the door of the hive on an afternoon in June. Barring the punch and the ice cream, the breeze was the coolest element in evidence, for there was a warmth in the cordiality of every old student which defied any crust of ice to form.

In the absence of a president of the student body, Forrest McCutcheon, a member of the Senior Class and Editor-in-Chief of the 1921 Horned Frog, acted as master of ceremonies, making an appropriate opening talk. He invited Overton Abernathy, president-elect of the student body who was prevented from returning to school this year, to say something, and "Abe" responded with a brief but well received speech, pledging his spiritual support to every activity of the school this year. Miss Lorraine Sherley, popular member of the sophomore class, spoke a few well chosen words of welcome, and was vigorously ap-

Every Student a Subscriber

The first two or three issues of the Skiff have been distributed promiscuously over the campus in order to acquaint the new students with the nature of the publication, but this is the last issue to receive free distribution. Hereafter the Skiff will go to subscribers only. Many have subscribed already, and many have not had an opportunity. This opportunity will be given to all very soon, and every student will be expected to do his part. The price on the hill for the entire school year is only $1.25, and if you wish to send a copy home, you may have the two for $1.75. BE LOYAL! SUBSCRIBE AT ONCE!

NEW GIRLS ARE MADE TO FEEL AT HOME HERE

Y. W. C. A. Starts A "Big Sister" Movement; Much Interest Taken by Girls.

With the opening of school the Y. W. C. A. has renewed its work with much interest and enthusiasm. The Big Sister movement started by the Young Women's Christian Association has been very successful. The freshman girls have entered into the spirit of school life with unusual enthusiasm owing to the efforts of the old girls to make them feel at home.

T. C. U. was well represented at the Estes Park, Colo., conference the past summer, having the largest delegation in the Southwestern field, while Texas had next to the largest delegation in the whole conference. Much valuable help was gained by attending this conference, and as a result the Y. W. C. A. of T. C. U. is expecting to do many things this year to make it one of the strongest organizations in the institution.

The old students are very anxious to have the new students co-operate with them in making the Y. W. C. A. one of the outstanding features of the school year.

"Is it possible for a young lady to work her way through school?" writes a prospective. It was last year, dear lady, when we had the pay-as-you-enter cafeteria system—and the boys were good-natured.

plauded.

In order to allow the old students to discover the new students and make them feel at home, the old game of "tongue dancing" or "progressive conversation" was indulged for the remainder of the evening. An orchestra, composed of Hannibal McConnell, Lee Chatham, and a group of Fort Worth musicians, made excellent music for the "dance." Each selection was played through three times while the partners strolled on the campus or "sat it out." Pretty programs were furnished for the purpose, and no pretty freshman girl had any trouble in filling her list.

Punch was at the disposal of the merry-makers, throughout the evening, and further refreshments of ice cream and wafers were enjoyed.

JOINT POLICY OF SOCIETIES IS DISCUSSED

Organizations Planning to Put Selves on A More Dignified Footing.

The literary societies of Texas Christian University are going to be conducted on a much more dignified basis if plans of the Add-Ran-Clark and Shirley-Walton societies are carried out. This announcement came as the result of a joint meeting of committees appointed from the various organizations Wednesday night. At the same meeting a sub-committee was elected for the purpose of drawing up an agreement, which is expected to change the present system to a considerable degree.

It is well known that the tactics employed by the societies at the present time have tended to lower the standards for a number of years. It has been the custom in the past, and is the plan followed even now, to "rush" every new student at his first appearance on the campus and regale him with all sorts of inducements to enlist in one of the rival organizations. Directly the rush season is over, it is pointed out, the societies settle down into a state of lethargy which requires another opening of school to arouse the members.

It is planned by the new method to put all the societies on a much higher plane. Instead of having any "rushing," no society will accept any student into its body within a period of six weeks or two months, and then admission will be by petition from the student himself. It is thought that by this time the new student will have proved himself sufficiently to be accepted or rejected by the organization to which he applies for admission, and the standards of the societies will be appreciably raised by virtue of such a dignifying procedure. The committee drafting the agreement will report Monday.

IN SCHOOL OF MINES.

Paxton Dow, a former student of T. C. U., is now in Socorro, N. M., attending the State School of Mines with a view to developing into a mining engineer. Paxton writes the Skiff that his school spirit is still with the Frogs and that he hopes to see them come out victorious in football.

FORMAL OPENING OF FORTY-EIGHTH YEAR AUGURS WELL FOR FORWARD STRIDE OF T. C. U.

The forty-eighth year of the life of Texas Christian University will be the most glorious of her history, if the formal opening exercises, held in the auditorium Tuesday morning, can be accepted as a criterion.

With every student in his place, and the platform filled with the most likely looking faculty ever assembled under one roof, the situation augured exceedingly well for the year's work. The faces of the new students who were setting foot for the first time into college halls were aglow with expectation, and the faces of old students, who at the close of school last year were indifferent and weary, were set with new determination and bathed in the light of a renewed purpose.

President Waits opened the exercises with a few preliminary remarks of explanation and adjurement, and introduced Ralph R. Uniacke and Miss Bertha Ann Cooper, who delighted the audience with evidences of their artistic skill. Mr. Uniacke is head of the Department of Violin and a recognized artist. Miss Cooper is the director of the Voice Department, and possesses one of the most pleasing soprano voices ever heard in T. C. U.

After the president had introduced the various members of the faculty to the students, he presented the speaker of the occasion, Dr. Graham Frank, pastor of the Central Christian Church of Dallas. President Waits took the opportunity to

1921 HORNED FROG WILL BE WORK OF ART

That the 1921 Horned Frog will be the biggest and most unique yet published is already assured, according to the Editor-in-Chief. Long before last year's annual was delivered some very effective work was done on this year's Frog, in the way of gathering material, the selection of the staff, and in planning the book in general.

The book this year will contain 300 pages, which is 75 pages more than in last year's annual. The contract for printing the annual calls for 500 copies, which means that every student and faculty member must buy his copy of the Frog this year and do it soon. The book will be bound in beautiful brown mallow leather with the pillars of the main building engraved on the front cover.

The staff as has been selected is as follows:

Forrest McCutcheon, Editor-in-Chief; Bryan Blalock, Business Manager; Tony Pecora, Circulation Manager; Ernest Ligon, Athletic Editor; Basie Durrett, Art Editor; Dorene Gee, Assistant Editor.

First Freshman—What have you done with all your pictures? Your walls look awfully bare.

Newly Elected Dispenser of Pep Making Good; Rubenstein Says Mouthful in Very Few Words

"The man who goes to T. C. U. must eat, sleep, and talk T. C. U."

These words were spoken by C. C. Rubenstein, of Sanger Bros., in one of the peppiest pep meetings ever held on the T. C. U. campus, Wednesday evening, and spelled the secret of the unbroken line of triumphs which is soon to follow. Mr. Rubenstein is the man who says "we" whenever he has occasion to speak of T. C. U., and he has fully demonstrated that he means to make that "we" mean more than a pleasant sound. "Rube" stands behind the old team through thick and thin.

As has been stated, Wednesday evening's meeting was marked with the greatest amount of enthusiasm that has been seen in the halls of T. C. U. in a long time. Bailey Diffie, the "pepper shaker," was at his best, and showed his ability as a cheer leader in a magnificent way, having always at his command the proper yell properly propounded. The students were irrepressible, and even the new students were not to be outdone, displaying a remarkable faculty for learning the unfamiliar yells and songs.

Most members of the football squad were on the platform and became the object of the greater part of the cheering. Heinie Prinzing, who recently resigned his position as captain of the football team because of injuries received in a baseball game last spring, was cheered most enthusiastically, and every student wished heartily that old Heinie might be in condition to display his prowess on the field this year. As a Freshman in 1917, Prinzing was a powerful factor in the defeat of the Bears, his own townsmen.

The pep meeting demonstrated one thing very clearly, and that was that the student body is going to stand behind the old team this year unflinchingly, and that for every defeat we suffered last year we are going to register an overwhelming victory this fall.

Freshmen Elect True Southern Gentleman to Pilot Them Thru Difficulties of Their Initial Year

The Freshman Class, or the Class of 1924, assembled in chapel Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock and elected Mr. Arthur Hunter to guide them through the coming year as president. We wish to congratulate the Freshman Class on the wise choice that was made in the selection of the gentleman who was elected. It has been said by several that no nobler southern gentleman could be found than the lucky Mr. Hunter. The election of the president of the Freshman Class is always one of much seriousness and deliberation on the part of those interested.

In the opening of the meeting Mr. McCutcheon, who acted as chairman, placed the proposition before the Freshmen in a way that they could not help realizing the seriousness of the situation and of the fact that their future record lay in the selection of a good and noble leader. After nominations were called for for the position of president of the great class of '24; Mr. Diffie, a last year's "Academy" student and a Freshman this year, made an illustrious discourse on a man that was in his mind to lead the class through the year. After speaking some twenty minutes he nominated Mr. Johnnie Greer to act as the skipper of the Freshman Class. Immediately Mr. Pecora, a Senior, took the floor, and in behalf of the Freshman Class, told them of the joke that Mr. Diffie was trying to pull and pointed out the fact that Mr. Greer was the negro janitor of Clark Hall. He then told the students that the man he desired was a man that had been in Allen Academy and was a man of great repute as an athlete and as a speaker. This man was Mr. Arthur Hunter. Mr. Elliott made also a very eloquent appeal to the class to disregard the statements of Mr. Diffie and moved that Mr. Hunter be elected by acclamation. This was followed by a second from Mr. Douglas, who spoke very highly of Mr. Hunter, as he said he was well acquainted with the candidate. The vote was unanimous in favor of Mr. Hunter and he was ushered in by Mr. Hamlin. His office is in the basement of Clark Hall, where he rubs down the athletes and is known by all the boys as "Blackie," and his name tells us of his facial color. He expressed the fact this morning in an interview that he expected to rule well and that he believed his class to be one of the best he had ever seen.

EXECUTIVE STAFF
THOS. E. DUDNEY, Editor
FORREST McCUTCHEON, Bus. Mgr.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the postoffice at Fort Worth, Texas.

Devoted to the promotion of a wholesome spirit of co-operation within the walls of Texas Christian University first, last, and all the time. Pledged to the support of high ideals. Committed to the task of reflecting the progress of the school in such a way that the outside world may be convinced that T. C. U. is the center of real and broadening culture.

THE WHY OF IT

We don't pretend to be an observing sage upon whose words open-mouthed listeners hang and destinies hinge. We don't even pretend to know anything. But we have observed that there is less driftwood around T. C. U. than around most institutions of higher learning. In other words, most of the young men and women who attend this institution know whence they came and whither they are driving. No better recommendation, in our opinion, could be given a school than that it attracts students with serious purposes and definite ideals.

What is learning? Pope said "A little learning is a dangerous thing." That is, we think it was Pope. Then it was that Roman gentleman, Festus, who told the apostle Paul that much learning had made him (Paul) mad. Evidently, then, he believed that much learning could drive a man to lunacy. There we have two acknowledged authorities, the one calling a little learning dangerous, and the other claiming the same property for much learning. How are we going to know when we have acquired the happy medium?

We are going to defy both these eminent individuals and go on record as saying that learning is not dangerous in any sized dose—provided it is taken seriously and applied to the every-day problems which confront us at every turn. Too many students accept their courses merely as courses, neglecting to see the practical, preferring to swallow the theoretical in convenient capsules and get university credit for it. But the student who can study philosophy or social science or the Book of books and find mirrored in it himself and his neighbor in their every-day political and social relations, has discovered an effective antidote for the poison which, according to Pope, lurks in the cup of learning.

Long live learning—a la common sense!

The same story comes to us every year—that the students of Texas Christian University are not patronizing Skiff advertisers. Students, this is important! We must create the spirit among ourselves to patronize those business men who are making it possible for our weekly paper to be published. Show them that you appreciate what they are doing for you, and in return visit their houses of business. Tell them all that you are from T. C. U.

CLARKS HOLD FEAST HONORING NEW GIRLS

"All girls aer invited to a feast parlors of Jarvis, 9 p. m., Saturday, Sept. 25—Clarks," read the hand-painted posters announcing the annual Clark spread. At the appointed hour the folding doors of Jarvis parlor were thrown open, displaying a beautifully decorated table, set in picnic style for a hundred and fifty hungry girls.

A large basket of grapes adorned the center of the table, and about it were arranged cut flowers, honeysuckle vines, and thistles. At each plate lay a little gold card tied with blue ribbon, carrying out the Clark color scheme. On this was the following menu:

- Potato a la Chip
- Salad a la Clark Chicken
- Freshie Crush
- Add-Ran Special
- T. C. U. Extra

As soon as all were seated, a picture of the table and the group of iglrs was taken for the Horned Frog.

The feasters were honored by having with them four old Clarks: Mrs. Alexander, Beulah Bell, Mary Hefner and Mary Biggerstaff.

When the feast was finished, a pageant was artistically given by Marylee Pinkerton, Edwina Day and Bonita Martin. The singing of "T. C. U. Team" was an appropriate finale for the party.

AT PRINCETON.

It makes no difference where they go, the old T. C. U. students always write back for the news and ask what the old "gang" is doing. We have a letter from Hugh Halsell and Robert Hugh Easley, who are both in Princeton, and ask that the Skiff be sent them. They are liking the Yankee land very much, they write.

THE EXALTED FRAUD.

Our Editor's a knowing guy,
Folks say he has a noble bean;
That coopt within his coco lie
A flock of classic thought's serene.
His wondrous corrugated nut,
They say is crammed with learned lore;
That he's a perspicacious mutt,
And that his mind's a store.

He's played his system long and free
And he enjoys a glorious rep
For erudite capacity
And brainy skill and mental pep.
His lofty corrugated dome
Is peopled with a vast array
Of dreamy truths that make their home
Beneath his lid—so people say.

But I'm here to prognosticate
That he is due to have a bump,
For I've a grievance to relate
Against this artful shamming chump.
He takes the glory and applause
Then cackles like a laying hen,
He gets away with it because
The work's all done by other men.

BEAUTY AND THE DICTIONARY.

She lived next door—a damsel fair,
With eyes of blue, and—oh, her hair
Was glistening like pure, radiant gold
That's spun by fabled nymphs of old.

I've watched her at her case-ment as she whiled long hours thru.
I've seen her in the mornings as fresh as diamond dew.
I've gazed as from afar upon her pretty lithesome form,
And heard her cheery laughter in sunshine and in storm.
But never have I spoken to this

Modern Motive Might

MOUNTAINS, miles and minutes give way before electricity, the magic motive power. Properly applied, it drives giant locomotives across the continental divide, tows ocean liners through the Panama Canal, or propels huge ships.

Through good light, safe signals, and illuminated highways, it is making travel better and safer and also is increasing the usefulness of transportation methods on land, sea or in the air.

In short, electricity is revolutionizing transportation, making it quicker, safer, more economical and reliable in all sorts of weather.

And back of this development in electric transportation, in generating and transmitting apparatus as well as motive mechanisms, are the co-ordinated scientific, engineering and manufacturing resources of the General Electric Company, working to the end that electricity may better serve mankind.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY ACCLAMATION

J. W. Boultinghouse was elected President of the Student Body at a meeting Wednesday evening, and Tony Pecora was elected vice-president. The officers were elected by acclamation as there was no opposition.

The action was taken following the withdrawal of Bryan B. Blalock from the race for the presidency. Both Boultinghouse and Blalock were candidates for the office last spring, when Overton Abernathy was elected president of the student body and Reub Berry was elected vice president.

When it became evident that the newly elected officers would not return to school this year, it was necessary to hold an election to fill the vacancies. Miss Ethel Ellis, secretary-treasurer, and the only remaining officer of the student body, called an election for Friday. However, it was not necessary to hold this election as the race narrowed down to one candidate for each office sought.

Miss Beulah Bell spent the past week end at home.

STUDENTS MARRY AND REMAIN STUDENTS.

MISS COOPER ORGANIZING A GIRLS' GLEE CLUB.

Miss Bertha Ann Cooper, head of the Voice Department, announces that the organization of a Girls' Glee Club is well under way. Many girls with excellent voices have reported to her, and prospects are good for a successful club. However, she is in need of a few more voices, particularly second altos, she says.

The glee club is considered a splendid opportunity for girls who wish to sing, as it will be under the personal direction of Miss Cooper, who is a recognized artist.

remark jokingly upon the relative merits of the two rival cities, Dallas and Fort Worth.

Dr. Frank replied in kind, using several minutes of his time in flailing the president and the Panther City unmercifully. The two men are old schoolmates, and the speaker's opening pleasantries were felt to be altogether in place, as they put the young audience in an attitude of attention for the profoundly thoughtful address that followed. In the course of his speech Dr. Frank contrasted the shrinking, cringing spirit of Hamlet in Shakespeare's great tragedy with the indomitable will of Rupert Brook, the handsome and accomplished Briton who, on his way to the heart of Egypt to fight for his country, said, "God be thanked Who matched us with this hour." The speaker declared that the latter spirit only can restore the world to a sound basis. He said that the war had left ruin upon ruin, but that these ruins were not confined to brick and mortar. He said that the ruins which challenge the attention of college men and women today are the moral and spiritual ruins that will have to be patched up.

Dr. Frank closed his address with the declaration that there is no hope for the restoration of the world until the educated men and women make it their business to serve instead of to make money. No man has a right, he said, to ply his trade or operate a business for no other purpose than to make money, any more than the preacher has a right to preach just for money. The speaker was eloquent in his denunciation of "cheap politicians" who allow their personal or party aspirations to come between them and justice for the world. When Dr. Frank had finished, the student body showed its appreciation of his address by hearty applause.

SHIRLEY SOCIETY ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

The Shirley Literary Society met in the auditorium Monday, and an election of officers was held. As no officers were elected at the close of the school term in the spring, J. Wylie Harris acted as chairman. The following officers were elected:

Astynax Douglass, President; Heinie Prinzing, Vice President; John Bradley Jr., Secretary, and Will Hill Acker, Treasurer.

A committee composed of Lorraine Dutton, Earl Dudney, and Edwin Kane was appointed to meet with President Douglass and a committee from the Walton Society with a view to standardizing the literary societies of the school.

PUBLIC SPEAKING IS INTEGRAL DEPARTMENT

Due to some unintentionally erroneous publicity some may have received the impression that the Public Speaking Department of the University is a part of the School of the Spoken Word. This is a mistake, as the two departments are entirely separate. In fact, the Public Speaking Department, of which J. Quincy Biggs is head, is more closely aligned with the College of Arts and Sciences than with the College of Fine Arts. Mr. Biggs teaches private lessons in Oratory, but the work in Public Speaking and Debating is carried on in class, and credits are given on the A. B. degree as well as on the B. O.

Did You Ever?

A furrier was selling a coat to a woman customer. "Yes, ma'am," he said, "I guarantee this to be genuine skunk fur that will wear for years."
"But suppose I get it wet in the rain?" asked the woman.
"What effect will the water have on it? What will happen to it then? Won't it spoil?"
"Madam," answered the furrier, "I have only one answer: Did you ever hear of a skunk carrying an umbrella?"

Ridiculous.

She came down to breakfast very late and her mother scolded her severely.
"Did that man kiss you last night?" asked she.
"Now, mother," said the sweet young thing, blushing, "do you suppose he came all the way from the Great Lakes to hear me sing?"

A Senior's Legacy.

To whom it may concern: I cheerfully recommend my old girl to any undergraduate young man wanting a suitable dating companion for next year:

She is a good dancer physically and morally.

She is a good looker.

She is a good listener.

She isn't too good.

She is an excellent pedestrian, in fact, she will always say that she likes to walk, although she is not prejudiced against a car.

She is a fairly light eater except on Sunday. It is advisable to eat table d'hote on Sunday.

She is a woman of deep emotions whom only you will be able to thrill.

She has, to the best of my knowledge, absolutely no ideas of her own on any subject, except you.

My sole and simple reason for quitting her is that I am leaving school. Treat her right. She likes to be treated.—Iowa Frivol.

What Do You Mean--- DISTINCTIVE?

The well dressed young man wants something "in style, but different." If his suit were just "different" he would be thought eccentric.

"In style, but different" means a little more artistic lines—a little better turn of the shoulder or the sweep of the lapel. It is the sum of little things that count.
