GLEEMEN MAP OUT TENTATIVE HOLIDAY TOUR

Baker Says Prospect Is Good for Year's Work.

The first rehearsal of the Men's Glee Club, held in the auditorium Tuesday night, revealed some excellent material, according to Dan Baker, who is directing the organization. The club is starting with excellent prospects for a good year. About thirty men are trying out for places, though Mr. Baker announces that only sixteen will be able to make the concert tours in addition to the band and orchestra. Hence it is thought that rivalry for the different places will be keen.

Concert programs will be carried out in a different manner from that in which they have been conducted, Mr. Baker says, and instead of the staid and conventional system of filing out on the stage, as is the manner of glee clubs, the new programs will be given more on the order of the musical comedy. It is thought that this will not only add variety to the program itself but also will lend zest to the men taking part in the program. The club is now working on a Barcarolle from the "Tales of Hoffman."

A tentative trip has been mapped out for the Christmas holidays, which will be made in the northern part of the state. If all these places can be booked the itinerary will be as follows: December 27, Royce City; Dec. 28, Greenville; Dec. 29, Sulphur Springs; Dec. 30, Commerce; Dec. 31, Paris; Jan. 1, Bonham; Jan. 2 and 3, Sherman; Jan. 4, Gainesville, and Jan. 5, McKinney. Secretary A. S. Douglass is busy working on the booking of engagements, and will be able to make definite announcements soon.

The Men's Glee Club has been no small feature of Frog activities in years past, and under the able direction of Mr. Baker will not break faith this year, it is expected.

BAKER AND UNIACKE HEARD AT LUNCHEON.

Dan Baker, of the Voice Department, and Ralph R. Uniacke of the Violin Department, were heard at the regular luncheon of the Fort Worth Salesmanship Club last week, and much pleasure was manifested at their appearance, it is said.

A La Mode.

Shopper: I want to get a fashionable skirt.

Saleslady: Yes, madam. Will you have it too tight or too short?—Life.

RAZORBACKS WILL BE NEXT FROG VICTIMS

Hornies Determined to Bring Home Bacon from Arkansas.

The Frogs arrived in Fayetteville, Ark., today, confident that when the smoke has cleared away Saturday they will have run the snouts of the Razorbacks in the ground for the third victory of the season. The summary defeat of the Kangaroos last Saturday has inspired the local gridiron warriors with confidence in their prowess, inasmuch as Austin College is sending forth this year one of the most formidable teams in the state, and it would seem as though the Frogs are off for an unbroken string of victories to offset the altogether different record of last season.

Arkansas University has no mean record for putting out football teams, and it is thought that the Frogs will encounter a strong wall of defense when they arrive at Fayetteville for the third game of the season. However, Coaches Driver and McKnight have the Hornies in better condition than they have been at any time during the season, and little apprehension is felt as to the result of Saturday's game.

TODHUNTER SISTERS PLEASE WITH PROGRAM

Students who attended chapel Wednesday morning were agreeably entertained by a brief lyceum program given by the Todhunter sisters. Miss Elliott Todhunter, head of the Department of the Spoken Word, has been entertaining her sister, Miss Katherine Todhunter, of Lexington, Mo., all this week. The Todhunter sisters are famed as lyceum and chautauqua performers, and the snatches which they gave Wednesday morning were delightful evidences of their platform attractiveness.

Miss Katherine Todhunter first gave a violin selection, and responded to the hearty encore with a snappy vocal number. Following her offering, the two sisters were enthusiastically received when they sang two negro songs, described by Miss Elliott Todhunter as the folk songs of the nation. At the behest of President Waits, the director of the Department of the Spoken Word read one of O. Henry's stories, and she did it with such fidelity to life as to elicit the warm approval of her hearers.

Miss Todhunter also had as her guest the first of this week her father, General Ryland Todhunter, of Lexington, Mo., one of the four surviving adjutants general of the Confederacy, who attended the National Convention of Confederate Veterans at Houston. General Todhunter is a member of one of the oldest and foremost Southern families.

HORNED FROGS TAMELY ALLOW ONE TOUCHDOWN, THEN RALLY AND ADMINISTER BEATING, 9-7

Predictions of knowing ones, based on the comparative showing made by the two teams with the Southeastern Normal of Oklahoma, were given a decided jolt Saturday afternoon when the Horned Frogs went through the battlements of the Austin College Kangaroos on Clark field for a victory, the score being 9 to 7. The game was one of the hardest fought battles ever seen on the local gridiron, both teams playing hard and fast football. Austin College had begun the season with a cyclonic crash when she defeated Southeastern Normal by a score of 62 to 0. When a week later T. C. U. defeated the same team by a score of only 20 to 0, fans shook their heads when the Frog-Kangaroo game was mentioned.

In Saturday's game the Kangaroos made their getaway to a whirlwind start, scoring a touchdown within the first three minutes of play. T. C. U. fans groaned, for it looked as if the Kangaroos had the Frogs' number from the start. But the old gang bristled and rallied. It was as though the Frogs had tamely allowed the Kangaroos that first touchdown in order to make the sting of defeat more bitter, for Driver's men immediately braced, showing the Austin men what real football was.

When the Frogs started their offensive toward the enemy's goal in the second period, they went through the Kangaroos' line for steady gains until the ball went over for a touchdown. More consistent football has seldom been seen on Clark field. Several times the local warriors had the pigskin within an arm's length of the goal line, but were forced to surrender the ball on the fourth down. Acker missed kicking goal when Ryan made the touchdown for the Frogs, but his trusty toe redeemed its reputation when its owner scored a field goal within a few

FORMER STUDENTS OF T. C. U. MARRIED.

In the presence of only a few relatives and close friends, Carl Slay, of Frost, and Ruth Bennett, of Decatur, former students of T. C. U., were married a few days ago in the parlors of the First Christian Church of Fort Worth, Walter P. Jennings, pastor of the University church, officiating with the ring ceremony. After the wedding the couple left for a bridal trip to San Antonio. They will make their home at McAllen, Texas.

The following witnessed the ceremony: Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Bennett, parents of the bride, Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. Logan, Rhone; Mr. and Mrs. Slay, parents of the bridegroom, Frost; Frank Slay, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. John Slay, Mrs. Bill Slay, Fort Worth; Heinie Prinzing and Mabel Hellums, T. C. U.; Bertha Hensley, Henrietta; Naomi Scott, Decatur; Christine Thurmond, T. C. U.

Mr. Leo Tsing, of the University of Chicago, who is the Chinese secretary of the Inter-collegiate Prohibition Association, has been elected general secretary of the Chinese Students' Prohibition League of minutes. This brought the count to the height at which it stood when the game ended. Wilson for the Kangaroos made two attempts at field goals, but missed both.

McCorkle for the visitors made some good gains by end runs, and came near turning the tide in favor of the Kangaroos in the last few minutes of play, when the Frogs loosened their vigil to some extent and allowed him to secure a badly placed punt. Throughout the game the local men had followed up every punt, and almost without exception had nabbed the recipient of every punt forthwith, and this slip of the watch threw a scare into the sidelines until the whistle blew.

The teams lined up as follows:

Austin College: T. C. U.: Gary _____ Meyer

Center. Rainey _____ Fulcher

Right tackle. Robinson _____ Acker

Right guard. Sensabaugh _____ Ogan

Right end. Jones _____ Jackson

Quarterback. Hollis _____ Rowson

Right halfback. McCorkle _____ Ryan

Fullback. Substitutions—Austin College, Dalmont for Rainey, C. Thompson for Jones, Love for Morehart, Jones for C. Thompson, Monzingo for Gary, Moseley for Jones, Key for J. Thompson, T. C. U., Henry for Ogan, Houtchens for Fulcher, Creen for Meyer.

Officials—Massingale (Texas), referee; Boswell (Centre), umpire; Greig, head linesman; Vaughn (T. C. U.), timekeeper.

STUDENTS TO HEAR FAMOUS OPERA SINGER

Enrico Caruso Will Be at Coliseum Next Tuesday Night.

Fine arts students of Texas Christian University are soon to be given an exceptional opportunity to study operatic singing at first hand. Enrico Caruso, the famous Italian tenor, will appear in concert at the Fort Worth Coliseum, Tuesday evening, Oct. 19.

This is the great singer's first appearance in Texas, and students of T. C. U. are looking forward with pleasurable anticipation to his coming. Caruso is without doubt the most talked of tenor on the operatic stage. His voice has been coming to this section of the country on phonograph records for years, but it is said that the real power of his magnificent voice can not be appreciated from these feeble attempts at re-creation.

Carroll C. McKee, dean of the Fine Arts Department, succeeded in reserving an entire section of the Coliseum for T. C. U. patrons, and indications point to a large attendance from the University. Students of the institution have demonstrated on more than one occasion that they appreciate the things of the higher order.

GRADUATE OF T. C. U. IS NOW IN SHANGHAI

W. W. Blume, a member of the class of 1920, and business manager of the 1920 Horned Frog, is teaching in the law department of the university maintained by the Methodist Missionary Board in Shanghai, China, according to a letter recently received by Prof. Chalmers McPherson.

Mr. Blume, who was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Arts from T. C. U. in June, is an educational missionary to China, and the fact that he reached the field in such a surprisingly short time after taking his degree emphasizes the great need for this kind of mission work in the countries where government has not been developed to a very great degree.

Several of the graduates of the class of 1920 are preparing for foreign missions. Mrs. W. C. Sloan is now in the College of Missions at Indianapolis. Miss Ethel Shockley is looking forward to medical missionary work, and is teaching in Virginia this year before taking up her work in the medical college. Fred Norris is pursuing his medical studies in the State Medical School at Galveston preparatory to foreign medical missionary work. George L. Parks, another graduate of the June class, is looking toward the same kind of service.

FOOTBALL MEN TO BE HONORED WITH BANQUET

Washer Bros. Promise Trophy if Baylor Is Beaten.

Plans which include entertaining the football team with a huge banquet after the season is over, and at the same time embrace the donation of a silver trophy in the event that the Frogs defeat the Bears in the encounter of Nov. 13, were outlined by Stewart S. Bassett, advertising manager for Washer Brothers, at a pep meeting Tuesday night.

Mr. Bassett, who was introduced by Forrest McCutcheon, talked at length of the place of athletic sports in the college life, and spoke especially of his interest in the athletic career of the Horned Frogs. He elicited a cheer when he predicted that T. C. U. would score a victory over each of her opponents as she has done over the first two. He was applauded when he offered, on behalf of his store, to give the football men a banquet when the period of training has ended with the Thanksgiving game, and when he further showed his interest by offering a trophy in the form of a cup if Baylor is beaten, the applause was terrific.

The speaker then began to dig his way into a mysterious carton which he had brought to the platform with him, at the same time remarking that when he had seen the cheer leader down town the other day in his white trousers he had thought there was something lacking in his costume. When the laugh at this sally had subsided, Mr. Bassett produced a handsome purple and white sweater and presented it to Mr. Diffie with the prediction that the latter would be able to yell better swathed in such a garment.

Mr. Bassett has declared his intention to be on hand for every football game, and the students of T. C. U. appreciate the interest he is showing.

SHIRLEY-WALTON PROGRAM DELIGHTS CROWD

A large audience, composed of students and friends of the Shirley-Walton literary societies from the outside, heard the initial program of those combined organizations, Friday evening.

A. S. Douglass, president of the Shirley society, was in charge of the meeting, and gave a snappy address of welcome. Miss Madeline Jones, president of the Walton society, ably acted as secretary of the meeting.

Following Mr. Douglass' talk the program was further carried out in an appreciable manner, presided over by Lorraine Dutton, who took the chair when Mr. Douglass retired to his room on orders of the coach. Doug starred the following day as center when the Frogs defeated the Kangaroos.

EXECUTIVE STAFF

THOS. E. DUDNEY, Editor
FORREST McCUTCHEON, Bus. Mgr.

Entered as second-class mail matter at the postoffice at Fort Worth, Texas.

Devoted to the promotion of a wholesome spirit of co-operation within the walls of Texas Christian University first, last, and all the time. Pledged to the support of high ideals. Committed to the task of reflecting the progress of the school in such a way that the outside world may be convinced that T. C. U. is the center of real and broadening culture.

STARTING THINGS RIGHT.

A new responsibility is resting on the shoulders of the students of T. C. U. Hereafter the burden of government in the classroom will be upon an Honor Council, composed of members of the student body, instead of upon the discipline committee of the faculty. This council will have original and final jurisdiction over matters pertaining to the maintenance of honorable standards in the classroom.

This is good. With the passing of the out-of-date and unrecognized system of classroom government, T. C. U. makes a vast stride forward toward that standard which all of us so heartily want. The old school cannot possibly gain recognition among the higher institutions of learning until she has inaugurated the Honor System, in the classroom at least, and surely there is not one of us who does not want his credits recognized without question should he decide to finish his college work in some other institution. But that isn't all. Every student who has the welfare of T. C. U. at heart wants to see this grand old school go forward to the best that is in store for her. And she's going, regardless of the many obstacles that are in her path.

The Honor System, like everything else that is worth while, cannot stand alone. It must have the support and co-operation of students whose minds are not biased and whose purposes are serious. There are those who would tell you that the new Constitution is not a step toward full student government, but those who have studied the matter calmly and carefully assure us that it is only a matter of a short time until we may have the other phases of government in our hands, provided, of course, that the first phase of it is conducted intelligently.

It seems that some of us are going to have to go against some of the things to which we have adhered so long as "principles." This seems hard at first, but a survey of it in the true light will reveal the fact that such "principles" will not hold water. There was a time when the instructor and the student were perpetually engaged in a sort of tug-of-war, when the student appeared to be of the opinion that his college course consisted primarily in eluding the vigilance of the instructor on examination, enough to "get by." This idea has been replaced by a new realization that the instructor and the student are working together toward a common end—education.

Education is designed to fit the individual for living with other individuals, and if it impresses him with the idea that he must lie and steal in order to "get his" in the great scramble for existence, he might better have remained unlettered. Yet there are those having serious purpose in getting an education who are not averse to accepting credit for work that is not the result of their own individual effort, we are told. There is nothing malicious in this practice—just unthoughtfulness. If every one will make up his mind to play the game fairly, remembering that only the cheater is the loser, he will find much pleasure, much more that appeals to his sporting nature, in his work, and he will find that the maintenance of an Honor System is not such a bugaboo after all.

SPORTSMANSHIP

There is one thing for which the Horned Frogs stand, above everything else—clean sportsmanship. There isn't a man on that football squad who wouldn't rather lose a game than have it said that the game was won by the Frogs by means of dirty and unfair play. Every man on the squad is a good sport. To be sure, we are penalized occasionally, but it is but natural in the course of a strenuous game to "pull some rough stuff" inadvertently.

But that is neither here nor there. It brings us, however, to the point we want to make. Why shouldn't there be the same spirit of good sportsmanship on the sidelines as there is on the gridiron? At the football games we have noticed spectators cheering when the opposing team was penalized, and such a thing grates on our nerves. We should like to see such a practice stopped on the Frogs' side of the fence. It is puerile and unsportsmanlike. Be ready all the time to show the opposing team that you appreciate good, clean football, but don't cheer a penalty. The Frogs will give you plenty of opportunities for an overflow of spirits. Be a good sport.

HOOVER-EYES.

In faith, politics doth make puppets of us all. The latest record from the G. O. P. phonograph is one Herbert Hoover. The erstwhile Director of American Mouthfuls has learned the campaign song well. "The present administration is a failure," he may be heard to sing. It is a fact worthy of recall that Mr. Hoover's name was a household by-word only because the present administration wished it so. It is also a fact worthy of note that Mr. Hoover has kept his mouth hermetically sealed on the campaign issues so long as the Grand Old Party did not see fit to utilize his food administering finger in the political pie, but when he is asked officially to participate in the glories of the mud-slinging, he comes out with a bald statement—the same bald statement that the other phonograph records are singing ecstatically.

DUD'S DENATURED DOPE.

Our idea of a tragedy is the case of the young co-ed who comes to college to gain poise and succeeds only in gaining avordupois.

Which determines us that if we ever have a son and a daughter we are going to call the one Ed and the other Co-ed.

That will undoubtedly establish the fact that we are simply hog-wild over higher education.

You'll have to hand it to 'em. The Kangaroos did have some pretty blankets with them.

And we suspect that Sherman is saying that war is not the only thing that Sherman said war was. Thassall.

Anyway, we are glad the world series is over. We haven't been able to converse intelligently for three months.

But it seems to us that Babe Ruth was a bit ruthless with his stick.

Fifty-four home runs! Shades of the immortal Baker! That's more runs than the average married man makes home in a lifetime.

Identification.

A neighbor, seeing the 7-year-old daughter of a geologist playing with a bedraggled but cherished kitten, asked what her pet was called.

"Well," replied the precocious youngster, "that depends. Father calls her a segregation from an intrusive magma of doubtful genesis; mother refers to her as the basement complex; sister Helen insists that she is a typical example of secondary impoverishment; but I just call her my dear little kitty."—Boston Transcript.

At a called meeting of the Sophomore Class, Friday, the class officers were elected to serve for the year 1920-21, together with a representative to the Students' Honor Council.

"Dutch" Meyer was selected to head the class as president. "Dutch" is one of the best football men that ever donned a Frog uniform, having come to T. C. U. and made the team in his Freshman year. Meyer is popular with the students and is expected to make an excellent officer for the class of '23.

Hubert F. Hawkins, a loyal and active member of the class, was elected to the vice-presidency. Miss Lorraine Sherley, whose part in T. C. U. activities is recognized and appreciated by every student of the school of whatever class, was unanimously chosen secretary-treasurer. Dwight Holmes, an artist of no mean ability, was elected Horned Frog representative. Earl Dudney, chairman pro tem of the meeting, was elected representative to the Honor Council after John Bradley, Jr., had declared himself ineligible to the nomination on account of insufficient college credits.

A fair representation of the class was present at the meeting. Oscar Mayo, former president of the class of 1923, was on the trip with the football squad, "making hogs" of the Arkansas Razorbacks.

GLORIA SWANSON IN FILM.

Gloria Swanson, who had the leading feminine role opposite Elliott Dexter in "For Better, For Worse," appears in a similar capacity in "Something to Think About," the new Cecil B. De Mille Paramount picture which comes to the Palace Theater next week. During this past year this talented artist has won many admirers by her splendid acting in "Male and Female" and "Why Change Your Wife?" Elliott Dexter has the leading male role.

Prohibition of all drinks having an alcoholic content exceeding 2.8 per cent is recommended by a government committee in Sweden. They also propose that absolute prohibition be submitted to a vote of the people and made effective if three-fifths of the electorate favor it.

Pictures Being Made for Frog

Mr. Staut, official photographer for the Horned Frog this year, has fitted up a temporary studio in the rear of the auditorium stage, and will be here for two weeks to make pictures for the annual.

As usual, students are slow in having these photographs taken. Due possibly to unthoughtfulness, most of them are prone to put off the matter of Frog pictures until the last moment. Those in charge of the publication of the book have repeatedly pointed out the importance of attending to the matter immediately, in order that there may be no delay in the printing and delivery of the annual.

The executives of the Horned Frog staff are planning to issue the largest and most unique annual ever published in T. C. U., and they emphasize the importance of having the co-operation of every matriculant of the University.

THE ORCHESTRA.

By Reginald Martin.
In acquiring Mr. Uniacke, T.

C. U. was exceedingly fortunate, because never before has there been such a group brought together to form such an able orchestra as that now playing in chapel.

When first practice was called, there came together more than fifteen persons, and never has there been less at any time since then. Mr. Uniacke distributed some very difficult compositions among the students and he was surprised with a very spirited and able rendition of them. The lighter marches are now performed with but one practice and many are given upon sight. With the exception of McDearmid, all the old strings are back, these being Turner, Farmer, Pickens, McCartney, Osburn. Numbered here are some of the most promising young violinists in the state.

What jazz band or orchestra would be complete without Hannibal ("Jazz") McConnell? Ably assisting him is Roy Wallace. We challenge any school to equal this corps of clarinets. Acker, cornetist supreme, is assisted by Dahnke, Glass, Luck and Halsell, drummer; Fowler, baritone; Cherry, bass and Chatham, slide trombone, complete one of the best orchestras in the state.

Mr. Uniacke said he expected them to create a sensation on the tour with the Glee Club.

Students should be very enthusiastic over the orchestra because its members represent some of the most intelligent students in school and are applying this intelligence on an important department in the college. The results are gratifying. They are doing better than any similar organization has ever done.

The first regular meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Thursday evening in the parlor of Jarvis.

After a few songs, Lorraine Shirley gave a short talk of welcome to the new students. The various members of the cabinet introduced themselves, each mentioning her duty.

Ethel Ellis, Helen Phoebus and Margaret Stuckert spoke on the three angles of the Y. W. C. A. triangle, the mind, body, and spirit. The new students are showing much interest in the Y. W. C. A., and are giving their hearty support in making it a worth while organization.

pleasing sopranos among the student body, gave two selections that were enthusiastically received. Miss Caroline Crisp, a graduate of the Oratory Department of T. C. U. and a former Walton, was heartily encored when she read a charming selection depicting life in an Italian quarter. Earl Dudney consumed a quarter of an hour with a talk on the subject, "Dreaming," saying among other things, "I thank you," at the close of his remarks. Merrill Turner, the incomparable, responded to encore after encore when he played the violin. Jesse Martin, Shirley of former days, sang, his lyric tenor proving very acceptable to the appreciative audience.

"Work" was the subject of a chapel address made by L. D. Anderson, pastor of the First Christian Church, Friday morning.

After dwelling at length upon the divine exhortation to labor, Mr. Anderson discussed three benefits resulting from hard, conscientious work: increased production, safeguard to health, mentality, and morals, and finally pleasure. He said that every one should work to produce not only enough for his own immediate consumption but also enough surplus to provide for the needs of the less fortunate. He declared that the greatest safeguard to the individual, physically, mentally, and morally, is work, making the statement, backed by an observation of Thomas A. Edison, that the man has no time to let his mind drift to degradation when he is hard at work. Finally, he declared that a great deal of pleasure may be derived from the day's labors.

Mr. Anderson stressed espec-

It's Sweater Time

PUT ON ONE OF THESE SWEATERS

—You will like the "feel of it."
—You will like the snug way it buttons up, and the way it allows full freedom of the arms.

—And too, you will appreciate the fact that as it feels and looks today, so will it look and feel all of the time, for our sweaters hold their shape and are warm enough for the coldest day.

—They are all wool—made in pull-over and coat styles, in solid colors and two-color combinations. Especially featuring the Purple and White.

ially the importance of care in tion as it is to find a vocation, the selection of a vocation. He cited instances where men have successfully ridden a hobby to fame and fortune when their vocations probably would have kept them obscure from the world forever.

Mr. Anderson is regarded as one of the most successful ministers in the city, and his addresses carry great weight.
