Horned Frogs Win Six, Lose None, on Okla-Arkansas Trip

Completely ignoring the fact that they were supposed to be handicapped by the absence of Coach Nance, the Horned Frogs overwhelmed their every opponent on a baseball trip through Oklahoma and Arkansas, beginning ten days ago and ending with the defeat of Arkansas University at Fayetteville, Tuesday. The squad was under the able leadership of Captain Pete Donahue and Manager B. M. Brittain.

Six games were played by the Frogs with such decisive results that there is no doubt as to what the result of the other two scheduled games would have been, had not Jupiter Pluvius taken the matter in hand. Rain prevented one of the engagements with Oklahoma A. & M. and also one game with the University of Arkansas. Two games were played with the Oklahoma Baptist College, at Shawnee, one with Oklahoma A. & M., at Stillwater, two with Henry Kendall College at Tulsa, and one with the University of Arkansas, at Fayetteville.

SUPT. HUTTON HOLDS MODEL CONFERENCE

SAYS PLACES FOR RELIGIOUS WORKERS ARE ALWAYS OPEN

There are always numerous openings for those desiring to specialize in religious education, according to S. W. Hutton, Southwestern Bible School Superintendent. Churches are coming more and more to the realization of their responsibility to the youth of the land, thus creating a demand for full time workers, declared Mr. Hutton before a class in religious education at Brite College of the Bible Thursday.

In pursuance of his plan to make his religious education department a sort of laboratory for interested students, Prof. Billington, head of the department, secured Mr. Hutton to conduct the class on that day. The latter, who is nationally recognized as an expert in religious education, quickly organized the class into a model Worker's Conference, furnished typewritten reports from imaginary committees, and put the class through the actual procedure of a conference which he had previously conducted. Mr. Hutton also furnished the outline for a successful model conference.

Many practical problems which confront the religious worker in actual experience are taken up and analyzed by the classes in religious education. Prof. Billington has had wide experience in that work, and this experience, coupled with his constant research in his chosen field, makes him unusually proficient. He believes that heretofore the matter of religious instruction has been inexcusably neglected, and purposes to make the Department of Religious Education of the college an efficient training school for workers.

This is the first year that the chair of Religious Education has been in operation.

HARGETT TALKS ABOUT HISTORY OF MATHEMATICS

WHAT CONSEQUENCES TO MATHEMATICS OF INCREASED FINGERS

Mathematical calculation would have been revolutionized if the human hand had been decorated with six fingers instead of five. This startling statement was made by Prof. J. T. Hargett, professor of Mathematics, in speaking on the subject, "The History of Mathematics", in chapel Wednesday. The dire consequence of such a rearrangement of the phalangerial digits would have been nothing more nor less than the advent of the duo-decimal system, according to Prof. Hargett.

However, the clever professor seasoned the heavy blow of his first statement by adding that many advantages would accrue from the introduction of such a system. For example, he declared, instead of the two divisors of the present decimal system, 2 and 5, mathematicians would have the privilege of working with four perfect divisors by the other system: 2, 3, 4 and 6. He traced the history of multiplication from the time when savages represented the sum of a number of smaller coconuts by a larger coconut, and submitted proof that their sole means of counting was by their fingers and toes. Prof. Hargett made the interesting statement that the term "score" originated with the savage who counted by twenties, each twenty being represented by ten fingers and ten toes.

Prof. Hargett is to be congratulated on the interesting manner in which he handled a subject which at best is only tolerable among college students. To make such a dry subject really interesting is to exhibit real platform talent.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS BEFORE DISBANDING

Homer McCartney was elected president of the Men's Glee Club at a recent meeting. Toad Stevenson was elected vice president, and Bose McFarland, secretary-treasurer. The action was taken preliminary to disbanding the club for the year, and the newly-elected officers will be automatically installed with the reorganization of the club next fall.

The men's organization has established an enviable reputation this year. Many have said that it is the best musical organization that has gone out from T. C. U. in a number of years. The success of the club is due in large measure to Dan J. Baker of the Fine Arts faculty, who has directed the club and contributed freely of his time and energy to make the season the triumph that it has been.

ELECTION DAY SET FOR FRIDAY MAY SEVENTH

CANDIDATES MUST HAVE APPLICATIONS IN BY TWENTY-EIGHTH

Friends of prospective student body officers must file their petitions for candidacy with the President of the Student Body by April 28 if they want their favorites to be in the running. This information was given out by President Boultinghouse Friday. Boultinghouse made an announcement in chapel Friday to the effect that the student election would be held Friday, May 7. The constitution of the Students' Association requires that all petitions for candidacy be in at least two weeks in advance of the election.

The constitution also makes clear the requirements for eligibility of candidates. Men who aspire to the presidency of the body are required to have one hundred and thirty credits at the end of this term, so that they may enter school next year as conditioned seniors. Aspirants to the vice presidency are required to have eighty-five credits in order to enter as conditioned juniors. Prospective candidates for secretary-treasurer must be girls who will enter school next fall as conditioned seniors.

Considerable interest is being manifested in the coming election. Thus far, two applications have been filed by candidates for the presidency and the air is already full of political agitation. If more than two candidates come out for any office, a primary election will be held previous to May 7, according to President Boultinghouse.

T. C. U. STUDENT IS SELECTED AS LAKE GENEVA ENTERTAINER

Miss Newtie LeHew, a pupil of Prof. Biggs of the Department of Public Speaking, has been selected to go to the Interdenominational Conference at Lake Geneva, Ill., as a reader. The conference will be held in August. As only two entertainers have been selected from Texas, one a reader and the other a musician, Miss LeHew is to be congratulated on her success in winning the trip. The fact that she was selected by competitive tryout makes the honor doubly gratifying to the friends of the talented young lady.

In addition to carrying her courses in the University, Miss LeHew, whose home is in Fort Worth, has an immense class of oratory students in the city. One of her pupils, Miss Opal Strong, recently won first place in the district interscholastic declamation contest held at Weatherford and will represent the district in the State event at Austin.

Trinity Tigers Meet Ponderous Defeat in Dual Track Meet

DRAMATIC CLUB SCORES HEAVILY IN RECENT PLAY

THREE-ACT COMEDY PLAYS TO PACKED HOUSE MONDAY EVE

What was considered by many to be the best amateur performance ever presented on a T. C. U. stage was offered by the Footlights Club Monday night, April 18, in the form of a three-act comedy, "It Pays to Advertise". The house was well filled, even the gallery being packed. The audience, which was one of the most appreciative ever assembled in the auditorium, was made up in large measure of people from the city, in addition to T. C. U. students. The play was presented under the direction of Miss Elliott Todhunter, director of the School of the Spoken Word. Miss Erskine Long, as prompter, contributed not a little to the success of the performance, it is said.

"It Pays to Advertise" is a clever farce built on advertising facts. It has to do with a young society sap who, having been thrown out by his millionaire father, king of the soap trust, conspires with his steno-sweetheart and a young advertising bug named Peale to force his father to back a fake soap project. The trio launch a trademark from their "Thirteen Soap" and advertise it so well that they actually create a demand for their soap. In the end the old man is glad to have his son come in with him, the youngster marries his secretary, and everything ends happily.

The part of the soap king's son was taken by T. E. Dudley. The irate father role was played by H. B. Brous in a most realistic manner. Miss Iris Kingsbury was exceedingly clever in the guise of the business-like secretary who held the flimsy firm of the "Thirteen Soap Company" together until the arrival of the paternal succor. Ernest Ligon, as Ambrose Peale, always running over with arguments in favor of sensational advertising, brought many a laugh. Miss Evelyn Birmingham exhibited splendid talent in the role of the Countess de Beaurien, the fake French woman, and aroused much favorable comment on her acting. Melvin Bishop was splendid in the role of Ellery Clark, English dandy. The other characters in the play were good in their parts: Robert Badgett, as Johnson, the butler; Mildred Stroud, as Marie, the maid; Wylie Harris, as William Johnson; John A. Stevenson, as McChesney, the advertising man, and Temple Shell, as Bronson from Marshall Field's. Shell was also the efficient business manager of the play.

Miss Todhunter was highly pleased with the smooth manner

Morris Parker, of Dallas, starred in a dual track and field meet on Clarke Field Monday afternoon, scoring twenty-one points of a total of 97 1-2 points against 19 1-2 points for the Trinity Tigers. Parker was high point man of the event, making three first places and two seconds. Every first place of the entire meet was won by T. C. U.

Eddie Weems made the best time that has been made in the state this season in the 880-yard dash, and at that, his time, 2:04, was not his best time. Blair Cherry, who substituted for Morrison, showed up well enough in the half mile and the relay to give promise of some real stuff later. The doughty little Freshman won first place in the 220 hurdles.

Gray of Trinity ran a pretty race in the 440 dash, leading well until he reached the last twenty-five yards of the course, when he collapsed and Green of T. C. U. finished first with Batton second. Wylie Harris of the Frogs won first place in two dash events, the hundred and the two-hundred.

The total of ninety-seven and a half points run up by the Frogs is said to be the largest score made by any college in a dual meet this season.

In winning the dual event, T. C. U. became possessor of a beautiful silver trophy in the form of a cup offered by the Mitchell-Greer Jewelry Company. The Athletic Council is loud in its appreciation of the loyal co-operation of the local firm. The Mitchell-Greer Company is one of the strongest backers the Frogs have among Fort Worth merchants.

MAY DAY HOLIDAY MINUS THE USUAL LAKE WORTH EVENT

The University will get its May Day Holiday this year, but there will be no picnic at Lake Worth, it has been announced. Instead, a picnic is planned for the entire student body at Forest Park. The holiday has been declared for Saturday, April 30, in view of the fact that May 1st falls on Sunday.

There is very little sentiment in favor of Lake Worth. Old students remember only too well the unhappy ending of last year's May Day event at the lake when Bill Shepherd lost his life by drowning. President Waits has announced that a swimming party will be chaperoned to the river if there are those who desire a plunge on the holiday.

THE GREAT NATIONAL GAME.

A paragrapher on a local newspaper recently made light of the fact that the constable of a neighboring city saw his duty toward gamblers on baseball, and not only saw it but proceeded to do it.

The paragrapher may or may not have been in earnest. He may have been only having a little fun at the expense of a rival city, or he may have directed his shaft as a venomous ridicule of anyone who would presume to raise a finger against the refined and dignified parlor sport of gambling. Who knows? We don't. And furthermore, we don't care what he or any other sport writer has to say on the subject. But the fact remains—and a glaring, challenging fact it is—that the great national pastime is in danger of going to the wall for the want of moral stamina.

We were talking the other day of sports. Somebody wondered why baseball has not become the popular college sport that football is. One has but to note the results of recent investigations among the major leagues to get an answer to the riddle. Rotten gambling is taking the sport out of the great American game, and if it is allowed to continue, it will kill baseball just as it has killed many another once popular sport. Thank Fortune for such a broad-minded fan as Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of Chicago, who is doing his best to straighten out the tangled skein of big league indiscretion.

Are we going to sit still and see our national sports, one by one, taken from us? It is time for the colleges of the land to step in and take a hand for clean, honorable sportmanship. Don't poke fun at the "constabular" if he wants to help us do it.

TELLS OF CONDITIONS IN PHILIPPINES SINCE AMERICAN OCCUPATION

Prof. John Lord, head of the Department of Spanish, was heard in chapel Friday morning on the subject, "American Rule in the Philippines". His lecture was very timely, in view of the agitation that is going the rounds today relative to Filipino independence, and was doubly interesting from the circumstance that Prof. Lord spent several years in those islands as a missionary. The information which he was able to impart, therefore, was first-hand, and for thirty minutes the professor held his student audience in the grip of his well-delivered discourse.

The speaker of the morning was introduced by President Waits. The latter said that he was introducing a man who had won distinction, first as a full-back on the football team of Transylvania College, next as a missionary in the Philippine Islands, then at Syracuse University, where he took the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, and now as head of the Department of Spanish.

Prof. Lord, after a pleasantries or two, plunged directly into the facts of his subject. He recounted the circumstances leading up to the revolt of the Filipinos from Spanish despotism. The revolution, he said, was in the first place of a religious nature, although the most important causes were economic and political. When the United States took hold of affairs in the islands, all the land was held by the religious sect known as the "friars". The U. S. Government bought all the land held by these people on condition that the friars leave the island and never return. The friars agreed to do this, but Professor Lord added parenthetically that there were today more friars in the Philippines than ever before. However, the new government divided the lately acquired lands into homesteads, and today, he said, sixty per cent. of the land is owned by natives.

The professor said that most Filipinos want their independence, although the world is agreed that they are not yet able to care for themselves. He declared that during the twenty years of American occupation the islands had improved in many ways, notably, in the matter of public health; cholera, which was formerly the bane of the Filipino's existence, according to Prof. Lord, was quickly brought under control under the American regime, deaths from that disease having dwindled from 400,000 a year to no deaths at all. Prof. Lord said that the chief need of the natives of the Philippines is a development of the American spirit.

"T" FRATERNITY IS GIVEN BIG BANQUET AT METROPOLITAN

The annual banquet of the T Fraternity of Texas Christian University was held Thursday night at the Metropolitan Hotel with Mayor E. R. Cockrell as the guest of honor. Dr. R. H. Gough was also one of the speakers and was elected an honorary member of the Fraternity.

A five course dinner led off the festivities to the complete interior satisfaction of all present. One new member of the fraternity bids fair to be chosen as T. C. U.'s representative to compete with Frank Haley as the star of the knife and fork league. He is none other than the diminutive Pete Fulcher.

After the wrestle with the implements and the catch-as-catch can for cigars. Toastmaster Cedric Hamlin took charge and introduced the array of speakers.

The new Mayor, an honorary of the fraternity, of long standing, led off. Dr. Cockrell has long been one of the most popular men in connection with the University and so he just gave some real fatherly advice about many things. He told of his own experience as a public speaker. He had left the range many years ago and tried, in his first attempt, to interest about one hundred and fifty people in his message. However, stage fright so marred his address that he had the sick headache for some time after. Here he determined to quit the platform for all time. But later someone persuaded him to enter a debate. He did this with much more success and less physical aftermath. It was this debate to which he owes his present speaking ability and to which Fort Worth owes her new mayor.

He said that if he had a subject it was "The Messenger and His Message." The need of leadership in the Southwest has long been felt, and the only person who can lead is the messenger who has a message and who has the ability to put it over. The messenger is not made in a day. It takes a long time and lots of hard work. Time was when the orator was one who made lots of noise, ranted up and down the platform, and used many gestures, he said. The man of power today is the quiet man who has personality, a message, and the ability to tell that message to the people. He must be tremendously interested in his message and believe in himself behind that message. The modern type of oratory was introduced by Newell Dwight Hillis, the greatest preacher in the world today.

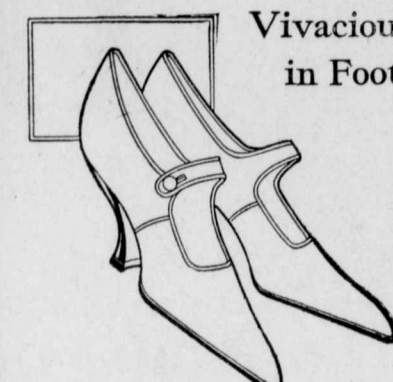

He is a quiet man with few gestures but a tremendous amount of power. Jeremiah Black, the man who believed in the period, has taught the world the power of pause. Ingersoll with his rapid fire conversation held thousands spell bound. Patrick Henry was an orator but did not have the power of co-operation behind that power. Hence, to succeed, one must believe in himself, his fellow man, and his Creator.

Dr. R. H. Gough followed the mayor and told why he was interested in T. C. U. oratory. He suggested that if the T Fraternity were to set a definite goal and work towards that goal, the day would come when it would control the state in its sentiment. He referred to Dr. Cockrell as a mental giant of whom Fort Worth may well be proud. He declared himself back of T. C. U. first, last, and all the time.

Jesse Martin, T. C. U. graduate and assistant district attorney came next and told what might be expected to rise from the organization and its possibilities. He emphasized what the two men before him had said. The western mind is the best, because it has more time for thought. Education and environment make the man. Heredity may have some little part, but the other two are the things.

Then came W. M. Thornton, head of the political science department at T. C. U., and a recent graduate of the school, who told of many interesting experiences of the old days of the T Fraternity. He then initiated the new members, Messrs. Fulcher, Antone, McReynolds, Boultinghouse, and Ligon.

The new officers elected were: President, Pete Fulcher; vice-president, Wylie Harris; and secretary-treasurer, M. A. Buhler. After this, Mr. Blalock suggested the name of Malcom H. Reed, and Mr. Boultinghouse the name of Dr. R. H. Gough for honorary members. Both were unanimously elected. Mr. Reed, of Austin, is the giver of the Reed watch for the Reed oratorical contest. Dr. Gough is the largest oratory giver to the school.

Then everybody had something to say, everybody felt good and went home, feeling as fraternity brothers should feel, true brothers.

Those present were: Mayor E. R. Cockrell, Assistant District Attorney Jesse Martin, W. L. Thornton, Dr. R. H. Gough, Cedrick Hamlin, Pete Fulcher, M. A. Buhler, George Antone, J. W. Boultinghouse, Bryan Blalock, A. B. McReynolds, Wylie Harris, and Ernest Ligon.

NOVEL FEATURES SPICE REGULAR Y. W. MEETING

On Friday evening, April 13, the regular Y. W. C. A. meeting was held. Instead of the regular devotional singing, a sing-song was held with Miss Tobin, chairman of the music committee, as leader. The sing-song was divided into four parts. In the first part such popular songs as "Margie," "Go Feather Your Nest" and "Alice Blue Gown" were sung. These were followed by songs which became popular during the war. In the third part, "My Old Kentucky Home", "Old Black Joe", and many other old songs were sung. Finally, in the last part, beautiful hymns were sung. The service was brought to a very effective close when all of the girls stood in a circle, joined hands, and softly sang, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds."

What Makes the Firefly Glow?

YOU can hold a firefly in your hand; you can boil water with an electric lamp. Nature long ago evolved the "cold light." The firefly, according to Ives and Coblenz, radiates ninety-six percent light and only four percent heat. Man's best lamp radiates more than ninety percent heat.

An English physicist once said that if we knew the firefly's secret, a boy turning a crank could light up a whole street. Great as is the advance in lighting that has been made through research within the last twenty years, man wastes far too much energy in obtaining light.

This problem of the "cold light" cannot be solved merely by trying to improve existing power-generating machinery and existing lamps. We should still be burning candles if chemists and physicists had confined their researches to the improvement of materials and methods for making candles.

For these reasons, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are not limited in the scope of their investigations. Research consists in framing questions of the right kind and in finding the answers, no matter where they may lead.

What makes the firefly glow? How does a firefly's light differ in color from that of an electric arc, and why? The answers to such questions may or may not be of practical value, but of this we may be sure—it is by dovetailing the results of "theoretical" investigations along many widely separated lines that we arrive at most of our modern "practical" discoveries.

What will be the light of the future? Will it be like that of the firefly or like that of the dial on a luminous watch? Will it be produced in a lamp at present undreamed of, or will it come from something resembling our present incandescent lamp? The answers to these questions will depend much more upon the results of research in pure science than upon strictly commercial research.

4 leaf blend

Why not three or five, instead of four? The answer is: "The blend must be balanced." Burley heart-leaf for that good old tobacco taste; rare Macedonian and Golden Virginia for spicy aroma and sparkle; and good old Maryland tobacco for cool-burning.

Crimped

Have you noticed how much longer, more evenly, Spurs burn? How trim and clean-cut they look? The edges of the paper are crimped—not pasted. This patented method is found only in Spurs.

JUNIOR EDITION OF A. & M. BATTALION IS VERY CREDITABLE

The "Junior Bat", special edition of the A. & M. Battalion published by the Junior class of that institution under date of April 15, has come to the exchange desk. It is modeled after the leading humorous magazines of the country, and is a very creditable piece of work. The staff of the "Junior Bat" deserves the congratulation of the college world.

Following are some of the outbursts from the fertile intellects of some of the future agricultural and mechanical wizards of Texas:

GOOD BREEDING

An Irishman, an Englishman and a Jew were looking at false teeth in a show window in front of a dentist's office.

Pat—"When I lose all my tathe sure and I'll have some new tathe made of gold like those."

Ikey—"Vat a vaste of money. Mine will be noding more dan gold tipped like dem."

Chesterfield—"Ah! Ha! Old Dears! Doncha know 'tis a bally sign of ill breeding to be picking your teeth on the street."

SCANDAL

The young lady visiting her aunt in the country came in late one afternoon.

"Where in the world have you been?" asked her aunt.

"In the hammock all afternoon," she responded "with my beloved Robert Browning."

The aunt eyed her sternly. Then she said: "If I hear of any more such scandalous proceedings I shall certainly write your mother."

The baker kneads the dough because

The baker needs the dough; And needing it, by nature's law He needs must knead the dough.

Basement Leggett: "Doesn't that noise of the band above you annoy you?"

Basement Milner: "Not a bit; I enjoy having a fuss made over me."

Acid: "If I wore my dresses that short people would say that it showed bad form."

Acidulous: "Well, in your case it would."

SPRING-TIME POETRY

"The Raccoon's tail is ringed around,
The Bear's tail is flat,
The Monkey drags his tail on the ground,
But the Rabbit can't do that."

DOUGH-MESTIC

She isn't attractive,
She hasn't much grace,
Her dresses are plain,
And as to her face,
It isn't so pretty,
She doesn't dance so well,
Her line is a weak one,
And she isn't a belle,
But listen, Dear Brothers,
This much I know,
She's a wonderful gal,
And her Dad has the Dough.

ACCOUNTING FOR SLOWNESS

Mother (severely)—"Mabel, do you see the hour—past midnight?"

Daughter—"I know it's late, mother, but Jack's auto turned turtle."

Mother—"Well, and did you ride home on the back of the turtle?"

She (gushingly): "Don't you think talkative women most popular?"

He (wearily): "What other kind are there?"

She: "Can you drive with one hand?"

He (eagerly): "You bet I can."

She (sweetly) "Then won't you please pick up my handkerchief?"

"SISSY SNAPPY SNOBS" ENTERTAIN.

On last Tuesday evening the "Sissy Snappy Snobs", a club composed of eight Jarvis Hall girls favored as many young men from Clark Hall by giving an out-of-doors party of the most delightful type.

The group left school about 3:30 in the afternoon and walked to a shady place down by the Trinity River, where many happy events centered about a spread heaped with good things to eat. The crowd later strolled back toward T. C. U. hill and reached Jarvis Hall just as Mrs. Beckham was closing the doors.

It is useless to attempt to puzzle any implication that the name of this organization of girls may carry with it, but there was not a man present who does not have the most profound admiration for a group who can move the hours of an evening to such a pleasing destiny, or is there one who does not appreciate thus being "snobbed."

Those responsible for the enjoyable occasion were Misses Marjorie Dickey, Margaret Stuckert, Elsie Jones, Venus Farmer, Mabel Hellums, Lona Honea, Vernon Miller, Ruby Walker. Those honored were Messrs. Bose McFarland, Homer McCartney, Raymond Walker, Frank Eades, Richard Moore, Dean Beard, Weley Beard, Heine Prinzing, Jno. Ilen Stephenson, and Gayle Scott.

ILLINOIS TO HAVE GREATEST STADIUM

Seven hundred thousand dollars, twice the expected set quota, was pledged by the students of the University of Illinois at the largest mass meeting ever held in the history of the institution for the erection of the largest stadium in the United States. This stadium is to be a memorial for the United States men who have died in the war.

Headed by 18,000 individual pledges the students raised this money in a few minutes. The Princess Tirahata Kiram of Sulu brought enthusiasm to fever heat when she jumped to her feet and in broken English pledged $1,000. Foreign students from Japan, China, India, South America, the Philippines and Mexico pledged a total of $30,000.

ADD-RAN-CLARKS WILL OBSERVE SPECIAL WEEK

Beginning with an open program Thursday evening, April 28, the Add-Ran and Clark Literary societies will observe their annual special week. An urgent invitation is extended to all to attend the program, according to a statement from Clark headquarters. Then, on Friday evening, in the reception hall of the administration building, the annual Add-Ran-Clark reception will be given. Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Metropolitan Hotel the Clarks will hold a luncheon.

Those in charge of Clark Week have issued a challenge to all Add-Rans and Clarks to do their bit to make the event a success.

LONGHORNS BEAT OKLAHOMA AGGIES

Texas University overwhelmed the Oklahoma Aggies in the dual track meet Monday, scoring a total of 80 points to their opponents' 37.

Dickerson, the Aggie leader, shattered the Southwestern conference record in the mile run, making the distance in 4:32.2. Loop of Texas made the two-mile in 10:31-2, and Leisner of Texas walked away with the javelin throw, hurling the spear 160 feet, 6 1-2 inches.

Ellis of Texas took two first places, winning both the 100-yard dashes, and Graham of Oklahoma scored first in the discus throw and shotput.

OKLAHOMA ENTERS PENN RELAY MEET.

The program for the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival Friday and Saturday is the longest in the history of the meet. It comprises seventy-seven events, thirty-one of which will be decided on Friday and the remainder on Saturday. Several Western university teams, including Missouri, Kansas, and Oklahoma, are entered in the medley races of the pentathlon on Friday.
