At the formal session of the Board of Trustees, meeting on March 3rd, Karl Mueller, of the present Senior class, was elected for the session of 1925-26 for ten months as a Fellow Frog Debaters Go to in the Department of Government.

Mr. Mueller is excellently equipped for this position, which for the most part means an instructorship in freshman Government. Beyond his Meet Austin College Friregular academic training, he has completed five years' work in this particular department, as well as four years' work in the history department.

That Mueller has a thorough understanding of the field with which his appointment deals is verified by his almost perfect grades received during the entire course.

This action of the Board increases the faculty of the Government Department to three, with Dr. John Lord as head; Professor Paul Baker, instructor; and Mueller, a Fellow.

DELAYING CONCLUSIONS

Everyone has certain convictions and beliefs. We often hear the statement that a thing is either right or wrong; that there is only one way to decide the issue, and that a contrary decision is directly in opposition to rightful thinking. These statements are truisms to a marked degree. Yet we, as college students of an age of modern thought, must learn the value of a certain amount of pondering and weighing of evidence. In the main, all issues present at least two viewpoints from which observations can be drawn and conclusions made. We must not be too ready in our censure of acts which seem immediately foreign to our code of thought. Do not understand by this that we suggest your idleness when action is imperative. Our thought is intended to emphasize the fact that individually we have no you get that suit? Looks like a corner on the code of ethics, nor have we the right to condemn million dollars on you.
