T.C.U. CLOSES HOME SEASON SATURDAY

FROGS PULL OLD STRATEGY, BEAT SOONERS 3-0

WASHMON HAS TOE IN FORM FOR WIN

SATURDAY, according to generally accepted calendars, is Oct. 30. This statement while true, is not significant, unless T.C.U. students stop to consider that on that day our Horned Frogs play their last game of the season in the T.C.U. stadium. With three more games to play after the one this week, Matty Bell and Ed Kubal must lead their grenadiers to foreign fields.

THIS being the case, and certified figures being as yet unavailable, we will have to estimate, at least 1,000 students should be in the students' section Saturday yelling their heads off, to put it in the vernacular. Texas Tech will be a stumbling block, and if we are to keep our record of victories in nonconference games clean it will take some valiant bat-and earnest support to achieve a victory.

TALKING about football, in Hornell, a little town in New York state, recently the students went on strike in protest to a decree by the faculty eliminating football from the activities of the high school. "No football, no school" was the slogan of the strikers, who paraded from end to end of the business district, attracting many "leading citizens" as followers.

Education is presumably what we come to school for, but football is an essential element of relief, and we are heartily in favor of the students of Hornell in their strike.

(N.B. — A copy of this journal will be mailed immediately to the principal of Hornell high school for his inspection. Now watch the strike succeed!)

Will Rogers, "the Prince of Entertainers, and the Entertainer of the Prince," will appear as the second number of Mrs. John F. Lyons' course at the First Baptist auditorium Friday night. Rogers is without doubt the wittiest man on the rostrum today—his reviews of the current news are enough to make a dog laugh. If you haven't heard him, be sure you do, its a liberal education, if you have, it won't hurt to hear him again.

PEOPLE get funny ideas. Here is a concern in the East compiling a Bible, each verse of which is to be written in a different hand, some 31,000 of them. Notables, from Babe Ruth and President Coolidge on down (?), will have written one verse each in this unique Bible, which it is estimated, will take two or three years to complete. Photographic plates of these handwritten verses, bound in volumes will probably sell readily to the morbid public, not for the Bible, of course, but for the persons copying the words of departed scribes, prophets and apostles.

BY THE way, "Rhyming Bill" slipped his second poem under the door of "The Skiff's editorial sanctum for this week's journalistic achievement, a travesty on Edgar Allan Poe's "My Annabelle Lee," entitled "My Cannibal Lee." It is to be found on another page in this issue.

Dramatic Club Plans Play; Meet on Monday

The Dramatic club will present a one-act play to its members Monday night entitled, "Tradition," starring Eugenia Carlton. The meeting will be held on the third floor at 7 o'clock, in Prof. Fallis' room, where the business matters will be handled.

The Frogs played little short of inspired ball against their heavier opponents. For the first time this year they looked like the club they should be. They fought hard and all together.

It was Johnny Washmon's toe that gave the Frogs victory. The old combination of Taylor to Clark to Washmon to goal-post functioned perfectly. It looked like old times. Washmon has returned to his old form both on defensive and offensive. His pass backs were perfect and he was his old self on the defensive.

Merlin Toler played a great game at safety running several of the Aggie kicks back for good gains. His punting was also good, as was Clark's. The kicks had a great deal to do with the outcome of the game, and Toler's and Clark's toe work Saturday was the best for the Purple this season.

Fans remarked upon the return to form of Tubby Brewster and Rags Mathews. This year the boys did not get off well but they snapped out of it in the game Saturday. They played some of the best defensive ball that has been played for the Frogs all year. Brewster tore the heavy Aggie interference to pieces, and many were the hearts of fans which thrilled with delight to see two or more of the black and orange jerseys hanging from his big form like ribbons on a May pole. Rags was never out of a play around his end. He fought the interference off, drove the ball into the end, and usually made the tackle. He also smeared an almost impossible pass in the second quarter to put the ball in striking distance.

Evans played a good game, and although suffering from a deep gash under the right eye received early in the game, smeared the Aggie line plays for losses time and again.

Scarborough played his usual steady game at tackle and made several spectacular stops of plunges through his side. Sid Acker, after playing a great game on end, became involved in a little pugilistic argument with Radnich in the last quarter. Both were escorted from the game.

For the Aggies, Bowman, Peery and Redding were the stars.

GLOOM KILLER SHOW FRIDAY NIGHT

DEATH to Gloom!

When? Friday at 8 o'clock in the T.C.U. auditorium.

By whom? By the Pi Kappa Delta show.

Anybody who can keep a straight face through this performance will be given a year's subscription to Good Housekeeping.

How much for this gloom dispeller? Twenty-five cents, the fourth part of a dollar, two dimes and a nickel, three nickels and a dime, five nickels, or what have you? (No pins accepted.)

Two plays, on which the historically inclined members of Pi Kappa Delta, and outside talent engaged especially for the production, have been laboring for lo! these many months, will be high lights on the program. One is a mystery drama, while the other is a comedy entitled "The Workhouse Ward." Both will hold the audience spellbound, one with fear and apprehension, the other with side splitting situations.

A black face act, which, according to Lloyd Armstrong's announcement, and he is a young sophomore noted for his veracity and integrity, will prompt the audience to dig down and give up a dollar in addition to the admission price. In fact, it will be all the Pi Kaps can do to keep from having this money forced upon them.

Other acts appear on the program, but the prize is Prof. Lew D. Fallis' interpretation of the origin of Love, a subject heretofore unexplored by college professors.

Prof. Sammis' melodious orchestra will furnish a brilliant part of the program with their harmonies.

JUNIORS ELECT THEIR OFFICERS

In a recent meeting of the Junior class, Everett Shipp of Ennis, Texas, was elected president. Shipp succeeds Raymond "Rags" Matthews who was president of last year's sophomores. "Bear" Wolf is vice president and Charlotte Housel is secretary.

According to Shipp the Juniors will show some real activities this year. Besides the entertaining of the Seniors, and other formal class activities, the juniors are planning several theatre parties and a skating party at the Columbia Rink.

Shipp called an early meeting of the juniors in order to elect the remaining officers Monday.

The junior class was off to a lagging start in its fish year, but it has about lived that down and is now ready to show the rest of the class just how to put over real peppy class activities. They are relieved of the strain of having to train the fish so have more time in which to plan entertainments.

Debating Schedule Lined Up for Year

The boys' debating team will make only one trip, the one to Texas Tech at Lubbock, this year. They are doing this so that they may go to the tournament of the Pi Kappa Delta in Heidelberg, Ohio next year. About 110 schools will be represented in this tournament.

TEXAS TECH MATADORS BRINGING STRONG TEAM HERE TO FACE PURPLE

THE Technological College Matadors will bring one of the best teams of the school's existence for the game with the T.C.U. Horned Frogs here Saturday, Oct. 30.

Last year the recently established school went through the entire year without a single defeat. So far this year only one game has been lost and that one by a small score.

The game for Saturday promises to be one of the hardest fought encounters of the year. Texas Tech wants in the Southwestern Conference and one of the best ways to accomplish that end is to defeat some of the Southwestern teams. The slogan floating around Lubbock is "Battle TCU" and there is sure to be a royal battle when the two teams trot out on the field Saturday.

Matty Bell's Horned Frogs, snapping into their work with the best spirit shown by them this year, are all primed for game. The fighting spirit which has been absent in the games played so far this year has returned to the Frogs and a great deal of action is promised for the fans when the two teams meet for the first time.

With crisp weather forecast to continue through the early part of the week, both teams, which have been slowed up by the warm weather in their early starts, will be literally on edge.

The Matadors are in good condition and will put their full strength on the field against the Frogs, no abilities will be offered if the Tech team fails to win but they are evading the home of the Horned Frogs with the intention of taking the long end of the score back to Lubbock.

The line-up that Coach Bell will send against the little school from West Texas is uncertain but in all probability Evans and Wolfe will start the game. Brewster and Scarborough will be at tackles. Rags Matthews and Ackerman may get the call for the end positions but they are being hard pressed by Steadman, Mack Clark, Peebles and Self.

The backfield that will start the game is unknown by Bell himself. Several of the men have shown to good advantage in the past few games and it is just a guess as to who Coach Bell will decide to start. Blackie Williams will probably be at his old position at fullback; Clark at quarter and Harry Taylor, Carson, Parrish or Toler at halves.

T.C.U. will unleash an aerial attack, it is certain. Herman Clark, triple threat man, and all-conference quarter-back is the chief passer for the Frogs although Williams is an accurate passer, and sometimes works in this role.

Cecil Cunningham, '30—The school life is more representative as it could be. It is not representative in that there are not so many entertainments.

Gilbert May, '27—This university is different from other universities, but it is ideal for a Christian university. Not having the fraternities and "clans" of other schools, this university does not have the dissension and discord caused by such organizations.

Fine Arts Adds New Department

A new branch of music was added to the Fine Arts Department this year which has already proven itself a wonderful advantage and help to this department.

The teaching of the band and orchestra instruments was introduced William A. Balch teaching the reed instruments and Henry G. Elkins, the brass.

Both me, after taking correspondence courses from northern conservatories during the past summer, are well trained in their work. Members of the band and orchestra receive training under them and have proven to be a great help to the organization.

One of the pioneers of the suburban development of the T.C.U. addition is W. M. Rogers who is proprietor of the University Pharmacy. Mr. Rogers has stuck with T.C.U. for three years now, and has made a great many friends among the students, who appreciate the spirit pervading the "corner drug store." The University Pharmacy has always been on the corner, though it has meant three changes of location, the last of which is by far the best.

The store is well appointed, has next wall tables that are an invitation to couples and quartets seeking refreshment after a strenuous session of classes.

SPORTS

LOOKS like Tubby is his old ground. As soon as Ray went in, it was a different story. Too Ray Wolf is the greatest fumble recoverer in the world. A ball rolling loose on the ground attracts him like a dime side show attracts Jew Holcomb. He just naturally gravitates in that direction.

The game last Saturday was the first in which the Frogs have shown anything like the fight and dash they had last year. I believe the newspapers had a great deal to do with the Frog win. Just let the people know they are the underdogs and someone had better look out.

Bareld Evans played a great game guard, and snared the quick opening line plays with precision. "He" got a lamp cut up but refused to leave the game.

Johnny Washmon is our captain now. His stummock couldn't keep a good man down, especially when his toe that counts and not web internal organs of digestion which are too liable to disorder and pain.

Ray Wolf probably saved the game for us Saturday. Before he went in the Aggies had the boys discouraged with their cut back plays over and over that were gaining so much

CANNIBAL LEE.

(Being a parody on Mr. Poe's little ditty: "Annabelle Lee.")

It was many and many a year ago,
In a kingdom by the sea,
That a maiden there lived whom you may know.

By the name of Cannibal Lee;
And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to eat or be eaten by me.

I was a heathen and she was a heathen,
In this kingdom by the sea,

But we ate with an appetite that was more than an appetite,
I and my Cannibal Lee;
With a digestion that the winged
seraphs of Heaven
Coveted her and me.

And this was the reason that, long ago,
In this kingdom by the sea,
That a ravaging diet unfortunately fattened

My beautiful Cannibal Lee;
So that a very hungry chieftain came
To bear her away from me,
To cook her well for a big supper

In this kingdom by the sea.
Were building a fire for my Cannibal Lee

So! that was the reason (as all heathens know)
In this kingdom by the sea)
That to beat them at their own game,
One night

I was forced to eat my Cannibal Lee.

Now my digestion was stronger by far that that

That of those older than I,
Of many much fatter than I,

But neither the angels in Heaven
above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,

Can ever disperse the taste from my mouth

Or that DELICIOUS Cannibal Lee!

For the moon never beams, without bringing me dreams
Of that tasteful Cannibal Lee;

And the stars never rise but my appetite cries

For another Cannibal Lee

And so, all the night-tide, I thirst and hunger

For my darling—my darling—my nourishment and supper,

In her sepulcher there by the sea,

In her sounding sepulcher—ME.

Yours truly till next week, hoping there will be no indigestion among my readers from this.

Students Attend
Ray Demonstration

Members of the biology and chemistry staffs attended a demonstration of the new ultra-violet ray machine in the physics department Friday evening. President E. M. Waits and Prof. Raymond Smith were also present.

Prof. Newton Gaines, who conducted the demonstration, explained the significance of ultra-violet light in stage lighting. Interesting and beautiful effects were obtained with the light in observing the re-radiation of various fluorescent substances such as uranium glass vases. An interesting feature of the light in stage use is that colored players may be made to appear white under ultra-violet rays by the application of ordinary vaseline.

Experiments were performed in which the energy produced by the light caused definite movement of small particles of metal.

A HOMECOMING GAME

PRACTICALLY every large college and university with any tradition behind it at all with which we have an acquaintance annually celebrates its "Homecoming" with a big football game and accompanying reunions. Yet, Texas Christian University, our university, with a remarkable rich tradition for an institution only a little over half a century old, has no such occasion.

T.C.U.'s Ex-Student relations are not anywhere approximating those maintained by universities like Texas and S.M.U., Arkansas and Oklahoma A. & M. We do not say this with the intention of placing blame upon those in charge of these relations, but offer the idea of an annual Homecoming game as a suggestion that might aid in a closer cementing of the ties that bind the "exes" with their alma mater.

The idea, as most know, is to set a certain date each year as the Homecoming, and always make that an at home game, no matter who the opponent is, preferably, of course, some conference member, so that the interest in the game itself would attract many of the former students.

T.C.U. is no longer a baby—it is getting up in the world. Why, then, can we not act like grownups in this respect? Of course, a school like Texas Tech, just begun, can not have a celebration such as this, but we are nearly 57 years old! In that time though short as lives of universities go, T.C.U. graduated thousands of men and women, a great number of whom are available, and would be willing to help their school if some attention were paid them.

ENGINEERING SCHOOL GETS START IN TCU

Editor's Note:—This is another article in the series on T.C.U.'s Departments, their growth and personnel.

The new engineering school organized this year in TCU has as its head Mr. John Corliss. Mr. Corliss took both his A. B. and A. M. degrees from Mississippi University. He received special distinction as senior class speaker in the class of 1925. He was a member of the Engineering club, and the Hermaean Literary society of which he was president. He formed an honorary scholastic society and was president of this also. He was manager of the University Artists Course which provided the entertainment for the university.

Mr. Corliss plans to build up the engineering school until it is one of the best in this section. A special attempt will be made to give a course that will be applicable to Texas. This course is to be planned according to the standards and work laid out by the University of Texas so that a student could transfer from TCU to the University and enter the junior class. There will be a course in map drawing since there is a special demand for this kind of work. Oil companies in Texas offer as high as $165 and up a month for this. About 20 have enrolled in the engineering school and the department is expected to grow rapidly.

Commenting upon campus life of TCU Mr. Corliss said there seemed to be a lack of student activities. Quoting Mr. Corliss: "TCU needs more social life such as literary societies, and clubs in the different departments. College is the place to broaden out, meet your fellow students, and acquire social tact. TCU has great possibilities and a bright future. And the girls—I have never in all my life seen so many pretty girls as I have since I came to Texas. I am interested in athletics. I never miss a basketball, baseball, or football game, and I expect to keep up this record. I like Texas and its people, TCU and its students, and I'm looking forward to my work here with a great deal of pleasure."

Mr. Corliss received his A. B. degree from the University of Mississippi in 1925 and in 1926 completed work on his A. M. degree. During his college life, he took an active part in various organizations, serving in the following capacities: President of Hermaean Literary Society, Critic of Engineering Club, president of group petitioning Phi Beta Kappa, manager of University Artists Course. Corliss stated that during his five years at the university he has never missed any football, basketball, or baseball game.

Chapel Attendance Makes Big Jump

Chapel attendance has suddenly increased by leaps and bounds. Whereas before we were greeted on every side by rows of empty seats now large numbers of students entirely fill the auditorium at each chapel session. Junior, sophomores, and freshmen all flock to chapel, only the seniors are missing, why this sudden interest in chapel? This is explained easily enough. Mr. Tucker has commenced checking. Only seniors and those day students who have no classes after 10 o'clock are excused from attending this year.

The TCU Woman's Club entertained at Open House for the new members Sunday afternoon between the hours of four and six in the living suite at Jarvis Hall. Mrs. Allene Terrell, president of the organization, Mrs. John Ballard, chairman of the entertainment, and Mrs. Sadie Beckham, hostess of Jarvis Hall were assisted in the house party by Mrs. J. E. Mothershead, Mrs. Helen Aden, Mrs. Anna Ratliff, Misses Robbie Lee Polk, Jamie Mae Giffen, Helen Boren, Rowena Johnston, and Odessa Johnson.

The reception rooms were made colorful and attractive with the decorations of cut flowers in tall vases. Music lend charm to the congenial atmosphere. Russian tea, cheese sandwiches and mints in the Halloween colors of black and yellow made a tempting plate which was served to the guests.

Brushes Club Will Initiate Tomorrow

Definite plans for the initiation of 17 new Brushes were made last Wednesday at a meeting of all the old members. The chairmen of the various committees which will be in charge of the initiation are: Ileen Timmerman, chairman of the decoration committee; Betty Southwell, chairman of program committee; Margaret Rankin, chairman of refreshments and Loyda Fuller, chair-

DEAN SUGGESTS ALL DAY CLASS SYSTEM FOR TCU

Suggestion that the continuation of classes until 3:30 in the afternoon could probably relieve the congestion in the library as well as giving the town students more campus life was presented to the TCU Parent-Teachers' Association last Friday by Dean Colby D. Hall. Such an extension of class time would result in the distribution of free periods in a manner that would solve the library problem and at the same time give the town students opportunity to really become at home on the campus.

Dean Hall's speech to the association was mainly a plea for interest and activity by the P.T.A. This was also the point of talks by President Waits and Professor McDermid.

An Open Letter to
My Dear Co-Ed—

Aren't you wondering tonight what you are going to wear to the game Thanksgiving and the dance that evening?

Yes, that sport outfit in the afternoon with a chic little felt hat and that gorgeous evening gown to the Prom. Of course, that reminds you that you must shop at once to complete your wardrobe.

And speaking of hats—there are so many of the little felts for campus and sport wear that you will be tickled to make a selection. And for dinner and evening wear there are hundreds of beautiful hats in combination effects which glitter with metallic trims and lend the confidence of being correctly dressed.

We shall be glad to have you call and see for yourself.

Very sincerely yours,

Beautiful New Building

BLUEBONNET IS PRETTY PLACE

The Bluebonnet is Texas' state flower, and at T.C.U. it also has a significance — the Bluebonnet Tea Room. Mrs. Harris is the proprietress of this pretty little emporium. Blue is the predominant color in the scheme, making a restful place for sore eyes, made sore by digging over texts. It is pleasant, when breakfast, lunch or supper times come, to go to the Bluebonnet to appease your hunger. Not only is the environment conducive to enjoyable meals, but the edibles are well prepared and served in tasty fashion.

BEAUTY PARLOR WELL EQUIPPED

With modernly scientific beauty parlors there is absolutely no excuse for a wholesome girl to look "down in the mouth." Helen's Beauty Parlor, in the new building, is equipped to furnish every beauty aid known. The attendants cater especially to the students as well as the ladies on the hill. Newly established, the beauty parlor is open for inspection and the attendants are at all times ready to show anything that milady desires.

D KING'S CANDIES

which houses the University Pharmacy, the Bluebonnet Tea Room, Fishburn's Cleaners and Helen's Beauty Parlor. This is, unlike most store buildings, positively a credit to the campus, being ornate, well designed and in general blending with the T.C.U. buildings.

The Faculty's Reply

Following is Dr. Waits' reply in behalf of the faculty cabinet, to the students' plea for an open library at night:

Mr. Hubert Anderson,
President Student Body,

Texas Christian University,

Fort Worth, Texas.

My Dear Mr. Anderson:

I am writing this letter in response to the petition which was brought by you and Mr. Jacobs from the student body in regard to the opening of the library at night.

The petition, together with all the arguments pro and con were presented at the regular meeting of the cabinet at its meeting yesterday afternoon. In addition to the regular cabinet members, Mr. R. A. Curry, the librarian, and Mr. B. S. Smiser, the business manager, were asked to sit in this meeting. After extensive deliberation the matter was referred to the library committee consisting of Mr. Curry, Dr. Hughes, Prof. McDermid and Prof. Roberts. This committee presented the following resolution which was adopted unanimously by the entire cabinet:

"Be it resolved that we receive with interest the petition of the students asking for the opening of the library at night, and that we approve the principle involved. Recognizing that financial conditions make an immediate adoption of the plan impossible, we propose as a relief measure that additional reserve books be purchased and so loaned as to meet the needs of students who are on the athletic teams and of those who are regularly employed during the afternoon."

Allow me to say as president that we do regret very much our inability to finance the opening of the library during the evening hours at the present time, as it would necessitate an addition of about $2,500 to our budget. But we believe that the willingness on the part of the present administration to provide the additional reserve books for the benefit of the athletic teams and those young men who are employed, will at least bring temporary relief.

Very sincerely,
TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY,
EDWARD McSHANE WAITS, President.

Some of the races are over now. The faculty calls them exams but I prefer to call them races because it sometimes happens that the fellow who has the best stable of ponies gets the highest honors, but then again, there is always a big danger of being forced to imitate the Prince of Wales.

ALL BBA students should get ready for the BBA banquet which will be soon after Christmas. Everybody always has a good time. This year we will elect the most popular BBA girl student who will represent BBA at all functions for the rest of the year.

C. A. Rogers lectured to the Advance Accounting class on Monday on the accounting system of the Bus Transportation Company. Rogers is a graduate of the class in Business Administration of 1926.

Mr. Ballard was tried and found guilty before a court of law last week in Business Law class of eating one more pink Eskimo pie than was strictly ethical.

It seems that two weeks ago C. C. Peters and Ted Brown were indiscreet to the extent of eating in the Business Law classroom, and as a result were "stuck." They established credit across the street and brought in the Eskimo pie for the whole class. Two students who got pink pies were entitled to another one but unluckily they elected to eat them in the classroom. Mr. Ballard gleefully judged them guilty of a misdemeanor and as a result they brought in the pies next time. However on that occasion Mr. Ballard was the lucky pink pie receiver.

Some generously inclined student hastened to get the second one for him and lo! he was still eating when it was time for class to begin. Jim Stuart was elected judge with Raps Matthews as prosecuting attorney while Mr. Ballard acted as his own counsel. They prosecuted him and justice was given because we hear that Business Law class had more Eskimo pies this week.
