Profs, Students Pitch In To Produce Foodstuffs

By DIXIE BELLE WILLIAMS

"Enough corn for all the faculty" is the promise of President M. E. Sadler, as he surveys his victory garden. But he will have to do some mighty tall farming to keep up with faculty members—and students, too—who are finding both a recreational and a patriotic activity in going back to the soil.

Besides planting vegetables in his yard at home, President Sadler tends a sizeable piece of land on L. C. Wright's farm. "Mr. Pete" has set off 10 rows, each 210 feet long, for President Sadler's corn, beans, onions, beets and mustard greens. So about 5 o'clock in the afternoon you'll find the president on his way to tend his garden.

Gardening serves a two-fold purpose with President Sadler. It is his only recreation—because he no longer has time for golf—and it helps feed the Sadler family. He especially is proud of his "Kentucky Wonder" beans, which yielded 63 jars last year out of his yard alone.

Miss Eula Lee Carter, not to be outdone by the Heinz people, grew 58 varieties last year in her garden, "El Ranchito." She and Miss Phyllis Ellis, with whom she lives, are already reaping the fruits of their labor this year—fresh strawberries and asparagus. They also raise chickens, ducks and turkeys.

Three professors who live on Westcliff Road, West, have set out gardens on the lots which run down the bluff behind their houses. Prof. C. R. Sherer has "almost everything that will grow" in his garden. He adds that "I can't get my wife to do any of the work."

Besides vegetables, and a hothed for his plants, Prof. Sherer has chickens and "10,000 pill bugs."

Also over on the bluff are the farms of Dr. W. J. Hammond and Dr. H. R. Mundhenke. Dr. Hammond doesn't call his a "victory" garden, because he had one long before the war. Since he was rearred on a farm, growing things is just second-nature with him.

Dr. Hammond's hobby changes from year to year, and this spring it looks as if it will be bees—or ducks. A hive of bees and a hog will arrive at the Hammond residence April 1, but Dr. Hammond still likes the idea of ducks. As for planting, he has his land mostly in potatoes this year. He also has chickens, and gets a dozen eggs a day.

Dr. Mundhenke is one up on all the others. He has a cow.

"I'm the capitalist, and my neighbor is the laborer," he says, because while it is his cow, a neighbor takes care of it. The cow does her part by furnishing both with ample cream and butter. Dr. Mundhenke also has chickens. He plans to set out mostly berries in his garden this year.

The matinee dances, held from 4 to 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoons, are continuing, says Geib. They are free, and everyone is urged to come stag.

The chorus will conclude the program with a college medley.

Lora Exchanges Chocolate Cake For Gum Supply

"Say, Lora, how about a piece of chewing gum?"

"What kind? You get your preference today. Will it be Juicy Fruit, Dentyne, Spearmint, Doublemint or Charcoal?"

Students hearing this conversation in the girls' lounge this week wondered whether their ears were clean, or whether it was just a couple of girls doing a little wishful thinking.

Confidentially, it was neither. For Lora Dell Harwood has Pfc. Johnny Farris, who is stationed in Kentucky, so well trained that he keeps her supplied with gum every week. She refuses to divulge the exact number of packages received, but it was 20 last week. And even more this week.

"The secret of my success," says Lora, "is to send him a big chocolate cake every week. Then, I just casually mention I sure wish I had some chewing gum, and before you know it, there it is. Some system!"

The future of the world somehow looks a little rosier when we stop to contemplate the fact that women are no longer afraid of mathematics and the natural sciences. The girl of today is likely to be as enthusiastic about test tubes and slide rules as her mother was over poetry and sewing machines.

Four T. C. U. coeds—Misses June Mooney, sophomore; Priscilla Hensley, ex '43; Sherley Barnes, ex '43; and Blanche Patterson, ex '42—left this week to start a special course at the University of Texas which will equip them for jobs as assistants in radar experimentation.

Their schedule between now and September runs something like this—8 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily: Algebra, trigonometry, plane geometry, solid geometry, physics, chemistry, radio theory and radio electronics. Such a task would have put grandmother in a smelling-salts mood. It's even enough to make a V-12 man's hair stand on end!

It's sincerity, not undue modesty, that makes James Standridge, better known as "Long John," a little evasive when asked how he got the Purple Heart. "I hit my knee while standing in chow line," is a typical answer. Real heroes are those with a brave heart and a big sense of humor, not a big head.

Female collegiate opinion on the Sinatra question, now that "The Voice" hit town in the movies this week, may be summed up in two brief words: "He's okay." Still, after one sitting on show row, most of them were ready to leave without further sighs of "Oh, Frankie!" From various sources came these comments: "He isn't too good looking, but how he can sing!" "His ears are too big." "It must be the eyes that get those squealing bobbysox girls." "I went to the show all prepared to hate him, but, you know, he's kinda cute!"

Prayer
*Lord, judge not too harshly on that day
You judge the world,
For we who chose the other way
Were made perhaps from weaker sod,
And it was You who made the devil, God.*
—Avis Hadden.

Had your heard? There's a new club making its way on the campus with considerable speed and enthusiasm. It's the "Anti-Texas Club," organized mainly by those in the V-12—naturally, those who are not from Texas. This is not the first outbreak of such an attitude; it has happened in several other places. Could be that we Texans are overdoing this bragging business. What's your definition of a bore?

The photographer was taking a picture of the former Miss Florian Felkner and her new husband. The picture taker chose the moment when the new bride and groom were cutting the wedding cake. With the camera pointed at the scene, the photographer placed the groom's arm around the bride and then blurted out: "Now look like you're glad you got her!"

Dr. Paul Dinkins had just settled down to an afternoon of reading when the door bell rang. He opened the door and saw there a 5-year-old neighbor girl. "Here," she said as she thrust a handful of lilacs at him. He took the lilacs. "Goodbye," she said, and walked away. "I really don't think she gave me the lilacs because she likes me," says P. D. "I think her grandmother, having plowed up the lilac bush in connection with victory garden activities, was just trying to get rid of the flowers."

How many stars can a service flag have? If T. C. U.'s flag keeps on growing and growing, where will the additional stars be put? One member of the Student Council suggests that enough stars be removed from the center of the flag to make room for a number, which could be changed from time to time, showing the total number of exes in service. V-12 men are definitely T. C. U. exes. Someone has suggested a separate service flag for them, however. The Council would like to have students' opinions or suggestions.

Mrs. Sterling P'Pool is watching one corner of her victory garden with an anxious eye. She's not sure just what is going to come up. Some weeks ago, an unknown benefactor slipped an unlabeled packet of seeds into the registrar's office. When Registrar S. W. Hutton and Mrs. P'Pool discovered it, they couldn't figure out what the seeds were. So Mrs. P'Pool agreed to plant them in the garden she and her husband had started. Now they're awaiting further developments.

Carter, of fire-eating and hall-sweeping reknown, claims he has "the biggest victory garden in Fort Worth." It is planted on the campus grounds, behind the shed. Carter works the ground faithfully and has at least 13 different varieties of vegetables planted. He intends to sell them.

Several students have started gardens, too. Miss Anne Faris, who graduated in February, is growing onions for her home-made hamburgers. She also will plant squash later, because onions and squash together makes one of her favorite dishes.

"I had counted on planting some carrots," Anne says, "but there is a little rabbit that keeps sniffing around my garden."

Miss Gladys Cain is one of a family of five; so the ration point worries of that clan are easily taken care of. Each one does his part in the victory garden, and Gladys is confident that she's getting her share of the work. Miss Felicia Morse and her family enjoyed fresh asparagus on their table last week—but if you pin her right down, she'll confess that the planting wasn't done by her—or her sister Rosemary. Like Tony, it just grew.

Miss Barbara Bundock has the most unusual victory garden of all. She is growing flowers—keep up her morale.

"I ploughed my beds in the rain Saturday," says Barbara. "I had to hurry and get it done before my

Your Job Tomorrow —★—★— These April Showers

With the termination of government war contracts already beginning, it is becoming evident to more and more people that postwar job planning now is not premature.

As defense factories find their jobs done, thousands of workers already are being put back on the list of the unemployed. This list is being swelled, too, by the large number of veterans who are being discharged from the armed forces.

The student who leaves college tomorrow, be it with or without a degree, will find himself in an unusual position. He will be competing with workers whose school has been experience. He will find that first choice in the matter of jobs will go to the discharged veteran, even though he may not be so well trained as the college man. The latter, to hold any position of worth, will have to be superior, rather than average.

The importance of college training has increased in the last few years. A college degree is already a prerequisite for many jobs. But in the business world of the postwar era, and even in the period of time between now and the end of the war, if it is a long one, a sheepskin will no longer be a guarantee of consideration. It will help, certainly, but the importance will lie in the skill the holder has gained because of it—in his potentialities, not in his degree.

Industry is being urged to take steps

now to meet the demand for postwar jobs. Progress has already been made on the problem in some areas. After the veterans are taken care of, it still will be the man who can do the job best who will get the job—whether he is college trained or a graduate of experience.

Rain, according to all scientific principles, is a sudden flow of water from the heavens. Sometimes it appears in frozen form, and is then known variously as snow, hail or sleet.

History has recorded rains of manna, frogs and cannon balls, but let us not concern ourselves with these.

Rain on a college campus is something that always happens just in time for a club picnic, garden party or outdoor tea. It is also quite prevalent during days of celebration—football games, Homecoming, graduation.

Coeds recognize rain as an occurrence that results inevitably from wearing shoes with no toes and heels. Boys know it as something which happens when they have bus fare billfolds and their girls have taxicab ideas.

Rain is a herald of spring; it brings "May flowers." Drag out your umbrella and hip-length boots, and hope that it'll be over soon.

Joe's abbers

By Joe Shosid

At the Stock Show Track Meet to uncover one of the most outstanding athletes of the week. For Track Coach McQuillan it was a pleasant surprise indeed.

Charles Robinson, who only this trimester transferred from Texas A. & M., is a midyear graduate of Paschal High.

Robinson's official capacity at the meet was that of chief of the meet, but nothing kept him from noticing the smooth-running Robinson win the mile run "Victory Division" in fairly good time, considering the track was after a heavy rain.

Robinson came back some minutes later to take second in the 880. McQuillan was surprised. The greatest surprise of all was when Hub the boy was a T. C. U.

A boy like Robinson to join McQuillan had to form a team. Now the Frogs will be represented at the South-Western Conference Meet, scheduled sometime in May.

More than one onlooker was amazed at the accuracy of Scott's passing the first day of spring training. Running the tailback slot, the back should produce some passing for the Frogs.

Another first-year man to join is Harry Mullins. Fans can see him getting plenty of action next fall.

Frog line play should really be something to watch this fall. Plenty of weight and experience end to end. Coach Meyer likes Zeke Chronister, Billy Jones, Dub Garren and Shirley on returning, not to mention a flock of freshman heavies on the list.

Jones, Bryan Taylor, Embry and Herman Smith were especially good in work the past week. Line Coach Meyer, who likes his forwards tough, should really get his fulfillment.

The candidates already out, the Frogs could field a line that weigh on the average with the forward walls of recent teams. Most of the boys have plenty of school experience under their belts.

T. C. U. footballers will probably to the post next fall facing a nine-game schedule. There are three home games with Texas Tech, and Arkansas, Kansas, Oklahoma, A. & M., and S. M. U. will be there.

Ever, contacts are being made to schedule a ninth game, probably at home. However, Meyer says, if they get an offer to play away from that would be suitable.

Kansas U. game will probably be played in Kansas City. Texas Aggie game might be transferred from College Station to Fort Worth.

Frogs' regular spring foot practice ends some three weeks hence, but a complete training period, up until the regular season has been mapped out by Meyer. From July 10 to Aug. 1, hold informal drills, withdrawing out. Aug. 20, the boys begin regular fall workouts.

Flowers Moved to Backfield

Meyer Pleased With Early Form of Some 45 Reporting For First Spring Work-Outs

Work, work and more work will be the order of the day for Horned Frog gridsters for the better part of next week, with no scrimmaging scheduled until late in the week. Some 45 boys have reported for spring training to Coaches Dutch Meyer and Hub McQuillan, 28 from the V-12 unit.

Meyer has moved Clyde Flowers, all-conference tackle last year, into the backfield as the flanker-back, where his weight and speed should really help the Frogs. However, his trick knee may not be able to stand up to the heavy strain of being the key man in most of the plays.

Looking well in the backfield along with Flowers after the first few days are light-headed Scotty Rainey; Joe Kucera, V-12 transfer from Rice; and Harry Mullins, a 175-pound all-district wingback from Tech High.

V-12 Men Listed

Included among the V-12ers are Jim Applegate, Harry Baxter, Glynn Baxter, W. A. Bilsing, W. L. Bradshaw, Ed Cornelius, Cecil Cox, Ernest Dunning, C. A. Fagan, George Gartner, Dave Hibbard, Albin Houdek, Paul Ifland, Ransom Jackson, Ty Jennings, John Katselas, John Kivlen, Kucera, R. B. Ledridge, Steve Lewis, Leslie Lynch, Grover Miley, George Norton, Bob Nunn, H. J. Overbeck, Leon Patrick, C. D. Richards, and Bob Woolridge.

Zeke Chronister, Bob Buschman, Bryan Taylor, Carl Jones, Embry Walton, Billy Dameron, Bill Pannell, Shirley Anderson, Herman Smith, Flowers, Jesse Mason, Mullins, Rainey, Gilbert Grady, Dick Geib, and Don McGehee are among the civilians on the squad.

Chronister Misses Practice

Chronister missed the first few days of practice when he went with an independent team to Denver to play in a basketball tourney there. Dameron is out recuperating from a nose operation.

Meyer expects some 15 more civilians to enroll July 1 and hopes to have at least 25 or 30 civilians on the squad throughout the season. Some of the naval trainees expect to leave school by Nov. 1 when a new class comes in.

The W. S. A. dance planned for tomorrow will not be held, reports Miss Alice Lou Linton, president of the club. Plans will be made later for a club encampment.

First T. C. U. V-12s Commissioned

T. C. U.'s first V-12 men to receive commissions have just graduated from Midshipman School at Northwestern University. Among those men who now have the title "Ensign" before their names are Kirby Ellis, John Carlson, Frank Benton, Oscar Lindeman, Robert Moller, Jack James, Kenneth Bowman, Charles Goebel, Thomas Wells, Dudley Sullivan and M. W. Robertson.

The men received 15 weeks training at Evanston, Ill., before they were commissioned. The next group of men from T. C. U. at Northwestern will get their "stripe" May 10.

The painting of individual rooms in Goode Hall began this week and will be carried on until all painting and plastering work requests have been fulfilled, says Hugh Baker, house manager.

Books to War Work Is Student Swing Shift

Entertaining service men, working with the various branches of the Red Cross, being a blood donor, working in a war plant—they're all part of the wartime job T. C. U. students are doing.

A favorite branch of the Red Cross with coeds is the Motor Corps. BETTY CAVENDAR, BOBIE BILLINGSLEY, BETTY POPE, MARY JANE REINEKE, PIT STEELE and NOVELLA WILSON are steady workers with the group.

GLADYS SMYTHE is a nurse's aide, and AVIS HADGÉN plans to begin this work when the next class opens. DGT MOSELEY keeps her knitting needles busy for the Red Cross. Blood donors are plentiful on the campus. Among the latest are BETTY and KAY HANIFIN, FRANCES ALEXANDER, DOROTHY NIES and BOB MATHENY.

Doing double-time work by going to school and working at Convaire, too, are WILHELMINA SHIELDS and WILMA JEAN RUDEMOSE. SALLY SIMPSON has 50 hours of flying time in the C. A. P. and hopes to join the ferry command soon.

Over at the Service Men's Center, you'll find T. C. U.ites busy nearly every day. HELEN ANDERSON works there as check girl on Wednesdays, and ALICE INSKEEP plays the violin there every Sunday afternoon. Librarian RUTH WHITE goes down once a week to see that the S. M. C. library is kept straight. BETTY JUNE BRADFORD does typing for the center.

MITZI TUCKER and LEE WEBB are among the girls who reserve Saturday evening for dancing with the cadets at the Hotel Texas Cadet Club. BETTY STARK and MARY GENE HANDY do canteen work at their homes in Gainesville and Wichita Falls.

Directing recreational activities for both children and adults at the Liberator Village takes an afternoon a week for each of several coeds. CONNIE GREEN, BARBARA BUNDOCK, GEORGIA COLLINS, "TALLULAH" LINTON, CORINNE JORDAN, MARY KATE McCUISTION, LOIS AUCOIN and BETTY JEAN HAASIS rotate their duties there.

Many students do their bit right on the campus. The CAMPUS CLUB members entertain members of the armed forces with dances regularly. MARGE O'CONNOR, ESTELLE SOUTHWICK and DOROTHY FORRESTER are among the many members. And BONNIE HALL, besides being a member of the club, is a consistent worker at the bond booth in the Administration Building two days each week. She also is chairman of the Frog War Fund Committee of the Student Council.

The Dramatic Club will hold an initiation for new members at 5 p. m. April 2 at the home of Miss Dorothy Nuss.
