ROTC Units to Offer Up to 20 Hours' Credit

BY JIMMY BROWDER

Up to 20 semester hours may be received by students who enroll in the Army Transportation Corps and Air Force ROTC units to begin operation next fall, announces Vice-President Otto R. Nielsen.

Two semester hours' credit will be given for each semester of basic training and three hours for each semester of advanced training.

Four of the total hours will fulfill the physical training requirement, and the remaining hours may be used as elective credits.

To be granted deferment from Selective Service through the ROTC, announces Capt. V. L. Warner, a student must be enrolled in a full time course leading to a degree, and must be enrolled in the senior ROTC for at least one semester. A student must also maintain the desired level of scholarship and deportment in both academic and military subjects and demonstrate proper leadership ability.

The student must remain in continuous enrollment in the senior ROTC division. If he fails to re-enroll after the semester in which he was deferred, his deferment will be canceled and his draft board notified.

If a student transfers to another college where there is an ROTC unit, he is obligated to finish his contract there. If he enters a school where there is no unit or withdraws from school entirely, his contract is canceled.

Advanced students will receive a daily subsistence allowance of approximately 90 cents per day. This allowance is paid throughout the two years of advanced training, including the summer vacation.

Travel pay of about five cents

Successful graduates of ROTC are offered second lieutenant reserve commissions, which may be declined by any cadet except those granted deferments. Recipients of deferments agree to accept a commission and serve in the active forces for two years, if called.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from Capt. Warner in Room 103 of the Administration Building.

Farewell Dance To Be Last 'Fling'

Students will take one last fling tonight before they plunge into Dead Week studies.

Occasion will be the annual Farewell Dance at the Casino, starting at 8 p.m. and lasting until midnight.

Leon Breeden, former T. C. U. band director, and his orchestra will play. Dress is informal.

Tickets are $1.50 in the lounge and $2 at the Casino.

Dead Week will begin Monday.

Ewart Wyle . . . Rubber Stomach

Takes Ten at a Time

Future Minister Makes 'Burger Business Bounce

BY WALLACE BROWN

Ewart "King" Wyle, Tyler Junior, likes hamburgers. In fact, he set the unofficial record at a Hill hamburger emporium this spring by consuming 10 of the beef-and-banquets at one setting.

Wyle, who is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 145 pounds, set the 10-burger record while engaged in a three-way contest at the Spudnut Shop. His two competitors, Don Buck, Austin freshman, and Joe Hearn, Fort Worth Junior, ran a poor second and third by eating six and five hamburgers, respectively.

When Wyle made his first visit to the Spudnut Shop the waitress refused to serve him his seventh hamburger after watching him "finish off" six in a row.

"I told him that while our hamburgers are made of quality ingredients, I was afraid he was going to make himself sick," she related.

But Wyle had an answer.

"My love for hamburgers started when my father and I had a contest, which I won by eating five," Wyle said. "That doesn't sound like many, but I was only 7-years-old at the time. I have really liked hamburgers ever since."

A religion major, Wyle represents the tenth generation of ministers in his family. His father and grandfather are active preachers now, and Wyle is a student minister at Montalba.

Wyle, who likes his delicacy plus catsup and minus onions, has been dubbed "King" by other patrons because of his omnipotent power over the stuffed buns. Orders are now taken as "Kingburgers" to avoid confusion.

When "King" and his family go on vacation each year, he looks for good hamburger stands and keeps a list.

"I think I will become the Duncan Hines of the hamburger business," he said, as his fourth 'burger disappeared.

W. S. S. F. Drive Nets $180; Goal Was $2500

Approximately $180 was collected in last week's drive for the World Student Service Fund. This year's goal was $2500.

The drive, which consisted of personal solicitations in the dormitories and on the campus, ended Friday night with a dance in the Study Lounge attended by about 40 students.

Last year $1445 was collected for the fund. The Student Association Congress alone contributed $500 to last year's drive.

Congress this year voted to provide $250 for campaign expenses but not to give any money directly to the W. S. S. F.

A motion was made at congress Monday night to contribute the ex-

Three Clubs Plan Forum For Next Fall

A student forum for those interested in public affairs, endorsed by The Skiff in recent issues, is being planned for next fall under the combined sponsorship of three campus groups.

The International Relations Club, World Federalist Club and a group of Fine Arts students have appointed members to a planning committee. They are Richard Growald, sophomore; Jimmy Ames, Junior, and Miss Joyce Rogers freshman, all of Fort Worth.

Dr. August O. Spain, government department chairman, and Dr. William J. Hammond, history department chairman, will be faculty department sponsors.

"The program will encourage students to begin a habit of citizenship thinking," said Dr. Spain.

Critical problems of public affairs will be discussed by participants in the forum, which will be organized on the style of the "Town Meeting of the Air."

pense money not yet spent on the fund. No action was taken because congress at that time did not have a quorum.

"Not being able to make class solicitations resulted in a large number of students not being reached," Miss Sue Scott, chairman of the drive, said.

"Conducting the drive so near to the end of the school year also contributed to its failure," she said.

A sample poll indicated that many students and faculty members were not asked to contribute.

Jimmy Paschal, another member of the committee, said he believed the main reason for the failure was that "the collection committees did not collect."

Dobie, Miss Johnson To Speak Here Friday

A "Dutch treat luncheon by invitation only" is planned for J. Frank Dobie, guest speaker for the Creative Writing Day program next Friday, Miss Mabel Major, professor of English, announced this week.

J. Frank Dobie

Dobie, well known author and authority on Southwestern folklore, will speak on "The Writer and His Region" at an 11 a. m. assembly in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The luncheon, at 12:30 in Colonial Cafeteria, will honor Dobie and the winners of the 12 divisions of the contest.

"The Life of a Writer in the Southwest" will be the title of an address by Dobie in the Little Theater at 3 p. m. Sigma Tau Delta and Anglia Clubs will have a coffee in the Green Room of the Fine Arts Building.

Another author of prominence to be present is Miss Siddle Joe Johnson, B.A. '32. Miss Johnson, children's librarian at the Dallas Public Library, is best known for "Agrita Berry," a volume of poetry and "Rabbit Fires," a book for children.

The Lena Agnes Johnson Award for the best literature for children, being given for the first time this year, was established by Miss Johnson. She will present the prize to the winner.

Miss Johnson will speak to all student entrants.

Dobie, who was given an honorary Doctor of Literature degree by T. C. U. in 1940, was a visiting professor at Cambridge University in England during the war. "A Texan in England" is the title of a book written about his experiences there.

Dobie is a contributor to the Saturday Evening Post and other national magazines. He also has a column in the Sunday Star-Telegram.

This will be Dobie's first visit to the campus since the war.

Stimson Cited At Air Meet

Professor Troy A. Stimson was back in his classroom this week after having been cited in Norman, Okla., as the man directly responsible for keeping the National Intercollegiate Air Meets going.

In 1948 when the group, then known as the National Intercollegiate Flying Association, almost disbanded, Professor Stimson took command of records and under him T. C. U. sponsored the 1949 meet at the Eagle Mountain National Guard Base.

Joe Helm, Fort Worth senior, placed fifth in the bomb dropping contest to give the T. C. U. group its only point.

The University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, and McAlister College, St. Paul, were top winners in the meet, which included 13 schools.

T. C. U.'s entries missed the navigation event because of a broken propeller, caused when the ship nosed over while on the ground.

The Flying Frogs' plane was left in Oklahoma City because of failure of the carburetor heater.

Social Work Offered By Houston Association

An opportunity for students interested in group work will be provided by the Houston Settlement House Association this summer.

The students will live in a settlement house and receive $25 a month plus 10 hours of instruction a week.

Anyone interested should contact C. Stanley Clifton, assistant professor of sociology.

He personally destroyed one enemy T-34 tank and annihilated approximately 300 enemy troops, according to a report by the Far East Air Forces.

Muse, from Palestine, has served in the Air Force for the past three years.

He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in journalism in 1948.

Crowd Gets Rhythm At "Crest" Opening

BY CLYDE MOORE

"Rhythm waves" of applause greeted the world premier of "Crest of the Wave" in the Little Theater Tuesday night.

"Crest," the latest endeavor of the drama department, was presented before a sell-out crowd at T. C. U.'s second dramatic world premier.

Written by David Preston, ballet master, the play is produced in keeping with a series of events honoring the works of contemporary American artists, composers and playwrights.

The play itself is hilarious. Dealing with a woman dominated by many and diversifed fads, the play presents the hypothesis that everything is controlled by rhythm and its waves.

The author's genius for comical situations is dimmed only slightly by the fair to poor dialogue in parts of the manuscript.

After the final scene, Preston, obviously touched by the extraordinary applause, ascended to the stage and modestly indicated that credit should go to the cast.

Players, boosted by the excellent direction of Frank Magers, have pushed the comedy into the worthwhile stage.

Special recognition should go to Miss Barbara Miller for her portrayal of Maude, a life-beaten dancer with an "I predict doom" attitude.

Of the other cast members, Miss Sarah Rhodes, Miss Janan Hart and Floyd Lisle will most likely be remembered for fine performances.

Characterizations by Nelson Embelton, Miss Lee Harris and Bob Weston, although somewhat stiff, were adequate. Stiffness, however, could have been a result of opening night jitters.

The set, designed by the director, was one of imagination and excellent planning. Magers, working on the production as part of thesis requirements for a degree of Master of Fine Arts, had his hands full with a large cast and immense scenery problems.

Lighting, sound, costumes and stage management neared perfection and everyone involved deserves laurels.

Four more performances of the play will be given—tonight, tomorrow, Monday and Tuesday. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

On the whole, the production is well worth the time and effort. Anyone interested in comedy cannot go wrong by boarding the band wagon and "riding the Crest of the Wave."

KTCU to Soothe Studying Pains In Dead Week

Music for inspiration will be heard during Dead Week—exam inspiration, that is.

Dick Osburn, manager of KTCU, announced Tuesday the campus station will feature "soft and relaxing music" while students are trying to study.

"The idea behind the move," Osburn noted, "is that many persons prefer a quiet melody to help their thinking."

"Along with the calm refrains we'll have a few short newscasts to keep people abreast with current events," the Dallas senior remarked.

KTCU will be "off the air" this summer.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENTS

The end of May marks not only graduation for seniors, and the beginning of a three-month reprieve for other students, but the close of a legislative year for the Student Congress as well.

And up to the present time the 1950-51 congress has had a pretty successful tenure. Among other achievements the members have written a new constitution, instituted spring elections and sponsored some good dances.

They Could Just Save It, You Know

Said disease hit last year's congress about two weeks before the end of school, with the result that the body nearly broke its legislative neck trying to drain the treasury.

On May 12, 1950, congress went $1050 into the red on a Gene Krupa dance. When The Skiff blasted the squandering of money the legislators replied that it wasn't squandered. They intended to lose that much.

They had the money to spend, so why not spend it, they reasoned.

The Skiff has not objection to spending. It's just that we hate to see money thrown away. After all, it's no disgrace to leave some in the treasury.

If the present congress can find a worthwhile way to spend the money, then they should by all means follow through.

But if no good reason for expenditure can be found, we hope they'll leave the funds for the summer congress. They may need the money.

Threat of Extinction

What does the future hold for T. C. U. and other church-related schools?

President M. E. Sadler, addressing the 64th Texas State Convention of Christian Churches two weeks ago in Dallas, declared that church-related colleges and universities are threatened with extinction by external pressures.

Reduction in student fee income—caused by decreases in veteran enrollment and number of high school graduates, operation of the selective service system and existing high employment level—constitutes a serious threat to the survival of non-governmentally supported schools.

Unless low funds are supplemented by endowments or government aid, private institutions cannot hope to continue under the present financial institution.

Government aid, however, is opposed by church-related college officials who fear any encroachment of government upon education. Control in education, the president stated, is the surest road toward absolute dictatorship and regimentation.

It is Dr. Sadler's contention that the dangers to higher education also are the dangers to democratic civilization, for our belief in individual freedom, initiative, opportunity and responsibility grew up around voluntarily-supported colleges.

If T. C. U. and other church-related schools are to oppose control and refuse federal aid, they must in turn receive sufficient funds from private sources to cover the higher cost of education and still maintain a reasonably low tuition.

A Dismal Failure

We do not enjoy being critical of a worthy committee, but in our opinion one of the main reasons the World Student Service Fund Drive failed so miserably was for lack of effort in soliciting.

The drive, conducted last week, netted only $180, which didn't even make a good dent in the $2500 goal.

Last year, $1445 was collected here. Has there been that much change in students' attitudes toward W. S. S. F. in one year?

We don't think so. A spot check Wednesday afternoon of 15 persons revealed that only two had been approached in any manner about contributing. If that is representative of the campus, the percentage of students personally solicited was very low.

Several committee members said the drive failed partly because the Administration would not allow classroom solicitations, which was done last year. We can see the Administration's view: too many students would be placed in awkward positions and would contribute, but not willingly, for fear of ridicule and embarrassment.

However, we also feel the drive was handicapped because most persons do not like to contribute to any cause where the returns or benefits are more or less intangible, such as in the case of W. S. S. F. funds, which are used to aid students in other countries.

But if T. C. U. is to continue W. S. S. F. drives in the future, we think next year's committee should be appointed as soon as possible to start formulating plans to make the drive a success.

Cub Reporters Troubled

People Give 'Em Runaround

BY EVELYN MAYHEW

We had to pinch ourselves to make sure it's true. Here we are in Jack Clark's idiot-infested basement, making like real Skiff reporters.

You know us. We're sophomore journalism majors. The editor (three deep bows to the floor) speaks of us often, in glowing, or is it glowering, terms. We correct errors in the last week's Skiff. He feels this is our chief contribution to the progress of the campus newspaper, and we must admit it probably is.

However, we also write. For instance, there's club reporting. That's where we get our first initiation in human nature, outside of psychology class.

We've found out several things about human nature. First, people are queer animals, who like to play coy. This, we are thoroughly convinced of, having been a seasoned reporter on several campus clubs. Here's how we get our material:

- 1) We go to the sponsor of the club, who asks us to see the club president.
- 2) We go to the president, who asks us to see the program chairman.
- 3) We go to the program chairman, who tells us to see the president.

How can we win? The answer is we don't. However, the clubs are really sporty, calling us Thursday and giving us complete information. (Incidentally, for all of you who are club contacts, our deadline is Tuesday at 4:30 p.m.)

Then, we get to write human interest. Here, another point of human nature is made evident. Most persons just don't like to act human. We supposedly report clever happenings in classes and on the campus. Cowboy is our chief source of supply. White Collie dog used to top the list, but he is getting old and acting less human all the time.

This week, we've gotten real big "runs," or so they're called. Now, we understand why they're called by this name. We've been running all afternoon, our tongue hanging out like a red necktie, trying to find one allotted name on our list. This brings into bold relief the third point in our study of human nature. They're restless things, never staying in their office more than three minutes at a time.

Journalism is one continual psychology lesson. People are indeed peculiar specimens, but we'd rather report on them than anything else. After all, we're human, too (we think).

Nothing is more deadly than

Quirks From Other Campuses

The Young Republicans club at the University of Texas lashed out recently at the Daily Texan, calling it "full of half truths and white lies." Further accusations included "socialist line," "factually misleading" and "biased."

At the same time the Young Republicans complained that Texas' department of economics is "socialistically inclined," and that its professors distribute CIO literature and "try to mold the minds of young students to believe that capitalism is evil."

Declared the Daily Texan, "Now it's really nice to see a group of students joining in political discussions. But the Young Repubs should re-check their 'socialisms' before wafting political mudballs. The Texan is merely a pro-Truman sheet with slightly liberal leanings, while the Young Republicans make noises like their hallowed scion, Joseph McCarthy."

The Young Republicans, like McCarthy, are depending on the great accusation—so great the people consider there must be some truth in it because it is great.

From the Silver and Gold, University of Colorado: "The University's winter sport enthusiasts may be disappointed to learn that the University ice rink lacks its fundamental, salable commodity—ice."

From the Daily Lass-O, Texas State College for Women: "Miss Mary Herring, T. S. C. W. graduate, has the distinction of being the only football coach of her sex in Texas."

Ed Note: Lucky for her she's a coach of her own sex.

Dead Week, so therefore absolutely nothing is on the agenda for the week of May 14-19.

The main activity for students in these tension-filled days is cramming. However, professors cram, too. Let us cite here the case of Ewe Reschit, professor of English.

One morning, rather like a streak of delayed-action lightning, the fact hits the prof as he sits gamely into the faces of his reading class. Dead week is approaching, and there are still 396 pages of the text to cover.

Dismissing his beloved Milton for a few moments, Prof. Reschit works a mathematical formula. He divides the three class periods remaining into 396 pages. He shivers convulsively as the total is revealed—132. When the class misses, he subtly suggests that the students read 132 pages for the next class period. He also courses a few minutes on the practicability of cramming.

Wild-eyed and bedraggled, the student crams. He has left his themes until the last of school along with his outside projects and book reports. He had hoped, still, that the end of the term would bring shorter assignments. Now, he must read crammed-up assignments, absorb extra material extra-fast.

Dead Week, often known as "You Better Work or Uncle Sam will Get You Week" begins Monday. Pardon me while I go read my 132 pages. See you after finals.

By JOE BERGNER
GUEST EDITOR

About a month ago everyone was howling for Coach Walter Roach's scalp when he announced that he was going along with Don Carroll at shortstop on the varsity nine. The young man from North Side has made Roach look like a wizard. At latest count he is leading the team in hitting and is well up among the conference leaders. He's the Frog's No. 1 RBI man and has improved his fielding 100 per cent. Maybe Roach was right when he said all Don needed was a little confidence to become one of the conference's brightest stars.

Speaking of the varsity nine, it looks as though they will be getting some good help from the freshman team when next season rolls around. The No. 1 prospect is Don Ford. The big fly-chaser from Farwell has been a real pain to opposing pitchers all season. He has hit the long ball consistently and when it counts, as his 16 RBIs indicate. If Uncle Sam will let him alone he could show Roach plenty.

Ineligible this season is George Petrovich, a transfer from the University of Texas. Originally an outfielder, George was switched to catcher this spring and has raised havoc with his bat in all the intrasquad games. Looks as though T. C. U. will have another fine catcher when Bill Looney leaves.

T. C. U. graduates have been doing all right in the professional sports ranks for some time. Sammy Baugh, Davey O'Brien, Ki Aldrich, Derrell Palmer, George Brown, Lindy Berry, Morris Bailey and Don Narrell have proven to be stand-out pro footballers. Now another former Frog has made headlines. It's Jim Busby, who has been going great guns for the Chicago White Sox this spring. He is currently leading his team in hitting and is second in the American league. He is in the runner-up position in hits and is far ahead in stolen bases. This is his second try with the Pale Hose, being with them at the start of last season before the higher up decided he needed more seasoning and farmed him to the Pacific Coast league. He burned that league up, hitting .313 and driving opposing pitchers crazy with his antics on the basepaths.

Three members of the Frog track team will travel to College Station this weekend to compete in the Southwest Conference track meet, and among them will be Paul Hoeffler. The black-haired Houstonite has looked better every time he runs. His specialty is the mile but he is also one of the better half-milers in the conference. He might do well when the conference boys get together.

Dick Osburn is really going after the Southwest Conference tennis championship which will be decided this weekend in Austin. Every morning finds the Dallas net star on the Worth Hills golf course running and running and running. We like to see such earnestness. Good luck, Dick.

Orchids to Bill Padon for presenting a swell intramural program. He has given the boys unable to play varsity sports a real chance to have fun. He has offered football, basketball, handball, softball, tennis, golf and the open house. All have been well directed and have gone off in grand style.

With third place in the conference standings within their grasp, the Frogs will play host to the Baylor Bears in two games starting at 2:30 p. m. today and tomorrow.

Ed Mathis and Mike Salim are the probable starting pitchers for Coach Walter Roach's crew.

Bill Looney's bat boomed loudly Tuesday as he drove in four runs, three of them on a fifth-inning homer over the right field wall, to lead the Frogs to a 4-3 decision over Texas at Austin.

It was the first T. C. U. victory over the Longhorns since 1945 and the first Texas defeat on their home field since Texas A. & M. turned the trick by a 12-0 score in 1943. The upset ended a 54-game conference winning streak for the Longhorns at home.

Norris "Nobby" Graves went the route for the Frogs, receiving credit for his second conference victory. He gave up six hits, issued eight free passes and struck out seven.

He received fine defensive help from Bill Elliott, Johnnie Ethridge and Don Carroll. Carroll made a great catch on a hard line drive at which he made a desperate dive.

Texas got off to a fast start, scoring two in the first frame. T. C. U. rallied for one in the fourth and then came Looney's round-tripper with Carroll and Elliott on base.

Graves got himself in a jam in the ninth when two were out. Frank Womack singled, and he was faced by Chili Bingham, the Southwest Conference's leading hitter. He got Bingham on a scorching line drive to Elliott.

Ritchey, 'Jack of All Trades,' Looms as Future Track Star

BY BILL WIESEHAHN

"Hey, Ritchey, it's time for the pole vault."

"Don't have time to bother with it now. I'm busy with the high jump, shot put, discus, and javelin. Tell them I'll be there in a few minutes."

Some might think that the second speaker is an egotist. "Tain't so!" He is just busy piling up points in a track meet. (That is, he would be if he were eligible.)

We are speaking of Wesley Ritchey, San Antonio freshman, who, because of difficulties with grades, is not eligible for competition this season.

Wes is one of the few trackmen who were able to place in three events in the 1950 state high school track meet.

He came to T. C. U. with an impressive record in football, basketball and track. Here, Wes has decided to concentrate on his first love, track.

It is seldom that a trackman is an above average performer in more than two events, but Wes makes consistently good showings in five.

When track season rolls around, Wes will be ready (even if track coach Mack Clark has to do his studying for him.)

"Watch out, you Foresters, Marcks and Hoopers! Here comes Ritchey!"

Congress Buys Speaker, Gives $125 to Seniors

Congress decided Monday night to buy a loud-speaker for $300 and give $125 to the senior class to help purchase a gift for the school. The money will come out of the Permanent Improvement Fund.

After much indecisive debate, President Bill Hooser had declared, "This is my last meeting, and for once this year we are going to discuss a question with no personal bickering."

The "bickering" occurred when advocates of spending the money for a new KTCU transmitter clashed with partisans of a campus photo-lab. Approximate costs of transmitter and photo-lab were placed at $700 and $500 respectively. Other suggested uses for about $1100 remaining in the fund were purchase of a piano for the Study Lounge and lights for the tennis courts.

"The nature of our gift is still undecided," Nolley Vereen, senior class president said.

Wesley Kinser, election chairman, announced the Student Court had ruled the spring election returns valid. Congress also voted to reduce the price of 1000 surplus student directories to 20 cents. Former price was 35 cents.

Bob Cornell, chairman of the student directory committee, said they are available in the Book Store.
