Dr. Nielsen Named Dean Of Education

At its regular spring meeting Tuesday the Board of Trustees approved a change in title for Dr. O. R. Nielsen from vice-president to dean of the School of Education and director of teacher education.

President M. E. Sadler stated that Dr. Nielsen "desired a change and, because of his background, experience, and abilities, it would be more satisfactory for him to have a larger assignment in the determination and direction of a basic educational program." Dr. Nielsen will replace Dean Raymond A. Smith, who will retire Sept. 1.

Two other faculty members will also retire at that time: Prof. L. D. Fallis, professor of speech drama, and Prof. C. A. Burch, assistant professor of religion. Each will retire with an emeritus prefix to his present title.

In another action, promotions were given to faculty members:

- 1) Dr. Irene Huber, from associate professor to professor of German.
- 2) Dr. Karl E. Snyder, from assistant professor to associate professor of English.
- 3) Bertram Trillich Jr., from assistant professor to associate professor of marketing.
- 4) Dr. Walther Volbach, from associate to professor of speech-drama.
- 5) Daniel McAninch, from instructor to assistant professor of music.
- 6) Leonard Logan III, from instructor to assistant professor of art.

The Board voted to award honorary degrees at the June 1 commencement to Dr. Dale Fiers, president of the United Christian Missionary Society, Indianapolis; Dr. J. H. Godard, executive director of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, Atlanta; and the Rev. Patrick Henry Jr., minister of the Northway Christian Church, Dallas.

Martin Turner Given Skiff Service Award

Martin Turner, Terrell senior, yesterday received the third annual Skiff Award "for outstanding service to the student body." The award was granted at the Journalism Day assembly in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Featured speaker on the program was Savoie Lottinville, director of the University of Oklahoma Press. "The Profession That Is Ahead of Its Culture" was the title of his speech.

Russ Hurst, editor of The Skiff, described Turner as being "quiet, unassuming, conscientious and devoted to unselfish service to the student body." Hurst presented the award, founded in 1950.

It was given for Turner's work in A.P.O., student service fraternity. He is now historian of the organization and served as its president in his junior year. The lost and found bureau was organized under Turner's direction and he was instrumental in the founding of A.P.O.'s travel bureau.

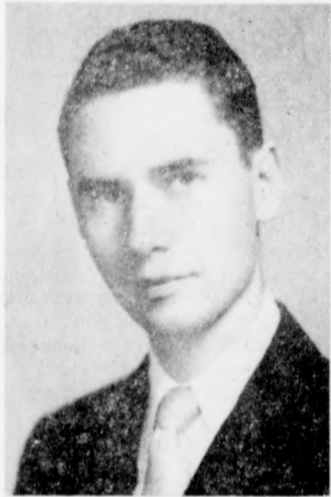

Turner was a co-chairman in the recent Campus Chest Drive and is president of the Presbyterian Student Association as well as a member of Congress.

Mr. Lottinville, who is a Phi Beta Kappa and former Rhodes Scholar, described the craft of the journalist as one in which the practitioner must be ahead of the culture of which he is a part.

"If not the culture will suffer and, perhaps, ultimately fail," Lottinville declared.

He called the writers of today the guardians of man's morality.

his integrity and his progress. He added that journalists must know more and when they don't, they must be more alert.

In his closing speech he stated, "Obviously the use of books, and the creation of books for the journalist are two of the important factors in this whole business."

As director of the University of Oklahoma Press, Mr. Lottinville has developed it into what has been called one of the top presses in the nation.

Committee Designated To Organize Planning

By WALLACE BROWN

The Board of Trustees Tuesday appointed a committee of five to work with student body representatives to formulate plans for a Student Union building.

The action followed the appearance before the Board of a student delegation composed of Student Association President Dick Ramsey and Skiff Editor Russ Hurst.

Ramsey and Hurst outlined the need for such a project and reviewed student action during the present school year.

That action reached a climax last week when the student congress passed a resolution requesting that the board take "definite action toward immediate construction" of the union.

This was followed last Friday by a front-page "broadside" in The Skiff which included a news story, editorial, cartoon, picture of petition signers and a letter from the student congress outlining 25 reasons why TCU needs a Student Union.

An exchange of letters between President Sadler and Hurst followed the appearance of The Skiff.

(Editor's Note: The letters are reprinted on page four of this edition.)

Hurst and Ramsey met Board members as they entered the Board Room at 10 a.m. Copies of The Skiff containing the union proposals were handed to each member.

The Board agreed to hear the pair at Dr. Sadler's suggestion at 11:30 a.m. Ramsey read congress' report containing 25 reasons why a Student Union is needed. He also presented student-signed petitions containing approximately 800 names. Hurst stressed that the move had "complete student backing" and was "the culmination of growing student sentiment."

Dewey Lawrence of Tyler expressed the sentiment of the Board when he arose to thank the students for appearing. Lawrence said, "The Board sympathizes with you and understands deeply your attitude in this matter. I feel sure that the Board will give it their deepest consideration."

Immediately after the Board adjourned at noon, the appointed committee met with Ramsey and Hurst to formulate a plan of action.

The committee was composed of Lawrence as chairman, Mrs. R. H. Foster of Fort Worth, W. M. Sherley of Lazbuddie, Carlos Ashley of Llano, and Sidney Latham of Dallas.

The committee decided that the only obstacle to the construction of a union would be a matter of finances. Ramsey and Hurst were delegated to form a central committee composed of students, exes, Administration officers and the Board committee to outline requirements of a union, and map a solicitation campaign.

Tuesday afternoon Dr. Sadler stated that he was "well pleased with the presentation" made by Ramsey and Hurst. He cited their "very constructive attitude" and stated that he felt "it furthered their cause."

In a statement to The Skiff Monday, Dr. Sadler said that prior to the appearance of The Skiff, he had written his report to the board discussing the building needs of the University.

His report stated: "Just as soon as possible we shall plan for a Student Union. With the present or adjusted Student Activity Fee, we might be able to amortize the cost of such a building. This possibility will be carefully worked out and presented to the Executive Committee by this summer."

He also said that he had told the Board previously that there would be something in reference to the Student Union possibilities by this summer.

In answer to an inquiry about plans for converting Jarvis Hall, as announced last fall, the president said that Vice-President O. R. Nielsen reported the plan was not feasible.

Following this report Dr. Sadler said that he had thought about appointing a new committee to investigate the whole matter.

The President said a Student Union had been on the building agenda for "several years" but would not say which place it occupied.

"I hope that this outburst by The Skiff and the student government will not affect the Student Union building program adversely," he added.

He explained that the Board "has tried to meet the needs of the student body in the past by building the Student Lounge and the Study Lounge. He added that some members of the Board questioned advisability of building these two because they were of a temporary nature, but agreed when the student body offered to amortize the debt.

Final payment on these two lounges was made last fall. The payments were made from the student union development fund. At mid-year, the fund contained $7300, and the business office estimates another $6000 would be added to it during the present semester.

Monday night Congress gave Hurst a unanimous vote of confidence when he declared that "The Skiff will back congress and the student body to the hilt" in their drive for a union.

The entire congress reiterated its determination to continue the campaign "with full force."

Infirmiry Report for Month Shows TCU Pill-Eaters Thrive

Students received 279 penicillin injections during January, reports Mrs. Lucille Steers, infirmiry supervisor.

The monthly report of Mrs. Steers showed a total of 111,600,000 units of penicillin were given to students, free of additional charge through the infirmiry during January.

Bed patients numbered 72 for the month, compiling a total of 203 sick days.

One and a half gallons of cough syrup was poured down the throats of patients not in infirmiry beds. Also 416 cold capsules and 800 aspirins were given to out-of-bed patients alone.

Only extra costs to students were for intravenous injections, wonderdrugs and some vitamins.

Hundreds of aspirin, cold capsules and vitamins were used to treat students in January as in every month.

Sulfa drugs, benadryl and pyribenzamine totaled 415 doses during the month.

Fifty injections of dihydrostreptomycin, were administered to students.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 37...THE SWORDFISH

"They had me
fancy facts!"

They crossed swords with the wrong man when they engaged this swashbuckling senior in combat! At first, he was foiled by the tricky, "one-puff" . . . "one-sniff" cigarette mildness tests. But he parried their thrusts with this gleaming sword of logic: The only way you can judge mildness is by steady smoking. That's the true test of cigarette mildness!

It's the sensible test . . . the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke, on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why . . .

Student Union

The student body this week had a chance to see representative government and a free press at work.

Congress passed a resolution at its March 10 meeting insisting that immediate action be taken toward construction of a Student Union building.

This was followed last Friday with a front-page "broadside" by The Skiff which reported congress' action and backed them with an editorial stating the need for such a building.

After a student delegation appeared at the Board of Trustees' meeting Tuesday, the Board appointed a committee to formulate a plan of action leading to construction of a union at the earliest possible date.

This move was made with the stipulation that students, exes, board members and others connected with the school raise the necessary funds.

So the ball is again in the hands of the student body.

The Student Lounge and Study Lounge were built after student representatives pointed out the need. The Board, agreeing with the students, backed construction of the lounges with an agreement that the student body repay the building costs. This was done.

Only with the full co-operation of students, exes and board members, can a Student Union become a reality.

As future plans are announced you will have an opportunity to show that you are backing this drive.

Eliminate Rigor Mortis?

ICC has announced a desire to become a governing body on the campus.

As outlined by Rogers "Bubba" Coleman, ICC president, the proposal is framed around a chartering committee which will approve the status of every TCU club. The committee, composed of four students and four faculty members, will accept the charter of each club which will then be responsible to the ICC.

In order to be recognized and approved by the ICC, each club must give a written statement of its purpose; have three officers plus an ICC representative and faculty sponsor; hold at least one regular monthly meeting; and comply with decisions of the ICC.

Patterned after a plan already in effect at Trinity University, the idea must yet be approved by ICC and then must be passed on by the Dean of Women and the Student Lounge Committee. Should the chartering committee become a reality the ICC will serve as a centralizing agency for all club activities and will be empowered to create a little activity on the campus.

Perhaps ICC will yet be able to live up to the purpose for which it was created. And at the same time it may be able to help eliminate rigor mortis on the campus.

Parking Rules

Congratulations to the Parking Committee, headed by Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson for its posting of long overdue parking regulations.

Rules stressing correct parking between white lines, observance of no parking areas and strict enforcement of these regulations were announced by handbills placed on parked autos in the University parking areas last week.

Only those who have known the battle of the traffic circle can appreciate the value of such a document. May it be enforced.

Why Not Football?

Announcement that KCTU is going commercial and will broadcast campus baseball games makes one wonder why they can't take a shot at the football games here in their own stadium.

Nowhere could a student sports announcer find a better laboratory. While still in school, he'd be getting actual working experience which money can't buy.

Of course, football broadcasting is a lucrative business which commercial stations will never willingly give up, and rare indeed would be the student who could broadcast with the acumen of a professional.

But what is to prevent KCTU going on the air on its own frequency with our home games?

A live broadcast would be made only when and if a student was felt to be capable of doing a good smooth job.

In addition to a live broadcast, little private booths would be provided where hopeful students could have their efforts wire-recorded for future class study.

These student recordings could be compared with a recording of the regular commercial broadcast.

Students could keep recordings for their own use, much as reporters file clippings of their best stories.

Such a forthright innovation would undoubtedly bring many new students to TCU's radio department.

President-Editor Letter Exchange Follows Skiff's Union 'Broadside'

To the Editor:

It seems to me that you and some of the other student leaders overlooked one or two items in your statements concerning a Student Union. I thought the matter had been fully explained to you and to three or four other leaders among the students.

During the past several years, we have called in the student leaders from time to time and explained to them some of the hopes, as well as some of the complications, in the total building program of Texas Christian University.

Several years ago, after this total situation was explained, the student leaders at that time seemed to understand and feel it would tide them over their difficulty if we would help them get a modest student lounge. This we did. A few years later, some other student leaders felt that something more should be done at the time, even though they understood the general plans for the University as a whole. At that time they indicated that if we could provide a nice study lounge, in addition to the downstairs lounge, that would certainly be sufficient to meet their more urgent needs, until the possibility of erecting a Student Union can be realized.

Now you and some of the other student leaders, without bothering to talk to us about it, start a general movement for a Student Union. I think it would be completely safe to say that neither you nor any other student on the campus wants a Student Union any more than I do. We will get the Student Union just as soon as we can. Not knowing that you and the others were starting a movement of your own, I had a section written into my report to the Board, dealing with this very matter in what I felt was a practical basis. The statement which I had already prepared will be presented to the Board, and we will go along with this matter just as rapidly as we can.

I in no way condemn the interest and effort on your part and the part of the others, for we certainly do need a Student Union desperately. It does seem to me just a little unfortunate that, in this new upsurge of interest, there does not seem to be any realization at all that anything whatsoever has been done in an effort to at least partially meet the need.

Most cordially yours,
Dr. M. E. Sadler

Dear Dr. Sadler:

It is regrettable indeed that The Skiff failed to mention in the March 14 issue that the Administration has provided the student body with the Student Lounge and Study Lounge to partially relieve the need for a Student Union. I am particularly vexed with myself for not having noted these steps in the editorial, inasmuch as I was sincerely determined to present all of the facts in the case. You may rest assured that the forthcoming issue will make note of the Administration's past efforts.

You spoke in your letter of the fact that student leaders had been called in from time to time during the past several years and the "hopes, as well as some of the complications, in the total building program," were explained to them. I am sorry to say I was not present at any of those meetings. And, to my knowledge, no student representatives attended such a meeting either last year or this year.

I think it is probable (and unfortunate) that the two lounges have already come to be taken for granted, and the original motive for their establishment forgotten, so quickly does time fly, and so rapidly does the personnel of the student body change.

The Skiff's "broadside" last Friday was no hastily conceived attempt designed to cause a stir of opinion. I believe it was an honest reflection of student sentiment which has been growing all year and which reached a climax at last Monday's congress meeting when elected representatives of the student body spoke out strongly for a Student Union. But let me illustrate further how this move has developed.

In the first issue of The Skiff last fall (Sept. 21) the problem of "Where to Dance?" was discussed in an editorial, and a Student Union was mentioned as a possible solution. It was at that time that the Field House was ruled "off limits" to student activities other than athletics. In the Oct. 19 issue, an editorial entitled "Union Facilities Needed" again stressed the need for a solution to the problem this year and pointed out that the Administration "currently is mulling over the plan to reconstruct one of the old dormitories in to a Student Union." The Nov. 2 issue carried a page one news story quoting your statement concerning the possible conversion of Jarvis Hall. (However, no further statement has been made to date concerning those tentative plans.) The Jan. 11 issue carried a page one news story on the $1000 boost given the Student Union fund by the Student Lounge Committee, in addition to an editorial which said in part: "In his speech of 1950 at the dedication of the Study Lounge, Dean of Students T. F. Richardson made the statement that when the student body becomes organized in its efforts, the Administration would 'build a union and hang the cost.' We like to think that the student body is on the verge of just such organization, and that the University, recognizing the fact, is preparing to meet its obligation."

I would like to note in passing that The Skiff has been accused by some students this year of being "pro-Administration" and "anti-student." These accusations were made after a series of editorials which attempted to evaluate and justify various University policies and actions which had been criticized by students: (1) Charging for blue books, editorial, Oct. 5; (2) Student activity cards, Oct. 19; (3) Prices in the Bookstore, Nov. 2; (4) Admission of Negroes, Nov. 9; and (5) The $5 Library fee, Nov. 16. It is a matter of pride with me that each of these problems was investigated thoroughly by our editorial staff after student complaints, and in each case the weight of evidence was found to be in favor of the Administration.

I am just as surely convinced that the weight of evidence in regard to the issue of a Student Union justifies our stand in support of the Student Congress and the student body in their request for action by the Administration.

I feel keenly the responsibility and obligation I owe to the students who elected me as editor of the student newspaper. And I intend to continue to try to mirror their hopes and actions through the pages of The Skiff in as fair a manner as possible.

Respectfully and with highest personal regards,
Russ Hurst, Editor

Survey Discloses Driving Regulations

Thirty-nine colleges prohibit students from driving automobiles during the school year according to a survey of 500 universities.

This survey made by an insurance company also revealed that 162 of the schools had no regulations regarding driving. Adequate liability coverage is required by 50 colleges, and 58 require registration of vehicles with the school office.

Campus parking and speed regulations are enforced by 99 schools and 102 others maintain some restrictions as to age, year in school and residency.

TCU rates "about average with the nation," as few driving regulations are exercised over students.

Little Man On Campus

by Bibler

"Oh, by the way, I got your papers graded last week—if I could just think to bring them. . ."

To the Editor:

An open letter to Buster Brannon, basketball coach, and Bruce Craig, assistant coach, and all the members of the basketball team:

The Texas Christian University Athletic Council requests that I send hearty congratulations to each of you from everyone of us for the very fine basketball season.

We realize with profound satisfaction that you won both the pre-season tournament and the conference championship by wide margins. But even greater satisfaction and pride comes from the very fine sportsmanship and all-around good conduct that you have shown. You have thus added credit to the game, merit to yourselves and honor to any great university.

We wish to commend each of you personally for the valuable contribution you made to this record.

And now we are proud to back you all the way in the NCAA tournament!

Henry B. Hardt, Chairman

To the Editor:

Is Ranch Week worth it? Is there enough value in two days of drunkenness to make it worthwhile to the majority of students.

It is interesting to note the marked relaxation of morals during that student sponsored catastrophe known affectionately as Ranch Week.

People who normally don't make the slightest transgressions on society seem to use Ranch Week as an excuse for raising hell and getting drunk.

Many older students drink periodically and only a few do it to excess.

But it is not them with whom I am concerned.

It is rather with younger students, 17 and 18, who have never touched the stuff, and are introduced to alcohol for the first time during Ranch Week, who may be hurt.

Two years ago they had to give up the downtown parade because too many people fell off the floats and were giving the school a bad reputation.

So there it is. Is Ranch Week worth it to Texas Christian University and, even more important, to the individual student?

To the Editor:

There is a lot of talk about a student union building on the campus at the present time.

Such a building will cost thousands of dollars and will take time to be constructed.

While we are waiting, I wonder if it would be asking too much if the Administration would consider another project. It would not cost nearly so much and it seems to be a simple task.

In view of a championship basketball team, it shouldn't be too much to ask for the burned out light bulbs in the Field House scoreboard to be replaced. Perhaps before the next basketball season is completed.

Persons who tried to decipher the maze of red dots missed most of the game. Others watched the game with no idea of who was winning.

The dots resembled everything from Morse code to a Chinese Checker game. I didn't know the final score until I read it in the Saturday paper.

J. B.

To the Editor:

Two hours of free beer at a local tavern—Texas Christian University—do these mix?

Reckless driving on the campus, drunkenness and profanity in the Lounge, Goode Hall a battleground of horseplay.

These are the results of past campus degeneration.

For some time now we have been talking about the lack of school spirit around the TCU campus and I think it is high time that some one put in a request for less school "spirits" at the Texas Christian University dances.

First, the Administration is to blame: We do not have adequate school spirit because we do not have an adequate place in which to manifest school spirit. In short we need a Student Union building of our own.

Second, if we had a Student Union building on campus then the dances could be better sponsored and certain rules of Christian behavior could be better enforced.

However, no Administration is willing to put out an endless amount of time and money for a group of students that it does not think will use and appreciate the facilities that are provided for them. Some of our dormitories are evidence of the very type of vandalism and destructiveness that cause our administration to say that any Student Union building would be torn up by the students.

Therefore, the solution is twofold. The Administration will have to begin thinking along the lines of the construction of a Student Union building and the students will have to show themselves worthy.

If the students of TCU would really get behind a drive for a Student Union it would show the Administration that we are wide awake and interested enough to deserve one.

How's Your Dexterity?

TCU Testing Bureau Available to Students

BY JIMMY BROWDER

Did you ever have your "manipulative dexterity" tested? "I didn't know it was worn out" is the usual answer to such a question.

This type of test is only one of about 75 that are available to TCU students through the Testing Bureau.

Scholastic achievement, personality and mental ability can also be tested says Mr. C. J. Firkins, director of the bureau since it was originated in 1948.

Largest single function of the Testing Bureau is helping students by administering vocational aptitude exams.

These tests, usually given when students first enter school, determine what qualifications a person has for college work, an idea of his interests and personality trends. Results of such tests are available to students through counselors.

The Testing Bureau is a part of the student personnel program available to all students. Dean Richardson has been the director of student personnel since 1941.

Veteran Guidance Center which gives special vocational attention to veterans is another part of this program. Any person schooling under GI Bill is eligible to take advantage of the testing program.

In addition to testing TCU students, the bureau administers some high school equivalency of general education development tests to the general public.

Some vocational testing for pri-

"People on top of a segregated society are in graver moral danger than those discriminated against."

This was the central idea expressed by Bayard Rustin, at a luncheon in the TCU Cafeteria, Friday.

Rustin, a Negro, has been active investigating race riots, attacking Jim Crowism, and bettering race relations.

Outlining the danger of "elevating cruelty to moral good," Rustin pointed out the section of the United States that has the most churches also has the least brotherhood.

In Rustin's terms, the basic race problem lies in the relations of individuals.

"The revolution (individual action for social good) prevents a revolution (a violent overthrow of institutions)." Personal determination to challenge segregation is important in solving problems, he said.

Dean Announces Late Permission For Friday Night

Dormitory women have permission to stay out until 12 midnight on Friday for the remainder of the semester, Miss Elizabeth Shelburne, dean of women, announced this week.

The dormitory staff has been considering this for some time, Miss Shelburne said. "Since there are fewer Saturday classes, we have decided to see how it works for the rest of the semester. If it is satisfactory, there is a good chance the plan will stay," she said.

Heading the receiving line will be Vice-President Otto R. Nielsen. Others in the line will be Dean Jerome Moore, Dr. A. O. Spain and the honorees.

Mmes. M. E. Sadler and A. O. Spain will pour.

Assisting Mrs. Gayle Scott will be Misses Katherine Bailey, Martha Bright, Bonne Enlow, Marguerite Potter, Pauline Rippey, Kitty Wingo; Mmes. Jessie Adams, Ruth Angell, Faye Jones and Prof. Tom Prouse.

Decorations will follow an international theme.

vate concerns and individuals is undertaken. Mental measurement for the Fort Worth public school system is another service of the Bureau.

Clerical, mechanical, art and scholastic aptitude tests are the other principle category of tests available to students.

Mr. Firkins says that although the Testing Bureau performs many duties, its main objective is to benefit TCU.

Fake Disabilities Increase Rapidly On Drill Days

Every Monday seems to be the favorite day for the appearance of various disabilities, especially those which "interfere" with drill, and for requests for excuses, according to Mrs. Paul Haefeli and Miss Mary Lou Jackson, nurses at the Infirmary. "Ills" ranging from "sore throats" to aching kneecaps, appear in great numbers on drill days. While nurses urge students with genuine ailments to report for treatment when the patient first becomes ill, they state faked disorders will get no excuses from drill.

Students are also asked to refrain from coming to Infirmary during-noon hour, except in emergencies, since nurses on duty have to prepare meals served to patients and eat their own lunches during this period.

The Student Activity Fee which is required of all students taking nine or more semester hours covers a Student Athletic Book, a copy of the Horned Frog, a subscription to The Skiff, admission to lectures and concert events, and support of the Student Congress.

Frogs Meet KU, NCAA Opener

By BILL WIESEHAHN

Tonight at 9:45 the Froggies make their first bid for national basketball playoff honors against Kansas University in the NCAA tournament in Kansas City.

At this writing, no arrangements for radio broadcast had been made.

TCU will play the second game of the evening, following a tilt between New Mexico A&M and St. Louis University.

Should the Brannonmen down Kansas in their first game tonight, they will take on the winner of the St. Louis-New Mexico contest at 9:45 p.m. tomorrow for the championship.

A loss tonight would put TCU into the consolation playoff at 8 p.m. with the loser of the first game tonight for third place in the tournament.

Winning both games in the sunflower state would send TCU to the final NCAA playoff in Seattle, Washington next Tuesday and Wednesday, where they will meet the nation's best teams and gain a chance at revenge for their low rating in national polls.

In Kansas, the Froggies will meet a worthy foe. Led by giant center Clyde Lovellette, who pours points through the nets like water through a sieve, the Jayhawks are a tough outfit who have several times this season been rated No. 1 in national basketball polls.

Tonight's tilt will set the stage for a real contest between Lovellette and the Christians' George McLeod. The larger, heavier, (6-9, 240 lb.) Lovellette possesses one of the most unerring hook shots in the nation and is also a demon under the backboards.

McLeod, undoubtedly one of the quickest, most agile big men in basketball circles, will be hard pressed to keep up with Lovellette's scoring and rebounding pace.

Overguarding McLeod can be disastrous. The Gorgeous One can drive around his man for an easy lay up shot as efficiently as many of the game's small men. Lovellette

Frogs Shell OU In 17-3 Upset

The Oklahoma U baseball club could take it as a good omen—but they have to take it as a bad beating.

Last year when the Sooners passed through town the Frogs edged them 10-9, and then OU went on to win the NCAA championship.

The 1952 version of the story got off to a similar, if rougher start Wednesday when the visiting Sooners were shelled 17-3 by a lowly Frog team that lost five straight games.

The Frogs gathered 18 hits—including two homeruns and three doubles by shortstop Don Carroll—off three pitchers to win the verdict. Norris "Nobby" Graves went the distance for TCU and gave up only five hits. TCU first baseman Bill Doty collected four for four in hitting with a homerun.

'Clink' Grabs Sport Spotlight As Star Gridder, Cinderman

By MARTIN MOORE

Ronald Clinkscale, the freshman flash, is making quite a name for himself around University athletic circles.

The burr-haired blond from Fort Worth first broke into the college limelight as the Wogs' brilliant quarterback, turning in sterling running and passing plays to lead his team in ground and aerial gains.

Clink's star grid performances can be traced back to his high school career at Arlington Heights, where he piloted the Jackets to a regional championship in 1950 and took the quarterback honors on both all-district and all-state elevens.

The speed merchant, displaying his goods in spring football practice, is earmarked as a serious threat to Gil Bartosh and Ray McKown for the starting tailback slot on next year's varsity team. Clinkscale turned his talent toward the cinders, flashing to 100 and 220 yard dash victories in the Southwestern Recreation Track meet last Saturday, setting a record in the 100 by running a blazing 9.6.

The 175 pounder specialized as a century dashman in high school competition, taking two firsts and placing third in the state meet during his senior year. One of his victories set a record in the North Texas Relays at Dallas in 1950, as he whisked off a 100 yard dash time of 9.7 seconds.

Ronald, a physical education major, spends Monday afternoons as an Air Force ROTC element leader. Members of his element say that he sets a fast pace for them to follow.

may discover this to his sorrow the first time he leaves the hardwood while guarding McLeod.

The TCU squad left Fort Worth Wednesday night for Kansas and arrived in the sunflower state at 8:30 a.m. Thursday for a last practice session.

If the Froggies sweep their two games in Kansas, the team will fly directly to Seattle for the NCAA finals next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Athletes Saved From Active Duty Call

Sport Publicist Amos Melton has announced that 21 TCU men are breathing easier these days as a result of action taken to reorganize an army reserve unit of which they are members.

Two reserve units have been deactivated and it was feared that these students, a number of them athletes, would be left without protection from the draft or that members would be called to active duty. Protection for the rest of their college lives has been assured members of the two deactivated units under the new reorganization plan, said Melton.

"We do not have all the details, but TCU student members have been transferred into a special school unit which will take the place, at least temporarily, of their dissolved group," added Melton.

SPORTS, HEY

By Bud Shrake

The Frogs pause tonight in Kansas City long enough to try to teach Clyde Lovellette some manners, knife a few steaks, and see if what a pair of overwrought reporters named Lait and Mortimer said about the town is true.

Two juicy pages in a book entitled "USA Confidential" prompted the bouncers to walk around the campus this week winking slyly at each other and saying, "There are more things in heaven and earth than playing basketball, Horatio."

I'll have to agree that, according to Lait and Mortimer, there are plenty of things in Kansas City other than basketball, although I certainly wouldn't go around blabbing about it to anybody named Horatio.

The Hearst reporters claim hoods slinking down KC alleys are more numerous than cattle in the stockyards. They write at length about intriguing places like Sammy Goldberg's Delicatessen, where the local muscles gather to flex themselves over plates of steaming apple strudel and mourn the fact that Sammy is currently breaking rock in some pen, the Jungle Club, where the pounding of fists sounds like tom-toms, and Pusateri's New Yorker, where a character named Gold Tooth will allow you to wager a few quid on the ponies, which has nothing to do with SMU.

There are also mysterious references to a little fellow who waded gleefully in scull-duggery before he moved to Washington and a punk named Binaggio who, because he believed he was as good as the next guy, is no longer among the living. Unfortunately, the next guy happened to overhear him saying so.

But everything in Kansas City is not as sordid as Lait and Mortimer would have you think. There are, in fact, quite a few points of cultural interest which the tourist will not want to miss.

The Kansas City Museum is a shrine of history worshippers. It is the only museum in the world that owns a gall stone passed by General Leonard Wood in Cuba in 1898. Of course, it is not actually Wood's gall stone, he just passed by it on the road to San Juan Hill, but it is an interesting thing to look at.

No less a sports personage than Salvatore Salazzo, the former NYU scorekeeper, has praised the Kansas City Zoo and its famous Monkey Village. Said Salazzo: "Them monkeys is funnier than anybody. They do the dumbest things." It should be added that he said this before he began bargaining with Sherman White.

The Public Library, run by Mrs. Lester Garfinkle, is well stocked with Mickey Spillane novels and has soft pine reading tables that are easy to carve on.

Visiting firemen and Rotarians never cease to marvel at the spectacle of the Missouri River which flows through town and serves the useful and necessary function of separating Kansas from Missouri. Through a carefully planned government project it is always supplied with water, which proves our tax money is not being wasted. Kansas City youths grow to love the river and have been known to go away to war with "that's what we're fighting for" on their lips.

Some of our country's most famous men have prospered and flourished in Kansas City—men like Tom Pendergraph, for example.

But for tonight let's hope the Frogs just stick to basketball. Culture and education can wait.

Batters Swat Tonight

Frog baseballers move to the Sam Houston State diamond tonight at eight for the first contest of a two game series with the Teachers and hope their luck will be better in Huntsville than it has been in other places.

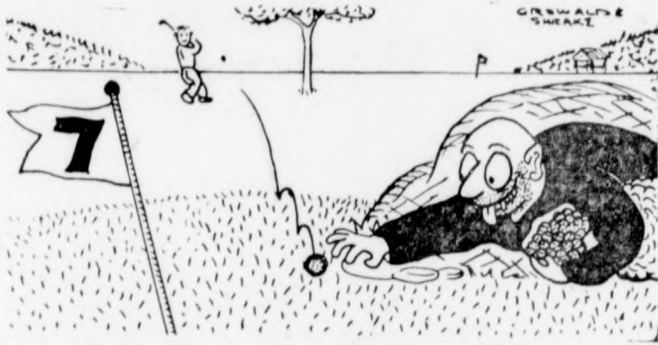

TCU, losers of five straight games, will meet Sam Houston State again tomorrow night under the lights at the same time.

Frog Golfers Dig Divots With SMU at Colonial

Frog golfers entertain the SMU Mustang golf team Monday at 1 p.m. on the Colonial Country Club layout.

Trackmen Race SMU, Baylor

Coach Mack "Poss" Clark's thinly clad are in Dallas today competing against runners from Southern Methodist and Baylor in a triangular meet.

Next Friday and Saturday Frog cindermen will travel to Odessa to compete in the West Texas Relays.

Last Saturday was freshman day for Clark's first year men. The Wogs finished second in the Southwestern Recreation Track Meet in a strong field, outshining the varsity which finished sixth.

The Wogs scored 24 points while grabbing four first places and setting one record. Freshman flash Ronald Clinkscales copped two first places, winning the 100 and 220 yard dashes. In the century Clinkscales split the wind with a 9.6 reading, clipping two tenths of a second off the old record.

Net Meets Set

The TCU tennis team entertains the University of Denver next Tuesday on the home courts.

TCU will be host to Gustavus Adolphus University of Minnesota April 5 if a match with the University of Texas can be moved up to the 3rd of that month.

East Texas State Teachers will visit the campus March 29 for a match with the Frog netmen.

The top four men remain the same, Charles Ludwig, No. 1, who says, "I will remain undefeated," James Wilson as No. 2, Dick Wood and Bob Cornell, 3 and 4 respectively.

Two men may be considered challengers to two of the places. They are Virgil Baker and Ronald Fraley, who have been working out the past few days.

The varsity played Southeastern State Teachers yesterday on the Frog courts.

The freshman tennis team will trek to Stephenville, opening play against the Tarleton State netmen March 22.

Ranch Week's Success Hailed by TCU Chamber

By WES STEELE

Robert Hopkins, chamber president, reported Monday that in the Chamber of Commerce's estimation, Ranch Week was a "complete success."

Events got off to a fast start Thursday night with the first performance of a "Rinkadink Turns 'G.I.'" in the Little Theatre. The house was an almost complete sellout then, and again Friday night, for the second performance.

The faculty-girls baseball game, Friday afternoon zipped and zagged for nine innings, with the men's faculty team coming out on top of a 25 to 24 score. Members of the girl's team were: Misses Billy Brown, Billy Anderson, Sally Moler, Sylvia Bokor, Patty Cowden, Catherine McCracken, Rena Reynolds, Marty Enlow, Libby Henderson, Jo Head, and Pansy Kidwell.

Members of the men's faculty team were: Professors M. A. Holcembach, Karl Snyder, Stimson, Firkins, and McDonald. Also participating were Col. Murray and Sergeant Howell of the Army ROTC, and Dean Holsapple of the Evening College.

Friday night, between 75 and 100 students attended the wiener roast on the lower end of the Quadrangle.

Saturday morning, the traditional contests were run off on the Quadrangle, and, despite a biting north wind, a large crowd gathered to watch the fun. The winners were as follows: Tobacco spitting, Bill Baird; cigarette rolling, Tommy Hall; pie eating, Robert Zota; cigar smoking, Al Bagnall; hog calling, Ike Billings; three-legged race, Boogie Robinson, and Ronald Fraley; girls sack race, a tie between Sylvia Bokor, and Georgia Collins; men's sack race, Bob Montgomery.

Saturday afternoon, at the Brook Arena, a near capacity crowd watched as the Rodeo Club's annual Ranch Week Rodeo unfolded. Winners of the events were: bareback riding, a tie between Bill Shepherd and Rock Hudson; bell-calf roping, Phil Hart; barrel-racing, Carolyn Bushey; calf-roping, Claude Roach; ribbon-roping, Christmas Barber, Buddy Ross, and June Prichard. There was no winner in bull-riding.
