Rallies, Dancing Await Hog Fans

By BUD SHRAKE

This may well turn out to be the wildest weekend since Crazy Jack Hyatt stirred up a small riot at Michigan State prison last spring.

Although the casualties probably won't be as severe as in the Michigan affair, the daily routine is due to be shattered like a paper kite in a hurricane.

This is the weekend, you see, when 2000 frantic Arkansas supporters arrive in town waving their arms and shouting mad things about the Razorbacks beating TCU in football tomorrow night.

Frog fans are ready to greet them with a barrage of pep rallies, music, and jovial banter.

The TCU band will even meet arriving Arkansas students when they climb off their train at 12:45 p.m. Band members plan to hang around town to watch the Arkansas band march around in front of the Texas and Worth Hotels from 4:00 to 4:30.

Ticket sales for the TCU-Arkansas argument, which is the first Southwest Conference game of the season, have already reached 20,000, and publicity man Amos Melton reports that they are still moving "briskly".

Tickets are on sale at four places besides Amon Carter Stadium ticket offices. They may be bought at Renfro's No. 6, Wolf & Klar, Washer Brothers, and Jack Collier's Drug Store at 7th and Main St.

Pep rallies began in earnest on the campus at noon today, when the more frenzied citizens of TCU met in the Cafeteria.

Tonight a volunteer band under sponsorship of The Vigilantes cuts loose in the Field House, playing free dance music for anybody who wants to come. At the 9:15 intermission more pep rallies are scheduled.

Tomorrow shortly before noon in front of the Administration Building, the yelling will begin anew and probably continue until critical hoarseness enters the picture.

From 2 to 4 p.m. Student Congress will hold a reception for the Arkansas student body in Waits Hall, and will present the Arkansas student government with a chicken-in-the-box dinner in the Study Lounge at 5 p.m.

The Horned Frog Band will add its share of color to half-time activities for the game which begins at 8 p.m.

Band members will march onto the field carrying their own lights as the giant arcs are switched off and will present a new waltz show

Cheerleaders' Bills of $441.92 Prove Unpopular with Congress

By JIMMY SUGGS

"Whew! I thought for a while they were going to carry me out on a rail," cracked Ken Jones, head cheerleader, after Monday's Congress meeting.

He had watched Congress snarl at a bill it did not want to pay, a $441.92 bill for cheerleader uniforms and equipment.

He had seen a new Congress, not so free-spending as past Congresses, rise up to slam and question the report.

Congress was stymied. It did not like the extravagance it saw in the report, but it was stumped as to what to do about the bills the cheerleaders are holding.

"We can do one of two things," Ren Kent quipped. "We can either approve the report and pay the bills or refuse to okay it and let the cheerleaders go to jail." That was Congress' situation.

Jones read his report item by item: Coveralls, $54; letters, $31.50; game sweaters, $66; letter sweaters, $70.50; trousers, $57.50; skirts, $52.50; megaphones, $35.10; paint jobs on the megaphones, $30 and shoes, $44.82.

He reported that the athletic department pays $200 of the cheerleaders' expenses each year. Congress still hammered at his costly trappings.

Somewhere in the discussion of inflated price tags, lavish spendings and "what was bought in the past" Jones inserted, "I tried to cut corners where I could." He paused and continued, "Of course, I know it doesn't sound like it."

It didn't sound like it to some of the legislators. They objected to items like the $30 spent on painting the megaphones.

Jones answered point-blank questions. He admitted that in the future cheerleaders might be able to manage on a smaller wardrobe, that they might even stay under the $200 mark.

Representative Leona Gillette spoke for several legislators when she asked why cheerleaders had to keep their megaphones at the end of the year when they had regular letter sweaters.

Other Congress members wondered why the cheerleaders needed coveralls in addition to their uniforms. Some questioned two sets of sweaters.

Before the report was completed, it was brought out that $25 more is being spent on a new costume for "Addy", Horned Frog mascot, and a letter jacket for the current "Addy."

Congress was not ready to make a decision on the report. Its members needed time to test student reaction, to recover from the financial shock. A delaying action was in order, needed badly, in fact.

Johnson made a motion that a committee of one be appointed to ask the athletic department for an additional appropriation. Congress was willing; his motion carried.

Kent appointed Jack Horton, Congress treasurer.

In the meantime the cheerleader report is not approved. The yell leaders have a handful of unpaid bills.

Growing out of the debate over the cheerleader spending was a motion put before the group by Carl Graner, chairman of the records committee. Graner, striking out for some measure to prevent such unlimited spending in the future, moved that the legislative committee be instructed to look into the matter of formulating a bill which would say, in effect, that no spending could be done without an adequate appropriation from Congress beforehand.

His motion was carried.

Howdy, Razorbacks!

We are glad you chose TCU as your student body trip and we hope you have a good time.

It is no secret that we are trying for the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship Trophy this year and this will be our first chance to act as a good host.

All University of Arkansas students are especially invited to attend a dance in the Field House immediately after the game.

Miss Nowotny Assumes Vice-President's Duties

Miss Frances Nowotny, New Braunfels junior will carry the duties but not the title of student body vice-president.

Congress, approving unanimously the recommendation of President Ren Kent, appointed her chairman of Congress' executive committee Monday.

Actually she assumed the work of vice-president of the student body, and will preside over Student Association Congress meetings in Kent's absence. She would take over presidential chores if that office were vacated.

The present constitution does not provide for either appointing or electing anew vice-president. Congress also supported Kent's appointment of Don Goldston, senior class representative, to the position of parliamentarian.

A resolution introduced by Don Brewer, chairman of the legislative committee, and passed by Congress established "Roberts Rules of Order Revised" as the rules of order and procedure with which Goldston will work.

Enrollment Increase Announced by Sadler

Enrollment had increased over last year's figure on that date by approximately 300 students, President M. E. Sadler announced at convocation Wednesday.

Complete enrollment figures had not yet been released by the president's office, when the Skiff went to press.

Students Need Activity Cards Tomorrow Night

Tickets will not be enough to get a student into the TCU-Arkansas game tomorrow night, according to James Collings, Business Office employee.

Collings says that full-time students will need activity cards and part-time students must have activity booklets in addition to their tickets.

Activity cards alone will admit students to the freshman game with Rice this afternoon.

Because new students are not familiar with the process of getting tickets, ticket office windows at the Stadium will be open until 1 p.m. today. Ordinarily deadline is Wednesday of the week of the game.

Gate keepers are empowered to take up both student tickets and activity cards if any card-trading is done.

Freshmen should have their photographs taken for the '53 Horned Frog by Wednesday, Editor Kent Henderson announced.

Other deadlines for yearbook photos are Oct. 20, sophomores; Oct. 27, juniors; and Nov. 10, seniors.

Pictures will be made by Orgain's Studio, 705½ Main St. The charge is $1 for freshmen, sophomores and juniors, and $2 for seniors.

The studio will furnish a cap and gown for graduation pictures, Henderson said.

Two Student Presidents Answer TCU Sportsmanship Invitations

Plans for the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship meeting to be held here Monday were not completed this week.

Only two student body presidents had answered Congress' letters requesting suggestions for a worth-while agenda.

Wednesday afternoon, the remaining schools had not sent letters accepting TCU's invitation. Congress, acting as host to the annual meeting, can only hope that they will send delegates.

Ren Kent, who will be presiding at the conference, says that he can guess at the complete agenda.

"Possible revision or clarification of the rules of conduct governing the awarding of the Sportsmanship Trophy, closer coordination of sportsmanship propaganda efforts by conference newspapers, revisions of the code and of voting methods used in picking the trophy winner will probably be discussed, Kent said.

The first session will start at 10 a.m. and will recess at noon. The sportsmanship talk will resume at 1:30 and will end at 3 p.m. Sessions will be held in the Study Lounge.

Editors of school publications, representatives of student body associations, cheerleaders, and other interested persons are delegates to Southwest Conference Sportsmanship meetings.

Class Officers Will Be Elected Thursday, Friday

Class presidents and vice-presidents will be elected Thursday and Friday, Miss Frances Nowotny, chairman of Congress' election committee, announced Monday.

Candidates for the eight positions began filing applications for places on the ballots yesterday.

Miss Nowotny says candidates may file for office today and until noon tomorrow at the Student Association Congress office on second floor of the Administration Building.

Students with 2.0 grade point averages are eligible to run for president or vice-president of their classes.

Campaigning may begin immediately after a satisfactory application has been completed and may continue through the voting days next week, says the election chairman.

Baker Denounces 'Grasping Governments,' Terms America's Freedom 'Greatest Asset'

By ROBERT McGUIRK

"Grasping federal governments" were denounced by Hines H. Baker, president of Humble Oil and Refining Company, in his address at the TCU annual fall convocation Wednesday.

Baker likened Truman to the kings of yore who believed in "divine rights," and in so doing he dismissed Great Britain of the 18th Century as a country of tyrants.

He told what was in store for students about to graduate:

"As an employee his rates of pay are frozen by government order . . . in agriculture, he will find that he cannot grow what crops he pleases . . . if he enters business, the government regulates the details of his relations with his employees . . . fixes prices of his products . . . he is regulated at every turn."

"America stands at an anxious moment in its life," he said, and hinted that "perils from within" are even greater than those from without.

Stating that "freedom is our greatest asset," he expressed fear that "the impatience for immediate satisfaction of (Americans') wants may lead them unwittingly into a surrender of freedom."

The chief danger, as Mr. Baker defined it, lies in "the growth of the idea that the central government can and should supply our wants."

Our standard of living, he said in effect, may well sink to the low level existing in England.

"It is amazing how far down this road we have traveled already," he said.

"Each day the federal government demands a little more control over our lives," he continued, warning that our very freedom "can be easily lost."

Mr. Baker suggested that in order to save our freedom "we must insist on respect for our rights under the Constitution . . . we must compel in government observance of the basic principles of the American way of life . . . we must stop the movement by which the individual . . . is swallowed up in a strong, all-powerful central government that . . . takes by compulsion much of the earnings of one individual to spend on others."

Mr. Baker maintained he has "confidence in the American people . . . We will have a spiritual rebirth."

In arousing his audience to vigilance, Mr. Baker in one point of his speech intimated that a "succession of similar steps" the national government is now following may lead us on "the way to socialism and inhaled to communism . . ."

After his address, Mr. Baker received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Quick Named Head Justice By Congress

John Quick, Albuquerque, N. M., senior, is chief justice of the Student Court. He and four associate justices of the court were elected Monday by Congress.

Justices are John B. Payne, Webster Groves, Mo., senior; Neil Lindley, Wilson, N. C., junior; Pat Whelan, Lena, Wis., junior; and Miss Carolyn Monroe, Waycross, Ga., senior.

Quick said he will call an organizational meeting of the new court next week.

Court action comes only when an act of Congress or of a congress-sponsored group is challenged.

Unconstitutional laws, illegal congressional functioning and contested elections would fall under the court's jurisdiction.

Justices are upper classmen who have maintained a 2.0 grade average.

TCU Artists Enter Paintings, Sculpture in State Fair Exhibition

TCU's art department will be well represented tomorrow at the State Fair of Texas Art Exhibition, Leonard M. Logan, assistant professor of art, announced.

All painting or sculptures entered by Prof. Logan, John W. Erickson, assistant professor of art, James Boynton and Charles Williams, both Fort Worth graduate students, will be shown during the State Fair in Dallas' Museum of Fine Arts.

The works of four TCU alumni will also be displayed during the annual exhibition of artistic creations by 111 Texas painters and sculptors.

The dominant artistic trends manifested in TCU selections are the abstract or "modern," and the semi-abstract which contains occasional touches of realism.

Works by Prof. Logan to be shown include an oil painting, "Pattern of Generations" and "Counterpoise," a carved-cast aluminum figure in the abstract.

Abstract works by Prof. Erickson to be exhibited are two oil paintings, "Fire Escape" and "The Outer Edge," "Standing Figure" and "Prologue" are the two pieces of sculpture, created by Williams, which will compete in the final judging.

Formed from walnut, "Standing Figure" has tendencies toward realism. The more abstract "Prologue" is Bois d'Arc.

Williams is a student of Prof. Logan.

Boynton will also be represented twice in the exhibition. His successful entries are "Introspective Landscape" and "Beyond Lights," both oil paintings.

All entries will be judged by Miss Dorothy C. Miller, curator of collections at the Museum of Modern Art, New York City; John I. H. Bauer, curator of painting and sculpture at Whitney Museum of American Art, New York City; and H. Harvard Arnson, director of the Walker Art Center, Minneapolis, and chairman of the art department at the University of Minnesota.

Statue in Progress . . .

. . . is examined by sculptor Leonard M. Logan, left, and painter John W. Erickson, assistant professors of art. Works by both artists will be shown tomorrow through Oct. 19 at the State Fair of Texas Art Exhibition in Dallas' Museum of Fine Arts.

Hereford Orchestra Will Play For Freshman Prom at Casino

Fletcher Hereford and his orchestra will supply music for the annual Freshman Prom at Lake Worth's New Casino, Oct. 23, Jim Hatley, dance manager, announced this week.

Ticket price, decided after a long Congress debate Monday, will be $2.50.—Freshman caps will not double as tickets.

A Freshman Prom Queen will be selected for the formal dance.

Hatley says a chartered bus will leave the rear of the Administration Building at 7:30 p.m., providing transportation to the Casino.

Dancing will begin at 8 and continue until 12, the dance manager has announced. Dormitory women will be granted late permission.

In presenting his report to Congress, Hatley stated that he believes the dance should at least break even financially.

"Any profit we might have," he continued, "could be used to defray the expense of having a 'name' band for a Congress-sponsored dance later in the year."

Degree in Religious Education Is Goal of Brite Negro Student

One of the three Negro students enrolled in Brite College of the Bible, Mrs. Vada Felder is working toward a master's degree in religious education.

"I am interested in personal counseling as it affects the religious life of the community," Mrs. Felder explained. She added that TCU offered the opportunity she needed to prepare for this type of work.

A native of Fort Worth, the Brite junior received her B.A. degree in English from Wiley College in Marshall, where she minored in mathematics.

She taught mathematics in Fort Worth's James E. Guinn Junior High School for 13 years.

Mrs. Felder's husband was pastor of the St. James Baptist Church in Fort Worth from 1950 until his death in December, 1951.

She became interested in religious work after her marriage 10 years ago. Since then she has done special study in religion at the University of Chicago and studied curriculum development at Oklahoma A&M.

From 1942 to 1950 the Felders were in Langston, Okla., where he was college minister at Langston University, state school for Negroes. He received his B.A. and B.D. degree from Virginia Union College, Richmond.

Barracks Men Are Indignant At Goode Slur

Residents of the barracks appeared angry this week because of an article in last week's Skiff. The rhubarb is over Goode hall monitor Pat Henderson's threat to send erring freshmen "to the barracks."

"This is a slur on our barracks," Roco "Rocky" Del Monaco, West-haven, Conn., sophomore bristled. "We don't want DP's here, but we'll be glad to have anyone who wants better quarters, congeniality and the pride of individuality."

Lynn Gillespie, Avoca freshman, pointed out that Barracks Z has a very exclusive group including several veterans, two post-graduate ministers and a high school valedictorian.

"It's rough and 'for men only.' This is no place for lace," he added.

Barracks Y monitor, Dan Cummins, Madison, Kan., graduate, standing amidst several "insulted" barracks mates, remarked:

"We have found a home away from home and don't want the discards and undesirables of Goode."

Sammy Baugh punted a ball 71 yards in the air against Santa Clara in 1935.

25 Texas Scientists To Meet Here Tomorrow

Conservation of water and other natural resources and the life cycle of a tropical fish will be the topics discussed tomorrow at a meeting of the section chairmen of the Academy of Science in the Science building.

The event is to be a prelude of the annual gathering of the academy next December.

High on the agenda will be a discussion of further research into remedies for Texas' prolonged droughts.

The meeting will be opened by Dr. Willis Hewatt, professor of biology, at 9 a.m., in the presence of 25 scientists.

After a planning committee session, Dr. Hewatt, president of the Academy, will introduce Elton Stubblefield.

Last May Stubblefield won first place at the National Science Fair in Washington for his exhibit and scientific paper on "The Life of the Three-Spot Gourami" — a tropical fish.

The Science Building will be officially dedicated Dec. 5, when Dr. William G. Pollard, executive director of the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, will be the guest speaker.

The new organization meets at 7 p.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays in the band hall of the School of Fine Arts.

"We are just now getting organized," Mr. Gillis said.

"All women students who can play an instrument are invited to join us at our meeting tonight in the Fine Arts Building.

"Eventually, I would like to see this group develop into a fine marching band to perform during halftime activities at football games."

Participation in the band is an extra-curricular activity and carries no credit.

Poll Reveals Majority of Students Favor Negro Attendance at TCU

Approximately three out of every four students polled by The Skiff this week would favor Negro students attending undergraduate classes.

More than 100 students and 20 professors were asked:

"Since Negroes have been admitted to Brite College, how would you feel if they were admitted to general classes?"

Students were more frank in their statements than were faculty members. Only three students gave non-committal answers whereas one-half of the teachers either declined comment or qualified their answers.

Seventy-four students indicated that they favored non-segregation in all classes. Twenty-three were against admitting Negroes, at least temporarily.

Affirmative statements ranged from "Fine," made by Perry Sires, Beaumont junior, to statements that it would make no difference.

Several favorable comments came from students who said they had attended either public school or college with colored students.

John Quick expressed their opinions.

"I think it's the only way to have a democratic school," the Albuquerque, N. M., senior, said.

Another commonly given reason for approving non-segregation referred to the Christian principles of the University.

"We shouldn't preach equality of man unless we recognize it," Miss Ann Gray, Hot Springs, Ark., senior, said.

Jimmy Roddey, Corpus Christi sophomore, pointed out the ability of Negroes in the field of sports as a reason they should be allowed "to improve their abilities" with equal education.

Taking a broader view, Ellis Amburn, Fort Worth junior, stressed that the racial problem should be "one of our minor worries during these times."

"I've never minded sitting in class with human beings before," he added.

"TCU would get a broader viewpoint by having Negroes in classes," Ken Miller, Sweetwater senior, said. "I work with them in the summer. Why should I not go to school with them in the winter?"

Some students, personally in favor of non-segregation, expressed skepticism as to the success of inter-racial classes.

"With the traditions of the South, it wouldn't be fair to admit Negroes and then not allow them to take part in general school activities and in turn, the Southwest Conference," Bill Baird, Fort Worth sophomore, said.

Some students who were opposed to the idea pointed out that equal and separate schools should be provided.

Miss Julia Castle, Houston senior, said that as long as the Christian Church provides adequate education at Jarvis College, it is not necessary for Negroes to attend undergraduate classes at TCU.

Among the faculty many statements showed a desire for lasting progress even if it has to be accomplished slowly.

Two typical comments were as follows:

Dean A. T. DeGroot, Graduate School: "Experience and my religious convictions make me feel that it would be a good thing. I think the experiment in non-segregation could best be conducted in the Graduate School."

Dr. Karl E. Snyder, associate professor of English: "I believe firmly in the policies as set down by the school Administration."

'I Go Pogo' Buttons Distributed

Three Parties Are Evident As TCU Politicians Organize

Campus supporters of three national presidential candidates—Adlai E. Stevenson, Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Pogo Possum—have begun planning their strategy to influence campus votes for their choices in the November 4 elections.

Roscoe C. Bell, Jr., Denton graduate student, was elected chairman of the "Students For Stevenson Club" at an organizational meeting held in Jarvis Hall on Tuesday. Perry Sires, Beaumont junior, was chosen vice-chairman; Miss Mary Maxey, Floydada senior, secretary-treasurer; and John B. Payne, Webster Groves, Mo., senior, publicity chairman. Dr. Troy C. Crenshaw, chairman of the English Department, will act as the group's sponsor.

Club meetings were set for 12:30 each Thursday in Room 121 of Jarvis Hall.

Bell said campus-wide publicity will be distributed, discussion groups encouraged, and that the campus club will participate in many activities of the Tarrant County "Stevenson-Sparkman Club."

A spokesman for the Young Republican Club on the campus, Melvin Shupp, San Antonio senior, said the club was now "formulating plans for campus support of General Eisenhower." The club has already sponsored an Eisenhower publicity booth in the Student Lounge.

Frank Benton, Fort Worth freshman, urges Eisenhower supporters to see him for campaign literature. Benton is offering buttons, flags, pamphlets, and car signs.

The third, and what has been termed by some observers, the most active group on the campus, is supporting cartoonist Walt Kelly's "favorite son," Pogo Possum.

Group chairman James T. Miller, Smithfield, Tex., senior, said plans are being laid for "a rally for Pogo," in the near future. In the meantime, buttons are being circulated about the campus bearing the candidate's picture and the inscription "I Go Pogo."

From the candidate's home state comes a report that Pogo has disguised himself as "a lil' orfingal" and has left home to show that he is not actively seeking nomination. High officials in the party, however, say a draft is being planned.

William J. Noltner, assistant professor of radio and television, has returned after a week's absence because of illness.

Taylor Crouch Back at TCU

He Loses Tom Brown Seniority And Frets in Crowded 'Splendor'

"You certainly lose out when you are away," the returning veteran laughed. "I worked for three years to get seniority to live in Tom Brown Hall, only to lose it during my absence.

"Now guess what?" he teased, "I'm back in the barracks, where I started."

The veteran is Taylor Crouch, Terrell senior, who spent a year on active service in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Yeoman Second Class Crouch has become Upper-classman Crouch, occupying a room in the barracks.

"I guess I'm not suffering from any lack of furniture, however," he continued, commenting on the three chests and two tables in his room.

"One reason for the excess furniture," he explained, "is the fact that I don't have a roommate."

Crouch will be moving out of the barracks Nov. 1 when he marries Miss Marilyn Phelps, B.S. '52, in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, University Christian Church.

He met Miss Phelps during their sophomore year at TCU. They became engaged in December, 1950.

Vice-president of the TCU Chamber of Commerce in 1951, Crouch was chairman of the Ranch Week committee and chamber representative on the Inter-Club Council that year.

The advertising major was assigned a Skiff beat, the math department, but after a year's absence he is still unable to find it.

Here Is Where That 25 Bucks For Student Activity Fee Goes

Do you ever wonder where the $25 per year you pay in student activity fees goes?

Here are figures supplied by President M. E. Sadler to Dr. Thomas F. Richardson, dean of students conference with the Administrative Committee.

For admission to athletic games	$7.50
For Student Congress purposes	2.00
For the Horned Frog	5.00
For the Skiff	1.50
For free lectures and concerts for the students	1.00
For admission to programs given through the School of Fine Arts	.50
For special religious emphasis and activities	.25
For special purposes	.25
For retirement of student debt obligations	7.00
	$25.00

"Student debt obligations" listed in the last item are the debts incurred in creating and furnishing two student lounges — Study Lounge and Student Lounge.

Correction

Last week The Skiff ran a column on a speech by Kirby Page. One of the inevitable errors of journalism took place between the reporter's copy and the printed page.

One paragraph listing Page's beliefs said that among them was the idea that "Christian principles must be protected by physical self-defense, by war."

The column should have read that his opposition believes that Christian principles must be protected by war.

Page does not believe that war is justifiable. He maintains that Christians must find another solution.

Stryker to Attend Regional Workshop

Dr. William G. Stryker, assistant professor of English, will attend a regional workshop for high school and college English teachers in Mineral Wells tomorrow.

Dr. Stryker, newly appointed director of freshman English at TCU, said the purpose of the meeting is to co-ordinate the work of high schools and colleges in the teaching of English.

Congresses leading the student body when the two lounges were built agreed with the University that part of the student activity fee go for paying for the lounges if the University would take on the debt immediately.

A portion of that fee, then, will be used for that purpose until the debt is fully retired. A statement of how much of the debt remains will be available soon.

300 Air Force Cadets Report for First Drill

Lt. Col. Luther O'Hern, Air Force professor, released an additional duty assignment and promotion order Monday as the Air Force ROTC training program swung into high gear with 300 uniformed cadets reporting for the first drill session of the year.

The cadet unit has grown to wing strength with the addition of nearly 100 freshmen to the corps.

Cadet Colonel Marshal E. Harris, Deland, Fla., senior, is the wing commander with cadet Lt. Col. Kay W. Kirkpatrick, Post senior, serving as his executive officer.

Six cadets have been promoted to the rank of cadet captains, with assignments as follows: group adjutants—Billy D. Pierce, Fort Worth graduate student, Vernon R. Brooks, Fort Worth senior. Squadron commanders—Glenn H. Norman Jr., Fort Worth senior; Marshall T. Robinson, Fort Worth junior; Phillip C. Tidball, Fort Worth senior; Robert C. Johnson, Dallas junior.

The rank of cadet first lieutenant has been given to 16 men. Squadron executive officers will be Hubert M. Henderson, Fort Worth junior; Clyde J. Moore, Fort Worth junior; George J. Petrovich Jr., Galveston sophomore; Jack H.

Temple, Childress senior. Those assigned as flight leaders are J. M. Golden, Fort Worth senior; A. M. Gurley, Fort Worth junior; J. D. Hunter, Fort Worth junior; H. G. Rush, Fort Worth sophomore; B. G. Dornberger, Fort Worth senior; D. E. Kirkham, Fort Worth sophomore; R. K. Dieb, Fort Worth junior; M. E. Phillips, Fort Worth senior; J. D. Hailey, Fort Worth sophomore; M. M. Brous, Fort Worth junior; B. G. Doty, Carter, Okla., junior; C. C. Ashley, Llano junior.

The AF ROTC drill team, under command of cadet Lt. Col. Lawrence J. Riddle Jr., Fort Worth junior, began precision drill practice Monday. The team is scheduled for several football half-time exhibitions and downtown parades this year.

The rifle team, composed chiefly of returning squadmen, will begin of returning Tuesday on the new ROTC rifle range behind the Gymnasium. Cadet Lt. Col. William N. Rainwater, Fort Worth senior, is the rifle squad captain.

Vet Doffs Air Force Uniform, Dons TCU Cap, Football Gear

Putting away his Air Force uniform, hat and nine medals, Fred Black, 24, has donned a TCU freshman cap, joined the Wog football team, and started on his way toward a career in journalism and law.

A Korean veteran with four years of Air Force service behind him, Black flew 69 flights over northern Korea.

"I was a radio operator and gunner," he explained. "Our targets were things like railroad lines, marshalling yards, and troop concentrations."

A staff sergeant, Black wrote for the base newspaper and submitted articles to the Stars and Stripes. "I did mostly sports writing in the service," he commented.

The 6-foot 2-inch freshman worked as a copy boy on the Fort Worth Press while in Technical High School.

He wants to get a "good cross section of journalism and government" while in TCU so that he can go to law school and become a legal writer for a law firm or court.

Black decided to get a college education while he was overseas. "It was a sort of culmination of things that had happened," he remarked. "I have been interested in journalism and law ever since I can remember."

He is minoring in English. Working toward a scholarship to Harvard University, Black has ambitions of studying law there.

The veteran's medals include the Korean Presidential Citation, Korean Service medal, United Nations ribbon, Japanese Occupation medal, Commendation ribbon, Good Conduct and the Hwarang medal.

Black's brother Morris, is also enrolled at TCU. A Korean veteran, he was a member of the Marine Corps.

The two brothers were in Korea at the same time, "within 10 miles of each other twice," but never met over there. Morris, 22, is a freshman majoring in physical education.

Hungry Froggies After Pig Meat

McKown To Duel McHan

By ROSS HOYT

Still smarting from their twin, two-touchdown defeats at the hands of Kansas and UCLA, the TCU Horned Frogs take on the rampaging Razorbacks of Arkansas tomorrow at 8 p.m. in TCU's Amon G. Carter Stadium.

The Christians have high hopes of atoning somewhat for their opening shut-outs by taking their conference brothers from northeast of the Texas border, in this, the first conference tilt for either school.

The Porkers, however, may have other ideas in mind. They beat a sluggish Oklahoma A&M team 22-20 two weeks ago, but last week went down before the Cougars of the University of Houston 7-17. Getting back onto the victory side of the ledger is also one of their objectives for tomorrow night.

The game promises to be a pass-happy affair with "the Dumas Dandy," Ray McKown, doing the chunking for the Frogs. Arkansas will counter with a brilliant junior, Lamar McHan.

Last year as sophs, McKown and McHan tangled up statistically each Saturday and have continued their feud into this season's play. With two games played, the boys are once again neck and neck in the record books.

McKown has thrown 51 passes and completed 26, for a total of 281 yards in the air. This averages about 10.8 yards per pass. He has a .509 pass completion average which tops conference records going into tomorrow's game.

While McHan has not passed as much as McKown, he has a larger per-pass average. He has averaged 13.9 yards on the 10 completions of his 22 attempted passes.

Neither man has done much on the ground this year. McKown has gained only 40 yards on foot, while McHan has gathered a scant 16. In total offense McKown leads with 321 yards and has a 4.1 yard average per carry. McHan has a 4.4 yard average per carry, but has a total offense of only 155 yards.

No matter how tomorrow's game develops, as a smashing ground game or a wild passing match, it promises to be an exciting one all the way. Both teams are set to win that first "big one" which means so much.

Coach Meyer says, "We'll throw everything we have at Arkansas. To me, that's a crucial game. The team that wins that one may do well in the conference race."

TCU May Have Jinxed Arkansas

The TCU - Arkansas gridiron clash tomorrow night marks the 29th contest between the two teams since the series started in 1920.

The Froggies have won 16 games, the Razorbacks 10, with two ties resulting in the series.

The Horned Frogs, having won the last two affairs 13-6 in 1950 and 17-7 in 1951, will try for three in a row.

Winner of the contest will take an early lead in the Southwest Conference race.

Texas Christian University is composed of eight colleges and schools and offers courses in 55

Ready for Razorbacks

"Big John" Harville, left, Fort Worth senior, and Malvin Fowler, Van senior, are two of TCU's starting backs in tomorrow's opening Southwest Conference clash with the Arkansas Razorbacks. Harville, the leading pass receiver for the Frogs, will start at the right halfback position. Fowler, the converted tailback will hold down the starting fullback post. Both men are in top physical condition and are ready to help the Froggies regain the winning ways of last season. The game tomorrow marks the 29th meeting between the two teams since the series started in 1920. The record stands with 16 victories for the Frogs and 10 wins for the Razorbacks. The Horned Frogs, having won the last two encounters by scores of 13-6 in 1950, and 17-7 in 1951, will try to make it three in a row over the Porkers. TCU, as usual will depend on the famed Dutchman spread, while Arkansas will use its proven T-formation, with several variations added by Coach Otis Douglas.

SPORTS SHRDLU

BY BUD SHRAKE

A philosophy professor, forgetting for a moment the ivory realm of infinity and Pythagorean geometrics, offered with a dash of the bitters a tentative solution to the ills that have befallen TCU footballers.

"It is possible," he suggested wryly to a lineman who sits on the back row in one of his classes, "that you could schedule a game with Our Lady of Victory Academy on the open date before the Texas game. Then maybe you could get a touchdown."

"As it now stands," the professor continued, "from an athletic point of view you boys are doing a great job towards de-emphasizing football at TCU."

Naturally it is not as bad as the above remarks, which were quoth in jest, seem to make it.

But the professor's barbs strike hard, especially around the Student Lounge where wailing abounds and bitter tears chlorodize the coffee.

In fact, the Frogs haven't looked this bad in almost twelve months—since Texas Tech won the Southwest Conference last October.

OUT IN CALIFORNIA, a land which no longer flows with sunshine and light, the TCU athletes were victims of dark brown luck and sluggishness.

Sept. 27, or Black Saturday, bristled with both, if the Sunday telecast did not lie.

There were times in the first half when the Frog attack was sufficient to make even the chronic sufferer of venal catarh focus his eyes on the screen.

The TCU's looked as vibrant and briskly business-like as a corps of insurance salesmen while they were in the act of marching into UCLA territory.

But once down where a touchdown was available, they folded their brief cases and took an afternoon nap while the opposition locked the office doors.

And then, of course, there was that freakish touchdown wherein a lumbering UCLA lineman placed himself in front of a pass that Ray McKown unloosed from a reclining position, and set the Bruins up to good advantage.

HOWEVER, there is still a strong gleam of hope for the season.

TCU, to make the understatement of the week, is no longer being picked to repeat as conference champions.

And the Frogs have never placed too much emphasis on intersectional games. At least, they haven't won an abundance of them.

The Arkansas Razorbacks, who always have a good team but can't seem to jell, come limping into town tomorrow night.

This is where TCU has the chance to show that it still has the power to win football games and things.

It is the first conference game and a victory is a necessity or those Cotton Bowl dollars are probably bound for other pocketbooks.

EVERY TEAM in the conference, with the exception of Arkansas and TCU, seems to be finding muscles that were hidden somewhere beneath its undershirt.

SMU flashed a potent and bewildering offense at times against Duke last week, and the Ponies have a collection of some of the best running backs in this territory.

Texas A&M continued to gain respect with its beating of Oklahoma A&M, and the University of Texas seems an awesome assortment of invincibles.

After watching Rice slaughter his gentlemen, Texas Tech coach DeWitt Weaver said merely that Rice was the best Southwest Conference team the Raiders have ever played.

And the Baylor Bears were resting after a convincing victory over Wake Forest.

All these things, strangely enough, might be in TCU's favor, for the Frogs have always delighted in the role of David.

Then, too, it could work the other way around and one of the professor's remarks would find enthusiastic adherents.

WSA Lists Full Slate of Sports

Women's Sports Association met in the Modern Lounge of Waits Hall last night to discuss plans and select delegates to attend the Texas Recreational Federation of College Women convention in Huntsville Tuesday through Oct. 12.

WSA volley-ball practice has been scheduled for Monday, Thursday and Friday from 4 to 5 p.m. under the direction of Miss Martha Enloe, Fort Worth senior, and Miss Billie Sue Anderson, McKinney junior.

Other sports on this semester's schedule are swimming, 3 to 4 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday; badminton, 3 to 4 p.m., Thursday or arranged; and tennis, arranged.

"We would like for every girl on the campus to join WSA this year," Miss Anderson stressed. "Dues for the year are $1 and may be paid to Miss Rena Reynolds, Miss Enloe or myself."

She added that a student does not have to be a member of WSA to participate in the sports program.

TCU won its first Southwest Conference football championship in 1929.

Intramural Play To Begin Tuesday In Fall Matches

By MARTIN MOORE

The intramural athletic program will swing into action at 2 p.m. Tuesday as the Freshman and Sophomore eight-man grid teams tangle.

There will be action in two leagues, with Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior teams in both the Tuesday and Wednesday leagues. Brite College also will sponsor a team in one of the circuits.

All intramural contestants must register their name and classification on the bulletin board in the Gymnasium before game time Tuesday.

Prof. Thomas W. Prouse, director of intramural activity, points out the necessity of prospective letter award winners' starting play at the first of the season. Ten points are given players for each game they play and letter jackets are presented to the eight men with the highest point totals at the season's end.

Gold football awards will be given the championship team at the finish of league play.

The intramural program this year will be composed of 12 sports, including rifle marksmanship and track.

The eight men finishing on top last season for jackets were: fourth year letterman Martin Moore, Fort Worth senior; second year lettermen Pat Shannon, Fort Worth, senior, Tom Stinson, Fort Worth, senior, and Paul Moody, Fort Worth junior; first year lettermen, Tom Rousseau, Longview, junior, Raymond Anderson, Galveston, senior, Dan Cummins, Madison, Kan., senior and Jerry Dulin, Dallas junior.

After the game the Bryson Club will sponsor a dance in the Study Lounge from 10:30 p.m. to midnight. Admission is 50 cents stag or drag.

Or, if you prefer, Ray Anthony and his band move into the Casino the same night.

TCU Coach Leo "Dutch" Meyer hopes to fill the air with footballs in hopes of baffling the Arkansas defense and winning his first game of the season.

The Frogs, victims of two consecutive shut-outs, are floundering badly and need this one to give them an early jump in the conference chase.

Wayne Martin, whom Meyer considers his "best defender," will be back in action tomorrow night after being out with a wounded ankle for the past two weeks. The whole TCU squad shows signs of being in the best shape of the season.

Arkansas, a weird up-and-down team which lost its last game to the University of Houston after beating Oklahoma A&M, is practically unpredictable.

Coach Otis Douglas has said he would quit his job if the Razorbacks don't have a good season.

If they beat TCU, Douglas will probably consider it a good season.

Arnie Tubelis . . .

Braggs About Texas

Native of Latvia Praises Jazz, Likes Football and the Comics

Arnie Tubelis, freshman pre-med major from Fort Worth and native of Latvia, likes American jazz.

But it is not much like the classical music he heard in his old home town, Riga, Latvia.

He likes many things about the American society.

"American universities are the best," says Arnie. More activities, better curriculum, thorough teachers, and individual attention for students make them better than the colleges he knew in Latvia.

Football is another thing Tubelis enjoys. While attending high school in Czechoslovakia, he played soccer, basketball, volleyball, tennis and ice hockey.

He says that he has fallen into the typical American habit of turning to the comics and sports pages first when he picks up a paper.

Latvian publications, he says, contain no comics or ads other than personal announcements. They stress news and literature.

Regional Chemists To Meet Oct. 23

Members of the Fort Worth - Dallas section of the American Chemical Society will convene Oct. 23 in the Science Building.

Dr. F. A. Mutsen of the University of Texas addressed the society Tuesday at SMU on "Color and Chemical Solution."

Dr. Henry Hardt, TCU professor of chemistry, and Dr. Elmer R. Alexander, associate professor of chemistry, attended.

belis pays a compliment to the University. "I had heard a lot about TCU and felt that it was the closest to what I want in a college."

He likes Texas in general and Fort Worth in particular. He lives with his father, mother, and brother and sister, 17-year-old twins.

"We will very likely make our home in Texas," he says, "and if we do, it will be in Fort Worth." Torrid Texas weather is his only major complaint.

Tubelis, whose father was editor of a leading Latvian magazine, reads in his spare time. Scanning the pages of historical or geographical books is his pet hobby.

He has visited many of the countries he reads about. Lithuania, Estonia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Russia, Germany, France, Austria and Switzerland are nations he has visited.

He was graduated from North Side High School last June.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization - no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger - contains considerably more of the same tobaccos - enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs very little more.
