Harrison Is Named New Dean

Dr. Ike H. Harrison of San Marcos will assume duties as the dean of the School of Business sometime in June, President M. E. Sadler has announced.

The appointment fills a vacancy that has existed since Dr. Ellis Sowell resigned a year ago. Prof. Henry Key has been serving as acting dean.

Dr. Harrison received his B. A. degree from Southwest Texas State and took his B.B.A. and M.B.A. from the University of Texas with majors in accounting and marketing. He received his doctor of education degree from New York University in 1942 with majors in business education and management.

At 45, he has had 12 years of teaching experience in the field of business administration. He was at New York University for three years and was dean of the College of Business at the University of Houston when he returned to military duty in World War II.

In the Air Force he was chief of the Human Resources Division Headquarters, Air Force in Washington, D.C., where research programs on personnel management, training and human relations were planned. From 1952-1954 he was director of the USAF European Research Group in Paris.

An accomplished lecturer, the new dean speaks Spanish and French fluently. During a stay in Europe he took lecture courses at the University of Madrid and in Paris.

"We are delighted that Col. Harrison has accepted the post as dean," Dr. Sadler said. "The School of Business is one of our fastest-growing and most important divisions. Under the new dean we are confident it will have a period of fine expansion and development."

For the past few months Dr. Harrison has been managing family interests in San Marcos. A Methodist, he has long been active in religious and civic work.

He sees his new job as a great challenge.

"After visiting on the campus several times, I am convinced that the TCU School of Business has a fine future," he said. "It is highly important to develop young people who will be our business leaders of tomorrow. We will work hard in that direction and at the same time co-operate with all the business leaders of the area on mutual problems."

"We are happy to be coming to TCU and Fort Worth."

Dr. Sowell resigned last February 1, to join the staff of Haskins and Sells Co. in New York City. He had been with TCU for ten years.

Mr. Key will return to his position as associate professor of business administration.

Three Quit Congress In Term's Last Session

Three Congress members resigned Monday night at the last meeting of the semester.

The three, who will not be in school next semester, are Miss June Snell, sophomore class representative; Miss Dorothy Parker, Harris College of Nursing representative; and Dale West, freshman class president.

Bill Perry, freshman vice president, will replace West. Appointments to fill the other two vacancies will be made at the beginning of the spring semester.

Student Body President Jack Graf showed Congress sketches of a new senior ring design which the ring committee will submit to the Administration this week.

If the Administration approves, student opinion on the ring will be sought. Just what method will be used in obtaining student opinion has not been decided.

Graf said it is doubtful if new rings will be available this year because of time needed to cast new dies.

The design accepted by the committee is similar to the present standard ring, except that the Horned Frog has been removed from one side and replaced by an impression of the Religion Center.

The relief is stronger on the new design. The square top with small stone has been retained.

In other action, Congress voted to send eight delegates to an executive meeting of the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association Feb. 12 at Texas A&M College.

If anyone could make studying enticing pretty Miss Gloria Horton, Shreveport, La., sophomore, could do it. She is one of thousands of students who 'hit the books' this week in preparation for final exams.

SC Parking 180 New Students To Be Open To Register Here Next Term

The new parking area west of the Brown-Lupton Student Center will be ready for use by the beginning of the spring semester, Chief Security Officer John W. Prine said this week.

A trial regulation, limiting parallel parking across the street from the Student Center to 30 minutes, has been established. At present, no time limit has been set for head-in parking in the area.

"We hope to have traffic signs and curb stencils in the area by the start of the new semester," Mr. Prine commented.

Since the appearance two weeks ago in The Skiff of an article concerning delay of construction of the lot caused by illegal parking, the situation has improved considerably, he added.

20 Women Will Move Into Waits, Foster

About 20 women will move into Waits and Foster Halls next semester, according to Miss Elizabeth Shelburne, dean of women.

"There will be two rooms with three girls in them," said Miss Shelburne. "The three-girl rooms are not necessary because of space shortage, but because the women requested it."

Approximately 180 new students are expected to register at TCU for the spring semester, Registrar Calvin A. Cumbie predicted.

Mr. Cumbie, as of Wednesday, anticipated 86 freshmen and 94 transfer students to report for matriculation activities which begin Jan. 31. This figure is about the same as that for new student enrollment last spring.

Registration will begin three days after final examinations and will continue through Feb. 2. Finals will start Monday and last until Friday.

The entire registration, including payment of accounts, will be conducted in the Science Bldg. for all students except those enrolled in Brite College of the Bible. Brite students will enroll in the Brite College offices.

Administrative officials report the Science Building site for registration is highly effective in that it greatly expedites the matriculation operation. The Science Bldg. was used for the first time in registering this semester.

Registration of all former students, except graduate, will be conducted on the alphabetical plan, beginning with the Z's.

Mr. Cumbie urged all students to report for registration at the time designated for their sections of the alphabet.

He said students unable to report at the proper times should report to Room 144 in the Science Bldg. for written permission to register at some other time.

Former students will report to the Science Building through the west entrance in the following alphabetical order:

- Monday, Jan. 31:
 W, X, Y, Z—8:30 to 10:00 a.m.
 T, U, V—10:00 to 11:30 a.m.
 R, S—1:30 to 3:00 p.m.
 H, I, J, K—3:00 to 4:30 p.m.
- Tuesday, Feb. 1:
 L, Mc—8:30 to 10:00 a.m.
 M, N—10:00 to 11:30 a.m.
 O, P, Q—1:30 to 3:00 p.m.
 E, F, G—3:00 to 4:30 p.m.
- Wednesday, Feb. 2:
 A, B—8:30 to 10:00 a.m.
 C, D—10:00 to 11:30 a.m.

New students will report to the Little Theater at 9 a.m. on Jan. 31 for orientation and instructions on registration.

A Veterans Administration booth will be set up in the Science Building to help veterans matriculate. Veterans will register in the same manner as other students.

Nobody Here Gives Eggs But Us Fovls

Spectators at the TCU-SMU basketball game last week wondered about the spelling, "personal fovls," on the programs sold by the Flying Frogs.

Was that supposed to hint that the referees were chicken?

Advertising Library presented to TCU by the Advertising Club of Fort Worth Wednesday.

The library will be composed of books dealing with almost all phases of advertising, including newspaper, radio, television, layouts, copy, elementary advertising art and agency operation," said president James Matthews.

Matthews, B. A. '39 in journalism, also is advertising manager of Washer Brothers and an instructor in the TCU Evening College.

"The books will be useful not only to students of advertising, but also to those in marketing and business administration," said Matthews.

A five-man Advertising Club committee selected the first books to be given. Committee members are Tommy Yates, A. J. Hoecker, Max Goodman, Roy L. Bacus and Matthews.

Jim L. Edwards read a letter of dedication at the luncheon and presented the books to Librarian Glenn Sparks, Prof. Warren K. Agee, journalism department chairman, and Amos Melton, Information Service director, also represented TCU.

Special book plates have been ordered by the club for the new books. The group plans to add to the collection periodically.

The collection will be placed in the regular circulating book stacks in Mary Coats Burnett Library.

Rowland Broiles, instructor in advertising in the Evening College, first conceived the idea of such a collection several years ago and both he and Shuman contributed funds for the advertising library.

Shuman, retired advertising manager of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, was one of the organizers of the club in 1909. He served as its first secretary, was its president during the early twenties, and now is one of the organization's two life members. Amon Carter is the holder of the other life membership.

Unpaid Tickets To Keep Holders From Registering

Students holding campus traffic tickets must pay them prior to the beginning of the spring semester to be eligible for registration, Chief Security Officer John W. Prine reminded this week.

Grades, transcripts and degrees of students with unpaid tickets will be held until payment is made or the student has conferred with him concerning the violation, Mr. Prine added.

Students who have not settled accounts with the Security Office will be prevented from registering again until such settlement is accomplished.

Mr. Prine emphasized that often, even though the tickets are issued only as a warning, students are still required to contact him before the end of the semester.

"We'll collect overdue tickets if the student doesn't show up," he declared.

Col. Davis Assists In Scout Movement

Lt. Col. Greene R. Davis is serving as secretary-treasurer of committeemen of Troop 41 of the Boy Scouts.

The troop, organized about two months ago, at the First Congregational Church, has 18 members. Col. Davis' son, David, and Capt. Randolph Hall's son, Randy are in the troop.

CHI OMEGA

Chi Omega was founded at the University of Arkansas on April 5, 1895.

After 60 years of existence, the sorority has 116 active chapters and 194 alumnae groups. Total membership of the organization is 54,776.

Chi Omega includes in its program a service fund which is used to publish special research studies in the social sciences. Active chapters also present a social science prize, generally of $25 each year, to the outstanding woman student.

In 1930 Chi Omega sponsored the National Achievement Award, a gold medal presented annually to a woman, usually American, of notable accomplishments in the field of public affairs, art, the professions, business and finance, education or literature.

The sorority is governed by convention, but between the biennial conventions, power is vested in a council of six members. Chief executive of the sorority is the president and the central office is in Cincinnati.

"Firesides," training sessions for officers of active and alumnae chapters and alumnae advisors of active chapters, are held in the year between conventions.

The following names are being used by local petitioning fraternities until national charters are granted:

- Sigma Phi Epsilon Colony
- Sigma Phi Epsilon
- Phi Alpha
- Sigma Alpha Epsilon
- Crescent Club
- Delta Tau Delta
- Theta Club
- Kappa Sigma
- Phi Alpha
- Sigma Alpha Epsilon
- Lambda Chi Society
- Lambda Chi Alpha
- Chi Sigma
- Sigma Chi
- Phi Kappa Sigma Colony
- Phi Kappa Sigma

The official journal, the "Eleusis," was founded in 1899 and is issued quarterly.

Chi Omega colors are cardinal and straw and the white carnation is the official flower.

The badge is a gold monogram with an owl and skull and cross-bones in black enamel. The pin is set with pearls or diamonds.

The pledge button, also composed of gold letters on a black background.

Mrs. C. L. Seacord Jr. is the sorority's local representative.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Delta Delta Delta was founded at Boston University on Thanksgiving Eve 1888.

Since that time, the sorority has grown to 52,300 members. There are 96 active chapters and 250 alumnae groups.

The Tri Delt is governed by the sorority convention which meets every other year. During the period between conventions, the six member executive board governs the sorority. Official headquarters are in Chicago.

More than $150,000 has been given by the sorority to 1,200 women students within the past 11 years in scholarships.

Official magazine of the group is the "Trident," published quarterly since 1891.

The sorority flower is the pansy and colors are silver, gold and blue.

The pledge pin is an inverted delta surrounded by three triangles all in green enamel.

The official pin is half-moon shaped with three stars inside, each set with a pearl.

Mrs. Asa C. Watson Jr. is the local Tri Delt representative.

TCU Is Invited To Share Grant

TCU has been invited to share a $2,090,000 grant from General Motors Corp.

Harlow H. Curtice, GM president, announced Tuesday the company was making grants to colleges and universities. The funds are to be used by the schools for support of higher education.

President M. E. Sadler received a telegram from GM inviting TCU to participate. He notified the company TCU would accept a share if such can be done in accordance with school standards.

'Colloid Chemistry' Will Be Taught in EC

Chemistry 254, "Colloid Chemistry," will be offered in the Evening College next semester because of recent demand, announced Dean Cortell K. Holsapple.

Dr. Henry B. Hardt, professor of chemistry, will teach the course on Tuesday evenings.

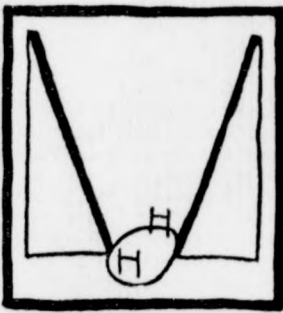

Dr. J. I. Tracey will teach "Introduction to Modern Geometry," instead of D. E. Richmond, as mistakenly reported in last week's Skiff. Richmond will instruct "Numerical Analysis."

Mr. B. Q. Greene will teach "Motion and Time Study," in place of Prof. E. W. Green.

Twelve Army ROTC cadets have earned ribbons denoting qualification with the .22 cal. rifle.

The ribbon, newly authorized, is blue with orange stripes. A silver rifle is attached for sharpshooter qualifiers and a gold rifle for experts.

Expert shooters are Millard D. Winter, Jamie E. Hallmark, Jerry A. Heffington, Leslie F. Perkins and Albert L. Feris.

Congress Needs Voice in SC Work

AN EDITORIAL

The new Student Center Board in its anxiety to organize operations could be a definite threat to representative-type student government.

Student Center sub-committees are now in formative stages, setting their programs into motion.

"We had to get started somehow," Social Director Elizabeth Youngblood said.

That's fine. The Student Center is off to a good start. No one questions the work done by the Board and the Student Activities Committee.

But as the social and political gravity changes on campus the duties of Student Congress, as opposed to the new responsibilities of the Student Center Groups, should be re-evaluated and well defined.

The Skiff feels that Student Congress, as the duly elected council representing the students, should maintain authority in all important student groups which decide general student policy.

Student Congress should not be allowed to become weak by having its responsibilities delegated to self-perpetuating boards. Congress should have power to make appointments and to fill vacancies which arise in the newly established Student Center Board and the equally powerful Activities Council.

Neglect of the representative process in the Student Center Board could undermine the student democratic process. This must not happen.

A serious overlapping of duties must never occur.

At least one of Congress' jobs is no longer theirs. To hold the free record dances, as it has in the past, Congress must now pay a $30 rental fee for ballroom use, or give the dance elsewhere. The former study lounge is now for faculty use. That leaves little good dance space on the campus.

On the other hand, the dance sub-committee of the Activities Council can use the ballroom free.

This is just an example.

Unless there is immediate definition of duties by both Congress and the Student Center Board, friction could result. There is no need for this.

Of course Student Congress could not begin to handle the multitude of details involved in Student Center operation. But neither can the Student Center Board, without the aid of a representative segment, do its job of satisfying student needs in the Center program.

Congress has been charged with numerous duties, large and small, for sometime. Now various committees and sub-committees in the Student Center setup are taking over some of these responsibilities. Congress must be glad to rid themselves of some of them. But now they are faced with re-defining their position. They must do this immediately.

The answer probably lies in the preamble to the Student constitution which states:

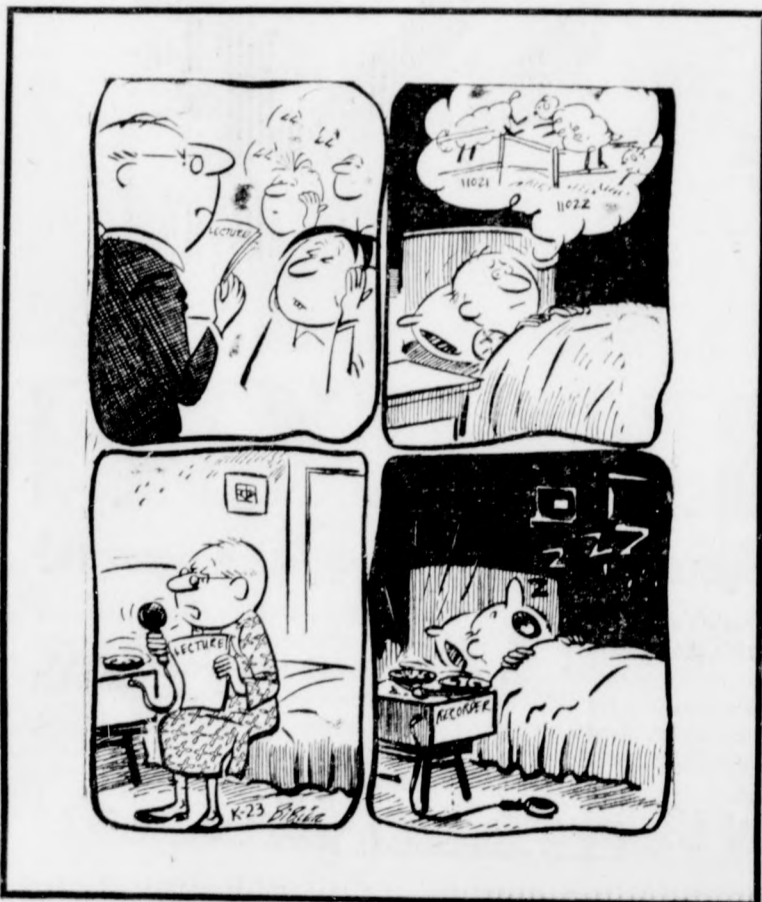

"We, the students of TCU, in order to provide due measure of student self-government, to regulate all matters delegated to the University to student control, organize for the conduct of campus affairs..."

In all fairness this can best be accomplished by allowing Student Congress to fill future vacancies on Student Center committees.

If this is done, the powers of Student Congress will be increased in the areas now threatened.

As Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director, has said, "The Student Center is a supplement to student activities."

Given a voice in these supplementary activities Congress will retain the big job on the campus. The Skiff feels this would be the wisest step.

The Student Center is noisy. And crowded.

That's great.

For it indicates that TCU students are enjoying the long-awaited addition to campus life. Its' hard for campus "veterans" to realize their dream has actually materialized; that just across the street may be found pool, table tennis, chess, checkers, cokes, ice cream, TV and a multitude of things calculated to make college a bit more interesting.

There's a definite feeling of student unity inside the center. Here, now, is a place where all may go, a place where TCU gathers. In one week the center has leaped into an outstanding and valued position in the minds and activities of students.

Here's a vote of thanks to those whose foresight and hard work led to construction of the million-dollar showplace.

You Can't Believe 'Em

Statistics Do Lie LaGrone Contends

By JIM HENDRICKS

As the saying goes, statistics don't lie.

But they can, believes Dr. C. A. LaGrone, professor of psychology, if they are not interpreted correctly.

Dr. LaGrone, who teaches a three-semester-hour course in statistics and their meaning, contends that they can easily confuse or deceive.

For instance, 45 years from now, we'll all be crazy.

At least, according to statistics.

This conclusion is drawn from figures which show mental illness to be on a sharp upgrade in the United States.

As statistics tell it, this means that by the year 2000, everyone in the country may be insane.

In another case, a man who kept account through the newspapers of the number of "kills" scored by American pilots in the Korean War discovered that, according to statistics, the entire Red airforce had been shot down three times.

Misconceptions such as these arise from misunderstanding of the actual meaning of statistics, Dr. LaGrone declared.

In the case of the increase of insanity, all the factors influencing the situation were not taken into consideration, such factors as compilation of figures in cities instead of in the country.

"Naturally, people in the city are more affected by mental trouble than those in the rural areas," Dr. LaGrone remarked. "In the city mental disease is noticed quicker than in the country. Also, the greater tension of metropolitan life has significant effect on the figures."

The blame for the mistake concerning the Red air force in Korea probably lies with conflicting reports taken at face value alone by statisticians compiling the figures.

Those who have an undoubting faith in statistics are prone to draw strikingly inaccurate conclusions from them.

A recent book on the subject, Darrell Huff's "How to Lie with Statistics," illustrates several situations in which statistics, although accurate from a technical standpoint, tend to confuse persons who are not aware of their meaning.

The book poses one whimsical example concerning figures based on money matters in the United States.

If the per capita income of this country is $1,200 yearly, the book asks, then why couldn't a man be correct in believing that all he needs to earn $20,000 a year is a wife and 14 and two-thirds children?

Despite these glaring mistakes and misinterpretations, statistics, properly handled, are of tremendous aid in computing almost intangible values, such as improvement, decline and comparison and material objects of tangible worth.

"People must be taught to think correctly in statistical terms," Dr. LaGrone pointed out.

"A big source of trouble in understanding the true meaning of statistics is miscomprehension of exactly what they stand for," he added.

Perhaps, if Dr. LaGrone and others like him are successful in the task of educating students to understand the real value of statistics, this old adage of the psychology profession will no longer hold true:

"There are liars, damn liars—and statisticians."

"Once Upon a Tune"

Student Show Is Successful

By RONALD DIEB
Guest Critic

Enthusiasm, imagination, and talent, when blended in the proper proportions, will consistently result in fine entertainment, and such was the case with "Once Upon a Tune," the original musical comedy which was produced by the Fallis Players and presented in the Little Theatre for two performances this past week.

Some forty students donated their efforts to the ambitious project, and they have every reason to be proud of the end result. It is amazing, in fact, that so much was accomplished in so short a time, for the show was put together with a minimum of rehearsals.

"Once Upon a Tune" was in no way pretentious or original. The meager plot, an almost too familiar one, concerned the exploits and adventures of three young girls in New York who, like most young girls in New York, hope to find their niche in show business. In the process, they meet three eligible young men, and, after two acts of singing, dancing, and vitalized merry-making, the couples find themselves engaged and all set to keep house in the "happily ever after" fashion. "Once Upon a Tune" is indeed a fairy-tale with all the necessary ingredients which are and have always been peculiar to fairy-tales.

But the merits of the show do not rest with the plot but rather with the cast itself. They apparently loved what they were doing, and the audience most assuredly loved seeing them do it.

The three "fairy princesses" were capably portrayed by Doris Nolan, Trisha Reeder, and Grace Morrow. Miss Reeder seems to be quite at home on the musical comedy stage, and Miss Nolan, whom we have admired in past balletic productions, showed an unexpected but thoroughly delightful flair for comedy.

David Combs, Raymond Smith, and Edmond DeLette managed the smitten "princes" with amiable charm. Combs and DeLette seemed especially well pleased to momentarily put aside their usual histrionic masks and break forth in song. Smith, who has been featured in ballet roles here for the past three years, proved with amazing ease that he is as capable in a tux as he is in tights insofar as his superior dancing technique is concerned.

Once again Marthalene Wall, whom we remember for her outstanding performance in "Crown of Shadows," distinguished herself but this time in the field of comedy. Her portrayal of the aged and highly affected actress Marlena Garbo was a gem of caricature, and she literally "stopped the show."

Prominent in the supporting cast were Joyce Gibson, Celeste Neff, Linda Macias, Bill Lee, and Lindsey Emerson. The dialogue was written by Hilda Lou Cohen, Charles Ferguson, and DeLette. Miss Cohen also handled the direction of the entire production. The music, which was borrowed from several well known Broadway musicals, was played by a trio consisting of Ruthe Owens, Gene Garretson, and Wayne Scantland. We do wish, though, that the "combo" had been present rather than on recordings, for many of the musical numbers would have been far smoother had it not been for troublesome mechanical contrivances, regardless of the "stereophonic" sound effects.

"Once Upon a Tune" was the second annual musical presentation of the Fallis Players, and we can but hope that similar undertakings become traditional here at TCU. Such endeavors deserve our attention, and "Once Upon a Tune" resulted in one of the more pleasant endeavors of the current school year.

Psychology Club To Meet Feb. 3; Dunn Flies Solo

The Psychology Club will hold its first meeting Feb. 3 at 11 a.m. in Room 217 of the Brown-Lupton Student Center.

The club, a professional organization for students majoring and minoring in psychology, will consider petitioning Psi Chi, national psychology fraternity, for a local chapter at TCU.

Dr. C. A. LaGrone, professor of psychology, will sponsor the organization.

Charles Dunn, Fort Worth freshman, is the latest member of the Air Force ROTC Flying Club to make a solo flight.

Dunn made his solo flight last Friday. In order to solo, a student must have had at least eight hours of dual instruction and have passed a written examination on CAA flight rules.

Final Studio Performance Tonight in Little Theater

Dr. Walther Volbach's drama students will present two one-act plays and scenes from five stage productions at 8 p.m. today in the Little Theater. The program will end the annual studio performances of the drama department.

TCU debaters will be busy between semesters. For practice debates, teams from SMU, North Texas State and Baylor will visit the campus Jan. 29 to vie with local teams. Debate headquarters will be in the Little Theater and Dr. E. L. Pross will schedule the matches.

Prof. Leonard Logan has placed his recent invention, a three-way art easel, on display at the faculty art show in the art gallery. Several schools have ordered the adjustable easel for use in their art departments and Mr. Logan has applied for a patent on the new device.

Dr. Walther Volbach will attend a meeting of the steering committee of the Southwest

Three Ballets Will Be Given, Including Lewis Gillis Work

Three ballets, including an original work by Band Director Lewis Gillis, will be offered by the School of Fine Arts Feb. 3-5 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Students of David Preston, instructor in ballet, will perform "The Labyrinth," with the music of Wolfgang Mozart's 41st Symphony; "Jeux D'Enfants," music by Georges Bizet from his suite of the same name; and Mrs. Gillis' "Ballet for Band," or "Who's Got the Button?"

"The Labyrinth," with a cast of 30, is the story of the Greek hero, Theseus, who enters the bewildering labyrinth and slays the Minotaur, a monster half bull and half man.

Leading roles in the ballet are taken by Robert Sporre and Raymond Smith, and Misses Rose Marie Stafford, Doris Nolan and Jacquelyn Craig.

In "Jeux D'Enfants" ("Children's Games") a fairy brings to life a little girl's toys and she revels in this new aspect of her beloved toys playing at their own games.

Appearing in "Jeux D'Enfants" are Eddie Parker, Sporre and Smith and Misses Kitty Malone, Carol Wayman, Carolyn Rogers, Mary Gail Pataa, Priscilla Frank, Marilyn Boysen, Nolan and Mary Dell Brown.

In Mr. Gillis' work, a college freshman must "button" at the command of any upperclassman. To "button" is to perform some action, usually ridiculous, demanded and at the same time place the forefinger on the button of the freshman's beanie.

Appearing in this ballet are Larry Roquemore and Smith, and Misses Melinda Terry and Malone.

Music for "Ballet for Band" will be played by the University Symphonic Band, under the direction of Mr. Gillis. Dr. Ralph Guenther will conduct the University Symphony Orchestra for the other two ballets.

All seats are reserved for the three performances and tickets are $1 and 60 cents. The box office will be open from 2 to 6 p.m. daily starting Jan. 21.

Curtain time on Thursday and Friday will be 8:15 p.m. and on Saturday, 1 p.m.

Cheerleaders Commend Spirit At Frog Games

"Student spirit has greatly improved this basketball season," said Miss Dot Fisher, sophomore cheerleader from Odessa.

Large numbers of students have attended the Frog home games and last week's contest with SMU was a sellout.

"Although the students have been doing a wonderful job of backing the Frogs, they could help the cheerleaders by sitting in a more compact group in the gymnasium," added Miss Fisher.

An all-school pep rally in Ed Landreth Auditorium will be scheduled early next semester, according to head cheerleader Jimmy McCord, Corpus Christi junior.

Aggies Dangerous at Home

Frogs Face Farmers; Go to ACC Jan. 29

By JIM BROCK

Hoping to bounce back after the bitter 73-63 loss to Rice Institute, the TCU basket ball squad will move into College Station for a test with Texas A&M College tomorrow night.

Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon's Frogs will be after their eighth straight victory over the Aggies, who began their series with TCU back in 1915. The Aggies' last victory over the Frogs was a 50-44 decision in the 1950-51 campaign.

The game, which will be staged in the new 8,500 seat G. Rollie White Coliseum, also will be the fourth conference start for the Frogs.

With the Rice Owls as hot as a new oven, the Frogs suffered their first defeat in league play and the first in their last eight starts at Houston Tuesday night.

Coach Don Suman's Owls, with center Terry Telligman and forward Joe Durrenberger dropping them in from every angle, raced into a quick 12-point lead in the opening 10 minutes that left the Frogs bewildered.

The Purple, however, overcame the deficit just before halftime and left the floor with a 33-32 margin.

But Frog center Dick O'Neal, who was held to his collegiate varsity low of 13 points for the evening, picked up his fourth and fifth personal fouls quickly in the second half and the Frogs were dead from that moment on.

Dick, who entered the game with a 26.9 points per game average, hit only five of 16 field goal attempts and three of eight free throws. Telligman, Durrenberger and Fred Woods, however, did a good job of guarding the big boy with their sagging three-man zone play.

Belback Favored For Gloves Title Tomorrow Night

Art Belback, Library, Pa., freshman, is the lone TCU entry in the Star-Telegram regional Golden Gloves now in progress at Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum.

Belback, who will meet his first foe in tonight's semifinals, is favored to win the open light-heavyweight title and advance to the state tournament. He will fight on the police youth team.

All final bouts in the high school, novice and open divisions are slated for 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The sudden "cold" also hit Ray (Shag) Warren, the hustling Purple captain. Warren hit four of 25 field goals as TCU hit only one bucket off the post the second half.

Telligman led Rice with 26 points and Durrenberger picked up 18 for the winners.

The loss gave the Frogs a 3-1 won-lost conference mark, leaving them tied with SMU for the league lead. For the season, TCU has 11 victories in 15 starts, still the best in the SWC.

Brannon plans to go with Warren and White at forwards, O'Neal at center and Kilpatrick along with Bill Estill at the guard slots for the Aggie contest.

The Cadets, who are coached by John Floyd, have won only three of 14 games this season.

Tuesday night, the Aggie crew suffered their third defeat in four conference starts as Baylor pinned a 89-77 defeat on them.

A&M's lone conference victory is a 62-59 verdict over Arkansas.

The Aggie attack, which used to utilize a slow, ball control-type offense has switched to a faster brand of play, which occasionally sees the Aggies try to employ a fast break.

Leading the Maroon quintet is a 6-3 junior forward, John Fortenberry. The agile co-captain leads the club in scoring with 200 points, 78 of those on free throws.

At the other forward probably will be Bill Brophy, a deadly 6-3 junior sharpshooter, who can hit with either hand from any distance.

George Mehaffey, a 6-4 sophomore, is due to get the call at center. Mehaffey picked up 31 against Baylor Tuesday night to take game scoring honors.

Roger Harvey, 5-11 sophomore, and Pat McCrory, 6-0 senior, will be at guards.

The A&M game will be the final for the Frogs until after the final exams when they tangle with Abilene Christian College at Abilene, Saturday, Jan. 29.

Next conference and home game will be Wednesday, Feb. 2 against the Aggies.

Then, Saturday, Feb. 5, TCU will play host to Baylor at the Public Schools Gymnasium.

Brannon reported that forward Johnny Betts, a 6-5 sophomore from Fort Worth, will be eligible for play after mid-year if the husky lad clears the scholastic hurdle.

Betts was a standout on the Wog team last season before becoming ineligible at mid-year.

Wogs Display 'Class' Despite Loss to Colts

TCU's surprising Wog basketball team will take it easy for awhile after suffering their first loss of the season Saturday night.

The SMU Colts dropped the Wogs, 73-69, to give them 5-1 won-lost records.

Coach Bruce Craig of the Wogs seemed pretty pleased with his boys' performance against the Colts in spite of the loss. The Colts were heavily favored to win, but were forced to rally in the last five minutes for the decision.

Craig said he planned to let his boys take it easy the rest of this week and all of next week in order that some of the boys might catch up with their studies.

Craig can ill afford to lose any players now. He has but 11 men on the squad, enough for a scrimmage.

He seemed to be looking forward to the return meeting with the Colts, although it will be held in Dallas on their home court.

"Next time I'll have 'Big He' to throw at 'em," Craig said.

He was referring to H. E. Kirschner, a 6-9, 224-pounder from Reagan High of Houston, who is expected to enroll here in two weeks.

"Big He" could have been put to good use here Saturday night under the backboards. The Wogs were consistently out-rebounded by the shorter, harder-fighting Colts, and the Wogs were able to put their fast break to little use in the course of the night.

Johnny Dickerson again paced the Wogs' scoring with 20 points, but the Wogs had no one to put on Herchel O'Kelley of the Colts, who dropped in 23 points.

"He's not the one who really hurt us, though," said Craig. "That Hirscherr's the one who hurt."

Center Rick Hirscherr was a tower of strength under the backboards and contributed 31 points.

The Wogs' next game will be Feb. 2 at the Public Schools Gymnasium, when they will play a return engagement with Ranger Junior College.

The Wogs already own an 81-67 victory over Ranger.

O'Neal, Warren, Kilpatrick Pace SWC Cage Leaders

Of five individual departmented 177 caroms in 15 games, in the Southwest Conference basketball statistics, with 170, an average of 11.8. O'Neal trails the name of a TCU player Warren gathered 19 caroms Tuesday night while O'Neal was held to four.

Big Richard O'Neal leads in two of five individual departments. Captain Ray (Shag) Warren heads another, and J. Bryan Kilpatrick tops the last.

O'Neal tops the conference in seasonal scoring with 390 points in 15 games, an average of 26 per game. He also leads scoring in conference play with 115 points in three games, an average of 28.8.

As a result of Tuesday night's game, Warren now leads the conference in rebounds, replacing O'Neal. "Shag" has gathered average of 11.8. O'Neal trails with 170, an average of 11.8. Warren gathered 19 caroms Tuesday night while O'Neal was held to four.

The last TCU individual leadership title belongs to Kilpatrick. The senior guard has pumped in 44 field goals in 15 tries, an average of .494.

WSA Playoffs to End

Women's Sports Association members entered in intramural tournaments have been asked by Miss Maybelle Tinkle, assistant professor of physical education, to finish playoffs before the end of the semester.

A GUIDE FOR THE DATELESS

With the cost of dating rising higher and higher (seems the only pleasure that costs the same these days is Philip Morris), it is no wonder that so many of us men are turning to discarding throwing. Naturally, we would prefer nuzzling warm coeds to flinging cold discs, but who's got that kind of money? Prior being what they are, the average man today has a simple choice: dating or eating.

Unless the average man happens to be Finster Sigafos.

Let me tell you how Finster Sigafos, a man no smarter, richer, than you or I, solved his dating problem. Finster came to college with the normal ambition of any average man: he wanted to find the prettiest coed on campus and make her his. He looked long and carefully, and at last he found her—a tall job named Kretchma Inskip, with hair like beaten gold.

He asked her for a date. She accepted. He appeared at her sorority house that night, smiling, eager, and carrying a bouquet of modestly priced flowers.

"Now then," said Kretchma, tossing the sleazy flora to a pledge, "where are we going tonight?"

Finster was a man short on cash, but long on ideas. He had prepared several attractive plans for this evening. "How would you like to go out to the Ag campus and see the milking machine?" he asked.

"Ick," she replied.

"Well then, how about running over to the dental school to fool with the drills?"

"Bah," she replied.

"Well, what would you like to do?" he asked.

"Come," said she, "to a funny little place I know just outside of town."

And away they went.

The place was Millionaires Roost, a simple country inn made of solid ivory. It was filled with beautiful ladies in backless gowns, handsome men in dickeys. Waiters scurried about bearing costly eats on flaring swords. Original Rembrandts adorned the walls. Philip Morris trays adorned the cigarette girls. Chained to each table was a gypsy violinist.

Finster and Kretchma were seated. "I," said Kretchma to the waiter, "will start with shrimps remoulade. Then I will have lobster and capon in madeira sauce with asparagus spears. For dessert I will have loads of out-of-season fruit."

"And you, Sir?" said the waiter to Finster.

"Just bring me a pack of Philip Morris," replied Finster. "for if ever a man needed the soothing, steady, beneficial aromas of mild vintage tobaccos, it is me now."

So, smoking the best of all possible cigarettes, Finster watched Kretchma ingest her meal and calculated that every time he fetched young adam's apple rose and fell, he was out another 97¢. Then he took her home.

It was while saying goodnight that Finster got his brilliant idea. "Listen!" he cried excitedly. "I just had a wonderful notion. Next time we go out, let's go Dutch treat!"

By way of reply, Kretchma slashed him across the face with her house mother and stormed into the house.

"Well, the heck with her," said Finster to himself. "She's just a gold digger and I am well rid of her. I am sure there are many girls just as beautiful as Kretchma who will understand the justice of my position. For after all, girls get as much money from home as men, so what could be more fair than sharing expenses on a date?"

With good heart and high hopes, Finster began a search for a girl who would appreciate the equity of Dutch treat, and he will be pleased to hear that he soon found one.

Today Finster goes everywhere and shares expenses fifty-fifty with Mary Alice Hematoma, a lovely three legged girl with sideburns.

This column is brought to you for your enjoyment by the makers of PHILIP MORRIS. And speaking of enjoyment, try a pack today.

Campus Chest Drive To Be Feb. 28-Mar. 4

The 1955 Campus Chest drive, annual campus charity collection, will be conducted Feb. 28-March 4, Miss Sue Dulaney, co-chairman, announced this week.

Seniors Miss Dulaney, Fort Worth, and Bill Matthews, Marfa, were selected co-chairmen of the Campus Chest earlier this year by the "Y" cabinet.

Money raised by the Campus Chest drive will be divided into three parts. The first $750 and 50 per cent of any additional funds will be given to the foreign student scholarship and emergency fund. Remainder of the money will be split equally between the World University Service Fund and the Opportunity Center for mentally retarded children in Fort Worth.

An annual ugly man contest and convocation will be included in this year's program to stimulate interest in the campaign and raise money for several needy groups.

The organizations to benefit from the drive have not yet been selected, but will be announced next week after committee recommendations have been received.

Ronald Coleman, Dallas freshman, was elected chairman of the steering committee. The committee, composed of all campus club presidents, guides the Campus Chest program.

Committee chairmen recently appointed are: allocations, Joe Massi, Aransas Pass senior; solicitations, Miss Dot Fisher, Odessa sophomore, and Bob Cochran, Houston junior;

Editor's Note: Let's Blow This One Up Big

Explosives was the topic of the lecture being delivered by S/IC Charles J. Branson to a senior Army ROTC class this week. The group was discussing the transportation of nitroglycerin.

"You've got to be extremely cautious in packing and loading 'nitro,'" the sergeant cautioned his class. "What would happen if the shipment was jared?"

The men were silent a moment and then the proverbial voice from the back of the room, obviously a TV viewer, commented:

"Poof, there goes perspiration."

Field House Preview?

Visions of a field house danced in students' heads last Saturday as over 4,000 vociferous Frog fans crammed the Public Schools Gymnasium to watch TCU trim SMU, 77-73.

Intramural Leagues Realign, Next Activity to Be Feb. 2

Intramural basketball action will resume Wednesday, Feb. 2, with a 7 p.m. game between the Cell Block 7 and the Frantic 5.

No games were played this week, and none will be played during finals.

Also scheduled on Feb. 2 are the Preachers vs. the Firehouse Plus 1 at 8 p.m. and a 9 p.m. game between the Do Rights and the Ditch Diggers.

Fraternity leagues have not yet started activity but will start at 1 p.m., Feb. 3, with a game between the Phi Deltas and the Phi Delta Theta and the Phi Kappa Sigma Society. The Lambda Chi Society will play the Theta Club at 2 p.m.

Thursday at 6 p.m., the Chi Sigmas will play the Sigma Phi Epsilon Society. Following will be games between the Crescent Club of Delta Tau Delta and the Phi Alphas of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at 7 p.m.

Independent games scheduled for Thursday evening are the Basketeers vs. Beer Barons at 8 p.m. The Bouncing Baptists will play the last game of the night against the Aces.

The fraternity leagues are getting off to a late start due to a misunderstanding of the scheduling process.

Because of some teams dropping out and some others combining, the intramural setup has changed.

There will still be basically four leagues, but now there are 19 teams. The newest team, the Aces, was formed at the last minute Thursday night.

In addition, the Chi Sigmas of Sigma Chi have been switched from the Thursday afternoon league to the Thursday night league. The Thursday afternoon independent league has been changed to Thursday night.

The Wednesday league will remain intact with the Preachers, Firehouse 4 Plus 1, Cell Block Seven, Frantic 5, Do Rights and Ditch Diggers.

Now in the Thursday afternoon league are the Phi Deltas of Phi Delta Theta, Theta Club of Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Society and Phi Kappa Sigma Society.

Thursday night independents are the Basketeers, Beer Barons, Aces and the Brite Boys.

Thursday night fraternity groups are the Chi Sigmas, Sigma Chi Epsilon colony, Crescent Club of Delta Tau Delta and the Phi Alphas of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

In last week's action, the Wednesday night league saw the Preachers, Firehouse 4 Plus 1 and Cell Block Seven all start off with victories. The Preachers, led by Ken Myers' 14 points, eked out a 34-30 decision over the Frantic 5, who were paced by Curtis Rollins' 10 points.

The Firehouse 4 Plus 1, receiving a sparkling 29-point performance from James Swink, rolled up the highest score in first week intramural play as they overwhelmed the Ditch Diggers, 68-22.

The Cell Block Seven won on a forfeit from the Do Rights, 2-0.

In Thursday night action, the Beer Barons and Basketeers started the year in winning fashion.

Although the Bouncing Baptists got a 12-point performance from Ken Wineburg and 13 points from Jimmy Cooper, they couldn't hold off the Beer Barons, who posted a 41-34 victory. Chuck Curtis paced the Barons' scoring with 11 points and Bill Alexander and Johnny Crouch each had nine.

The Basketeers were too classy for the Brite Boys as they posted a 49-22 victory. John Mitchell's 13 points paced the Basketeers.

Students Work On 'Frog House'

Support of the Administration has been voiced by Vice President D. Ray Lindley for Methodist student plans for the Frog House.

At a luncheon meeting of representatives of the school and the Methodist Churches, Dr. Lindley stated TCU's cooperation with the program.

The new student center is being established at 2824 Lowden by the TCU Methodist Student Movement and the local Methodist Churches. The house on Lowden is the former residence of TCU Athletic director, L. R. (Dutch) Meyer.

The house has been rented on a 90-day option and rent paid will be applied to the purchase price of the Student Center.

Students are refinishing donated furniture and doing all remodeling of the building themselves, said Mrs. Conrad Butler, chairman of the furnishings committee.

"The students are doing the work of keeping the project going and the churches are backing them," said Mrs. Butler.

Mrs. C. P. Schenck has been placed in charge of landscaping and has received several donations of shrubbery.

Matthews Memorial Methodist Church and Central Methodist Church have made contributions to the Frog House.

The project is under the general supervision of Mrs. R. L. Bull, secretary of student work of Matthews Memorial Church, and Mrs. Leslie Adkinson, secretary of student work of the district.

Student and faculty members representing TCU on the planning board are Drs. Corrie W. Allen, Ralph R. Guenther, Henry B. Hardt, John L. Wortham and Miss Bettye Padon and Troy A. Stimson.

Fuzzy Faces After Feb. 3 To Be Stylish

"To look sharp, start a beard today."

Johnny Wood, Chamber of Commerce president, was humming his own parody of the well known sports, radio and TV commercial as he prepared for the registration of bearded wonders in the Ranch Week contest.

Prizes will be awarded to men (women not eligible) sporting the most magnificent beard, the scrongiest and the most unique in design.

Sandpaper season officially begins as contestants sign up between 1 and 2 p.m. Feb. 3 in the Student Center.

250 Women to Start Rush; SC Recreation Group Announces Game Fees

By JERRE TODD
More than 250 women have indicated a desire to join campus sororities and they will start affiliation procedure Jan. 30.

On that Sunday Panhellenic will hold a tea from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center.

This first meeting is probably the most important of any of the women's rushing activities, according to Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson. Women must attend the session, as names will be taken from those present to be used in making up invitations.

"Women who do not attend and register will not be placed on invitation lists.

Sorority rushes will differ from the fraternity procedure in that all rush parties will be by invitation. Women may pick up their Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 bids Monday morning in the Inter-Sorority Council office in Room 202, Student Center, providing they register at the Sunday gathering.

The remainder of the week's bids may be picked up at the same office Wednesday. Regular office hours will be maintained during rush to council women who might have problems concerning rush. Office hours will be announced at the Panhellenic tea.

As in fraternity rush, women must fill out preference cards at the dean of students' office by the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 4, and return again the next day to receive sorority bids.

Sorority rushing will be done on a "community" basis with all eight colonizing groups holding parties at the same time in the Student Center. The program has been set up to allow women to establish their own time in visiting each group.

In fraternity action last week

Horace (Chief) Craig, Sigma Phi Epsilon Colony was named chairman of the TCU Inter-Fraternity Council, as the group held its organizational meeting.

Other officers elected were Arch Thompson, Crescent Club, vice-chairman; and Dick Duckworth, Phi Delta, secretary.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution for the group and another to obtain office rooms on the campus for the eight petitioning fraternities.

The group also decided on two by-laws. A basis was set for levying fines on member fraternities not conforming with council rules.

It also was decided that presidents of each fraternity may meet with the council but will not have voting power except when the appointed representative is absent.

Other representatives on the council include: Charles Renshaw, Theta Club; Mickey Bartz, Phi Alpha; Roy Cummins, Chi Sigma; Bob Morrow, Lambda Chi Society; and Hal Gamble, Phi Kappa Sigma Colony.

The Brown-Lupton Student Center recreation directors got down to business this week. After three days of free use of equipment, fees for all games went into effect Monday.

Checking out equipment to students are Misses Lou Trammell, Daris Frost and Jean Eash, and Carl Eddie Rose and Darrell Simmonds.

Fees established by the recreation committee of the Student Center Board are: pool and snooker, one cent a minute per table with a 20-cent minimum; pingpong, 20 cents an hour per table with a 10-cent minimum; cards, 10 cents an hour per deck with one hour as minimum; and a 10-cent checkout fee for all other games.

The committee, led by Rose, also set a one-hour limit on the pool, snooker and pingpong tables if there is a waiting list.

Personal pingpong and pool equipment will not be permitted in the center recreation area.

A student desiring to check out equipment is required to leave his activity card or some other identification at the checkout counter.

Fees charged for game use will be spent to replace worn out equipment and to purchase more games.

Approximately 600 persons attended the Student Center open house and dance last Friday.

"The informal opening of the center was an encouraging success," said Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director.

"The student committees functioned quite smoothly in planning and carrying out all phases of the event."

The Activities Council will meet at 4:30 p.m. today in the faculty dining room and persons desiring to work with any of its nine committees are invited. The council will plan activities for the beginning of the new semester.

A 27-inch, $450 Magnavox television set and a $216 silver tea service, purchased by the student government and lounge committee, arrived last week. The University has received substantial discounts on almost all equipment and furnishings.

Workmen were still doing touchup work in the center this week and the clocks were not yet operating.

The faculty dining room, seating approximately 40 persons, was opened for use this week on the first floor.

Feb. 3 Is TCU Day At Stock Show

Miss Phyllis Perryman, Coppas Cove sophomore, will officially represent the University at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show on TCU day, Thursday, Feb. 3.

Phil Livingston, Fort Worth sophomore, and Verne Dwyer, Fort Worth senior, will participate in calf roping and bareback riding contests, respectively, at rodeo performances

Classy Quarters

Opposite Tom Brown

New Dormitory 'Going Up'

'In a Small Hotel'

Rising on the site of the "Barn," basketball gymnasium destroyed by fire in December, 1953, is the new men's dormitory. Started in November, the building is now 12 per cent completed. Among the many changes that will distinguish the new dormitory from Tom Brown Hall will be awning type windows and a wing on the west end of the building. Completion of the dormitory is slated for August and occupancy by approximately 190 men is scheduled for the fall.

A new campus landmark loomed into view this week as construction of the men's dormitory continued.

It will take 315,000 pounds of concrete, 75 tons of steel reinforcing and five boxcar loads of brick before the building is completed.

But this isn't all. Five months prior to ground-breaking ceremonies, Wyatt C. Hedrick Architectural Engineering Company was drawing up 20 pounds of blueprints for the construction job.

Charles R. Daniels, construction superintendent, says that 12 per cent of the entire construction is now completed. The structure will be at the half-way mark by the first week in April and the ultimate deadline is slated for Aug. 20.

The new dormitory, located just south of Tom Brown Hall, will accommodate approximately 190 men, nearly 40 more than Tom Brown, the largest men's dormitory on campus.

The new building will feature suites made up of three rooms to accommodate four men. One room will be used as a study room and living room with adjoining bedrooms and bath.

Awning type windows and built-in furniture are among the many new features to be found in the dormitory.

The structure will be the same width and depth as Tom Brown Hall except it will have a large wing on the west end.

Right now, construction workers are busy seeing that the construction complies with the many national and local codes, says William S. Johnson, field superintendent. Electricians and plumbers must observe state, local and national requirements as they do their work, he pointed out. Even doors on the building must comply with national regulations.

Meanwhile, workers continued to unload materials in what promises to be a record-time building program for TCU's newest structure.

Congress To Decide On Rings

Senior rings, cafeteria conditions and the replacement of congressmen who have resigned will be the major topics of discussion in the first meeting of Student Congress Monday night.

The meeting, the first of the new semester, will be held at 8:30 p.m. in Room 210 of the Student Center.

The committee report on senior rings will be the first item of business, according to President Jack Graf. This will be followed by approval or rejection of new congressmen named to replace the three who have resigned.

Plans Being Laid For Next Year's Career Sessions

Plans are already being made for the third annual citizenship and career conference, to be held on the TCU campus next January.

George M. Mardikian, San Francisco restaurant owner, told more than 1,200 students at the conference last Friday the story of his life from the time he came to this country as a penniless Armenian immigrant until he became one of the country's best-known restaurateurs.

While on the campus, Mr. Mardikian became both an honorary Texan and an honorary citizen of Fort Worth.

More than 100 local business men and women attended the conference, answering questions in 34 separate sessions of career-minded students.

The conference was sponsored by the Fort Worth and West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and TCU.

198 Women Finish Rushing Tonight

TCU's first sorority rush will end tonight for 198 women.

The prospective sorority members, who have participated in the six-day program, will hold "preferential" parties tonight, and afterward will complete preference cards in the Inter-Sorority office, Room 202, Student Center.

The coeds will pick up their bids at the Inter-Sorority office tomorrow.

Mrs. T. Smith McCorkle, coordinator of sorority rush, announced that her staff will try to have the bids ready by 10 a.m.

The Inter-Sorority Council will hold a pledge dance at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Center, honoring the new pledges.

Of the 198 rushing, a few will not be scholastically acceptable to receive bids.

Mrs. McCorkle said the girls were allowed to continue rushing until her office had thoroughly screened mid-year grades and had the opportunity to notify the women.

The women are being allowed to pledge on basis of their grades during last spring's semester.

Several fraternity pledges failed to make the required 1.2 grade average during last semester and will not be allowed to take part in impending initiation.

Dean of Men C. J. Firkins said these men will be allowed to continue in fraternal activities, but will not be given membership privileges.

This means the eight fraternities will initiate only the pledges with the minimum acceptable grade averages.

Dean Firkins said his office would check all men eligible for initiation when the groups prepare for the secret exercises sometime during this semester.

Tentative initiations by most groups are planned for an early date this spring with a second cycle coming toward the end of the school year.

Like fraternity rush, women's activities have been carried out in an efficient manner, according to Administrative reports.

"The girls are happy," Mrs. McCorkle said, "they seem to enjoy the parties."

Phi Kappa Sigma Will Initiate 13 In Rites Tonight

The first TCU students ever to be initiated into a national social fraternity will become members of Phi Kappa Sigma in a special ceremony at 9 p.m. today at the Hilton Hotel.

Eleven undergraduate pledges and two faculty members have met fraternal requirements and will be initiated by a ritual team from the University of Oklahoma.

Phi Kappa Sigma has alumni chapters throughout the state and an active student chapter, chartered in 1941, at the University of Texas. Another chapter will also be chartered at North Texas State College, Denton, in March.

Local alumni supervisors for the chapter here are J. Stewart Allen, George Jeffries, Lloyd Cant and Neal Hospers.

Faculty members who will enter the fraternity are Dr. Landon A. Colquitt, associate professor of mathematics, and Prof. Warren K. Agee, chairman of the journalism department.

Undergraduate initiates are: Thaine Anderson, Kansas City, Mo.; Howard Bailey, Garland; Bob Davis, Abilene; Curtis Rollins, Electra; and Charles Dubuis, Hal Gamble, Jesse Green, Paul Griffin, Bob Hodshire, Bruce Howard and Bill Walker, all of Fort Worth.

Bishop Martin Initial Speaker For 9:30 Chapel

The new open hour of 9:30 a.m. will go into effect next week with a Tuesday chapel and a Thursday convocation.

Methodist Bishop Paul E. Martin of Little Rock, Ark., will speak at chapel services Tuesday morning in Robert Carr Chapel.

An ROTC-sponsored convocation will be held Thursday in Ed Landreth Auditorium with Dr. Gaston Foote, pastor of the First Methodist Church, as speaker.

Dr. Foote's subject will be "The Christian Soldier."

After the address, Army commissions will be presented seniors Malcolm Wallace of Greenville, Clair V. Dopson of Bastrop, La. and Clemmie W. Woodard of Azle.

The convocation is open to all students and faculty members.

7 More Shows Scheduled

'Mr. Belvedere' Second Of 10-Cent SC Movies

"Mr. Belvedere Goes to College," second in a series of 10-cent movies to be given at the Student Center, will be shown at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the ballroom.

Students, faculty and staff members and their guests are invited to attend the weekly picture shows.

Approximately 170 persons attended the first movie last Tuesday night, said Jim Croslin, forums committee chairman.

Scrabble and monopoly sets as well as pinochle cards have been added to the recreation room facilities by the Student Lounge and Government Committee.

The committee also purchased a table shuffleboard set, which was placed in the recreation room early this week.

"The building is being used increasingly by the students as a whole," said Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director.

"The recreation room facilities seem to be quite popular with the students, who can be found playing the various games at almost all hours of the day."

Movies selected by Croslin and forums committee members, Miss Margaret Ann Horton and Jim Stapleton, for the remainder of February and March are:

- "Letter to Three Wives," Feb. 15
- "How Green Was My Valley," Feb. 23
- "A Streetcar Named Desire," March 1
- "Room for One More," March 9
- "The Foxes of Harrow," March 15
- "The Razors Edge," March 23
- "Gentlemen's Agreement," March 30.

250 Women to Start Rush; SC Recreation Group Announces Game Fees

By JERRE TODD

More than 250 women have indicated a desire to join campus sororities and they will start affiliation procedure Jan. 30.

On that Sunday Panhellenic will hold a tea from 2 to 5 p.m. in the Student Center.

This first meeting is probably the most important of any of the women's rushing activities, according to Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson. Women must attend the session, as names will be taken from those present to be used in making up invitations.

Women who do not attend and register will not be placed on invitation lists.

Sorority rushes will differ from the fraternity procedure in that all rush parties will be by invitation. Women may pick up their Jan. 31 and Feb. 1 bids Monday morning in the Inter-Sorority Council office in Room 202, Student Center, providing they register at the Sunday gathering.

The remainder of the week's bids may be picked up at the same office Wednesday. Regular office hours will be maintained during rush to council women who might have problems concerning rush. Office hours will be announced at the Panhellenic tea.

As in fraternity rush, women must fill out preference cards at the dean of students' office by the afternoon of Friday, Feb. 4, and return again the next day to receive sorority bids.

Sorority rushing will be done on a "community" basis with all eight colonizing groups holding parties at the same time in the Student Center. The program has been set up to allow women to establish their own time in visiting each group.

In fraternity action last week

Horace (Chief) Craig, Sigma Phi Epsilon Colony was named chairman of the TCU Inter-Fraternity Council, as the group held its organizational meeting.

Other officers elected were Arch Thompson, Crescent Club, vice-chairman; and Dick Duckworth, Phi Delta, secretary.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution for the group and another to obtain office rooms on the campus for the eight petitioning fraternities.

The group also decided on two by-laws. A basis was set for levying fines on member fraternities not conforming with council rules.

It also was decided that presidents of each fraternity will meet with the council but will not have voting power except when the appointed representative is absent.

Other representatives on the council include: Charles Renshaw, Theta Club; Mickey Bartz, Phi Alpha; Roy Cummins, Chi Sigma; Bob Morrow, Lambda Chi Society; and Hal Gamble, Phi Kappa Sigma Colony.

The Brown-Lupton Student Center recreation directors got down to business this week. After three days of free use of equipment, fees for all games went into effect Monday.

Checking out equipment to students are Misses Lou Trammell, Daris Frost and Jean Eash, and Carl Eddie Rose and Darrell Simmonds.

Fees established by the recreation committee of the Student Center Board are: pool and snooker, one cent a minute per table with a 20-cent minimum; pingpong, 20 cents an hour per table with a 10-cent minimum; cards, 10 cents an hour per deck with one hour as minimum; and a 10-cent checkout fee for all other games.

The committee, led by Rose, also set a one-hour limit on the pool, snooker and pingpong tables if there is a waiting list.

Personal pingpong and pool equipment will not be permitted in the center recreation area.

A student desiring to check out equipment is required to leave his activity card or some other identification at the checkout counter.

Fees charged for game use will be spent to replace worn out equipment and to purchase more games.

Approximately 600 persons attended the Student Center open house and dance last Friday.

"The informal opening of the center was an encouraging success," said Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director.

"The student committees functioned quite smoothly in planning and carrying out all phases of the event."

The Activities Council will meet at 4:30 p.m. today in the faculty dining room and persons desiring to work with any of its nine committees are invited. The council will plan activities for the beginning of the new semester.

A 27-inch, $450 Magnavox television set and a $216 silver tea service, purchased by the student government and lounge committee, arrived last week. The University has received substantial discounts on almost all equipment and furnishings.

Workmen were still doing touchup work in the center this week and the clocks were not yet operating.

The faculty dining room, seating approximately 40 persons, was opened for use this week on the first floor.
