

New Constitution Is Approved $2,200,000 Drive Will Open

Building To Go Up Next Year

With the opening date of a $2,200,000 building fund campaign still unannounced, TCU already has almost $200,000 in the "kitty" for a new School of Business building.

President M. E. Sadler announced this week that that sum has been pledged or paid in cash for the proposed three-story structure on the east campus.

Cost of the new building has been estimated at approximately $700,000. Besides the rapidly growing School of Business, present plans call for the building to house the department of journalism in the basement.

Journalism executives are conducting a separate campaign to raise money for printing equipment on campus.

Construction of the business building is expected to begin some time next year.

President Sadler cited need for the structure as "vital to the University's training program, for the students graduating into the business fields." "We will open the fund campaign as soon as it becomes possible to do so, probably within the next few weeks," he said.

Balance of funds to be raised in the drive will be used to remodel the Administration Building and Mary Couts Burnett Library.

Almost $1,000,000 will be needed to triple the Library and bring it to satisfactory size and quality, Dr. Sadler said. "An adequate Library would do more than anything else to promote the academic program at TCU," he commented.

Dr. O. James Sowell, director of university development, and members of the steering committee, including several out-of-town ministers, will meet Nov. 4 to lay final plans for the campaign. Dr. Sowell will act as co-ordinator for the drive.

Industrial leaders in the Fort Worth area already have indicated significant interest in the program, Dr. Sadler said.

Congregations of Disciples of Christ churches throughout the state will be solicited for part of the funds.

Dr. Sadler expressed confidence that the needed money will be raised quickly.

"The University has had its greatest expansion the last decade, but if it is to meet the growing obligations placed upon it, these additional facilities are necessary," he added.

187 Vote In Delayed Election

TCU's Student Association finally has a new constitution.

The new code, revised, rewritten, debated, 'cussed' and discussed for nearly a year, was approved by the Student Body Tuesday, following a week-long comedy of errors which nearly eliminated it on a legal technicality.

The favorable vote in Tuesday's election was 145 to 42. The total vote, 187, represented less than 3 per cent of the total student body and less than 7 per cent of the full-time day enrollment.

The vote was postponed Saturday after Congress found out Friday it had rejected the organ the previous Monday.

On that day, Congress apparently passed the constitution, 13 to 7, but everyone overlooked Article X which stated that the constitution must be approved by a two-thirds absolute majority of Congress before it could be submitted to the students for ratification.

"I wrote that paragraph myself," groaned Aubrey Owen, student body president, "and then I completely forgot about it."

Owen wasn't alone. The error slipped past the entire Student Congress and Student Court. It wasn't noticed until Friday morning.

Monday Congress reconsidered and, in contrast to its previous meeting, passed the document without debate, discussion or dissension. The count was 22-0, a bare absolute two-thirds majority.

The student vote lacked only 20 votes of rejecting the new law. A two-thirds majority of the votes cast was required to approve it.

Owen thanked members of Congress for his new gavel, which he used for the first time. The gavel cost $15.76.

Owen also presented a bill for the plaque given to A&M at halftime Saturday. The symbol of friendly competition between the two schools set Congress back $14.50.

After some spirited debate, Congress chose to let the Freshman Prom remain a semi-formal affair. Several members thought there weren't enough (See CONSTITUTION, Page 8)

THE FROGS

WILL RISE AGAIN!

—SKIFF DRAWN BY GEORGE SMITH

GETTING THE WORD—Addy Jr., the symbol of TCU's Fighting Frogs, takes a close look at the decal adorning cars and room windows across the Hill this week. His namesakes took their first defeat of the season Saturday from an aroused Aggie eleven, but spirit at Froggieland is still alive as TCU meets Miami University tonight in the Orange Bowl. Radio broadcast of the game starts at 6:50 p.m.

Visitors Crowd Campus

Parents' Day Went Okay But Aggies Didn't Help It

By JIM HENDRICKS

Everything on TCU's first Parents Day menu was served on schedule, but someone poured vinegar on the main course.

The culprits came from College Station. The Texas Aggies, playing as if the penalty for defeat would be the firing squad, kicked a stunned Frog eleven out of the nation's unbeaten ranks, 19-16.

They added insult to injury by committing the deed before a throng of 37,000 in TCU Amon Carter Stadium, the largest gathering ever to watch a Fort Worth football game, and several thousand more television viewers.

On the whole, however, most of the visiting moms and dads seemed to enjoy themselves. They sat with their offspring in the student section, observed classroom and lab procedures and ate in the Cafeteria last Friday and Saturday.

No official estimate has been made as to the number of parents here over the weekend, but Mrs. Juanita Owens, dietician, named an overall figure of 250 as dining in the Cafeteria both days.

It's probable that Saturday

Even Gus Didn't Pick Them All

Somewhat appropriately, we shall begin with the losers in last week's Skiff football contest.

Joe Dugger, who generally comes forth with fairly close predictions, missed all seven games in the week of phenomenal upsets.

And Charles Erwin, who remarked with sincerity after carefully marking his selections, "I've got the winner this week," missed all seven games.

Eight other seven-game losers were Bill King, Konrad K. Council, Terry Coggan, Bruce Boswell, C. Robert Carr, Paul Smith, Don S. Leaman and Miss Louise Smith. Congratulations on your perfect negative victory!

Six games threw 49 persons. There were 47 five-game losers and 34 four-game losers. Five persons miscalled three games.

Two persons, J. D. Clark Jr. and Dick Naylor missed only two games.

Gus Jahren won four Worth Theater tickets with only one miscue—Texas over Arkansas. He predicted the TCU upset on a total of six points.

TCU at Miami tonight, and Slippery Rock seeking another victory—both make for another week in football. See the sports section.

was the most hectic day on campus in University history. Besides the usual pre-game mob, the Aggies, with their corps-trip dates from TSCW, crowded the Student Center and grounds as never before.

At halftime, the massive crowd was entertained royally by bands from both schools and the TCU card section, under the direction of Bruce Neal, San Angelo junior.

Most folks seem to feel the entire weekend would have been a tremendous success if it hadn't been for the final score. But spirit at Froggieland is not yet dead.

If you don't believe it, just cast a glance at cars on campus sporting decals with the clamoring cry:

"Save Your Activity Cards—The Frogs Will Rise Again!"

Comfort, Economy to Keynote Next Friday's Freshman Prom

All a fellow needs for this year's Freshman Prom is something more formal than his birthday suit, a couple of bucks and a girl—although the latter isn't required.

The TCU male is getting off considerably lighter for next Friday's dance than in previous years. As the dance is semi-formal, there are no tuxedos to be rented and no corsages to be bought.

Men don't even have to worry about stepping on a girl's long frilly formal or about transportation, as the prom will be held in the Student Center ballroom.

For $2 (or $1 if you want to be alone), men may buy tickets at a booth at the south entrance of the Administration Bldg. beginning at 9:30 a.m. Monday, or at the dance.

Guy Woodard and his band will play from 8 p.m. to midnight. Dormitory women will be given late permission, said Miss Elizabeth Shelburne, dean of women.

The freshman queen and two princesses will be chosen during the dance. All freshman women will be given numbered tags and judges will select a queen while couples dance.

Judges will be Student Body President Aubrey Owen, Abilene senior, and the four class presidents, Carl, Eddie Rose, Waco senior; Everett Salley, Clemville junior; Bill Perry, Abilene sophomore; and Ben Sturgeon, Pampa freshman.

Sturgeon will present trophies to the queen and her court.

$2,200,000 BEAUTY—This is an architect's drawing of the proposed School of Business Building. Almost $200,000 has already been collected, and construction is expected to begin some time next year. The three-story structure will house the entire School of Business, with the department of journalism and printing facilities in the basement.

200 Are Due Today for Danforth Conference

About 200 students and faculty members from 16 colleges and universities will be on the TCU campus today and tomorrow for the Texas Regional Danforth Conference.

Registration for the conference, sponsored by the Danforth Foundation, will begin at 3 p.m. in the Student Center followed by a reception and tea at 4 p.m.

Dr. Prentiss Pemberton, associate director of the foundation, will outline the Danforth program at a faculty meeting in the Administration Building's Faculty Lounge at 4:30 p.m.

The foundation provides grants to college seniors and recent graduates preparing for college teaching.

Dr. Merrimon Cuninggim, dean of Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University, will speak on "The Stubborn Ounces of One's Weight" at a dinner at 6:30 p.m. today in the Student Center ballroom.

Dr. Cuninggim also will deliver a panel address at 9 a.m. tomorrow on "Should the University Adapt Itself to the World's Standard of Success?"

A candlelight procession at 10:15 p.m. in the Religion Center cloisters, followed by meditation and choir singing in Robert Carr Chapel, will climax today's program for the conference.

Tomorrow at 9 a.m. a symposium concerning "Some Difficulties in Christian Higher Education Today" will feature Dr. Wilfred S. Dowden, professor of English at Rice Institute; Dr. Leonard Duce, professor of philosophy at Baylor University, and Dr. Cuninggim.

Dr. William L. Reed, distinguished professor of the Old Testament in Brite College of the Bible, will moderate the symposium.

At 1:30 p.m. tomorrow another symposium will be held in Weatherly Hall on "The Necessity of the Humanities in Christian Education."

Moderated by Dr. Karl Snyder, associate professor of English at TCU, the panel will include Dr. D. A. Cowan, nuclear physicist at Convoir; Dr. Paul Wassenich, professor of religion at the University of Texas; and Dr. Autrey Nell Wiley, professor of English at Texas State College for Women.

The conference will close at 3 p.m. tomorrow with an address by Dr. Irene Huber, TCU liaison officer for the Danforth Foundation, on "The Rewards of College Teaching."

TCU students and faculty members are invited to attend the symposiums and discussion periods.

Minister, Author To Speak Tuesday

Dr. Carlyle Marney, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Austin, will speak at chapel services at 11 a.m. Tuesday. His will be the third denomination represented in chapel.

Dr. Marney has spoken on 20 college campuses. He has a weekly radio and TV program, "These Things Remain". He has preached at numerous Army and Air Force bases throughout the nation.

"These Things Remain" also is the title of a book written by Dr. Marney. Another forthcoming work is "City of Light."

Dr. Marney received his B.A. from Carson Newman College and a Master of Theology and Doctor of Theology from Southern Baptist Seminary, Louisville, Ky. where he holds a graduate fellowship in church history.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer pioneers in design and sales of new tiny transistors

The germanium transistor—some smaller than the eraser end of a pencil and able to operate on a few thousandths of a watt—is probably one of the most promising developments in the electronics field today. It opens the way to new midget radios, TV sets flat enough to hang on a wall and many other exciting possibilities.

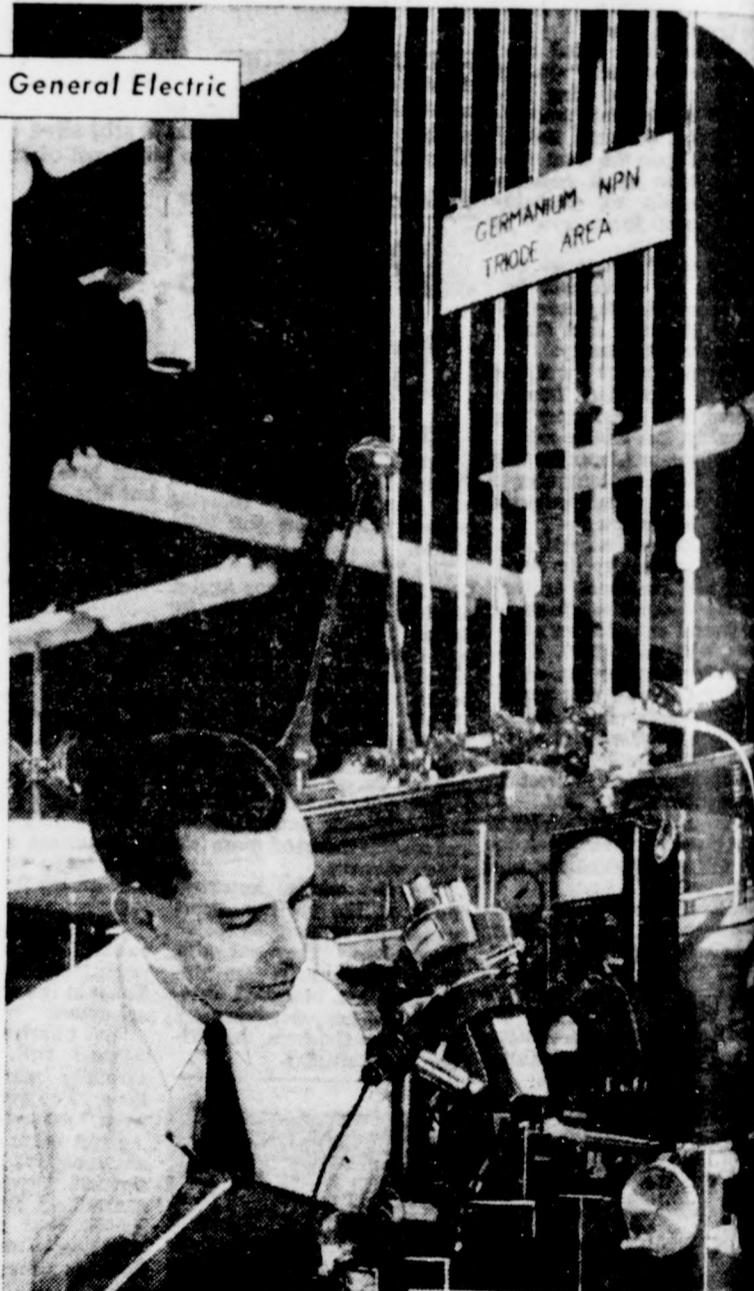

One of the men who helped design and perfect these tiny transistors—and the man who is now head of sales for all General Electric germanium products—is James H. Sweeney, Manager—Marketing, Semiconductor Products Department.

Sweeney's Work Interesting, Vital

As early as 1948, Sweeney was head of a group that studied the design and possible uses of germanium products. He gained national recognition for his work in developing and introducing these products to other industries, and when a new Semiconductor Products Department was formed in 1953, Sweeney was a natural choice for the job of marketing these products.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Sweeney came to General Electric in 1941, he worked in many different departments until he finally found the work he wanted to do. Like Sweeney, each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees is given the chance to grow, to find the work he does best, and to realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh young minds are given the freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, the country.

JAMES H. SWEENEY joined G.E. in 1941 after graduating with a B.S. degree in E.E. from the University of Pennsylvania. During World War II he served four years with the Army.

Editorial Comment

A shortage of dates should be the only factor keeping men away from the Freshman Prom.

In the past, the stronger sex had plenty of reasons for not asking a girl to the prom, but the problem mainly consisted of possessing an undernourished wallet. This year with each coed entitled to 1.6 men, some males had better start moving to avoid being left in the .6 category.

OF CABBAGES AND PROMS

Most previous proms have been formal affairs and have been held off campus. Male eagerness to attend was greatly lessened by expense of renting a tuxedo, buying a corsage and tickets and supplying transportation.

This year's first major dance might be termed a "be kind to pocket-book" prom. All a guy needs is a couple of bucks, a suit, a pair of strong legs and his girl, his pal's girl or some other female, and he's set for the evening.

The $2 admission shouldn't leave any man going hungry as has happened in the past.

X EQUALS CONFUSION

Article X has had its moment of glory.

The old adage of the tail wagging the dog came true in the form of the last article of the constitution which Student Congressmen prepared and forgot last week.

The fuss was over a two-thirds majority needed to adopt the new constitution. Congress members, after taking a closer look at the last article, blinked their eyes and called for a new vote Monday. Previously they thought they had accepted the new code by a 13-7 vote, but this did not satisfy the two-thirds clause.

Monday's vote passed the constitution and Article X was appeased.

The new constitution, narrowly accepted by the student body in a vote Tuesday, is short and terse. For the first time, the entire student activity of the University is organized under one body—Congress.

Congress is to be commended for the result of its labor despite the inefficiency of its methods last week.

WHO GOES THERE?

The little man who wasn't there.

That description soon will fit several hundred TCU students if they don't traipse down to Orgain's Studio, 705½ Main, to have their Horned Frog pictures made.

Some students seem to be existing under the illusion that Dave Brown, Horned Frog editor, can perform miracles. These confident ones think that he can put class pictures into the annual even if individuals don't bother to have photographs made.

Well, he can't.

By Tuesday, 769 students had had their pictures made. Last year at the same time, 824 "mug shots" had been taken.

Either students aren't aware of class deadlines or they don't particularly want their pictures in the 1956 Horned Frog.

What are they going to do when grandson wants to see grandpap when he was a youngster at TCU? Grandpap can talk about the "good old school days," but chances are Junior will want proof.

Waiting until the last few days before deadlines creates a time problem and students are likely to find lines reminiscent of registration, said Brown, Fort Worth junior.

Sophomores may have pictures made through Monday; juniors until Oct. 31; and seniors and faculty members until Nov. 7.

Be the little man who very obviously was there—before his deadline.

THE GLASS CURTAIN

Although closed-door policies exist throughout the civilized world, TCU students wonder why a glass curtain of locked doors often bars their way in the Student Center.

This curiosity is well-founded, as a five-buck Student Center fee would seem to entitle a student to enter the place without first trying half a dozen doors.

Outer doors are opened and closed according to scheduled hours of the building, explained Student Center Director Logan Ware. Inner doors are used for traffic control which is to the student's advantage.

Cafeteria doors are opened at mealtime, with only the door between the Snack Bar and the Cafeteria being left locked. Advantage in this closure is to prevent students' entering the serving line entrance and cutting in ahead of others. Entrance from the back of the Cafeteria causes the line to form from the rear.

Infallibility of the modern lock and occasional negligence of the modern human seem to cause the smashed noses and tortured tempers of locked-out students.

Th Snack Bar, Cafeteria and University Store are each in charge of opening their own doors, said Mr. Ware, and sometimes a locked door is overlooked.

The problem probably will be eliminated in time. Meanwhile students must look before they leap against a locked door.

"He's the new treasurer for Tappa Keg. I hear some of their members were behind in dues."

Floats to Be Financed Minus Congress Aid

By DAVE BROWN

For the first time since 1950, campus organizations will receive no financial aid for their Homecoming floats from Student Congress. Congress members refused to take action on the subject when it was brought up at their regular Monday meeting.

Beginning in 1951, either Congress or the Administration has given money each year to organizations planning to enter floats in the parade.

Congress members decidedly left campus groups should "go it alone" this year.

In 1951, 1952 and 1953 the administration advanced $600 to be divided among clubs entering floats. Last year Congress provided assistance up to a maximum of $30 for groups building floats.

Another first of this year's parade floats in the financial limit imposed by Congress. Heretofore, no limit was actually set, but clubs did not usually exceed the amount given them by Congress.

1955 will be the second year an entry fee will be required. In 1950, a $10 fee was used to provide winning clubs with cash prizes.

No cash will be given this year, but the $5 entry fees will be used to purchase "suitable awards" for the owners of the winning floats. This will be the first year for non-cash prizes.

The deadline for clubs to enter the title of their float—which must be based on a movie title—and pay their entry fee, was extended to Oct. 29.

The previous date, Oct. 22, did not allow time for adequate publicity to be sent to club presidents, explained Miss Jo Ann York, chairman of Congress' Homecoming committee.

Congress also voted to exclude the cost of a truck, trailer or jeep from the $100 allowed clubs for float expenses.

Five judges of the floats were to have been chosen by Congress members. They finally voted, however, to allow Miss York to choose the judges from a list of nominees, when, after 15 minutes of rather disorganized debate, they were unable to agree on any of the nominees.

Dear Editor:

I believe it is still both fitting and proper to report to the paper of a city or town or to an independent newspaper such as ours, the gripes and discontent which one feels as the result of abusive practices. The problem to be presented here is one concerning manners and respect toward persons eating in the Student Center Cafeteria.

This problem touches probably three-fourths of the student body so it is of interest to all. Friendship is a highly valued and most necessary phase of college life, but it is one, when used incorrectly, that will infringe upon the rights and privileges of others. Such is the case of one waiting in line. The greater share of the student body is willing to wait its turn in line regardless of the length of the line or the amount of time remaining before the next classes.

However, there are a few special privileged persons who believe they have a right to forsake the unwritten laws of courtesy and take their place in line whenever and wherever they desire. As a rule these persons are the same one every day. I'm sure they are not ignorant of what they are doing. Perhaps they are a little better than you or I; however, I hold an entirely different view of this sort of semi-flagrant individual.

I sincerely hope that you will take note of this reprimand and mention it in your next edition, I believe, and so it is with my numerous sympathizers, that with a direct affirmation against this policy, it will become one that is taken to heart and noted by all persons involved.

Respectfully yours,
Kenneth Hooe and Members of Sec. E, New Dorm.

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," the first TCU drama presentation of the year, will open at 8 p.m. today in the Little Theater.

A 19-man cast, described by Director William Garber as "dedicated and enthusiastic", will portray the principals in Herman Wouk's own adaptation of the court martial scene from his Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "The Caine Mutiny."

The play is composed of two acts, the first taking place in the courtroom as the prosecution presents its case. The second act is divided into two scenes, the first in the same courtroom with the defense making its case, and the second in the banquet hall of a large hotel.

The play concerns the trial of a young naval officer, Lt.

Steven Maryk, for his mutinous action in removing from command a superior whom he thought insane. The mutiny took place during the height of a typhoon while the Caine, a converted minesweeper, was in danger of foundering.

Fran Prinz, Fort Worth insurance salesman, portrays Captain Queeg, the paranoic commander of the Caine. Queeg appears on the witness stand twice, once for the prosecution and once for the defense. In the beginning he is the accuser, but as the action progresses, he becomes the accused.

David Combs, Fort Worth senior, as Lt. Barney Greenwald, the defense counsel, has perhaps the play's most dynamic role. He is faced with the task of proving a man innocent who is obviously guilty of mutiny. Greenwald's blitzkrieg tactics, playing first upon the emotions, then upon the intellects of the observers, provide drama for every moment he is on stage.

Lt. Maryk is played by Hugh Cox, Amarillo senior. Maryk is on stage throughout the play at the defense table, and in the final courtroom scene takes the stand in his own defense.

Other key roles are played by Edmond DeLette as Lt. Cmdr. John Chaldee, the prosecutor, who must convict Maryk of mutiny; K. Miller, as Capt. Blakely, the chief justice of the naval court in whose hands lies Maryk's fate; Carl Shelton as Lt. Thomas Keefer, the novelist and self-styled intellectual, who is much more concerned with the case than anyone realizes.

Also Bob Schieffer as Lt. Willie Keith, a wet-behind-the-ears ROTC graduate, who supported Maryk's action from the start and who hated Queeg passionately; Bob Tait as Seaman Junius Urban, flustered sailor whose testimony reveals a great deal; Bobby Patton as Dr. Forrest Lundeen head of a corps of doctors who examined Captain Queeg for possible traces of insanity.

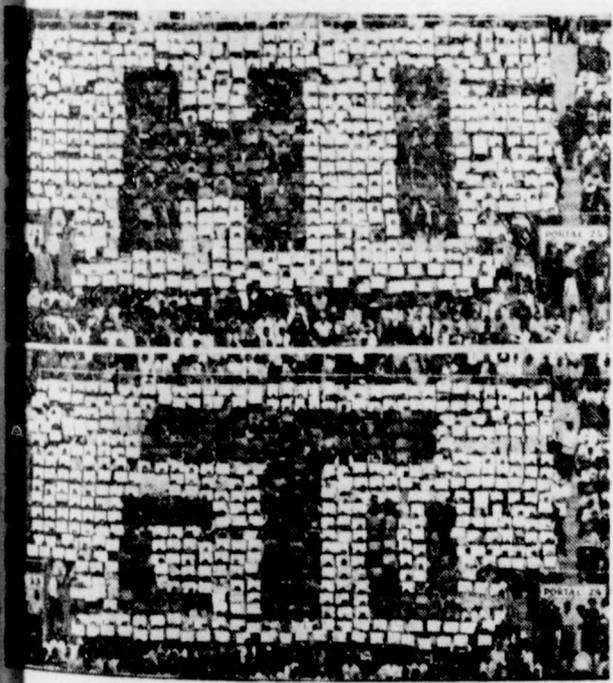

Also George Raines as Capt. Randolph Southard, the navigation expert who must either justify or repudiate Maryk's action during the typhoon; and Frank Benton as Dr. Leslie Bird, another of the examining psychiatrists who is manipulated by Greenwald into revealing more than he desires.

Rounding out the cast are Ronny Boutwell as the stenographer, Jim Ables as the orderly, and Norman Cornelius, Kenneth Hose, Toby Tyler, Johnny Ray Holt, Raymond Smith, and Bill Cleveland as the six-man naval court.

Larry Bahler is in charge of executing the sets and directing the lighting. Miss Carol Lilly is stage manager and Bill Purcell is her assistant.

Naval costumes for the cast have been donated by individuals in the Fort Worth Naval Reserve.

Tickets for every performance may be picked up between 1 and 4 p.m. in the Little Theater box office today, tomorrow, and from Monday through Saturday next week. The play will be repeated tomorrow night and again from Tuesday through Saturday next week.

SPORTLIGHT

By LARRY ROSEBOROUGH

Well, well, sports fans and neighbors of the plains, welcome back to our little hassle wherein you will see most of the stuff you very seldom hear about and even less often care to read about.

Ouch!!

Boy, it's a good thing my roommate is just my size, or I wouldn't have any clothes to wear. Which all goes to show you, never bet your wardrobe on football games, especially those in the Southwest Conference.

It's a pretty nationally-known fact that the SWC follows the form chart less than any other group of schools in the country, unless maybe it's the 3-6 league in Rosemont junior high intramurals.

Saturday just seemed to be a big day for upsets on the collegiate gridiron scene.

"Ah," said the experts. "The Pros play tomorrow, and these games will be easy to pick."

So what happens? Everybody loses except who was supposed to. The Detroit Lions, who have garnered two World Championships in their last three tries, dropped their fourth straight, and the "lowly" Baltimore Colts, scheduled for a one-team blast at the cellar won their third in four tries to retain a share of first place.

I repeat, ouch.

Amongst our thousands and thousands of fan letters we receive each day, our collection of Tuesday uncovered a not-too-happy-sounding letter from the TCU Letterman's Association.

It was directed at the persons in school, (both boys and girls), who are wearing their high school letter jackets and sweaters.

I was cornered in my home (the lounge) Tuesday by one of our smaller football players (6-foot-8, 319 pounds) and he gently requested, while twisting my arm, that I say something about the situation.

Well, since I'm rather large myself, standing all of 5-7 and weighing about 124, I decided that the best recourse would be to write some nasty words about it.

So here they are—Will you freshmen and upper-classmen please not wear your school-day reminders?

We have to work hard for our letters and we would appreciate it if you would respect them. Please?

Have you ever noticed a dapper, well-dressed young man prancing gaily around the campus?

Well, if you have, chances are it's Byron (Buster) Brannon, and the reason he's prancing is, it's almost November 1, the date when TCU's tree-top basketball team takes the court in quest of their fourth SWC title in their last six tries.

You see, this Mr. Brannon is the guide and guardian angel of the basketball Frogs. In other words, he's the coach.

But should he smile? He has lost three starters through graduation, although he has Richard O'Neal back for another assault on league scoring records, most of which he already holds.

The men gone are the two starting forwards, Charles (Mouse) White and Ray (Shag) Warren, who served as captain of the 1954-55 Frogs, and guard J. Bryan Kilpatrick, generally conceded to have been one of the outstanding playmakers in the conference.

In addition to O'Neal, Bill Estill will return for his senior year at starting guard, along with Jimmy O'Bannon at the other guard. Jim was a top-flight reserve last year.

Also, Delbert Tucker, and Johnny Betts return to the varsity at forward posts to fight it out for starting berths with sophomores Johnny Dickerson, Billy Taylor and Buddy Ball. Sophomores Duane Smith, Ray Boots and some guy named James Sank or Swink or something like that will be around to lend a hand to the guards.

Crippled Wogs Face Baylor '11'

The TCU Wogs and the Baylor Cubs meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in TCU-Amon Carter Stadium in the annual freshman game sponsored by the Ex-Lettermen's Association.

The association hopes for a crowd of 20,000. Proceeds will be used for athletic scholarships awarded by the association each year.

Coach Fred Taylor sends his injury-riddled Wogs against a big, rugged Baylor squad, which he calls one of the best he has seen. Taylor, who saw the Cubs play A&M earlier this month, says they're "big and fast".

The Wacoites boast a line averaging 204 pounds and a backfield at 190.

Probable Cub backfield will be Buddy Humphrey, 185-pound quarterback from Kilgore, Larry Hickman, also from Kilgore, 210, at fullback. The halfbacks are Jim Millerman of Abilene and Billy Prestidge from Chilton, 187 and 180, respectively.

At the ends are Bill Dennis, 196 pounds, from Cleburne; and Albert Witcher, 186, from O'Neal? He doesn't need help.

He holds every one-year scoring record in the conference, and at one time held the single-game free-throw record, 22. He holds a tie for the single-game scoring record (49), in addition to being all-Conference in his first year.

After the Frogs' opening conference game last year at Arkansas when O'Neal scored 38 points, one deflated Porker fan remarked "Boy, I'm glad he's a senior."

Ol' podner, you ain't seen nothing yet.

See you in Harry's pawn shop.

Lampasas. The tackles, tabbed by Coach Taylor as two "real good boys," are Charles Horton, 230, and Paul Dickson, 225, both of Waco.

Billy Burt, 200, of Chillocothe, and Damon Douglas, 215, of Athens fill in the guard slots, with Buck Caegle of Clarksville at center, at 200.

So far as the records of two clubs go, the Cubs have won one and lost one, looking impressive in both. The Co-mauled Texas, 47-7, and lost A&M, 7-6, beating the Cubs in every department but scoring.

The Wogs lost to A&M week, 27-6.

Purples, Miami Tangle Tonight

By JIM BROCK

Knocked from the nation's unbeaten ranks by a tough Texas A&M eleven, TCU will attempt to climb back into the glory column against University of Miami at Miami tonight in a top inter-sectional football battle.

Kickoff is 7:15 p.m. (Fort Worth time), and a crowd of most 45,000 is expected in the Orange Bowl.

Coach Abe Martin's Frogs will bump into one of the nation's top powers in the Hurricanes, despite Miami's losses to highly regarded Georgia Tech (14-6) and Notre Dame (14-0).

Assistant coaches Walter Beach and Allie White, who coached the Miami group against Notre Dame, tab the Hurricanes "probably the best short ground gaining team in the country."

"They'll beat you to death in the middle and never get less than three yards while they're doing it," reported Beach.

Known for its nation-wide recruiting, Miami has only one starter from Florida. The other hail from Illinois, New York, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and Missouri.

Bonfiglio, 171-pound senior, had a great season last fall, while the 180-pound

Rouviere is a top bet for all-America honors. Both have lettered three seasons.

The Miami team likes to run its ground attack between both tackles, using the unbalanced line occasionally. Too, the Hurricanes use the "sucker" shift several times in a game.

Martin's team, which had bounced victoriously through four straight games before the Aggie loss, may be without the services of left guard Joe Williams. The 210-pound junior, one of the keys to the Frog defense, is bothered with a severe ankle injury, sustained in the A&M clash.

If he's unable to go, either Bill Alexander or Bill Yung will get the call.

The rest of the No. 1 Frog team of Bryan Engram, Norman Hamilton, Hugh Pitts, Vernon Uecker, Don Cooper, O'Day Williams, Charles Curtis, Jim Swink, Ray Taylor and Vernon Hallbeck will be physically ready.

In the A&M game, Swink was held to 85 yards in 17 carries. But the flashy 185-pound all-America candidate is still No. 2 in the nation with 569 yards on 71 carries. That figure is still tops in total offense and rushing in the Southwest Conference.

TCU's Harold Pollard kicked an early field goal for a 3-0 lead before Watson caught a 20-yard TD pass just before the half for a 6-3 Aggie margin.

Then the visitors stormed back with the second-half kickoff, climaxed by Dendy's scoring run. TCU got two quick ones in the third on scoring plays by Swink and Engram.

But moments later, the 155-pound Watson shook off Frog tacklers from every direction to scoot 51-yards for the winning touchdown.

Martin thinks tonight's game will be a test for his squad.

"We'll see if we're men or boys this weekend," he told his team after the Aggie surprise.

Next Saturday, the Frogs will travel to Waco for a tilt with strong Baylor. Baylor currently is ranked first in the league, with A&M.

Nominations for Homecoming Queen Due

Nominations for Homecoming Queen may be made Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday in the Student Center Lounge, Congress decided Monday. The election date will be set later.

A new type of election and new duties will cause this year's Homecoming Queen to be both a popular and a busy girl.

In contrast to previous years, the student body will elect the queen this year. In the past, it is duty has fallen to the football team.

The queen and her two princesses will light the Homecoming bonfire and appear at the night pep rally Friday, Nov. 18.

Congress approved these changes Monday night.

"I think the queen and her princesses could do a much better job of lighting the fire than a bunch of grubby Vigilantes," chided Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director, in proposing the change.

The Coming Home Queen also will be presented at the bonfire and pep rally. She will be elected by exes from the class of '55.

The Homecoming Queen will be presented with a bouquet of roses, a trophy and probably more than enough kisses.

Committee Formed to Regulate Policy on Use of TCU Facilities

A new administrative committee will regulate TCU policy regarding use of campus facilities.

The group, the University-Wide Committee on Use of Facilities, will have Dean Jerome A. Moore of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences as chairman. It will not replace other committees which handle scheduling of meetings and events on campus.

Other members include Vice President D. Ray Lindley, Dean Ike Harrison of the School of Business, committee secretary; Dean T. Smith McCorkle of the School of Fine Arts, Dr. Noel Keith, chairman of the Religion department; Amos Melton, director of Information Services; Business Manager L. C. White; and Logan Ware, Student Center director.

"The expanded enrollment has so strained both our facilities and personnel that it has become necessary to limit those facilities to groups which are integral parts of TCU or directly connected with the TCU program, Dean Moore said.

"The use of facilities by any group will not be approved if the schedule interferes with regularly assigned classes. The only exception will be the use of Robert Carr Chapel and Weatherly Hall for weddings and receptions."

Tournament to Decide New Chess Champion

A tournament to determine TCU's chess champion will begin Nov. 10 and continue until the Christmas holidays.

The TCU Chess Club will sponsor the event, in Room 202, Student Center.

The 1955 chess champion, Howard Grant, Houston senior, will direct the tournament.

formal dances planned, but the majority of Congress agreed with Dance Committee Chairman Bruce Neal, San Angelo junior, who felt that attendance would profit by leaving the dance semi-formal.

Joe Latham, student body vice president was given the go ahead with plans for a special train to Austin for the Texas game. He reported the round-trip fare will be $6 per person provided a minimum of 200 students go.

Latham expressed hope that 500 would make the trip.

Edmonds was given approval to plan and submit a list of social activities designed for 30 exchange students from Monterrey Tech, in Mexico who hope to study at TCU next summer.

Dr. Comer Clay, professor of government, was elected sponsor of Student Congress. He will be joined by Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson or his representative and a representative of the Administration.

Congress also elected Bobby Coleman, lower class representative, as chaplain. Coleman will begin each future Congress meeting with a prayer. He was elected over Lynn Clark, freshman representative and Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director.

Latham was re-elected Texas Intercollegiate Students Association correspondent.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY • FORT WORTH, TEXAS

VOL. 54 FRIDAY, OCT. 28, 1955 No. 7

Sale to Begin For Texas Trip

By DAVE BROWN

Train tickets for the Student Congress sponsored trip to Austin for the Nov. 12 conference football encounter with the University of Texas will go on sale at the Stadium ticket office Monday, Joe Latham, student body vice president, announced.

Cost of the roundtrip tickets, which will include the price of buses from TCU to the train station and from the Austin station to Memorial Stadium, will be $6.

Administrative approval of the trip was received by Congress Monday. The special will leave Fort Worth at 7 a.m. Saturday and arrive in Austin about 11:40 a.m. It will return at 6 p.m. Saturday and arrive in Fort Worth about 10:40 p.m.

Tickets will also be good for regularly scheduled trains leaving Austin at 12:03 a.m. and 3 p.m. Sunday. Game tickets will not go on sale until the week of the game.

Latham requested all organizations or individuals who wish to bid for the train concessions to bring their offers to Congress' office, SC 211, by Monday, Nov. 7.

In other business Monday, Congress appropriated $25 as annual dues of the Texas Interscholastic Students Association. Latham, TISA correspondent, requested the appropriation.

Twenty-six Congress members will attend a dinner given in their honor by the Baylor Student Congress tomorrow.

Absent from Monday's meeting, Miss Lucille Sneed, Harris College of Nursing representative.

Palmer Hoyt, editor and publisher of the Denver Post, will deliver the first M. E. Freedom Lecture at 8 p.m. Nov. 11 in Weatherly Hall.

The lecture series was enjoyed last fall by the L. F. Anblum Lodge, B'nai B'rith Fort Worth, when the TCU student was honored with the club's first award for Americanism. The address will be an annual event on campus.

The nationally-known Denver publisher will be accompanied by his wife. They will be the guests of President Sadler at the TCU University of Texas football game in Austin the next day.

Starting as a deskman on the Oakland "Oregonian" in 1926, Hoyt was a reporter, dramatist and in 1933 became managing editor. In 1928 he was named general manager and in 1939 was named publisher of "The Oregonian."

In 1946, Hoyt moved to Denver as editor and publisher of "Post." Since then he has become widely known as a writer, lecturer and newspaper editor.

He was national president of Sigma Delta Chi, the professional newspaper fraternity, 1942-1943. He is also a member of Chi Psi fraternity, Sigma Upsilon, the Rotary Club and many other organizations.

A reception honoring the publisher will follow the Nov. 11 feature in the cloisters of the Religion Center.

Jooney Calls 'Em Closest of All; Even Others Right on His Heels

The Frogs did rise again and smote down powerful Miami.

And JOHNNY COONER was there. He was near enough, at least, to bag two Worth Theater tickets with seven correct predictions and an estimated 38-point total in The Skiff's football contest.

Other seven-game guessers and their point totals were Charles Erwin, 34; Miss "Tennessee" Evans, 30; Paul Smith and Don Bates, 28; Lee Jennings, 27; and Miss Maureen Denman, 26.

"GEDDOWN, WILLYA?" protested Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director, as he was mobbed by a group of "fishy" admirers in the Student Center Tuesday. The girls, victims of TCU's annual Kids' Day, were obviously unable to control their affection for the shy Mr. Edmonds, Fort Worth junior. The squealing, pig-tailed group is representative of the freshman throng which skips over the campus each fall as part of an initiation held by Leti, sophomore dormitory girls' organization. After struggling free of the freckle-faced stampede, Edmond's only comment was "Let's cut out this kid stuff."

Semi-Formal Dance Starts at 8

Colonial Setting, Guy Woodward Highlight Tonight's Freshman Prom

By ROBERT MARION

As if suddenly transformed by a magic wand, the Student Center ballroom will resemble sets from "Gone With the Wind" at tonight's Freshman Prom.

An equally abrupt transition will be seen in the freshman girls, changed from freckle-nosed children of Tuesday, Kid Day, to charming young ladies escorted by their own "Rhett Butler."

Beginning at 8 p.m. music will be provided by Guy Woodward and his band. Tickets will be sold at the door for $1 each.

Woodward played first trumpet for Herbie Kay's and Bob Strong's orchestras in Chicago before going into military service.

While overseas, Woodward was in charge of a 20-piece band at General Eisenhower's Supreme Headquarters in Frankfurt, Germany.

Several years ago, he organized his own band and since then it has become one of the bands for Glen Garden Country Club and the Elks Club. The band also plays for conventions and private parties.

The ballroom will be decorated in an old southern colonial theme by the art and decorations committee.

It will have a white picket fence to separate the dance floor from seats, where—in old days—graying chaperones sat to watch their charges. Tonight, however, chairs will be used by couples grown tired of dancing.

Group Makes Homecoming Arrangements

TCU's permanent Homecoming committee will meet within the next two weeks to lay final plans for ex-student festivities Nov. 18-20.

At a Monday meeting of the committee, Miss JoAnn York, Student Congress representative, announced that 24 floats have been registered for the Homecoming parade, tentatively set for 10 a.m. Saturday Nov. 19, in downtown Fort Worth.

Miss York said she has written Dizzy Dean, Ben Hogan and Dr. Law Sone, president of Texas Wesleyan College, asking them to judge the floats for prizes.

Cpts. Harold Brunkhorst and James Head of the Army and Air Force ROTC, respectively, asked that groups entering floats give them a list of dimensions, materials, method of locomotion and the name of one person responsible for the float's construction and safety. They will rule on safety (See Homecoming, Page 7)

A pediment at the entrance will lead to the dance floor. Replica of terraces will be on the walls, and deep red drapes held back by golden cords will cover the folding doors at the far end of the ballroom. Columns will be arranged on the stage and at various places at the sides of the room.

When the queen and princesses are chosen, they will walk up the two red carpeted risers in front of the stage. There they will be presented trophies by freshman class president Ben Sturgeon of Pampa.

The setting will be old-fashioned and formal, but attire and music will be modern and informal. Girls will not be wearing long formals and men will be attired in suits or sport coats and slacks.

At midnight the dance will end, and, although women will not turn into freckle-nosed girls again, they will return to the dormitories, where they may, not unlike Scarlett O'Hara, sigh, "tomorrow is another day."

Queen Election Starts Monday

Election of the 1955 Homecoming Queen will be held Monday and Tuesday, with a runoff planned Wednesday, if needed.

Candidates were nominated Tuesday, Wednesday and yesterday by the student body. Only junior and senior girls were eligible.

Ballot boxes will be located in the Student Center lounge, the Fine Arts Building and the Business Building.

The lounge box will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday and Wednesday and from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Boxes in the Fine Arts and Business Buildings will be open from 8 a.m. to 12 noon Monday and Wednesday and 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Buses to Waco Will Take Rooters To Parade, Game

Vigilante-sponsored buses will leave from the Student Center at 7 a.m. tomorrow for the Baylor-TCU game in Waco. The buses will stop downtown for the parade, visit the Baylor campus, then go to the Stadium. Buses will leave Waco at 7 p.m.

The Cafeteria will open at 6:15 a.m. for the benefit of those riding the buses.

Twenty per cent of the new budget — $1,240 — will go into the Permanent Improvement Fund, and may be used only for tangible items which will be of value to succeeding classes, according to the Constitution.

Congress Gets $6,200 Budget

A $6,200 budget was approved for the 1955-56 school year by Student Congress Monday.

The sum, based on estimates made by TCU Business Manager L. C. White, will finance Congress until Oct. 15, 1956.

"We're trying to get a 10-month budget — Oct. 15 to Oct. 15 — into effect," stated Joe Latham, student body vice president, in proposing the budget.

"That way, Congress can pay off some of its early debts without having to stall creditors until a new budget is approved," Latham said.

Finances of the Summer Congress are handled separately, allowing a 10-month budget to cover a 12-month period.

Dr. Volbach will speak Thursday before an SMU evening college class. He will speak on "German Romantic Opera" before a class taught by Dr. John M. Glowacki, musicologist in the SMU music department.

Agee Is Named To Two Posts

Dr. Warren K. Agee has been appointed to two additional national journalism posts.

Dr. Raymond Nixon, editor of Journalism Quarterly, has asked Dr. Agee to serve on the editorial advisory board of the magazine, devoted to research studies in the field of mass communications.

Dr. Agee also has been appointed chairman of the committee on standards of the Association for Education in Journalism, and journalism teachers' organization.

In August he was elected second vice president of AEJ and president of American Society of Journalism School Administrators.

The 1955-56 TCU debate and forensic squad was organized Wednesday and will begin practice for its year-long schedule of speaking events.

The squad will take part in about six to eight "away from home" tournaments. Included are meets at the University of Texas, Baylor, Abilene Christian College and the University of Oklahoma.

The debate subject for year will be, "Resolved, the Non-Agricultural tries Should Guarantee Employees an Annual Wage Increase."

The squad will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Room of the Fine Arts Building. Those students who did not make the initial meeting are invited to come Wednesday Dr. Pross.

Dec. 17 is the wedding date of Miss Joyce Bledsoe, Sherman junior, and Jimmy Warner, Odessa senior. The wedding will be at the Central Christian Church in Sherman. Their engagement was announced Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Estill have named their daughter, born Oct. 15, Deborah Lynn. Mrs. Estill is the former Betty Sue Hill. Bill is a senior at TCU. They are living at 5001 S. Hampshire.

Miss Celia Casbeer, ex '54, and Dan Quick of Lampasas have set Dec. 3 as their wedding date in Lampasas. Miss Mary Ann Rollins, Lampasas junior, will be maid of honor.

Miss Mary Beth Lipscomb, ex '55, of Wichita, Kansas, is engaged to Thad Hanna, also of Wichita. They are planning a summer wedding.

Living at 3118 Lubbock are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Smith, married Aug. 27. Mrs. Smith, the former Shirley Coulter, was a sophomore last year, and Smith is a senior.

Local Pastor Council to Attend Arkansas Meeting Will Speak

Four Rules for Christian Living" will be the subject of a talk by the Rev. Thomas Sterck, pastor of Matthews Memorial Methodist Church, in chapel service at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. Sterck, who was born in Hereford, England, held pastorates in the McKinney and Dallas districts and has been at his present church 16 years.

A graduate of Southern Methodist University, he is now chairman of the World Service Finance Commission of the Central Texas Methodist Conference.

Safety Clinic Set Tomorrow

The TCU Chamber of Commerce and the Fort Worth Rotary Club will sponsor a safety clinic at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Center ballroom.

Purpose of the clinic is to study driving habits of teenagers, Dr. Ike Harrison, dean of the School of Business, said.

"The TCU Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the clinic as a civic duty in conjunction with the Fort Worth City Council and local insurance companies in an attempt to make Fort Worth a safer place to live and drive," Dr. Harrison said.

All 11 members of the Activities Council, or their representatives, and Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director, will attend a regional conference of the Association of College Unions Dec. 2-3 in Fayetteville, Ark.

Congress Monday appropriated $150 to help finance the venture.

The social director's office added another $150. The $300 will pay for meals, rooms and travel expenses.

Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director, who asked for the money in his weekly report, said the conference would include lectures, panels and demonstrations on Student Center operations.

"We hope to bring the conference here in 1956," Edmonds said.

"We'll be competing with SMU, and since we have been members of the association longer, I think there's a good chance we will get the convention."

Committee chairmen composing the council include Bill Finley, forums; Bob Richards, games and tournaments; Miss Joanne Coleman, art and decorations; Bruce Neal, dance; L. E. Burt, publicity; Miss Trisha Reeder, talent; Miss Frances Owens, student-faculty relations; Miss Carolyn Falgeau, music; Miss Donna Flinn, URC; and Miss Jayne Randolph, hospitality.

Juniors Elect New Officers

New vice president of the junior class is Ralph Carr of Fort Worth, former Summer Congress president.

Other officers elected Oct. 19 include: Secretary, Miss Caroline Thompson, Lampasas; and treasurer, Miss Jo Ann York, Dallas.

Class president is Everett Salley, Clarksville.

Miss Barbara Glover, San Angelo, was named chairman of a committee to investigate feasibility of a junior-senior picnic.

New Office Hours Announced

Beginning Monday, administrative and faculty offices across the campus will have a new schedule of hours.

The offices will remain open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., instead of the former 8-4:30 hours. Each office will maintain a skeleton crew on duty Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12 noon for guidance purposes.

Why do more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette?

Because only Viceroy gives you 20,000 filter traps in every filter tip, made from a pure natural substance — cellulose — found in delicious fruits and other edibles!

1. Yes, only Viceroy has this filter composed of 20,000 tiny filter traps. You cannot obtain the same filtering action in any other cigarette.
2. The Viceroy filter wasn't just whipped up and rushed to market to meet the new and skyrocketing demand for filtered cigarettes. Viceroy pioneered. Started research more than 20 years ago to create the pure and perfect filter.
3. Smokers en masse report that filtered Viceroy's have a finer flavor even than cigarettes without filters. Rich, satisfying, yet pleasantly mild.
4. Viceroy draws so easily that you wouldn't know, without looking, that it even had a filter tip . . . and Viceroy's cost only a penny or two more than cigarettes without filter!

That's why more college men and women smoke VICEROYS than any other filter cigarette . . . that's why VICEROY is the largest-selling filter cigarette in the world!

Editorial Comment

"Anybody got a student directory?"
 "Naw, I just guess at phone numbers and usually get the wrong ones."

This problem, confronting most TCU students for a couple of months now, can be eliminated Tuesday when the 1955-56 Student Directory goes on sale in the University Store.

Fifty-Cent Information

Upperclassmen, owning last year's directory, have fared better than freshmen and other newcomers, but even old students have had telephoning difficulties.

Extensions have been added and others changed since the last publication.

Extension lists originally placed beside most campus phones have either disappeared or become mutilated beyond recognition, further complicating telephone-users lives.

Quicker and more accurate telephoning will be available to all, however, who purchase the new 50-cent books.

The directory will contain names, addresses and telephone numbers of every full-time day student and all faculty and administrative personnel.

Those Taking Ways

Students with taking ways can be a detriment to a university and, in later life, to society.

Many persons in-college apparently have not learned there is no basic difference between "taking" and "stealing."

Students often take something with no intention of stealing, yet results are the same. The object taken is not available for use by others.

"Taking," carried to extremes, places hardships on both the college and students. The University must replace missing items such as ash trays, spoons and cups—all of which fit handily into pockets and make dandy souvenirs.

To curtail such activities, measures often must be taken at expense of innocent students. The Cafeteria, for example, stopped serving Dixie cups because students carried both the ice-cream and the Cafeteria's spoons outside, to the dorms or elsewhere.

"Takers" may think their actions a joke or perhaps they have rationalized their conduct by telling themselves they are paying for the items.

By this same reasoning, they could destroy or carry away public facilities paid for by taxes.

Student cooperation in leaving items in their proper places would decrease University expenses. Students also would benefit by having use of articles otherwise available only to individuals who "take" them.

Who's Favorite Now?

Favorites are with us again.

Last spring a question on popularity of the favorites section of the Horned Frog arose when Editor Dave Brown voiced disapproval of the system.

A poll was taken, but results were inconclusive. Brown was faced with the choice of eliminating that section from the annual, retaining it or substituting some other plan.

The staff finally decided to retain favorites but on a smaller scale than last year. Only two men and women will be elected from each class instead of the previous three. Mr. and Miss TCU will remain as last year.

A "Who's Who" section will be instituted this year, but Brown has not decided how students will be selected. The section will fulfill wishes of some of the "anti-favorites."

The Horned Frog staff seems to have reached a suitable compromise on the favorites question by reducing their number rather than abolishing them and by adding the "Who's Who" section.

Narrow Escape

A great deal of confusion within the Student Association Congress was avoided last week when the revised constitution was passed by a small majority student vote.

Had the new constitution been defeated, four members of Congress, plus the Activities Director, would have been seated illegally. A special election under the old constitution to make it acceptable to the voters would have followed.

Major reason for the slight majority by which the constitution passed was the light vote.

Only 187 votes were cast in the election. Of these, 125 (a two-thirds majority) were needed for ratification. The measure passed by a scant 20 votes. Thus a small block of voters could have reversed the election.

It is difficult to see why the dissenting votes were cast. The School of Fine Arts lost one representative through the new arrangement. The other major change involving the Activities Director seems to be one that was needed and deftly handled by framers of the revised constitution.

Of nearly 3,000 eligible voters, it is regrettable that only 187 got around to voting. With such balloting, a small clique could be organized and literally control campus politics.

Social Pattern Altered

280 in Fraternities At End of First Year

By DALE EDMONDS

From here to fraternity — in one short year!

A year ago this week the Board of Trustees announced names of eight fraternities to colonize on the TCU campus. They were, and are today:

Delta Tau Delta, Kappa Sigma, Lambda Chi Alpha, Phi Delta Theta, Phi Kappa Sigma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Chi, and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Within two months Fort Worth alumni organizations of these fraternities had conducted a rush and established colonies petitioning national bodies for charters.

Now, a year later, most of the eight fraternities have full-fledged chapters at TCU, and the others are in the process of obtaining their charters.

Approximately 280 men are affiliated with the or-

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the TCU Vigilantes I'd like to take this opportunity to express our belated thanks to those students who were of such great assistance to us before and during the Aggie game.

First of all we would like to recognize the members of the newly formed TCU American Legion Post, who lost a week's sleep backing up our defenses against a possible Aggie invasion. The flag pole remained bare.

And, of course, we want to thank the 700 students who comprised the card section. I believe the photos which you published last week were the finest possible testimonial to the tremendous effort which these people put forth.

Our thanks also to the hundreds of students and the members of the Horned Frog Band who made such a fine showing at the Friday night pep rally. It was certainly the kind of rally which we, as a booster club, like to see. Let's keep it up.

Yours very truly,
 Bruce Neal

ganizations, either as members or pledges. Membership ranges from about 20 in the smallest, to an estimated 45 in the largest.

Already the influence and effect of the Greeks is apparent at TCU. Students who have seen TCU both before and after the fraternities came can feel the difference.

It's not something that can be pinned down — a subtle awareness of appearance and impressions perhaps, or a growing group enthusiasm or maybe an enlivened interest in nearly everything.

There have been other contributing factors also, but the Greeks can't be denied recognition for the impact they've caused.

The men meet in the Student Center, mostly on Monday or Tuesday nights. They lug in their ritualistic equipment, clap pasteboard over the windows and decorate momentarily their own chapter rooms. They look forward to the day they will have a fraternity house, but it's doubtful any present TCU fraternity man will be around when this happens.

Fraternities have their parties, of course — formal affairs, perhaps entertaining a sorority in the Student Center or holding a dance at a hotel or country club, and other, less stilted get-togethers, at a member's house or at Brook Lake.

They work too, collecting money for the Campus Chest, showing orphans around the campus, building a Ranch Week booth, drawing a "Shaft the Sharecroppers" sign or paper-napkinning a Homecoming float.

Each fraternity is becoming an individual unit, molding its own traditions, establishing its own reputation and standing on this or that, and creating its own, personal niche in life at TCU.

Some of the groups aren't as large as others, some don't win many trophies, some have a little trouble getting their members together, some appeal more strongly to a certain type of boy — but they're all growing and creating an entirely new facet and outlet for the male TCU student.

SW Conference Confidential

UT

As if 18,000 sippers are enough to make noise at a football game, a cigaret company has sent 10,000 megaphones to aid in the bedlam. The megaphone idea, initiated by the students, will be another for the university. If the idea is successful, more of the "hooters" may be seen throughout the Southwest Conference.

Rice

Tickets for the Rice Homecoming Dance, Nov. 12, will be young swains back only in bucks. The semi-formal affair will be held in the Emerald and Grecian Rooms of the Shamrock-Hilton Hotel. Etc. pocket-book troubles, common at TCU, don't exist at the institute or the homecoming planners are trying to limit attendance.

SMU

Homecoming finally will come off in Ponyland this weekend. No floats, but a star fry — planners hope. The game tomorrow will be against the University of Texas.

Baylor

A Baylor alumnus came to this efficiency business too. He wrote the Baylor Round Up, yearbook, requesting 25 annuals — one for himself and one for his wife, also an Enclosed was a self-addressed stamped envelope.

He must not have looked the size of the Baylor alum in a long time.

A&M

The Sharecroppers are really sweating it out — now they're on top of the Southwest Conference football chat. The Battalion, school newspaper, has begun to apologize for violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules. The Aggies were caught breaking the rules last spring and sentenced, by conference authorities, to two-years probation, which means no Cotton Bowl games for them.

The farmers seem to think they still have a chance, however, and an editorial in the Battalion states:

"Gentlemen of the Southwest Conference, please hurry and decide about the Cotton Bowl. After all we've got to hold the thing, even if we enter the second-best team from our conference."

All Hands Give Good Performance Ten Prizes Offered In TCU 'Caine Mutiny' Production In Music Contest

By DALE EDMONDS

The stage lights are on, and the curtain is up revealing, from left to right, the judges' bench, the stenographer's table, the orderly's chair, an American flag, the witness chair and tables for the prosecution and the defense.

The orderly and the stenographer enter, remove chairs from the prosecution and defense table, look around the courtroom to see that everything is in order, and take their places.

The defense lawyer enters, followed shortly by the accused, the prosecutor and the seven judges.

"The Caine Mutiny Court Martial" begins.

With this stark, realistic opening, the TCU drama department launches its first production of the year, Herman Wouk's stage adaptation of the court martial sequence from his Pulitzer Prize-winning "Caine Mutiny."

William Garber, instructor in drama, directs the TCU presentation with a skill and precision which would have brought credit to his counterparts in the West Coast and Broadway productions of the same play.

Author Wouk has summarized an entire novel into a single episode, and as the trial is the high point of the book, the play is a series of climaxes.

The TCU actors and technicians have shaped these climaxes into a forceful, rapid-fire presentation which overcomes its minor deficiencies by overall strength and smoothness.

Three characters dominate the play.

David Combs as Lt. Barney Greenwald, the defense lawyer, controls the action. From his first nonchalant cigaret lighting, Combs is perfect as the shrewd, disillusioned but compensated, lawyer.

Combs is brassy and confident. He out-Ferrers Ferrer, although it cannot be said that he carbons the performance of the movie Greenwald.

Combs' mastery of the play must be shared with Edmond DeLatte as the judge advocate, John Challe. DeLatte is the vehicle, the background force, upon which Combs' talents play. The prosecutor is handicapped, by virtue of his role, from controlling the audience, but there isn't a flaw in DeLatte's portrayal. From his entrance he is cool, poised, and adept.

The third member of the thespian triumvirate is Fran Prinz, his competence and experience emanating from his first entrance as Captain Queeg. His physical appearance and personality seem to closely emulate those of Wouk's Queeg.

The timeworn "kay" and the steel marbles even seem plausible when handled by Prinz. He illustrates with perception and feeling the utter destruction of an already-weak character when confronted with his own failings.

When compared with the above mentioned characters, the remainder of the cast must be placed in the highly-competent, rather than inspired category.

Hugh Cox, as Steve Maryk, the accused, begins weakly but seems to gain confidence as the play progresses. Although he acts with skill and delivers his lines with facility, he never quite becomes Steve Maryk "a big dumb fisherman."

K. L. Miller as chief justice of the naval court, Captain Blakely, is believable, with just the right shading of formidability and humanity.

The bored intellectual and undercover villain, Tom Keefe, is treated well by Carl Shelton. Shelton's Keefe is a trifle more affected than Wouk intended, but this seems necessary to establish his personality for the short period he is on stage.

Two parts, intended primarily for subdued comedy relief, those of Bob Tait as Seaman Urban and Frank Benton as Dr. Bird, seem to become a bit more than could have been expected. Tait thoroughly convinces the audience he is an intellectual debit, and a "good Joe" who keeps his mouth shut and eyes and ears open.

Benton is masterful as the pompous, self-satisfied Dr. Bird, whose ivory bust of himself tumbles quickly when mentally manhandled by Greenwald.

The dewy-eyed Willie Keith of Bob Schieffer reeked believably of college ROTC and pampered zeal. Schieffer brings forth his necessarily shallow character with a performance decidedly unfreshman-like.

George Raines as Capt. Southard and Bobby Patton as Dr. Lundeen acquit themselves favorably in somewhat uninspiring roles as technical experts.

Ronny Boutwell as the stenographer and Jim Ables as the orderly, are to be commended for their poker-faced disinterest during the entire proceedings.

The six-man court, composed of Kenneth Hose, Bill Cleveland, Raymond Smith, Johnny Ray Holt, Norman Cornelius and Toby Tyler, also deserve plaudits for immaculate interest during the trial.

With a first prize of $2,000 and nine additional awards totaling $7,500, the fourth annual Student Composers Radio Awards (SCRA) contest was announced this week by Broadcast Music Inc. and BMI Canada Ltd., sponsors of the competition.

Established in 1951 by Broadcast Music Inc., SCRA awards prizes for musical compositions by students in accredited conservatories of music, universities, colleges, secondary schools and to private teachers of music.

Entries must be submitted before Feb. 15, and the prizes, which must be applied for tuition and subsistence during further study, will be awarded by June 1.

Official rules, entry blanks and further information about SCRA may be obtained from Broadcast Music Inc., 589 Fifth Ave., New York 17, N.Y.

When TCU moved to Fort Worth in 1910, the city's population was only a little more than 30,000.

Edmonds

On Campus

with Max Shulman

(Author of "Barefoot Boy with Cheek," etc.)

STRIKE UP THE BAND!

Learning the words of all the latest popular songs—as anyone must who wants to amount to anything on campus—becomes more and more difficult. Take last night. I had the radio on for no more than five minutes, and in that time heard two brand spanking new songs—a jump tune called Rock With Me, Hymie and a hillbilly ballad called They're Hanging Ralph T. Sigafos at Cock-crow.

And that's the way it goes. New tunes are absolutely flooding the market. No wonder you're having trouble memorizing all the lyrics.

But you don't have to be dull about it. I mean, when a song is playing and you don't know the lyrics, don't just stand there singing dum, dum, de, dum or la, la, la or voom voom. That is very dull. Pick more interesting syllables—like slimp gans or kretch dinkle or mlath roke.

Take, for instance, That Old Black Magic. Let's say you forgot some of the lyrics. Try singing this:

That old kretch dinkle
Has me in its mlath,
That old kretch dinkle,
That I slimp so gans,
Those icy dinkles
Running down my slimp,
That old kretch dinkle
When your roke meets mine ... etc.

See? Interesting? What did I tell you?

But knowing the lyrics—or interesting substitutes—is not nearly enough. To really rate on campus, you must also be acquainted with odd and interesting facts about the composers. For example:

1. Irving Berlin's name spelled backwards is Gnivri Nilreb.
2. Rodgers and Hammerstein can only write music while whitewashing a fence.
3. Ludwig von Beethoven's hobby was collecting cold sores.
4. One of our greatest songs was written because the wife of an impecunious composer came home one afternoon with a canteloupe and a dog named Lassie. "Why did you bring home a canteloupe and a dog named Lassie?" said the composer to his wife. "For the baby," she replied. The composer grew angry. "Here we are flat broke," he cried, "and you come home with a melon for the baby, a collie for the baby!" Suddenly, struck by an inspiration, he rushed to the piano and wrote Melancholy Baby.

5. Cole Porter writes all his songs with a popsicle stick on the side of a horse.

6. Hoagy Carmichael's hobby is spelling Irving Berlin's name backwards.

And what does the true music lover smoke? Why, Philip Morris, of course! Why? Because Philip Morris is a song of a cigarette—a veritable symphony, a melody serene, a tone poem, a cantata, a lied, a chansonette, a fugue of one gentle puff upon another, allegro yet dolce, lively, mild, harmonious.

That's why.

©Max Shulman, 1955

To old Max's statements, the makers of Philip Morris, sponsors of this column, add this second chorus: Try today's gentle Philip Morris in the bright new red, white and gold pack.

Frogs, Bears Duel for Survival Tomorrow

By JIM HENDRICKS

TCU's rebounding Frogs and the ever-dangerous Baylor Bears, both on the brink of elimination from the Southwest Conference championship chase, collide in a survival test at 2 p.m. tomorrow in Baylor Stadium.

This is the Waco university's homecoming, and a near-sellout crowd of 45,000 is expected. Both clubs hold 1-1 conference marks, and a defeat would probably kill either's chances for the league title and a Jan. 2 date in the Cotton Bowl.

Another attraction will be the first starting assignment for Doyle Traylor, Baylor's highly-touted junior quarterback. A cracked collarbone sidelined the Temple flash last year, and a fractured ankle kept him out of the Bears' first five contests of the current campaign.

Traylor made his first varsity appearance during the fourth quarter of last week's 19-7 loss to Texas A&M. He completed two of three passes, but had the third intercepted.

He will be joined in the Bear secondary by Del Shofner, left halfback; Weldon Holley, right halfback; and Reuben Saage, fullback.

Earlier this week, Baylor Coach George Sauer dropped five men from his team for infraction of training rules. The five included three starters, Jim Taylor, center, and guards Dan Miller and Dugan Pearce.

Reserves Jimmy Davenport, quarterback; and Paul Caver, halfback, were also kicked off the team.

The Frogs face their biggest problem in the bullet-like passing of Traylor. Pass defense has been a noticeable flaw in the Purple barrier this year, and Coach Abe Martin has stressed aerial protection all week.

Offensively, the Christians will rely principally on the knifing thrusts of left halfback Jim Swink, the nation's second leading rusher with 693 net yards in six games.

The rest of the Frog backfield will include Chuck Curtis, quarterback; Ray Taylor, right halfback; and Vernon Hallbeck, fullback.

Joe Williams, who suffered an ankle injury two weeks ago against A&M, may not start, however. If he can't go, Bill Alexander will open at the left guard slot.

The Frogs hold a season's record of 5-1, the lone loss being to the Aggies, 19-16. Baylor comes into this one with a 4-2 slate, losing to A&M and to Maryland, presently No. 1 in the nation, 20-7.

TCU has beaten Kansas, 47-14; Texas Tech, 32-0; Arkansas, 26-0; Alabama, 21-0; and Miami, 21-19. Baylor holds wins over Hardin-Simmons (35-7), Villanova (19-2), Arkansas (25-20), and Washington (13-7).

Last Friday night, the Christians hit the road back to victory by clipping Miami. Although the Hurricanes held the edge in statistics, they couldn't find the proper punch to overcome the Frogs.

TCU counted on touchdown passes from Curtis to Swink and O'Day Williams and on Curtis' one-yard sneak over center. Actually, the margin of victory was decided by the accurate kicking toe of fullback

Harold Pollard, who split the uprights on all three placement tries. Miami kicked only one of three PAT's. The Frogs draw a bye from combat next week. They will have two weeks of preparation for the next conference clash with the University of Texas in Austin Nov. 12.

Don't ever complain of the lack of spirit in this school. Don't ever complain of the lack of feeling people have for this school.

Don't ever say the freshmen are the only ones who have any spirit or feeling.

Why? If you were present at the Student Center lounge Tuesday when the Alma Mater was sung by the freshman girls, you may have noticed something.

If you were very observant, as you would soon learn to be if you major in Journalism, you noticed that, as soon as the song was heard, every person in the lounge and lounge area stopped what he or she was doing and either stood in silence or sang along with the fish.

It was one of the most impressive things I have seen in my three-plus years here.

Also noticeable was the fact that the last persons to stop what they were doing were the freshmen boys.

For that we can hardly blame you. But, the longer you remain in school here, the more you will feel about this place as we do. It grows on you.

It's things like these, the seemingly obscure things, that make a school great, and, as in the case of Frogland, a great school greater.

What causes this spirit abundance?

The first thing, which is present right now, is a football team we all can be proud of. It's very easy to have a lot of pep and vinegar when your school has a winning football team.

But let me tell you, kiddies, things were not always so plush on the gridiron for the Frogs. In fact, this is the first in four tries since I've been here that the Purple warriors have won more than four games a year.

Also in the aforementioned three-plus years of wearing out lungs yelling for the Frogs, we of the senior class have yet to see them turn in a victory over Rice, Texas or Baylor.

That last name will be stricken from the list tomorrow.

The closest the Frogs came to triumphing over either of these three schools was in 1952 when Ronnie Clinkscale and Co. blazed to three touchdowns in a little more than four minutes, only to see the Bears tie up the game at 20-20 with about two minutes left in the game.

While we're mentioning losing ways (what a morbid thought), pity the poor football Wogs.

They haven't won a game since the final game of the 1953 season when they stormed to a 27-13 romp over the SMU Colts. Eight of the starters on that team are now varsity starters.

It is ironic that the only game they lost that year was a 34-21 decision to—guess what? The Baylor Cubs.

Thus Chuck Curtis, Norman Hamilton and Co. will be after their first victory over Bobby Jones, Reuben Saage and Co.

Injuries Still Worry Wog Coach; Taylor Bemoans Team's Bad Luck

TCU's Wogs, looking for their first victory, went into the game with Baylor's Cubs Thursday night plagued by injuries to six key men, including four starters.

TCU's freshmen have lost two games in two starts, against A&M, 27-6, and Arkansas, 26-20—but the Wogs have been better than the score indicated against the foes.

Offensively, they outgained both A&M and Arkansas with a total of 600 yards, 400 of which were rolled up against Arkansas.

"We need a win," Freshman Coach Fred Taylor said.

"These boys have worked hard and have a good attitude. We've just had some bad luck."

Bobby Bounds, Lufkin fullback, is an example of the "bad luck." The slashing back already was suffering a knee injury going into the Arkansas game. He emerged with a shoulder injury.

Big Richard Fagan, Stephenville guard, also suffers from knee and shoulder injuries. Joe Dale Selman, starting Fort Worth halfback, was limping due to a muscle injury in his thigh.

Non-gridiron happenings kept two men out of action. Dan McCullough, Dallas tackle, was sidelined with a severe case of virus, and the second team's Pat Beckham suffered a slight concussion in an automobile accident. Beckham is an end.

Johnny Gregory, Fort Worth fullback, was out with a bad knee.

The injury-riddled freshmen, however, were expected to be strengthened by the return of three men to the lineup.

End Joe Robb, Lufkin; guard Dan Pitts, Woodville; and tackle Walter Ince, Itasca; all returned to service after being sidelined with injuries.

Muggy Miami Melts Martin

TCU's tremendously-conditioned football team came out of the Miami game almost unscathed. The only serious injuries were tackle Norman Hamilton's knee and fullback Vernon Hallbeck's thigh. Otherwise, only one person needed medical attention, Coach Abe Martin. He actually wasn't physically injured, but the warm, humid Miami air got him down, and he had to have oxygen at half-time to get him back on his toes. TCU led at half-time, 14-12, and when Abe hit the dressing room, he complained of feeling weak and faint. So Trainer Elmer Brown gave him some oxygen and let him go.
