"X" MARKS THE SPOT, the date of Homecoming, when the Rice Owls will contest the Frogs at 2 p.m. in TCU Amon Carter Stadium. The "X" is applied tastefully by Miss Lucy Meissner, Wichita Falls freshman, who is also marking time until her appearance in the Fine Arts Ballet Production Jan. 13 and 14 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Exes to Jam Campus, Relive College Days

Former Frogs will return to the Hill next weekend for the biggest Homecoming in TCU history. A record number of exes is expected to descend upon the campus for three days of festivities, highlighted by the game between Coach Abe Martin's Horned Frogs and the Rice Owls at 2 p.m. Saturday in TCU Amon Carter Stadium.

Registration of exes will begin Friday afternoon in the Student Center and Administration Building and at booths in downtown hotels. The TCU Chamber of Commerce and Alpha Phi Omega, campus service organization, will aid the Ex-Students Association with registration.

Several schools and departments are planning reunions for Friday. A campus-wide open house will enable exes to sit in on classes and labs during the day.

Students and exes will gather in front of the Library at 8:30 p.m. Friday for a preliminary yell session.

Master of Ceremonies Jim Brock, Fort Worth senior and assistant athletic publicity director, will introduce Team Captain Bryan Engram, Judge Jack Langdon, former Frog football player, and the Coming Home Queen from the honor class of '35, Mrs. Baker Henderson of Houston, the former Miss Theo Smart.

At the Library, the 1955 Homecoming Queen, elected last week by the student body will be introduced, with her duchesses, for the first time.

Students and exes will snake dance from the Library to the bonfire site on the lower Quadrangle. The two queens will set off the blaze, and another pep rally will be held.

The annual free Homecoming dance will begin at 9:30 p.m. Friday in the Student Center ballroom. Danny Burke's orchestra will provide music. The dance will last till 12:30 a.m.

The classes of '30 and '35 will hold reunion breakfasts Saturday morning in the Student Center. Free coffee will be served from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday in Waits Hall by the Fort Worth TCU Women Exes.

The science departments, School of Business, School of Education, Brite College of the Bible and home economics department will hold open houses Saturday morning.

At 10 a.m. Saturday the Homecoming parade will begin in downtown Fort Worth. Twenty-five floats, the Horned Frog Band and Army and Air Force ROTC units will take part in the parade. Special cars will carry the two queens and ROTC sponsors.

The Ex-Students Association annual luncheon and business meeting will be held in the Student Center ballroom at 11:15 a.m. Saturday. Awards to outstanding exes and several

Board Honors Wright In Dormitory Naming

A man who gave 38 years' service to TCU now has a lasting memorial on the Hill.

The Board of Trustees announced Friday that the new $500,000 men's dormitory on the west campus will be named after L. C. (Mr. Pete) Wright, retired business manager.

The three-story structure, which was completed in September, houses about 200 men. Official title will be Pete Wright Hall. No date has been set for dedication ceremonies.

Mr. Wright, who resigned in September after guiding TCU's financial affairs since 1932, has often been credited with keeping the University on its "feet" during the depression of the 1930's.

The board passed the naming resolution unanimously after President M. E. Sadler commented that "the University is alive today primarily because of the work of one individual."

"Those of you who have had longtime contact with our institution would certainly agree that his life and service have meant a great deal to our program," Dr. Sadler told the board.

Mr. Wright had served as athletic director from 1923-32 before taking on the duties of business manager. During the depression he held down both posts.

Class to Make Plans For SC Third Floor

The problem of what to do with the third floor of the Student Center has been taken as a class project by the senior interior decorating class of Prof. Leonard H. Logan.

The class will get cost estimates on various types of decorations, and submit a series of drawing of the finished rooms, based on the cost estimates, to Congress.

Prof. L. W. Ramsey, superintendent of buildings and grounds will work with Congress in planning the flooring and air-conditioning of the room.

"We hope to make the room into a quiet little lounge where students can lose themselves," said Miss Carolyn Clayton, head of Congress' committee on the Student Center.

If necessary, the project can be carried on from year to year, she stated.

Congress also received its third faculty sponsor, Dean of Men C. J. Firking. Appointed Monday, he will represent Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson.

Other sponsors, named earlier, are Mrs. Mary Beth Scott, faculty social director, who represents the faculty, and Dr. Comer Clay, elected by Congress.

Three sponsors are required by the new Student Association constitution.

Appointed representatives to the directors' meeting of the Texas Intercollegiate Students Association were Joe Latham, Breckenridge junior; Aubrey Owen, Abilene senior; and Misses Lynn Clark, Dallas freshman; Barbara Sullivan,

Representing TCU at the Students' Conference on National Affairs at Texas A&M, Dec. 14-17, will be Miss Jayne Randolph, Fort Worth senior, and John Clark, Dallas senior.

Tom Gholson, Fort Worth junior, proposed a committee to investigate the possibility of allowing students to smoke in the cafeteria.

After prolonged and, at times, heated debate, Congress voted not to take action on the proposal.

Tests Will Be Given Thursday

Selective Service deferment tests will be given Thursday at 8 a. m. in Building 8, Dean of Men C. J. Firking announced.

The tests will take about three hours and will be given only to those students who have received permission from their respective draft boards.

Kindel Called All Games Right, Gets Grid Prize

Kindel McNeil, like the Frogs, was off last week. He didn't even get close in The Skiff's football contest.

Regardless, he'll receive four passes to the Worth Theater—for being less wrong than any other contestant. He guessed the games right but listed a total score of 26 points in the SMU-A&M game.

Other perfect predictions were made by Russell Grams, 27; Paul Smith and Bruce Neal, 28; Gene Lane, 30; Ruben Gonzales, 33; and Carlton Gibson Jr., 40.

White Collie Dawg, a winner last week tripped up on the Rice-Arkansas game.

There's another interesting contest in the Sports Section, and we'll give you a start (bum steer?) by predicting TCU over Texas by 10 points. You take it from there!

Cell Block Seven Will Play

Texas U. Invites Frogs To Friday Dance, Coffee

Austin will be hopping to the music (?) of the Cell Block Seven during an informal pre-game dance Friday night—and TCU students are invited.

The Texas Union, in a letter to The Skiff, extended a cordial welcome to students here who will attend the TCU-Texas game tomorrow.

Activities will include the Friday night dance in the Union Building at 8 p. m. The Cell Block Seven, who will be featured, appeared at TCU during Howdy Week.

TCU students also are invited to "drop by for a cup of coffee" from 9 to 11 a. m. Saturday at the Union.

Also, Saturday night, students are invited to visit TU's French Night Club, Chez C'est Si Bon, open at 8:30 p. m. in the Union. Bob Berg's Combo and a floorshow will be featured.

Emphasizing the welcome, Miss Betty Ticken, program supervisor, said "we want TCU students to know what's going on down here at Texas for their entertainment."

"We are looking forward to visiting with them this weekend."

Has 3.0 Grade Average

Alpha Chi Eligibility Eludes Honor Student

By ROGER SUMMERS

Mrs. Mary Lynn (Muff) Brush—the only TCU senior with a 3.0 point grade average—just can't seem to "find the key" for admission to Alpha Chi, national honor society.

The Fort Worth drama major transferred to TCU in 1953 from Monticello Junior College in Alton, Ill. She studied diligently for the next year, hoping to be eligible for the honor society.

But when the Alpha Chi list was published, Mrs. Brush learned that she wasn't included.

"I checked with the society," Mrs. Brush said, "and found I needed two semester hours to have half of my college work at TCU and be eligible for Alpha Chi."

Then "Muff" set to work again. She studied, acted and directed plays for the Little Theatre, was active in Alpha Delta Pi and found time to keep house.

"I really studied hard all last year and felt sure I would make Alpha Chi," Mrs. Brush said.

Last week, the honor society issued its list and Mrs. Brush's name was omitted. Somewhat shocked, she contacted Dr. Troy C. Crenshaw, professor of English and faculty sponsor for Alpha Chi.

"Dr. Crenshaw explained that a student must carry twelve semester hours to be eligible," Mrs. Brush said, "and I only took ten hours." Previously, Mrs. Brush's academic load was about 17 hours each semester.

"Muff" took the lighter load because she was enrolled in a directing course and had to direct a production other than at TCU.

"I knew the outside production would take a lot of time and that's why I dropped to ten hours," Mrs. Brush explained.

Mrs. Brush feels that an "A" average is not necessarily the result of a genius or "naturally smart" person, but rather the result of one-fourth intelligence and three-fourths hard study.

While chalking up the phenomenal average, the personable drama student acted in or directed nine major productions and took regular weekend trips with her husband, Hunter, a Erite College junior, to Walnut Springs where he serves as pastor of the Christian Church.

And how does marriage affect her studies...

"Married life helps my grades because I don't spend time dating," Mrs. Brush said with a chuckle.

In spite of the complexity of her busy life as student, housewife, actress, director and minister's wife, Mrs. Brush is hopeful that she can maintain a perfect average and that there will be no slip-ups to bar her from membership in Alpha Chi when the Spring list is published.

The first science to branch out into a department was biology.

Dallas Pastor Will Speak

E. C. Rowand Jr., pastor of the Central Christian Church of Dallas, will speak at chapel service at 11 a.m. Tuesday. His subject will be "If I Were the Devil."

Mr. Rowand spoke last year at TCU during Religious Emphasis Week. He also has spoken at Oklahoma A&M.

He was graduated from Fairmont State College in West Virginia and has a B.D. from Yale University. He was on the college debate team for four years, and was winner of state peace oration.

TCU did not give B. A. degrees until 1888.

Vigilantes Lose Antenna; Radio Doesn't Work

Somebody goofed! The Vigilantes, campus guards extra-ordinary, forgot to place guard on the antenna to one of their British-made Walkie-Talkies, and now it's gone.

The three-sectioned antenna in an olive drab canvas holder was picked up by a TCU student after the Howdy Wepicnie at the Eagles Nest. The student told the manager it would return it, but so far the Vigilantes are still wondering where it is.

The Vigilantes would appreciate the antenna's return to the Walkie-Talkie just doesn't work without it. With a heavy campus guarding session coming up, they feel that they need all of their radio equipment in working order.

Dr. Gaines Views New-Found Knowledge

Physics Professor Believes Science Complements Religion

By LANTZ FERIS

Dr. Newton Gaines, chairman of the physics department, finds it easy to correlate science and religion.

Dr. Gaines contends, "Our discovery of the immensity of the universe has helped strengthen the religious beliefs of many of us."

"In view of man's recently acquired power to wipe himself from the face of the earth, he needs to look more and more to religion as a means of averting this catastrophe," he stated.

"With new techniques and equipment, such as the giant 200 inch telescope on Mount Palomar, we are probing deeper than ever before into the seemingly endless reaches of space.

Dr. Gaines declares that science and religion must be integrated and equal stress placed on both if mankind is to continue its quest for knowledge and a more satisfying life.

"Our sun, once thought to be unique in both size and composition, has been found to be only one of an estimated 100 billion similar suns which form our Milky Way.

"Science has had a tremendous effect upon religious philosophy in recent times,"

As findings such as this are made, Dr. Gaines said, man becomes the master of greater and greater powers which enable him to control to an ever larger extent his gargantuan surroundings.

It is here, Dr. Gaines holds, that religion and science must work together to achieve our goals without endangering our future—So that we do not eliminate our future altogether, in spite of his tiny stature, er.

Free Dance Set Tonight for SC

A free record dance, sponsored by the dance committee, will be held in the Student Center lounge area from 7 to 11 p.m. today.

Third in a series of dances scheduled before Christmas, this one will be held in an enlarged dancing area due to growing attendance.

Bruce Neal, San Angelo junior, chairman of the dance committee said that music to suit any taste will be played.

The hi-fidelity record playing equipment used at the dances belong to Bob Riggins, Dallas junior.

Editorial Comment

"A man who is held in high esteem by all who know him and who is a gentleman in every sense of the word."

That is the description of L. C. (Pete) Wright in the 1955 Horned Frog, dedicated to the retiring business manager and treasurer of the University. Mr. Pete at the time was completing 38 years of service with the school.

Mr. Pete's Hall Honors Service

A greater honor was conferred upon Mr. Pete last week when the Board of Trustees voted to name the new men's dormitory Pete Wright Hall. A more deserving person could not have been selected.

Mr. Pete was known as a friend to every person at TCU and always left his office door open for visitors. He was never too busy to give advice to a student.

He pulled TCU through the lean depression years almost single handed and was the guardian of the University's finances.

The $500,000 structure which bears his name is a fitting monument to his many years of service both as an official of the University and a graduate of the class of '09.

To Each His Own

Let's keep Frogland for the Frogs.

The tall young man, a high school student, took the green chalk and carefully doctored the top of his pool cue.

He had almost a straight-in shot on the 9-ball and he studied it as if his destiny were hinging on its success.

His opponent, also a high school student, was not as tall but had longer hair which he folded into a neat duck-tail in the back.

Several other members of the younger set watched anxiously as their tall companion lined-up the shot. They wore faded blue jeans that hung well below the waistline and they turned the collars of their shirts up.

This has become a familiar scene to TCU students who attempt to use their own recreational equipment. Frequently they find all or most equipment being employed by members of the local public educational system.

The Student Center was constructed for TCU students who pay a $5 fee each semester for use of the facilities. Why then are the Frogs blocked out of the recreation room by outsiders who contribute nothing except their presence and a small checkout fee.

Under the existing set-up, persons can check out game equipment with anything from a driver's license to a self-addressed envelope. Original plan was for equipment to be released only upon presentation of a student activity card. What happened to this rule?

Every TCU student must have an activity card to gain admission to athletic events, obtain his yearbook and for a dozen other purposes, so why can't he also employ it to obtain game equipment?

Student Center Director Logan Ware said he wasn't aware of the mass invasion by high school students. He plans to correct the situation by requiring students to present TCU identification.

In the meantime, if students want to keep Frogland for the Frogs, activity cards and other identification should not be loaned to outsiders.

Exes Select Students

Hundreds of ex-students will be returning to the campus next weekend for a variety of reasons—but one main reason is you.

These oldsters and youngsters will return to TCU to see the old sights and the new ones, to renew old acquaintances and make new ones.

These new acquaintances are you as results of a poll of ex-students show.

Last year the Ex-Students' Association conducted a poll to determine a Homecoming date. Two top choices were the SMU game during the Thanksgiving holidays and the Rice game the weekend before. The exes voted Rice over SMU, students present over students absent, three to one.

The ex-Frogs apparently want to see students as well as the new sights and to meet students along with old friends. They want to see present-day Frogs carrying on where they themselves left off.

Hartwell M. Ramsey, director of ex-student affairs, hopes this Homecoming will be a second "Howdy Week," and that the exes will receive an enthusiastic welcome.

Exes have voted students in on Homecoming now its up to the students to welcome exes to a greatly changed, but still friendly campus.

Frosh Want Revenge

Most Students Polled Favor Yearly Kid Day

BY ALICE BUFORD

Kid Day is fun and doesn't hurt any one, responded slightly over 66 per cent of the 145 TCU students polled by the Skiff.

Eight per cent of the students had no opinion or simply could not make up their minds.

Some in this group wanted a program of some kind but felt that Kid Day should be changed.

As Ronny Coleman, Dallas sophomore, said, "I definitely think some such program expressing mock superiority will not hurt anyone, but Kid Day may not be the answer."

Kenneth Martin, Fort Worth senior, liked the program but advocated one change. "They need more of those girls sitting on the boys' laps at all times," he said.

This aspect of Kid Day was blasted by John White, Odessa senior, who complained, "it messes up the boys' clothes."

Charles Schotta, Fort Worth junior, stated simply, "I have a long-standing prejudice against idiocy."

Bill Skaggs, Fort Worth junior, shared this opinion, adding, "When a girl comes to college, she's expected to be grown up. They sure don't act grown up on Kid Day."

Jerry Ray, Freeport junior, approved the festivities because, "You get a better look at what they look like without make-up."

And Mike Glenn, Godley junior, added, "I guess it's best to get a glimpse of what you're going to be seeing across the breakfast table in a few years. Possibly, that is."

Many students favoring Kid Day felt it was one of the few traditions remaining at TCU. Others feared that if it were abolished, sorority activities would leave out independent girls who need some kind of program to unite them.

Tom Lyles, Graham sophomore, stated, "Caution should be used in selecting the day; this year it was held on a chapel day."

Most freshmen girls interviewed wanted a chance for revenge, but Tippi Buzbee, Grand Prairie freshman, complained, "It's too much trouble to hem a skirt in the middle of the night."

Perhaps the most enlightening answer came from Bob Hayes, Mineola graduate psychology student, who simplified the problem. In this words,

"Kid Day, psychologically speaking, is a grouping mechanism in which various, unworkable defenses are abandoned, and a desperate retreat from reality: a transgression on the dignity of man."

"In explanation of the above," he added, "it is an indication of ambivalent feeling between adolescence and maturity resulting in a socially approved means of exhibiting regression. It is an expression of paternalism on the part of the upper-classes, the breeding place of autocracy, who are actively hallucinating at the sub-conscious level."

Soft Music, Lights Desired

By MORTON GLAZER

As a green-topped freshman opened the door, a shaft of light knifed through the dark smoke-filled room. From out of the dark came the sounds of soft, cool jazz from a Bruebeck record and the murmurings of upperclassmen.

"Shut that door," was the hoarse cry of an upperclassman that broke the spell, "You're letting out the atmosphere."

This episode might well take place in the near future, if some students have their way.

From the answers given by students when asked what they would want in the third floor vacancy in the Center, almost all requested a party room or lounge of some sort.

Wes Puckett, Fort Worth senior, suggested a lounge with subdued lighting, soft music from a juke box, and comfortable furniture to give the room a 'far away' from campus atmosphere.

Hugh Cox, Amarillo senior, emphasized the word "atmosphere" when he answered the reporter. No place will be a success unless it has atmosphere, he said. "And to complete the scene there should be lounge furniture and soft music, that's really atmosphere."

Cheerleader Edyth Sgitovich, Texas City junior, thought such a lounge on the third floor shouldn't be as crowded as the downstairs of the SC.

"Students would be able to dance to music instead of the

BAYLOR

Possibly the greatest rally in the history of pep was held recently in front of Brooks Hall, according to the Baylor Lariat.

Some of the "Good-Time Charlies" who reside there decided at 2:30 one morning to hold their own Homecoming rally.

Said the Lariat, "Complex with bonfire, fireworks and yells, the group really put the heart into raising the roof of Brooks Hall. Soon the whole dorm joined in the rally, with such stirring yells as 'Shut Down,' 'Hit the Sack,' and 'Shut Up.'"

Some of the Bears probably wished "That Good Ole Baylor Line" was stretched tight around the necks of the celebrators.

Campus Mulligan

By DALE EDMONDS

This is an auspicious moment.

You, lucky TCU student, are witnessing the first, hesitant, appearance of this, a new column in the hallowed tradition of Drag Net, Gotterdamerung, Campus Potpourri and Moreorless.

Our title comes from that storied dish, mulligan stew, concocted by the Knights of the Road, from anything edible, inedible, available or stealable. That's what this column will be—a hodge-podge of digestible or indigestible items roughly pertaining to life at TCU.

Of course it is the "mulligan" part of our title which is akin to this stew. "Campus" is a term referring to the physical accoutrements of an institute of learning. When used as a verb, it might be loosely defined as "the wages of sin."

The subject of definitions reminds us of the whole potful of things the staff of the "Frog Horn" thought up this summer. These staff members spent many tedious hours over tall, cold glasses of milk brewing witty meanings for various things in, around and about TCU.

Then with the fruits of their labor tied in a bundle of wet copy paper, they shook hands all around and opened another quart of milk. But, in an economizing move, this entire section was cut from the "Frog Horn," and the TCU student body was deprived of an evening of boffs, guffaws, chuckles and sneers.

Of all the definitions that were mullied over, rejected or accepted gleefully, these made the most impression:

Addy—small stocky bok who thinks he's a large purple Horned Frog.

The Religion Center—What?

Graft—former study body president.

Leti—Hitler's children.

Cowboy—We'd cure him, but we need the eggs.

Shatterscooting while wondering whatever happened to March Coffield:

Has anyone noticed the transformation in that former den of iniquity in the basement of the Ad Building, known as the Black Hole or the Student Lounge? Instead of decaying furniture, cokes spilled on the floor, "Honey Hush," atrocious service and row upon row of leering males, there are a bunch of respectable offices.

It used to be a challenge for a girl to go to the Cafeteria for an evening meal. Now the old lounge is nothing but a shortcut to the Post Office. Moments to Remember.

One of the shortest-lived traditions in TCU's short-lived tradition history is the Skiff-Congress mud fight. We thought this did a good job last year of getting some of the mud-slinging out of the Skiffer's systems, and brought congressional bunch down a peg or two.

So far this year, there hasn't been much conflict between the two, a remarkable state of affairs. Maybe a mud fight is what is needed to flare a few tempers and get a little fire into both camps.

We can't recall anything funnier than Dr. Robertson sitting in the mud up to his beltline and trying to think of appropriate philosophical epithets to hurl at anyone who came near.

The best remark yet, illustrating the change in the last couple of years at TCU was made by a harried freshman sorority pledge. She dashed up to her president and said, "Gosh, isn't TCU a party school?"

Pick yourselves off the floor, juniors, seniors and exes, it seems just that to the newcomers.

Howdy Week Nets Profit, Says Clark

By DAVE BROWN

Fun, frolic—and profit. That was the 1955 Howdy Week.

Howdy Week Chairman John Clark, Dallas senior, announced final figures on the annual welcome given new students and reported an overall profit of $264.20.

Total income from the various Howdy Week events was $2050.16. Expenses totaled $1785.96.

In addition to the financial statement, Clark recommended that future chairmen be appointed earlier—by April 1—and that the Howdy Week picnic be abolished.

"The school has just grown too large for a picnic," stated Clark, "Especially one that has to be held off campus, as ours does."

Another recommendation advanced by Clark was the addition of a financial chairman to the Howdy Week committee.

Clark said the Activities Carnival and the sale of badges to transfer students both proved successful, and he suggested they be continued.

Congress appropriated funds for a banquet honoring Howdy Week committee chairmen and sponsors. No date has been set.

Ticket Sales Spell Success For Special

Student Congress, which came out so well financially on the Arkansas trip, may repeat its performance on the trip to Austin.

Joe Latham, student body vice-president, reported Wednesday, that 75 students had bought trip tickets. The band will take about 100 on the train, leaving only 25 needed to make the trip financially successful.

Tickets will remain on sale through today, Latham said. Round-trip fare to Austin, including bus fare to and from the station in both cities, is $6.

The train will leave Fort Worth at 7 a. m. Saturday and arrive in Austin about 11:40 a. m. It will leave Austin at 6 p. m. and pull into Cowtown about 10:40 p. m. Saturday. Train tickets will also be good on regular trains departing from Austin at 12:03 a. m. and 3 p. m. Sunday.

SCHULTZ IS A MANY SPLENDORED THING

Beppo Schultz, boulevardier, raconteur, connoisseur, sportsman, bon vivant, hail fellow well met—in short, typical American college man—smokes today's new Philip Morris Cigarettes.

"Why do you smoke today's new Philip Morris Cigarettes, hey?" a friend recently asked Beppo Schultz.

"I smoke today's new Philip Morris Cigarettes," replied Beppo, looking up from his 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car, "because they are new."

"New?" said the friend. "What do you mean—new?"

"I mean modern—up-to-date—designed for today's easier, breezier living," said Beppo.

"Like this 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked the friend.

"Exactly," said Beppo.

"She's a beauty," said the friend, looking admiringly at the car. "How long have you had her?"

"It's a male," said Beppo.

"Sorry," said the friend. "How long have you had him?"

"About a year," said Beppo.

"Have you done a lot of work on him?" asked the friend.

"Oh, have I not!" cried Beppo. "I have replaced the pushrods and rockers with a Rootes-type supercharger. I have replaced the torque with a synchromesh. I have replaced the tachometer with a double side draft carburetor."

"Gracious!" exclaimed the friend.

"I have replaced the hood with a bonnet," said Beppo.

"Land o' Goshen!" exclaimed the friend.

"I have replaced the gasoline with petrol," said Beppo.

"Crim-a-nentlies!" said the friend.

"And I have put gloves in the glove compartment," said Beppo.

"My, you have been the busy one!" said the friend. "You must be exhausted."

"Maybe a trifle," said Beppo with a brave little smile.

"Do you know what I do when I'm tired?" asked the friend.

"Light a Philip Morris?" Beppo ventured.

"Oh, pshaw, you guessed!" said the friend, pouting.

"But it was easy!" cried Beppo, laughing silverly. "When the eyelids droop and the musculature sags and the psyche is depleted, what is more natural than to perk up with today's Philip Morris in the red, white and gold package?"

"A bright new smoke in a bright new pack!" proclaimed the friend, his young eyes glistening with tears.

"Changed to keep pace with today's changing world!" declared Beppo, whirling his arms in concentric circles. "A gentler, more relaxing cigarette for a sunnier age, an age of greater leisure and broader vistas and more beckoning horizons!"

Now, tired but happy, Beppo and his friend lit Philip Morris and smoked for a time in deep, silent contentment. At length the friend spoke. "Yes, sir," he said, "he certainly is a beauty."

"You mean my 2.9 litre L-head Hotchkiss drive double overhead camshaft British sports car?" asked Beppo.

"Yes," said the friend. "How fast will he go?"

"Well, I don't rightly know," said Beppo. "I can't find the starter."

'Cheering Aids' To Increase Roar Of Frog Rooters

Fifteen hundred voice-amplifying megaphones will roar forth Frog cheers at the Homecoming game with Rice Nov. 19.

A gift of a tobacco company, the metal and cardboard cheering aids were accepted by Congress Monday night.

Vigilantes will pass the megaphones out to students as they enter the Stadium.

Bruce Neal, Vigilante president, asked students to save the megaphones and use them at the SMU game here Nov. 26.

Rested Frogs Meet Longhorns

BY JIM HENDRICKS

With two weeks' preparation behind them. The TCU Horned Frogs will pit their savage ground attack against the pass-run offense of University of Texas at 2 p. m. tomorrow in Austin.

The Frogs, who laid out from combat last week, will have two changes in their starting lineup for the Steer battle. Harold Pollard will replace Vernon Hallbeck at the full-back post, and Bill Alexander will open at left guard instead of Joe Williams.

The remainder of the Purple forward wall will consist of ends Bryan Engram and O'Day Williams, tackles Norman Hamilton and Don Cooper, guard Vernon Uecker and center Hugh Pitts.

Coach Abe Martin spent both weeks on defensive drills against the long-distance hurling of Longhorn quarterbacks Charley Brewer and Joe Clements and the tricky stepping of halfbacks Delano Womack and Walter Fondren.

Texas will present a rugged line headed by end Menan Schriewer, guard Herb Gray and center Johnny Tatum. Schriewer and Gray are excellent all-conference prospects, while Tatum is ranged only behind Pitts as the loop's best pivot-man.

TCU will bank on the flashy running of Swink as its main offensive threat. The Rusk junior leads the conference in rushing with 851 yards in seven games. He also is setting the Southwest Conference pace in scoring with 81 points.

Both teams will be fighting to stay in the race for the SWC title and a Cotton Bowl berth. Each already has lost one league game, and another setback would probably erase either's chances for the crown.

The Purple will be seeking its seventh victory in eight starts during the 1955 campaign. Texas holds a 4-4 season mark and 3-1 conference record.

Last week the Orange won its second straight one-point decision, topping Baylor, 21-20. The Steers previously had edged past SMU, 19-18. Coach Ed Price's forces also hold a 32-14 triumph over Rice and a 20-27 loss to Arkansas in SWC play.

The Longhorns dropped three of four inter-sectional contests, losing to Texas Tech, 14-20, Southern California, 7-19, and Oklahoma, 0-20, while beating Tulane, 33-21.

The Frogs knocked off four inter-sectional foes and two conference in their first seven engagements. The non-league victories came over Kansas, 47-14, Texas Tech, 32-0, Alabama, 21-0, and Miami, 21-19.

The Christians downed Arkansas, 26-0, and Baylor, 28-6, in family tilts, losing only to Texas A&M, 16-19.

The Frogs will have an added reason for going all out in this one. Last season the Orange nipped TCU (35-34, on tackle Buck Lansford's wobbly, but successful extra point kick in thee closing moments of the game. Lansford since has graduated into the professional football ranks.

TCU will be after its first triumph over the Steers since 1949, when a Lindy Berry-led Frog eleven upset the Longhorns, 14-13. Texas owns a 27-12 edge in the series.

Following tomorrow's action, TCU will return to Fort Worth for encounters with Rice Nov. 19, and SMU Nov. 26. Texas will meet Texas A&M in the two schools' traditional renewal of an old rivalry on Thanksgiving Day Nov. 24, in College Station.

LEO ROBERT (DUTCH) MEYER, the Little Dutchman of TCU athletic fame, is the subject of an article in the November 11 "Sports Illustrated," which went on sale yesterday morning.

Meyer, who is now serving as athletic director, has been connected with TCU athletics since 1911, when he was water boy for the Frog football team. He started coaching the TCU freshman football team in 1922 and became head varsity coach in 1934. He resigned after the 1952 season.

Enis-Led Wogs To Face Mathews And Shorthorns

Two of the state's top passers show their wares today at 2 p. m. at TCU's Amon Carter Stadium, as the Wogs meet the Shorthorns of Texas University.

The Wogs' Hunter Enis, all-stater from Fort Worth, will pit his arm against that of Texas' Vince Mathews, all-stater from Houston. Both boys have shown exceptional ability to throw the leather and will be doing more of it this afternoon.

Enis has thrown 33 times for 260 yards on 17 completions. He has not connected for a TD. Mathews has thrown 68 times, completing 37 for 460 yards and two TDs. Enis' completion percentage is .515, while Mathews' is .544.

Neither team has won a game this season. From the records, however, it would appear that the Wogs have a slight edge on total offense and defense. In three games the Austin boys have netted 789 yards total offense, accumulating 39 first downs and 20 points. They have allowed their opponents 1,022 yards, 50 first downs and 81 points.

SPORTLIGHT

Hurray for the Southwest Conference! They did something to give people faith. They, meaning the committee which barred A&M from the Cotton Bowl. Whether the Aggies deserved it or not is not the question. The point is, since they were barred from the money bowl, it's a good thing for the conference that the ruling fathers did stick by their guns. Just think what would have happened had the Aggies been permitted to play in the Cotton Bowl, providing they won the conference.

Every school in the conference probably would have taken advantage of the laxness to go wild recruiting-wise. Undoubtedly most people can see the absurdity of relaxing the recruiting laws. A rumor was going around to the effect that A&M would be excused from the ban should they happen to win the conference crown. The committee could very well have let the Aggies off the hook. The thing that many people didn't know was that the A&M case was subject to review at the end of one complete year. The year will be up shortly.

The contention here is that it's a good thing for the conference prestige that the first team ever to be put on probation for recruiting wasn't excused. These all-American selectors are going to have quite a time trying to pick a team this year.

In only two or three positions are there truly outstanding football players. The end positions, which seem to be sewed up by a pair of "Rons," Beagle of Navy and Kramer of Michigan, are almost set. Virgil (Bo) Bolinger, who holds down a guard slot for Oklahoma's top-ranked Sooners, could be a pick.

But from there, where can they go? TCU would have two men on the first all-American team on the basis of performance. James Swink and Hugh Pitts could be started on anybody's team. Swink is second in the country in two of the three major offensive departments and Pitts is one of the best, if not the best, linebacker in the country.

Reports have it that Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Ohio State's running demon, has one of the halfback slots to himself and the other is between Swink and Jon Arnett Southern Cal's contribution.

This all shows the value of pre- and in-season publicity put out by various schools who boom certain players for the coveted roles.

Cassady's performance this year is falling very short of the pinnacle he reached last year, when he was probably the best halfback in the country. But this year, he has been anything but that. Of course many teams are designing their defenses to stop him. His main role this year is that of a constant threat.

Not knocking Cassady, but at least five of the seven teams that have bumped heads with the Frogs this year have set their defenses to stop Swink and look what he has done.

Amos Melton, Jim Brock and the rest of the TCU sports publicity department are to be handed a very large pat on the back for the job they have been doing on keeping TCU in the national limelight, publicity-wise.

How has a guy with an ordinary name like James Swink got a chance to be all-American when there are fellows around with name like Hopalong Cassady; Ohio State, Jack Rabbit of Mississippi State and Eagle Day of West Virginia. It ain't fair.

What young people are doing at General Electric

Young engineer decides what colors are best for G-E reflector lamps

Which color of light makes people look natural? Should a blue light be used more often than a red? What kind of effect does a violet light have on merchandise?

In recent years, color lighting has become so important in stores, restaurants, theaters, and displays that General Electric developed a line of new easy-to-use color-reflector lamps for this market.

The man responsible for deciding which colors are most effective for users of these lamps is 29-year-old Charles N. Clark, Application Engineering Color Specialist for General Electric's large lamp department.

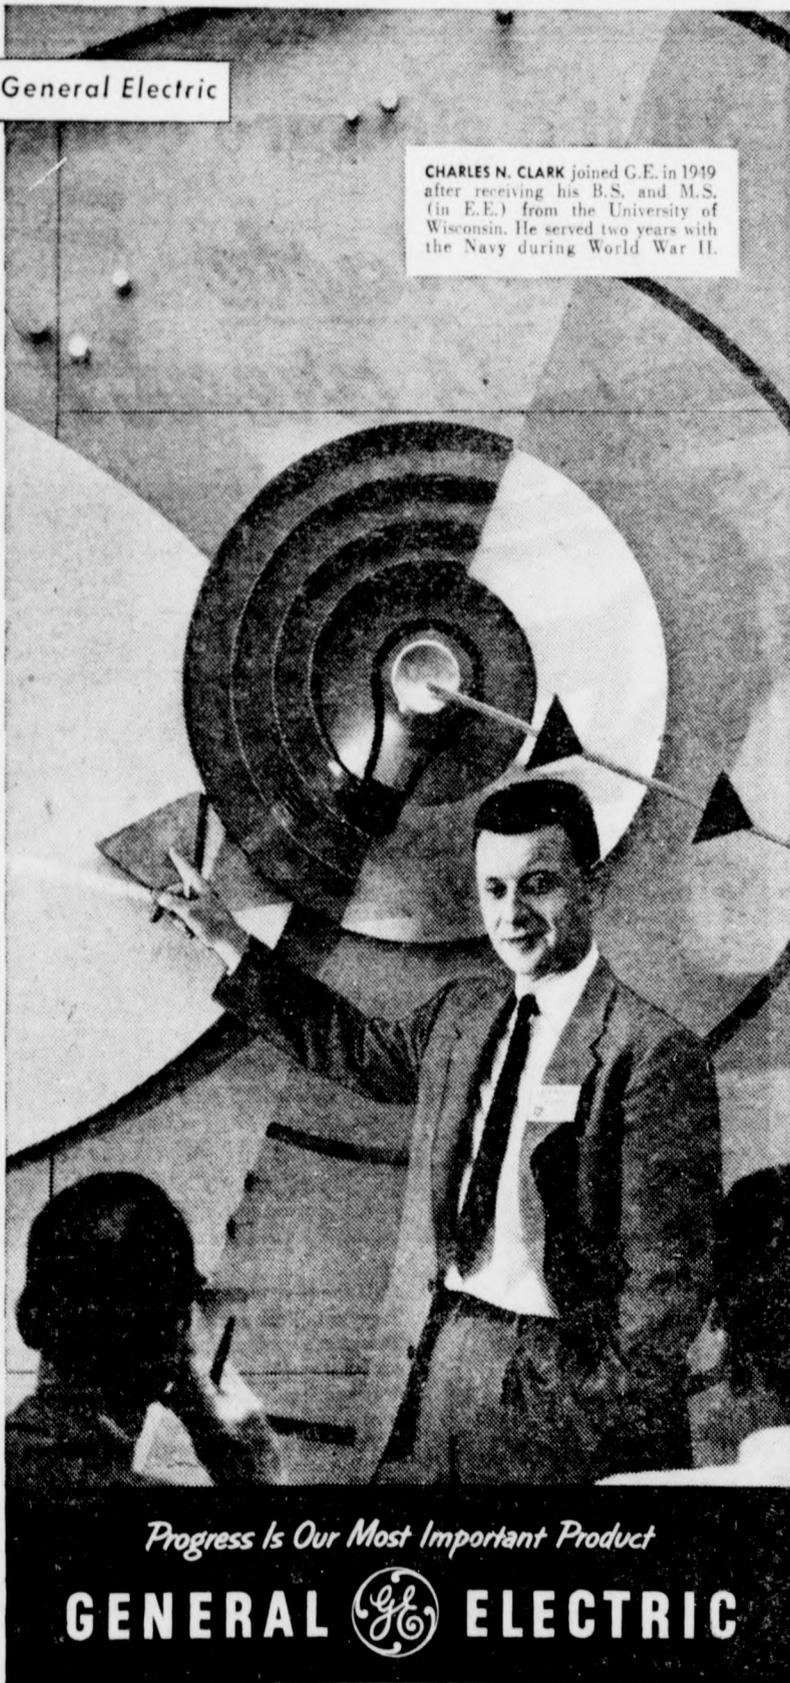

Clark's Work Is Interesting, Important

In a recent series of tests, Clark made a critical appraisal of literally hundreds of color-filter materials to find the ones that produced maximum results but were still suitable to high-production techniques, practical stocking and simplified selling. This experimental work also had to take into account all the information on human perception of color.

25,000 College Graduates at General Electric

When Clark came to General Electric in 1949, he already knew the work he wanted to do. Like each of the 25,000 college-graduate employees, he was given his chance to grow and realize his full potential. For General Electric has long believed this: When fresh, young minds are given freedom to make progress, everybody benefits—the individual, the company, and the country.

CHARLES N. CLARK joined G.E. in 1949 after receiving his B.S. and M.S. (in E.E.) from the University of Wisconsin. He served two years with the Navy during World War II.

TCU vs Texas . . .
Everything points to a bang-up battle tomorrow in Austin. The Frogs are back in stride and capable of clobbering any opponent. Texas has a fine eleven, one that is improving every week. On the basis of experience and past performance, however, we'll put our finger on the Purple . . .

TCU by 10.

Texas A&M vs. Rice . . .
Give those Aggies an inch or a fumble and they'll run you out of the ball park. SMU discovered that sad fact last Saturday. Rice doesn't have the firepower to outscore the Farmers, and the Owl defense is awkwardly porous on occasion. No guess here . . .

A&M by 14.

Arkansas vs SMU . . .
The Hogs are a dangerous bunch; last week proved that. SMU, however, has a host of fine runners in the stable and an adequate aerial attack. The Razorbacks will probably be after this one for revenge purposes. SMU dumped the Porkers out of the unbeaten ranks in 1954. In a scramble we'll pick it . . .

Arkansas by 3.

'Old Faces of 1925' Will Open Next Thursday in Little Theater

"Old Faces of 1925," the 1955 Fallis Players' musical, will open next Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Little Theatre. Performances will be repeated the following two evenings.

Admission is 50 cents per person, except for season ticket holders who will be admitted free.

The cast of "Old Faces" will appear on WBAP-TV Wednesday afternoon on the Ann Alden color telecast. The TCU dramatists will present excerpts from their production.

The cast for the Opera Workshop's December production of "Bad Boys in School" has been announced. More than 20 TCU students will appear in the operatic comedy, to be presented for the Fort Worth Junior League Dec. 10, and later for the public.

Cast members include Jack Vandergriff, Kenneth Hill, William Walker, Devon Hamilton, Robert Dulin, Misses Loretta Montgomery, Helen Vereen, Elaine Ross, Harriet Goldston, Martha Pulliam and Sharon Swenson.

The chorus will be composed of Buford Brian, C. J. Walters, Robert Romo, Cimmes Sarita Gattis, Eleanor Coers, Phyllis Ardyvno, Shirley Thompson, Gloria Billington, Carol Calmes, Dolores Miller, Carol Scruggs, Tippee Buzbee, Marilyn Maxwell, and Berle Ferguson.

The Highland Park High School orchestra and chorus will attend a music clinic Wednesday in the Fine Arts Building.

The high school students will arrive about 10:30 a.m. and will leave at 3 p.m. Classes will be conducted by Fine Arts faculty members in various rooms of the building.

The annual TCU Ex-Students Art Exhibition will open Monday in the Art Gallery on the second floor of the Fine Arts Building.

The exhibition, which will last two weeks, will feature paintings, sculptures, ceramics, and prints submitted by TCU ex-students.

Two professors and two students from the art department have entered the annual fall exhibition of the Texas Fine Arts Association in Austin opening this weekend.

Students Asked To Open House

Disciples Student Fellowship of the University Christian Church in Austin have invited TCU students to an open house 5-6 p.m. tomorrow after the TCU-Texas game.

The open house will be held in the Norden Lounge, basement of the church. Refreshments will be served.

McKie Trotter, assistant professor of art, James Sterritt, instructor in art, Robert Sunkel, Fort Worth graduate student and Charles Dubuis, Fort Worth junior, have entered both paintings and prints in the exhibition.

Professor Sterritt also has entries in the first annual Texas Print Show sponsored by Texas Western College at El Paso, and in a sculpture exhibition at the University of Michigan.

Max Butler, instructor in painting and design, is exhibiting one-man shows at the University of Tulsa, Tulsa, Okla., and at Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa.

The Dallas Symphony Orchestra will perform at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Will Rogers Auditorium.

Students may pick up discount tickets in the Fine Arts Building office.

Miss Ruth Krieger, instructor in cello, and Miss Kathryn Rapp, instructor in harp, will present a joint faculty recital at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The recital will contain nine numbers by Miss Rapp, and three by Miss Krieger. They will present Ravel's "Habanera" together.

Miss Rapp will be accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Anne Lindsay and Keith Mixson will accompany Miss Krieger.
