500 Visitors to Hear Ministers' Week Talks

Topics of lectureships planned for Ministers' Week, which begins Monday, will be concerned mainly with the application of Christianity in a modern world.

Dr. Searle Bates, professor of missions for Union Theological Seminary in New York City; Dr. Halford E. Luccock, emeritus professor of preaching of the Divinity School of Yale University; and Dr. Martin Rist, professor of New Testament in Iliff School of Theology in Denver, are scheduled to speak to more than 500 religious leaders, as well as students and faculty members.

Dr. Bates will discuss Christianity in the contemporary world in the Oren E. Scott Lectures. The first of his lectures in Ed Landreth Auditorium at 11 a.m. Tuesday will replace the regular Chapel service. His subject is "Asia in Christian Perspective."

Students are especially urged to attend this service, said Dr. Noel Keith, chairman of the program committee for the week. President M. E. Sadler will preside.

Dr. Bates will deliver the remaining two Scott Lectures Wednesday and Thursday at the same time and place. His subject for Wednesday is "Africa in Christian Perspective," and for Thursday, "Europe in Christian Perspective."

Dr. Elmer Henson, dean of Brite College and Dr. Keith will preside.

The Wells Lectureship, by Dr. Luccock, will be offered in University Christian Church at 8 a.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Dr. Luccock's first subject will be "Personal Religion in an Impersonal World." Tuesday he will speak on "The Individual in a Crowded World." His subject for Wednesday is "God's Unfinished Business."

President Sadler and Vice-President D. Ray Lindley will preside at the meetings.

The McFadin Lectures will be delivered by Dr. Rist in the University Christian Church at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Dr. Rist will speak on "The Apocalyptic Hope, Revelation!" "Apocalypse and Martyrology," and "Revelance of Revelation." Dr. Keith and Dr. Lindley will preside at the meetings.

Dr. Bates, speaker for the Scott Lectures, was a Rhodes Scholar.

Congress to Meet On Board Problems

By DAVE BROWN

In the year's most heated Congress meeting Monday, representatives voted to invite a member of the Administrative Committee to be present at the next meeting Feb. 6, for a discussion of possible solutions to the meal ticket-compulsory boarding-cafeteria food problem.

The committee will be presented beforehand with specific grievances and recommendations from Congress. The list will be drawn up by a special Congressional committee composed of James Sanders, freshman representative and chairman; Ben Sturgeon, freshman class president; and Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director.

Aubrey Owen, student body president, stepped down from the chair in order to argue against inviting the Administration representative. Joe Latham, student body vice president, replaced him.

"I believe Student Congress will have used up its usefulness if it gets into a fight with the Administration. We are here to serve the student body and we won't be doing that if we get involved in useless quibbling," Owen argued.

The discussion followed a report by Bobby Coleman, lower class representative, who had talked to Business Manager L. C. White about the different phases of boarding.

"All I can say is that we can't do anything," Coleman reported.

He quoted Mr. White as saying a student was not required to live in the dormitory, but was required to board if he did live there.

Mr. White stated later that he did make the statement, but was in error.

"What I should have said was a student is not required to attend TCU, but if he does he is required to live and board on campus," he said, "except under certain circumstances."

The 1955-56 TCU catalogue states:

"All undergraduates are required to reside in the residence halls, unless living at home or with immediate relatives. Special exceptions must be approved by the Dean of Women or the Dean of Men."

The motion to invite the Administration representative, made by Sanders, passed 21-4.

"We've been called a rubber-stamp Congress and that's just what we are if we don't try to protect the student's interests," he said.

Sturgeon, who instigated the inquiry at the Dec. 12 meeting of Congress, said Congress had

Building Fund Increase Reported at Luncheon

By ROGER SUMMERS

Cash and pledges for the new School of Business Building have soared to $500,000, the campaign committee reported yesterday at a weekly luncheon at the Fort Worth Club.

This is $250,000 short of the $750,000 needed to start construction of the building and is a $46,000 increase over last week's report of $454,000.

The committee will meet again Thursday and Jan. 26 to report its progress. The fund raising campaign will end Feb. 1. The drive started Nov. 26 with a luncheon in Brown-Lupton Student Center.

President M. E. Sadler said last week that construction on the building will start as soon as enough cash is collected or enough negotiable pledges are in which the banks will accept on a loan.

A three year period has been allowed for payment of all pledges.

The three-story building will be located on the east quadrangle of the campus. It will house the School of Business and the department of journalism.

The department of journalism is now in a $25,000 fund raising campaign for a J. Willard Ridings Memorial Press. The press will be used to print The Skiff.

A vast increase in enrollment is expected by the School of Business when the building is ready for use in 1957. The school now has over 600 day-time and 980 Evening College students enrolled.

Fine Arts Production To Feature Ballets

The School of Fine Arts will present its ballet production for the year, "a program of four new ballets," at 8:15 p.m. today and tomorrow in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

"Divertissement," "Emperor Waltz," "Pass de Quatre" and "Carnival of Animals" will be the ballets in the program. David Preston, instructor in ballet, is director and choreographer for the production.

"Divertissement" and "Pas de Quatre" are "pure ballet in the classic style," with no story content. The first, costumed all in red, features the music of "Don Quixote," by Minkus. Appearing in this number are Misses Mary Dell Brown, Maralyn Boysen, Cynthia Cory, Joan Hardy, Joy Ashley, Kitty Malone, Judy Meissner, Doris Nolan, Shirley Rice and Carol Williamson.

The music of "Pas de Quatre" is the overture to the "Magic Flute" by Mozart. The dancers, costumed in gold and white, are Larry Roquemore, Raymond Smith, and Misses Kitty Malone and Joy Ashley.

"Emperor Waltz" is a free interpretation of Johann Strauss' famous waltz with the addition of a Strauss polka. The setting for this ballet depicts the grand ballroom of a Viennese castle with a marble colonnaded terrace complete with fountain. Before this backdrop, twelve girls, six in pink and six in blue, dance with Austrian Huzzars to the Strauss numbers.

The girls in pink are Misses Gaylynn Baker, Maralyn Boysen, Joan Hardy, Shirley Rice, Catherine Urban and Carol Williamson. Those in blue are Misses Mary Dell Brown, Barbara Brown, Cynthia Cory, Gayle Meyer, Doris Nolan and Janice Simmons. The Huzzars are Raymond Smith, Larry Roquemore and Eddie Parker.

"Carnival of the Animals," with music by Saint-Saens and new verses by Ogden Nash, is a "satirical romp through the zoo." During this ballet more than fifteen animals are characterized through movements of the dancers. William Garber, instructor in drama, narrates the production and reads the verses by Nash.

A private donor will give six grants for study in Spain. Other countries in which awards are available are Austria, Brazil, Cuba, Denmark, Great Britain, Germany, Iran, Israel, Italy, the Netherlands, Sweden and Switzerland.

BOARD PLAN Prompted by Skiff

(Continued From Page 1) - to prove to the Administration that the student body really wanted a change if one was to be brought about.

Carl Rose, senior class president agreed and added: "If we go into the thing acting like we are already beaten, we are."

Everett Salley, junior class president, felt there was no sense in having the meeting if we are going to be railroaded by the Administration.

"We are fighting a stone wall," he added.

Congress, at the request of Sanders, also invited students interested in the subject to be present.

The next meeting of Congress will be Feb. 6.

Owen was not sure whether the Administrative Committee would accept the invitation or not.

"I will wait until Dr. Lindley returns to town next Monday before officially extending the invitation," Owen said.

Edmonds moved to have the committee prepare the list of grievances before the next meeting. Miss Lynn Clark, freshman representative, moved to have the list presented to the Administrative Committee before the next Congress meeting. Both motions passed unanimously.

Congress Promises Investigation Of National Student Association

A complete investigation of the National Student Association and its allied organizations was promised Monday by Aubrey Owen, student body president.

He was acting in response to an article in last week's Skiff, stating that NSA might have communist connections. Congress had previously donated $10 to an NSA relief fund.

Owen appointed Joe Latham, student body vice president and Congress' correspondent to the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association, to head the inquiry.

"Everything The Skiff printed was true, but there are other things I think need to be brought out," Owen told Congress members.

He was referring to a quote appearing in a recent bulletin published by the NSA and entitled "Serving the Educational Community."

The statement, signed by President Eisenhower, said: "Students will ever play an important role in our intellectual life. By promoting student participation in campus governments and national affairs, the United States National Student Association is helping to strengthen our educational system and to prepare students to become responsible citizens in

Fling Flunks; Students Fail To Pass $140

Flunkers declined to fling at Friday's Flunkers Fling thereby making the dance the first to show a major loss this semester.

Only some 90 people paying 50 cents each attended the $185 affair and the dance committee of the Activities Council chalked up a $140 loss on the fling.

With only one setback for this term, the dance committee has gone on to plan the Valentine Dance and the Spring Formal for the coming semester.

Sandy Sandifer and his 13-piece orchestra has been contracted to play for the semi-formal Valentine Dance from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. Feb. 10. The band will cost $250 of the maximum $325 allotted to the dance by the Activities Council. The dance will feature a floor show within the band and a Queen of Hearts will be chosen. The method of selecting the queen has not been decided upon as yet.

No definite plans have been made for the Spring Formal other than to set the date as April 20 and the allocation of a maximum of $1300 to be spent on the band and decorations.

the democratic community now and in future years.

"In its international work your organization is cementing bonds of friendship with students throughout the world and laying the groundwork for ever increasing cooperation among free nations."

Owen also called attention to the third of three resolutions passed last August at NSA national convention. It called for the abolition of all political oath requirements for teaching jobs.

Latham stated the actual donation was not made to NSA itself, but to an organization supported by NSA and for whom NSA made the appeal.

The donation was requested by the "Returned Students' Christmas Fund (of the USNSA)"

The letter requesting the donation emphasized that the fund would "... compete in no way with the World University Service..." The World University Service is a Campus Chest organization.

New Course Offered For Ministers' Wives

A new course entitled, "Role of the Minister's Wife," will be taught by Mrs. Granville Walker next semester, announced Dr. Noel Keith, chairman of the department of religion.

The only prerequisites for enrolling in the course are to be a student at TCU and a minister's wife.

A preliminary survey among wives indicates that more than 40 will take the course, said Dr. Keith.

Some of the subjects covered by Mrs. Walker will be: "understanding the role of the minister," "what it means to live in a gold-fish bowl," "finding a place in a new church," "special etiquette for minister's wives" and "care of parsonage children."

Prospective ministers' wives will not be admitted, Dr. Keith said, although several "hopefuls" have already asked permission to take the course.

The class will meet on Mondays at 7 p.m.

One Grade Shot, Maybe Next Year He'll Keep Quiet

Dr. Ambrose Edens, instructor in religion, isn't so sure he wants to "kid" anymore with Baptist students enrolled in his classes.

Last week, Dr. Edens, after pointing out that the author of the gospel of John was a Christian, kidded "Now I will proceed to show you that the writer of John was not a Baptist."

From the back of the room a student of the Baptist faith, lurking for revenge on Dr. Edens "kidding," queried, "You mean John was able to be a Christian EVEN though he wasn't a Baptist?"

New Officer Arrives Here

"I came in with the New Year," said 2nd Lt. Leon E. Lichtenwaller Jr. who has joined the Army ROTC staff as assistant PMS & T.

Lt. Lichtenwaller has just finished a two-year tour of duty in Munich, Germany, with the 370th Armored Infantry Battalion. This was his initial assignment after graduating from West Point in 1952. He will stay at TCU for two years.

He said that being from an Army family, he has no regular home. However, Gainesville, Fla., seems like home, he added. Lt. Lichtenwaller is married and has no children.

The condemned man is given a hearty meal before his execution; the student at TCU is given Dead Week before examinations. Only similarity is that both execution and examinations can prove fatal.

Dead Week is the last week before final examinations.

Just Coasting or ## Going Somewhere?

In theory it is the time for students to study for tests and instructors to lighten assignments. In practice, students go their merry way while teachers attempt to cram the last half of their courses into two or three class meetings.

Both professors and students are to blame for harrowing experiences of Dead Week. The professors' rush treatment leaves students confused and under a great deal of pressure. By reviewing material already covered, professors might be gratified to see students learning something as well as making better grades.

Some students wouldn't study regardless of circumstances, but even those wanting to study for finals become discouraged under a deluge of last minute assignments.

If outside work were decreased and students utilized Dead Week, better grades probably would result. Dead Week is no time just to coast along, nor is it one in which to race through a text.

The hearty meal can do the condemned man no good, but Dead Week can aid the student.

A Full House

TCU's Amon Carter Stadium has been filled but once since it was enlarged in 1953.

Current expansion proposals being studied by the TCU Stadium Association, however, may hold the answer to a full house.

A new deck and an enlarged press box complete with elevator would not be financed by the University's building fund. Money would come from the Stadium Association, a group of men interested in TCU's athletic program.

Athletic Director Dutch Meyer admits that expansion is for the purpose of getting more glamorous football teams to play here.

Few national football powers will consider playing in a stadium with 34,000 seats. With the proposed seating capacity of 50,000, however, guarantees would be sufficient to accommodate top teams.

Expansion, if it comes next fall as expected, couldn't arrive at a better time. Jim Swink and most of his crowd-drawing Cotton Bowl mates will be around next year.

The proposed addition of 16,000 seats might, in fact, become known as the "Deck that Swink Built."

Campus Wastelands

Careless parkers and an apparently disinterested Security Office have combined to make TCU's parking situation one of confusion and needless waste.

Choice parking spaces around campus are at a premium even under optimum conditions, but some persons either through carelessness or incapability to park correctly get two of these spaces.

A spot check this week at parking lots between Waits and Foster Halls found at least a dozen spaces wasted because of illegal parking.

Not one car-owner had been given a parking ticket.

The Security Office faces a problem in handing out tickets. Many persons, it feels, are forced to park across yellow lines because earlier arrivals have done so. The Skiff feels, however, that one person should not be excused for parking illegally because another has done so previously. All should be given tickets.

Fines seem to be the only way to stop inconsiderate parking. If all persons illegally parked were forced to pay for it, hap-hazard parking could be ended. After a designated number of offenses, perhaps a student's registration number should be taken away and he should not be allowed to park on campus lots.

Since Security Office warnings have proved ineffective, perhaps collection of a couple hundred fines would untangle the maze of space-consuming, illegally-parked cars.

No Appetite

After almost a full year's operation of the present boarding plan, three points have been brought to light:

Many students are unhappy with the system, boarding will continue despite student protests and men eat more than women.

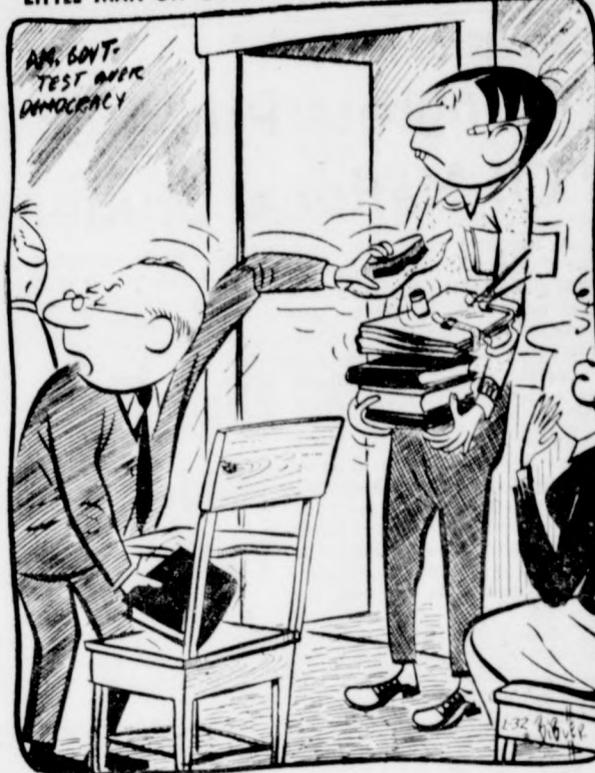

Approximately 18 per cent of men students will have meal ducats left, with five per cent using only half or fewer of the original 16 they had to buy.

Women leaving unused meal tickets total 45 per cent with 17 per cent using less than half those bought, said Student Center Director Logan Ware.

As a result of these "donations" and similar ones last spring, the TCU Cafeteria should have operated in the black during its first year of compulsory boarding in the Student Center.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Campus Mulligan

By DALE EDMONDS

Growl Scramble, sitting with his feet propped on his large mahogany associate editor, looked at us hard and snarled through his thin, cold lips, "Dead Week. Something funny."

We danced into the hall and down to our 1903 Underwood—should have been kept under glass, this tropic air is death on perishables—uncorked a copy boy, and waited for the puns, anachronisms and funnies to flow through our nimble mind into our nimble fingers, hence to the Underwood.

But: they didn't. The funnies that is, from mind to fingers to Underwood. Anyway, he failed to touch second.

There is nothing funny about Dead Week, except the people who aren't. The evilly smirking No-Doz merchants and greasy spoon caffeine entrepreneurs think differently, but this is their fire sale, year-end-clearance and Saturday afternoon come-in-from-the-farm all rolled into one.

Memo to Scramble: Something funny about Dead Week? It isn't, more than anything else we can think of about which something is, like a pound of slaw or Kenneth Martin graduating.

A tender scene witnessed the other afternoon in one of the upstairs rooms of the SC started a flood of nostalgic memories about this sort of thing.

A young couple, of reasonable clean-cut-American-youthfulness, was engaged in demonstrating an inside-step-over-toehold, or some such maneuver akin to those practiced by Keomuka, McShane and clan.

They were completely undisturbed by outrageous stares and incredulous guffaws of passers-by. The young man of the so-occupied couple even paused to exchange a "hi" or two and to wave his hand deprecatingly.

Had an aspiring side-show barker, such as Bruce Neal, passed by, he could have turned the occasion into a lucrative one.

Which all leads us to today's Frogland Fable:

About the middle of July this past summer, the heat became so unbearable that residents of the Hill were forced to take refuge in the air-conditioned SC for their afternoon catnaps.

One sweltering day, a certain dean of the University was leading a group of influential visitors on a tour of the SC. He took them into the Ballroom and began to call attention to its virtues; then he stopped in the middle of a sentence.

Sprawled on his back, his mouth open, on one of the benches along the wall, was a heat-conscious Froggie. He was snoring majestically.

The Dean hastened his guests from the Ballroom and said that they must see the discreet, intellectually-inspiring Study Lounge. They went there, and the Dean began his tirade again. Then he stopped, horror-stricken.

Lying on the floor under one of the study tables was a corpulent individual, snoring flappingly into the magazine across his face.

Again the Dean hurried his guests from the room and into the television lounge. This time he got no further than "This is the . . ." when he spied a couple, engaged in demonstrating an inside-step-over-toehold akin to that mentioned in the prologue.

The Dean's shoulders sagged in defeat, and he stumbled down the stairs of the SC, babbling incoherently; he had even forgotten his English.

It is not true that there is no such thing as a Dean's list at TCU.

This letter from Belpre, Ohio, and in a definitely masculine hand, is tacked to the band bulletin board in the FA Building: "Would you please send me a picture of the majorettes only in your band. Would you also please include their names, age, where their hometown is, what year in school. Thank you very much."

Impressed by this gentleman's interest, Mr. Jacobsen is mailing him instead a booklet entitled "How to Twirl a Baton."

While on the subject of majorettes, and a not unpleasant subject it is with the likes of Soles, Broughton, Alford, et al, we might mention this item seen in a rival downtown paper under the picture of an ex-twirler:

"Gloria Martin is another Golden Gloves Girl who will be cheering at the fights starting Friday."

Gloria must have a powerful set of lungs, because right now she's managing moppets in sunny California.

Baylor

A rather bitter Baylor Baylor wrote a story last week about TCU winning the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship trophy again.

In addition to giving TCU a new student body president—Audrey O'Neil—he mentioned that Baylor "... recaptured its traditional position of being at the bottom of the heap, seventh place."

Great cynics alive!

UT

You have to give the Aggie credit. Sooner or later they get in their licks.

Shortly after the Christmas holidays, the addressing machine which mails out copies of the Daily Texan jammed. A maintenance man had to take out all the plates, unscrew numerous small pieces and finally disassemble one entirely to get to the trouble: a bent address plate.

And who was it addressed to? You guessed it.

"The Battalion, Texas A&M College, College Station, Tex. Gig 'em, Aggies."

Austin, and particularly UT is one heck of a place to hit by a car.

Recently a member of the cast of a campus variety show needed a simple stretcher for prop.

She tried all the ambulance companies. Austin doesn't have any.

She tried all the furniture homes. Theirs all resembled miniature hospital beds.

The UT Health Center evidently expected all its patients to navigate under their own power. They didn't have any.

The athletic department wouldn't part with its stretchers. Basketball players were too scarce to take chances.

An army cot was tried with the legs off, but it folded like a wet washrag.

At last reports the girl is still looking.

Get a horse!

SMU

Let's hope that Schmo students are more charitable than they were three years ago.

A report in the SMU Campus column "Campus Pastimes" said:

"Three Years Ago—APO's Christmas tree (charity drive) fell far short of its expected goal of $200, collected only $66.21, two pieces of chalk, three cough drops, paper clips and an art eraser."

"It's better to give . . ."

Rice

An industrious Rice Times reporter found out that Aggies cans spend $99 million a year for laxatives.

Quite a congestion.

VIVE LE POPCORN!

The other day as I was walking down the street picking up tinfoil (Philip Morris, incidentally, has the best tinfoil, which is not surprising when you consider that they have the best cigarettes, which is not surprising when you consider that they buy the best tobaccos and the best paper and put them together with skill and loving care and rush them to your tobacco counter, fresh and firm and loaded with gentle smoking pleasure to lull the palate and beguile the senses and shoo the blues) the other day, I say, as I was walking down the street picking up tinfoil (I have, incidentally, the second largest ball of tinfoil in our family. My brother Eleanor's is bigger—more than four miles in diameter—but, of course, he is taller than I.) the other day, as I was saying, while walking down the street picking up tinfoil, I passed a campus and right beside it, a movie theatre which specialized in showing foreign films. "Hmmm," I said to myself, "I wonder how come so many theatres which specialize in showing foreign films are located near campuses?"

And the answer came right back to me: "Because foreign films are full of culture, art, and esoterica, and where is culture more rife, art more rampant, and esoterica more endemic than on a campus? Nowhere, that's where!"

... He keeps hoping she'll turn back into a woman...

I hope that all of you have been taking advantage of the foreign film theatre near your campus. Here you will find no simple-minded Hollywood products—full of treacly sentiment and machine-made bravura. Here you will find life itself—life in all its grimness, its poverty, its naked, raw passion!

Have you, for instance, seen the recent French import, Le Jardin de Ma Tante ("The Kneecap"), a savage and uncompromising story of a man named Claude Parfum, whose consuming ambition is to get a job as a meter reader with the Paris water department? But he is unable, alas, to afford the flashlight one needs for this position. His wife, Bon-Bon, sells her hair to a wigmaker and buys him a flashlight. Then, alas, Claude discovers that one also requires a leatherette bow tie. This time his two young daughters, Caramel and Nougat, sell their hair to the wigmaker. So Claude has his leatherette bow-tie, but now, alas, his flashlight battery is burned out and the whole family, alas, is bald.

Or have you seen the latest Italian masterpiece, La Donna E Mobile ("I Ache All Over"), a heart shattering tale of a boy and his dog? Malvolio, a Venetian lad of nine, loves his little dog with every fibre of his being. He has one great dream: to enter the dog in the annual dog show at the Doge's palace. But that, alas, requires an entrance fee, and Malvolio, alas, is penniless. However, he saves and scrimps and steals and finally gets enough together to enter the dog in the show. The dog, alas, comes in twenty-third. Malvolio sells him to a vivisectionist.

Or have you seen the new Japanese triumph, Kibutzi-San ("The Radish"), a pulse-stirring historical romance about Yamoto, a poor farmer, and his daughter Ethel who are accosted by a warlord on their way to market one morning? The warlord cuts Yamoto in half with his samurai sword and runs off with Ethel. When Yamoto recovers, he seeks out Ethel's fiancé, Chutzpah, and together they find the warlord and kill him. But, alas, the warlord was also a sorcerer and he has whimsically turned Ethel into a whooping crane. But loyal Chutzpah takes her home where he feeds her fish heads for twenty years and keeps hoping she'll turn back into a woman. She never does. Alas.

Frogs Duel Bears Tomorrow

By JIM HENDRICKS

Running at a .500 pace in the 1956 Southwest Conference basketball chase, the TCU Horned Frogs meet the cellar-dwelling Baylor Bears at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Public Schools Gymnasium.

Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon's cagers held a 1-1 conference mark after defeating Texas, 73-67, Jan. 4, and bowing, 60-80, to the Rice Owls Tuesday night at Houston. The loss to Rice was the Frogs' 11th in 14 starts during the current campaign.

Baylor has been defeated twice in two league games. The Bears dropped 70-90 and 64-85 decision to Texas A & M and Arkansas, respectively. Through 13 encounters during the season, the Baptists won a 3-10 mark.

Coach Bill Henderson's Waco forces probably will present a starting five tomorrow night composed of center Louis Estes, 6-6; forwards Jerry Mallett, 6-5, and Dennis Raines, 6-4; and guards Captain Wayne Connally, 5-11, and Albert White, 6-1.

Mallett, however, suffered a hand injury two weeks ago and may not play. If he doesn't, Ed Franklin, 6-3, will open at his forward slot.

Estes is the Bears' leading point-maker with 187.

The Frogs will open with a lineup of center Richard O'Neal, 6-7; forwards Johnny Betts, 6-4, and Johnny Dickerson, 6-5; and guards Captain Bill Estill, 6-1, and Jim Swink, 6-1.

O'Neal, the Purple's main offensive weapon, is the SWC's second-highest scorer through 14 games with 330 points. He trails Rice's Temple Tucker, who has hit for 343.

Tucker outscored O'Neal, 18-Joe Durrenberger led everyone, 17, Tuesday night. Owl forward though, with 21 points.

TCU, trailing 32-47 at half-time in the Rice Gymnasium, knotted the count at 43-43 with 15 minutes remaining.

But Coach Don Suman's Owls, sparked by the inspired play of Dale Ball and Fred Woods, began connecting from far out on the layups to hold a 65-50 margin nine minutes later. Meanwhile, the Christians tried cold from the floor, hitting only three field goal attempts.

The Frogs were hindered by Rice's close guard on O'Neal. At times, the Purple "point factory" found himself screened by as many as four Birds. Tucker, Durrenberger and Woods kept a constant watch on the TCU center throughout the contest.

TCU was hampered also by a lack of rebounding strength in the early and late stages of combat. O'Neal and Betts did manage to hawk the boards briefly early in the second half when the Christians made their only big push in the direction of victory.

TCU never led the Owls during the game.

The loss knocked TCU out of a tie for first place with SMU in defending conference title. The Ponies lead the conference at present with a 3-0 record.

After tomorrow night's clash, TCU meets A&M at College Station Jan. 21. Baylor plays Rice at Waco Jan. 21.

Favored Wogs Meet Cub Quintet

The TCU basketball Wogs will go on display to the home folks for the second time this season as they take on the strong Baylor Subs in a 6 p.m. preliminary to the varsity clash at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

The Wogs will be seeking their third victory in four starts, having posted a 2-1 record in pre-Christmas activity. They turned in two victories over Weatherford Junior College and dropped a tight decision to the strong Kilgore Junior College five.

It will be the first game of the new year for the men of Coach Bruce Craig.

This also will be the first game at full strength for the Wogs in quite some time. Before Christmas, Derrell Nippert, sturdy 6-3, 200-pound forward from Childress, sustained a deep gash in his upper lip, and Spenser Hayes, 5-10 guard from Gainesville, sprained an ankle.

Also, Donald Davis, 6-5 starting forward from Birdville underwent a tonsillectomy. These three will be ready for considerable action tomorrow night.

The Wogs will be slight favorites over the Cubs, who are led by the play-making of James Rutledge, 5-10 guard from Dallas Sunset.

Time is closing out for the freshman eligibility of H. E. Kirchner.

The 6-9, 235-pound center came to the Wogs at mid-term last year from Houston Reagan. After the Baylor game tomorrow night, he will have but two more games left in his freshman eligibility. He will be held out the rest of the year season, will have three full and starting with the 1956-57 years of varsity eligibility.

His understudy, 6-3 Roy Davis of Odessa, started the last game at the post for the Wogs, and will see a large amount of action tomorrow night. He is slated to replace Kirchner after the latter moves up to the varsity.

Leading the Wog scorers is Ronnie Stevenson, 6-8 yearling from Birdville High.

The slender youngster, one of the top candidates for varsity honors next year, has poured in 58 points in three games, just shy of a 20-point average.

Stevenson, an all-stater, is counted for 960 points in 22 games his senior year.

Joining him in the starting line-up will be either Kirchner or Davis at center, Nippert at the other forward spot, and at guards, 5-9 Charles Wright of Mount Pleasant and 6-6 Johnny Hill of Corpus Christi.

The Wogs came back from the Christmas holidays minus player, Russell Grams, a 6-8 forward from New York City turned up at Colorado A&M.

Sorority Stars, Independents Plan Grid Game

Frogland's "football femmes" are warming up for a sorority-independent all-star battle within the next two weeks.

A definite date for the game will not be set until early next week, Student Intramural Director Van Rathgeber said. The contest will be held sometime before final examinations begin Jan. 22.

The sorority league will send its top performers against stars of women's independent league. Rosters of the two squads will be completed next week.

Bob White, Fort Worth senior, will coach the independents. Mentor of the sorority team will be Carl Rose, Waco senior.

Committee Is Studying Stadium Enlargement

TCU Amon Carter Stadium may become a "double decker" by this fall.

The TCU Stadium Association last week appointed a four-man committee, headed by W. A. (Bill) Landreth, to study a proposal to enlarge the stadium from its present capacity of 37,000 seats to approximately 60,000.

The proposal, at present, calls for completion of the added seats in time for the 1956 grid season.

Other members of the committee are TCU Athletic Director L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, Ed Landreth and M. J. Neely, chairman of the board's buildings and grounds committee.

They will submit their findings to the trustees at the board's next meeting in late March or early April. The board will then vote on approval of the expansion measures.

The proposed deck, which would extend from goal to goal atop the present west stands, will cost about $750,000. Architects already have begun drawing tentative plans for the new tier of seats.

taken as to method of obtaining the necessary funds. There has been some discussion of placing the second-deck seats on a 20-year option basis, with cost set at $100 per seat.

Option holders would have first call on the seats for 20 years after purchase.

The expansion proposal also calls for building of a modern press box serviced by an elevator. The press area would contain two decks, the first for sportswriters, scouts and radio personnel, the second for newspaper and television photographers.

The committee plans to tour press boxes in nearby South-west Conference stadiums to gain ideas for bringing the proposed new press box up to best standards. They will visit Rice and Baylor stadiums, Memorial Stadium at the University of Texas and the Cotton Bowl.

Other additions to the TCU press area would include room for a food service area, wire machines and mimeograph machines. Lack of sufficient space to provide for these facilities has been one of the main faults of the present press box.

'Murals Cagers Open Play Feb. 1

Delta Tau Delta will enter the competition as last year's defending champions.

Ever wonder—
What would happen to TCU's basketball team if this year's freshmen were eligible for the varsity?

What would happen if Richard O'Neal broke his right arm?

How Buster Brannon can make basketball teams improve so much in such a short time?

If Jimmy O'Bannon has ever played a basketball game without getting knocked down at least once?

How many points O'Neal would score in a game if he didn't have three men on him a majority of the time?

How O'Neal would look against Bill Russell, San Francisco's 6-10 All-American?

If O'Bannon will last the whole season is one piece?

What Brannon would do if somebody kidnapped the occupants of room C-202, Tom Brown, the domicile of O'Neal and O'Bannon?

If there is a better basketball player in the country than O'Neal?

How sportswriters would have written the story if O'Neal and Slater Martin of Texas had been playing against each other the night they both scored 49 points? (Martin pulled his heroics in 1949 when O'Neal was in the 9th grade. O'Neal made his in a game against Rice last year.)

If you're going to be in school next semester?

If this column is going to end?

It is.

Kappa Sig Actives Top Pledges, 41-18

Kappa Sigma active members defeated their pledge squad, 41-18 in an intra-fraternal football game last Sunday.

Dick Finney, Fort Worth junior; Al Paschal, Fort Worth junior, and Carl Rose, Waco senior, performed siege-gun service for the actives.

Among those doing standout duty in defeat were pledges Tom Crum, McKinney freshman; George Powell, Colorado City freshman; and Bobby Coleman, Dallas sophomore.

A 40-yard touchdown pass from Paschal to Rose was one of the game's most spectacular plays and helped clinch the victory for the actives.

Dr. Agee said one end of the basement will house the J. Willard Ridings Memorial Press and the other end will be used for classrooms, faculty offices, space, offices for Skiff and Horned Frog editors and reporting rooms.

A photo lab and studio will occupy the center portion of the basement.

The School of Business and the journalism department will share a joint reading room and faculty lounges.
