REPRESENTATIVE FOR TCU DAY at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show is Miss Dicie Perryman, Copperas Cove sophomore. She will take a bow from horseback to open the rodeo at 2 p.m. today. Three other TCU students have participated in the rodeos this week. Jack Bridges, Glen Rose senior, entered the steer wrestling division. Charlie Johnson, Weatherford junior, and Phil Livingston, Fort Worth junior, entered bull riding.

Meal Ticket Talk Held Up for Week

A proposed meeting between Congress and a member of the Administrative Committee has been postponed for one week.

The representative was to have discussed the Cafeteria situation with Congress members Monday, but committee members have been unable to hold a meeting during the past two weeks.

The members — Vice President D. Ray Lindley, Business Manager L. C. White and Dean Jerome A. Moore — are expected to meet today or tomorrow and vote to accept or reject Congress' invitation.

A committee appointed by Student Body President Aubrey Owen to list grievances concerning Cafeteria service and operation reported it had finished its work, but declined to release the complaints until next week.

The administration representative will be asked to appear at the Feb. 13 Congress meeting.

The invitation was originally extended by Congress at the last meeting of the fall semester after several Congress members had requested that some effort be made to improve service and food costs in the cafeteria.

Chief complaints were lodged by Ben Sturgeon, freshman class president, and James Sanders, freshman representative, both of whom protested the University's policy of compulsory boarding.

Other members of Congress concurred and also complained of poor food and high costs.

Congress did not meet this week.

1,300 Attend Career Day

About 1,300 seniors from 33 Texas high schools attended the third annual TCU Citizenship and Career Conference last Friday. Amos Melton, director of Information Services, reported.

"They showed great interest in the University, and many have written since that they would like to visit the campus again," Mr. Melton said.

The visiting students took about 2,000 copies of TCU publications with them, he added. "We've always gotten some freshmen as a result of the conference in past years," Mr. Melton said. "Next fall, we should get even more."

Construction to Begin On Business Building

By ROGER SUMMERS

Ground breaking for the new School of Business Building will start within the next 90 days, President M. E. Sadler told the campaign committee at its final luncheon this week at the Fort Worth Club.

Cash and pledges totaling $726,775 were reported by the committee. The campaign goal was $750,000.

The additional $24,000 is expected to be raised when pledge cards are received from several firms that have indicated they plan to aid in financing the building project.

Dr. Sadler termed the campaign the most successful in which he had participated since his first fund raising effort at the age of 19.

"Every effort will be made to offer the plans for bids within 60 days," Dr. Sadler said.

The three-story and basement structure will house the School of Business and the department of journalism.

The drive for the building, to be located on the east quadrangle of the campus, started Nov. 26 with a luncheon in Brown-Lupton Student Center.

Dr. Ike Harrison, dean of the School of Business, and Dr. Warren K. Agee, chairman of the journalism department, plan to map tentative details for division of the building within the next two weeks.

When tentative planning is completed, Dr. Harrison and Dr. Agee will confer with representatives of the architects.

Lambeth Tomlinson, associate publisher of the All-Church Press in Fort Worth, will assist Dr. Agee in purchasing and setting up printing facilities.

The Eastman Kodak Company in Dallas has mailed material and is furnishing a technical representative to aid Dr. Agee in establishing and planning a portrait studio and expanded photo laboratories.

The department of journalism is now in a $25,000 fund-raising campaign for a J. Willard Ridings Memorial Press. Almost $2,500 has been collected.

The press will be used to print The Skiff.

Both schools have been occupying temporary frame buildings erected during World War II.

The new building will be equipped for visual aids and will be air-conditioned.

Enrollment Up Over '55 Spring

Registration totals for the spring semester are expected to run well above those of last year's spring semester, Registrar Calvin A. Cumbie said.

Since registration continued through yesterday, no figures were available at press time.

Late registration will continue through next Friday. Those who register late will be charged a fee of $5.

Drops, additions and changes in sections will begin Monday and continue through Friday.

Late registrations, drops, additions and changes in sections must originate in the Registrar's Office, Mr. Cumbie said.

To All TCU Students

The TCU Athletic Council, in official session, has instructed me to deliver to every member of our university family sincerest congratulations for your most commendable performance in the field of sportsmanship.

The Horned Frogs—the "Horned Frogs"—are a joy to us all. During the football season, the miles of progress with the ball, the many touchdowns, the sweet victories, the performances that thrilled us game after game almost to exhaustion, were our normal fare.

But to me and many others, the top thrill of all came in the Cotton Bowl announcement that for conduct on and off the field, on and off campus, YOU had won the Southwest Conference Sportsmanship Award. It was heard by millions that day.

It was with an amazing combination of pride, humility and gratitude that we brought home this esteemed trophy. This prize is never easy to win; it is much, much harder to win for three straight years; and it is almost beyond belief that it could be won in the tension and excitement of a championship year. Yet YOU gave this coveted trophy a permanent home!

I commend you for the fine sportsmanship for which the prize was awarded and for the dignity and modesty with which you accepted it.

Yet all this could not possibly mean as much to you as it does to some of the finest men I know. President Sadler has expressed as much pleasure over this award as over our fine championship trophy.

Our athletic director, the beloved "Dutch" Meyer, has for many years cultivated such conduct as you have demonstrated. And that grand coach and first class gentleman, Abe Martin, and all members of his fine staff, see in this award an outstanding achievement.

I have the conviction that as the years go by, every member of our Horned Frog family who played a part in winning the Sportsmanship Trophy will become more deeply aware of its significance.

To the Sportsmanship Committee and to each of you, therefore, our hearty commendation.

Cordially,
HENRY B. HARDT
Chairman,
Athletic Council

Plans Complete For $1,000,000 Library Drive

Final plans to raise $1,000,000 to remodel and enlarge Mary Coats Burnett Library were made by the executive committee of the Board of Development at a luncheon last week.

Members of the committee are now campaigning in cities over the Southwest for contributions. This week the committee visited Houston, Wichita Falls and El Paso.

The Board of Development will meet with the Board of Trustees March 9 in the Student Center to discuss progress of the campaign.

The committee is composed of Robert Carr of San Angelo, Larry Blackmon of Mineral Wells, C. K. Stillwagon of Houston, Don Smith of Taylor, George Kuykendall of Lubbock, Andrew A. Bradford of Midland, and Dan Lydick Jr. and M. J. Neeley, both of Fort Worth.

Three Companies Plan Interviews

Representatives from the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation will interview prospective employees Feb. 13 in the counseling room of the School of Business.

The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company will hold interviews Feb. 22 and representatives from Joske's of Texas will be on Campus Feb. 23. "These interviews are not just for students enrolled in the School of Business," Dr. Ike Harrison said. "They are for any student who is interested."

Students who wish to talk with representatives should make reservations in the office of the School of Business, Dr. Harrison said.

It's Not Fair! Quietest One Gets Evicted

You may catch a few students "playing possum" in class. But it's seldom a possum decides to "play student."

It happened last week, though at Mary Couts Burnett Library.

A possum strolled through the front door of the near-empty building, walked to the magazine section and curled up for an evening's snooze.

After a slightly fierce struggle, he was captured by the tail, however, and deposited outside.

"Well, at least he was one of our quietest customers this year," Mrs. Sara MacLaine, loan librarian, commented.

Fashion School Opens Contest

Four fashion fellowships, covering full tuition of $1,150, will be awarded to senior women graduating in 1956 by Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers in New York.

Applicants should obtain registration blanks and mail them by Jan. 31 to receive contest material in early February.

The contest will include discussion of fashion topics. Awards will be announced in April.

Registration blanks may be obtained from the school, 851 Madison Ave., New York 21, N. Y. Candidates must be able to finance living and incidental expenses for nine months in New York.

● R. E. WEEK

Hall at 10:30 p.m. Feb. 13 and 14.

An invocation to the program is scheduled classroom discussions, in which regular or visiting teachers will relate religion to their fields. Approximately 25 if these sessions will be open to the public, said Dr. Comer Clay, faculty co-chairman of the week.

Many other classes as well as clubs, sororities and fraternities, will devote meetings to discussion of religious subjects.

Representatives of three faiths, Jewish, Catholic and Protestant, will be available for personal conferences. They are Rabbi Isador Garsek, the Rt. Rev. Ernest Langenhorst and Dr. Bash. Arrangements for the conferences may be made through Art Wenger, director of religious activities, or John Moore.

Students Prefer Radio to TV National Collegiate Poll Says

Minneapolis — (ACP) — Despite the meteoric rise of TV as a communication channel in our society, twice as many college students would prefer to give up TV rather than radio, if forced to make the choice.

These figures show a striking contrast to results obtained when the same question was asked of a sample of the general adult population of a large metropolitan center; here twice as many individuals would prefer to give up radio. Associated Collegiate Press determined collegiate opinion on this question by sampling from a representative national cross-section of college students. The question was:

IF YOU HAD TO GIVE UP EITHER TELEVISION OR RADIO, WHICH WOULD YOU GIVE UP?

The results:

	College Students		Adults
	Men	Women	Total	Total
Television	55%	54%	55%	29%
Radio	25%	27%	26%	61%
No Preference/ Don't Know	12%	15%	13%	5%
No TV Set	8%	4%	6%	5%

No attempt will be made to explain the turnabout between college students and the general adult population, but student opinion indicates any number of reasons for their choice of radio over TV, the most frequent comment being that TV requires more concentration. Students feel they can do other things while listening to radio, but when watching TV all of their time is absorbed. Several students say radio is cheaper, some think it a more universal medium than TV.

A student attending The College of Physicians and Surgeons in San Francisco believes "a television set is too time consuming for the benefits you derive from it." An Iowa State College sophomore lists several reasons for preferring radio: "TV is more or less for entertainment; but one doesn't have to see radio to enjoy it. In addition, things such as portable radios make this medium more versatile."

Students preferring TV over radio feel TV is more vivid and exciting. Several students indicate they feel TV offers something much different from radio.

A University of Minnesota sophomore says, "Television has become too much a part of daily life."

Some students are undecided concerning the medium they would give up if forced to make a choice. But generally they take the point of view expressed by a senior coed at the University of Nebraska who feels "there are many advantages to both."

Six Seniors Accepted For Medical Training

Six senior pre-med students have been accepted for training at medical colleges and universities, Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, chairman of the biology-geology department, announced.

Attending Southwestern Medical College in Dallas will be Bert Franks, Dallas; Malcolm Hammett, Fort Worth; and Tommy Rogers, Fort Worth.

Other students accepted for study include Calvin Harmon, Fort Worth, Washington University; Travis White, Wilson, N. C.; Baylor Medical College; and Willard Swaney, Fort Worth, University of Texas.

Skiff Scores in Schulman's Poetic Selections

By DAVE BROWN

For those who wish to end it all pleasantly, many will find it easy to die laughing at the new anthology of college humor recently compiled and partially authored by today's top collegiate humorist, Max Schulman.

Included in "Max Schulman's Guided Tour of College Humor," are such choice tidbits as:

Whatever trouble Adam had,
No man could make him sore,
By saying when he told a joke,
"I've heard that one before."

Excerpted from the "Columbia Jester," that is only a sample of the humorous and witty sayings quoted in the volume.

For instance, there is a primer for fraternity pledges taken from the pages of the "Alabama Rammer Jammer," which lists the Greek alphabet thusly:

Alpha — 1/2

Ex: Alpha pinta Bourbon

Beta — Ought to

Ex: You Beta beat it before the cops come.

Delta — Card term

Ex: He Delta Hand of pinochle

Zeta — to repeat

Ex: Zeta Again, Virginia Dare

Eta — to devour

Ex: I Eta slab o' horse meat

Iota — a duty

Ex: Iota slap your face

Sigma — part of a warning

Ex: Watch out or I'll Sigma Dog on you

Psi — cockney for an American expression

Ex: Psi it again, Virginia Dare

Omega — part of a prayer

Ex: Omega good girl out of me.

And other "daffynitions" included:

Americanism — Voting to set the speed limit at forty five and demanding a car that will do ninety.

Education — That which enable you to get into more intelligent trouble.

Fall — Season in which we connive to secure tickets and fight our way into the stadium to see football over emphasized.

Willowly maiden — Skinny girl with rich father.

Younger generation — a group of persons alike in many respects.

Those, believe it or not, reportedly came from The Skiff. Another choice bit, from the "Penn Pix" of the University of Pennsylvania goes like this:

I think that I shall never see

A girl refuse a meal that's free;

A girl whose hungry eyes aren't fixed

Upon a drink that's being mixed.

A girl who won't forever wear

A bunch of junk to match her hair;

A girl who looks at boys all day

And figures ways to make them pay.

Girls are loved by fools like me

'Cause who the heck wants to kiss a tree.

Those of a military mind will enjoy this one from the "Pointer" of West Point:

Last night I held a little hand

So dainty and so neat

I thought my heart would surely burst

So wildly did it beat.

No other hand e'er held so tight

Could greater galdness bring

Than the one I held last night

It was - - -

Four aces and a king.

Foreign languages majors probably will enjoy these modern translations by Schulman himself.

French:

Fin de siecle—I'll give you five dollars for your bicycle.

Debut—North end of south-bound mule.

Loin—What you came to college to do.

Refaire—doped cigarette.

Barbare—empty saloon.

Bois—what girls marry.

Debarquer—watchdog.

Bigamist—foggy day in Italy.

Latin:

Advocatus diaboli—the hell you say.

Caladarium—California cowherd.

Laud-abar—let's stop for a drink.

Pax Vobiscum — pass the biscuits.

Spanish:

Porque—Pig meat.

Tres—Brooklyn flora.

Sin Embargo—Mann Act.

A menudo — I lost my clothes.

All of which brings us back to another offering from The Skiff—in case you hadn't guessed, the whole point of this thing is to let you know that we've got five articles printed in the book and you'd better buy a copy, 'cause we may get a commission of the take—to wit:

With inward chuckles

Of feminine glee

You knew at last

You were rid of me.

With sentences caustic

And voice refined,

You charmingly gave me

A piece of your mind.

But the triumph's not yours

For if only you knew,

I've been trying for months

To get rid of you!

And now you're rid of us. Ain't you glad.

Alpha Chi Convention Set Feb. 24-25 at Student Center

This year's regional convention of Alpha Chi, national honor society, will be held at TCU Feb. 24-25.

Representatives from 16 colleges and universities from Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana in region two of Alpha Chi will attend the meeting. Each chapter is entitled to two official voting delegates.

Theme for the conference is "Is the Scholar a Specialist?" The topic will be discussed at student panel meetings.

Registration for the convention will start at 2 p.m. Friday, Feb. 24 in the foyer of the Student Center.

The program will begin at 2:30 p.m., followed by a banquet. The group will then attend a student-led vespers service in Robert Carr Chapel.

At 9 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 25, student papers and musical numbers will be presented in Room 215 of the Student Center.

The local chapter of Alpha Chi will meet at 4 p.m. today in Room 215 of the Student Center to make final plans and to choose speakers for the conference. Miss Claudia Lopp, San Antonio senior and president of the chapter, said.

Colleges and universities expected to attend the regional conference include: North Texas State College, Texas State College for Women, Austin College and Midwestern University.

East Texas State Teachers College, Stephen F. Austin State College, Louisiana College, Centenary College, Henderson State Teachers College and Quachita Baptist College.

Arkansas State Teachers College, Hendrix College, Texas Wesleyan College Central State College and North East State College.

THE DIRT REALLY FLIES—Eight horses kicking and plunging at one time while two men try to bring each bronc under control so a third cowboy can saddle up and ride—that's the wild horse race which will be a new feature at the world's greatest indoor rodeo, presented during the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show in Fort Worth, January 27 through February 5.

When classes are through
And your girl's close to you
Here's a good thing to do—have a CAMEL!

—Man, that's pure pleasure!

It's a psychological fact:
Pleasure helps your disposition.

If you're a smoker, remember — more people get more pure pleasure from Camels than from any other cigarette!

No other cigarette is so rich-tasting, yet so mild!

TCU Catalogs To Be Delayed Until Spring

TCU's 1956-57 General Information Bulletin will not be issued until after the Board of Trustees meeting in late March or early April, according to Amos Melton, director of Information Services.

Publication will be delayed pending changes in board membership and committees which may be announced at the meeting.

The bulletin will be smaller and contain fewer pictures, Mr. Melton said. A brochure, "You and TCU," published last month by the Information Services office, will supplement the bulletin and serve as a recruiting booklet.

The Harris College of Nursing catalog was issued last month as the first 1956-57 catalog. A summer school bulletin will be published this month.

Catalogs for AddRan College of Arts and Sciences and the School of Fine Arts will be available in March. School of Education and Graduate School catalogs will be ready in April.

Bulletins for the School of Business and Brite College of the Bible will be published in May. The Evening College bulletin will be issued in July.

The regular general bulletin, composed of the general information bulletin and the other eight catalogs, will be published in August.

England Offers Summer Study

Six-week study courses are available for TCU students this summer at Oxford, Stratford-on-Avon and at the capital cities of London and Edinburgh.

A limited number of scholarships will be available. Closing date for applications is March 26.

Courses are designed to serve the needs of post-graduate students, but highly qualified undergraduates in their junior or senior years will be accepted.

Included in the courses to be offered next summer are: "Shakespeare and Elizabethan Dramas," "Literature and Art From the Mid-18th to the Mid-19th Centuries" and "The European Inheritance," given by the Scottish Universities.

Further details may be obtained from Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson.

Former Drum Major To Head Music Store

Woody Woodard, former TCU band drum major, will be manager of the new C. & S. Music Inc. store, 2917 W. Berry, which opened Wednesday.

Woodard taught in Decatur, Eastland and Fort Worth public schools after his graduation in 1949 from TCU.

Skiff Ex Joins Paul Ridings Firm Feb. 11 Picture Deadline Set for New Students

Walter E. Burch, B.A. '49, Head of the firm he is joining, Paul O. Ridings, was Paul Ridings Public Relations, 3467 W. Rosedale, Feb. 27.

Since 1951 Burch has been director of publicity, journalism instructor and faculty sponsor of the press club at Abilene Christian College. Before his nearly five years at ACC, Burch was city editor of the Gainesville Daily Register in 1950-51 and news editor of the Liberty Vindicator, a weekly, in 1949-50.

For the past four years at Abilene, Burch has also been a part-time editorial staff member of the daily Abilene Reporter-News.

As sports editor he wrote a column, "Burch-Bark."

Burch's move from college to agency work will return him to his home town. A native of Fort Worth, he received all of his education in the city, and his mother, Mrs. J. W. Still, still lives in Fort Worth.

Feb. 11 is the deadline for new students to have photographs made for this year's annual, Editor Dave Brown announced.

All new students should go to Orgain's Studio, 705 Main. The pictures of this year entrants will be placed in the "To Late To Classify" section, he added.

Annual picture cost is $2.50 for seniors, $1.50 for others. Brown urges new students and teachers to have their pictures made by this date.

Per capita consumption of printed matter in the United States is more than 300 pounds annually.

Crisis Met and Passed By School of Fine Arts

What happens when a school of a major university suddenly, and without warning, loses its dean?

The TCU School of Fine Arts faced this crisis when Dean T. Smith McCorkle died Dec. 1. But, due to the diligence of the Fine Arts Administrative Council, the office of the dean has continued to function without perceptible change.

At 7:30 a.m. the morning after Dean McCorkle's death, Dr. E. M. Winesanker began the task of handling letters, inquiries, requests, scheduling, and student-faculty problems channeled through the Fine Arts office.

Dr. Winesanker was perhaps considered closest to the dean in knowledge of his duties and problems. The professor of music literature and musicology had served as acting dean during one term of a summer session and when Dean McCorkle was absent because of a broken arm.

The week following the dean's death, the Fine Arts Administrative Council, consisting of Dr. Winesanker as chairman, Dr. E. L. Pross, chairman of the department of speech - theater - radio, and Leonard Logan, assistant professor of art, was formed.

"Of course the Dean's death came as a complete shock, and no provisions had been made," said Dr. Winesanker. "But, as far as we're concerned, work in the School of Fine Arts has continued with no insurmountable hurdles."

He said the office of dean entailed "vast duties and ramifications," and described the Fine Arts School as a "colossus of the campus." He explained the dean of a school such as this must coordinate the various divisions and departments, direct a virtual "bureau of entertainment," maintain public relations and remain aware of academic needs.

For these reasons, he said, careful consideration is being taken in selecting a new dean. As of yet, no definite action has been made by the Administration concerning Dean McCorkle's successor.

Until the new dean is chosen, however, the School of Fine Arts will continue to function under the guidance of the Fine Arts Administrative Council.

3 Interviews Scheduled Here

The Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation will hold interviews at the School of Business Feb. 13 for students interested in future employment with the firm.

Commercial Mutual Life Insurance Co. will send representatives Feb. 22 and the Auther Anderson Co. will conduct interviews Feb. 28.

Additional information may be obtained at the School of Business office.

Agee's Research Study Published in Bulletin

A journalism research study written by Dr. Warren K. Agee, journalism department chairman, has been published in the current issue of the Bulletin of the American Society of Journalism School Administrators.

The article is entitled, "Occupational and Curricular Trends and the Problem of Fragmentation." Dr. Agee is president of the organization.

Nunn Is Representative To History Foundation

Dr. W. C. Nunn has been appointed as representative from the Association of Texas Colleges to the Texas Historical Foundation.

Dr. Nunn, who holds the title of Amon G. Carter Professor of American History at TCU, will act as the association's representative until January, 1957.

Dubuis, Record Win Contest

Two TCU students are winners in the Pollock Paper Corporation Folding Carton Design contest for college students in the Southwest.

Charles H. Dubuis, Fort Worth junior and son of Mrs. E. M. Dubuis, won $25 for the best entry from a TCU student.

Tony Record, Fort Worth senior and son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Record, received a $10 special merit award.

Dubuis' design was a "Hickory Smoked Bacon" carton. Record designed a carton for "TV Dinner."

Both are art majors studying under Prof. Leonard Logan.

The contest was held to stimulate creative interest among college students in carton design and packaging.

Lawrence Pollock, president of the corporation said:

"With an awareness of the time, skill, and creativity that the entries represent, we would like to express our appreciation for the students' interest in this contest, and our best wishes for their futures as successful designers."

Twenty awards were made. Cash prizes totaled $835.

Hewatt, Hendricks Will Show Fossils on Sunday's 'Telerama'

Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, chairman of the department of biology and geology, and Dr. Leo Hendricks, professor of geology, will present a demonstration on "Telerama" at 1 p.m. Sunday on KFJZ-TV, Channel 11.

They will use fossils found in the Fort Worth area to show the types of life that flourished here in earlier ages. They also will demonstrate how specimens are taken for determining the different earth strata in oil drilling.

Bob Tait, Fort Worth senior, will host for the program.

Two debate teams from

Adaptation Ad Infinitum

'Merchant' Moved, Stolen and Redone

"Merchant of Yonkers," to be presented Feb. 17-18 and 21-25 in the Little Theater, has a long and unique history.

The TCU production is an adaptation by Thornton Wilder of Johann Nestroy's "Einen Jux Will Er Sich Machen (He Wants to Have Fun)." Nestroy, a Viennese, had, in turn, adapted his play from "A Day Well Spent" by John Oxenford, an English playwright.

Wilder moved the scene of action from Nestroy's Vienna of 1840 to Yonkers, N.Y., in 1880. Nestroy had, beforehand, transferred Oxenford's England of 1835 to Vienna.

To complicate matters even more, "Merchant of Yonkers" currently is running in New York under the title "The Matchmaker."

The Broadway production has been praised by critics as "zany," "laugh riot," "uproarious," "hilarious," etc., and by Life Magazine, which devoted a four-page spread to it.

The Little Theater presentation is Wilder's original version of the play, before he revised it into "The Matchmaker."

Dr. Walther R. Volbach, professor of drama and director of theater, who is supervising the production, said that Wilder's adaptation "succeeds in capturing the atmosphere of the original play."

The difference in the two plays, he pointed out, are that the Viennese farce contained songs and music. Wilder changed the songs to monologues by the actors directed to TCU will go to Waco tomorrow morning for an intercollegiate debate tournament at Baylor. Worth Dalton, debate coach, will accompany the teams.

H. T. McCorkle, 85, father of the late T. Smith McCorkle, dean of the School of Fine Arts, died Jan. 26 in his home, 3817 Winslow Dr.

The elder McCorkle had been ill about two months.

He had been state food and drug inspector for the Department of Public Health from 1927 to 1940. He had lived in Fort Worth since 1949.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Sam McCorkle of Dallas; three sisters, a granddaughter, and three great-grandsons.

Miss Elaine Ross, Amarillo junior, is appearing in the role of Sally in the Fort Worth Opera Association production of "Rosalinda." The performances of the opera are at 8 p.m. today and tomorrow, and at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium.

Two acts from the Fine Arts Ballet, and a drama quintet under the direction of Miss Jackie Hicks, will appear before the Gainesville Woman's Club at 8 p.m. tomorrow in Gainesville.

"Pas de Quatre" and "Carnival of Animals" are the portions of the ballet which will be presented.

The drama quintet, composed of Misses Hicks and Elizabeth Creson, and Paul Caines, Billy Ryan, and Jim Little, will read from literary works using the theater form employed by Charles Laughton in his presentation of "Don Juan in Hell."

Other staff changes for the spring semester are: program director, Bill Dinkins; continuity writer, Earl Zetsche; traffic director, Miss DiAnn Boulware; news director, Roy Eaton; publicity director, Jim Ables; and record librarian, Norman Perry.

A new show, "Have you Met Miss Jones" featuring Miss Barbara Jones, will replace last semester's "Dream Date" from 9:15 to 9:45 p.m. each weekday. Southwest Campus Newsletter had been dropped from the spring schedule.

KTCU is operating now at 1025 on the dial.

Draft, Appendectomy Threaten Play Lead

The cast of "Merchant of Yonkers" is having its share of trials and tribulations.

David Combs, Fort Worth senior, who plays one of the male leads, Cornelius Hackl, could feel Uncle Sam's hot breath on his neck, so it looked doubtful for awhile if he would be around when curtain time came.

Dr. Walther Volbach, director of the production, drafted (no offense to Combs) Dennis Bruton, Amarillo sophomore, to learn the part of Cornelius.

Bruton was doing so well that Dr. Volbach decided to let him and Combs alternate performances during the play's run, Feb. 17-18 and 21-25.

Then, early this week, Combs underwent an emergency appendectomy, and it appears that he probably will be unable to reassume the rather vigorous Cornelius role.

Uncle Sam is still on Combs' trail also, so because of the combination of possible khaki and angry appendix, Dennis Bruton may become TCU's newest matinee idol.

Editorial Comment

Interested in an economical date this month?
A good way to have that low-cost date and also do some good with the money you spend would be to attend the Campus Chest variety show later this month.

For Campus Chest,

Give to Receive

In fact, anything you can do to raise money for the Campus Chest will help.
Because this chest, unlike the pirate's old sea-chest, isn't filled with treasure and fabulous jewels.

Yet.
Jewels aren't expected as contributions but money is... money that goes for such worthy causes as a scholarship for a foreign student, the World University Service Fund and the Opportunity Center for mentally retarded children in Fort Worth.

The Campus Chest Drive, Feb. 26 to March 3, is the only money-raising campaign conducted on campus.

Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, Phi Delta Theta fraternity and the Homiletic Guild club captured the first trophies given for the most money contributed by clubs last year.

Events scheduled in previous years to aid the fund included the variety shows, Ugly-Man-On-Campus contests and convocations.

Co-directors of this year's variety show will be Miss Trisha Reeder, Amarillo junior and Bruce Neal, San Angelo junior. Dale Edmonds, Fort Worth junior, will preside as master of ceremonies.

Cost will not be more than 50 cents per person.

Last year the drive was notoriously low in donations. It fell far short of the goal, which incidentally was expressed by a slogan, "No goal, just heart and soul." The total collection of $700 was more than $300 below that of the year before.

The nature of the campaign, which indicated careful planning and leadership, wasn't to blame for the outstanding failure.

Students simply didn't give.
This lamentable state of affairs prompted Editor Bill Harrison to state in his Skiff column:

"It's obvious that the annual fiasco should be abandoned..."

"Ideally, Campus Chest has never been good... Giving is never good, in any sense, when it doesn't contain an element of sacrifice and real concern..."

Is abolition the answer and the conclusion to be that TCU students just don't care?

Students must decide that.

Thanks for the Backing

Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon and the Brannon Brats, also known as the Horned Frog varsity basketball team, are smiling at the attendance and student backing at the recent basketball games.

This year's cage representatives are off to one of their worst starts in TCU history, winning but three of 15 games. But the attendance is riding along at the same record peak that was present last season, when the Frogs won 17 of 24 games and finished second in the league chase.

Of Course, last year's team was considered title timber with the return of eight veterans and top-notch sophomores in Center Dick O'Neal and Guard Jimmy O'Brannon.

This club lost the title on the final night of play as Arkansas, used its most effective cannons of the season to blast the home folks, 110-89, and give the title to our cousins 30 miles east of Cowtown.

After TCU had dropped 10 of 12 warmup games this year, an estimated 3,000 turned out for the league opener with the traditional rival, University of Texas. Several things, of course, helped to attain this unusually high attendance figure.

One was the first varsity appearance of all-America gridman Jim Swink on the hardwoods; second, the shooting feats of Dick O'Neal, which could bring anybody out to see basketball; third, the expected duel of Texas' top pivotman and leading SWC scorer, Ray Downs, with O'Neal; and fourth, the 66-60 loss pinned earlier on the Frogs by the Longhorns in the annual pre-season tournament at Houston, two weeks previous.

That crowd helped.
Texas' Coach Slue Hull said the hot feats of O'Neal and presence of Swink could send anyone home with defeat, but he was amazed at the life and spirit of the student body which stuck with the Frogs down to the wire and a 73-67 upset victory.

Since then, the TCU delegation has dropped three games. And this coming Wednesday night, the Frogs will be meeting the highly-touted Rice Owls and their top-notch center, Temple Tucker.

On paper, the Frogs don't have a chance. In the Texas game, they weren't supposed to, either.

Let's have another Texas backing for this game and the remainder of the home games.

The Frogs appreciate it.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

Campus Mulligan

By DALE EDMONDS

With the cheery task of registration completed, the new term dawns bright with promise. The failings, and failures, of the past semester are dim, if unpleasant memories.

Now is the time for all good Froggies to come to the aid of their sagging grade-point averages and begin to study early in the semester. Then, when finals roll around, there won't be the frenetic, last-minute grappling for a passing grade.

Thank you, Dr. Richardson. But, good Froggies are few and fewer between, and with this new weed-killer they're putting on the grass, will be even fewer between.

This dawning-bright-with-promise of the new term brings to mind the two reasons why most people come to college — which, coincidentally, are verbatim the call of the Yellow-Breasted Sacksupper (as opposed to the box lunch).

The Sacksupper's call is, to wit: "tu-whit, tuwhoo," pronounced to wit, to woo.

And, if you follow our crystalline logic, these are undoubtedly prime bases for entrance into college, with emphasis on the latter.

Post Mortem: It is with deep regret that we note the passing of L. E. (Sonny) Burt, erstwhile publicity committee chairman, ballroom-decorator extraordinary, and enemy to all, be they not female.

His expert touch in all affairs artistic will be missed sorely around the SC.

Burial will be in a khaki coffin at Fort Hood, or a like locale. The body probably will be shipped overseas for more permanent interment at a later date.

Cause of death, after a lingering illness, was graduation.

Shatterscoting while wondering what ever happened to the third floor of the SC, Donna Kastle, The Skiff's all-American rating, fraternity and sorority houses, Dave Allred, the good five-cent anything, White Collie Dawg, the Intramural Open House and the sun:

The following are excerpts from Case Study No. 1, entitled "How to be a Loungescrounge," from the book "Social Behavior of the Human Male College Student."

Before getting started, if you have a single grade above a D, you'd better forget the whole thing. All F's are best, but if you have a D or so, you will be taken on probation.

The first thing you must learn in loungescrounging is how to sprawl. This is a technique in which you settle on the base of your spine in a chair, couch, or what-have-you, place one foot on the rung of another chair and jut the other leg into the path of passers-by.

One hand is used to brush the dandruff from your crew-cut, and the other is generally draped around the shoulders or, if she'll let you, waist of a nearby young lady.

Now, you are in position, next come the tools of the trade. You must cultivate (1) a loud, raucous voice; (2) a derisive laugh; (3) an extensive, pungent vocabulary with emphasis and phrases abhorrent to women; (4) snake-like agility of hands and arms, to frog a crony or encircle a young lady; and (5) a vacant, belligerent stare for anyone who approaches your lair.

You also must be able to (1) chew gum with a resonance akin to a howitzer's explosion; (2) slosh whatever you happen to be eating or drinking over your face and the faces of your companions; (3) kibitz with pure ignorance any game that is taking place; and (4) belch resoundingly, spraying your companions.

Now, you are on the firing line and armed to the teeth. The next step is to march into the lounge — and scrounge!

You're on your own, now, and if people laughed when you sat down at the piano, that is, at their table, before, have no fear. This time they'll get up disgustedly — the finest tribute we know that says, "You, sir, are a loungescrounge."

Thirty-nine dollars, please, and you don't have to bring a blue book.

SW Campus Confidential

By DAVE BROWN

NTSC

A Campus Chat columnist, writing a farewell column prior to his mid-year graduation, looked back over the years he had been there.

He remarked that during his stay North Texas had grown both in academic reputation and in prominence.

"People used to say to NT students, 'Are you going to be a teacher?' or 'That college is at Arlington, isn't it?'"

"They don't any more."

North Texas is coming up in the world. They've got a fine school there in McKinney.

Rice

In contrast to the heated discussions of the TCU Student Congress are the peaceful proceedings of the Rice Student Council.

Recently, according to the Rice Thresher, the council set up candy - vending machines around the campus and voted to have the draperies removed from the student TV lounge.

Commented the Thresher, "This is another step in the council's program for Sweetness and Light."

(Editor's note: The following letter was received shortly after the Cotton Bowl Game by Student Body President Aubrey Owen. The writer Jack Graf, held the same post last year. Graf now resides in San Antonio.)

Mr. Aubrey Owen
President of Student Body
Dear Aubrey:

Sitting in front of the television set on Jan. 2, I was highly elated during the half-time ceremony when I caught a glimpse of your beaming face and the glittering trophy which you were about to receive. Naturally, I immediately began to reminisce.

I want to extend my sincere congratulations to TCU for disapproving the fallacy connected with the Sportsmanship Trophy that it is presented as a consolation prize for the cellar team of the conference. It seems that TCU has won this honor under both extremes.

So hats off to you and the Student Association Congress for a job well done in helping to keep our school tops both on and off the field.

Express my regards to all the members of the Congress and accept my wish to all of you for a very happy and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely yours,
JACK GRAF

Talent Scouts Schedule Tryouts For Texas A&M, Baylor Shows

Talent scouts from Texas A&M and Baylor will be on the campus this month to select entertainers for intercollegiate shows.

Representatives from A&M will be at TCU from 2 to 4 p.m. Feb. 16, to audition prospective acts. The A&M group will be followed by Baylor, which will hold auditions during the same hours on Feb. 22.

Tryouts will be held in the Student Center ballroom. Interested persons should contact Miss Trisha Reeder, talent committee chairman, at Ext. 231.

The best acts will be invited to appear at A&M's G. Rollie White Coliseum April 13, in the Aggie fifth annual intercollegiate talent show. The Baylor event, sponsored by the Student Union and Delta Alpha Pi, will be presented March 10 in Waco Hall.

Miss Virginia Holm, a winner on Horace Heldt's Talent Show, was part of the 15-act show at A&M last year.

FAMOUS LAW CASES: NO. 1—GRANSMIRE VS. MIDDLE ATLANTIC BUS AND DRAY CO.

Gransmire, the plaintiff in this celebrated case, lived with his daughter Ernest and a canary named Whirlaway on Elm Street in Cooch, Delaware. The Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. started operating a bus line on Elm Street. The passing buses caused a cut-glass chandelier in the Gransmires' living room to begin tinkling. The chandelier tinkled in the key of E-flat. This so unnerved the canary, Whirlaway, whose key was C-sharp, that the poor bird moulted out of season, caught a chill, and died untimely.

Ernest, Gransmire's daughter, was herself so unsettled by the death of the canary that she flunked her final exams at the Bear's Head Beauty and Barber College, where she had been a promising student, majoring in bangs. Now removed, willy-nilly, from the skilled labor market, Ernest found work carrying a sandwich sign for the old Vienna Chow Mein parlor.

Here she met a bus-boy named Crunch Sigafos. Although Crunch was not especially attractive—he had, for one thing, a large bushy tail—he was always clean and neat and kept his shoes shined, and after a decent interval, he and Ernest were married.

Ernest soon learned that Crunch's large bushy tail was not as anomalous as she had supposed: Crunch was a werewolf. After a while Ernest got sick of staying home at night while her husband went prowling about, so she asked him to change her into a werewolf too, which he did with an ancient Transylvanian incantation. Then, together, the two of them would hop out each night and meet a lot of other werewolves and maybe kill a few chickens or hear some book reports or just lay around and shoot the breeze.

Meanwhile, Ernest and Crunch's landlady, a miser named Mrs. Augenblick, noticed that Ernest and Crunch never used their room at night, so she, in her greed, started renting it to transients. One night a Mr. Ffolliott stayed there. In the morning while brushing his hair, he took a bottle that looked like hair tonic out of the cabinet, poured some, and rubbed it vigorously into his scalp. Unfortunately, it was not hair tonic, but a bottle of glue which Ernest had bought to mend a model airplane that Crunch had given her for their paper wedding anniversary.

As a result of Mr. Ffolliott's grisly error, he was unable to remove his hat and was, therefore, barred from his usual occupation which was lecturing to women's clubs. He sued Mrs. Augenblick, who sued Ernest, who went to her father, who sued the Middle Atlantic Bus and Dray Co. who had started the whole horrid chain of events.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said the defense attorney in his opening address, "this case, though very ramified, is covered by law. Indeed, every facet of life is covered by law. Law governs the homes you live in, the cars you drive, the food you eat. Even the cigarette you smoke is strictly regulated. The gentleness, however, is Philip Morris's own idea. Out of their vast experience as tobacco people, out of their profound regard for the astuteness of your palate, the makers of Philip Morris have evolved a gentle, new cigarette, with a taste as mild as a May morn, as subtle as gossamer, as welcome as money from home. I thank you."

Whereupon everybody rushed to the tobacco counter to buy eight red, white and gold packs of Philip Morris and were all rendered so amiable after a few gentle puffs that the whole complicated case was dropped. This later became known as the Delaware Water Gap.

the makers of Philip Morris, sponsors of this column, rest our case on our new, gentle cigarette in our new, smart pack.

'Dim Lustre' Will Be Presented In Fort Worth by Ballet Theatre

MISS NORA KAYE

The Ballet Theatre, now making its 17th annual tour, will present the ballet, "Dim Luster," Feb. 16 at Will Rogers Memorial Auditorium.

Starring will be Miss Nora Kaye, who performed in Antony Tudor's "Romeo and Juliet" and "Pillar of Fire."

Other featured dancers will be Hugh Laing, Miss Rosella Hightower, Erik Braun and Lupe Serrano.

The Fort Worth program as a Tudor Ballet with music by Strauss, Lucia Chase and Oliver Smith are co-directors of the theatre, and Dimitri Romanoff is regisseur.

The company is now on its initial American tour, after performing throughout South America for the International Exchange Program of the American National Theatre and Academy.

The Ballet Theatre will be presented here by the Ballet Theatre Foundation, Inc., Blevins Davis, president, under the auspices of S. Hurok.

Tickets are on sale at the office of Mrs. John F. Lyons, Washer Bros. Mail orders will be filled promptly in order of receipt. Checks should be made payable to Mrs. Lyons.

77 Finish Degree Work; To Be Graduated in June

Seventy-seven students completed requirements for degrees at the close of the fall semester, Registrar Calvin A. Cumbie reported.

The students will receive their degrees June 1 since TCU does not have commencement exercises at the end of the fall term.

Faculty Luncheon Schedule Planned

The spring series of faculty luncheons in Weatherly Hall will get under way next Wednesday.

The luncheons will run 16 Wednesdays. Cost is $0.85 per meal or $12. for the semester.

Faculty members who do not purchase semester passes must make reservations by Monday afternoon of each week.

Entrance Test Grades Available to Freshmen

Grades of the entrance tests given to freshmen students last fall are now available, C. J. Firkins, dean of men and director of the testing bureau, announced.

The tests include the potential scholastic aptitude, interest and readership ability and knowledge of English.

Dean Firkins urged freshman students to check with their respective counselors regarding the test grades.

Magazine Takes Fictional 'Dig' At Frogland

The fame of TCU's grid-iron greats continues to spread unabated through the pages of national magazines.

Latest Frog footballer to be immortalized by an All-America selection is end Rockwell (Rocky) Hedd, Lampassas junior, an embalming major.

Hedd was chosen by "Mad" magazine in a section, entitled "MAD'S ALL-AMERICANS — SPOTLIGHTING BEST PLAYERS FROM POOREST SCHOOLS."

The story was marred, however, by an obvious typographical error — TCU was referred to as Texas College of Undertaking.

The Science Building was completed in 1952 at a cost of $2,200,000.

ON TWO WHEELS, almost, a hard-ridin' cowgirl takes a sharp turn in the girls' barrel race, a yearly feature at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show rodeo. Frogland inhabitants who attend the big show at today's special TCU Day will see lots of action like this. The show closes Sunday after a 10-day run, and rodeo champions will be crowned Sunday night. Barrel race contestant above is Miss LaTonne Sewalt of Alton, Okla.

Ramsey Starts Lecture Tour

Hartwell Ramsey, director of Ex-Student Activities, will leave Monday for a lecture tour to TCU exes in southern Louisiana and southeast Texas.

Tuesday night Mr. Ramsey will speak to members of the Southwest Louisiana Chapter of the Ex-Student Association at a meeting in Crowley, La.

Wednesday night he will meet with the New Orleans chapter. He will attend a dinner-meeting of the Sabine era chapter in Beaumont Thursday night.

Mr. Ramsey will meet with exes from the Palestine-Jacksonville-Rusk area Friday night at Palestine to discuss establishment of a chapter in that area.

PBX "Bookie" Shop

Campus Operator Adept at Numbers

Miss Pauline F. Jones, TCU's foremost "bookie," explains she has 106 books which she uses in her "numbers racket."

This bookie, however, is not of the illegal variety, as Miss Jones is the chief telephone operator, and she uses only phone books and numbers. The only odds she offers are on busy lines.

Her book collection consists of 106 telephone directories, representing cities from Nubia to Iowa Park and includes most states in the nation.

Miss Jones explains the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company grades PBX operators on their ability in producing the right number in out-of-town calls. Her grade was 87.2 in November.

The operators are cited, as banquets held at various intervals at Hotel Texas, she said. They are seated according to their efficiency-rating.

"I want to be right up at the speaker's table at the next banquet," she laughed. "Any contributions of out-of-town directories will help."

Richard Reed Will Be SC Publicity Chairman

Richard Reed, Dallas freshman, has replaced Sonny Burt, graduating senior from Waco, as chairman of the publicity committee of the Activities Council.

Burt had been publicity chairman since the Activities Council was established.

Water Course To Aid Farmers

The TCU Evening College will help farmers and ranchers battle drouth conditions in a course offered this spring for the fourth year.

The course, "Practical Soil and Water Conservation," will be taught by Arthur H. Courtade, instructor in soil conservation and veteran conservationist of the Dalworth Soil Conservation District.

"It has been demonstrated clearly that our farms and ranches can continue to operate at a profit with relatively little rainfall, but proper methods must be used," Mr. Courtade said. "We'll explore the whole area in a very practical way."

The class will meet from 7 to 9:40 p.m. each Wednesday.

Mary Courts Burnett Library receives more than 800 different periodicals and newspapers.

Marion Sails for Africa To Return in September

Robert Lee Marion, Jr., day from New Orleans en route to Casablanca, French Morocco, North Africa, to visit his father, C. R. P. Marion.

The elder Marion heads a construction crew building an airfield near Casablanca.

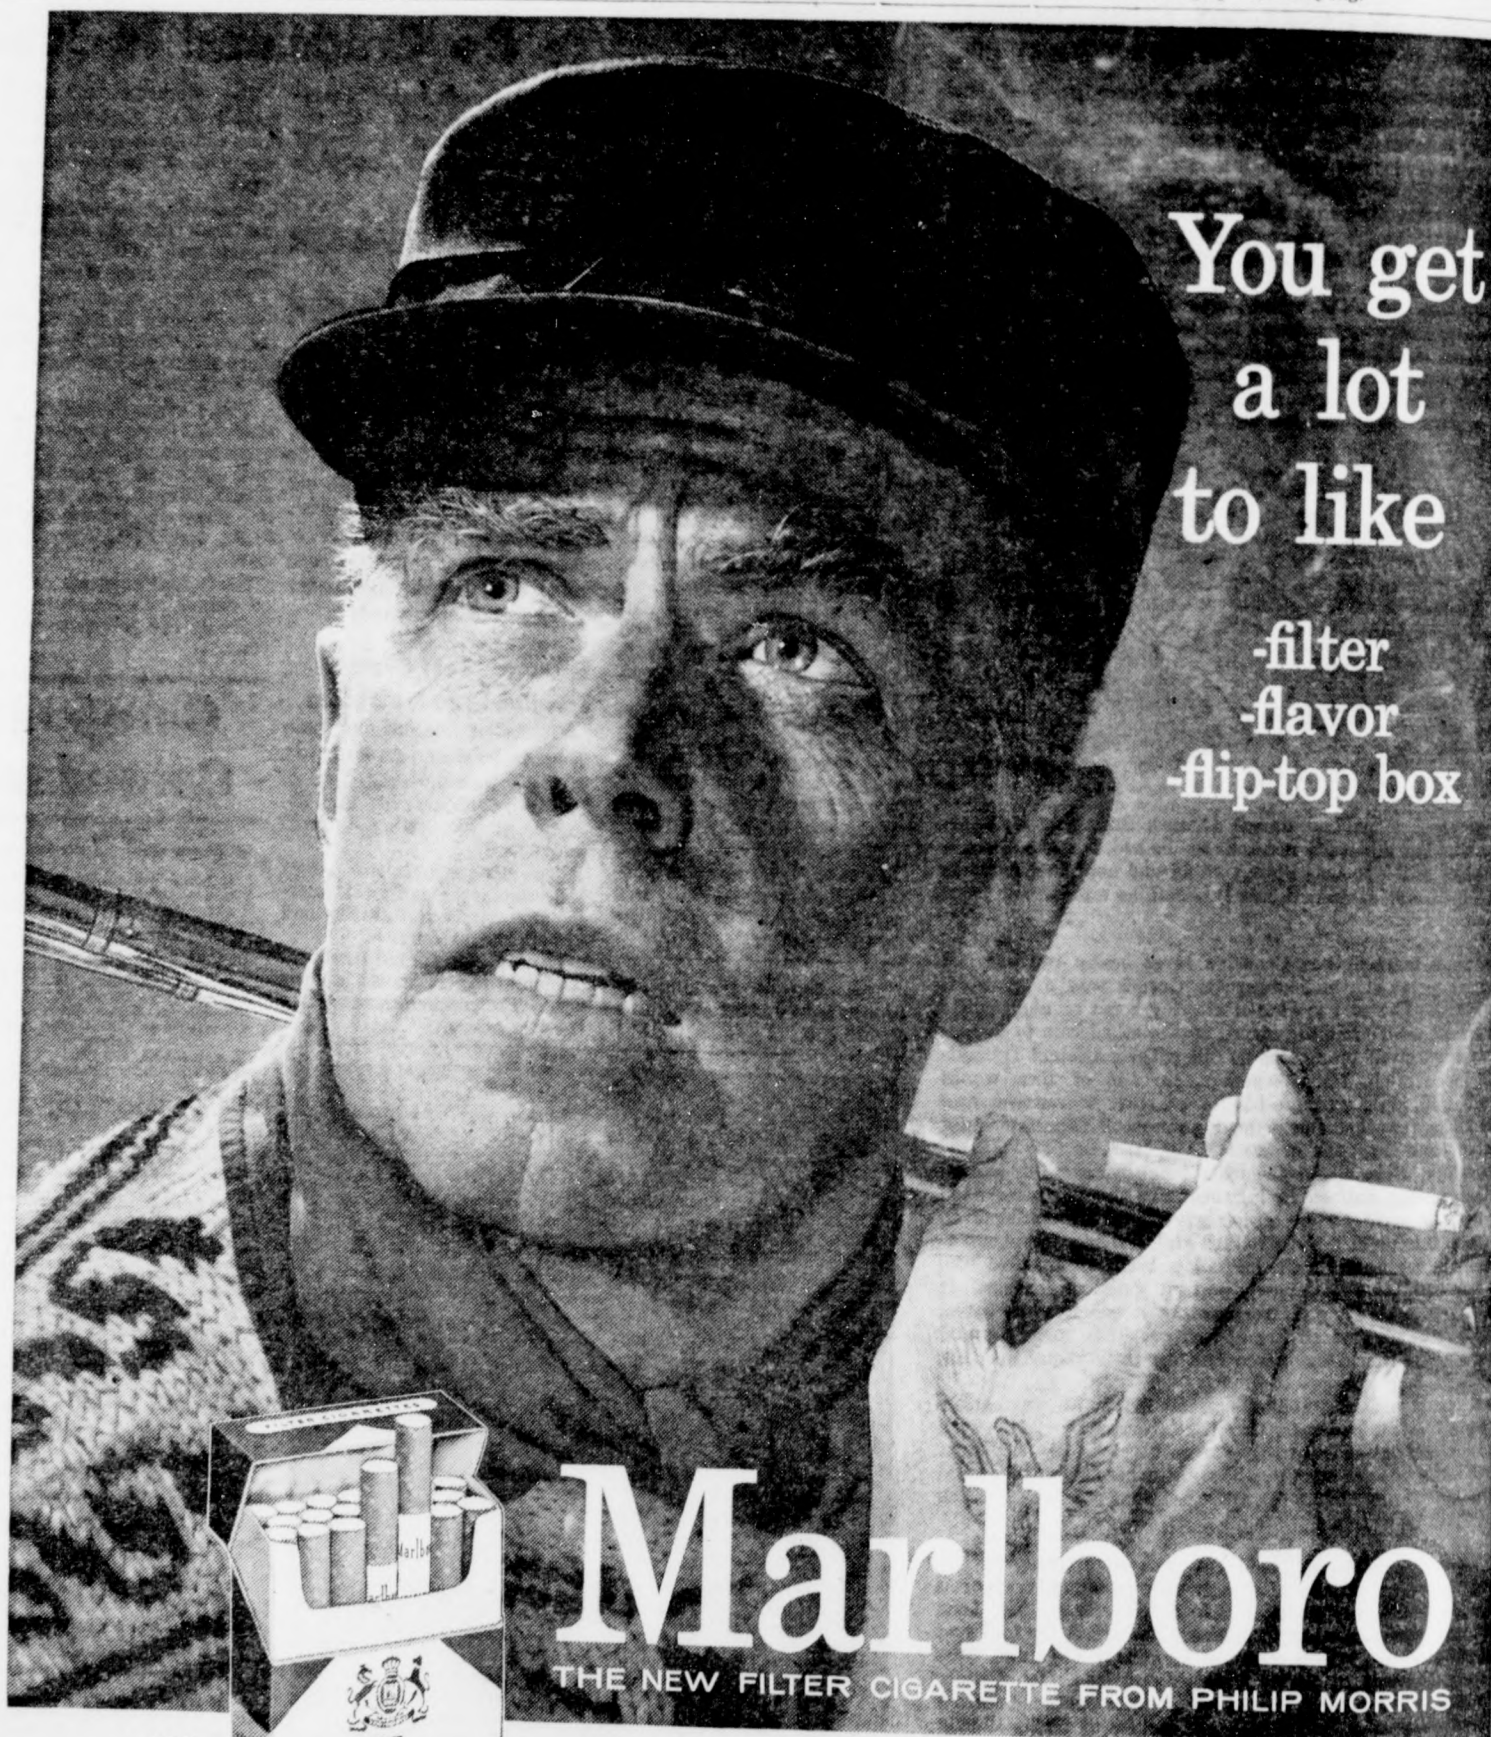

Marion is traveling aboard the SS Louise Lykes. He should arrive in Casablanca in about 14 days.

The journalism major plans to return in September to begin his senior year at TCU.

Foreign Study Miss Youngblood Is Offered Is Recovering

TCU students have the opportunity to study in Brazil, Israel and Scandinavia, Dean of Students Thomas F. Richardson announced.

The Brazil study is offered by the Uniao Cultural Brasil-Estados Unidos in Sao Paulo. The award is good for one academic year of study at the University of Sao Paulo. Closing date of competition is Jan. 30.

The Israel research fellowship is offered by the Israeli government through its Ministry of Education. The fellowship carries a stipend of about $900 to cover maintenance and incidentals. Closing date for applications is Feb. 15.

For $800 a TCU student can study in Denmark, Norway or Sweden. Tuition, room, board and travel in Scandinavia are included in the cost.

Students will take part in five weeks of orientation courses, live with families for six weeks and then attend folk schools, residential colleges where the principal emphasis will be on the study of the humanities.

Dallas Pastor to Speak At First Chapel Service

Chapel speaker for Tuesday will be Dean Harrison, minister of the Rosemont Christian Church in Dallas.

Mr. Harrison received his B.A. degree from TCU in 1934 and has studied at the University of Chicago. He held pastorates at Lakeview Mission Church in San Angelo, first Christian Church in Ennis, First Christian Church in Pecos and the Rosemont Christian Church, a position he has held for 11 years.

Mr. Harrison is the son of Mrs. Minnie L. Harrison, hostess in Foster Hall.

Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, injured when her car overturned near Denton Monday night, was expected to be released from Flow Memorial Hospital in Denton today.

The social director and journalism instructor suffered a slight concussion, sprained knee and severe bruises. Her leg was caught beneath the automobile and passersby had to jack up the car before she could be released.

X-rays indicated no fractures, her brother, the Rev. T. J. Youngblood of Arlington told The Skiff Wednesday afternoon. Miss Youngblood had driven to Denton to visit friends. She expects to return to her TCU duties shortly.

Old Style Ring Is Still Popular

About 37 per cent of the graduating students buying rings preferred the old style model, E. M. Moore, Book Store manager, said.

The new style ring, which went on sale early this semester, has a larger, rounded set of ruby, sapphire or amethyst, with Greek letter inscriptions optional.

Mr. Moore said the new ring is selling well, as attested by the fact that 63 per cent of the students bought them.

Though there may be some dispute as to which ring is best, the favorite finish is military regardless of ring style. More than 89 per cent of the students chose that finish.

White gold, yellow gold and rose gold finishes followed in that order in popularity.

Among the 20 top industries in the nation, the printing industry ranks third in the number of establishments, with 45,000 plants.

NEW AIR FORCE OFFICERS Claude N. Burns, Darrell D. Simmons and John W. Puckett take the oath from Capt. Twiford F. Schloeman at commissioning ceremonies in Clark Hall Saturday.

Six ROTC Members Receive Army, Air Force Commissions

At commissioning ceremonies Sunday, March H. Coffield, Joe Bob Craig and Norvell R. Tomlinson were commissioned as second lieutenants in the Army Reserve.

Lt. Coffield will go into the regular army as an officer in the Transportation Corps in January 1957. Lt. Craig will serve as an officer in the Infantry in April. Tomlinson will become an officer in the Finance Corps in July.

Following Air Force ROTC commissioning ceremonies Jan. 20, cadets John W. Puckett, Claude N. Burns and Darrell D. Simmons are newly-commissioned second lieutenants in the Air Force.

The formal ceremony was held at the ROTC building at 2 p.m. Capt. Twiford F. Schloeman administered the oath of office to the trio.

The lieutenants will go into active duty with the Air Force during the next few months, Capt. James B. Head, public information officer, said.

William E. Perryman, No-

cona senior, has been selected for appointment as a second lieutenant in the regular army.

Cadet Perryman will be commissioned during August after graduation. He is now serving as cadet lieutenant colonel in the Army ROTC.

Perryman was presented the Army Association Award for 1955 by Lt. Gen. S. F. Anderson. He has also been designated as a distinguished military student.

Printer's Words Still Usable

Ben's Language May Be Archaic, But Give Him Credit for Brains

By DAVE BROWN

Have you ever been "stopped" over in the Student Center by some wise guy's bright remarks?

Is all your clever repartee thought up on the way home from the party?

Have you ever wished you could think up spur-of-the-moment comebacks to the conversational gems of others?

There's an easy, simple way to do it. Simply memorize a few of the more choice sayings of one B. Franklin, Printer, who was born 250 years ago last week.

Brown

In addition to being a salesman, statesman and writer, the versatile Franklin appears to have spent the major part of his spare time concocting 18th Century wisecracks.

Though the language in most of them is archaic, the point is still there, and anyone with enough education to get into TCU should be able to understand what you are saying.

For instance, the next time some junior - grade "conman" wonders why his old man yells so much about the twice-a-month check he's asked to fork over, tell him:

"If you would know the value of money, try to borrow some."

While you're on the subject of money, remind him of the $5 he borrowed six months ago, and when he says he doesn't remember even borrowing it, tell him:

"Creditors have better memories than debtors."

Film Series On Evolution Completed

A color film strip series, "The World We Live In," has been completed by the biology department with the arrival of the final volumes of the 13-part collection.

The films, reproductions from a series of articles in Life magazine, open with the beginning of the earth and follow the chronological development of the world to the age of mammals. The topics then expand to show the various life forms of the present.

Each film strip contains about 20 illustrations.

The department also has the series in book form. Both forms were praised by Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, chairman of the department.

"The series, particularly the illustration, is excellent for educational purposes and is a great supplement to our teaching facilities in the sciences and humanities," he said.

The film strips will be made available by the department to instructors wishing to use them.

strums the zither until all hours, hit him with this old favorite:

"Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise."

In lieu of this, a chair will do just as well. The last of those three virtues could have been quite enjoyable during test week.

Those who've visited the used car dealer of late, hoping to afford a moth-eaten, second-hand, '56 Cadillac, will agree with Franklin, who said:

"At a great pennyworth pause awhile. Many are ruined by buying bargains."

And, if you're even tempted to purloin a term paper from someone else, remember the good printer's admonition:

"If you would have a faithful servant, and one that you like, serve yourself."

Old Ben had a word for the gay young blade who is contemplating marriage, too.

"Keep your eyes wide open before marriage," he said, "and half shut afterward."

Concerning either marriage or tests, the college student is likely to feel like Franklin's well-known "fish between two cats."

Especially marriage.

And when a friend is about to flunk out and still doesn't feel like studying, simply remind him:

"Sloth makes all things difficult; industry all things easy."

You've got him then. Unless, of course, he's familiar with Franklin's favorite saying:

"There's more old drunkards than old doctors."

Frog '5' Battles Rice Wednesday, Fights to Avoid Conference Cellar

Fading fast toward the cellar spot in 1956 Southwest Conference cage competition, the TCU Horned Frogs meet the powerful Rice Owls at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Public Schools Gymnasium.

Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon's forces, who hold a disappointing 3-15 record to date in season play, will be fighting to keep out of seventh place in the SWC standings.

For the Frogs, the starting lineup probably will consist of center Richard O'Neal, 6-7; forwards Johnny Betts, 6-4, and Johnny Dickerson, 6-5; and guards Captain Bill Estill, 6-1, and Jim O'Bannon, 6-1.

Coach Don Suman's Owls, who trail loop-leading Arkansas and SMU by two games in the current title chase, are expected to open with center Temple Tucker, 6-10; forwards

Joe Durrenberger, 6-7, and Fred Woods, 6-3; and guards Dale Ball, 6-0, and Gerry Thomas, 6-2.

The Owls dumped TCU, 80-60, at Houston Jan. 10 in the two clubs' only other collision this year.

Rice probably will place a two or three-man defensive "sag" on O'Neal, who has been the Purple's only real offensive threat during the season.

The game will match the SWC's two top point producers in O'Neal and Tucker. They were tied with 400 points each through 17 encounters.

The Christians have suffered considerably from a lack of adequate rebounding strength.

The Frogs scared the league-leading Arkansas Razorbacks Wednesday night the Public Schools gym, but their late rally fell short, and the Hogs claimed the game, 74-72.

The Purple fought back to give the Porkers a battle after being behind 14 points midway in the second half. Richard O'Neal was high-point man for the Frogs with 28. O'Neal also grabbed 16 rebounds as the Frogs backboard game materially improved.

Manuel Whitely, ace Razorback forward, was Arkansas' high-point man with 21.

O'Neal's 28 points gave him an 18 point lead in the conference scoring race. Rice's Temple Tucker is second.

In SMU's 105-64 bashing of the Frogs Saturday night at Dallas the Ponies held a 42-25 edge in rebounds, with Jim Krebs, Joel Krog, Larry Showalter and Tom Miller sweeping the boards consistently all night.

Trailing 31-50 at halftime, TCU fell further behind as the second half progressed.

O'Neal led all scorers with 28 points, but the Mustangs had four men hitting in double figures in the scoring column to offset O'Neal's big burst.

Showalter led the Ponies with 16 points.

After the Rice battle, TCU will travel to Austin Feb. 11 for a game with the Texas Longhorns. TCU dropped the cellar-dwelling Steers, 73-67, Jan. 4, for the Frogs' only league triumph so far this season.

Mural Cagers Must Register By Tomorrow

Teams planning to enter intramural basketball competition have until tomorrow night to fill out registration sheets in the Gymnasium and Student Center Lounge, Student Intramural Director Van Rathgeber announced.

A schedule will be posted in the Gymnasium Monday morning, and play will begin Tuesday afternoon, Rathgeber said.

Fraternity games will be held Wednesday afternoons and Thursday nights. Independent contests are slated for Tuesday afternoons and Wednesday nights.

Independent teams already signed up include the Knickerbockers, Rockheads, Vigilantes, Acuna Kids, Hot Rods, Seminars, Outlaws, Independents, Engineers and All Stars.

Some fraternities plan to enter more than one team and each fraternity will have at least one squad. For this reason, fraternities and independents will be about equally represented in the program, Rathgeber added.

Delta Tau Delta will enter the competition as last year's defending champions.

Phi Delta Theta is this year's intramural volleyball champion after defeating Delta Tau Delta two straight games of a planned three-game set, 15-7 and 15-3, in the finals held Jan. 25.

Phi Delta Theta will receive a championship trophy.

SPORTLIGHT

By LARRY ROSEBOROUGH

Actually, this should be a finale.

This should be the last item in the Skiff by one of the greatest sports editors in the history of same.

Namely, me.

This is probably the last column to appear in said Skiff with the magic words "By Larry Roseborough" at the top, as it'll probably turn out to be more of the same stuff you've gotten so tired of reading through the semester.

You see, I'm resigning my post as sports editor of the Skiff—oops, pardon me. That should read Skiff.

But I don't feel so bad at handing in my resignation for two reasons.

(1) Jim Brock, who will take over from now until the end of the year, is a good man and

(2) the Skiff editor told me if I didn't quit, he would be out of town on a rail.

But, as long as I am still able to continue to peck out stories with the usual undaunted style, I would like to hand out a few thank-yous to various people in and out of school.

First, to Jerre Todd, who by the simple media of taking 27 hours in one semester, plus working 48 hours weekly at another Fort Worth publication, became strangely unable to take the job as sports editor, thereby dropping the monkey on my back, my sincerest thanks.

Second, to my staff, for the many new gray hairs I now possess due to their failure to get in stories on time for the simple reason "the sports editor didn't get the assignments up on time," my sincerest thanks.

Third, to George Smith, for the unwavering enthusiasm shown in helping with makeup of the paper, and also for taking so many pictures four weeks late, my sincerest thanks.

Fourth, to Jim Hendricks, best of luck with your ulcer, and for the oft-assigned, never-received "Estill feature," my sincerest thanks.

Fifth, to Lantz Feris, who switched runs in the middle of the year from the general run to sports and still doesn't know what he's doing, for the likewise oft-assigned, never-received "Rathgeber feature," my sincerest thanks.

Sixth, to journalism adviser Dr. Warren Agee, for the constant notes in my reminder box "If you're really serious about graduating next year, you'd better start coming to class more often," my sincerest thanks.

Seventh, to Dale Edmonds, for his unerring choice of synonyms, and also for immortalizing my name in "Campus Mulligan," I hereby immortalize his name in "Sportlight." Also, my sincerest thanks.

Eighth, to Miss Suzy Strickland, who has since departed and isn't here to defend herself, for the constant challenge "When are you going to write an editorial?" my sincerest thanks.

And ninth, last but not least, to Earl Zetsche, who was always brightening my life with such never-before-approached incomparable bits of wisdom as "Well, if this rain keeps up, won't come down."

Light Grid Starters to Return As Spring Drills Open Monday

By JIM HENDRICKS
TCU's defending Southwest Conference football champions today will open two weeks' drills.

Returning are eight of 11 starters who led the Frogs to a 9-1 record during the campaign. Lost are senior Hugh Pitts, All-America center; Captain Bryan Engram, All-SWC end; and Ray Taylor, hard-running halfback and ace punter.

Returnees from the 1955 lineup are end O'Day Williams, tackles Norman Hamilton and Don Cooper, guards Don Uecker and Joe Wilk, quarterback Chuck Curdia, halfback Jim Swink and back Vernon Hallbeck, all varsity-to-be.

Swink was a consensus All-America last season, shattering rushing and scoring records. Curtis and Hamilton were all-conference picks. Competing for Engram's end slot will be juniors Nikkel, Frank Windegg and Chico Mendoza. All Mendoza saw action at flank post last year.

Williams will be shifted left guard to center to fill vacated spot. The left job probably will go to Jay McCullough.

Wineburg, No. 2 right through last season, is the leading contender for that position. Jim Shofner, who ran behind Swink last year, also will have a thorough trial at the former berth, as well as halfback and fullback.

Hallbeck may be shifted back to guard, the position he played as a freshman and sophomore. If he is, the fullback post probably will go either to Harold Pollard or Hank Crowsey, both junior lettermen, returning for their final years.

Buddy Dike, fullback star of 1954 who laid out last year because of a kidney injury, may take part in the spring workouts.

Several men will be competing for the No. 2 quarterback slot, Richard Finney, who took charge in the Cotton Bowl game after Curtis' injury, is the leading contender. But junior Delzon Elenburg and holdout Frank Hyde will be watched closely.

Hunter Enis, 1955 freshman standout, also will be a prominent figure in the battle for the second-string man-under spot.

Four men have been lost because of scholastic difficulties. Fullbacks Jim Phipps, 1955 holdout, and Bobby Bounds, freshman star, failed to get over the hump, but Bounds will remain in school and retain his eligibility. Freshman end Pat Norwood dropped out before fall semester final exams.

Curtis, who suffered two broken ribs in the Cotton Bowl encounter, should be ready for the spring sessions. Swink won't participate because of basketball duties.

Coach Martin is optimistic about his team's chances in the coming season, but he still has set several goals to be attained during the next two weeks.

"I'd like to come up with two really good teams of about equal strength," he said.

"With all the experience we have, we may be able to do it. These days, you have to have two boys at every position who can go."

This is the second time in two years a TCU cheerleader has left school at mid-year. Miss Nancy Stevens, a 1954-55 selection, completed degree requirements in January, 1955.

Letters, Awards To Be Presented At Grid Banquet

TCU's Southwest Conference champions will be honored at the University's annual football banquet at 6:30 p.m. today in the Student Center ballroom.

Award winners and 1955 lettermen will be named at the event, sponsored by the University's Athletic Council. Dr. Henry Hardt, SWC faculty representative, will preside.

The Dan D. Rogers Award, oldest individual honor accorded by a conference school, will be presented to the team's most valuable player. The award, begun in 1925 by Rogers, late Dallas banker, has gone to such former Frog greats as Sammy Baugh, Davey O'Brien, Johnny Vaught and Lindy Berry.

The Frogs' "most conscientious player" will receive the J. W. (Grassy) Hinton Award from Athletic Director L. R. (Dutch) Meyer.

Other awards will include the G. L. Perkinson trophy for the "best downfield blocker" and the new Y. Q. McCammon Award for the "most valuable squadman," a player who did not letter.

Jim Swink, the Christians' ground-gobbling halfback, will receive all-America certificates from Harold Ratliff and Ed Fite, representing the Associated Press and United Press, respectively.

Amos Melton, director of Information Services and athletic publicity, will present a scroll from the Helms Foundation to Meyer.

Frog Goes With Hardt To Meetings, Contests

By ROGER SUMMERS

When Dr. Henry B. Hardt travels to meetings of the National Collegiate Athletic Association as vice president of the sixth district, he makes certain other delegates will know what school he represents.

Each time the chemistry department chairman goes to conferences, he wears on his tie a solid-gold horned frog about the size of a dime.

"My gold horned frog travels with me everywhere," Dr. Hardt said. "I wouldn't go off without it."

The emblem has been a traveling mate with Dr. Hardt for several years. He also wears it to TCU athletic contests and to class about once a week.

The life-like replica of the TCU mascot was made for Dr. Hardt by his brother-in-law and a dentist.

"They put a real horned frog in a plaster cast and made the mold," Dr. Hardt recalled. "Then they melted down some old jewelry and poured it into the mold."

The horned frog sacrificed for the mold must have done its part to help out too, because even the tips of the tail and the crevices in the skin stand out.

"He has that naturally rough Horned Frog finish," Dr. Hardt said. "I'm glad he's made out of pure gold, solid gold — just like the rest of the Horned Frogs."

Dr. Hardt has taken a genuine interest in sports since coming to TCU a decade ago. During that 10 years he has represented TCU on the NCAA, has served on the SWC committee and on TCU's athletic council.

"I told Dutch Meyer no one shed more tears over the loss at the Cotton Bowl contest than we did over here in the chemistry department the morning after the game," Dr. Hardt said.

"But our eyes weren't red because we lost — one of the boys over here dropped and broke a bottle of liquid tear gas and it sorta' caught us off guard."

Dr. Hardt's first love is chemistry. But his first interest is seeing that wherever his duties might take him the Horned Frogs, and their mascot, are represented — literally.

Annual Creative Writing Contests Open to Undergraduates, Exes

Creative minds are always at work. Joe's trying to invent a way to keep a still from smelling up the dorm while Joan's experimenting with a sure way to catch a man. But TCU's annual creative writing contests endeavor to channel these efforts into producing more lasting contributions.

This year's Creative Writing Day has been set tentatively for May 10, when awards in 11 contests will be presented in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Deadline for entries probably will be April 13, Miss Mabel Major, chairman of the creative writing committee, said.

All TCU undergraduates may enter any or all of the following contests: Walter E. Bryson—poetry, short story, drama, Southwest literature, non-fiction prose and the Lena Agnes Johnson literature for children contests. A $10 award will be given in each contest.

Freshmen may enter one entry in each class of the four offered: narrative of fact, fiction, essay or research. Freshmen entering must have been enrolled in English 311a or 311b between June 1955 and May 1956. The winners will receive $5.

The Margie B. Boswell poetry contest is for graduates and ex-students only. Prize is $25.

Program for the event is planned by the creative writing committee. Members are Miss Major, Mrs. Artemisia Bryson, Dr. Louise Cowan, Dr. Estus Polk, Miss Lorraine Shirley and Mrs. Mary Fisher.

"The purpose of the contests is to stimulate students to develop their abilities in writing creatively through entering competition with other students and receiving criticism from competent sources," said Miss Major.

Three judges for each contest are chosen by the English faculty to decide winners in each contest. This year's judges have not been selected.

Rules are available at the English department.

CHEMIST'S VIEW OF WOMAN GIVES APT DESCRIPTION

CHAMBLEE, GA.—(ACP)—The Technician, published by students at the Southern Technical Institute, recently took a scientific view of the female of the species. It printed this description of a woman as seen through the eyes of a chemist.

SYMBOL: WO

ACCEPTED ATOMIC WEIGHT: 120 lbs.

PHYSICAL PROPERTIES: Boils at nothing and freezes any minute; melts when properly treated; very bitter if not well used.

OCCURENCE: Found wherever man exists.

CHEMICAL PROPERTIES: Possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside better-looking specimen.

USES: Highly ornamental; useful as a tonic in acceleration of low spirits, and an equalizer of the distribution of wealth. Is probably the most effective income-reducing agent known.

CAUTION: Highly explosive in inexperienced hands.

10-Cent Shows To Be Monthly

Girls' uniforms, the fish pond and the old field house have vanished from the TCU campus and now the weekly 10-cent movie is on the way out too.

The spring semester will see movies shown in the Student Center ballroom only once a month. Films will be either foreign, classical, or both. Admission will still be 10 cents.

The weekly movie is being discontinued due to losses on all but two films, "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" and "The Thing," shown this semester. The forums committee has lost approximately $100 of the $133 allotted for movies at the beginning of the term.

The film fund is bolstered by the $33 profit from last spring. Bill Finley, Marshall senior, believes that this $35 and the $33 left from last semester will be enough to last through the spring semester if movies are shown only once a month. He also hopes that more students will attend movies if emphasis is put on quality instead of quantity.
