Dazed

This college business is sometimes gasp-provoking. Miss Ann Lampkin, Tulsa, Okla., freshman, returns to her dorm after visiting to the University Store for a semester's worth of reading material.

Hazed

And then, of course, if you're a girl and a freshman, you must put up with the "button" act—something that the sophomore "taskmasters" think is just fine for entertaining upperclassmen and giving a newcomer something to do with her spare time.

Amazed

But life has its rewarding moments, as Ann discovers. You can always wind up being Howdy Week Queen. She's getting her trophy at the Howdy Week dance from Carl Rose, Waco senior, who's got his mind on the upcoming kiss, it appears.

Registration Rockets; May Top 6,000 Mark

TCU's enrollment figure hit a walloping 5,754 at noon Wednesday.

Astonished administrative officials found that student population had increased by a staggering 24 per cent over last fall's enrollment — far more than anticipated.

Registrar Calvin A. Cumble said total enrollment likely would top 6,000 by the close of registration at noon tomorrow.

This compares with a previous all-time high of 4,629 students in 1949 when the veteran influx was at its crest.

Dormitory, Student Center, Cafeteria, classroom and other facilities were strained almost to the breaking point, each posing its own crucial problem for administrative and student leaders to solve.

Undergraduate day school enrollment stood at 3,113. The Graduate School had 340, the Evening College, 2,145 and Brite College 147. Each category set new records.

Undergraduate day school enrollment, for example, was up 20 per cent. The Graduate School was 4 per cent, and Brite's 13 per cent.

"The most significant increase," Mr. Cumble said, "is the 37 per cent gain in the Evening College turnout."

New freshmen total 845 alone, and 317 other students have transferred to TCU. Each represents an all-time record.

Tomorrow will be the last day for changes of schedules, reminds Registrar Calvin A. Cumble.

The last day for dropping a course with a grade of "W" will be Friday, Oct. 19.

$700,000 More Sought To Triple Library Size

By SHELBY HAGER

Administrators started the last lap this week of their Library fund-raising campaign, lacking about $700,000 of reaching the $1 million goal.

Dr. O. James Sowell, director of university development, said only one-third of the money has been raised, with about nine months left to obtain the rest.

"This drive has moved much more slowly than we had expected," Dr. Sowell said, "and this particular project is vital to the University's future growth."

Plans call for the remodeling of the present building and the addition of new wings which will triple the size. The increased area will make it possible to open book stacks to students who like to browse.

"More than 12,000 volumes are now stored around the campus in crates," Dr. Sowell explained. "We will get these books on the shelves and provide room for better display of books already in use."

Areas will be provided for major fields of study such as law, literature, religion, and science.

Buildings valued at $4,200,000 are presently under construction on the campus. Two dormitories on the south side of University Dr. and a business-journalism building on the north were started this summer.

The three-story building housing the School of Business and journalism department will cost approximately $700,000. The two dormitories will cost about $1 million each.

One of the dormitories will house fraternity men and the other sorority women. Meeting rooms, kitchens and other special features required in the plans.

The journalism department will share the business building, to be known as Dan D. Rogers Hall. It has been allotted the south wing on the first floor for printing, photographic and other journalistic facilities.

An addition to TCU Amon Carter Stadium will be completed soon. The new section will increase the seating capacity to 47,000. It has cost approximately $1,250,000.

Other buildings completed within the past five years include the Brown-Lupton Student Center, the Religion Center and the Pete Wright dormi-

The Student Center was opened in 1955. It is valued at more than $1 million. (See Library, Page 7)

Candidates in Campus Elections Must Register by 5 p.m. Today

Politics will hit the campus next week, with voting beginning Thursday in fall elections.

Four class presidents, three freshmen, three sophomores and six lowerclass Congress representatives will be selected.

All persons wishing to run for office must file by 5 p.m. today. The blanks are available at the Student Center information booth. The candidates will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in Room 210 of the Student Center to draw for places on the ballot.

Both freshmen and sophomores are eligible for the six lower-class representative posts. Others must be a member of the class they wish to represent.

Voting will take place from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Thursday and Friday in the first floor of the Student Center and from 9 a.m. to noon in the School of Business and the Fine Arts Building.

Bob Randolph, new election committee chairman, will supervise the proceedings.

Any necessary runoffs will be held the following week. All winners must receive a majority vote.

A $10 limit has been set on campaign expenses. Campaigning may begin at 10 p.m. Monday, but no signs will be allowed in or on the Student Center or in the Administration Building. All signs must be taken down by 6 p.m. next Friday unless the candidate is in a runoff race.

A statement of expenses is to be turned in to Student Association President Joe Latham by 6 p.m. Oct. 9.

Congress will meet this year at 6 p.m. each Tuesday.

Compton Will Speak

Dr. M. Compton of New York, president of the Council for Financial Aid to Education, will speak at the annual fall convocation at 11 a.m. Thursday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

President M. E. Sadler will preside at the campus-wide event which opens each school year.

Dr. Compton served as U. S. delegate to the United Nation's General Assembly in 1949 and 1950. He has been active in business and governmental affairs many years.

For two years he was administrative Information Service and chairman of the Psychological Operations Co-ordinating Board.

3rd Floor Opening Set for Next Month

The third floor of the Student Center will open sometime next month if furniture buying continues on schedule, Tony Foy announced this week.

The Fort Worth senior is heading the committee to decorate the upper floor, tentatively named Room 300. The 64x24-ft. room will be decorated in shades of blue with a black and white tile floor.

Furniture from the first-floor Student Center lounge will be used in the new room. Some of these pieces are now being recovered to match the color scheme. New furniture is being ordered for the first floor lounge.

Still to be purchased are draperies, a piano, lamps, chairs, ash trays and a few other items.

The room will accommodate 75 to 100 persons, Foy estimated.

One wall is painted dark blue as are the three columns in the center of the room. The other three walls and ceiling are light blue. Tables will be black or white with formica

Directory Bids Being Accepted

Written bids to edit the 1956-57 Student Directory will be accepted by Student Association President Joe Latham until 6 p.m. Tuesday.

The contract for the job will be awarded at Student Congress meeting Tuesday. Any student may submit a bid.

The job entails compiling the names of all students, alphabetizing them, typing, submitting the copy to the printer and proofreading.

378 Join Greek Ranks; Soro Rush Continues

A total of 378 students — 260 women and 118 men — have pledged Greek-letter organizations thus far.

In the early 1920's a flood of celebrities and famous persons made appearances on the TCU campus. Among these personalities were Robert Frost and Vachel Lindsay, poets, William Jennings Bryan, politician, and Paderewski, the pianist. Best selling book in the world is the Bible. Fine Arts Dean Hull Finds Texas-Sized Job

By JANE REDDELL

A Texas-sized job greeted the new dean of Fine Arts, Dr. Robert Hull, his first time in the Lone Star state.

From Cornell University, known as "Cow College" in the Ivy League circles because of its agricultural branch, Dr. Hull feels at home at Cowtown's TCU.

Having never been farther west than Kansas City, he is anxious to hear his first Texas Longhorn speaker — "with a point here, a point there, and a lot of bull in the middle."

As dean, Dr. Hull heads the nine departments of the School of Fine Arts and is director of the University Chorus.

Dr. Hull received his B.A. and M.A. in music at the University of Rochester and his Ph.D. in composition and musicology at Cornell, where he was director of university music.

His special interest is in the music field, and he plays violin and viola. Where music is concerned, Dr. Hull considers his wife, Jeanne, his best and most severe critic.

An admirer of all good music, Dr. Hull has won composition contests in the field of contemporary music. His compositions have been performed in North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New York.

He also has written recording and music reviews for the music library's national magazine and has conducted the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra and Rochester Civic Orchestra.

For the past two years, Dr. Hull has served on the board of the American League of College, Community and Professional Symphony Orchestras. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors, American Federation of Music and the American Music Society.

Photography gains the spotlight as his hobby. Many an evening at the Hull home is spent in viewing his collection of 800 color slides of Europe.

In his college days, Dr. Hull was active in track, tennis and football but is now content with golf, which he says is one sport you can play a lifetime.

Dr. Hull has lived in New York, North Carolina and the Middle West but says Texas has the best features of all three plus more. He was looking forward to seeing the Texas sky, which he had heard was "larger than our sky in New York."

Most of Dr. Hull's time here these past three weeks has been an "orientation" period but he proudly states as a baby Texan, "I've learned one good word since I've come to TCU — Howdy."

OPERATION UNPACK is under way for new dean of the School of Fine Arts, Dr. Robert Hull. Dr. Hull, former director of university music at Cornell, was once a confirmed "Yankee" but now is a proud "baby" Texan. His first time in Texas, Dr. Hull heads one of the largest Fine Arts colleges in the Southwest.

Campus Mulligan

Trash Canned by Love

By DALE EDMONDS

The year's first Frogland Fable concerns an eternal verity, known by many names — none printable — so we'll settle for its scandal magazine tag — love.

Strangely enough, this first Fable also concerns Joe Trash, our campus pipeline.

The first day of Howdy Week, Joe was cruising down University Dr. in his ochre Roadmaster when suddenly he smashed into a green-capped freshman who had been leaping nimbly through the traffic.

Normally Joe would have remained unperturbed, scraped the prostrate figure from his path, and continued about his cruising.

But this time it was different, for the front portion of his auto had crumpled upon initial contact with said freshman, whose calves rivaled those of Norman Hamilton.

Joe leaped to the ground, his knees buckled under him (Ivy League, you know), and he fell into the arms of what he had thought was his victim.

She stroked him about the head and ears with her shoulder bag and murmured gently, "Whyn'tcha watch where yer goin'?"

Thus was born the romance of Joe Trash and said freshman, whom we shall henceforward call Effie G., for the sake of discretion and because of libel laws.

At all the Howdy Week activities, Joe and Effie were seen locked arm in arm, Joe staring dreamily at Effie, Effie staring dreamily at the other males.

Finally, after the excitement of the week subsided and she saw she couldn't get another date, Joe and Effie drove to a scenic location overlooking Benbrook Lake, and there sat for hours, saying nothing, slapping mosquitoes, drinking quinine water.

Boldly Joe took Effie into his arms. "Effie G.," he said, "Tell me, how do you feel? Tell me I'm not doomed to wander lone this city's dark streets."

"Joe," she whispered, her eyes brimming with tears, "Do you know how to make a baby buggy?"

Afraid to hear his own voice, Joe answered through clenched teeth, "No, dearest, but . . ."

"Tickle his feet," Effie roared, and smacked her knee smartly with her outstretched palm.

"Oh, Effie, you've made me the happiest man in the world," blurted Joe, and slipped the band off his Melba onto her finger.

"Barf," said Effie, and scratched her ankle.

Moral: It is better to have loved and lost, if she's anything like Effie; or, when in doubt, hand an Effie G.

Shatterscoting while wondering whatever happened to Bruce Neal:

Something should be done about the lines in the Cafeteria, like letting me in front of them . . .

There are almost three girls for every boy on the TCU campus. Wish they would begin parcelling them out . . .

Nothing quite like the atmosphere at the Park Hill apartments at good - night time, a reliable source informs us. Soft lights, rustic balconies — like an Elizabethan courtyard, they say . . .

Frequently the chief difference between a freshman and an upperclassman is a year or more of college.

For a while in the 1880's women students at TCU, then AddRan College, were not permitted to wear jewelry.

Fine Arts Dean Hull Finds Texas-Sized Job

By JANE REDDELL

A Texas-sized job greeted the new dean of Fine Arts, Dr. Robert Hull, his first time in the Lone Star state.

From Cornell University, known as "Cow College" in the Ivy League circles because of its agricultural branch, Dr. Hull feels at home at Cowtown's TCU.

Having never been farther west than Kansas City, he is anxious to hear his first Texas Longhorn speaker — "with a point here, a point there, and a lot of bull in the middle."

As dean, Dr. Hull heads the nine departments of the School of Fine Arts and is director of the University Chorus.

Dr. Hull received his B.A. and M.A. in music at the University of Rochester and his Ph.D. in composition and musicology at Cornell, where he was director of university music.

His special interest is in the music field, and he plays violin and viola. Where music is concerned, Dr. Hull considers his wife, Jeanne, his best and most severe critic.

An admirer of all good music, Dr. Hull has won composition contests in the field of contemporary music. His compositions have been performed in North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New York.

He also has written recording and music reviews for the music library's national magazine and has conducted the Buffalo Philharmonic Orchestra and Rochester Civic Orchestra.

For the past two years, Dr. Hull has served on the board of the American League of College, Community and Professional Symphony Orchestras. He is a member of the American Association of University Professors, American Federation of Music and the American Music Society.

Photography gains the spotlight as his hobby. Many an evening at the Hull home is spent in viewing his collection of 800 color slides of Europe.

In his college days, Dr. Hull was active in track, tennis and football but is now content with golf, which he says is one sport you can play a lifetime.

Dr. Hull has lived in New York, North Carolina and the Middle West but says Texas has the best features of all three plus more. He was looking forward to seeing the Texas sky, which he had heard was "larger than our sky in New York."

Most of Dr. Hull's time here these past three weeks has been an "orientation" period but he proudly states as a baby Texan, "I've learned one good word since I've come to TCU — Howdy."

OPERATION UNPACK is under way for new dean of the School of Fine Arts, Dr. Robert Hull. Dr. Hull, former director of university music at Cornell, was once a confirmed "Yankee" but now is a proud "baby" Texan. His first time in Texas, Dr. Hull heads one of the largest Fine Arts colleges in the Southwest.

Trash Canned by Love

By DALE EDMONDS

The year's first Frogland Fable concerns an eternal verity, known by many names — none printable — so we'll settle for its scandal magazine tag — love.

Strangely enough, this first Fable also concerns Joe Trash, our campus pipeline.

The first day of Howdy Week, Joe was cruising down University Dr. in his ochre Roadmaster when suddenly he smashed into a green-capped freshman who had been leaping nimbly through the traffic.

Normally Joe would have remained unperturbed, scraped the prostrate figure from his path, and continued about his cruising.

But this time it was different, for the front portion of his auto had crumpled upon initial contact with said freshman, whose calves rivaled those of Norman Hamilton.

Joe leaped to the ground, his knees buckled under him (Ivy League, you know), and he fell into the arms of what he had thought was his victim.

She stroked him about the head and ears with her shoulder bag and murmured gently, "Whyn'tcha watch where yer goin'?"

Thus was born the romance of Joe Trash and said freshman, whom we shall henceforward call Effie G., for the sake of discretion and because of libel laws.

At all the Howdy Week activities, Joe and Effie were seen locked arm in arm, Joe staring dreamily at Effie, Effie staring dreamily at the other males.

Finally, after the excitement of the week subsided and she saw she couldn't get another date, Joe and Effie drove to a scenic location overlooking Benbrook Lake, and there sat for hours, saying nothing, slapping mosquitoes, drinking quinine water.

Boldly Joe took Effie into his arms. "Effie G.," he said, "Tell me, how do you feel? Tell me I'm not doomed to wander lone this city's dark streets."

"Joe," she whispered, her eyes brimming with tears, "Do you know how to make a baby buggy?"

Afraid to hear his own voice, Joe answered through clenched teeth, "No, dearest, but . . ."

"Tickle his feet," Effie roared, and smacked her knee smartly with her outstretched palm.

"Oh, Effie, you've made me the happiest man in the world," blurted Joe, and slipped the band off his Melba onto her finger.

"Barf," said Effie, and scratched her ankle.

Moral: It is better to have loved and lost, if she's anything like Effie; or, when in doubt, hand an Effie G.

Shatterscoting while wondering whatever happened to Bruce Neal:

Something should be done about the lines in the Cafeteria, like letting me in front of them . . .

There are almost three girls for every boy on the TCU campus. Wish they would begin parcelling them out . . .

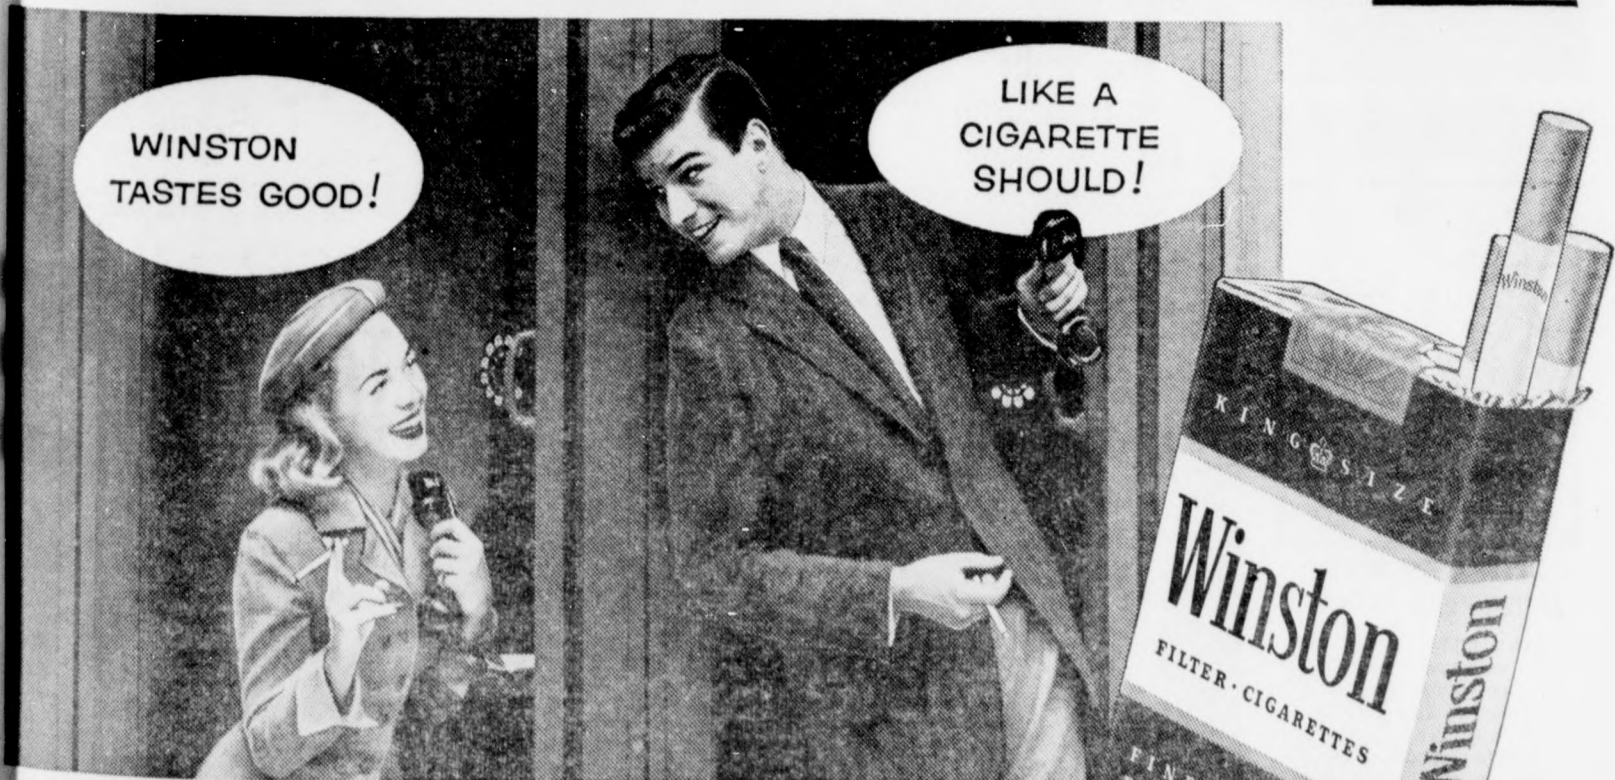

Nothing quite like the atmosphere at the Park Hill apartments at good - night time, a reliable source informs us. Soft lights, rustic balconies — like an Elizabethan courtyard, they say . . .

Frequently the chief difference between a freshman and an upperclassman is a year or more of college.

For a while in the 1880's women students at TCU, then AddRan College, were not permitted to wear jewelry.

Warm Temperatures Keep Fashions Cool

By LINDA MAJOR

Fall and football may be upon us but summer clothes are still a needed item for Texas weather. The often heard question of "what are you going to wear" is getting the heated answer of "something cool and comfortable."

If you have been sweltering in "fall fashions" because the calendar says it's supposed to be cool, forget the season and wear clothes that suit the temperature.

Cotton blouses and skirts, dresses and jumpers are the most frequently seen and most suitable classroom attire, along with flats or loafers.

This year the plaids and stripes in all types of casual wear seem to be rising even more in popularity, but the solid colors of blue, green, brown and black are favorites also.

In party clothes the bright colors of red, gold, and turquoise are outstanding, while the combination of black and white still maintains its high rating. Red and white has made an appearance as another well liked combination. Bows, back interest and buffant skirts are leading the style in after five apparel.

With all the fashion problems, the freshmen have the biggest "headache" of them all — that of matching their outfits with their beloved green and purple beanies. They're trying.

Congress Forgets Past President; Army Didn't!

"Any more new business?" asked Student Association President Joe Latham toward the end of Student Congress meeting Tuesday.

Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director, asked to be recognized.

"Aubrey's been drafted," he announced.

Congress, however, did not appropriate funds for a sympathy card for Aubrey Owen, last year's Student Association president.

Lyles to Study Asiatic Cholera

Dr. Sanders T. Lyles of the biology staff has received a grant from a U.S. governmental agency to continue his research in Asiatic cholera.

In a specially equipped and guarded laboratory on the fourth floor of the Science Bldg., he will be working with live cultures of the dread Oriental disease for the next two years.

"We are studying the diagnosis of an immunization against cholera," Dr. Lyles said.

Dr. Lyles is one of the few teachers in the nation with doctorate degrees in both theology and science.

He has studied at Rice Institute, Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and the University of Texas.

Dr. Lyles became interested in cholera while serving in the Army medical corps during World War II.

Editorial Comment

If past student elections at TCU are any indication of the future, the SAP's—Student Apathy party—will win hands-down.

For years, the SAP's have run things here at TCU, and unless things have changed drastically, they'll go right on ruling the campus.

SAP's Strong In Frog Belt

The SAP's are undeniably the best political party on the campus. They have a huge membership (running as high as 97 per cent of the student body in one election last year), terrific leadership (it hasn't made a mistake yet), and an unending amount of support (it's easy—just don't do anything.)

So, it's easy to see why the SAP's are favorites to win again this year in the upcoming fall elections next Thursday and Friday.

It's often been puzzling to campus political observers just why the SAP's are so strong. They never make promises of two answers to every test question, or a free campus date bureau. In fact, they never do anything.

Their only redeeming factor seems to be the fact that it's so easy to join the party. Just don't do anything. That makes you a full-fledged SAP member.

The SAP's have, however, been doing one thing that seems to be beyond the bounds of propriety.

They've been griping about the results of the campus elections. Just why the party members would want to do this, after the candidates they didn't vote for won, is something we don't quite understand.

Maybe, however, it's all for the best. If the TCU SAP's don't like the people they didn't vote for, possibly they'll get out and vote for someone they do like this year.

Toast for Town Students

TCU's town students are often pictured as people who come in the morning to class, then bolt for home as soon as the last bell rings.

They are said to be about as interested in extra-curricular affairs as a wino in a church social, and they gleam with nourishment from "home-cooked" meals.

A group of town students who have "found their place" at TCU have formed an organization, the Town Student Council, which may dispel at least part of this conception.

Already the Council has sponsored an open house for parents of town students, a luncheon which more than 200 town students attended. More events are planned for the year.

The purpose of the council, as outlined at these two gatherings, is not to set the town student apart from the campus student, but to make him feel at home at TCU, and to encourage him to participate in campus activities.

For the success of this project, it will be necessary for the vast town student's segment of the Frogland population, 65 per cent of the total enrollment, to give the council its full support.

This will mean attendance at council-sponsored functions, and concerted individual effort to become more than just a "classtime-commuter".

Political Pot Needs Youth

From now through Nov. 4, one of the most intensive political campaigns in history will be waged across America.

Mass communications, improved to a fine point, will make present-day citizens the best-informed group ever subjected to the claims and counterclaims of both major parties.

Considering that the average American has no more than an eighth grade education, the college student is more ably qualified to assimilate and evaluate the myriad charges and excuses.

But all our fine opinions, if kept to ourselves, will have little effect on the turn of political events.

Both major parties sponsor young peoples' groups for their junior advocates, and it was learned this week that a "Young Republicans" club is in the formative stage at TCU.

As of yet, there is no word concerning the formation of a "Young Democrats" club.

Students will find either of these organizations, if they jell, an excellent vehicle for venting their political wrath, and also for learning more about their party and their candidate.

Get into the Picture

The Horned Frog picture deadlines have been set a little later than in previous years, but this will probably have little effect on student lethargy.

Deadlines this year are: freshmen, Oct. 13; sophomores, Oct. 27; juniors, Nov. 31; seniors and graduate students, Nov. 10.

This year's late deadlines will make it difficult, if not impossible, to extend the dates.

As a result, if you are the average apathetic student, your likeness has a good chance of being absent from the '57 Horned Frog.

It is to your own best interest, therefore, that you blast yourself out of the sack long enough to watch the birdie.

And if you make it down to Orgain's early enough, you won't waste time waiting in line.

You'll very likely be all alone.

Evolution of the Fish

By JIM HENDRICKS

That peculiar collegiate animal, the freshman, is a rapidly-changing entity at TCU.

In the past two or three years, the TCU "fish" has undergone a form of social and intellectual metamorphosis. He has lost a bit of crudeness and gained a few things which are part good-part bad.

Until recent sessions, the TCU freshman typically was a happy-go-lucky, bright-eyed character, unwilling to accept quite a few ideas just because older, wiser heads expounded them.

He ran around almost exclusively in Levis, and, if he were an average freshman, owned at best a beat-up jalopy with a motor that sounded something like the battle of Verdun. Things have changed.

Now, the freshman, except for the traditional beanie, looks more like a junior or senior.

He dresses stylishly, often expensively, even for classes. He owns a car, often no more than a year or two old. And he drives it a lot.

He comes to college willing to a great extent to accept as gospel things he hears in lectures. Usually, he's most interested in "What's the best movie in town?"

Quite naturally, the freshman is more interested in social life than before.

He actually takes pains with his clothes and pays more attention to style trends. He cultivates several more of the social niceties than his counterpart of a few years back.

The sophistication is more evident, coated deeper than previously.

And, in certain ways, it's a good indication that TCU is at last becoming "big time." A university owes its students some measure of a social education as well as a mental workout.

Why the change? Three reasons come immediately to mind.

First, with the greater enrollment in the past two years, the desire for social distinction individually and collectively has been heightened.

Second, TCU is becoming more of a "fashionable" university than before. The "diamond in the rough" student is fading into the background. In his place is the smoothly-polished exponent of refinement.

Third, and most responsible, are 18 organizations, still relatively new to the campus, which already have left an indelible mark upon student life.

Fraternities and sororities, with their emphasis on social contact and social culture, are channeling the freshman's interests into these areas, heretofore slighted somewhat at TCU.

The "formal" side of social life is brought more into play by these groups, thus intensifying the freshman's desire to be socially acceptable.

Has this change helped or hurt? Probably both.

It has helped by forcing the freshman to mix more often with other students, by beginning the process of grooming him for life after college at an earlier period than before.

It has done a measure of harm by creating "types" of individuals whose development primarily is only social.

Perhaps the damage to intellectual maturity isn't irreparable, but it certainly is evident.

Gone, somehow, is that eagerness to raise questions in the classroom just for the sake of stretching the brain a little. The business of getting a college education has become merely a dull routine of cramming for quizzes and mechanically writing themes.

Of course, there are freshmen who have the proper perspective on college. They realize that there is more to TCU than social affairs.

They are the ones who will get their money's worth.

TEXAS—

After the departure, graduation, of former Texan Editor Willie "Call Yell" Morris it was expected that the difficulties between that publication and the university's Board of Regents would quietly subside.

Not so.

Willie's controversial comments on both state and national political issues not only landed him and the paper a peck of trouble with regents last year, but are likely to continue to plague the Texan.

"Willian" reverberations have caused the board to boot student editors from the Student Publications Board, voting membership strengthen restrictions on Texan's coverage of controversial issues; and 3) give president of the university power over the TSP Board.

Willie would never have been in this lying down.

And neither, it seems, will Texan Editorial Assistant Cyrena Jo Norman. In a lengthy editorial in a recent issue she rehashes the affair and terms the latest student action a "staggering blow to student autonomy."

Well, here we go again.

McMURRY—

A headline in the McMurry College War Whoop might lead us to believe that this school also having a bit of controversial faculty supervision.

The headline — Ellis announces Papoose Schedules. Be calm, be calm. The McMurry football squad is named the "Indians."

TWC—

In a recent Texas Weekly Rambler article a plea is made that publication. As an incident the story relates the journalist will work with people, cry with people and with people.

As a journalist we have similar experiences.

Only they are usually using us over, crying because us and laughing at us.

A&M—

One more thought-provoking headline — this one from pages of The Battalion.

It goes thisaway — "Tutors on 24 Hour Duty; Kitchen Ready in Oct."

New Legislator Chosen For Arts and Sciences

By ALICE BUFORD

Paul Coulter will replace Miss Phyllis Coffee as AddRan College of Arts and Sciences representative to Student Congress this year.

Miss Coffee, elected last spring, did not return to school. Coulter, Riverview, Ala., junior, was selected by Congress Tuesday to fill the vacancy.

The congressional executive board submitted the names of Coulter and Jerry Mallory to the group for consideration. Both were in the runoff for the post last spring.

Dave Brown, Fort Worth senior, asked the legislators to change their by-laws so Miss Coffee's replacement could be elected during the regular fall elections next week.

"Since the elections are going to be held anyway, I think the Arts and Sciences people should get to name their representative," he said.

Joe Latham, Student Association president, pointed out resignations do not always occur during the summer when the replacement could be selected in a regular election. Changing the by-laws, he said, might cause special elections to be held.

"Besides," he added, "The Arts and Sciences people have had some voice in the selection because both Coulter and Mallory were in the runoffs for that position last spring."

A motion by Howard Grant, Brite College representative, to delay the vote until next week was defeated.

In other business, Congress voted to pay Latham $25 a month and Miss Joanne Kirkpatrick, secretary; Tom Lyles, treasurer; and Dale Edmonds, Activities Council director each, $20 a month, the maximum salaries allowed by the constitution.

Miss Jean Joy Johnson, Fort Worth senior, was named chairman of a committee to consider the theme for Homecoming parade floats. Ken Lawrence, Snyder junior, Misses Naomi Hunka, Taylor junior, and Joan Glasgow, Waco junior, also will serve on the committee. They will report to Congress next week.

The legislators also voted to buy a gavel for President Latham.

FOOTBALL: ITS CAUSE AND CURE

At next Saturday's football game, while you are sitting in your choice student's seat on the ten-yard line, won't you give a thought to Alaric Sigafos?

Who, you ask, is Alaric Sigafos? Come closer, sit down, light a Philip Morris, savor that natural tobacco goodness, sigh contentedly, cross your fat little legs, and listen.

Alaric Sigafos (1868-1934) started life humbly on a farm near Thud, Kansas. His mother and father, both named Ralph, were bean-gleaners, and Alaric became a bean-gleaner too. But he soon tired of the work and went to Memphis where he got a job with a logging firm. Here the ex-bean-gleaner worked as a stump-thumper. Then he drifted to Texas where he tidied up oil fields (pipe-wiper). Then to Arizona where he strung dried fruit (fig-rigger). Then to Virginia where he was a research assistant (book-looker). Then to Long Island where he dressed poultry (duck-plucker). Then to California where he lectured young women who were about to get married (bride-chider). Then to Minnesota where he cut up frozen lakes (ice-slicer). Then to Nevada where he determined the odds in a gambling house (dice-pricer). Then to Milwaukee where he pasted camera lenses together (Zeiss-splicer).

Finally he went to Omaha where he got a job in a tannery, beating pig-hides until they were soft and supple (hog-flogger). Here he found happiness at last.

He found happiness at last...

Why, you ask, did he find happiness at last as a hog-flogger? Light another firm and fragrant Philip Morris, taste that true tobacco flavor, puff, relax, let sweet lassitude possess your limbs, and listen.

Next door to the hog-flogger was an almond grove owned by a girl named Chimera Emrick. Chimera was pink and white and marvelously hinged, and Alaric was hopelessly in love the moment he clapped eyes on her. Each day he came to the almond grove to woo Chimera, but to no avail. He tried with all his vigor and guile, but she, alas, stayed cool.

Then one day Alaric got a brilliant idea. It was the day before the annual Omaha Almond Festival. On this day, as we all know, every almond grower in Omaha enters a float in the big parade. The floats always consist of large cardboard almonds hanging from large cardboard almond trees.

Alaric's inspiration was to stitch pieces of pigskin together and inflate them until they looked like big, plump almonds. "These sure beat skinny old cardboard almonds," said Alaric to himself. "Tomorrow they will surely take first prize for Chimera, and she will be mine!"

Early the next morning Alaric came running to Chimera with his inflated pigskin almonds, but she, alas, told him she was not entering a float that year. In fact, she had just sold her almond grove and was moving East to try out with the Boston Red Sox.

Alaric, upon hearing these glum tidings, flew into a violent rage. He started kicking his pigskin almonds all over the place. And who should be walking by at that very instant but Abner Doubleday!

Mr. Doubleday, who had invented baseball some years earlier, was now trying to invent football, but without success. The trouble was, he couldn't figure out what kind of ball to use. Now, seeing Alaric kick the pigskin spheroids, his problem was suddenly solved. "Eureka!" he cried, and ran to his drawing board, and the rest is history!

In order to create more enthusiasm and student participation at pep rallies the Pep Cabinet has asked fraternities, sororities and the Independent Students Association to work together sponsoring the sessions.

Two or more organizations will plan each rally with the help of the band and cheerleaders.

Rallies will be held at 6:30 p.m. on the Thursday preceding each game.

A trophy will be awarded the organization that—in the eyes of the Pep Cabinet—contributes most throughout the year to promoting school spirit.

The cabinet has assigned the following organizations to the games indicated:

Arkansas — Kappa Alpha Theta and Phi Delta Theta.

Alabama — Kappa Kappa Gamma and Phi Kappa Sigma.

Texas A&M — Chi Omega and Sigma Chi.

Cell Block 7 to Offer First of Select Series

A group of musicians with the unlikely title of the "Cell Block 7" will open the Select Series schedule at TCU this year with a two-hour Dixieland jam session at 8 p.m. Oct. 2 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

By last Tuesday, only a little more than 320 tickets had been bought.

Students and faculty members may purchase tickets at the information booth in the Student Center, or from Miss Youngblood's office.

The remaining program will run the gauntlet of entertainment variety.

Other features in order and date of appearance include: hypnotist Franz Polgar, Nov. 8; Roger Price, the Droodle Man, Jan. 8; Stan Kenton and his orchestra with a concert and dance, Feb. 22; Norman Cousins, editor of the Saturday Review of Literature, March 12; and Nicholas Nyaradi, former Hungarian minister of finance, May 2.

Individual tickets for the "Cell Block 7" program are priced at $1 each. Tickets can be purchased until 6 p.m. on the night of the show.

The "7"—a nationally famous attraction—features a combination of Dixieland and comedy in a skull-crashing, Spike Jones-type, razzle-dazzle show that could be matched only by Elvis Presley in a washing machine.

The group has toured all over the country including an engagement on the Ed Sullivan Show in New York. They have recorded on both the Columbia and the Cue label.

All seven of the cell-mates are Texans. Six are former SMU students and one is from Texas A&M.

The Select Series will be sponsored annually by the Activities Council.

Here's How to Play TANGLE SCHOOLS

OLD GOLD'S GREAT NEW GAME

A total of 24 puzzles will appear before the Christmas holiday. Get started now in Old Gold's exciting new game for college students only.

Here are the Official Tangle Schools Rules! SAVE THEM!

1. PRIZES (a) P. Lorillard Company, the makers of OLD GOLD CIGARETTES, will award a total of 86 prizes, valued at more than $15,000—to college students in the United States in accordance with the following Official Rules. (See complete list of prizes.) (b) This game will consist of twenty-four (24) monogrammed puzzle drawings to be published in this and other college newspapers; three puzzles each week for eight weeks, and a series of tie-breaking puzzles, if needed, as outlined in rule 2. (c) Contestants must arrange the scrambled letters from each of the 24 monogrammed drawings so that they correctly spell the name of a certain American college or university. In the scrambled drawings there are no superfluous letters, no distortion of letters, and no letters are left out to confuse or mislead entrants. A clue will be furnished with each drawing to help identify the correct answer to the puzzle.

P. Lorillard Company reserves the right (only in the event of further tie or ties) to require contestants to solve as many tie-breaking puzzles under supervision, and without assistance, as are necessary to determine a single winner for each prize.

3. NOTE (a) When entrants have completed solutions to the complete set of 24 initial puzzles, which are to be published three per week in this paper, the solutions are to be printed or typewritten by the entrant in the answer space provided on the puzzle (or a reasonable facsimile). The complete set of 24 puzzles must be answered, neatly trimmed and enclosed in an envelope, flat and not rolled and addressed to:—Tangle Schools, P. O. Box 26A, Mount Vernon 10, N. Y., and mailed bearing a postmark not later than December 19, 1956. Decorated, pasted or embellished puzzles are not permitted. Each set of 24 puzzles must be accompanied by a wrapper from any type OLD GOLD CIGARETTE package—(REGULAR, KING-SIZE OR FILTER KINGS) or a reasonable facsimile thereof. (b) More detailed instructions on the mailing of completed sets of puzzles will be published later. No solutions are to be sent in separately. Save the puzzles and your solutions so that they may be submitted as a complete set at the end of the game. Entrants are not limited as to the number of complete sets of solutions. However, each set must be submitted individually, and only one prize will be awarded to any one entrant. (c) After the deadline for mailing solutions, the correct answers to all 24 puzzles will be published in a single issue of this paper. Each contestant must keep an accurate record of all solutions and check his answers with the published correct answers.

4. WHO MAY ENTER: (a) This game is open to all bona fide college students in the United States; that is, persons who, at the time of entering, are duly registered in an accredited college or university within the continental boundaries of the United States, except that the game is not open to students whose immediate families are employed by P. Lorillard Company or its advertising agencies. Contest is subject to all State and Federal regulations. (b) Contestants may, if they prefer, make copies of the puzzles by hand. Copies of the puzzles and of OLD GOLD package wrappers reproduced by a multiple process such as carbon paper or mimeograph are not acceptable. Entrants who want back puzzles and copy of Official Rules may obtain them by addressing their request to Tangle Schools Back Puzzles, P. O. Box 9, Grand Central Annex, New York 17, N. Y., enclosing 5¢ in payment for each puzzle desired and/or rules, together with a STAMPED SELF-ADDRESSED envelope. (c) Prior to receiving a prize each winner may be required to sign an affidavit certifying that he or she is eligible to compete in accordance with rule 4-a; that he or she has not bought, sold or exchanged the puzzle solutions and is not acting for, either by proxy or in collaboration with, any person who is not qualified to participate under the rules.

5. METHOD OF JUDGING: Decision of the judges is final and contestants so agree upon entering the game. Solutions to the puzzles will be judged on correctness, including the spelling of the names. All entries become the property of P. Lorillard Company. None will be returned. P. Lorillard Company cannot be responsible for any solutions unduly delayed or lost in the mails; this also applies to mail from the P. Lorillard Company to any contestant. On entering the game, each contestant accepts the foregoing rules as binding. P. Lorillard Company reserves the right to disqualify any entrants not conforming. Evidence indicating collusion by or ineligibility of contestants will automatically disqualify such contestants. P. Lorillard Company reserves the right to correct any typographical errors or other errors which may appear in any published matter in connection with this game. P. Lorillard Co., insofar as publication of puzzles is concerned, is responsible only for submitting material for publication to newspapers involved.

Injuries May Stop Three for Porker Game

By JAY CRUM

Three Froggies were on the "doubtful starter" list as Coach Abe Martin prepared for the Arkansas game Oct. 6.

Guard Jay McCullough, tackle Don Cooper, and halfback Jim Shofner were injured in the Kansas game and missed workouts this week.

McCullough's leg injury is regarded as the most serious, and he probably won't see action in the conference curtain-ringer. Shofner and Cooper have shown improvement and may be ready.

The Frogs' walloping 32-0 victory over Kansas surprised no one, but two very big and very pleasant surprises developed in the way TCU did it.

Two unexpected guns were used at Lawrence as the Frogs unleashed Ken Wineburg's running ability while quarterback Chuck Curtis opened a passing attack no one expected in a pre-conference go.

Wineburg amazed everyone with his touchdown barrage. The Odessa senior stepped ably into the big hole left in the Texas Christian backfield by Ray Taylor's graduation.

Wineburg scored three touchdowns and piled up a net gain of 141 yards in 14 carries.

With the defense braced against All-American Jim Swink's ground game, the Frogs unleashed an unexpected passing attack with Curtis completing 12 out of 17 passes for 232 yards and one touchdown.

Buddy Dike, fullback, smashed six yards for the final tally. The victory boosted TCU's won-over-Kansas total to 10 out of 14 starts. Two games have ended in ties.

TCU rolled up 20 first downs to Kansas' seven. The Frog's rushing yardage amounted to nearly twice that of Kansas with TCU gaining 261 to the Jayhawks' 143. Froggie passing netted 279 yards. Kansas passers failed to complete a toss.

The TCU team showed up weakest in the point-after-touchdown department. In this bracket TCU attempts were successful only twice. Both were by Vernon Hallbeck. Last year's national individual point-after-TD leader, Harold Pollard, missed his only attempt.

The TCU victory was not without its price as three Frogs came out on the injured list. Guard Jay McCullough left the game early in the third quarter. Don Cooper, tackle, injured his ankle on the Frog's first defensive play and was in action all of the second half. Halfback Jim Shofner injured his knee on the last play of the first half. Elmer Brown, trainer, expected Shofner to be fit for the Arkansas game. McCullough is a doubtful starter.

The Frogs were ranked high as fourth nationally before the Kansas game. The sport that romp and Notre humbling by inexperienced SMU, Texas Christian

How About That

A Tale of Three Woes --All Happily Vanished Now

By DAVE BROWN

Another football season is upon us and somehow, we feel a little more optimistic about the Frogs chances for an undefeated season than we did before the Kansas game.

Why? Easy. Three guys, named, Buddy Dike, Ken Wineburg and Hunter Ennis.

All three had to prove themselves in that first game—and all of them did. All of which makes us (and several thousand other TCU fans) breathe easier.

Dike, the critics said, should never have been allowed on the field. It was practically murder to hear some of them yell. The first good tackle and Buddy's once fractured kidney would be busted worse than ever. Well, they were wrong. Buddy romped and stomped, to use a trite-phrase, and came out of it as good as he went in.

So much for worry number one.

Worry number two was Hunter Ennis. The question was, "Does he have the ability to run the 'TCU-Curtis' type offense?" He does. Hunter didn't play much Saturday, principally because Chuck Curtis was having a good day and Coach Abe wanted to let a lot of his young quarterbacks get in the game.

But he played enough to show that he could pass and complete 'em under pressure, his play calling was adequate and his ball handling was better than expected. At least from us. Endeth worry number two.

Worry number three was different.

Everybody who had seen Ken Wineburg play during his three years at TCU conceded two things. He had the ability to become not only a good, but a great, football player and he was in good health.

The question, in Ken's case, was whether he had the mental ability.

Nothing, however, succeeds like success, and Ken was undeniably a success against the Jays. He skipped 80 yards for one touchdown and rammed two yards each for two others. So, exit worry number three.

Cooper, Shofner, McCullough . . . on doubtful list.

The B.M.O.C. is here!

Hardly surprising. For here's the shirt that has everything the college crowd admires. Button-down collar, both front and center back. Full box pleat. TCU Gets Voodoo Treatment From Conference Writers the hex!

Was TCU given the kiss of death by Southwestern sports experts as they picked the Frogs to win the Southwest Conference hands down?

Of 22 previous polls, in only four instances have the favorites wound up in the Cotton Bowl. TCU received a record 43 votes to repeat as conference champs.

The sports sages picked the conference to end in this order in New Year's day:

TCU, Texas A&M, University of Texas, Baylor, Arkansas, Rice and SMU.

For the past two years the No. 1 pick fared poorly indeed. In 1954 Texas came in fifth and in 1955 Rice limped in last.

In this year's balloting every team got at least one vote for first place. In fact, every team was picked to finish in every position except TCU's Frogs, who didn't receive a last-place ballot and only eight below second place.

TCU had 93 out of 143 ballots for first place. A&M scored 43 votes.

Air Uses Frog Colors

TCU's Southwest Conference champions are still bringing honors to the Purple and White, but this time in a rather different way. Waco's Heart O' Texas Fair has selected TCU's colors as official badge decor for the 1956 fair activities.

Each year the Heart O' Texas fair will honor the Southwest Conference Champions by using school colors on officials' badges.

Ken Wineburg . . . romps through 'Hawks.

INJURIES

itself ranked up to second. One poll picked TCU first.

Buddy Dike, star of the 1954 team, was back in action for the Purple and White after a year's absence from the Frog squad. Dike, injured in mid-season of his sophomore year, was told he would never play again. Saturday he carried the ball 10 times against the Jayhawkers for a five yard per try average.

Luck May Favor Fondren's Number

Walter Fondren, Texas University's All America candidate, will find tough going in his bid for national honors. Halfback heroes grow like grass all over the country.

Fondren, touted as Texas' number one prospect three years ago, will have to climb over three already established All Americans, Jim Swink, Southern Cal's Jon Arnett, and Oklahoma's Tommy McDonald.

Strangely enough the numerical sequence looks good for Fondren. Swink wears number 23, McDonald sports 25, and Arnett number 26. Fondren's 24 could fill in and complete the series.

Dike Still Goes

1954 Star Shines In First '56 Start

By TONY CLARK

Horned Frog Fullback Arvid (Buddy) Dike, making his first start since the 1954 Penn State game, appeared to have lost none of his former luster as he scored one touchdown and piled up 50 yards in 10 carries against the Kansas Jayhawks at Lawrence Saturday afternoon.

A serious kidney injury sidelined Buddy at midseason two years ago, and at that time doctors felt he would never play football again.

This spring, however, Dike's injury was found to be sufficiently healed and he was allowed to take part in spring drills and was placed on the Purples' second team behind the 1955 starter, Vernon Hallbeck.

Both boys are superb athletes and either could play for anybody's team. Both should see plenty of action this year.

In the opener with Kansas, Dike and Hallbeck divided the time and each worked on both the No. 1 and No. 2 Froggie units.

When TCU moved to Fort Worth in 1910, the city's population was only a little more than 30,000.

When Buddy was the undisputed front line T.C.U. fullback in 1954, he carried the ball 91 times and amassed 396 rushing yards.

This was enough to make him the Frogs' second highest ground gainer despite the fact that he missed the last four games of the season as a result of his injury.

Dike, a stocky 200-pound lad who hails from Chicago, is equally valuable on defense. From his linebacking position he moves quickly and hits with jolting force; he stacks many plays up before they can develop by crashing into the hole to meet the interference.

Since Dike has returned to the Froggie fold, Coach Abe Martin has remarked that the fullback corps is easily the strongest and most powerful group within the purple and white legions.

Barring further injury, Dike should be one of the main cogs in TCU's dynamic 1956 football machine.

Buddy Dike . . . old fullbacks never die.

tops that can't be burned or stained.

A sink enclosed in a walnut cabinet has been added to the room.

A carpeted conversational area will be one feature of the upper room, Foy pointed out. The atmosphere will be quiet and the furnishings contemporary, he added.

Decoration of the room was the project of last year's interior decorating class. Foy was a member of this group. Assisting him in purchasing furnishings are Miss Mauree Denman, Fort Worth sophomore; Joe Latham, Breckenridge senior; and Miss Gloria McKibbian, Fort Worth junior.

The Administration and Student Congress will pay for the furniture.
