Student Court Rejects Two Elections

12 Posts Filled As Runoff Ends

By BARRY STEPHENSON

The newly-formed Student Court dealt its first action of the semester this week invalidating two races in the current elections.

The races for freshman president and sophomore representative must be held again, the court ruled. Twelve student posts, however, were filled.

Elected were:

Freshman representatives, Bill Steele (105 votes), Misses Diane Rankin (81) and Becky Simons (61).

Lower-class representatives, Tony Hale (231) and Misses Betty Foust (164), Carolyn Johnson (166), June Pence (127), Suzy Sawyer (232) and Sandra Terry (196).

The Student Court voted 4-1 to uphold the protest of Miss Julie Hedges, Hico sophomore, who was disqualified by the election committee for allegedly having a poster on the Administration Building.

The bases for the court's decision, Chief Justice Bill Wyrick, Amarillo senior, said, were: 1) Testimony of Spencer Shropshire, Fort Worth sophomore, who said he put up all of Miss Hedges' signs and none was on buildings. 2) Nail Holes found in the sign produced in evidence were made from tacks which held the sign to a wooden frame. 3) Two signs, presented as evidence by Bob Roch, Henderson junior, which had been handed in as being on buildings but had been proved by the court, to the contrary.

The second decision of the court upheld the protest of Ralph Roden, Fort Worth freshman, whose name was omitted from the freshman presidential ballot.

The reasons given for the court's decision were:

1) Testimony of Perry, who said he knew Roden had planned to apply for the office. 2) The fact Roden filed a protest immediately after the ballots came out. 3) A possible error in the election committee's procedure of filing applications.

4) The extensive campaign which Roden held. 5) The fact that Roden checked to see if had been disqualified.

The court made the following recommendations designed to lessen future election errors:

1) A receipt be given each candidate when he files for office and 2) the number of campaign posters limited and/or an area limit for displaying campaign posters.

Receptions, Open House, Contests Planned for Parents Tomorrow

The red carpet unrolls at 10 a.m. tomorrow for visitors to Frogland's second annual Parents Day.

Activities will get under way with a faculty-administration reception at that hour in the Ballroom.

At 11:30 a.m. various luncheons are planned.

At 2:30 p.m. parents will see students revert to "kiddie" tendencies in IFC-Panhellenic-sponsored contests on the Student Center quadrangle.

Open house will be held in the dormitories at 4 p.m.

At 5:15 p.m. an all-school banquet in the Cafeteria will honor parents and students.

Tickets are $1.50, and meal tickets may be used. Tickets must be obtained by noon today.

Prizes will be awarded parents coming the greatest distance and those with the largest number of children.

The day's final event will be the TCU-Alabama football game.

Fathers of the players will sit in special seats on the field and wear their sons' numbers. Other parents, seated in the student section, will be recognized at half-time.

The ballet department, in collaboration with the Horned Frog Band and Vigilantes, will present an innovation at half-time.

Approximately 4,000 invitations have been mailed.

Gung-Ho Alarm Revokes Adage Of Golden Silence

The Lewis Collection, $500,000 worth of old manuscripts and books, is located in Brite College of the Bible.

One afternoon, Mrs. Mary Haddux, secretary to Dr. Elmer Henson, dean of Brite College, took her master key and softly tip-toed up the stairs, intent on her first look at the fabulous collection.

Silence closed in as she moved down the hall to the precious repository collection. As she opened the door, an ear-piercing clang broke forth.

The Lewis Collection is protected by one of the best burglar alarms in the Southwest.

Ticket Sales Increase For New Select Series

Single admission tickets to TCU's second annual Select Series will not be sold if season ticket sales continue to mount.

Currently, pre-series sales are within $500 of the $4,000 goal needed to balance the series' budget.

First of the six headliner events will be the convening of Miniature Security Council Oct. 23 in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Presentation of the series will cost an estimated $8,000, according to Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director.

Of that sum, half has been given by last year's Student Congress and the University for the series presentation.

"Seating capacity of 1,250 in the Auditorium limits the sale of tickets and intake to the $4,000 goal," Miss Youngblood said.

"If we sell enough tickets for a capacity crowd, single admission tickets will not be sold."

Tickets are on sale in the Student Center, downtown or through written requests. Price of admission is $4 for students and faculty members and $6 for others.

The Miniature Security Council will be composed of Camille Chautemps, past prime minister of France; Colin Jackson, British TV commentator; John C. Metcalfe, editor of "Background," and Ben C. Limb, Korean ambassador to the UN.

The other five events scheduled throughout the year include: Bennett Cerf, Charles Taft, Vafel and Bailly, Jose Greco, Grant Johannsen and Dave Brubeck.

PARENTS DAY SCHEDULE

- 10:00 a.m.—Administration-faculty reception for parents and students in the Ballroom.
- 11:30 a.m.—Special organizational luncheons and social events honoring parents.
- 2:30 p.m.—Panhellenic-IFC sponsored contests in the SC quadrangle.
- 4:00 p.m.—Open House in Waits, Foster, Jarvis, Colby Hall and Milton Daniel dormitories.
- 5:15 p.m.—All-school banquet for students and parents in the Ballroom.
- 8:00 p.m.—TCU vs. Alabama at TCU Amon Carter Stadium.

Missiles Are His Meat

Young Officer Leaves Tomorrow for Ireland

"Four-three-two-one . . ."
The air is filled with an ear-shattering blast as the Nike-Ajax guided missile takes to the wild blue yonder in search of its target, an enemy aircraft.

Setting off the missiles some day may be the job of 2nd Lt. Jerry Williams, U. S. Army.

Lt. Williams, B.A., '57, was awarded a Rotary Foundation fellowship for a year's study at University College, Dublin, Ireland. He will leave tomorrow.

The blond, young lieutenant was sponsored by the Downtown Rotary Club of Fort Worth in applying for the grant.

The fellowship will cover costs of tuition, room, meals, books and educational travel while in Ireland.

He received the award on the basis of a high academic standing, as a physics and mathematics major.

Williams was battalion commander in 1956-57. Upon graduation, he was designated a distinguished military student and received a regular Army commission.

He then reported to Fort Bliss, for 17 weeks of training in guided missiles.

He went through intensive training on the Nike-Ajax, soon to be installed in the Fort Worth area.

The Nike-Ajax is a surface-to-air missile, costing approximately $18,000, complete with warhead. The ground guidance system of the missile costs between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000, Williams pointed out.

"Because of the cost, we weren't allowed to actually fire the missile, but did witness several test firings." "Mostly, we studied the theory of operations of the Nike, how it operates and its components."

The lieutenant lectured to the junior and senior ROTC classes on guided missiles while he was here.

The lieutenant is undecided about his future; if he can work in the field of guided missiles, he will pursue an Army career—if not, he probably will return to the States and teach.

2nd LT. JERRY WILLIAMS

Before leaving Ireland next summer, Williams will report to the American Embassy for his next assignment. He still has a regular Army obligation to fulfill.

over Jimmy Boley 64-52 and in the sophomore presidential race Flournoy defeated Taylor Evans 112-52.

New elections for freshman president and sophomore representative will be held Thursday and the runoff will be Friday. New election rules will be available in the Congress office Tuesday.

Directory Bids Accepted Today

Bids to edit the 1957-58 Student Directory are being accepted today through 3 p.m. Tuesday, George Depee, Student Congress president, said.

The job, consisting of compiling, alphabetizing and editing cards collected at registration, will go to the student submitting the lowest bid.

Printing costs need not be figured in the estimate, as printing is contracted through Student Congress.

Applicants may file by placing their name, address and estimate in the Congress box in the Student Center lobby, Depee said.

Beckham, Grimsley, Miss Buford To Speak at Journalism Dinner

Three TCU journalism students will be among the featured speakers next Friday at the annual TDNA intern dinner, sponsored by the Fort Worth Professional Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

The dinner will be held at 7 p.m. in the Ballroom. The student speakers will tell of their experiences last summer serving on newspapers throughout the state.

The students are Pat Beckham, who interned on the Jacksonville Daily Progress; Day, 1896; Miss Alice Buford, Fort Worth Press, and Lee Roy Grimsley, each other.

Texarkana Gazette and Daily News.

Interns and department heads from Baylor, SMU, North Texas State, University of Houston, University of Texas, Texas Tech, Texas Woman's University, Texas A&M and TCU are expected.

An open house in the new journalism quarters in Dan D. Rogers Hall will precede the dinner at 5 p.m.

The first football season at TCU began on Thanksgiving Day, 1896, with two teams from TCU competing against

New Director Busy As Campus Pastor

By HARVEY FORT
Newly appointed "campus pastor," the Rev. James A. Farrar, is finding his duties "challenging" as the campus' first full-time director of religious activities.

Mr. Farrar checks with the Infirmary regularly to keep up with sick students, but he admits he couldn't quite keep up when the flu bug was here.

Although new at his post, Mr. Farrar is not lacking in qualifications or familiarity of the TCU campus. He obtained his BA and BD degrees here and has also received a Master of Sacred Theology from Yale University.

Since his graduation from Yale, he has served pastorates in Hillsboro, Grand Prairie and Vernon. Mr. Farrar also served as president of the Dallas County Ministers Association, and was a member of the executive committee of the Greater Dallas Council of Churches.

He has been the speaker on several campuses during Religious Emphasis Week—including the University of Texas, Midwestern University, TSCW, Texas Woman's University and Lynchburg College in Lynchburg, Va.

Among his duties, Mr. Farrar is in charge of the chapel services each Tuesday; he is director and coordinator of all volunteer religion groups on the campus and advises the United Religion Council; he teaches two courses in undergraduate religion and counsels students.

Sports are his main outside interests, especially hunting and fishing. He and his wife, Hu-Ellen, chaperoned the student trip to Arkansas.

The Farrars are the parents of two children, Curtis, 4, and Douglas, 2.

Veterans Urged To Utilize Tests

Veterans should make sure they are majoring in the right field by utilizing the free testing facilities in the guidance center, Dean of Men Curtis J. Firkins advised.

"We have found several men who are studying inappropriate subjects," he said. "This often can be avoided if the veterans take aptitude and intelligence tests to determine the fields for which they are suited."

The Veteran's Administration

maintains a free testing center in Building 8.

Six Will Attend Disciple Session

Six TCU officials will attend the six-day International Convention of the Disciples of Christ, beginning today in Cleveland, Ohio.

Dr. William D. Hall, associate professor of missions, will give a keynote address.

Other officials attending will be President M. E. Sadler, Vice President D. Ray Lindley, Dean Elmer Henson, Dr. M. Jack Suggs and Dr. Lee Pierce.

Editorial Comment

Student Congress took a step in the right direction with the fall elections.

Its new rule which required a student to show his activity card before voting helped keep the elections honest. Separate ballots were printed for the different divisions of the contest so that a freshman would not receive the same ballot as a junior or senior. This allows for easier handling of contested elections.

What Congress forgot was to make a careful recheck of the list of candidates before voting time. Student Court was forced to order one race to be held again because a name was left off the ballot.

Both Student Court and the election committee have shown their intentions to free campus elections from error and cheating. They have not hesitated to enforce the rules. The errors that were discovered were caused by carelessness. The election committee overlooked a name, and candidates failed to read the rules carefully.

Congress has taken a major step in the right direction. If it keeps improving election rules and procedures and enforcing them, the long-awaited time when elections will be void of any error is near.

It's Their Day

Tomorrow's the big day—the day when parents discover just where all that money is going.

It's the day when students show how they have matured during their first month in college. They will do that by racing around the Stadium parking lot on tricycles and by flinging eggs at one another.

It's also a day to get acquainted, a day for parents to meet professors and see the buildings, to meet other parents and to watch the Frogs in action against Alabama.

It's their day — Parents Day. Let's make them welcome.

An Open Letter

Dear New Congressmen,

Congratulations. You have been chosen to represent your fellow students on Congress.

When you signed your petition to run for office, you indicated that you were interested in legislative processes and that you had time to devote to your job.

You will have plenty of opportunities to work while serving on Congress, for you have not joined a social club. Congress meetings should not be considered as times to make plans for the weekend. Neither are they occasions to meet your friends.

Student Congress appropriates funds from a yearly budget of more than $7,500. It's up to you to see that the money is well spent. If you know that a major decision is to be made at the next meeting, talk to the students you represent. Find out what their opinions are. It may help you decide how to vote.

Volunteer for committee work. President George Depee will need you to help with elections and for other necessary tasks. Your position on Congress is a job and not an honor. Your election does not mean that now you have a chance to rise to greater glory at TCU. Congress' purpose is not to provide limelight for its members but to work for the 6,001 students at the University.

In its final editorial next spring, The Skiff would like to say that the 1957-58 Student Congress accomplished more than any other Congress has done. With your help, The Skiff will be able to print that statement.

Best wishes for a successful year.

Cuts Can Hurt

"Hey, Ed. What's say we take a class break? I'm tired of drinking coffee."

It has not quite come to this on the TCU campus though many students do not realize that class attendance is a part of the academic program, and excessive cuts can result in grade reductions or complete failure.

"Contrary to certain beliefs, there is no cut policy at TCU," explained Lawrence C. Smith, dean of students. "Even if a student is representing the University in out-of-town activities, he still is held responsible for class assignments."

"Loss of school work resulting from illness or emergencies that call the student away from the campus should be made up on his return to class. If a student is ill or called away unexpectedly, he should inform my office and we will notify the instructor."

And here's a tip to veterans. You get not only grade reductions but also a lowering of subsistence pay for frequent absences.

The status of your grade is in the hands of your instructor at the end of the semester. So if you have not been seen in class often: 1) start bringing shiny apples to class or 2) have your appendix out. That's an excellent excuse for a cut.

Editor, The Skiff

I feel that I must write this open letter in reply to a front page story featured in last week's edition of the campus newspaper.

Above a picture of three men posting signs on our Ad Building a caption read "Caught in the Act." These men were guilty, in this paper's opinion, of breaking campus election rules, and having done such, were branded in very subtle language "criminal."

Gentlemen, this paper was partly right and partly wrong, which is most always the case. The men in your well developed picture were guilty not of knowingly breaking an election rule, but of a small degree of ignorance as to the rules.

There were 17 other candidates, a large number, who were disqualified from the fall elections for the same offense. Isn't this indicative of the fact that the new ruling was not stressed as much as it should and could have been?

And while we're being so damned moral, let's mention the ethical practices of your sneaky Skiff photographer. While he was creeping around bushes taking photographic pot shots at the candidates and their poster-putter-uppers, why didn't he have the moral decency to inform them that they were ignorantly breaking an election rule? So he got his picture. So he could have told them already.

Might I add, our candidate's name was misspelled twice, and as long as we are being publicly displayed as campus law-breakers, you could have the sympathy to spell his name correctly.

In conclusion, let's make the new rules clear for ignorant campaign managers such as myself. Let's put the amending clauses at the top, and underline them if possible. And let's stop jumping to rowdy conclusions when a frosh candidate stubs his nose against the Ad Building.

Most understandingly yours,
Johnny (Lan) Gilliland
President, LXA

Dear Mr. Gilliland,

Our photographers have instructions to get pictures of news events. Candidates putting up posters is news. At the time the photographer took the picture, he did not realize that the men were violating an election rule so it was impossible for him to warn them.

It would not have been his responsibility to tell them anyway. As the saying goes, "Ignorance of the law is no excuse."

The Pharisee

Fire for Effect!

By FRANK PERKINS

Last night, after a hectic evening at the Skiff office, and a busy three hours at the Post Office, I dragged my aching body up the three flights of stairs in Pete Wright and collapsed in my sack.

In the study (?) room of our suite, my two roommates were quietly telling prodigious lies about their sex-life, with the one from West Columbia out-lying the Shreveport citizen.

At the end of this unequal contest, the one from Shreveport stumbled into his room and went to bed.

The West Columbia Terror chortled in victory, picked up his Acme-Wrist-Muscle-Builder and commenced to exercise: 150 times with the left hand, 150 times with the right.

I muttered some sarcastic comment, dripping with scorn and edged with vitriol and sank into a deep, dreamless sleep.

Suddenly, an ear-splitting explosion rocked the dorm . . . I came to consciousness on the floor, scrabbling around blindly for my rifle, helmet and boots (an automatic reflex stemming from my six weeks' ROTC camp at Fort Hood this summer). It finally dawned on me that: 1) I was not at Fort Hood. (Allah be praised!) and, 2) No matter where I was, I was in a combat situation.

Henceforth and forthwith, following the traits of leadership at which I am so adept (or is it inept?), I crawled to the door . . . shouting "Rally 'round the flag, boys!", and "Whereinthehell are those supporting fires . . ." and "Steady men, squeeze off your shots!"

I threw open the door and . . . nothing. No gaping crater in the cold tile of the floor . . . no smashed bodies, no odor of cordite, no pockmarks in the walls from screaming shrapnel, no smears of blood and guts and flesh on the door facing . . . nothing.

Again the building rocked to the mysterious explosion.

"Form up men, I shouted, "they've hit "E" section," and with my adrenin glands working overtime, I sprinted down the hall, dove down the steps, and as I reached the bottom, hit the dirt.

"E" section stood unharmed, with only a faint odor of cordite in the cold, bare, hall.

And then I found the culprit . . . a few tattered pieces of paper in the hall, a black discoloration on the floor and a fiendish giggle echoing gently down the hall.

Some adolescent had taken it upon himself to explode a firecracker in our happy home.

The Mysterious Marauder had discovered that Pete Wright Hall is nothing more than one huge sounding board, and that by pitching a Cherry-Bomb, or Little Atom, or Baby Giant, or whatever it was in the hall, he could blast the sugar-plums out of every curly head in the whole dorm.

He did this . . . and the whole dorm now has combat fatigue.

I sincerely, deeply, and fervently hope, that the next one he lights misfires, and blows him into thirteen equal pieces . . . there will be joy and happiness, and perhaps more important, sleep, in the haven of happy souls, Pete Wright Dorm.

Pretty Holland Coed Studies Here; Prepares for United Nations Work

By DAVID SMITH

Wooden shoes, tulips and windmills—are these your mental pictures when Holland or the Dutch are mentioned?

Not so if you have met Miss Catharina Boogert, charming and disarming coed from Bussum, Holland (a few hops, one skip and a jump east of Amsterdam).

The attractive Netherlands import is in the United States on a Fulbright grant. She attended Chanute Junior College in Chanute, Kan., last year.

She is staying with a friend, Miss Margie Crow, Fort Worth junior, whom she met at the Estes Park YWCA Camp in Colorado, where she worked last summer.

Miss Boogert is registered as a special student and carries 15 hours. Her interests lie in international affairs, and this semester she is taking European history, Russian history, world politics, economics and social science.

In her 13 months in the United States she has learned to "warble" English fluently, although she admits to having a rough time with Southern accents. Miss Boogert had six years of English in school before coming to the United States.

She points out, however, that none of this was conversational English, "you all."

Upon completion of her work at TCU this June, she plans to return to Holland and attend Amsterdam University in preparation for United Nations work.

"I feel sure that the Little Rock incident will have unpleasant repercussions in Europe for the democratic cause," related the winsome coed.

"They will think, so this is democracy, yet?"

Upon arriving in New York she began to discover that young people are pretty much alike, in Europe or the United States, even if we use cars and they use bicycles (the price of gasoline is about double in Europe).

In most of Europe, only executives and those in upper income brackets have automobiles. She points out, however, that there is not as much need for them in Holland as it is of relatively small area. ("Besides, bicycling will develop shapely gams, no?")

"I was amazed at the mass public education in the United States," she stated. "However, more emphasis is placed on special training and intensive study in the European countries. Before entering college there, a student must declare a major and minor, and specialized work is begun the freshman year. European schools are also more selective in their students compared to schools here."

CATHARINA BOOGERT . . . Tantalizing Tulip

When asked about the Texas male she replied with a charming blush, "You just have to get use to them; it takes a while."

She claims dating to be a bit calmer in Holland than in Texas. However, no matter whether here or in the land of tulips, wooden shoes and windmills, boys will be boys and girls will be girls.

845 Air Force Group Elects Cadet Sponsors

A feminine touch was added to the Air Force 845th Group this week as cadets selected their sponsors.

Miss Fay Redwine, Cisco sophomore, will be Group sponsor, with the honorary rank of colonel.

Honorary lieutenant colonels will be Misses Diane Davis, Hillsboro senior, Squadron 2 sponsor; Carolyn Witt, Aransas Pass junior, Squadron 1, and Janeen Cunningham, Wharton sophomore, the Grenadiers, Air Force drill team.

The active members of the Arnold Air Society and officer faculty will play host to the junior class members of the Air Force ROTC at a meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Members of the TCU rifle team have been selected by their coach, SFC W. S. Bradley.

Chosen were Gerald Shamburger and Ted Lange, juniors; Joe Huddleston, sophomore; and Don Ryan, Chester Sullivan and Bob Huddleston, freshmen. Bob Huddleston is an Air Force ROTC cadet, while others are Army cadets.

This team will fire in Southwest Conference competition which opens Oct. 19 against Texas A&M.

The schedule: Baylor, Nov. 2; Texas, Nov. 16; Rice, Nov. 23; SMU, Nov. 30.

All matches will be fired here except those with Baylor and Texas.

First Lt. Leon Lichtenwalter heads the Southwest Conference Rifle Association. TCU is headquarters. Sgt. Bradley, rifle team coach, serves as secretary.

Seven seniors were designated as distinguished military students in awards given at a recent freshman mixer.

They are Cadet Col. Larry Lands, Lt. Col. Roland Jary, Maj. Ruben Fechner, Maj. Ronald Coleman and Capt. Frank Hyde, Kenneth Miller and George Duepee.

Along with 15 other cadets, Fechner, Jary and Coleman received the academic achievement wreath for finishing in the top 10 per cent of their respective classes.

Second Lt. Bill Yung, B.S. '56, artillery officer at Ft. Sill, Okla., is also football coach at the post's local eleven.

The first meeting of the Association of the United States Army will be held at 12 noon Wednesday in the Student Center.

Dallas Minister Will Speak Tuesday

Dr. William M. Elliott Jr., minister of the Highland Park Presbyterian Church in Dallas, will speak at the University chapel service at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Dr. Elliott has spoken frequently on the Presbyterian Hour over a national radio network.

He also is serving as moderator of the General Assembly, Presbyterian Church in the United States.

"Big Man on Campus" was the title of Tuesday's talk by Dr. Noel L. Keith, chairman of the department of religion.

His sermon centered on the qualities of persistence, resistance and assistance in the big man on campus.

"Keeping at a task until it is done develops the art of persistence," Dr. Keith said. "There are many 'good starters' in the world who seem to lack the capacity to carry through what they begin."

You can become KTCU's disc jockey for a day merely by sending a postcard to Jerry Park, P. O. Box 682, TCU. Include your name, address and phone number.

If you are selected, you will be notified and your program will be scheduled.

Who knows, you may be another suppressed K E N T BURKHART.

Agee Addresses Journalists Today

Dr. Warren K. Agee, chairman of the department of journalism, will speak at the Houston Journalism Assembly for high school and university students at the University of Houston today.

He will discuss the problem of attracting young people into journalism.

"The way you assist—particularly those who need your help or service—is the way to greatness," Dr. Keith said in closing. He also suggested that all commit themselves to be BMOC's.

Interviews Scheduled Next Week For Nine Council Committees

The personnel and evaluations committee will hold interviews in Room 211 in the Student Center for students desiring to work on one of nine Activity Council committees.

The interview schedule is: today, 1-3 p.m.; Tuesday, 1:30-5 p.m.; Wednesday, 1-5 p.m., and Friday, 1-3 p.m.

Purpose of the interviews is to place students on the committees of their choice. Students wanting to serve with

Dawson Looks Good Like a T-Man Should

By GAYLN WILKINS

One of the finest quarterback prospects ever to enter TCU, in the opinion of Wog coaches, is Larry Dawson, Stinnett freshman.

Dawson, an all-around athlete at Stinnett High School, lettered in football, basketball and track. He quarterbacked his team to a Class A state championship and was selected to the all-state squad.

Dawson played in three post season games, the Oil Bowl, the all-star game and the Green Belt Bowl.

The personable six-footer, a business administration major, says his Wog teammates have formed "a good solid club that will give everybody on our schedule a rough time."

The 190-pound passing wizard was to be chief signal caller in the Wogs' opening game last night against the Texas A&M Fish at College Station.

Wog Coach Fred Taylor has aligned two units to use alternately.

"We'll let the starting purple team go as far as they can the first quarter and then alternate with the red team," was his plan.

The purple squad includes ends Aubrey Linne and Ted Crenweldge, tackles Clarence Young and Robert Lilly, guards Roy Lee Rambo and Shellie Hearrean, center Lanny Verner, quarterback Larry Dawson, halfbacks Harry Moreland and Jim Dodson and fullback R. E. Dodson.

The alternate red lineup consists of ends Milton Ham and Dale Glasscock, tackles Pat Richardson and Wayne Wilcox, guards George Lambert and Hobart Buxton, center Weldon (Buddy) Lucas, quarterback Donald George, halfbacks Bill Phillips and Randall Wiley and fullback Larry (Yank) Terrell.

Taylor said his team was at full strength after a flu bout hampered practice the past two weeks.

Leaders of that team moving up to the varsity are Don Williams, who averaged 22.8 points per game, and Tommy Meacham, who had a 17.3 point average and a season total of 139 rebounds.

Other Wog lettermen reporting to the varsity are Bobby Tyler, Tommy Turner, Harold Curtis, F. A. Davis and Don Benham.

TCU will play 24 games this season including 10 non-conference games and 14 family battles.

THE SCORE

With Apologies To Longfellow

By PAT BECKHAM

From the land of Tuscaloosa,
From the state of Alabama,
Comes the Crimson Tide of 'Bama,
Comes a football team with purpose.

For two moons they've fought the Horned Frogs,
And both times they've been defeated,
Been defeated by the Fort Worth's,
Been sent home without a coup.

Now the TCU's are weaker,
Weaker than in three moons scribes say,
And the Southeast tribe is wondering,
Wondering if the scribes are joking.

Just two weeks ago the Horned Frogs,
Horned Frogs from the state of Texas,
Beat the Buckeyes of Ohio,
Beat a tribe always a power.

But last week deep in the Ozarks,
Deep within the Faubus domain,
Fell the Frogs — the giant killers,
Fell before the crafty Arkans.

Angry are the Alabamans,
For last week the whistle sounded,
Sounded with them at the goal line,
And they tied the Vanderbilts.

Vengeance for two years of defeats,
For last week when Vandy tied them,
Is the vow of Alabama,
Crimson Tide from Tuscaloosa,

TCU 19, Alabama 6

Congratulations to Pat Truly, sports editor down at UT, for his success with this season's predictions of an upset-ridden three weeks of football. Truly's record is 30 hits and eight misses. Pretty good, and to top it all, he picked the South Carolina upset last week over his own Longhorns. In that week's football contest conducted by The Skiff, only one of 106 entrants foresaw this event.

Note to Bill McClanahan, who draws pictures for the Dallas Morning News: The picture of the big hog sitting on our little Horned Frog failed to anger us appreciably, but the balloon issuing from said Froggie's mouth saying, "Well, I'll be a suck-egg mule!!!" was a bit short of desirable. We can draw too.

We're wondering if Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wis., has a better team this year than last when they lost nine and won no games. Probably if Head Coach John Druze comes through with a winning team this year, he'll be remembered as "The Peer Who Made Milwaukee Famous" . . . or "The Marquette Miracle Man."

"They almost ran us to death," Richard Martin said, after the intramural football team he was playing for finished a practice game with the Flying Frogs earlier this week. "We didn't know they were matching us with the track team!" he gasped.

Purples Clash With Alabama

"WHOA!"—TCU's halfback Jim Shofner is pulled down from behind after a short gain against Arkansas Saturday. Making the tackle is the Porkers' Billy Kyser. Shofner gained 55 yards in 13 carries for a 4.2-yard average.

Frogs, Crimson Tide Match Sullied Marks

By TONY CLARK

The Crimson Tide of Alabama rushes into TCU Amon Carter Stadium tomorrow night, and how the wave will break against the Frogs is anybody's guess.

This gridiron clash, set for 8 p.m., will climax TCU's Parents Day, and it should be a fitting end for the festivities.

Alabama, just beginning to get results from a rebuilding program, and TCU, trying to recover from a big graduation loss, stack up on paper as near equals.

The Tide boasts 19 returning lettermen, six of whom were regulars last year. Of this group, Jim Loftin, is the stellar attraction.

The big, 210-pound fullback has made a strong impression on Buster Brannon, TCU assistant coach, who has scouted the Tide against LSU and Vanderbilt.

Brannon says that the Alabama team looked much improved against "Vandy."

"They (Alabama) could have won the game," he said, "but penalties seemed to stop every drive. We'll have our hands full."

The game ended in a 6-6 tie. The Tide lost, 28-0, in its opener with LSU.

Frog Coach Abe Martin doesn't plan any changes in his starting lineup, but he says he may use his sophomore unit a little more.

The possible return of fullback Buddy Dike is the Christians' brightest news of the week, but even if he does play, Coach Martin intends to leave Jack Spikes at fullback and let the two TCU powermen share the chores.

Dike was sidelined with a deep cut in his left leg against Kansas, and he sat out the Ohio State and the Arkansas tilts. He returned to practice Friday wearing a protective pad on the wound, and made a favorable showing.

Halfback Jim Shofner continued to shine for the Frogs last week, although the TCU's dropped a 20-7 conference decision to Arkansas. He picked up 55 yards rushing to maintain a 69-yard lead over the Arkans' Gerald Nesbitt in the Southwest Conference yardage scramble.

Shofner also sparked the Frog defense, making numerous tackles in the secondary.

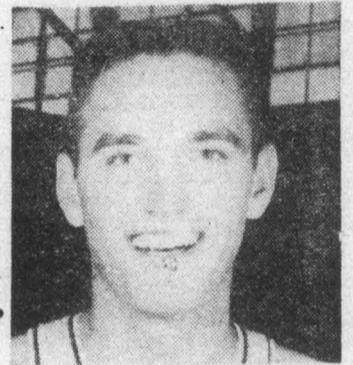

The first half of the Arkansas game was a tooth-and-nail battle all the way. The Razorbacks rooted out 69 yards and a touchdown early in the first quarter, and the Frogs retaliated after the kickoff with a 65-yard scoring march of their own.

Shofner plunged the final six yards for the marker on the last play of the quarter.

Again the Porkers took command, picking up another tally in the second quarter. TCU pushed inside the Arkansas 20-yard line twice more, but both times the Hog defense tightened and held to give the Ozark crew a 14-7 halftime lead.

The Christians could never get moving in the final half, but Arkansas made a success of one more drive.

This one was good for 69 yards and the clinching touchdown. It took four plays but Don Christian bulled the last three yards for the marker.

RONNY STEVENSON

H. E. KIRCHNER

Juniors to Lead Christian Cagers

Can juniors Ronny Stevenson and H. E. Kirchner fill the shoes of Dick O'Neal, TCU's all-time scoring ace who graduated in June?

Basketball Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon faces that question Monday when his youthful but experienced cagers begin drills for the 1957-58 season.

The Frog starting lineup for the opening game December 3 possibly will contain five juniors, all of whom lettered and four of whom were starters on last year's team that finished in a third place tie with Baylor in Southwest Conference play.

These four returning starters, who will form the nucleus of the 1957-58 Frogs, are Stevenson, Kirchner, Derrill Nipert and Kenneth King.

Kenneth Brunson and Roy Davis also lettered last year and will return this year as top hands.

Senior Billy Taylor is back with two monograms.

Stevenson, this year's captain, was the Southwest Conference's seventh highest scorer last season. He also led the Frogs in rebounds with 311.

Brannon expects a boost from last year's Wog outfit that compiled a 6-6 record. (See B'BALL, Page 7)

6 of WSA At Parley

Six members of the Women's Sports Association, accompanied by sponsor Miss Bettie Padon, are attending the annual convention of the Texas Recreation Federation for College Women at Ft. Davis.

The three-day program will run through Saturday.

Those attending are Misses Barbara Tyler, Ann Corn, Dorothy (Chi Chi) Allen, Minnette Elder, Betty Jones and Alex Hardgrove.

The primary purpose for TCU's having six delegates to the federation is to familiarize the various delegates with TCU's women's sports program, with the invitation that the federation meet in Fort Worth next year.

At its organizational meeting Saturday, the WSA decided to hold its annual open house Oct. 24. Miss Susan Verner was elected vice-president.

Also on Oct. 24 WSA will sponsor a display of Reed and Barton silver in the Student Center from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

WSA members will sell programs at the freshman home football games. At least 100 girls will be needed, President Judy Rominger, Dallas sophomore said. Girls wishing to sell programs are asked to contact Miss Padon.

Miss Brown Misses Two, Misses Score, Wins Booty

Miss Mary Ann Brown has four tickets to Worth Theater this week for barely edging a host of male guessers in The Skiff's weekly football contest.

In a week of upsets, Miss Brown and 13 TCU men tied on the regular pick-it line, but the coed came through with the nearest point-total guess on the TCU-Arkansas game. She was five points off with a 32-point try.

Al Hensley took second honors with two bad picks and a six-point miss. Everett Tolar and Bob Reinhold missed the 27-point finish with 34's while Charles Norris guessed 35 to go with his two game-misses.

Stan McAnelly, last week's winner, fell back in the pack this week with four misses in the seven games.

J. D. Clark's 26-point guess was the best of the week, but the big Horned Frog lineman was also wrong on four games.

Intramural Football to Start

By TED RICKENBACHER

League play in intramural football will begin Wednesday afternoon with Sigma Phi Epsilon meeting Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Thursday, Lambda Chi Alpha will take on Delta Tau Delta, and Kappa Sigma will face Phi Kappa Sigma.

An independent league, which will schedule games on Tuesdays is being organized. Teams already signed to play in this league are the Warhawks, Seminarians, Veterans, Chi Delta Mu, Chug-a-lugs, and the Flying Frogs.

In practice games last week in the Wednesday and Thursday leagues, Phi Delta Theta beat Sigma Phi Epsilon 28-0. Joe Reade accounted for the first score with a 40-yard pass interception.

The second touchdown came on a 15-yard pass from Bill Wilson to Rutledge Haggard, and was followed by a 30-yard scoring pass from Bill Harlin to Bill Perry.

The Theta's final counter came on a short pass from Harlin to Jerry Daniel. The Sig Eps were trapped for a safety and Charles Coody converted twice to account for the other four points.

Phi-Kappa Sigma soared past Lambda Chi Alpha 31-0 with Buddy Blake scoring three times. The final two scores came on pass plays from Blake to Clifford Hogg and Steve Steen.

The other practice game found the Sigma Chi's winning over Delta Tau Delta 13-10.

Roger Shutt did all the scoring for the Sigma Chi's, catching a pass from Billy Stites for 20 yards, intercepting a pass for 60 yards and kicking one extra point.

Gene Haney scored the Delts' 10 points, kicking a 40-yard field goal, taking a five-yard touchdown pass and converting after the score.

Let's Face It, Men: Aggies Got It, Again

"Man, those Aggies are rougher than ever."

Thus spoke Coach Fred Taylor after scouting Texas A&M's 28-0 victory over Missouri at Columbia Saturday afternoon.

The Frogs clash with the Aggies next Saturday at TCU Amon Carter Stadium.

"I know this is hard to believe," continued Taylor, "but they are faster, hit harder, are more versatile, and have a much better overall team than last year."
