Holidays, Convocation Announced

Tuesday's Thanksgiving convocation will have a worldwide perspective as three foreign speakers appear on the program.

The convocation will be held at 11 a.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

What are the real grounds for Thanksgiving in the kind of world in which we live today? For what can a man be thankful? These are the topics to be discussed.

Speakers are Dr. Dorothy Clarke, visiting professor of history from Belfast, Ireland; Miss Catharina Boogert, Bussem, Netherlands, sophomore, and Samuel Baniqued, Manila, Luzon, Phillipine Islands, Brite College middler.

Old Grads To Reign At TCU

By LEE ROY GRIMSLEY
The big week end is here and all Frogland spells out a huge "Welcome Ex!"

This is the time of year when King Ex rules the campus and Miss Luann Dyche and John Moore, Homecoming co-chairmen, have worked many hours to make this the biggest Homecoming ever in the land of the Purple.

Events began last night when the strains of the fight song, instruction of Homecoming Queen and "Beat Rice!" erupted from Ed Landreth Auditorium during the first Homecoming pep rally.

Most of today will be set See EXES, Page 4

President's Welcome

It is always a genuine pleasure for us to have ex-students and friends visit the TCU campus. Even though it might have been several years since you were a student here, and even if you have not been here as a student but are a real friend of the institution, we want you to know how heartily welcome you are to any and all of our Homecoming events.

We sincerely hope you will have time to visit some of our newer buildings and talk with some of the teachers and workers you have known in former years. With sincere appreciation to all who are actually helping in the on-going life of TCU, we are,

Very cordially yours,
M. E. Sadler, President.

HONORED — Mrs. W. P. Higgins, BA '37, was named Coming Home Queen. The former Miss Ruth Connors, of Fort Worth, was the first Homecoming Queen in 1937. (See story, page 6.)

Journalism Exes Meet For Annual Banquet

By NELSON MARSH

The Journalism Exes Association marks its seventh anniversary with its annual banquet at 7:30 p.m. today in the press room of Dan D. Rogers Hall.

The association was officially organized on Homecoming eve, 1950, with Bill Haworth, B.A. '41, as the first president.

The idea for such a group was conceived, however, before the Texas-TCU game of 1948. Paul O. Ridings, B.A. '38, then chairman of the Journalism department, asked Haworth, then a reporter for the Star-Telegram, to serve as chairman for organizing a banquet in 1949.

At the dinner in 1949, Haworth was elected chairman.

The association has earned a charter as an official chapter of the TCU Ex-Students Association.

Membership in the Journalism Exes Association is automatic for all journalism exes of TCU since the department was founded in 1927 by the late J. Willard Ridings.

Many of the exes have distinguished themselves, in journalism as well as in other fields.

The current president of the association is business manager of the Arlington News. He is William Douglas, B.A. '40. Last year's president, Tom Swiley, B.A. '41, is employed by the Phillips 66 Oil Co. in Henderson.

Other presidents of the association have been June Welch, 1954-55; Eugene Miller, 1953-54; James Matthews, 1952-53, and Paul O. Ridings, 1951-52. Welch, B.A. '50, is city attorney of Grand Prairie. Matthews, B.A. '39, is advertising manager at Washer Bros. in Fort Worth. Miller, B.A. '49, is a client representative with Witherspoon & Associates, Inc., public relations, in Fort Worth.

Ridings owns his own public relations company here. Haworth now is news bureau director at Bell Aircraft Corp. in Hurst.

Many other journalism exes hold good positions around the state and the country. Dr. Warren K. Agee, B.A. '37, is chairman of the department of journalism at TCU. The university also has the services of Amos W. Melton, B.A. '28, as director of Information Services.

Ted Allen, B.A. '52, is sports editor of the Kilgore News-

Herald. Jim Brock, B.A. '56, is sports publicity director at TCU.

In the magazine field, Ellis Amburn, B.A. '54, is on the editorial staff of Newsweek Magazine in New York City. Radio and television have claimed the services of Roy Bacus, B.A. '34. He is commercial manager of WBAP AM-FM-TV.

In the public relations field, Bert Haling, B.A. '32, now is with the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Dallas.

Newspapers have claimed the bulk of the exes. John Goodspeed, B.A. '41, is a staff columnist for the Baltimore Evening Sun. Another out of state is Russ Hurst, B.A. '52, who obtained an M.A. in journalism at the University of Minnesota, and who is the city hall reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune. Jack Clark, B.A. '51, is the telegraph editor of the Shreveport Journal.

Fort Worth newspapers include a number of journalism exes on their payrolls. George Smith, B.A. '56, is a photographer for the Star-Telegram. His co-workers include Dick Moore, B.A. '47, sports editor; George Kellam, B.A. '47, sports writer; and Jim Hendricks, B.A. '57; David Brown; B.A. '57; and Mrs. James Trinkle, the former Eugenia Trinkle, B.A. '51, reporters.

Employed at the Press are Bud Shrake, B.A. '53, and Robert Eierdam, B.A. '49. Shrake is a reporter and Eierdam is classified advertising manager. Prominent advertising people include Ben C. Sargent, B.A. '35; Joe Shosid, B.A. '50; and Miss Margaret Thorn, B.A. '30.

1937 Coeds Favored Swagger Suits, Prints

"Swing" is the word to describe skirts worn by the '37 coed.

Designed for tall, slender women, the skirts varied from 12 to 14 inches from the floor, similar to today's styles.

One of the most popular fads was the "swagger suit," a style of wide variety and possibility, featuring a square shoulder jacket either full or hip length with swinging back.

Princess lines, bold penumbras and vividly-colored prints also reflected the flavor of 1937. All were made on simple easy lines.

For night life the '37 coed preferred sweeping evening gowns of sleek satin, laquered pique and glazed linen, which show contrast to the buffant dresses worn today.

Stiff petticoats were the rage, and flimsy materials were worn over them. At least one V-neck dress was a must for the coed, with the apron skirt high on the list.

Stripes were also prevalent, some creations displaying as many as 12 colors.

The '37 coed's wardrobe was topped with a shiny straw hat of English accent and topped with pairs of pastel-colored gabardine slippers.

A tiny handkerchief or bunch of flowers to accent the predominant color of the dress or accessories completed the colorful wardrobe of the 1937 coed.

Hull to Represent TCU at Meeting

Dr. Robert Hull, dean of the School of Fine Arts, will represent TCU at the 33rd annual meeting of the National Association of Schools of Music in Chicago Thursday and Friday.

The representatives will attend a Chicago Symphony Orchestra concert.

National Supply's 6 plants employ 6,500. They are located in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and California.

Our own network of stores—129 in the U.S., Canada and Venezuela—gives fast on-the-spot service to the oil fields.

One of National Supply's oil field products, a large drilling rig, is test-run at our Torrance, California plant.

700 National Supply field sales representatives regularly contact operators in every active oil field in this country.

National Supply has the largest export division in the oil field equipment business, representatives or agents in 24 countries.

We're opening new markets. Here an engineer tests our latest product—heavy-duty torque converters for general industry.

A GLIMPSE AT OPPORTUNITY

In one of the world's most fascinating businesses

The pictures give you an idea of the breadth of opportunity at National Supply. It is opportunity as wide and as varied as the oil fields this company serves.

What you cannot see is the unusual way our trainees are prepared for this opportunity. They spend nine months to a year learning the business—six months in our plants, two in the oil fields, a month at headquarters. Throughout the entire period, they work under the guidance of experienced men.

In effect, it is a practical post graduate course. And the trainee's job is chosen only at the end of the training program. We try to assign him to the job and location he prefers.

This year, National Supply will take just 25 trainees. Their degrees may be in engineering, business or liberal arts—the important thing is their ability and willingness to take responsibility.

Why not see the placement officer and sign up for an interview?

ENGINEER DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM, TOO

Open to 15 graduates, this specialized training lasts 9 to 15 months beyond the general training program.

Brite Shows Increase In Grads

By HARVEY FORT

Twenty years ago, in 1937, only two men received B.D. degrees from Brite College of the Bible. Both are on the campus today. Dr. R. Neilson is dean of the School of Education and Dr. Granville Walker is pastor of University Christian Church.

Today 156 students are enrolled as compared to 20 in 1937. Thirty-eight received degrees in 1957.

The year 1937 was an important year in the history of Brite College. It was decided then that the standard three-year B.D. degree plan would be required for graduation instead of the previous two-year plan. Also a Bachelor of Arts degree would be required for entrance.

In 1940, on its silver anniversary, Brite College put the plan into effect.

In 1937, Brite College found itself with the problem of low-cost housing for married students. In 1938, with the cooperation of Patrick Henry, state secretary of the Disciples of Christ, Dean Colby D. Hall developed the plan of erecting quadruplex apartment homes for married ministerial students.

The Disciples Room was started in the Library in 1937. One-eighth of the more than a quarter million volume library is comprised of theological works collected carefully throughout these years.

The newest development in Brite College is Zanana. This organization for single women students has recently received its charter and Prof. and Mrs. William Hall are faculty sponsors. Zanana is a Hindu word meaning women only. There are 11 single female students this year, the largest in Brite's history.

The single men are organizing a new club, but no name has been given.

University-wide chapel is another example of the growth and progress of religion at TCU.

The first chapel services were held in the west half of third floor of the "old" Brite College (now Education Building). This was used for general assembly, and it did not have the worship atmosphere desired. In 1939 Chapel was moved to the northeast corner room. The students raised money and installed a small pipe organ.

Chapel lasted 30 minutes and was held everyday, six days a week.

The student body grew and the chapel room was moved to the Administration Building.

The old auditorium was located where Dr. Sadler's office is now. Students were required to attend services "as a means of promoting the unity of the school life," and monitors kept the roll.

In time there was not enough room to accommodate the entire student body, and restrictions on attendance were relaxed.

When there were no guest speakers, devotions were given by the faculty. The president or dean of the college would preside.

The Religion Center was completed in 1953 at a cost of $1,200,000. It includes the Robert Carr Chapel in the center, the entire south wing is occupied by Brite College and the north wing is used by undergraduate religion and other classes. The chapel contains a $25,000 Reuter organ.

Student Body President Quits In Interest of School Harmony

By LEE ROY GRINNLEY

"In the interest of harmony and good will for the entire student body," the president of the Student Council has resigned.

The president who resigned was Byron Buckeridge, '38.

In the Sept. 17, 1937, issue of The Skiff, Buckeridge wrote an open letter to the student body in which he enclosed "15 points" which he maintained, would lead to a "live, acting, fighting, progressive Student Council."

The 15 points were:

- 1) New Student Council adviser.
- 2) One o'clock Saturday dates for Jarvis girls.
- 3) Club room in Administration Building.
- 4) Optional chapel attendance for seniors.
- 5) More telephones at Jarvis Hall.
- 6) Trophy case in Ad Building main hall.
- 7) Naming the football stadium.
- 8) Sound system for chapel.

9) Re-writing the student council constitution.

10) Co-op book exchange by mid-year.

11) Three chapel cuts per semester.

12) Student directory for 1937-38.

13) Office for student officials.

14) Drive for Student Union Building.

15) Dances for the Library.

But, not so said some of the councilmen, and they violently opposed Buckeridge's reform program.

Council Vice President Abe Walker said the student body favored the 15 points, and that they could be put into effect if "certain deadheads, conservatives and antique collectors" did not stand in the way.

Walker literally lowered the boom by adding:

"A certain group of councilmen said in the last meeting that they had decided that before the student body president can speak, write or act, the whole council and the whole administration must consent. They don't want a leader—they want a puppet, a figurehead, a yes-man, for president."

The Anti-Buckeridges of the council were determined that the reforming president's head must roll, and that it did.

Richard Poll, Student Christian Association president, was unopposed in the new presidential election, and took office the next week.

Before Buckeridge resigned, he succeeded in providing 12:30 a.m. Saturday dates for all dormitory women, and was idolized by his male counterparts for the action.

Also, a club room was started in the Administration Bldg.

Buckeridge received his B.A. in 1938, M.A. in 1943 and his Ph. D. from Columbia in 1956, and is now teaching at the University of Tulsa.

His 1936-37 counterpart on the council had pressing problems too, but President Harry Roberts wasn't overthrown by violent measures.

One of the greatest problems facing the young governing body was how to get male and female to date for school dances.

First, the number of stag tickets for each dance was decreased.

Next, the council opened a date bureau and appointed Miss Helen Connor to head it.

The bureau's purpose was "to increase the number of couples and decrease the number of stags at student dances."

"It is not for the students' embarrassment, but for their benefit," according to Miss Helen Adams.

The date bureau flourished and many budding romances were bred, but the council choked the last breath from their young creation soon after its birth by staging a "Dateless Dance."

The date bureau was resurrected from the grave in 1938 to provide Aggies with dates on their corps trip to Fort Worth.

President Roberts and his council provided one move that has been preserved for the posterity of Frogland—the election of the first Homecoming Queen, Miss Helen Connor.

Tomorrow at half-time of the Rice-TCU football game, Miss Connor, now Mrs. W. P. Higgins, of Fort Worth, will be escorted to the center of TCU Stadium and crowned Coming Home Queen—1957.

AF Dance Scheduled; Rifle Team Cinches Tie

By NELSON MARSH

The Air Force ROTC annual Christmas Ball will be held at 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 6, in the Ballroom.

Jack Grant's 8-piece orchestra will play for the formal dance.

Included on the invitation list are the base commander and deputy commander of Carswell Air Force Base, President M. E. Sadler, C. J. Firkins, dean of men, and the four officers of the Army ROTC department.

Six members of the TCU ROTC Flying Club will receive solo wings during the evening.

The rifle team, with a tie for the Southwest Rifle Association already cinched, faces Rice here tomorrow morning, needing a victory to sew up the championship outright.

Both teams are undefeated. The Frogs lead the conference with three victories. Rice has won two matches. A Frog victory will give it a conference mark of five victories and no losses. SMU had defaulted all its remaining matches.

The local riflemen cinched a title tie by defeating the University of Texas squad Saturday 1,887-1,867 in Austin. The match was the first in the new $850,000 UT ROTC building. The victory was the sixth straight of the season for the Frogs.

Freshman Don Ryon was high scorer with 385 out of 400 points. He came within one point of tying the school record he holds with junior Ted Lange. Other cadets who fired against UT were Bob Huddleston, Joe Huddleston, Joe Sullivan and Gerald Shamburger. All six are from Fort Worth.

The Army and Air Force units will march in the Homecoming parade at 10 a.m. tomorrow. Drill teams and color guards of each unit will march as separate groups from the rest of the cadets.

Then at the game with Rice in the afternoon, the drill teams will act as escorts and honor guards for the Homecoming and Coming Home queens. Cadet Cmdrs. Roy Eury of the Air Force and Larry Lands of the Army will escort the two queens. Both are cadet colonels.

Other top ranking commanders, including Lt. Col. Roland Jary of the Army group and Lt. Col. Bob Bruton, of the Air Force, will escort the duchesses.

The 36-piece Army ROTC band will play at the first TCU basketball game Dec. 3 against Austin College. This will follow a precedent started last year with the organization acting as the official band for certain home games. Maj. Ruben Fechner Jr., Taylor senior, is band company commander.

John Giordanno, Fort Worth junior, recently returned from a European tour with the Hal McIntyre band. Giordanno will rejoin the Army ROTC when he resumes his studies in the spring.

aside for exes to register, tour the campus and renew old friendships. Registration in the lobby of the Student Center will continue tomorrow.

A banquet honoring winners of the purple 'T' letter will be held at Hotel Texas at 6 p.m. today sponsored by the Ex-Letterman's Association.

Some of the former Frog football stars expected to attend—Lindy Berry, I. B. Hale, Judy Truelson and Davy O'Brien—might still strike a note of fear in the heart of any Southwest Conference opponent.

Former Skiff staff members and journalism majors will be honored at 7:30 p.m. today with a banquet in the press room of the new Dan D. Rogers Hall.

The traditional Homecoming Bonfire will be touched off at 8 p.m. today at a pep rally on the practice field south of the Stadium.

Lighting the fire will be the Coming Home Queen, Mrs. W. P. Higgins, and the 1957 Homecoming Queen.

Mrs. Higgins, the former Ruth Connor, was the 1937 Homecoming Queen, the first in TCU annals.

The honored class of 1937 will hold its class reunion in Room 300 of the SC at 9 a.m. tomorrow, while the class of 1932 will have a reunion coffee in Room 210 at the same time.

At 10 a.m. tomorrow, the Homecoming Parade will get under way in downtown Fort Worth.

Floats from almost 25 campus organizations will be in the parade, and will represent book titles.

Both the Army and Air Force ROTC units, the Horned Frog Band and approximately 30 visiting high school bands will march in the parade.

Four campus organizations—Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Phi Epsilon, the Evening College and the Hoedown Club—were disqualified by Student Congress from competing for float awards in the parade.

The groups failed to comply with a Congress ruling that each organization entering a float in the parade have a representative at a float chairmen's meeting last Friday.

The Ex-Student Association will hold a banquet at 11 a.m. in the Ballroom and will present plaques to the hardest working ex and the most valuable alumnus.

At 2 p.m. tomorrow in sunbathed TCU Carter Stadium (if the weatherman doesn't goof again) the Horned Frogs will attempt to surmount a Hill (King Hill and the Rice

Miss Gloria McKibbian Elected Homecoming Queen of 1957

By SYBIL HUMPHRIES

Miss Gloria McKibbian, Fort Worth senior, will reign as the 1957 Homecoming Queen of Texas Christian University.

The queen's identity was revealed at last night's pep rally in the Ballroom where the presentation was made.

Serving as President of Bryson Club, the brown haired, green-eyed art education major is one of the busiest coeds on campus. She is an Army ROTC sponsor, as well as art chairman and Panhellenic representative of Chi Omega.

Another of Gloria's activities is student teaching in the fourth grade.

She is also a member of the hospitality committee, Association of Childhood Education and National Education Association.

Serving as cheerleader finalist last year, Miss McKibbian enjoys all kinds of sports, with water skiing highest on the list.

Homecoming honors aren't anything new to her as she was a homecoming duchess in high school.

Duchess to the queen is Miss Joan Leatherman, senior elementary education major from Ennis. Miss Leatherman is also TCU Sweetheart, and was a finalist in the Miss TCU contest last year.

Miss Joan Mouser, Fort Worth speech therapy major, is the other duchess in the Homecoming court. Miss Mouser, better known as "Mouse", is a cheerleader and member of Delta Delta Delta.

Owls) that bounced the Texas Aggies from the No. 1 ranking in a nationwide football poll.

After the game, exes will hold a get-together in a tent on the southwest corner of the Stadium grounds.

The tent will be furnished by the Fort Worth General Depot.

More banquets are on tab Saturday night. Harris College of Nursing exes will have their annual banquet at Western Hills at 7 p.m., while the Bryson Club will honor ex-members with a dinner at the same time at River Crest Co same time at the River Crest Country Club.

Exes will have a chance to use dancing steps popular during their college days when Danny Burke's Orchestra starts things swinging at the Homecoming Dance in the Ballroom at 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Ole Frogland Has Grown Since Undergraduate Days

By BOB BRUCE

Here is a word of caution to all visiting TCU exes: Watch where you're going. You might bump into something new.

As a matter of fact, this warning also applies to the current crop of campus pedestrians.

Watch where you're going because a new structure might stand where you are ready to step.

These new obstacles to walkers had their beginning in 1942 with the completion of the first new building on the TCU campus in 12 years, Foster Hall. This was the first link in a chain reaction that has a total atomic valence of 17, the number of new buildings on the campus.

The Nov. 9, 1945, issue of The Skiff carried this headline: "Board to Discuss $2,000,000 Expansion." The sub-headline told even more. "4 New Buildings, Enlargement, Landscaping of Stadium, Jarvis Conversion to be Discussed."

The play was in motion and not even an Aggie line could stop it. The next building was Tom Brown Hall, completed in September 1947. Waits Hall, companion dormitory to Foster Hall, was completed two months later.

The northeast side of the campus was vacant until 1949, when the $2,100,000 Fine Arts Building was completed. Dedication ceremonies were held on Sept. 19.

TCU Amon Carter Stadium was dedicated on Dec. 1, 1951, but more was yet to come. One year and four days later, the $2,200,000 Science Building was dedicated, and on May 9, 1954, the three buildings comprising the Religion Center were completed at a cost of the new $825,000 structure $1,200,000. A little known fact about the Religion Center is that Brite College of the Bible owns its own building.

A construction for campus congregating was finished in 1955, and named the Brown-Lupton Student Center. This building cost $1,200,000. Pete Wright Hall, costing of $500,000, also was completed in 1955, and Jarvis Hall was renovated, then turned over to the girls.

The $400,000 stadium, erected in 1930, was expanded in 1956 to seat 47,000 fans.

The year 1957 has been really a boom period for campus building. Dan D. Rogers Hall, the new $825,000 structure was finished this year at the eastern extremity of the campus. Milton E. Daniel dormitory for men, and Colby D. Hall dormitory for women also were completed this year.

But 1957 is still a building year. At an approximate cost of $2,100,000, Mary Coats Library is being tripled in size, giving it a capacity for 500,000 books and papers.

Look at the date on your senior ring—1873. TCU has seen many changes since Add-Ran College was a two-story brick building marking the foundation of the school in Thorp Spring, Texas.

'My Yoke Is Easy' Was Topic of Rev. Farrar at Tuesday Service

"My Yoke is Easy" was the sermon topic of Rev. James O. Farrar at the Chapel service Tuesday.

"This is the yoke made easy in that Christ comes with forgiveness and gives us a new start," Rev. Farrar said. "Do not underestimate the power of forgiveness. It is the power of redemption."

"I do not see how a man can exist a day without the forgiveness of God."

Rev. Farrar stated that what is needed today is not for ministers to tell people how to live, but to help them to find the power to enable them to live as they should.

"Jesus did not eliminate the yoke. He brought us face to face with it," he said. "Though he spoke of a yoke made easy, it was still a yoke; and though he spoke of a burden made light, it was still a burden.

Life still has to lift and pull and be harnessed to purpose, command, responsibility, obligation, discipline and labor. He did not pretend to make the yoke disappear."

In closing, Rev. Farrar said that the power of love makes all the difference in the world in our carrying the load.

Lester Davis, B.A. '37, is manager of the Los Angeles Sick and Accident Insurance Co.

Davis' nephew, James Allen, is a sophomore geology major, at TCU who plans to work for the Standard Oil of Texas after graduation.

Papers Announce Campus Events

Three thousand Student Center leaflets will be distributed next week by the Activities Council, highlighting events for December.

The eight-page folder, primarily a calendar, lists all Student Center information including Cafeteria and Snack Bar hours.

The new calendar is a convenient billfold size.

Christmas events—a dance, convocation, tree-trimming party and vacation dates—are highlighted.

Prices of Snack Bar games, a list of records suggested for December listening, the basketball schedule, appearance of Bennet Cerf in the third of the Select Series events and Activity Council meeting times also appear.

Single Tickets May be Available For Cerf Show

Although all season tickets to the Select Series are sold, early birds to the Bennett Cerf appearance may be able to purchase single admission tickets for $1.
 Cerf will appear at 8 p.m. Dec. 3, in Ed Landreth Auditorium.
 "Single admission tickets will not go on sale until 7:55, when we expect to be able to determine the number of season-ticket holders unable to attend the performance," Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director, said.
 "We feel sure that there will be a few tickets available, however," she added.

She's Queen Again

Mrs. W. P. Higgins Returns to Reign

By GAIL ROGSTAD
 TCU's first Homecoming Queen, Miss Ruth Connor, returns to reign under a new name and title.
 The honor class graduate now is Mrs. W. P. Higgins, Coming Home queen of 1957.
 "Most of the events and ceremonies feting coronation are like those originally celebrated in 1937," Mrs. Higgins said.
 However, she shared honors with a "maid of honor" from Texas, TCU's gridiron foes at the Homecoming 20 years ago.

Selection and identity of the queen was made known to the student body earlier in the week, but her majesty was presented at the even-then traditional pep rally. That year, fireworks replaced the bonfire.

At the coronation during the game, Mrs. Higgins' escort was Olin Jones, head cheerleader. Senior Class President Joe Reeder was in charge of all arrangements for Homecoming events.

The Homecoming dance was held at the Lake Worth Casino.

"Mrs. Sadie Beckham (former dean of women) proposed to Student Congress that TCU should pick a coed to head the Homecoming events," Mrs. Higgins reminisced.

"Baylor had set the precedent earlier that fall, and Mrs. Beckham felt that TCU should select a student too."

The blue-eyed brunette, an English and Spanish major, held various offices in English, dramatics and journalism clubs on campus during her four years here.

Mrs. Higgins, a Fort Worth native, was a member of the Student Council, secretary-treasurer of the Student Body and Horned Frog beauty in her senior year.

As a senior and briefly after her graduation, she worked for WBAP radio station before her marriage.

"Most of my interests and activities now center around my husband and three children," she smiled.

Her husband is Dr. W. P. Higgins, local general practitioner and surgeon. The children are Pat, 16, a Paschal junior, Mike, 11, and Ann, 10.

The entire family is active in groups at St. Andrew's Catholic Church. Mrs. Higgins is a member of the Paschal Boosters' Club, and is a Campfire Girl leader and a Cub Scout den mother.

She claims books, magazines and newspapers as her favorite entertainment.

"My friends know when my phone is busy that it may be off the hook because I'm reading again," she laughed.

One of her most recent jobs has been as member of the honor class committee.

"I've been looking forward anxiously to seeing all my friends again," she said. "I've spent more time with my old annual in the past month than in the last 20 years."

Recent Changes To Give Ramsey Time For Calls

Recent changes made in the Ex-Students Association office, will allow Director Hartwell Ramsey to spend more time in state-wide contact of alumni groups.

Miss Marion Meaders will handle most of Ramsey's duties in the campus office, giving him more time to solicit revenue for the University.

Ramsey will retain his position as director of the office however.

Mrs. Ruth Walker has been added to the Ex-Student Association staff, assuming the duties of recording registrar.

Robert Routh, BA '50, was also named as assistant to the director, and will compile contribution reports.

Shake Those Rafters', Cried 1937 Students

By SYBIL HUMPHRIES
 "Let those rafters shake," was the cry of the class of 1937.

Everyone was swinging to the red hot music of the Harlem Aces, Negro band, heard frequently at the dances in the old gymnasium after basketball games.

The "Bowery Dance" was typical of the entertainment in '37. Prizes of $1 each were given to the girl and boy with the best costumes. Boys wore derbies and peg-leg pants, and girls, sleek satins split on one side.

Another amusement in '37 was the Vice-Versa Dance. Each girl had to furnish the car, call for her date, escort him to the car, open the door and foot the bills. This allowed the coed to assume her most protective air. She might go so far as to walk on the outside of the sidewalk.

Weekends, when no dancing was scheduled on campus, the Frogs gathered at the Blackstone Hotel, (now the Hilton Hotel) to hear Everett Hoagland's band.

To make sure that the right girls met the right boys for all such occasions, Mrs. W. P. Higgins Jr., Coming Home queen, the former Miss Ruth Connor, took applications at a "Date Bureau" from 10 to 11 a.m. on Mondays and Fridays.

Blondes were preferred by the boys, with brunettes and redheads close behind. Football players, ministerial students and band boys were chosen by the girls. Good dancers were also in demand.

One girl said she didn't want a date with a football player—she would take a gentleman, if you please.

Symphony Orchestra Will Play Tuesday

The TCU Symphony Orchestra will present its fall concert at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The orchestra will be conducted by Dr. Ralph R. Guenther, professor of theory and flute. Occupying the concert master's seat will be Kenneth Schanewerk, instructor in theory and violin.

The orchestra is composed of 66 members. This includes six faculty members, and 21 other orchestra members now playing in the Fort Worth Symphony.

The program will feature Beethoven's Symphony No. 5 in C Minor, Opus 67. During World War II this was known as the "victory symphony."

Other scores to be found on the program are:

The overture from "Iphigenia in Aulia," an opera written by Gluck.

"Siegfried Idyll,"—themes taken from the Siegfried opera by Wagner.

"Over the Hill and Far Away" by Delius, a light number along the line of chamber music.

"Espana Rhapsody" by the French composer, Chabrier, based on several folk songs. This number will close the concert.

The orchestra will play a mid-winter concert Feb. 16 and a spring concert April 11. An additional performance with the chorus is scheduled for May, Dr. Guenther said.

Johnny Swaim, B.A. '53, now coaching at TCU, was a basketball and baseball coach, Paul Smith, coaching at Galena Park in Houston coached football, and Robert Zott, B.A. '53, also coaching at Galena Park, coached baseball and football over Rutherford.

1914 Student Remembers TCU's Humble Beginnings

EDITOR'S NOTE

The following article was written by Mrs. Lyla Jean Maxey, B.A. '38, M.A. '45, who originally entered TCU in the fall of 1914. Mrs. Maxey took a few years off from her studies after 1915 to raise a family before re-entering the University in 1934. She is now enrolled in "Feature Writing" here.

The people of Fort Worth saw TCU erected in 1910 on the edge of a vast prairie. As a Christian university, the faculty and personnel have encouraged high morals and scholarship in its students. In this spirit the teachers of TCU have given their time and energy to private instruction for special students at a class price.

In the beginning, scholarships were few, but the university made possible a schedule for a student who would apply himself when he was not working at other things. For the first time in 1914 by a teacher who was permitted to study chemistry on Saturdays under W. B. Parks, the "grand old man of science," and H. B. Dobbs, the laboratory of male students was invaded by a lone female.

In the year of 1916-17 "Advanced Composition" was enjoyed under T. V. Smith from the University of Texas. A grade of "A" entitled a special teacher-student to work with the regular class on Saturdays.

During the second semester the class took up Kipling, Alfred Noyes and John Masefield. The class attended a lecture given by the poet, Alfred Noyes, at Scottish-Rite Cathedral in Dallas. Some of the first reading tests in Fort Worth classrooms were under the direction of Dr. William H. Batson's "Experimental Education" class.

"History of Education" was taught by Dr. E. C. Wilson to a small group of teachers in 1917-18. Professor Walter Bryson inspired the group who read "Nineteenth Century Poets." T. V. Smith presented "Ethics" to the group.

In the summer of 1934 Professor E. W. McDiarmid, editor of the Interpreter, made "Philosophy of Education" a challenge as was "Personal Hygiene" by Mrs. Helen Murphy and Walter S. Knox.

The years of '34, '36 were directed by Dr. Rebecca Smith who became a leader of the "Waves" and is now Mr. Owen Lee of Kentucky. Studies of "English Prose and Poetry" and the "Novel in England to 1832" also were taught. Sigma Tau Delta was enjoyed at this time. "Contemporary American Literature" was popular under Dr. Smith in the newly established Evening College, made possible by the interest of teachers and other adult workers seeking an education.

In 1937-38 "Advanced Composition and Conversation in Spanish" as well as the "Nineteenth Century Novel in Spanish" also were taught by Miss Carter. Dr. F. E. Billington taught "Teachings of Jesus" in Evening College and Dr. M. D. Clubb expounded "Modern Drama."

Dean Colby D. Hall states in his "History of Texas Christian University" that a large portion of candidates for Master's degree were teachers. The years of 1943-45 were spent in study for an M.A. Degree by the same teacher-student who had crashed the chemistry class in 1914-15.

Over 200 Business Men Attend Industrial Relations Conference

The Industrial Relations Conference in Dan D. Rogers Hall Tuesday and Wednesday was "a tremendous success," according to Dr. Murray M. Rohman, associate professor personnel administration and planning chairman for the conference.

Registration for the meeting, sponsored by TCU and the American Arbitration Association, was well above the expected total.

"Approximately 55 per cent of those present represented management and 45 per cent were from organized labor," Dr. Rohman said. "One hundred sixty-five were registered before the first session."

A mock arbitration was held Wednesday.

Among the speakers were Joseph S. Murphy, vice-president of the American Arbitration Association,

Spring brings the swallows back to Capistrano, and fall brings the exes back to TCU.

Swallows Flying Back

Just why the swallows return to Capistrano is something of a mystery. Everyone knows why the exes flock back to TCU—or do they?

The average student probably is so preoccupied with getting out that he is slightly puzzled that anyone would want to come back.

The truth is the exes come back for a number of reasons. It would require at least a small book to catalog them.

Some of them return to live past glories.

"There on the forty yard line is where I intercepted the pass that won the game."

Some come back to see the changes in the University.

"My, don't the freshmen look young!"

Others come back to see their past classmates.

"Have you noticed how old Bill looks?"

Still others return to visit friends they left behind when they flew the coop.

"You mean you haven't hooked him yet?"

Whatever reason the ex has for coming back, he's welcome.

Why else the floats, dance and other activities? Even though students know only a few of the exes personally, they want the exes to feel as though they are back in the same old comfortable nest they once knew.

Anyway, they sort of like the old birds to come back and see how the nest has grown.

Open Book Tests?

The honor system is being discussed for TCU once more.

The system envisioned by Student Association President George Depee encompasses more than just honesty at examination time, but the fight against cheating is one of the main concerns.

Honesty might be gained by revising the examination method and having open book tests.

Like Christianity, this system is held suspect for its very simplicity and forthrightness.

Applied in a logical manner, developed to fit various requirements, it eliminates cheating by erasing the need.

Detractors of the system claim it eliminates study.

The opposite would seem to be true. It would be nearly impossible to start scanning an unopened book at exam time and expect to find all of the facts required.

The system should result in a wider reading of texts. Regular attendance in class also would be encouraged as a source of valuable notes.

Completion of outside assignments would result in additional information needed at exam time.

The modern business man does not attend a conference empty-handed. He is armed with charts, graphs, books and papers.

The college examination is the student's conference. In a manner of speaking, he has to prove himself.

Yet he attends empty-handed, or at least supposedly so.

The emphasis upon memory in college work is an unreal attitude, for it is not matched in the world to which the student will graduate.

The student would be much better prepared if he were trained to use the proper references in a proper manner for an intelligent result.

The Passing of a Bird

Next Thursday, the most unfortunate fowl in the bird kingdom—the turkey—will be hacked up and devoured by millions of Americans.

Before his final day of reckoning, this poor, naive gobbler is led to believe that he is the most important and beloved creature in the barnyard.

He receives an abundance of feed, administered by kindly hands. He is given special strutting privileges and even has a roost of his own.

In fact, good old Tim is so full of affection he doesn't even suspect what is in store for him that fateful morning when his master shows up with a strange gleam in his eye instead of the customary cup of grain.

Once on the festive table, poor Tom again is abused by children fighting for his legs, and even the adults think it's fun to pull his bones apart and make a wish. Everybody hates his neck.

But after the big day is over, does he get to rest in peace?

No. He is shut up in a cold vault and manhandled for seven days by housewives, who use his remains for sandwiches, hash, soup and stew.

Finally the poor fowl is glad to be forgotten by everyone in the house, including the dog, who won't even come near his bowl of leftover turkey livers.

As the dejected spirit of the turkey floats upward to the big feeding ground in the sky, he pauses to give one bit of thanks—thanks that this holiday comes but once a year.

The Pharisee

Through a File, Mustily

By FRANK PERKINS

Well, here it is . . . the Homecoming Issue.

***

It's been two weeks in the making . . . two weeks of work and sweat and midnight oil, and checking and cross checking and rechecking, and curses and tears and snapping nerves.

***

But, regarded in the soft light of retrospect, it's been a helluva lot of fun.

It is always interesting to check back through musty files and back issues of The Skiff and Horned Frog. It seems to soften the heart and gladden the eye to see a familiar face as it looked some fifteen or twenty years ago.

And, too, one gets the idea that the adage about history repeating itself is more truth than poetry.

***

In those musty files and back issues we find the students of yesteryear had the same problems we have today.

Of course, the demons of study, and tests and grades and dates are universal and unchanging.

Student Congress had its trials and tribulations, and much of them paralleled today's problems . . . slightly bent elections, dissension in the rank and file, a polite horn-locking or two with the Administration . . . the class of '07 had them the same as the class of '57.

***

And, in sports, the Aggies were dreaded opponents, and the TCU male resented the Aggie invasion of his campus and his "girl(s)" as much then as now.

***

Of course, the physical campus changes . . . new buildings have been sprouting up over the campus since the 40s. But, the life and times of the student who lives and studies in these buildings remains basically the same as his predecessors.

***

In reality, the only change is in the language, the dress and the manner of the students. The frustrations, the anxieties, the humor, the mischief, these are ageless.

Many years ago, campus comedians used to grease the trolley tracks that ran in front of the school, then write in laughter when the trolley attempted to stop and went slipping and sliding down the tracks.

It finally reached the point that the motorman expected it and joined in with the fun.

Nowadays, campus humor-men have to go a little more carefully . . . nearly everything that comes under the heading of fun is either immoral, unlawful or costly.

Besides, there're not too many funny things you can do with a bus.

***

In the '20s, the campus was buzzing with discussion about the famous Scopes trial, a case concerning the teaching of Darwin's "theory of evolution."

Today, Sputnik, Muttink and integration are the main topics of interest.

Which proves wherever there is a controversial action, the college student will jump all over himself taking sides.

When you really think about it . . . the only difference between the class of '37 and the class of '58 is just 21 years, and a slight increase in girth . . . just this and nothing more.

***

Welcome, exes, we're awfully glad you came. 21 years, and a slight increase in girth . . . just this and nothing more.

SW Campus Confidential

A story from the University of Houston Cougar tells of a professor's two-year-old daughter who has a mania for cleanliness.

The child told her mother "Those dirty kitties are going round and round."

The mother let the remark soak in then gasped and headed for the washing machine. Peering forlornly through the porthole were four soggy kittens, who had been round and round—through the full cycle.

Fortunately the water control was set on lukewarm and the kittens were unharmed—but they were clean.

***

The Rice Thresher came up with a good example of the "absent-minded professor."

A professor put a sign on a soft-drink machine stating that some people were so absent-minded that they left change in the machine. Anyone finding change in the machine, was requested by the sign to put the change in the bottle on top of the machine. If the owner remembered the money, he could come and get it.

There wasn't any bottle on the machine. The professor had forgotten to put it there.

***

Russian Roulette seems to be the newest fad to hit the campus since goldfish eating, according to the SMU Campus.

At least six universities have RR clubs, and New York University alone numbers 3,065 fans.

The college game works a little differently than the original game. A poker game decides who is to put the gun to his head and how many times he is to pull the trigger. The gun is loaded with one blank, instead of a real bullet. If the gun goes off, the result is not death, but a shattering explosion.

An excellent diversion for one who has been studying all night for a test.

As one fan said "This is a game to play with your enemies — not your friends. You can live dangerously without serious consequences."

Might be safer than panty raids at that.

TCU History Filled With Gunshots, Fires, Cheers; Remembered by Returning Exes

By RICHARD TIPTON
Hip-i-ty hip! Ca-zip!
Hip-i-ty hip! Ca-zip!

This may sound like the opening lyrics to a rock 'n' roll song, but ask any 1902 ex to supply the ending and he'll probably say:

Ho-up! Par-a-ba-loo
Bully for TCU.

This yell used to bring the Frogs out of the huddle at the old Add-Ran College in Waco, about 52 years before Elvis. In fact, the only hip-swinging accompanying this cheer was done by TCU backs trying to avoid tacklers.

Another favorite yell used by granddad against opposing teams like Toby, Fort Worth University and Texas was:

Rah. Rah. Rah.
Who are you?
We are the boys
From TCU.

Yes, Homecoming can stir up a lot of memories from out of the past—memories that will be remembered by exes throughout their lives, and undoubtedly told again and again to their children or grandchildren.

For instance, who could forget the fire of 1910 that completely destroyed the Main Building in Waco and resulted in the big move to Fort Worth?

True, the event was a tragedy, but many a chuckle was salvaged from the ashes.

One student, Roy Tomlison, became so exhausted from removing his belongings that he collapsed and had to be carried two blocks for treatment by a passing coed, Ada Culpepper.

Then there was Bob Abernathy, who became so excited during the blaze, that he threw his mirror out of the dorm window and carried his mattress downstairs.

And who could forget the remark made by Van Zandt Jarvis, president of the Board of Trustees, during his speech in chapel, shortly after the establishment of TCU in Fort Worth.

"TCU is the most valuable asset Fort Worth has, next to the packing houses . . . what I meant to say was . . . next to the packing houses, TCU is the most valuable asset in Fort Worth."

The year 1910 also saw a great change in the social life on the campus.

It was decided the seniors have dates. But unfortunately there were only 13 boys and eight girls in the class, hardly enough for a good taffy pull.

In 1916, the high cost of living hit the campus. Students were told that board would have to be increased $2 a month, making the price of a nine-month flop come to the grand total of $18.

You'd never think a flagpole could bring a smile to an ex of 1918, but if he was in the vicinity of the Ad Building on one unforgettable morning, he'll never forget this incident:

An exhibitionist pilot circling the campus developed engine trouble and crashed into the flagpole. Fortunately, he fell unhurt in a honeysuckle arbor at the north side of the building.

The 20s was the decade of jazz, flappers, shieks, bear-skin coats and a great many humorous happenings on the TCU campus.

If your parents are exes of 1926, they'll undoubtedly remember the startling banner headlines on the March 26 issue of The Skiff, which read: "Nine Lives Lost in TCU Laboratory."

After reading the story they were relieved to learn that the life of a cat had been taken instead.

The big vote occurred in 1927.

Coeds voted at a Jarvis Hall meeting, that no dignified college girl should indulge in garments so brief as to expose the knee.

The highlight of the assembly led to a confession by one of the girls that her steady, a football player, had told her in a gentle but tactful manner that she would be much more attractive in a longer skirt.

The depression years didn't seem to put a dent on a student's sense of humor. Possibly the biggest practical joke ever played at TCU was in 1932 in front of Goode Hall.

It all started when a student, Hubert Dennis, came into Goode Hall parlor with a .38 caliber six-shooter loaded with blanks and started firing into the ceiling.

According to a pre-arranged plan, another student, Foster Howell, ran out the front door with Dennis firing behind him.

Howell clutched his back and fell to the pavement and was immediately carried back into the dorm by other members of the plot.

When word reached the dean, he didn't believe the story until a passing ambulance siren awakened his fears. See HISTORY, Page 15

HOW TO STUDY

The makers of Marlboro Cigarettes have bought this space so I can bring a message of importance to American undergraduates each week. There is no more important message I can bring you than this: College can be beautiful. Don't louse it up with studying.

That was my mistake. At first, cowed by college, I studied so much that I turned into a dreary, blinking creature, subject to dry mouth and night sweats. This dismal condition prevailed until I learned the real meaning of college. And what is that? I'll tell you what: to prepare you to face the realities of the world. And what do you need to face the realities of the world? I'll tell you what: poise. And how do you get poise? I'll tell you how: not by sticking your nose in a book, you may be sure!

Relax! Live! Enjoy! . . . That's how you get poise. Of course you have to study, but be poised about it. Don't be like some drones who spend every single night buried in a book. They are not learning poise; what's more, they are playing hob with their posture.

The truly poised student knows better than to make the whole semester hideous with studying. He knows that the night before an exam is plenty of time to study.

Yes, I've heard people condemn cramming. But who are these people? They are the electric light and power interests, that's who! They want you to sit up late and study every night so you will use more electricity and enrich their bulging coffers.

Don't be taken in by their insidious propaganda! Cramming is clearly the only sensible way to study. But beware! Even cramming can be overdone. When you cram, be sure you are good and relaxed. Before you start, eat a hearty dinner. Then get a date and go out and eat another hearty dinner. Then go park some place and light up a Marlboro. Enjoy the peaceful pleasure it affords. Don't go home till you're properly relaxed.

Once at home, stay relaxed. Do not, however, fall asleep. This is too relaxed. To insure wakefulness, choose a chair that is not too comfortable. For example, take a chair with nails pointing up through the seat.

Place several packs of Marlboros within easy reach. Good, mild tobacco helps you relax, and that's what Marlboro is—good, mild tobacco. But Marlboro is more than just good, mild tobacco; it is also cigarette paper to keep the good, mild tobacco from spilling all over the place. And a filter. And a flip-top box. And a red tape to lift the cigarettes easily . . . It is, in short, a lot to like.

Now you've got the uncomfortable chair and the Marlboros. Now you need light. Use the lit end of your Marlboro. Do not enrich the light and power interests.

Read your textbook in a slow, relaxed manner. Do not underline; it reduces the resale value of the book. Always keep your books in prime resale condition. You never know when you'll need getaway money.

As you read you will no doubt come across many things you don't understand. But don't panic. Relax. Play some Fats Domino. Remove a callus. Go out and catch some night crawlers.

Relax! Live! Enjoy! Remember—any number of people have bachelor's degrees, but precious few have poise!

© 1957, Max Shulman
It doesn't take any cramming to learn that the finest filter cigarette on the market today is Marlboro, whose makers take pleasure in bringing you this column regularly.

3rd of Cagle Clan Is Now Art Major

Miss Carol Cagle is third in her family of three to claim TCU as "their college."

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Cagle, both attended in 1933. That year, Cagle received his B.S. degree in economics and married the former Miss Christine Ackers of Abilene.

Before her marriage, however, the brunette junior was named band sweetheart and runner-up for freshman class favorite.

Cagle, business manager of his senior class, went to work immediately for radio station KFJZ in advertising sales and as an announcer.

27 to Attend Region Parley

Twenty-seven members of the nine Activities Council committees will represent TCU at the Region Nine convention of the Association of College Unions in Dallas.

The meetings will be held all day Friday and until noon Saturday, Dec. 6-7. A dinner-dance Friday night will be given for the 200 delegates expected to attend the convention.

Student Congress will pay expense for many of the TCU students attending.

TCU delegates are:

HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE:
Caroline Murrin, chairman; Becky McCormack, Lou Ann Ramey, Dianne Emmons, Linda Monk, Linda Frye.

DANCE:
Allan Hansen, chairman; Ann Matlock, co-chairman, and Marilyn Foster.

SPECIAL EVENTS:
Horace Griffiths, chairman; Jo Rita Johnson.

FORUMS:
John Moore, Clark Lindley.

ENTERTAINMENT:
Suzanna Lee, Janie Rae Foskett.

PERSONNEL AND EVALUATIONS:
Roland Jary, chairman; Carolyn Barrett, Richard Gorsuch.

PUBLICITY:
Dennis Cooper, chairman.

STUDENT-FACULTY RELATIONS:
Charles (Chuck) Dowell, Josie Lu Bird.

ART & DECORATIONS:

URC:
Delegates to be chosen later.

dent of the radio and television station and of the Texas State Network.

Today's Cagle, a pert blonde, is a sophomore art major.

Although her specialty is oils, she may branch off into the commercial art field. At present, oils still hold her favor and a gallery of her works is hung in her home at 3912 Trail Lake Dr.

Still-lifes are her principal subjects — soft shadings and muted tones predominate in the representations of sea shells, broken bottles and fruits.

"I haven't done any portraits yet—although I'd like to try—but I don't think I'm ready for them yet," she said.

Carol's student activities include her sorority, Kappa Delta, Brushes Club, and the youth group of the University Christian Church.

She is a member of the art and directions and dance committees of the Activities Council.

The three Cagles are all staunch TCU supporters.

Dr. W. C. Nunn Speaks

Dr. W. C. Nunn, Amon G. Carter professor of American history, spoke to the Texas library division of the Woman's Club last Friday in Bewley Hall.

His subject was "The State Police During the Reconstruction Era in Texas." This was also the subject of his master's thesis.

Carolyn Kerr, Fort Worth sophomore elementary education major recently became related to a TCU grad.

She married Adyth "Nick" Kerr in August. Kerr, B.S. '57, is now teaching at Burleson High School.

Charles Johnson, Perry, Okla., religion major is related to Jimmy Dickie, B.S. '56. Johnson, a sophomore, is Dickie's cousin.

Mrs. Christine Cagle, ex. '33, Carol Cagle, class of '60, Mr. Gene Cagle, B.S. '33.

Science Groups Note Increased Enrollment

A sizable increase in enrollment stands out among the other changes in the departments of biology-geology chemistry and physics.

Twelve potential scientists were graduated in 1937. Ninety-one students will receive science degrees next spring.

"We had a strong class in 1937. There were many good students that year," Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, professor of biology, related.

Among those graduating in 1937 were Dr. Thomas W.

Black, now a Fort Worth pediatrician; Dr. Bill deVlaming, physician in Kaufman; Dr. William R. Whitehouse, physician in Cleburne, and Dr. Ruth Campbell, now teaching at Duke Medical College in Durham, N. C.

Others are Dr. David Nicol, with the U. S. National Museum in Washington, D. C., and Harold McClure, Midland, and Bruce Scrafford, Houston, both independent geologists.

The new Science Building was built in 1949.

Dr. Hodgkins Gets Research Grant

A $1,990 grant from the Research Corporation of New York has been given Dr. Joe E. Hodgkins, associate professor of chemistry, for research on the synthetic production of mustard oils which give flavor to radishes, cabbage and related plants.

The mustard oils are also valuable as antibiotics.

"The importance lies in the fact that no method exists in the preparation of the related oils," Dr. Hodgkins stated.

Several papers on the project published by Dr. Hodgkins on this subject are, "The Mustard Oil of Rape," "The Mustard Oil of Papaya," and "Synthesis of Isothiocyanates." These appeared in the American Chemical Society Journal of 1955-1956.

YOU KNOW IT'S HOMECOMING when students begin working until 2 a.m. on homecoming floats . . .

30 Hours To Teach

Methods of Education, Students, Colleges Differ Widely Since '37

By JERRY HYDE

In 1937 teacher's certificates could be acquired with 30 semester hours of college work for elementary teachers, or 60 semester hours for high school teachers.

Foremost in the teacher's college approach in 1937 were the requirements for course content and degree programs.

Twenty years ago education scholars debated the teaching of fundamental academic subject matter and skills as opposed to so-called "educationists" who emphasized a "child-centered" approach. At present, teacher education stresses the need for understanding of the "learner" and competence in teaching of subject matter.

Before World War II there appeared to be a lack of cooperation between the departments or schools offering professional courses in education and the subject matter departments.

A prominent issue in 1937 was the role tax-supported and private institutions should play. Then, private colleges were beginning to develop more elementary teachers. In 1957 in Texas, 42 percent of teachers on all levels are being provided by private institutions.

Was general education essential for teachers in 1937? A wide divergence of opinion existed then, but now there is an absolute minimum required of every individual who desires a certified teachers certificate in the Texas public school system.

Poorly managed trips to public schools in 1937 comprised practice teaching observation. Now students are required actually to participate on a professional basis. Students must enter the instructional program for a half day, five days a week, during an entire school term.

The year 1937 saw education courses stress methods, materials and the mechanics of school operation. This year witnesses an integration of these points with the subject matter contents stemming from such fields as history, government, psychology, English, sociology, mathematics, sciences, fine arts and foreign languages.

Once a prospective teacher was thought of as an "educationist." Now a person is required to qualify more as an educator, and only an "educated person" can meet such a criterion.

Social Handbook Useful, Popular

Another addition to the campus which the exes will find interesting is the 24 page pamphlet, "Textbook of Campusology."

The book, compiled by Social Director Miss Elizabeth Youngblood and Ken Holder, Amarillo junior, explains in an interesting style all the various methods of organizing and controlling a campus club.

Such information as selection of meeting times, rules about hazing, advertisement soliciting, and general organizations of campus clubs and groups are in the pamphlet.

EVEN THE GIRLS, aren't quite sure what they're doing, especially when it comes to handling a saw.

Journalists Celebrate

Department Marks 30th Anniversary

The department of journalism celebrates its 30th anniversary this year with continued progress, having recently moved into new quarters in Dan D. Rogers Hall and enlarged its staff.

The late J. Willard Ridings founded the department in 1927, and served as its chairman until his death in 1948.

Mr. Ridings held a master's degree from the University of Missouri. He was a former Linotype operator who liked to set at least one story in type when he took his students on field trips.

In addition to the younger Ridings, the staff included Dr. Warren K. Agee, current chairman, and Gordon Lund, then head of the TCU news bureau. Mr. Lund taught one course and Dr. Agee was a full-time instructor, having left his job as a Fort Worth Star-Telegram reporter to take the post.

Mr. Ridings left in 1950, and went into public relations work. Mr. Lund departed the same year to enter the ministry study at Wittenberg College in Missouri. He now is a Lutheran minister.

Dr. Ellsworth Chunn was appointed acting chairman in 1951 when Dr. Agee took a temporary leave of absence to work on his Ph.D. at the University of Minnesota.

Dr. Agee received his doctorate in 1955 after being named chairman of the department in 1952.

The journalism department has grown under his guidance and expanded from Building 5 to its current quarters. The area is composed of classrooms, labs and offices for The Skiff and Horned Frog staffs, a photography studio with four darkrooms, and a pressroom, where the J. Willard Ridings Memorial Press will be housed.

The department has two full-time and two part time instructors.

Dr. Max R. Haddick was added this fall. He specializes in photography and is faculty adviser of the Horned Frog. Dr. Agee serves The Skiff in this capacity.

Dr. Haddick teaches the advanced photography class, sophomore news writing and copy reading, and yearbook problems and practices. Dr. Agee handles classes in reporting, editorial writing, feature writing and history of journalism.

Fully accredited under the evaluation program of the Southern Association of Colleges and Universities, the department is a member of the American Society of Journalism School Administrators.

OF COURSE A FEW TRIED TO STUDY, but then, who ever heard of studying the week before homecoming.

Three Woman Committee Plans Reunion Coffee for '37 Class

Hats off to three Fort Worth alumnae for their planning initiative.

The three women members of the '37 class have been in charge of planning all details for the honor class reunions.

The women are Mmes. Ed Pritchard (Miss Helen Miellmier) chairman; Wilburn Davis (Miss Genevieve Papineau), and Milton B. Capers (Miss Betty Buster).

Members of the honored class will each be given an inscribed plaque at a reunion coffee, and will take part in the Homecoming parade.

The coffee will be held from 9 till 10 a.m. tomorrow in Room 300 of the Student Center and former senior class officers will greet the other members of their class.

The officers are Joe Reeder, president, and Jay Smith, vice-president.

Responses to letters and reservation cards mailed this fall entitle each class member to an aluminum plaque honoring the 1937 class.

Some of the members will ride in special cars in tomorrow's parade with Mrs. W. P. Higgins, Coming Home Queen.

Alumni of that year are expected from several sections of the country. Travelers coming the greatest distance to the reunion are Mrs. Jack Gates (Miss Helen Adams) of California and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roberts of Clinton, Ky. Mrs. Roberts is the former Miss Boots Goodwin.

Business School Was Department

In 1937, the School of Business was a department in Add-Ran College of Arts and Sciences. Classes were held in the basement of the Administration Building.

The school now is housed in the Dan D. Rogers Hall.

Dean Ike Harrison of the School of Business has termed the new structure "one of the finest learning establishments in the Southwest."

Some students under a business curriculum in 1937 were: James R. Young, now assistant vice-president of the Rio Grande National Insurance Company in Dallas; James W. Miller, vice-president of the Employers Casualty Company of Dallas; R. A. Massey, accountant and secretary for the Montex Drilling Company of Fort Worth, and Milton Burns, Fort Worth C.P.A.

Dick Simpson, B.A. '36 graduate, is now a Big Spring rancher and is serving on the Board of Trustees. His son, Wade Bland Simpson is a junior Spanish major and is president of Los Hidalgos.

Second Production Will Be Presented

The Little Theater will present its second production, "The Fishbeck Tapestry", at 8 p.m. Dec. 6, 7 and 10-14 in the Little Theater.

This play is the first contemporary German play to be staged by the theatrical group, Dr. Walther Volback, director of the theater, said.

• HISTORY

and without a moments hesitation he fled to the scene.

It was reported that he returned sometime later with a very red face.

Any student attending TCU from 1936-38 didn't need a practical joke for a morale builder. Eleven men saw to that.

The climax to this cheering-up process occurred in 1938, when TCU was named the No. 1 football team of the nation, headed by a quarterback named Davy O'Brien.

This was the same O'Brien who not too many seasons before had been called "too slight to become a great player."

During the early 40s, there wasn't too much to laugh about.

Textbooks were being exchanged for carbines. Lucky Strike Green had gone to war and Glenn Miller pops were replaced with the new hits of the day—"Bless 'Em All," and "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

Many a coed of that trying period will remember the bandage-making sessions in Brite, or the time the campus was invaded in 1943 by 240 naval personnel for an officer training program.

When it was over, most of the veterans came back, even though Lucky Strike Green didn't.

Exes of the late 40s will never forget the overcrowded classrooms, jammed with men who wanted to learn how to better their lives instead of fight for them.

The TCU campus of 1957 probably will come as quite a surprise to many returning homecomers, with its new buildings that have pushed the older structures out of the limelight to make way for progress.

But brick and mortar can't seal up memories.

The ghost of yesteryear will always roam the campus, waiting to haunt the mind of an ex-student with pleasant images of happiness and laughter that will never be forgotten.

He added, this is the second time this play has been performed in English in the United States. The premier in English was at the University of Washington.

Addressing the audience Dec. 6 will be the editor of "Books Abroad," by Dr. Ernst Erich Norh. He is also professor of comparative literature at the University of Oklahoma.

Introducing Dr. Norh is the Concul of the Federal Republic of Germany, Dr. W. E. Noebel. Dr. Robert Hull, dean of the school of Fine Arts will preside.

The author of "The Fishbeck Tapestry", Manfred Hausmann, said Dr. Volback, has used as the core of the play the "problem of guilt or innocence in a murder and the crucial part played by the human conscience."

The cast for this production consists of four members who are equal in importance. They are: Doug Grey, Fort Worth freshman, Edmond DeLette, New Orleans, La., senior, Misses Joyce Nicholson, Cameron sophomore and Linda Neviitt, Fort Worth sophomore.

The public may obtain their tickets from the Little Theater box office for $1.25 each. The box office hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Students were given season tickets in fall registration line.

The next play to be staged by the Little Theater is the "House of Bernalda Alba" by Federico Lorca on March 7, 8 and 11-15.

Moore to Leave For Conference

Dr. Jerome A. Moore, dean of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences, will leave Fort Worth next Friday for Richmond, to participate in the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

From Dec. 1-3, he will serve as chairman of the committee on Latin-American colleges applying for membership.

Dean Moore later will serve on the committee on standards and reports, which reviews the annual reports of all accredited colleges and universities in 11 Southern states.

While at Richmond, he also will meet with the executive council of the association.

He tentatively is scheduled to attend portions of the Conference of Academic Deans of the Southern States, which will be in session in Richmond.

Exes, Students Will Dance Under 'Big Top'

All the flair, excitement and color of the circus will enliven the Homecoming dance from 8:30 to 11:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Ballroom.

The Ballroom will become the "big top." Three mock tent poles will support a gay canopy, and entertainment will be the theme for "the rings."

"We feel that the decorations for this dance should be the best of the year," Joe Dulle, Activities Council director, said. "The art and decorations committee, headed by Richard LaBoon, has spent more than 30 hours getting them ready."

Danny Burke's 11-piece dance orchestra will play for the informal dance. Admission is free to all exes and students.

The dance, usually held on Friday night after the bonfire, this year will follow the game with Rice to insure greater attendance.

"The committee felt that more students, especially those tied up with float building the night before the parade, could attend on Saturday," Miss Luann Dyche, Homecoming committee co-chairman, said.

"Also the dance will climax the bigger day of Homecoming."

No Publications; Reporters Rest

The Skiff will not be published next week since the University will dismiss students after 10 p.m. Wednesday for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Members of The Skiff staff will go to the courthouse where Star-Telegram and Press reporters will discuss covering that beat with them.

The Skiff will be published as usual the following Friday, Dec. 6 innovation to campus society life.

The new entertainment, introduced for the Baylor game, proved contrary to another TCU force at work then.

A date bureau had been operating on campus for the expressed purpose of eliminating the "alarming number of stags" at campus dances. The dateless dance, however proved to be more popular with TCU men beset with depression problems than the bureau.

Exes at tomorrow's dance may be surprised to find that the "stag" and the custom of "tagging" has disappeared almost entirely from the TCU prom scene.

The date bureau-dateless dance incident was but one of many happenings on the TCU campus some 20-odd years ago. Another fall Skiff reported shattering news:

The Tulsa homecoming queen ignored precedent with her refusal to kiss Frog captain Sammy Baugh in official greetings at Oklahoma City.

"Slingshot Sammy" got the handshake instead of the buzz.

With the end of football season, the Frogs placed four on the all-conference team as selected by Paul (Scoop) Ridings, Skiff sports editor. They were Sammy Baugh, Walter Roach, Ki Aldrich and Wilbert Harrison.

The same issue of The Skiff proclaimed the choosing of the Horned Frog Band as the best in the Southwest Conference. In those days, the band participated in the Coca Cola College Night series. The honor was voted to the band by radio technicians of WBAP-WFAA.

In December, students staged an un-official holiday strike.

Seems the students wanted a full day off so they could meet the football team on its return from California where the Frogs had played Santa Clara.

Understandably, the students were proud of their boys since the Frogs had knocked the Broncos from the unbeaten ranks. The administration previously had decided to let out classes at 11 a.m. Not satisfied, the students barricaded the doors to the Ad Building during the breakfast hour.

President E. M. Waits arrived on the scene and made short work of the strike by having the barricades removed. Classes were dismissed at the time Dr. Waits had said they would—11 a.m.

All went for naught, however, as the train was late and didn't arrive until after 1 p.m.

In a February issue, the TCU winner of the "Ugliest Man on Campus" contest was to be challenged for his claim as the "Ugliest College Man in Texas." The young man holding the TCU title and claiming the state crown was Joe Frederick, now a Texas Christian church minister.

Editor of the Texas A&I College student newspaper called Frederick a "Greek God" in comparison to some of the men on the A&I campus.

The editor claimed that Frederick must have won the title since no one bothered to challenge him.

Just before Frederick won the TCU title, the Horned Frog football team, coached by L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, took a more important title.

The honor was as king of the Sugar Bowl and was taken because of the Frog victory over Marquette, 16-6. During the season, the Frogs had won eight and lost only two and tied two.

Baugh and Roach were captains of the 1936 squad.

In April, The Skiff ran a special red-letter edition. The occasion was Journalism Day and the paper was entitled "The Yellow Peril." This was a bit of whimsical nonsense that poked fun at students and faculty alike.

The banner head stated: "Editor Exposed; He Is Great Lover." The editor was the late Walter Pridemore, killed in a plane crash in 1944. The lead story told of Pridemore's so-called love affairs with various college coeds.

An ad beside the lead story invited one and all to come see Sally Rand at the Frog-land Auditorium.

No one was safe from the humorous writers of "The Yellow Peril."

The Skiff got back on the serious side the next week and announced the 1937 Horned Frog to the students and faculty. The annual cost $6,000 to produce and contained 304 pages.

All in all the 1936-37 school year was a busy one. Evening College was started and reached 350 enrollment. The university as a whole enrolled more than 1,000. Today, TCU has grown to more than 6,000 students. Evening College has more than 2,000. This is twice what the entire school had in 1936-37.

Miss Wendy Wheeler, freshman psychology major from Fredericks, Okla., is the current TCU representative for her family. Her father, Ronald W. Wheeler, manager and owner of Radio Station KTAT, received his M.A. degree in 1936. Mrs. Mary Gogswell Wheeler took her B.S. degree in home economics in 1938. Miss Wheeler's aunt of Los Angeles, Calif., received her B.A. degree in 1938.

Homecoming At a Russian 4-Man Football Game

By JAS. HARPER

I have found that Russian homecoming games are do or die.

Then, I could move over and coach Ivy League football in the USA.

My lineman and three backs are in great shape.

The team has to work overtime in the salt mines . . . we have to forfeit.

The officials have been instructed on how to call the game.

Cvtzit it!

If I win, I could become more famous than Krushchev.

And if the exes support me, I may take over the USSR.

Saturday's Games Will Decide Importance of TCU-SMU Clash

When the Frogs and the SMU Mustangs meet here Nov. 30, it may be to decide which one will go to a bowl, or it may be just to see who holds the skillet while both hope for better things next year.

If TCU gets by Rice and SMU tops Baylor tomorrow, then both will still be in consideration for a post-season appearance; the Gator Bowl is watching the Christians and the Cigar Bowl has the Ponies in mind. Both also have an outside shot at the Sugar Bowl.

If both should lose, however, the game will have to fall back on its tradition for any claim to fame.

The Mustangs got off to a poor start this season, but they've found new teeth in recent weeks. The key to their success-secret is soph quarterback Don Meredith running Dutch Meyer's old spread formation.

Meredith, tossing true aerials with leisure abandon both the spread and the T, made 230 yards through the air against Arkansas Saturday. Two of his pegs were good for touchdowns, and he ran for two more tallies and a total of 67 yards himself.

Charlie Jackson and Lon Slaughter, the Pony halfbacks, also add power to the SMU offense.

Walker's Boot Throttles SAE Past Phi Delt

Jimmy Walker's kicking and Sandy Sanderson's running led Sigma Alpha Epsilon to a 10-7 victory over Phi Delta Theta to sack up the Wednesday league intramural football championship.

The SAE's scored first on a pass interception by Bruce Barker, with Walker converting. The other three points came on a field goal by Walker.

Exes Recall '37 Spine-Chillers

Christmas Fete Planned by WSA

By GALYN WILKINS

Frog football followers still may be in a melancholy mood over that 0-7 loss to A&M a month ago. But if that seems disappointing, hark back to the 1937 season when the Frogs lost two games by one point and were tied twice by game-ending desperation passes.

The Dutch Meyer-coached Frogs suffered two other defeats that year, losing to Baylor 0-6 and to powerful Ohio State 0-14.

Despite this mediocre record, the Frogs had a remarkable season. Every contest was a spine-chiller filled with wild end-sweeps and TD passes.

When workouts began, Meyer had only two starters back from his 1936 Cotton Bowl champions—center Ki Aldrich and tackle I. B. Hale.

Among backfield aspirants was a stubby junior quarterback named David O'Brien. He had barely earned his letter the year before as understudy to the fabulous "Slingin' Sammy" Baugh.

The little man, however, came on to lead the Frogs to a second-place conference finish and was selected, along with Aldrich and Hale, unanimous all-conference.

He won plaudits of the nation's coaches and sportswriters and moved Grantland Rice to remark, "He must be stuffed with iron."

In the opener against Ohio State, the Frogs' best weapon, the pass, was hampered by drizzling rain.

The following week, the young Frogs went to the hills of Arkansas and knocked at the Porkers' goal all afternoon only to be tied 7-7 by a 60 yard pass-lateral play.

The Frogs came home to break into the win column against Tulsa. With O'Brien completing 17 passes, they squeaked by, 20-13. The gutty quarterback accounted for all 20 points, passing for two touchdowns, running for another and booting two conversions.

Hogs, Steers Ran Like Racehorses

Coach J. Eddie Weem believes they must raise quarter-horses up in the Ozarks and call them Arkansas Razorbacks.

"Our cross-country team ran like a championship outfit, but those Arkansas runners were great," Weems exclaimed with melancholy reminiscence over last Wednesday's third place finish in the Southwest Conference meet at Waco.

Arkansas, Texas and TCU were the favorites in the meet, and they finished in that exact order. SMU was fourth, Texas A&M fifth and Baylor was the cellar dweller.

"It was really a fast race over some rugged terrain," Weems said. "We were so close to taking second it was depressing. Four of our boys finished in the top 11, but the other two were almost out of sight."

Ray Dyck, Arkansas, was the winner with a time of 9:13. Joe Villareal and Walter McNew, Texas, were second and third with 9:15 and 9:17 times respectively. The Hogs hogged the next four places.

TCU copped the next four places with Jerry Hutson hitting 9:22; Ted Williams, 9:25; Robert Flores, 9:28 and Jame Livergood, 9:29. Back in the pack was Joe Douglas with an 11:15 and Max Stewart with 11:47.

Like the A&M game of this year, the 1937, Aggie-Frog clash was a classic Southwest Conference thriller.

The Horned Frogs pushed the Farmers all over the field with Allie White, Durwood Horner, Aldrich and Hale turning in glittering defensive performances.

TCU's tally came in the third period as O'Brien rammed over from the three. The Aggies marched back in the fading minutes of the game to tie it 7-7 on a desperation pass.

The last-minute scoring play again stunned the Purple the next week as they yielded to Fordham at the Polo Grounds in New York, 7-6. The Frogs went ahead early in the first quarter and held on until the final period when the Rams scored and kicked the winning conversion.

The next game sent TCU to Waco to try and keep their title hopes alive. The Baylor Bears, who were led by end Sam Boyd—now the Bruin Coach, won, 6-0.

After this loss, the Frogs went to Shreveport to meet the Centenary Gentlemen in a game billed as a "breather." It proved anything but that as the Gents battled the Frogs evenly and gained a 10-9 victory on a late field goal.

The victory-starved Frogs then journeyed to Austin and hit the victory road with a decisive 14-0 milepost over Texas.

Up to this point, TCU had been on the short end of every close decision, but after fighting the Rice Owls all over Frog Stadium (now TCU Amon Carter Stadium) they came out with a 7-2 squeaker. This was the only conference defeat for the champion Owls.

The SMU Mustangs blew stopping the Frogs bid for a second place finish.

The big Mustangs did halt the Frogs for 56 minutes, but "L'il Davey" came through with a clutch 15-yard field goal and the Frogs had a 3-0 homecoming victory.

It was a season packed with bitter, close defeats and narrow heart-stopping victories, but Frog fans who wailed "wait 'til next year" were well rewarded for the Frogs came back in 1938 to win a national championship with what is regarded as the best team in TCU history.

The Women's Sports Association white elephant Christmas party will be held at the home of Miss Betty Padon, 2509 W. Cantey, Thursday, Dec. 5. Members of the organization will be notified if the plans are changed.

Faces and Places Make Ken 'Rodeo'

By TED RICKENBACHER
Six years ago when Ken Humphrey won the first rodeo he entered—at Gunnison, Colo. — he was so happy that he decided to make a career of it.

Since then he has placed in many of the larger rodeos in the United States and Canada, including the "Pendleton Round-up" in Pendleton, Ore., where he won $575 summer before last.

HUMPHREY

After Ken receives his secondary education degree in January, he plans to get an early start on the rodeo circuit, but will return to TCU next fall to work on his masters.

Ken has participated in a number of college rodeos, and as most students know, he was last year's Ranch Week foreman.

When asked if he had ever been injured in a rodeo, Humphries replied:

"No, but if I ever do I hope to have a teaching job to fall back on."

Although Ken does most of his rodeoing in Washington, Oregon and Montana, he has participated in rodeos in nearly every state in the U.S., and Canada.

"The primary purpose for my interest in rodeos is that while touring I meet new people and see different country every day. There's a new champion every week, just like golf," said Humphrey.

A native of Wagon Mound, N. M., he has earned $3600 in the last two summers, working about two months each summer.

There have been a lot of peculiar things happen so far in Ken's career, but one incident he remembers in particular happened two years ago in Farmington, N. M.

"I was stopped at a red light when a young Indian woman jumped in my car and said for me to start driving. I drove about 60 miles until, at my disappointment, she ordered me to stop in the middle of the desert, where she got out."

In the larger rodeos, Ken restricts most of his activities to calf roping. Although he is a top calf roper, Ken enters other events when he thinks the competition might be weak.

Sophomore basketball player, Don Williams, from Dallas is the younger brother of O'Day Williams who made All-Southwest end for the Horned Frog grid teams of '55 and '56. O'Day finishes up work for a B.S. degree at midterm and then has plans of going into the coaching profession. The former end hails from Graham but now resides in Fort Worth.

THE SCORE

Echoes

Again and Again

By PAT BECKHAM

A hearty salutation from The Skiff's sports staff to the Class of '37 is certainly in order, and a few memos from the Horned Frog athletic scene of the "Terrific Thirties" is another of our pleasures.

The TCU-Rice game of 1957 will undoubtedly bring back fond memories of a game played 20 years earlier on the TCU turf with the Rice Owls, the conference's eventual champion, as the victim.

With Ki Aldrich, Linnon Blackmon, I. B. Hale, Mason Mayne, Bull Rogers, Don Looney, Charley Williams, Davey O'Brien, Spud Taylor, Earl Clark, Russell Hensch, Allie White, Bob Cook and Forrest Kline plucking Owl feathers all afternoon, the Purple slapped a 7-2 defeat on the favorites. There were others of course, but these are the ones listed in the files as the standouts.

Heavy, heavy hangs the possibility of another Rice Institute march into the throne room of the SWC this year, but the air-minded Owls can't afford to drop this year's fracas in Fort Worth. With the Texas Aggies and the Texas Longhorns shadowing them in the conference standings, a TCU effort resulting in a win, or even a tie, would make it "try again next year time" for the visitors.

Regressing completely to the eventual goal of this column, we consult The Skiff of Friday, Dec. 10, 1937, to speak out to us of TCU—"The Spoilers."

Take over Editor Paul "Scoop" Ridings.

"The Spoilers—that could be a new name for the Texas Christian Horned Frogs. The Purple can usually be counted on to upset the Southwest Conference champion, whoever it may be.

"Rice has just finished winning the 1937 title, but the Owls went down before the Frogs, 7-2. The Meyer-men handed the Rose-Bowl-bound Houstonites the very same dose in 1934 to mar another champion's record.

"Last season the Arkansas Razorbacks copped the title, but lost to the Purple, 20-14. SMU was the '31 champion, but their record was blemished by a scoreless tie with the Frogs.

"The Texas Aggies have felt the Frog jinx on champions, too. In fact, the Cadets gave the Christians their start in the championship spoiling business. In 1925 the Farmers won the title, dropping only one game, that to the Frogs, 3-0. The Aggies repeated in 1927, their record marred only by a scoreless tie — with the Purples.

"But the Meyer-men do not confine their record spoiling to the Southwest Conference. Last season they wrecked the only major undefeated and untied team, that is up to the finale, Santa Clara, 9-0.

"The Broncos went on to win the Sugar Bowl championship in a New Year's classic, while the Purple was downing Marquette 16-6 in the Cotton Bowl.

"On New Year's day of 1936, the Christians soured a Sugar Bowl for LSU, beating the Southeastern champs, 3-2.

"So to the Frogs, 'the bigger they come, the harder they fall.'"

We digress to the Dave Brown era of 1956-57 with this modern-day sports-editor telling of the Frogs of the Forties.

"Remember that wobbly field goal in the mud by Harry Mullins that beat Rice, 9-6, in 1944 to give the 'Fifteen Fighting Frogs' the SWC flag for that year?

"Or the TCU band playing 'Only Five Minutes More' during the 1946 Texas game, as a savagely charging Purple line swept the great Bobby Layne into oblivion, 14-0?

"Or how about the unbelievable catch that 'Snake' Bailey made of Lindy Berry's desperation heave late in the fourth quarter of the SMU game in 1947?

"Remember that one? The Mustangs were undefeated, untied and Number One in the nation when they lit into the four-times tromped Frogs in Fort Worth.

"With Lindy Berry, perhaps the greatest of TCU's greats, and Pete Stout, the best fullback we ever saw, running the show, the Purple took a 12-0 halftime lead only to fall behind 13-12, with about three minutes to play.

"Berry closed his eyes and tossed and Bailey gathered it in on the SMU 40, getting to the eight before being stopped.

"Stout rammed over on the next play and the Frogs looked like they were in with the biggest upset of the year.

"But Doak Walker ran the ensuing kickoff back to the Frog 47 and SMU scored three plays later. The game ended as it should have, 19-19."

And Brown went on, just as his predecessor, Ridings, had done two decades earlier.

Such is the life of a scribe—to record.

And maybe tomorrow there'll be another episode of "The Spoilers."

SWC Spotlights Rice-TCU Tilt

Frogs Are Obstacle To Rice Title Hopes

By TONY CLARK

TCU and Rice play major roles tomorrow in the suddenly exciting Southwest Conference picture.

They meet at 2 p.m. in TCU Amon Carter Stadium. The Owls are in dire need of a victory to maintain their lofty ambition of a family championship, and Abe Martin's Christian crew must stop Rice to even have a meager hope of getting a bowl bid.

With consecutive wins over the Frogs and Baylor, the Owls can cop a Cotton Bowl berth and at least a share of the conference crown, but a setback will wipe out both dreams.

Gator Bowl officials have voiced their desire for a SWC team—even one with a 6-4 record; so TCU still has a shot at a holiday date, barring further misfortune.

Two big reasons why Jess Neely's flock is favored to mar the TCU Homecoming are quarterbacks King Hill and Frank Ryan. These two warriors are credited with having much to do with the Rice conquest of the once-untouchable Texas Aggies.

End Buddy Dial and guard Matt Gorges also help make the Owls formidable foes.

Martin, in an effort to bolster the Purples' forward wall, has moved sophomore Donald Floyd to left tackle in front of Ken Miller, and says that William Roach may get the call over Joe Robb for the right tackle slot.

Martin has made another change, too. In drills this week, the Frogs have been hustling to and from the huddle.

The Purples of old (1955 and '56 editions) moved leisurely back to the huddle broke from it slowly and then blasted the opposition out of their white wool socks when the ball was snapped.

The pattern was continued this year, except that the bare feet haven't always belonged to the other team.

"If we're going to get beat, we going to look good doing it," vowed Martin.

The Owls, like most family eleven, will be out to revenge the two consecutive victories owned by the Frogs. However, Rice has the edge for the past five years, since they topped the Christians for three straight seasons before TCU broke the ice in 1955.

Goodwin Wins Football Test

Jim Goodwin gave the men of TCU a two "game" edge over the women in picking The Skiff football contest winners last Friday as he hit six of seven games in a wild week of upsets.

Four free passes to the Worth Theater is the reward for Jim, and he also might receive some gratification in having struck another blow for the men in what is fast becoming a battle of wits between the sexes.

This season's female winners are Misses Kate Staples, Mary Ann Brown and Ateilia Prince.

Stan McAnelly, Jerry Chism, John Mozingo, Joe Reade and Goodwin have scored for the men to rack-up a 5-3 advantage.

Don't despair girls! This week's contest is on page 19 and there will be another next edition. Then there's the second year's bowl contest to give the fairer sex the necessary margin for a victory.

Wogs Shoot for Title

The freshman football team, owners of at least a share in the Southwest Conference freshman championship, can add another laurel by defeating the SMU Colts today at Ownby Stadium in Dallas.

A Wog victory in the 2 p.m. contest would give TCU its first undefeated freshman squad.

The Colts, boasting perhaps the fastest backfield in the conference, have a 1-3 record, having beaten Rice 7-6 and lost to Arkansas 7-13, Baylor 0-6 and Texas 0-9.

One of last year's most sought-after high school players — Glynn Gregory — will quarterback the Colts. He was named high school All-American after leading Abilene to a state championship.

Colt's split-T-attack will be Billy Pope, a 165 pounder who runs the 100 in 9.8, and Frank Jackson, 167, who clocks 9.8. Rene Medellin, 180, will be at fullback.

The Colt line, averaging 207 pounds per man compared to the Wogs' 220, will have Harold Morgan, 175, and Johnny Glusing, 190, at ends, Jack Moran, 200, and Jerry Mays, 235, at tackles, Ed Hansen, 192, and Karl Belz, 200, at guards and Max Christian, 222, at center.

TCU's Roy Lee Rambo and Harry Moreland, both injured in the Baylor game, are not expected to be ready for the Wogs' final effort. Neither saw action in the Texas clash last Friday.

Otherwise the Wogs came out of the Shorthorn battle unscathed.

Coach Fred Taylor was pleased with the Wogs' last half splurge that produced 21 points and, with a second quarter tally, totaled a 28-13 margin over the highly-regarded Shorthorns.

"They looked absolutely lousy in the first half but came back in the last half and played a real ball game," he said.

The Wogs, trailing 7-13 at the half, went ahead to stay early in the third quarter on a dazzling 63-yard pass-run play from Larry Dawson to Larry Terrell.

Alternate quarterback Donald George then came in to move the Wogs to their next score, passing 11 yards to Bill Phillips for the TD. This climaxed a 64-yard march that featured Milton Ham's spectacular one-handed grab of a George pass on the Texas 27.

The Wogs' final tally came on Dawson's one-yard plunge after a 53-yard march.

Two TCU linemen collaborated on the Wogs' first score that came in the second quarter. Guard Shellie Hearrean blocked a Shorthorn punt on the Texas 36 and end Milton Ham scooped up the bounding ball on the 12 and raced into the end zone.

Cagers Prepare For First Battle

The varsity basketball team continued to tune up for the coming season with its second game-type scrimmage against the TWC Rams Tuesday in the Practice Gymnasium.

As in last week's game, the Frogs slaughtered the Rams both in points and rebounds. Ronny Stevenson hit over 30 points and Derrill Nippert scored more than 20.

Coach Byron (Buster) Brannon said after the two-hour affair that the Frogs "showed much improvement defensively and though their shooting was off the first half, they came around in the last half and started hitting."

This was the Frog's last scrimmage. Southwest Conference rules permit only two pre-season games.

TCU opens its basketball season Tuesday, Dec. 3, against Austin College, then on the following Friday play McMurry here.

All Frog tilts will be played in the Public Schools Gym east of Farrington Field.

Anything Competitive Is 'Possum's' Pleasure

When Delzon "Possum" Elenburg isn't busy with football, he can usually be found playing pool or on the golf course.

The 200 lb. 6'3" end from Jacksboro was a junior class favorite last year, and can be seen playing anything from checkers to basketball.

When asked how he acquired the name "Possum," the big end replied:

"When I was five years old a group of men asked me if my 'puppy' was a good hunting dog."

"I told them that he catches a truck load of possums every day, and is the best possum hunting dog in Jack County." "Possum," who can play any kind of string instrument, has been featured in Dick Lindsey's string band on the Ranch Week variety show the past two years.

He hung up his famous mandolin and banjo when he married Jean Nichols, whom he had been going with for the past six years, last June.

Although "Possum" lettered two years at quarterback, he caught the only completed pass against A&M and is rated as one of the better pass receivers on the squad.

When asked what his plans are after graduation next summer, Elenburg replied:

"I hope to be the only bulldozer operator in Jacksboro with a degree in personnel management."
