Favorites Nominated; 38 Will Be Presented

By NELSON MARSH
Thirty-two class favorite finalists and six Mr. and Miss senior TCU finalists will be introduced next Friday at the annual Presentation Ball at 8 p.m. in the Ballroom.

The 38 finalists will be selected in elections Monday and Tuesday.

Four men and four women will be chosen from each class. The class favorites and the Mr. and Miss TCU winners will not be announced until the annual is released in the spring.

The dance will be formal and corsages will be in order. The admission is $1.50 per person. Ted Weems and his orchestra will provide the music. The election and dance is sponsored annually by the Horned Frog and the dance committee of the Activities Council.

The Ballroom will be decorated in blue and silver depicting the Christmas theme.

The balloting for next week's election will be conducted at the Information Desk in the Student Center Lobby.

All students may vote for Mr. and Miss TCU, but may vote only for the candidates in their own class in the favorites' balloting.

A complete list of the 272 class favorite nominees and the 33 Mr. and Miss TCU nominees will be posted early Monday morning on the bulletin board in the Lobby.

Mr. and Miss TCU nominees are all seniors and include for Miss TCU: Misses Joan Leatherman, JoAnne Kirkpatrick, Billie Graham, Lu Ann Dyehe, Janet Barnes, Anne Glasscock, Glenda Moses, Duskey Soddors, Kate Staples, Gloria McKibbian, Joan Mouser, Joan Glasceow, Dottie Snead, Barbara Sullivan, Jane Dewald, Elaine Conger and Pat Miller.

Mr. TCU candidates include: George Depee, James Dodson, Bill Perry, Jerry Daniel, Mike Kinney, Roger Smith, Damon Veach, Albert Lasater, Delzon Elenburg, Jerry Ray, Alton Flynn, Dewayne Cude, Ronald Coleman, Ken Humphries, Gary Gafford, and Bruce Baker.

Nominees for class favorites include: freshmen—56 women and 22 men; sophomores—64 women and 26 men; juniors—36 women and 28 men; and seniors—21 women and 19 men.

Aggie Case Apparently Closed After Payment for Trip Losses

Texas A&M students apparently are pleased with the $569.50 check sent them by Student Congress for payment of damages and losses suffered during their corps trip here Oct. 18-19.

In a letter to Congress, Lt. Col. Taylor Wilkins, assistant commandant of A&M cadets, said he felt the settlement was fair and the case closed.

Wilkins commended Congress and Dean of Students Laurence C. Smith for the way they handled the matter.

He added he did not expect difficulty from students when the payment is apportioned.

The Aggies returned $14.25 of the payment, however, as one Cadet found a saber lost in the skirmish.

Miserable Mike Muffs Melton's Pinch-hit Prayer

Is half a prayer better than none?

Amos Melton, director of information services, arrived late to the TCU-SMU game Saturday, and was called to give the invocation.

Melton's face didn't turn red until half way through the prayer when he discovered he forgot to press the mike button.

Payne Represents TCU

Hershel Payne, Interfraternity Council president, represented TCU at the national IFC convention in Colorado Springs Nov. 28-30.

National IFC business and fraternity innovations were discussed.

'King Melton' Rules; Top Brass is Absent

By BARRY STEPHENSON
Television may have its "Queen For a Day" but TCU has a "King for a Week."

He's Amos Melton, director of Information Services.

Mr. Melton was asked to serve as acting president because President M. E. Sadler, Vice President D. Ray Lindley, Dean Jerome Moore, AddRan College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. James Moudy, dean of the Graduate School, have been absent this week.

Agee to Talk at TWU

Dr. Warren K. Agee, chairman of the department of journalism, will speak on feature writing at the annual convention of the Texas High School Press Association in Denton this afternoon. The group is meeting at Texas Women's University.

Asked if he ever wanted to be a university president Mr. Melton replied jokingly there are two positions he does not relish — the presidency and that of coach.

"Life is just too short," he added.

Mr. Melton said he had drawn up a requisition for an increase in his salary, but L. C. White, business manager, had vetoed the idea. While Dr. Sadler is away Mr. White is making all business decisions.

So far this week President Pro-Tem Melton has arranged for several future events, written some official letters and helped make the decision on whether to accept a football bid to the Cigar Bowl.

Mr. Melton emphasized no major decisions would be made because "Dr. Sadler is as close as the nearest telephone."

Organizations Discuss Honor System Proposal

By LEE ROY GRIMSLEY
A tentative outline of the proposed honor system for TCU will be submitted by Student Congress to every organization on campus for discussion.

Congress also will invite organizations to send representatives to a meeting, regarding possible changes in the outline.

The outline will be submitted to Congress Tuesday for approval before being sent to the organizations.

It will be drawn up from ideas contained in honor systems that have been successful in other universities.

Congress declared that the outline would not be final, and that any additions, subtractions or approvals would be considered and discussed.

The legislators debated whether to send the organizations an outline of the proposed honor system or a copy of an honor system already being used at another university.

Miss Anne Glasscock, Pecos senior, moved that the honor system committee draw up a tentative outline to submit to the organizations along with the invitation.

Bob Roch, Student Association vicepresident, amended the motion to read that the outline be submitted to Congress for approval next week.

Both the motion and the amendment carried.

European Trip Set For Next Summer

Twenty students and adults will have an opportunity to visit Europe this summer on an extensive trip directed by Dr. Maryhelen Vannier, head of women's physical education department at SMU.

The group will visit eleven countries, including France, Monaco, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium and England.

They will visit the World's Fair in Brussels, and will take a motor trip through the famous Black Forest in Germany.

Interested persons should contact Dr. Vannier as soon as possible.

Two Days' Extension Of Holidays Proposed

Keep your fingers crossed, men; the Christmas holidays may be extended two extra days!

Student Congress Tuesday authorized President George Depee to approach the administration with the possibility of adding two days to the allotted Christmas vacation.

The holidays are scheduled to begin at 10 p.m. Dec. 20, with classes resuming at 8 a.m. Jan. 2.

This period corresponds with the "Death Watch Operation" of the Texas Highway Patrol.

The proposed extension would eliminate the necessity of students traveling on highways during the period.

Although the patrol is not recommending that motorists stay off the highways during this period, Highway Patrol Sgt. Gene Brewer of Fort Worth said it would be advisable not to travel unless it was necessary.

Brewer added that Col. Homer Garrison Jr., head of the Texas Department of Public Safety, on Sunday would release the expected number of highway fatalities during the holidays.

He said the figure probably would exceed last year's total.

John Tyson, Gorman Junior, told Congress a number of students were complaining about returning Jan. 2 for only two days of classes that week.

Tyson pointed out that many students live out of state and have long distances to travel to and from school. The present schedule would cut short the time they would have to spend with their families.

After meeting with Dean of Students Laurence C. Smith, Depee will carry the proposal to the Administration.

1957 Annual Wins Yearbook Awards

The 1957 Horned Frog has been awarded a rating of superior by the National Yearbook Association of Columbia, Mo.

The superior rating was given to approximately 10 percent, or fewer, of the top university and college annuals of the country.

The Horned Frog won the rating on the basis of its originality, completeness, journalistic quality and artistic format. The editor was Chuck Dowell, McKinney senior.

Homecoming Report Will Include Recommendation to Omit Parade

Does TCU need a Homecoming parade?

This will be one of the major questions confronting Student Congress and the Homecoming Committee next year.

John Moore, co-chairman of the Homecoming Committee, told Student Congress Tuesday that he and Miss Luann Dyche would recommend to next year's committee that the parade be discontinued.

Total cost for the 21 floats was estimated by Moore to exceed $1,700.

He said he believed the cost and the innumerable man-hours spent building the floats outweighed the assets of the parade.

Moore pointed out that the parade did have merits, however.

"It is one of the few times we get to show ourselves downtown, and is therefore tremendous public relations for the University," he said.

"However, we believe that the $1,700 and countless hours of labor involved in building the floats aren't worth the 45-minute show."

Moore concluded that the decision on whether to continue the parade or find a substitute for it would have to rest with next year's Homecoming Committee and Student Congress.

Faculty Members Need Baby-Sitters

Frequent requests for baby-sitters by faculty members has brought about new job possibilities for students.

Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director, is making a roster of all students interested in caring for faculty children in the evenings.

"Many of the faculty members are being asked to serve as chaperones for campus activities and need sitters for their children.

"We have had many requests for baby sitters, and feel that the new roster will be a mutual convenience for faculty and students who want part-time work," Miss Youngblood said.

Frogs Active In Moon Watch

By DAVID SMITH

Man your telescopes, men! This is the battle cry of the TCU moon watchers.

A group of advanced physics is taking part in the nationwide "Operation Moon Watch."

In fact, three groups in the Fort Worth area are participating in the stargazing venture. They are Convair, the Fort Worth Astronomical Society and TCU physics students headed by Dr. Joseph Morgan, professor of physics.

Miss Mary Jo Smith, John Farrell and Norman Cole, all of Fort Worth, are members of the campus team.

All three Fort Worth groups are part of a team headed by Dr. Herman Sehester, Fort Worth physician.

The Fort Worth unit is in turn a co-ordinate of the moon-watch station in the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Cambridge, Mass.

With telescopes handy, team members are on alert 24 hours a day to be called by Dr. Sehester to the northwest section of the lower parking lot near the Stadium, to view the satellite.

"There are three ways to observe the satellite," explained Dr. Morgan, "by radio transmission, photographically and the way we do it, by visual means."

"This is all a part of the International Geophysical Year and the viewing of the satellites is most important in determining a great many facts in outer space.

"We are proud of the students participating."

ROTC to Use Combat As Theme of Dance

By NELSON MARSH

"Unusual and different" best describes the Army ROTC combat party and dance at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Ballroom.

Cadets and their dates will carry out the combat theme by dressing appropriately. The girls will wear peasant attire. The cadets will wear khakis or fatigues to simulate their just coming off the front lines.

The party committee, headed by Cadet Maj. Ronald Coleman, will decorate the Ballroom with a combat motif. A first-aid station is expected to be set up—to serve refreshments rather than first aid.

Military weapons and equipment such as 81mm mortars, machine guns and sound-powered field telephones will be distributed about the room.

Ronnie Moore's four-piece combo will play for the event, which will last until 12 midnight. The party is free and open only to Army ROTC cadets and their dates.

The Army ROTC unit has initiated a new service to former graduates—a special newsletter to keep the 100 TCU Army ROTC graduates informed about each other. Two-thirds of the newsletter will be devoted to news of former cadets and the rest will concern happenings in the unit here.

The newsletter will be prepared and distributed by the TCU company of the Association of the United States Army.

The rifle team was knocked from the unbeaten ranks when it lost to Rice during the recent Homecoming weekend. The score was 1,876 to 1,860 out of a possible 2,000. High scorer for the Frogs was Don Ryon, Fort Worth freshman, with 384 out of a possible 400.

The local riflemen will fire Dec. 14 against the winner of tomorrow's Rice-Baylor match for the Southwest Rifle Association championship. All three schools have lost one match to date.

Baylor's lone defeat came at the hands of the Frog shooters on Nov. 2. Rice has lost only to Texas A&M.

Rev. James Farrar to Be Speaker At Christmas Chapel Tuesday

The Rev. James A. Farrar, director of religious activities, will deliver a Christmas message in chapel at 11 a.m. Tuesday on "No Exit."

"Our resources are to be shared and not hoarded," the Rev. William D. Hall, associate professor of missions in Brite College of the Bible, said at Tuesday's chapel service.

"Lest We Forget" was his topic.

He referred to Jack Horner in the nursery rhyme. Because Jack pulled a plum out of the Christmas pie he thought he was a fine fellow and let everyone know it.

Another example was the United States with its natural resources. Mr. Hall said we think we are a wonderful people and other countries should love us because we have so much.

"The Lord gave it to me because I'm such a fine fellow," he illustrated. "I had a special message that I was not to share with you, but you are to love me."

"Why don't other countries have as much as we?" he asked. "Some say it is because we live in a better system, but we did not invent this system—we inherited it."

Mr. Hall said too many persons try to make virtues of prejudices.

"Our forefathers ran away from it all and started anew. Why not give a portion of our surplus to get other countries on their feet?" he asked in conclusion.

Wit-Master Bennett Cerf Speaks of Sputniks, Books

By FRANK PERKINS

A tall, graying fellow with tortoise-shell glasses, a rapier wit and the deceptively-innocuous name of Bennett Cerf arrived on campus Tuesday night for the second Select Series program of the season.

Cerf, readily identified with Random House Publishing Co. (which he owns), and the TV program, "What's My Line?", fully lived up to his advance billing as one of America's greatest humorists and lecturers.

In a few short minutes, the affable Cerf captured the audience and held it spellbound, between paroxysms of laughter, as he loosed good-natured barbs at all kinds of institutions — Hollywood, television, publishers and Sputniks, ("... we will put up our own small Sputnik soon... would've had it up sooner, but they couldn't find a dog small enough to get in it...").

At the same time, he gave the estimated 1,000 persons in Ed Landreth Auditorium several cogent facts concerning the nation's complacency regarding Russian technology, the pros and cons of television and the vicissitudes of the publishing trade.

With regard to complacency, Cerf commented:

"On my travels around the country, I've found that the American people are waking up from their smugness and complacency about Russian technological advances.

"The Army, Air Force and Navy have stopped fighting each other and have settled down to a united effort... this is unheard of!"

"Too, even Mr. Dulles realizes the gravity of the situation," he chuckled. "He's even stayed at home for five days!"

On the subject of television, Cerf gave sound arguments that the new medium was not the downfall of the country, but rather it had the possibility of great cultural advancement.

Mr. Cerf illustrated his point by describing a recent experiment made by NBC. It decided to sell the time between 6:30 and 7 a.m. to, as Cerf put it, "Anybody who was sucker enough to buy it."

New York University purchased the time and started a program named "Sunrise Semester", featuring a Professor Zullio. Zullio taught a course of English literature on the program, and the university granted credit for the course to any viewer who could pass the final.

Cerf was curious as to how many listeners viewed the program, and decided to find out.

During the first week, Zullio had discussed a rather obscure novel, Stendhal's "The Red and the Black." This book is published by Cerf's firm, and was used primarily in college level English courses. It had a yearly sale of around 1,100 copies.

After Zullio's discussion of the book, sales jumped to some 5,000 copies in one week... more than five years' sales.

The success of the program is steadily increasing, and the sales of the various books already discussed, including "Moby Dick", have had tremendous gains.

With an abrupt switch, Cerf lambasted TV Westerns.

"It is getting to the point now that a bullet is fired on NBC, whizzes through a saloon on CBS and strikes the villain in the heart on ABC, while the same stagecoach lumbers along through all three channels," he laughed.

Cerf then shifted to the publishing field and gave some facts that spiked the rumor about people not reading any more.

Cerf mentioned the terrific increase in both quantity and quality of juvenile publications, and also, the increased numbers of magazines now being published.

After his lecture, a very short question and answer period was held... with hysterical results.

As an example: "Mr. Cerf, what do you think about Grace Metalious' book, 'Peyton Place?'"

"I think it is a sloppily written piece of trash!" Cerf replied.

Another query: "Do you ever intend to have your own TV show, Mr. Cerf?"

"Definitely not! I had to fill in for Daly (John Daly, moderator of the Sunday night TV show, 'What's My Line?') not very long ago, and I was scared stiff.

"Some of it must have shown, for when the show was over, Arlene Francis faced the audience and said: 'It is now 11 p.m., and the happiest man in New York City is Bennett Cerf!'"

"She was right, too!" he laughed.

Cerf's most serious speech came on the matter of censorship.

"The American people need no snoopers; censorship has no place in our society. The entertainer, writer or publisher who depends upon trash, filth or pornography will fall, sooner or later, of his own rotten weight... the American public will see to that."

Humor and wit bubble over Cerf's surface constantly... even his most serious remark is given with a smile and a thrust of repartee.

Asked what his eldest son wished in a way of a profession, Cerf laughingly answered: "I believe in giving Christopher a choice... he will either be a publisher, or I'll kill 'im!"

Cerf appeared earlier Tuesday at the Cokesbury Book Store in Dallas, autographing copies of his latest book, "Reading for Pleasure." While he was being mobbed by eager customers, a $6,000 dollar fire broke out in the unfinished tower of the Mercantile National Bank four blocks away.

Not a person left the store to watch the spectacular blaze.

"In fact," Cerf chortled, "two firemen came rushing into the store to get an autograph."

DR. MURRAY M. ROHMAN... Hand Baller

Rohman Says

Teaching Success Due To Swinging Big Stick

By DAVID SMITH

"No one has ever fallen asleep in one of my classes."

This is the boast of Dr. Murray M. Rohman, associate professor of personnel administration in the School of Business.

Dr. Rohman has found what he believes to be the correct formula for the classroom.

"I maintain an air of informality and combine interest with enthusiasm," he explained, "and, of course, carry a big stick to prod those who rest their eyes."

The former YMCA handball champion of the East (1938) has centered his interests at present on the labor-management scene.

He was chairman of the planning committee for the recent labor-management conclave in Dan D. Rogers Hall.

"We plan to make this an annual event," Dr. Rohman declared. "We are seeking to create a better climate in Fort Worth for labor and management, and to put TCU on the map in the field of industrial relations."

"Dr. Rohman is a professional arbitrator and has held an interest in the field for many years.

"I am interested in the principle rather than the money," he explained, as he related his transition from lawyer to professor.

Dr. Rohman received his law degree from the Brooklyn Law School of St. Lawrence University in New York City. He has done graduate work at the American University in Washington, D. C., and obtained his master's at the University of Denver in Colorado.

He was granted his Ph.D. in 1954 from the University of Colorado in Boulder and came to TCU from there.

His present position at TCU culminates 20 years' law experience and seems to bear out his interest in principles above financial gain.

Editorial Comment

The clamor, clash and color of the Homecoming parade have faded into the distance.

Now comes the time to ask, "Was it worth it?"

Those who feel it is not say the parade defeats its own purpose of drawing exes to the campus. Few of those persons watching the parade come out to the University because of bad traffic congestion. And many exes are forced to choose between the parade and the exes' business meeting which begins soon after the parade's completion.

Face Lifting For Parade

Opponents of the parade also emphasize the cost, an estimated $2000 this year, spent for a 45-minute affair.

Persons believing in the event insist it is a good public relations factor and shows the spirit of the student body.

No solution has been reached on the matter, but a compromise may be in the offing.

Displays could be set up on campus in a centralized place. A one-way entrance would be provided for those wishing to see the extravaganza.

"All this is still in the thinking stage," explained Miss Eliabeth Youngblood, Homecoming committee member.

Another compromise might move the parade from its downtown scene to the TCU area where exes would have fewer problems getting back to the business meeting.

Some alternate plan to the present system is needed if Homecoming activities are to keep their vitality from year to year. Or like the old soldier, they will slowly fade from the campus life.

First Trip to the Moon

A group of TCU students and faculty members accomplished something Saturday that American and Russian scientists have been trying to do for years.

It landed on the moon!

Through the magic of KFJZ-TV's cameras mounted on the rocket ships, the earth people were allowed to witness the first pictures ever taken on its surface.

It was a momentous occasion, and the TCU television and physics departments should be highly commended.

Of course, this celestial voyage was launched from the stage of the TCU Little Theatre by projecting drawings of the moon on a large screen, and nobody got so much as a rocket fuel burn, but it was a timely account of the satellite age.

Following the historical landing, four members of the physics departments, Dr. Donald A. Cowan, associate professor of physics; Dr. Joseph Morgan, director of the engineering program, and John Farrell and Norman Cole, advanced physics students, discussed the possibilities of inter-planetary travel, physical laws and satellites in a manner which proved that all TV shows don't have to be westerns to be entertaining.

Battle-Scarred Buildings

The new is beginning to wear off some of the buildings here.

Of course, they have had three months of constant use, and one expects the "lived in look."

What one does not expect is the vandalism prevalent in some of the buildings.

The men's restroom in the first floor of Dan D. Rogers Hall, for example, has fallen before the pencil and erotic mind of the juvenile barbarian.

Adding insult to injury is the tremendous lack of pride, and perhaps even worse, respect for other people's property, as evidenced by the degree of damage found in Milton Daniel Hall.

Some sections of this beautiful dorm resemble the effluvia of the Battle of the Marne, with knife-scarred doors, battered furniture, soap stains and the ever-present filthy person with his filthy pencil.

Nobody thinks it is funny, and nobody appreciates pornography, except possibly the barbarian.

And if you are a barbarian, you don't belong here.

A Successful Season

When the final gun cracked Saturday at TCU-Amon Carter Stadium, it signaled not only a convincing victory over SMU but the close of a pleasing and successful season for the Frogs.

There's no championship pennant to hang up, but the players provided many unforgettable moments and built a record of which they can be proud.

Before the opening game, the Frogs were picked to occupy the SWC basement, and a 5-5 won-lost record was to be looked upon as just short of a miracle.

The Purple bettered both predictions and even received an invitation to appear in a bowl game.

There is more than just the won-lost record however. The upending of Ohio State, now regarded as the nation's best team; the statistical victory over the Aggies, and the thrashing of a favored SMU add more prestige to TCU's season.

"I'M SO GLAD YOU'RE THRILLED ABOUT FRATERNITY LIFE, SON - WHEN WILL YOUR 'PLEDGE TRAINING' END?!"

The Pharisee

Slings and Arrows

By FRANK PERKINS

I feel a need to express myself on various and sundry subjects, none of which are very important, newsworthy, or astounding.

The decks are cleared, the charges rammed home . . . Fire One!

Things I particularly hate:

1) The misbegotten idea that a few of our fair students have acquired regarding the playing of Rock-'n-Roll in the Student Center at 7 a.m.

Know ye this . . . there is no medical proof that the frenetic howlings of Rock-'n-Roll aid in the digestion of coffee and sweetrolls, and therefore it should not be played until after 8 a.m., when the night humor has left the blood.

2) The sudden rash of Teenage horror movies . . . namely "I Was a Teenage Werewolf", and "I Was a Teenage Frankenstein."

This is without a doubt, the greatest setback to Hollywood since Rin-Tin-Tin bit Cecil DeMille.

3) French movies with English sub-titles.

In the "I told you so" department . . .

I received a news release recently plugging a new parlor game that some bright young student at Columbia cooked up.

It was called "Russian Roulette", and used a blank powder gun instead of a Colt .44.

You drew cards for the number of spins of the cylinder, then put the gun to your head and pulled the trigger.

If it clicked, you won . . . if it fired, you lost and developed a terrific ear-ache.

This news release was accompanied by a glossy photo of a bosomy coed with a pistol pointing coyly at her raven tresses.

The fault with the thing is readily apparent . . . some bright young lad would suggest that playing with the blank weapon was chicken, and that he just happened to have a .38 Smith & Wesson with him . . .

Well, sure enough, one of these "RR" clubs had a party recently in a New York college, and one of the enterprising players splattered his brains equally over the room and the other competitors.

People are nuts!

And while we're at it . . .

The seat of romance at TCU is gradually changing . . . swains and fair young maids are beginning to use the parking lot near Dan D. Rogers Hall for their moonwatching and spooning.

The stadium is being slowly deserted . . . this is indeed a sign of the times.

Whoever invented pancake makeup should be wet thoroughly with boiling water and dipped, head first, into a barrel of flour.

It is quite a shock to see a young poodle-pup running around with a peaches and cream complexion, then look at her closely and discover that it is all Max Factor—the chick just supplies the face and malice aforethought.

In much the same vein, the beautiful girl with the classic profile, luxurious body, sparkling eyes, red lips, and a mouthful of Double-Bubble.

But this is not all . . . they are not content with gnawing on the rubbery mass for hours on end . . . they have to pop it at regulated intervals!

This is conclusive proof that we are raising a race of barbarians.

SW Campus Confidential

By RICHARD TIPTON

SMU—

It's not just who a coed knows on the SMU campus, it's how many plumber's friends she has that counts.

At least, this was the belief of several lovely sorority candidates vying recently for the coveted title of Toilet Bowl Queen, sponsored by the Kappa Sig fraternity.

Not wanting to have the ceremonies a complete washout, two queens, instead of one, were selected from actives and pledges and given the grand titles of Miss Flush and Miss Sani-Flush.

Highlight of the solemn ritual was the crowning of the chosen beauties with royal chapeaux, composed of a toilet seat and a rubber plunger.

Now we know what is meant by a royal flush.

TEXAS—

Not only do the Longhorns pin their hopes on a football game, but they pin the opposing team as well.

At a pep rally and bonfire, a few days before the A&M game, the Steer team and coaches were presented with 55 voodoo dolls, three inches high, and dressed in the Aggie maroon and white.

Each doll had been carefully stabbed with a hat pin that carried an orange and white streamer.

We were wondering why Crow kept clutching his side during the game.

TEXAS TECH—

Tech Student Council members have flipped their lids, because two downtown department stores have flipped their lids by flipping Tech's lids.

Before you flip your lid, it's only fair to tell you that the council is in an uproar, because these two stores have been giving freshman beanies away instead of selling them.

It seems that the $2,000 revenue from the sales was supposed to have gone in the tills of the athletic department and student loan fund, but was lost due to the generous give-away by the department stores.

It's a good thing Tech freshmen aren't required to drive Cadillacs.

NORTH TEXAS—

Cartoon shows two students standing in front of a desk occupied by the director of a college drama club.

He asks them: "Have you had any previous experience in acting?"

The students are Frankenstein's monster and James Dean.

Where were Glenn Miller and Adolph Hitler?

WHAT TO DO TILL THE PSYCHIATRIST COMES

Once upon a time at the University of Virginia there was a coed named, oddly enough, Virginia University who was handsome and kindly and intelligent and ingeniously constructed and majoring in psychology. Virginia went steady with a young man on campus named, oddly enough, Oddly Enough who was supple and fair and lithe and animated and majoring in phys ed.

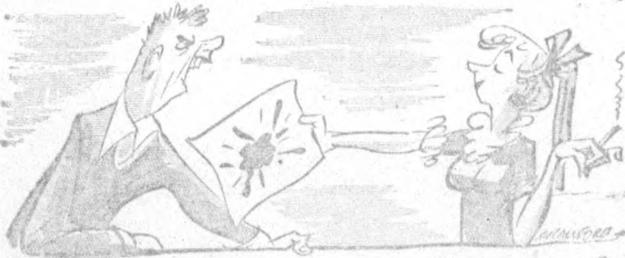

Virginia and Oddly enjoyed a romance that was as idyllic as a summer day, as placid as a millpond. Never did they fight—never, never, never!—because Virginia, who was majoring in psychology, did not believe in fighting. "Fighting," she often said, "settles nothing. The scientific way is to look calmly for the cause of the friction."

So whenever she and Oddly were on the verge of a quarrel, she used to whip out a series of ink blot tests and they would discover the true underlying cause of their dispute and deal with it in an enlightened, dispassionate manner. Then, the irritant removed, their romance would resume its tranquil, serene, untroubled course.

After six months of this sedate liaison, Oddly was so bored he could spit. He loved Virginia well enough, but he also believed that people in love ought to fight now and then. "It opens the pores," he said. "And besides, it's so much fun making up afterwards."

But Virginia would not be provoked into a quarrel. One night Oddly tried very hard. "Hey," he said to her, "your hair looks like a bat's nest and your ears look like last year's turnips and your face looks like a pan of worms and as for your head, I've seen better heads on newel posts."

"My goodness, we're hostile tonight!" said Virginia cheerfully and whipped 120 Rorschach cards out of her reticule. "Come," she said, "let us examine your psychic apparatus."

"Who Makes your Clothes-Bethlehem Steel?"

Oddly tried again. "Who makes your clothes?" he sneered. "Bethlehem Steel?"

"Hmm," said Virginia thoughtfully and lit a cigarette. "This sounds like an anxiety neurosis with totemism, anagogic trauma, and a belt in the back."

"I hate you," said Oddly. "I hate your looks and your clothes and your toenails and your relatives and the cigarettes you smoke."

"Now, hold on, buster!" cried Virginia, her eyes crackling, her color mounting, her nostrils aflame. "Just keep a civil tongue in your stupid head when you talk about Marlboro! Nobody's knocking that filter, that flavor, that flip-top box while there's breath in my body! It's a great cigarette, it's a doozy, it's a dilly, it's a bear—and anybody who says a word against it gets this."

By "this" Virginia meant a series of combinations to the head and liver, which she now delivered to Oddly and turned on her heel and stormed away.

Oddly brought her down with a flying tackle. "I love you," he said.

"And Marlboro?" said she.

"And Marlboro," said he.

And they kissed and plaited love knots in one another's hair and were married at Whitsun and smoked happily ever after.

© 1957, Max Shulman

And you too, gentle readers, will smoke happily ever after, once you try Marlboro, the cigarette that gives you such a lot to like—including, we earnestly hope, this column.

Auto Sputnik Near Levelland Wasn't Whatnik

"Red alert! — All space cadets proceed to the launching platform on the double! Whatnik has invaded Levelland again."

This time, the effects of the unidentified object which recently visited the Panhandle city were felt by Tom Lyles, Graham senior.

Lyles and his family were driving to Levelland Thanksgiving Day. A mile outside the city their car started slowing down and finally stopped.

After repeated efforts to start the car failed, a passing farmer towed them into town.

A mechanic, however, revealed it was an overdose of Texas sand in the oil system—not the rays from Whatnik—which stalled the car.

Christmas Music Slated for Sunday

The first Christmas music program of the season will be presented at 3:30 p.m. Sunday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Performances will be given by the University Chorus, 100 mixed voices, the TCU singers, 30 voices, and the Madrigal Singers, 10 voices.

Dean Robert Hull will conduct the first two groups, and John Wolft will conduct the Madrigal Singers.

The program will be made up of carols and Christmas music of the 16th, 17th and 20th centuries.

Some of the numbers will be sung without accompaniment others with harp, organ and piano.

A brass quartet will play from the balcony prior to the concert.

The event is open to all students, faculty members and friends of the University.

Directory Sale Starts Dec. 17

The Student Directory will go on sale Dec. 17.

Where the directory may be obtained and its cost will be decided by Student Congress.

John Morehart, Fort Worth sophomore, who is compiling this year's directory, had agreed to have it ready by Nov. 15.

Dr. Sadler's Pamphlet Cites Faith, Education

Christianity is the indispensable foundation of democracy, Dr. M. E. Sadler said in a recent pamphlet, "Why the Church Must Be in Higher Education."

Historically, American democracy grew up around church-related and privately controlled colleges and universities, Dr. Sadler wrote.

Of the 207 colleges established in the United States before the Civil War, 180 definitely were church-related, he said.

He continued: "Our forefathers had sound judgment and common sense. They believed that religion was the indispensable foundation of the way of life which they were projecting on this continent. They wanted religious freedom but they wanted religion."

"The stupid interpretation which we have made of the basic principle of religious freedom by identifying it with 'freedom from religion' is certainly not in harmony with our historical background."

"A system of education which does not teach religion or strengthen faith in God would have been most displeasing and disquieting to those who wrote our Constitution."

Underlining the importance of the teacher in the area of religion, Dr. Sadler pointed out every effort should be made to obtain faculty members who are active in religion, whatever the faith or denomination.

"Sometimes we have been ridiculed for this emphasis and people have said: 'There isn't any such thing as Christian or non-Christian chemistry and biology.'

"The answer to that," said President Sadler, "is that we had better have some Christianity back of our chemistry and biology unless we want our world blown to bits or the earth devastated by deadly germs."

"As anyone who has had experience in guiding education knows, the biggest thing is not the subject taught but the teacher himself. He either inclines his students toward religion or against religion."

"At a time when so many are so much concerned about democracy," Dr. Sadler continued, "we must not lose sight of the fact that this approach to life can live so long, and only so long, as people seek and serve God."

"There is a corollary which follows as day the night. If religion is essential to our way of life, it must be provided for in education. For 'we reap what we sow and we do not reap what we do not sow.'

"Wringing our hands in anguish, expressing pious regrets, will not alter the facts."

"What we put into education we will have in life, and what we do not put into education we will not have in life."

NEXT TO THE PALACE THEATER

TENSE MOMENT—Misses Linda Nevitt, left, Fort Worth sophomore, and Joyce Nicholson, Cameron sophomore reenact a scene from the drama, "The Fishbeck Tapestry."

'The Fishbeck Tapestry' Opens Second Theater Presentation

The second Little Theater production of the season, "The Fischbeck Tapestry," opens at 8 p.m. today.

The play, directed by Dr. Walther R. Volbach, was written by Manfred Hausmann. It was translated from the original German by Ingeborg Opel.

TCU students William K. Connelly and Miss Carol Groening assisted with the script revision. This was necessary due to the differences in grammatical construction of German and English.

Dr. Ernst E. Noth, professor of contemporary literature at the University of Oklahoma graduate school, and editor of the periodical "Books Abroad," will speak prior to the opening curtain on modern European literature.

West Germany consuls from Dallas and Houston also will attend.

Dr. Noth will speak to TCU students in the Little Theater at 3 p.m. today. Students interested in attending are requested to bring prepared questions for the informal discussion on European literature.

Different material will be covered in each talk. Those who wish may attend both lectures and be assured of interesting presentations each time.

The play takes place in the Abbey of Fischbeck in Weser, near Hammelin, Germany.

The story revolves around a six-picture tapestry which tells the tale of the abbey's founding.

Two actors and two actresses attempt to interpret the true meaning of the tapestry, which has still not been satisfactorily explained to the present day.

The cast includes Douglas Grey as the actor, Edmond Delatte, as the stage director, Linda Nevitt as the first actress and Joyce Nicholson as the second actress.

The play will be staged again tomorrow night and Tuesday through Saturday of next week.

Tickets are available at the Little Theater ticket office between 1 and 4 p.m. on the days of performance.

Chairmen Accept Greek Proposal

Howdy Week committee chairmen have accepted the proposed partial combination of Rush and Howdy Weeks.

All major Howdy Week events—the dance, picnic, carnival and talent show and first call—will be held from Tuesday through Sunday, Sept. 15-19.

Events will be held Sept. 13 and 14 for freshmen who are not participating in the final two days of Rush Week.

The new purple and white beanies will go on sale as usual when the freshmen begin arriving on campus. Price of the hats will remain the same as this year, $2.50.

Under the proposal, originated four weeks ago by the Rush Evaluation committee, Rush Week will be held the Sunday through Tuesday prior to the traditional Howdy Week events.

Orientation and testing for the freshmen will be held Monday through Friday of the Rush-Howdy Week.

Two Seniors Log First Solo Flights

Fort Worth seniors James Vernon and Billy Few completed their first solo flight recently under the American Flyer's program at Meacham Field.

The two Air Force cadets will take a three and a half hour written Civil Aeronautics Administration examination at Meacham next week for their solo-pilot's license. If they successfully pass the written test, they will continue the 36½ hour program which includes cross-country flights. So far, Vernon and Few have completed 10½ hours of the program.

The training is paid for completely by the Air Force and is open to senior AF cadets who expect to go into pilot training upon graduation. The American Flyer's program includes 35 hours of actual flight training and one and a half hours of flying with a CAA examiner. Training is conducted on Tuesday and Thursday in a single-engined Cessna 140.

Few is lieutenant colonel and is executive officer of the 845th AFOTC Group. He will graduate in January and will go active duty in March. Vernon is a major and is operations and training officer for the unit. He will graduate in June.

The two men will receive their private pilot's license upon successful completion of the program.

SOLOIST — Billie Few, left, C. A. Zimmerman, instructor, and Jimmie Vernon retrace their routes after their solos in the AF ROTC Flying program recently.

Don Pierson, B.S. '49, to Head Journalism Exes Association

Donald R. Pierson, B.S. '49, will head the Journalism Exes Association during the coming year.

Pierson, automotive advertising manager of the Star-Telegram, was elected at the group's annual dinner Nov. 22 in the press room of Dan D. Rogers Hall.

J. Leroy Schell, B.A. '43, was named vice-president. He is a personnel assistant for Texas Electric Service Co. Jack White, B.A. '49, was chosen secretary-treasurer. He is art director for Witherspoon & Associates, public relations. Retiring president is William Douglas, B.A. '40, business manager of the Arlington News.

A total of 54 exes attended the banquet. This was one of the largest gatherings ever held for the annual affair. The exes were able to see the spaces the equipment will occupy in the press room. The proposed spaces were marked off with chalk.

Ellis Amburn, B.A. '54, former Skiff editor, was introduced as the ex who traveled the farthest distance to attend. He came from New York City, where he is on the editorial staff of Newsweek magazine.

Brite Junior Is Elected Head of Newly Organized Hieronymians

Jack Roth, Brite College of the Bible junior, was elected president of the Hieronymians Tuesday.

The newly organized club for single men of Brite College takes its name from a hermit order named in honor of St. Jerome.

Purpose of the club is to act as a welcoming committee for entering students. Also, the members will give advice and aid to ministerial students.

The Hieronymians meet at noon each Tuesday for luncheon and program.

Also elected Tuesday was vice-president Richard Ziglar,

M.R.E. student from Winston-Salem, N. C. A committee was appointed to write a charter.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles F. Kemp are faculty sponsors. He is a distinguished professor of practical ministries.

The Hieronymians and the Zanas, single women students, will have a Christmas dinner at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 17.

Ben Sturgeon, Pampa junior, is the son and nephew of two Pampa attorneys who were graduated here.

A. A. Sturgeon, B.A. '22 is Ben's father. Ben's uncle is John Sturgeon, B.A. '18.

Party Planned Dec. 19

The Annual Faculty Christmas Party will be held from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the Ballroom Thursday, Dec. 19.

Chairman Elizabeth Youngblood announced that following the dinner, there will be a dance for the guests.

Tickets to the party will cost $1.75.

Trio to Return From Richmond

Three TCU administrators will return this weekend from the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in Richmond, Va.

Vice President D. Ray Lindley, Dr. Jerome A. Moore, dean of AddRan College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. James Moudy, dean of the Graduate School, have been attending.

The association is the highest accrediting agency for colleges and universities in this section of the nation.

Howdy Week Leaders To Propose 4 Changes

Howdy Week committee meeting this week resulted in four major proposals to be presented to Student Congress.

The group will suggest that next year's committee members be appointed immediately.

Other proposed changes include: that the color of freshman beanies be changed; that a school-wide decapping ceremony be planned and controlled by the Dowdy Week committee, and that the annual formal TCU pledge taken by all freshmen be postponed until the time for the decapping.

In the past, committee chairmen have been appointed each spring by the in-coming Student Congress president.

If new members are appointed immediately, president George Depee will have selected two slates of Howdy Week executives.

"By appointing the new chairmen for next year now, they will have much longer to organize the many details of Howdy Week. We have found that in a summer, when possible, meeting times are infrequent, have not been adequate for all the planning that must precede the Howdy-Week events," Miss Youngblood, social director said.

New freshman beanies will be all purple with white "TCU", numerals and buttons. The new models will replace the old "slime green" and purple hats that have been worn in recent years.

Proposed school-wide decapping ceremony will include all freshmen, rather than only women dormitory students.

The decapping will be suggested for mid-October, but successive Howdy Week committees will choose their own specific dates.

The TCU pledge, formerly held during Howdy Week, will be restated and pledged at the newly planned decapping ceremony. Freshman town students will be included in the event.

Sticklers!

WHAT IS A CAMPUS AREA WITHOUT LUCKY SMOKERS?
(SEE PARAGRAPH AT RIGHT)

ANY NORMAL DORM'LL be full of Lucky smokers! You can count 'em by carloads on any campus — and no wonder! A Lucky, you see, is a light smoke—the right smoke for everyone. It's made of nothing but naturally light tobacco... golden rich, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco that's toasted to taste even better. Find a set of dorms without Lucky smokers, and you've stumbled on a mighty Odd Quad! Don't you miss out—light up a Lucky. You'll say a light smoke's the right smoke for you!

New Rush Dates Tentatively Set

Spring rush tentatively has been set for the week of Feb. 23-March 1.

The informal rush will begin with orientation on Saturday morning, and will be concluded at 5 p.m. Saturday when rushees will pick up their written bids.

Panhellenic tea, in which all groups must participate, will be held Sunday afternoon.

The 10 Greek groups may pledge rushees for the unfilled portion of their fall rush quota, and to replace any women who may graduate or drop out of school at semester.

Rush sessions will be from Monday through Friday.

Under Panhellenic by-laws restricting informal rush, the sessions are defined as setting a meeting time when members of a group may talk with rushees. No more than 8 members, pledges or alumnae and 4 rushees are to be present at any one of the rush parties.

The periods are set for a maximum of two hours and a group may rush an individual only three times.

All prospective rushees previously enrolled in TCU who have earned a 1 point grade average, and all transfer students not on Academic Probation will be eligible for spring rush.

Freshmen entering at semester may participate in rush on the basis of their high school grades.

Joseph Ward Williams, B.A. '57, of Greenville, Texas, is now a geologist working with Pan American Oil Company in Midland. However, Joe's family is well represented at TCU with two brothers and a sister. The next to graduate will be Greenville senior Edward Bennett Williams.

Bobby Len Price, '59, of Levelland, Texas, is nephew to C. F. Musgrave, B.S. '49, of Seminole, Texas. Mr. Musgrave is now a CPA here.

STUDENTS! MAKE $25

Do you like to shirk work? Here's some easy money—start Stickling! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we print—and for hundreds more that never get used. Sticklers are simple riddles with two-word rhyming answers. Both words must have the same number of syllables. (Don't do drawings.) Send your Sticklers with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N.Y.

Owls Start Campaign For Another SW Title

HOUSTON, Dec. 6—In all the hullabaloo over that Garrison finish by the Rice football team for the Southwest Conference title and the Cotton Bowl, let's not overlook a promising Owl cage squad ready to take its place in the sports spotlight.

Coach Don Suman's tall crew gets a major test tonight when they host the powerful Oklahoma City University team at Rice Gym. This will be their second start of the young season.

After the double-tough Chiefs, the Owls' final home game before the post-Christmas Southwest Conference Tournament at Rice Gym on December 26-28 will be with Louisiana State next Monday night.

Following that one, the Owls will have nearly a week for workouts to prep for an important road trip. They clash with Wisconsin of the Big Ten at Madison on December 16th, try to revenge a shellacking of three years ago against Illinois at Champaign on December 18th, and move on to New York to play St. John's in Madison Square Garden on December 21st.

The Rice-Oklahoma City game will bring a long awaited dual between two youngsters rated the best "extra tall" post men to come out of the greater Southwest in a long time. Four years ago coaches from all over were doing nip-ups over a great prospect from Texas in Temple Tucker of Bowie, and a real phenom just to the North in Oklahoma in Hubert Reed.

At long last, as seniors and established stars at their respective seniors, these two talented lads—each 6-10—finally meet. Tucker is the top scorer of returning players in the Southwest Conference and a key man in the Owls' bid for a league title. Reed boasts a 24-point-a-game average of last year when he paced the Chiefs to the Western N.C.A.A. regional finals before bowing to Kansas. The Tucker-Reed duel at Rice Gym should be one of the features of the cage season in Houston.

Both have a lot of help, with Suman able to call on eight lettermen and Coach Abe Lemmons of OCU has eleven. Rice has a tall front line with Tucker, 6-9 Tom Robitaille and either 6-6 Willie Preston or 6-5 Gary Griffin. OCU has Reed, 6-5 Leon Griffin and 6-5 Bill Hanson.

Absent from the Rice cast for the December games is a top notch two-year letterman, but he has a good excuse. King Hill, the Owls' All-American quarterback in football as well as a fine cager, is busy prepping for his team's Cotton Bowl game with Navy on New Year's Day.

Delts Top SAE's On Penetrations To Win 13-13 Tie

Delta Tau Delta beat Sigma Alpha Epsilon 4-2 on penetrations after a hard fought 13-13 tie Wednesday afternoon in a play-off game between the Wednesday and Thursday league champions.

A 60-yard run by Sandy Sanderson and a long pass from Sanderson to Jimmy Davis gave the SAE's a 13-0 lead at half-time. Jimmy Walker converted.

The Delts came back strong after the half with Warren Rudolph passing to Marshall Robinson and Jerry Ray for the two touchdowns, with Robinson converting.

Allen Coogan of the Delts and Ben Sturgeon of the SAE's blocked the decisive extra point attempts.

A large number of spectators watched the hard fought game.

Shof Swamped With Awards and Offers

Jimmy Shofner, the Frogs' shifty halfback, is a busy man these days.

Last Saturday, he sewed up the conference rushing title; Monday, he was offered a job with the Cleveland Browns and Wednesday he was chosen the Frogs' Most Valuable Player at the Annual Football Banquet.

Shof's 45 yards gained against the Mustangs put him out of reach of Arkansas' Gerald Nesbitt and Baylor's Larry Hickman, who took second and third places respectively.

In Monday's pro draft, Shofner was the Browns' first choice. He was the only TCU player selected in the draft.

Other SWC stars picked by the play-for-pay teams were the Aggies' John Crow, Rice's King Hill and Baylor's Bobby Jack Oliver and Larry Cowart by the Chicago Cardinals, A&M's Charles Krueger by San Francisco, Frank Ryan of Rice by Los Angeles and SMU's Willard Dewveall by the Chicago Bears.

Laurels for Crow Continue to Flow

John David Crow, the Texas Aggies' biggest gun, is up to his hip pads in football laurels.

The latest trophy bagged by the lethal Louisianan is the Heisman Trophy, the greatest honor that can be bestowed upon a college football player. Crow completely dominated the voting, netting 1183 votes against 233 for the nearest contender, Iowa's Alex Karras.

The A&M halfback has made every major All-America eleven selected to date, and he was chosen the college football "back of the Year"—in the United Press poll.

The Sporting News picked him the college "player of the year" in a poll of the nation's sportswriters.

In addition, the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League took Crow as their first selection in the draft of college players.

Wogs Challenge Kilgore In First Basketball Test

The freshman basketball team, sporting four former all-stars in its starting lineup, opens its season tonight against Kilgore Junior College.

The contest, starting at 6 p.m. in the Public Schools Gymnasium, precedes the Varsity's contest against McMurray College.

Wog starters who made high school dream teams last year are Perry McMichaels, 6-3, Naples, Jerry Pope, 6-2, Pampa, Billy Simmons, 6-3, Pecos and Jerry Cobb, 6-3, Dallas.

North Side's Bill Ralston will be the other starter.

Coach Johnny Swaim fears the Rangers will be tough to beat.

"They lost only two games last season and they have practically the same team this year," he said.

The Rangers boast two brothers — Pat and Don Stanley from Buna — who set high school scoring records in the state tournament at Austin last season.

Pat scored 36 points in one game and in a later contest Don sank 51 points.

Swaim said while his team lacks defensive and rebounding skills it has good shooting ability.

Wog squadmen are Harry Lister, Doug Hill, Jim Stoval, Charles Culberson of Fort Worth, Pat Knott of Houston and Don Lewis from Broken Bow, Okla.

Department Heads to Aid In Select Series Setup

Letters from the Select Series committee will be sent to all department heads this week, seeking suggestions for student committee members next year.

Under a new plan, student members will be selected from these nominees.

Members of this year's Select Series group, headed by co-chairmen John Moore, Gladewater senior, and Dr. Marguerite Potter, associate professor of history, were appointed by President M. E. Sadler and Vice President D. Ray Lindley.

The administrative committee in charge of campus committee appointments last week revised the number of Select Series committee members for next year. There will be nine students and nine faculty members, as well as six ex-officio members.

Retiring co-chairmen, the student body president, Activities Council director, social director and a representative from Information Services will fill the ex-officio posts.

Silent Soph Talks Best With B'Ball

By TED RICKENBACHER

Bobby Tyler, an up and coming sophomore who has little to say when met on the campus, makes a lot of "racket" with the basketball.

Bobby, a fine defensive player who has quick hands and can pass the ball well, could break into the starting line-up this season.

He is one of the quickest boys on the squad and is a threat to steal the ball from an opposing player at any time.

Although he spends much of his time with basketball and is interested in most other sports, Tyler occasionally finds time for leisure.

When asked what he did in his spare time, the well dressed athlete replied:

"Well, I enjoy a lot of things, but I guess my main interest is in clothes. I enjoy shopping, admiring the latest changes in fashions."

A friend says, "Bobby has so many shirts he couldn't begin to count them."

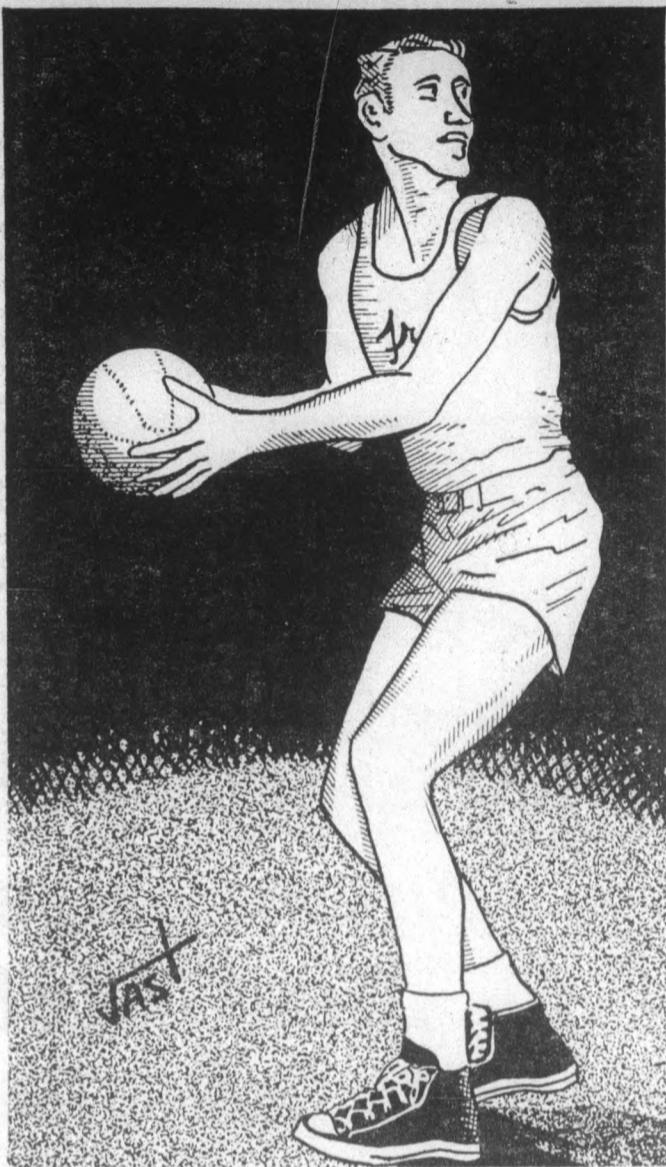

At Paschal High School Bobby was elected junior class president and vice president of the student body in his senior year.

Bobby, an all-district player in high school, and Tommy Turner were noted for their ability to work together. Turner also is now a TCU cager.

Although only 5-10, a short man in a world of "giants," Bobby managed to average over 10 points a game in his freshman year.

Tyler, who has maintained better than a two-point average as a business major, plans to attend law school after graduation, preferably at University of Texas.

Last summer Bobby repaired cables on elevators for Esco Elevator Co. When asked what would happen if the cable broke while working on them, he said; "I guess I'd take a spill."

THE SCORE

We'll Wait for Greener Fields

By TONY CLARK

The decision of the Athletic Council to decline TCU's invitation to the Cigar Bowl seems to meet the approval of most interested parties, including this writer.

The Frogs had a good season, considering the 2-8 record that was foreseen for them by some gridiron stargazers, and their victory over Rose Bowl-bound Ohio State will be remembered for a long, long time.

With a minimum of breaks, the Purple might have been packing for a Sugar Bowl exodus right now.

An appearance in the Cigar Bowl, however, would have gained little for TCU, except possibly a deep Tampa suntan for the players.

Not recognized as a major bowl, the Cigar clash has an almost nil prestige value, even for a well-known eleven like the Christians; it lacks the color and the pageantry which accompany the top Holiday games, and the players receive no gifts as valuable as a Cotton Bowl watch.

From a financial standpoint, TCU would make little more than expenses; the bowl seats only 20,000, and a full house wouldn't net a large sum by collegiate football standards.

Coach Abe Martin has his own reason for wanting to bypass the Cigar feat, and this reason is shared by most Frog fans.

"We'd like to go to a major bowl in the near future," he said, "and I'm afraid our boys might lose some of their incentive if we accepted a bid to a smaller one."

The football team as a whole is just as happy that the Florida trip is off, although a few of the younger members are disappointed.

Most of the seniors, related Martin, didn't want to play their last game for TCU in a small-calibre affair. Some of the sophomores wanted to go, he added, but "they just want to play some more football."

Three Frogs have been invited to play in all-star games. Jimmy Shofner, who copped the conference rushing crown, will go to the Shrine East-West battle, and John Groom will play in the professional-sponsored Senior Bowl. Buddy Dike declined a bid the Shrine North-South game.

Tuesday night, basketball pushed football from the spotlight and took over as king of the Frogland sports scene, and the opening clash gave indications for a glorious reign. Last year the Christian cagers began a mediocre season (14-10) by downing Austin College, 81-62.

In their first encounter of this campaign, the Purples smashed the same foe by a decisive 83-33 count.

Take away Dick O'Neal, then add a year of experience to five green sophs who saw plenty of action last year, and you have the well-balanced quintet of juniors who have high hopes of snagging the SWC basketball crown.

They lack an individual star of O'Neal's quality, but they have a unity and a sense of teamwork that should produce a much better combination than last year's.

Favored Frogs Face Indians

Cagers Seek Repeat Of Austin Workout

By PAT BECKHAM

The high-powered Horned Frogs of TCU probably will be ungracious hosts tonight when the McMurry College Indians take the court at 8 in Public Schools Gymnasium.

The Frogs, who bludgeoned Austin College, 83-33, Tuesday, and the Indians, who were massacred by Baylor, 90-59, the same night, are obviously mismatched. The Frogs are picked at the top of the Southwest Conference heap along with Rice, while Baylor's Bears are predicted for the other extreme.

Coach Buster Brannon's squad, dominated by juniors and supported by several fine sophomores and a senior, should be able to make a repeat performance tonight of the "workout" against the Kangaroos.

Capt. Ronny Stevenson, Ken King, Don Williams, Derrill Nippert and Ken Brunson provided the offensive punch against the 'Roos, and Williams, Stevenson and H. E. Kirchner came through on the rebounds.

Roy Davis, Bobby Tyler, Tommy Turner, Tommy Meacham, Billy Taylor and F. A. Davis also saw service against the Austin cagers from Sherman.

Each team fouled only 11 times, and the new foul-rule, which permits only one free throw for the first six infractions by each team in each half, made the game quicker and smoother.

The Frogs, employing the tandem post with Williams subbing for either Stevenson or Kirchner in the top slot, hit 51 per cent of their shots and gathered 57 rebounds in the opener. The Austin cagers hit only 22 per cent and managed 35 rebounds.

Next Monday the Frogs journey to Oklahoma City to engage a strong OCU quintet in one of the biggest tests of the entire season.

Huffman's Win Cinches Lead In Grid Guesses

Charles (Mickey) Huffman boosted the men's edge over the women of TCU in The Skiff football contest of November 22.

"Mickey" made perfect guesses on all 10 of the games and he put the men out front, six to three, in the undeclared war of "who's the best football-game-guessers?"

This week's contest, last of the season, is on Page 11, and all TCU students, except Skiff staffers, are eligible for one entry.

Honors Go to Shofner, Mendoza, Martin, Dike

By GALYN WILKINS

Jim Shofner, the Frogs' workhorse halfback, Wednesday night was named the Frogs' Most Valuable Player and was presented the Dan D. Rogers ring.

Shofner, along with four other TCU athletes, received special awards at the annual Football Banquet.

Buddy Dike, the Christian fullback, received the Grassy Hinton award as the Most Conscientious Player and end Chico Mendoza was presented the G. L. Perkinson award as the Best Downfield Blocker.

Arvie Martin was named the Frogs' outstanding squadman and received the Y. Q. McCammon trophy. Baseball player Carl Warwick, Frog center-fielder last season, won the Pete Donohue trophy as the team's runs-batted-in leader.

Dr. Henry Hardt was Master of Ceremonies.

Varsity and freshman football letters also were awarded at the banquet.

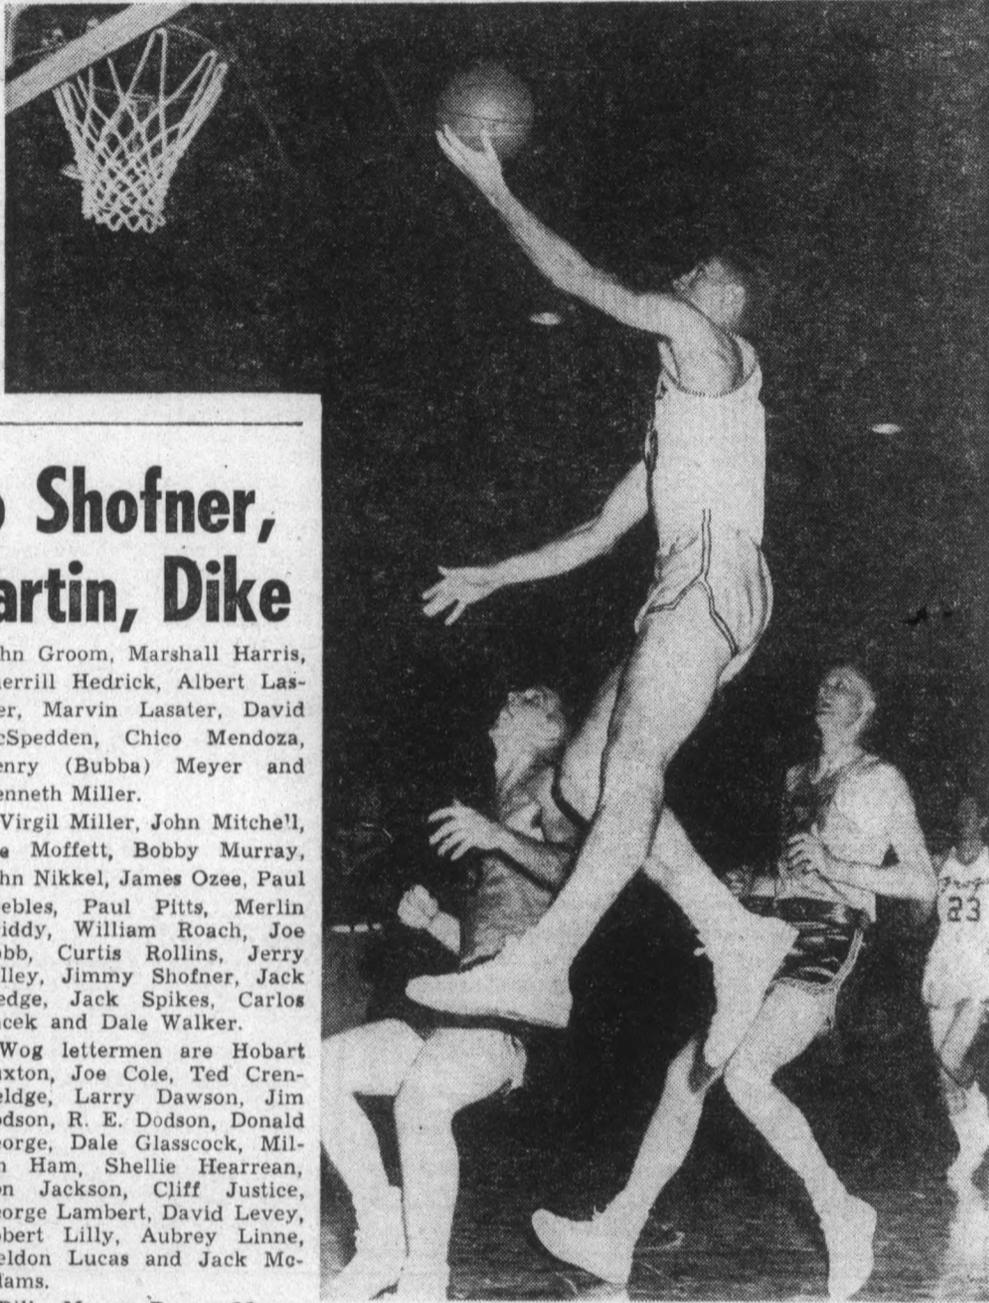

Varsity lettermen are Ramon Armstrong, Cecil Carter, Buddy Dike, Delzon Elenburg, Hunter Enis, Richard Finney, Donald Floyd, Jimmy Gilmore, John Groom, Marshall Harris, Sherrill Hedrick, Albert Lasater, Marvin Lasater, David McSpedden, Chico Mendoza, Henry (Bubba) Meyer and Kenneth Miller.

Billy Means, Danny Myers, Harold (Dugan) Millican, Harry Moreland, Dan Norman, Ray Pinion, Donald Plummer, Roy Lee Rambo, Pat Richardson, Bill Phillips, Larry (Yank) Terrell, Rick Terry, Lanny Verner, Wayne Wilcox, Randy Wiley, Clarence Young, Dan Zunker and manager James Harper.

LOOK! — Up in the air, it's a bird! it's a bullet! No, it's Don Williams, sophomore cage star, going in for a lay-up against the Austin College Kangaroos in Tuesday night's fracas at Public Schools Gymnasium. That's teammate Ken Brunson (23) in the background.
