Ministers' Week Starts Jan. 12

DR. CHARLES F. KEMP

DR. HAROLD L. LUNGER

DR. J. IRWIN MILLER

DR. C. E. LEMMON

Ethics to Be Emphasized

Christian ethics and the responsibility of the church and the pastoral ministry will be emphasized during a annual Ministers' Week Monday through Thursday.

Four religious leaders will give the three endowed lectures during the event. All ministers, laymen and others interested, regardless of denomination, have been invited to attend all sessions, at University Christian Church.

Dr. Charles F. Kemp, distinguished professor of practical ministries in Brite College, will deliver the McFaden Lectures.

His subjects are "The Great Heritage of the Pastoral Ministry," "The People That We Serve" and "The Nature of the Task."

Dr. Harold L. Lunger, Brite professor of Christian ethics, will give the first two Orion Scott Lectures on "Christian Ethics in an Age of Confirmation" and "The Social Responsibility of the Church and Its Ministry."

The third Scott lecture will be given by Dr. J. Irwin Miller, chairman of the board and director of Cummins Engine Co., Columbus, Ind., at a campus-wide convocation at 11 a.m. Thursday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

He will speak on "The Great and Small World of the Christian Minister."

Dr. C. E. Lemmon, pastor of the First Christian Church of Columbia, Mo., will deliver the Wells Lectures. His topics are "The Fire and the Rod," "The Rediscovery of the Inner Life" and "The Ever-Flowing Stream."

Ministers' Week lectureships succeed the former Ministers' Institute and a previous Disciples Lectureship which operated from about 1890 and were financed by fees of the members. Lectureships are now pre-

Financing University Operations Is Answer to Problem Taft Says

The answer to the problem of higher education is not in government scholarships for students, but in the finance of university operations, Charles P. Taft said yesterday.

The former mayor of Cincinnati told a press conference Thursday, that three Ohio cities—Akron, Toledo and Cincinnati—are faced with the problem of how to finance a municipal university.

"The scholarship isn't the answer to the problem," Taft stated. "The scholarship doesn't help anyone but the boy that goes to school."

Taft said that other shortages aside from the lack of engineers and scientists were prevalent in the education field. He noted the shortage of instructors, especially in the field of higher mathematics as an acute problem.

CHARLES P. TAFT

The former mayor also expressed the opinion that there was too much panic among American people over the launching of the Soviet sputniks.

"Just because they got sputnik up there is no evidence that Russia is ahead of us in the Inter-Continental Ballistic Missile development program," he said.

A graduate of Yale University in 1917, the 60-year-old councilman was captain of the Bulldog's basketball team 1914-1917, and editor of the Law Journal.

Taft stated that the major problems in ICBM development were accuracy and re-entry—the ability to hit a pin-point target with a missile, and causing the missile to re-enter the atmosphere after it once had left it.

"We've done that in our missile program," Taft said. "It only requires about 15 percent more fuel to launch an object above the atmosphere and cause it to circle the earth than it does to make it return."

Taft spoke last night on the subject of "Why a Labor Party in the United States" in a Select Series program in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Since retiring from office of mayor Dec. 1, Taft has served as president of the Cincinnati city council.

When asked if he had any further political ambitions, Taft replied: "I'm a city councilman and I enjoy it."

Taft was Republican candidate for the Ohio governor office, and was "badly defeated." He was chairman of the War Time Economic Affairs in the state department during World War II.

Taft is also active in church affairs. He has served as president of the Federal Council of Churches and chairman of the information department of the World Council of Church Activities. He is to be a delegate to the Episcopal Church convention at Miami Beach in October.

Changes Made In Party Rules

Three changes in social card applications have been approved by the committee on sororities and fraternities.

Formerly, applications for all parties were to be turned in at the office of Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director, by 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The new deadline is 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Revoking the ruling that all parties must have a chaperone, the new ruling permits groups to be unchaperoned if the party is on campus and is for men or women only.

For parties in the homes of individual members, the parents of the host or the hostess may sign the application. Before, all such applications were signed by the group's faculty sponsor.

Professional Staff To Get Pay Boost

If your instructors seem to have an extra bounce in their walk, there is a reason.

A salary increase of $600 per year for all professional members of the faculty and staff has been announced by President M. E. Sadler.

The $50-a-month raise, effective Feb. 1, was announced at a general faculty meeting Dec. 18.

The raises will cost the University an additional $180,000 a year. The salary increases are in line with President Sadler's plan to raise the faculty and staff's income as means permit.

Last year a raise was given, but was based on merit rather than being of the general type just approved.

The additional money will come out of the University's general fund. Present plans do not call for an increase in tuition.

Today Declared Drop Deadline

Today is the last day a student may drop a course for the fall semester.

Students may not withdraw from courses during the last two weeks of the fall and spring semesters nor during the last week of a six-weeks

Clues Sought In Burglary

No new clues have turned up in the burglary of the Administration Building Dec. 23, Security Chief Bill Biggars said.

Three men apparently tried to break into the Post Office but left no signs of entry.

Security Officer Grif Hughes evidently discovered the intruders soon after they entered the building. After he fired at them, they left in a hurry.

Hughes pursued them up the stairs but the men smashed open the front door and were across the campus before the officer could catch them.

Biggars, who arrived soon after the shot was fired, said he doubted if the men were TCU students.

No loss was reported.

Congress Resumes Meetings Feb. 4

Next Student Congress meeting will be Feb. 4, Student Association President George Depee announced Tuesday.

The group will not meet during Dead Week, final examinations and registration.

Congress Elects Two Officers

Miss Carol Kitchens and John Kollman will assume duties as Student Congress secretary and treasurer, respectively, at mid-year.

Miss Kitchens, Fort Worth junior, will replace Miss Jo-Anne Kirkpatrick, and Kollman, Taylor junior, will take over duties of Tom Lyles.

Lyles and Miss Kirkpatrick are scheduled to complete graduation requirements at mid-year.

Congress elected the new officers Tuesday night.

Student Association President George Depee praised the work of both Miss Kirkpatrick and Lyles during their tenure in office.

In other action Tuesday, Congress voted not to charter a bus for Monday's basketball contest with Rice in Public Schools Gymnasium.

Fort Worth Transit Co.'s price for chartering a 37-passenger bus for one night is $22.50. In order for Congress to break even on the venture, the price per passenger would be too great, it was agreed.

Before the Christmas holidays, Congress had voted to charter a bus for the game and charge 10 cents per student.

Book Stacks Installed In Library for Move

Book stacks are now being installed in the new part of the Library in preparation for moving during registration week, beginning Jan. 27.

Installation of the stacks began Monday and is expected to be completed in three weeks. The new part of the Library is complete except for the book stacks and finishing touches on the interior.

Workmen will begin renovating the old section as soon as the books and furniture are moved into the new part.

New furniture has been ordered, but all of it will not arrive in time for the move. This means that the old furniture will be used until all the new equipment is in by late March. Some of the new furniture is expected to begin arriving Wednesday. Completion date of the entire structure tentatively is scheduled for May 20. This is three weeks later than the original plan called for, but the installation of the book stacks now necessitated the delay, Glenn Sparks, head librarian, explained.

The book stacks will remain closed to undergraduate students until the entire Library is completed and accepted by the University.

Student Directory Sales Lag; Plans Made to Boost Purchases

Student Congress Wednesday began an all-out campaign

Ministers' Week is a refresher course for active ministers in the field and gives them a chance to find out what other ministers are preaching about today.

The Wells Lectureship was founded in 1943 by the East Dallas Christian Church in honor of the minister, Dr. L. N. D. Wells.

The McFadin Lectureship was started by an annual gift from the McFadin ministerial loan fund, operating through Brite College. The lectureship is named for the founder of the fund, D. G. McFadin, Dallas.

to sell the 1958 Student Directory.

The directory, compiled by John Morehart, went on sale in the University Store Dec. 20.

Student Association President George Depee reported to Congress Tuesday that 450 directories had been purchased, leaving but 950 to sell.

Depee appointed Brite College Representative Howard Grant as director of directory sales. Grant issued each Congress member 20 directories to sell.

A sales booth in the Student Center lobby soon will be opened. The books cost 50 cents each. The directory contains the name, campus address and phone number, classification and home town of all regularly enrolled students, and all faculty and staff members.

Rifle Team to Compete In 4th Army Tourney

By BARRY STEPHENSON The ROTC rifle team will travel to Fort Hood, near Killeen, Feb. 15-16 to take part in the Fourth Army Championshi ROTC Small Bore, Shoulder-to-Shoulder Meet.

Other teams in the match are: University of Arkansas, Tulane University, Oklahoma State University, Texas A&I, Texas Western College, Oklahoma Military Academy and Arlington State.

Don Ryon, Fort Worth freshman, captured first place on the All-Texas Rifle Association team. His average score of 382 clinched the position.

Col. I. B. Anderson, liaison officer for Area H, will visit the AF ROTC unit on campus today.

He will help the staff iron out problems and will bring the late information from AF ROTC headquarters for the TCU detachment.

Six men will complete the ROTC program and receive their reserve commissions this month.

They are Robert Tolar Brannon, Edwin E. Churchill and Jerry D. Collins, Corps of Engineers; Roland E. Moore, Transportation Corps, and James R. Sharp and Noel A. Morrow, Artillery.

Brannon, Collins and Sharp will start active duty in February with Churchill and Moore entering in April. All will spend six months of active duty. The remainder of their service will be with a reserve unit.

Stanley M. McAnnelly Jr., Ranger sophomore, was selected Airman of the Week Dec. 18. He is in 2nd Squadron, Flight B.

Chaplain Maj. Carl T. Schmidt, assistant staff chaplain at Maxwell Air Force Base, spoke to AF ROTC cadets interested in the chaplaincy Jan. 8. He also conferred with university officials.

Writer to Speak Here

Mr. John W. Graves, a noted author, will speak to the Creative Writing class next Wednesday at 7 p.m. in Room 301 in the Ad building.

Graves taught a class in Creative Writing at the University of Texas.

Miss Elizabeth Sherley, instructor in Creative Writing, has invited members of Descant to attend, and also anyone who is interested.

Hard Work, Rushed Schedule Doesn't Bother This Ballerina

By FRANK PERKINS

If you happen to have a spare four-bits piece rattling around in your Ivy League pants, amble over to Ed Landreth Auditorium at 8:30 p.m. today and purchase a ticket to the Annual Fine Arts Ballet.

After you are seated, and the curtain goes up, look closely and you will see a brown-eyed, black-haired junior from Laredo named Miss Catherine Urban gamboling blithely about the stage.

The charming Miss Urban will dance in two of the three selections, appearing in "Clown and the Rose," and "Ballet Suite." She will not appear in the third production, "Ancestral Experiences."

Tickets to the Ballet are $1.50 for adults, and 50c for students.

Now you will be amazed at the ease and grace of these dancers, and you will be led to believe that it is as easy as pie . . . This is not true.

As an example of what the usual ballet major here at TCU takes in the way of courses, let's examine Miss Urban's schedule.

For her BFA degree in Ballet, Catherine must complete the following courses: pantomime, ballet history, choreography, stage craft, music for ballet and theater, history of music and acting, and four years of ballet techniques.

These are just the Ballet courses. Plus these major subjects she must take the regular academic load, with French as a required course.

The real meat of the course in the ballet technique—this is the spot where Catherine practices what David Preston, chairman of the department of ballet, preaches. Here, she does such movements as the "plie," the "battements battus," the "arabesque," along with "saut de chat" and others.

The svelte coed spends some six to ten hours a week in these practice sessions noted for their hard, physical labor. These rehearsals have all the physical strain of football practice, plus the added strain of having to make the movements appear graceful, light and feathery.

Added to her school and practice schedule, Catherine still finds time to teach two classes in a private dance studio in Arlington on Tuesday and Thursday each week.

This staggering work load has one compensation. It leaves only the ones who really desire a career in the ballet — as Catherine says: "It is really enjoyable, even with the hard work, and I wouldn't do anything else."

Watching her move about, one can believe it . . . she is as much at home on her toes as she is when walking like us worldly folk.

Too, this ballet dancing is not an overnight business. Catherine has been dancing for seven years, starting her career in Jacksonville, Florida, at a very tender age. She plans to continue it in New York City after her graduation.

All in all, it's a lot of hard work that culminates on the stage. If the audience isn't there to see it, then the muscle torture has been wasted.

Spring Rush Deadline Set

Saturday, Jan. 18, is the deadline for TCU coeds desiring to register for informal spring sorority rush, and incoming students must sign up by Feb. 7.

Registration for rush, scheduled for Feb. 23-March 1, will be conducted in the Student Center lobby and at the desks of the four women's dormitories.

Rush will begin on Saturday, Feb. 22, with an orientation lecture in the ballroom, when a $1 registration fee will be paid.

Informal rush parties will continue from Monday through Friday of Spring Rush Week. Under Panhellenic by-laws, an informal rush meeting may consist of no more than four rushees and eight sorority members, alumnae or pledges at one time.

Also, a group may meet with the same rushee a maximum of three times for two hours at each meeting.

Written bids, as in formal rush, will be extended to the rushees on Saturday afternoon, March 1.

"Friday has been designated as 'preference day', when each group will invite only the rushees in whom they are most interested. At the orientation lecture, rushees will be urged to accept only invitations from sororities which they would pludge," Ann Rapp, Panhellenic president, said.

Because quotas of 66 active members for each sorority has not been increased, not all campus groups will participate in Spring Rush.

MISS CATHERINE URBAN . . . Tiptoes and Fingertips.

Not Dead Any More

Among other things, this is the Age of the Euphemism. The trend in society has been to tack on multi-syllabled names to positions and/or persons occupying them.

Thus janitors have titles like "Sanitation Engineer" while office boys are "Supply Technicians" and secretaries "Stenographic Assistants."

TCU, not to be outdone in the adopting of aliases, has joined modern society and industry in this habit, with the result that "Dead Week," the week before finals in which no activities are scheduled, shall now be known as "Review Week."

The reasons for this change are vague, and in the main, not important. The student, by nature hard-headed and against all change, will continue to call Review Week, Dead Week. This is human nature.

The new phase is being encouraged, however. So . . . henceforth and forthwith, know ye all men by these presents: Dead Week is no more! Review Week has taken its place in the sun and by this name shall be known.

Haven for Security

With the nation's future depending to a large extent on the merit of highly trained scientists, it is a gratifying experience to walk through the halls of a modern science building such as ours.

Feelings of insecurity, brought on by a recent flood of criticism directed toward the country's inadequate scientific training facilities, suddenly begin to disappear.

A stroll down the first floor reveals two students getting a professor's permission to pursue an experiment in physics they have contrived from a class lecture. On the second floor, a student explains a chemistry problem to his classmates. There is no horseplay but quiet attentiveness by these future scientists.

The new streamlined math program, launched to enable gifted students to advance into more difficult phases of math, isn't the only new path leading to peace.

Graduate courses in physics now are being offered in "Transistor Electronics" and "Kinetic Theory of Statistical Mechanics." To the layman, these terms mean little, but to the young scientist they are new tools needed in this race for atmospheric conquest.

The University can be proud that its science department has pre-planned a vitalized program so urgently needed in this world of unrest.

Meeting of Ministers

Those men you see on campus next week who look like preachers will be just that—delegates here for TCU's annual Ministers Week.

They will be attending lectures in University Christian Church. Included among these are the Wells, McFadin and Oreon E. Scott lectureships. Students are welcome to attend the sessions.

A University-wide convocation, part of the special week of programs, will take place at 11 a.m. Thursday in Ed Landreth Auditorium. Dr. J. Irwin Miller, chairman of the board and director of Cummins Engine Co. of Columbus, Ind., will speak on "The Great and Small World of the Christian Minister."

Students will find the week presents a great opportunity to hear some of the outstanding lecturers of the Disciples of Christ and their views on various facets of Christianity.

Rains Again

The recent rains in the state will mean a great deal to the University in the near future.

During the past six years of drouth, TCU suffered along with its West Texas benefactors. The ranchers to the west are a primary source of revenue for TCU as their contributions have helped the University in such programs as building construction and salary increases for teachers.

During the years without rain, incomes of the ranchers were reduced and so were their donations to TCU. No one was pressed to contribute to the University during this time.

Now with plenty of rain, the ranchers will benefit and so will TCU. No friends were lost during the trial of waterless weather.

The Pharisee

'Tis A Puzzlement'

By FRANK PERKINS

A coed rushed into the office the other day and remarked breathlessly . . . "My girl friend's dropped!"

Thinking to console her, I muttered, "How sad, well there's other fish in the sea."

The coed looked at me a moment with a puzzled look on her face and said: "I think it's just wonderful."

Somewhat taken aback, I said "Oh", then looked at her with a leer and said sardonically, "wanted to date her boy friend yourself eh, heh heh heh!"

Protestations of innocence from the injured young thing . . . "You don't understand at all . . . she's DROPPED!"

That's what you said before, she's dropped, so that lets you in the front door, her buddy threw her over, so now you can stake your claim."

And then, friends, the great Education began.

For the benefit of other independents who haven't as yet been initiated in the stylized courtship of our Greek brethren, I take it upon myself to list a few of the terms and exactly what they mean.

1) Going steady . . . no change, means the same here as it does in high school.

2) Dropped . . . does not mean, as this barbarian thought, that the budding romance had suffered a decline, but does mean that both parties are satisfied with the status quo and that the male has given his little dove a lavalier of his Fraternity's crest with which she now adorns her alabaster neck.

3) Pinned . . . loosely interpreted, but seeming to mean that the couple are engaged to be engaged. A somewhat more concrete relationship that the dropping and the going steady.

4) Engaged . . . Mission accomplished, no casualties. Now to simplify these terms, one might say that "going steady" meant that the couple agreed on Bach, loved modern art, hated 8 o'clock classes and thought that the '58 Impala was too ornate, henceforth, they decided to keep each other's company.

"Dropping" might be interpreted to mean that the male thought that there might be a few other guys who believed the same things, and that he ought to stake his claim . . . the drop means about the same as "Off Limits to all Unauthorized Personnel."

However, should a rift develop in the silver cloud, the drop can be returned with a minimum of ceremony and without having to go through the sack-cloth and ashes routine.

"Pinning" is more final. It can best be declared a statement of ownership, i.e., "Me Tarzan, You Jane." To break now is almost unthinkable (particularly since tradition calls for the pin to be mailed back to the injured party, at a nominal postage cost plus insurance).

The happy couple is now ready for the piece-de-resistance, the Pinning Ceremony.

Everybody falls out in a column of two's in full field kit and extra shoes . . . the brothers hold hot candles and sing sweetly (a rather difficult feat, but impressive), while the lovers gaze soulfully into each others eyes and the girl wonders if she can scrape up the postage to mail back that other jerk's pin.

Now, it is just a matter of time and credit managers until a diamond resides on the girl's third finger, left hand.

That's it kiddies . . . happy droppings.

SW Campus Confidential

By RICHARD TIPTON

ARKANSAS—

A big blast was fired by the Traveler at the rock 'n' roll infringement into Christmas music, with which we'll go along. The article pointed out that two standard favorites, "Jingle Bells," and "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," are now dressed up in wailing saxophones, whining guitar and loud drum.

"If the commerciality can fuse its way that far," stated the item, "it certainly won't stop there. If one think about it, it could lead to complete ruination of our set of Christmas songs. What, for example, would "We Three Kings of Orient Are" sound like as a revised and commercialized tune, accompanied with guitar, drums, wailing sax, etc?"

Here's the nightmare version by writer, C. P. Crow that we hope never finds its way on wax:

We three cats of orient are
Joe beats drums and I play guitar,

The third man's our manager,
quite an ace,

He blows the sax and doubles on bass.

Carrying much gold, we've traveled afar,

Now we're drunk, don't know where we are,

We can't find our mission,
can't find our goal,

All we can do is play rock and roll.

These are the best grounds
we've seen yet for drafting Elvis early.

SMU—

According to an SMU professor just back from Washington, they've renamed the Vanguard missile. It's now called the "civil service missile," because "you can't fire it and it won't work."

Here's something that might work, however, especially for dorm girls. If you've run out of good excuses for over-staying the curfew, profit by this story from The Campus:

It's about the coed who was absent overnight from the sorority house, and called the housemother early the next morning:

"Don't pay the ransom," she said excitedly, "I escaped."

1,200 High School Seniors Expected at Conference

Some 1,200 seniors and their principals and advisors from 36 high schools in the Fort Worth area are expected to attend the fifth annual Citizenship and Career Conference at TCU Jan. 24.

Congressman Jim Wright of Weatherford will deliver the keynote address at the forum, jointly sponsored by the TCU and the West Texas and Fort Worth Chambers of Commerce.

President M. E. Sadler will welcome the guests in the opening session at Ed Landreth Auditorium. Berl Godfrey, president of the West Texas chamber, will preside. The Horned Frog band will present a 30-minute concert.

A panel of six Fort Worth businessmen will lead a discussion on career selection.

The Fort Worth chamber will sponsor a luncheon for the principals and advisors at noon in the Ballroom. Student guests will eat in the Cafeteria.

Approximately 32 career clinics are planned during the afternoon sessions. TCU students can attend any of the conferences.

Courses Added In Journalism

The curriculum committees have approved the addition of two new courses in the department of journalism.

Journalism 320, "Basic News Photography" will be offered the first summer semester and again next fall.

Journalism 334, "News Photography" has been changed to "Advanced News Photography."

Both courses will be offered in a fall-spring semester sequence.

Journalism 345—"Problems of High School Publications," will be conducted during the first summer semester. The course is designed for all students who plan to teach or advise high school publications.

Dr. Max R. Haddick will teach both photography courses.

Rev. James A. Farrar to Preach; Speaker Terms World 'Explosive'

Chapel service is planned for Dead Week, but not for exam or registration week.

The Rev. James A. Farrar, director of religious activities, will preach Tuesday.

Dr. Gaston Foote, minister of the First Methodist Church, spoke this week on "The Kind of a World in Which We Live."

"It is a hungry, changing, explosive, but still religious world," Dr. Foote related. He based his sermon on his recent trip around the world.

Dr. Foote interviewed leaders in various countries and asked questions concerning political, economic and religious problems.

"It is a hungry world because many countries have no capital, and in order to arm themselves against others they tax and starve their people," he said.

"There is no such thing as a normal world. It is nauseating to go where one wants to work and become something, but does not have a chance for the future.

"It is still a religious world. No matter how much you try to stamp out religion, you cannot hold back the dawn of God's truth."

Playboy Magazine Will Give Formal For Sigma Chi's

Playboy Magazine will toast TCU Sigma Chis, their dates and friends with a formal dance at 8:30 p.m. today at Wedgewood Country Club.

"TCU Playmate of the Year" will be named by the fraternity, and with a trophy.

"King Bear and his Cubs," a band that toured Europe with Louis Armstrong, will play.

Representatives from each of the eight campus fraternities have received invitations.

EC Plans Social Mixer

Evening College students are planning a social mixer at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Center Snack Bar.

There will be dancing and refreshments, and recreational facilities will be free.

PENN R. POST received his B.S. in engineering from U.C.L.A. in 1956. He is now in the second year of General Electric's Technical Marketing Program, in the Company's General Purpose Motor Department.

"In a growing industry, there's room for me to grow"

"Here at General Electric," says Penn R. Post, 24-year-old marketing trainee, "you hear a lot of talk about the future—even as far ahead as 1978. In fact, I've discovered that planning ahead for America's needs 10 and 20 years from now is characteristic of the electrical industry. And, what's important to me, General Electric's long-range planning takes my future into account. I'm now on my fourth assignment in the Company's Technical Marketing Program—all planned steps in my development.

"I'm pretty confident about the electrical future, too. For one thing, America's use of electricity has been doubling every ten years. And it will increase even faster as our population grows another 65 million by 1978—and as research and development lead to new electrical products that help people live better. The way I look at it, the technical, manufacturing and marketing resources of large companies like General Electric are important factors in the growth of the electrical industry. And in a growing industry, there's room for me to grow."

Young people like Penn Post are an important part of General Electric's plans to meet the opportunities and challenges of the electrical future. Each of our 29,000 college-graduate employees is given opportunities for training and a climate for self-development that help him to achieve his fullest capabilities. For General Electric believes that the progress of any industry—and of the nation—depends on the progress of the people in it.

Danforth Graduate Fellowships Open to Senior Men Until Jan. 21

Application deadline for the Danforth Graduate Fellowships is Jan. 21.

The fellowships are open to all male seniors under 31 who haven't started their graduate work and who plan to teach.

The three major qualifications the foundation seeks are:

- 1) Outstanding academic ability and evidence of a vigorous, searching mind;
- 2) A personality which contributes to classroom effort and participates in student affairs;
- 3) Sound character and integrity in the Christian tradition.

Applications are available through the school liaison officer, Prof. Ben H. Procter, Room 121, Administration Building.

Club to Hear Children

Children of the TCU Speech, Hearing and Retardation Clinic will demonstrate work done for their benefit in the clinic before the Arlington Lion's Club Thursday, Mrs. Dorothy Bell, director, announced.

Mrs. Bell will go to Texas Woman's University at Denton Feb. 7 to take part on a panel discussion on language development.

She also will take part on the program of the Southern Speech Association in Houston April 4.

Mary Sandridge, Longview freshman and a Chi Omega pledge, comes from a long line of TCU students.

Prof. Procter, who succeeds the late Dr. Irene Huber in that capacity, and a four-man board will interview and screen all applicants.

One or two students will be nominated and their applications will be sent to the foundation for further screening.

The foundation will select 250 persons who will be interviewed by one of the foundation's directors. Approximately 75 appointments will be made in 1958.

The winners will be announced in April.

The Danforth Foundation was established in 1927 by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Danforth of St. Louis. The foundation confines its activities largely to the area of higher education with special attention to the recruiting and training of Christian teachers in all fields.

The program of Danforth Graduate Fellowships was started in 1951. In the six years TCU has been participating three students have received fellowships.

John B. Payne, B.A. '53, won the fellowship and a Fulbright Scholarship at the same time. He studied at Heidelberg University in Germany for a year and is currently working on his doctorate at Harvard University.

Bill Howerton, who won his appointment in 1956, is in the Army and will resume his studies upon discharge.

Ren Kent, B.A. '54, former Student Association President, studied at Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University in 1956, and is now with the YMCA in Austin.

Financial assistance is given according to need, limiting the annual maximum grant to $1,400 plus tuition and fees for single men and $1,900 plus tuition and fees for married men, with an additional amount of $350 for each child.

(SEE PARAGRAPH BELOW)

MEMO TO MAESTROS: is your band dawdling instead of tootling? Is it full of feeble fifers and drooping drummers? Well, this musical slowdown may be traceable to lack of Luckies. Better give your band a break—and make it a Lucky one! A Lucky, you see, is a light smoke—the right smoke for everyone. It's all cigarette—all naturally light, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco. And Luckies' fine tobacco is toasted to taste even better. Now then, what's a marching band that never gets a Lucky break? Why, it's a Sore Corps! (Wasn't that cymbal?)

Campus in Dire Need Of Tennis Facilities

While colleges around the country are spending millions for ultra-modern stadiums and field houses and hiring coaches at astronomical salaries, what's happening to sports like tennis?

C. A. Burch, TCU tennis coach since 1942, has some ideas about the sport at TCU.

For the past several years the school has spent $5 million on buildings, but we still haven't enough tennis courts," he said.

"It's not the fault of the administration. They have enough problems trying to find room for all these new buildings, but this (tennis) is a problem too."

He described these severe conditions to his tennis class.

"We have 30 students in the P.E. class now and have had to turn at least that many away at registration. We can only accommodate 16 on the four courts we have."

The scarcity of courts not only is a problem for classes but for the team as well.

"We can't play on our courts because the black top ruins balls. We couldn't pay for the balls—much less other equipment if we played there," Burch related.

Consequently the team plays at other courts in the city. Last year they played at River Crest Country Club but had to schedule matches at an early hour to clear courts for club members.

This year Burch doesn't know where his team will play. Country Club courts have the early hour disadvantage and the team cannot use the city courts in Forest Park until spring.

But the affable white-haired coach has a solution: build courts on the lower west side Stadium parking lot.

"We could use this for the team to play on and put in all weather courts. It would cost thousands, but several of the other schools have good courts and they put them where students can see the team play," he related.

Burch pointed out that the lower parking lot is seldom used even when large crowds pack the stadium.

"Even if the lot was needed, they could park cars on the courts," he concluded.

Heavy Intramural Schedule Set for Spring Semester

The TCU spring intramurals program will swing back into action immediately following registration for the spring semester, according to men's intramural director Billy Harlin.

Basketball, swimming, track, tennis, golf and softball will be among the sports on the spring agenda, he added.

Basketball, he related, will begin the week of Feb. 3-8 with play in two fraternity leagues and one independent bracket. The days to which the leagues will be assigned have not yet been decided, but should be soon. Harlin stated.

Anyone wishing to enter an independent team in the fray can sign up after the fall finals in the Gymnasium, in the Student Center Snack Bar or in the Phi Delta Theta section, according to Harlin.

The swimming meet also is planned for the near future, but no date has yet been set. The track meet, which was a high point of the spring semester last year, will be held soon after the completion of the basketball program.

age of these misfortunes, cut the lead to a single point 45-44.

Noakes, however, came back in the game and, aided by Gerald Myers, shot the margin to 11 points 55-44.

The Raiders, hitting practically every shot, zipped to an 18 point margin with four minutes remaining, but H. E. Kirchner and little Bobby Tyler helped the Frogs slice the spread to just seven points. Tech, however, again increased the lead and stalled the remaining minutes.

Top scorers for the Frogs were Ronny Stevenson with 21 points, Derrill Nippert with 12, Kenneth King with 11 and H. E. Kirchner with 10.

THE SCORE

The Bridgers At TCU

By PAT BECKHAM

From the farthest north corner of the Student Center game room comes the scornful cry of the contract bridge defender:

"DOUBLE!"

The declarer sighs, his partner utters an oath and 14 kibitzers wring their hands in anticipation of "The Kill."

The bid is a farce and the over-eager offensive team shudders, stutters and goes down to the tune of 1,400 points—down five, doubled and vulnerable.

Of course this isn't the revelation of a specific incident, but it happens every day in the spacious playing quarters where card enthusiasts match their wits by the hundreds, 10 hours a day, every day.

Yes, it's a great life and a great game, and who cares if you're not back next semester, and who cares if your foot goes to sleep and never wakes up, and who cares if you don't know anything about bridge and quit reading right here? I DO!

Oh . . . you're thinking maybe that bridge in a sports column is a little misplaced? Well, where else are you going to read about it, except in one of these syndicated columns by Charles Goren or Ray Sheinwold or Oswald Jacoby or some of the other big-time players. And, confidentially, we've seen them beaten. But, they're not just good; they're great! Everyone loses sometimes.

So, today's lecture isn't on big-time bridge. Rather it is the story of "The Purple Players," "The Frog Card-Flippers"—the people who come to school to learn—guessing and finessing.

Athletes you want to hear about? Some of our better players spend their spare time at the tables, trying to beat the cards and some of the "fish" who haven't realized that the game is really a science.

Joe Robb, Frog tackle, and Ken Brunson, sharp-shooting eager, are two of the best bridge players this writer has had the pleasure of teaming with, and that's not disregarding tournament, Calcutta or rubber bridge play. They're two who'll rarely let you down.

All over the room there's a definite pattern of player ability according to the "territory" the player takes in. But don't be deceived—some of those guys who hang out in the southeast corner (by the Cafeteria) are wolves in sheep's clothing, and don't underestimate a few of those shy women. Shy did we say?

Here's a tip: the farther north you get at the SC, the tougher the competition gets, generally. Beware of infiltrators, however, if you're pained much from having your pride crushed. Bob Kindle and Arthur Honeycutt never leave the "Deep North," but Barney Logan, Jim Bonham, Jim Finch and Howard Grant are just a few of the "carpetbaggers" who meander over the boundary line.

And before we leave someone out who'll beat us by 2,000 points tomorrow, it's best we just say, "Pass."

Frogs Battle to Regain Position in SWC Race

Christian Frosh Need Austin Win For Even Mark

Squaring their record will be the goal of the Frog cagers when they tangle with the Texas Shorthorns in Austin Thursday.

Johnny Swaim's charges lost two straight before finding the key to swamp the Texas AM Fish 50-45 Saturday night. They have lost to Kilgore and Lon Morris.

The Shorthorns list a formidable starting quintet headed by 6-8 sharp-shooter Albert Almanza. Other familiar names associated with the young Texans are Jerry Graham 6-6, and Donnie Wilson, 6-1.

The contest has a special significance to the opposing coaches: Swaim and Shorthorn mentor Jimmy Viramontes played against each other while Swaim wore the purple and Viramontes was a Texas ace.

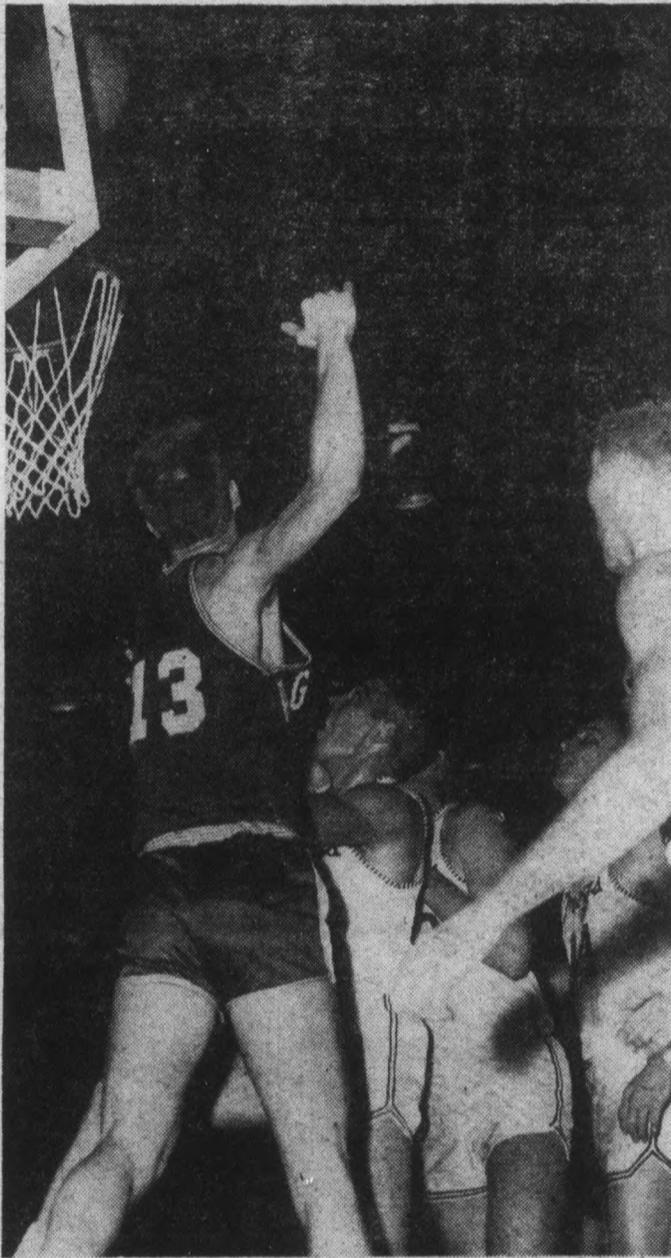

The Wogs' probable first five is composed of Jerry Cobb, Bill Ralston, Perry McMichaels, Billy Simmons and Jerry Pope.

In toppling the Fish, the Wogs hit for 25 points in each stanza, with McMichaels bucketing 13 for individual honors. Cobb was close behind with 11.

'Dutch' Scores Another Coup

L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, TCU Athletic Director and former football coach, now is a member of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame.

Meyer was presented a plaque signifying his installment at a dinner in Dallas Dec. 31, along with the other two new members of the Hall, tennis player Wilmer Allison and golfer Jimmy Demaret.

'GIT UP THAR BALL'—That's what Derrill Nippert, Frog forward, appears to be telling the basketball at the top of the picture. Nip, first white-uniformed player on the left, is backed by H. E. Kirchner, who in turn stands in front of Ronny Stevenson. Those other fellows are Aggies. This same trio will start tonight when TCU meets Arkansas.

League-Leading Porkers Even Rougher at Home

By GALYN WILKINS

Stung with an 83-70 defeat by the sharp-shooting Texas Tech Red Raiders at Lubbock Tuesday night, the Frog cagers attempt to get back in the SWC pennant race in Fayetteville tonight against the Arkansas Razorbacks.

The surprising Hogs, with victories over Texas and Baylor, are deadlocked with the Raiders for the conference lead. TCU has not beaten Arkansas on their home floor since 1955.

If meeting these two strong teams within three days isn't enough, the Frogs return here Monday at 8 p.m. to clash with the tall Rice Owls at Public School Gymnasium. Then next Friday the Frogs travel to Austin for a contest with the Texas Longhorns.

Arkansas' probable starting lineup will have 6-5 Wayne Dunn at center, 6-4 Larry Siozler and 6-3 Larry Gresham at forwards and 6-2 Tommy Rankin and 6-0 Fred Grim at the guard posts.

Meeting the Rice Owls here Monday night, the Frogs will face the tallest team in the conference led by 6-10 center Temple Tucker. Rounding out the lineup are 6-9 Tom Robitaille and 6-5 Gary Griffin at forwards and 6-2 Gerry Thomas and 6-1 Dale Ball at guards.

Rice, like TCU, has a 1-1 record having lost to Texas Tech and beating SMU.

In the Longhorns, the Frogs will meet a team that has yet to prove itself. Tuesday night the 'horns were slaughtered 71-50 by the Aggies. TCU whipped A&M 71-48 last Saturday.

This week's games have given the SWC a crazy-quilt pattern with four teams—TCU, Rice, SMU and A&M—tied for second place. Tech and Arkansas are in the top spot while Texas and Baylor occupy the basement.

Tuesday night against the Raiders, the Frogs started fast rushing to a 12-4 lead in the opening minutes. Then Tech's Pat Noakes came off the bench, scored nine quick points and the Raiders went ahead 22-20 with seven minutes remaining in the first half. They increased the lead to 37-32 at the half. Early in the second half, Noakes, who hails from Fort Worth Poly, hurt his ankle and shortly afterward Leon Hill, Tech's leading scorer, fouled out.

Trackmen Show Early Promise

A conference contender in the pole-vault, perhaps the best mile-relay team in TCU history and a national junior college champion runner are high spots of this spring's coming Frog track team.

Coach J. Eddie Weems relates that more than a dozen athletes are engaging daily in strenuous exercises at the Purple thinly-clads' stomping grounds inside TCU Amon Carter Stadium, and the team will boast some good competitors.

Gary Shinkle, who was lead-off man for the Mt. San Antonio J. C. team of California which won the national mile-relay championship last year, is a transfer of whom Weems is justifiably proud.

"Some of these other boys are going to come through this year," Weems said, "but we still don't have the power and balance most of the other schools do."

Mike Howell, sophomore vaulter, is another ace attraction in the first-varsity-year candidates.

"Mike has been hitting 12-6 already this winter, and by spring competition we expect him to do 13 feet or better," the coach said smiling. "He's probably our best chance for a gold medal in the conference meet."

Back again for the broad-jump campaign is Virgil Miller, always a scoring threat due to his fierce competitive sense.

Already reporting for workouts are some of Weems' old guard, the boys who have carried the flag for the past two years. Jerry Hutson, James Livergood, John Cantrell, Robert Flores, Max Stewart, Billy Gault, Pat Jackson, Bill Flournoy and Jim Faulk form the nucleus.

Weems hopes for added support.

TCU Boxers in Gloves

By TONY CLARK

The Fort Worth regional Golden Gloves tourney begins tonight, and as usual, several TCU entries will be on hand.

Bobby Prince, a Frog gridder who won the novice heavy-weight crown last year, will fight in the open-heavyweight class, and another TCU football player, Sherrill Hedrick, will also be in this division.

Prince dethroned Hedrick in the novice finals last year.

Several other TCU fighters are expected to make appearances in the Gloves, but at the time of publication, none had sent in official entries.

Two boxers likely to be back are Travis Groom and Joe Dale Selman, neither of whom are strangers to local ring fans. Both fought for Poly in high school, and have been considered top fighters on the local scene for several years.

Likewise, Lonnie Flory and William Roach. Flory fought in the high school class for Diamond Hill, and Roach for Brewer.

Bobby Hawkins, Bridgeport

freshman, will be remembered for his fine performance in the high school lightweight division last year, and he says he will more than likely fight novice this time.

Another novice possibility is Jimmy Boley, Jacksboro junior. He lost in his first fight last year in a close decision to Billy LaVelle, one of the better local pugilists.

Other TCU fighters who have indicated they may enter the Golden Gloves include Jerry McNaughton and Bobby Adams.

Scarberry Wins

Eight contestants posted perfect cards in The Skiff's last basketball guessing game, but James Scarberry edged the field with the closest guess on the total-point tie-breaker.

Missing out on winning or sharing four tickets to the Worth Theater were Charles Wright and Charles Coody, previous winners, along with Paul Pitts, James Livergood, David McSpedden and Jack Noble.

Numerous other guessers missed only one game pick.

This week's contest blank is on Page 7.

Football Back in Style

It seems like only yesterday that the football team hung up pads and cleats but they'll be at it again come February 3.

That day, Coach Abe Martin and his staff will start an 18-day look at next year's Horned Frogs.

The team — expected to number 80 — will work out from February 3 to February 22 with a scrimmage every Saturday and the big purple-white clash on the final day.

Martin plans no radically new formations but does figure to work on a fancier attack than the "ground-conscious" operation he used last year. He said the '58 Frogs will look more like the teams of '55 and '56 when Chuck Curtis was at the helm.

Also planned is a defensive shift that will move the full-back to corner back and move an end back to the line. The left guard and center will work at the linebacker posts.

In previous years, the full-back shifted to linebacker on defense and both ends shifted to the corners.

The Frog mentor expects a battle royal for the quarter-back position. Hunter Enis, Jack Sledge and John Bonnet return from last year's varsity and impressive sophomores-to-be Larry Dawson and Donald George from the Wogs also will tangle for the man-under post.
