

200 Expected For DSF Parley

Texas college students from Christian churches — part of a generation frequently criticized for its silence—will meet in Fort Worth this weekend to discuss how they can "speak."

The convention will be the first State Disciples Student Fellowship meeting on the TCU campus.

"The Silent Generation Speaks" is the theme. About 200 are expected.

DR. KEITH IRWIN, professor at Hamline University, St. Paul, Minn., will be the principal speaker at a dinner today at 7 p.m. in Weatherly Hall.

Garlan Hoskin, national DSF president from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, also will speak. He is spending a year traveling on behalf of the Christian church student work and work camps.

Miss Shannon Thames, Fort Worth senior, is president of the Texas DSF.

TONIGHT THE students will go to 15 Fort Worth homes for "fireside discussions" based on Mr. Irwin's first address. Teachers, local minister and church leaders will act as hosts.

Speakers for a platform on

DSF and student work will include Miss Jeannette Wertz, state president-elect; Ken Lawrence, treasurer, Miss Thames and Haskins, all of Texas DSF.

Officers for 1958-59 will be installed at a banquet Saturday night. It will be followed by an original drama, "The Pedestal," presented by the DSF of University Christian Church.

The convention will close with a Sunday morning worship service in Robert Carr Chapel.

Farrar Will Speak At Chapel Tuesday

The Rev. James A. Farrar, director of religious activities, will deliver the weekly chapel sermon Tuesday.

"People like to see themselves—not as they are—but as they wish they were," Dr. Floyd Leggett said in Tuesday's chapel service.

Dr. Leggett, associate professor of religion, based his sermon, "You Are The Soil," on the parable of the sower.

"The type of soil you are," he said, "is the determinate of the kind of fruit you will produce."

Dr. W. C. Nunn Will Review Book

Dr. W. C. Nunn, Amon G. Carter professor of American history, will speak at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at a dinner of the Fort Worth Huguenot Society's dinner in the Hilton Hotel.

Dr. Nunn will review his book, "Escape From Reconstruction," published in 1956. He will describe the adventures of Confederates who settled in Mexico after the Civil War and their hardships under the government of Maximilian.

The society is composed of lineal descendants of French Protestants who fled from France after Louis XIV revoked the Edict of Nantes in 1685.

Dr. Hardt is reported in good condition in Austin's Breckenridge Hospital.

Student Body Trip Slated for Houston

The annual student body trip next fall will be taken to Houston Nov. 22. The Horned Frogs battle the Rice Owls there in the next-to-last Southwest Conference football game.

Student Congress chose the Houston trip Tuesday over four other possible sites.

The Frogs will play the University of Kansas at Lawrence, Sept. 20; Iowa University at Iowa City, Sept. 27; Texas A&M at College Station, Oct. 18, and SMU at Dallas, Nov. 29.

The Iowa and Kansas games were deemed too far away, and the Kansas date falls during Howdy Week. The trip to Dallas, on the other hand, was considered too short.

Summer Bible-Selling Nets Profit, Experience

By JERRY HYDE

Bible sellers never had it so good—at least Spencer Hays, Gainesville junior, thinks so.

During the past two summers Spencer has been trudging door-to-door peddling the all-time best seller. It's been profitable too. He has earned enough to pay a large part of his school expenses.

Hays' first summer netted him $2,400, but 55-60 hours a week were required to earn it.

Amusing experiences are everyday occurrences when Spencer goes knocking on doors. One door he rapped upon was answered by an irate occupant cussin' enough to make Long John Silver's parrot blush.

Spencer made a hasty retreat, then knocked lightly at the back door. When the man opened the door, Hays exclaimed, "I hope you're not as mad as that fellow at the front door."

He made the sale. Spencer works for the Southwestern Company, which hires only college men during the summer.

"A boy just beginning to sell can save around $800 or $1,000 a summer," Hays said.

A one-week school is held in Nashville at the start of each summer. College men from over the country make the trek to learn from an expert how to sell copies of the Bible.

Hewatt to Attend Austin Meeting

Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, professor of biology, will represent TCU in Austin tomorrow at a meeting of the executive council and directors of the Texas Academy of Sciences.

He is a member of the board.

Spencer is looking forward to another Bible-selling summer. After all, Estes Kefauver sold them in his undergraduate days.

"If it's good enough for 'Kefauv' it's good enough for me," Spencer grinned.

Creative Writing Due by April 11

April 11 is deadline for entries in the annual Creative Writing Contest, Miss Mabel Major, professor of English and creative writing chairman, said.

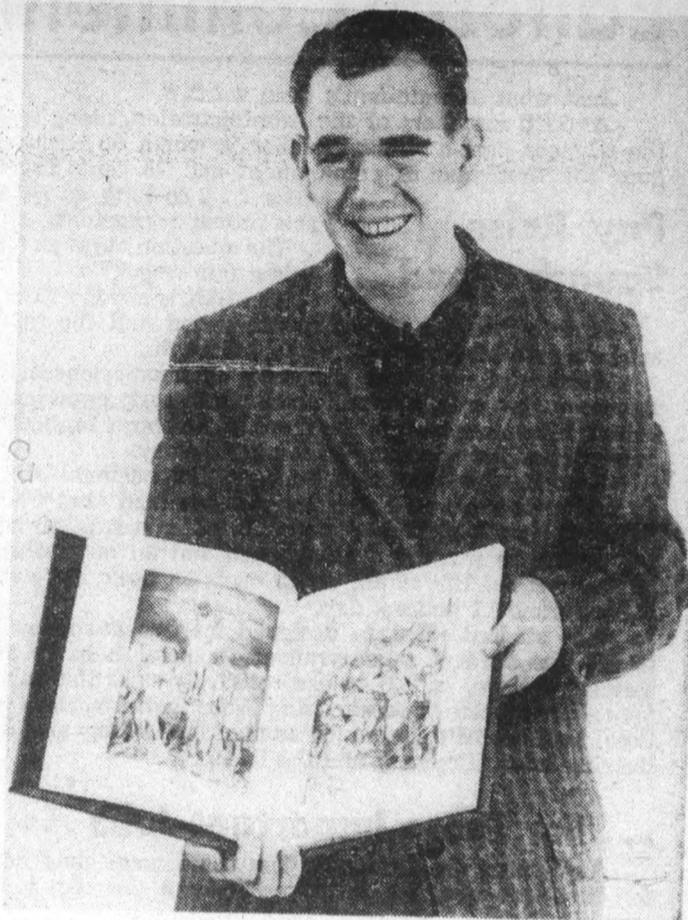

The contest is open to all TCU undergraduates. It has six divisions in addition to four classes of freshman writing contests.

The six divisions are the Walter E. Bryson poetry, short story, drama, Southwest literature, non-fiction prose and the Lena Agnes Johnson literature for children contests.

The freshman classes are the narrative of fact, fiction, essay and research paper or article contests.

Freshmen may enter any of the contests, but only students who have enrolled in English 311a or 311b between June 1957 and May 1958 may enter the freshman writing contests.

Rules may be obtained from Room 315 Administration Building, or for further information one should contact Miss Major.

Two Journalism majors will participate in the annual Texas Daily Newspaper Association internship program this summer. The student will gain experience in various phases of newspaper work. All their expenses will be paid.

This is the 11th year TCU has participated in the program.

John Farr, Fort Worth junior, will work in the advertising department of the Beaumont Enterprise and Journal. Miss Alice Buford, Fort Worth senior; Pat Beckham, Miss Gail Rogstad, Dallas junior, will join the reporting staff of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. Just what is a student's time worth?

At TCU members of the Administration, along with the trustees, feel a student's labor is worth 60 cents an hour the first year of employment and 75 cents thereafter . . . so long as he or she proves competent.

Pay Raise

The question now is: "Is this a fair wage?"

The Skiff's answer: "Yes."

Now before the riot guns are issued and the ropes are being stretched, let's think this through. First, student labor generally is inexperienced. A freshman has only a small amount of work experience behind him when he hits Frogland. It has been limited to unimportant jobs, paying a nominal salary.

Second, the Administration and the business office do not maintain and have never maintained that 60-75 cents an hour is a "living" wage. In other words, no one can expect to maintain his stomach and an automobile, plus any social life at all, on 75 cents an hour, not even if he worked 11 hours a day.

The student jobs are designed for two purposes: 1) to aid the student who requires financial help to get through college, and 2) to use relatively unskilled labor for rather routine "housekeeping" jobs in the various offices, such as filing, running memos, collecting and delivering interoffice mail and the like . . .

. . . For Those Important Jobs . . .

Let's take the Cafeteria. The usual wage paid here for first-year workers, dish washers and the like is 60 cents an hour.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, the average salary paid for 40-hour-week dishwashers and steam table operators is $24, exactly 60 cents an hour.

Therefore, the student receives the same basic wage for anywhere from 18 to 22 hours of work a week that a full-time, 40-hour-week worker gets. Is this unfair? Of course not.

The situation of the most proficient workers is indeed unfortunate. This is by all means unfair, but it cannot be helped. A girl who can take dictation and type better than average can earn from 75 cents to $1.50 an hour, part-time, off campus. This is a far cry from the 60 to 75-cent wage.

However, first glance at this matter is not sufficient. Bus fare or gasoline, as well as parking fees, parking tickets, meals and coffee breaks can gnaw $1.50 an hour down to 60 cents an hour in an amazingly short while. Believe us, we've done it, and out of a part-time wage of about $35-$40 a week, expenses can take as much as $20, leaving a net balance of $10 to $20.

. . . But Is It Realistic?

. . . Now let's consider what would happen if a pay raise should be allowed by the Board of Trustees.

With a 20 per cent raise in pay, the second-year student would be making $1,989 per year, working the standard 42½ hours of a University administrative employee. This would amount to $165.75 a month.

This figure is $10 a month short of the usual base pay for full-time employees.

Now what does this really mean? L. C. White, business manager, for the University, put it this way: "I am afraid that if the student were to receive this type of pay raise, he would more than likely raise himself out of a job."

"We can hire full-time employees for $175 a month as a starting wage. As full-time employees they will work the 42½-hour-week as opposed to the 12-20 hour week of the student and will give us a probable increase of efficiency of about 5 per cent. If there is greater efficiency in utilizing full-time personnel other than student labor, then I am afraid that in some areas, the number of student jobs might be reduced."

And that is the hard, cold economic truth. Why pay three persons to do one job when you can hire one person to do it better?

In summation, let's look at the problem as a whole. First, the jobs created—and they are for the most part "created"—help the student, pay his bill and give him some spending money.

Second, a pay raise might "raise" the student out of a job.

Third, the economic outlook is not too bright. This definitely is not the time to try for a wage hike. Business is slowing down, steel mills are shutting, local business is tight. For the clincher, Civil Service employment requests are increasing daily, a sign that unemployment is getting heavier.

The Skiff suggests the student help let its better judgment rule in this situation and think long and clearly about what a pay hike entails. If it were just a matter of saying "It's done," then you would get it.

Mr. White sympathizes with the working student because he was one. He worked his way through TCU and knows what it means, but the fact remains, it is economically impractical at this time.

It's not a living wage, but it is a steady source of income. Let's appreciate it.

The Pharisee

Think, or Swim

By FRANK PERKINS

There is a need here at TCU.

We are building more and more dorms, and class buildings to satisfy a need for physical growth. We have adapted and are continuing to adapt our curriculum to the present changing world.

WE HAVE given the social side of college its just and due attention, we are tinkering with honor systems and remedial reading and advanced courses for gifted freshmen.

The need for something else is still present; the need for thinking students.

Supposedly, our "parrot" days are over when we leave high school and go into college . . . here, we are taught to question and seek our own answers. Some of us do, but most of us don't, because it is much more comfortable and much more easier to take someone else's word on the subject under question.

This is proof of academic laziness.

There is also a lack of what Texans call "horse" or "common sense." This little intangible is the ability to think with reality. In other words, to adapt a philosophy to fit the particular situation.

As editor of a college newspaper, I find common sense sadly deficient in most of our students here.

THE TCU student seems to think with his emotions rather than with his head. This is all right for women, but in a man it can lead to disaster.

For an example, the Aggie scandals of last fall could have been avoided by about ten minutes of good, level headed, dispassionate thinking.

OF COURSE, the scandals were in small parts, mob actions, and thought is absent from any mob violence. The TCU homo sapiens, male, saw an Aggie with a TCU homo sapiens, female, and because he felt this was wrong, he let his emotions get out of control . . . with disastrous results.

The same type of thinking is evident with regard to the current pay hike for student labor . . . the student is thinking with his heart and ignoring such things as basic economics, and business procedure.

Each theory must be adapted to the particular situation. Each idea must be modified, and new avenues of thought must be traveled before a satisfactory conclusion can be reached.

AND LOGIC is no help. Logic by itself is useless . . . it must be tempered by mores, ethnic principles, and other limiting factors.

Dr. Noel Keith of the Religion department tells a story that proves the above: A dedicated scientist was experimenting with a 20-legged bug.

One day, he removed one leg, and ordered the bug to jump. The bug jumped.

The scientist then spent one whole day writing up his report.

HE REPEATED this process until finally, he removed the 20th leg. He then ordered the bug to jump, but the bug just lay there and looked pitiful.

The scientist then spent two days writing up his final analysis, and announced the conclusion thusly: "When you remove 20 legs from a 20-legged bug, it becomes deaf."

Far-fetched? Of course, but it is a good example of some of the thought processes of some of the TCU students.

Let's try to get a little mature thinking out of our brain-pans here, it can't hurt you, and you may even be surprised at your own perceptive depth.

SW Campus Confidential

By RICHARD TIPTON

TEXAS—

Another exciting adventure in the lives of those fun-loving "switch blade" boys comes to us through the courtesy of a wire story spotted in the Daily Texan:

"A student boycott of the West Phoenix High School cafeteria, dubbed 'Stop the Slop Day,' was called off after school officials promised to improve the bill of fare."

The next thing you know, the little tykes will demand the removal of all eating troughs.

Meanwhile, back on the campus, three girls are sitting in the gym balcony waiting for a program to start. They are discussing the attire of the women below.

"Oh," says one of the trio, "Look at that SACK dress! I just can't bear them though they're really the thing!"

The other two doubled with laughter, and finally one gasped:

"That's nothing new; that's a maternity dress!"

Tee, hee . . . We can't tell the difference either.

RICE—

Don't ever lose anything on the Rice campus. After reading these simple directions to the lost and found department printed in the Thresher, you'll know what we mean.

"If you have lost anything and desire to get it back, go to Room B17 in the basement of the library and ask. There are several ways of getting there, but perhaps the easiest is to go down through the lounge, through the exam room, turn right in front of the Campanile office and continue down to the end of the hall and it is the second door from the end on the left."

We were forced to turn back after our caravan was set upon by a murderous band of Pygmies on the other side of the crude rope bridge.

NORTH TEXAS—

The Campus Chat reports that the editor of the Campus Collegian at the University of Toledo has predicted a new revolutionary deodorant which will flood the market in a few years. You spray it on, disappear, and everyone stands around wondering where the smell is coming from.

We're working on a clever invention, too. It's a 3-inch by 150-inch TV set, especially designed for people who squint.

FOR BETTER OR FOR WORSE

The first thought that comes into our minds upon entering college is, of course, marriage. But how many of us go about seeking mates, as I like to call them, in a truly scientific manner? Not many, you may be sure.

So let us today make a scientific survey of the two principal causes of marriage—personality need and propinquity.

Personality need means that we choose mates because they possess certain qualities that complete and fulfill our own personalities. Take, for example, the case of Alanson Duck.

As a freshman Alanson made a fine scholastic record, played varsity scrabble, and was president of his class. One would think that Alanson was a totally fulfilled man. But he was not. There was something lacking in his life, something vague and indefinable that was needed to make his personality complete.

Then one day Alanson discovered what it was. As he was walking out of his class in Flemish pottery, a fetching coed named Grace Ek offered him a handsome red and white pack and said, "Marlboro?"

"Yes!" he cried, for all at once he knew what he had been needing to round out his personality—the hearty fulfillment of Marlboro Cigarettes, the soul-repairing mildness of their fine tobacco, the easy draw of their unparalleled filter, the ease and convenience of their crushproof flip-top box. "Yes, I will take a Marlboro!" cried Alanson. "And I will also take you to wife if you will have me!"

"La!" she exclaimed, throwing her apron over her face. But after a while she removed it and they were married. Today they live happily in Baffin Land where Alanson is with an otter-glazing firm and Grace is a bookie.

Propinquity, the second principal cause of marriage, simply means closeness. Put a boy and a girl close together for a sustained period of time and their proximity will certainly ripen into love and their love into marriage. A perfect example is the case of Fafnir Sigafnoos.

While a freshman at Louisiana State University, Fafnir was required to crawl through the Big Inch pipeline as part of his fraternity initiation. He entered the pipe at Baton Rouge and, alone and joyless, he proceeded to crawl north.

As he passed Lafayette, Indiana, he was agreeably surprised to be joined by a comely girl named Mary Alice Isinglass, a Purdue freshman, who, oddly enough, had to crawl through the Big Inch as part of her sorority initiation.

When they reached the Vermont border they were going steady

Chatting amiably as they crawled through Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York State, Fafnir and Mary Alice discovered they had much in common—like a mutual affection for licorice, bobsledding, and the nonsense verse of Arnold Toynbee. When they reached the Vermont border they were going steady, and when they emerged from the pipe at Boothbay Harbor, Maine, they were engaged.

After a good hot bath they were married and today they live in Klamath Falls, Oregon, where Fafnir is in the weights and measures department and Mary Alice is in the roofing game. They have three children, all named Norman. © 1958, Max Shulman Propinquity is sure to mean love when you put yourself close to a pack of Marlboros, made for your pleasure by the sponsors of this column.

By GENE RANDALL

Ya gotta get kissed to get out of jail.

Yes, sir, if you happen to get thrown in the "jug," money will get you nowhere with the sheriff and his posse. The only bail is talking someone into giving you a great big smack.

When Ranch Weeks comes March 20-22, the campus goes western. Wild western, that is!

JUDGE ROY Bean's court will be open for business at 10 a.m. Friday, March 21, and J. L. Kerby, assistant professor of business administration, will dispense typical Judge Roy Bean justice. ("Ah don't care if he was out of town when it happened, I know he's guilty.")

The Ranch Week Review at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 20, in Ed Landreth Auditorium will mark the official start of the weekend of frantic panic.

Auditions for the show will be held next week in the Ballroom at 3 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. Thursday.

NO ACT will be accepted for the show unless it auditions at one of these times. Those interested should contact Miss June Pence, Ext. 293, for further information.

Ranch Queen and Foreman will be presented at the review and the sheriff will be appointed and his men deputized. The lawmen will be ready to ward off any wild cowpokes that take a hankerin' for the Queen.

AFTER THE review, everyone can ride (bareback or with shirts) over to the Ballroom for some square dancing.

Friday the jail activities start at 8 a.m. Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the affair, is still minus the jail, but a spokesman declared:

"We will have a jail if we have to weave one out of barbed wire and poison ivy."

Jail activities and Judge Roy Bean's court will recess at 1 p.m. and the SMU-TCU baseball game starts at 2 p.m.

The Chuck Wagon will open at 5:30 to sell wieners and soft drinks. A bonfire will provide atmosphere so all good westerners can roight it and roast their own wieners.

THE CARNIVAL, highlight of the evening, opens at 6:30. The chuck wagon and the carnival will be located on the parking lot in front of the Stadium.

Western folk can find most any kind of fun at the carnival.

An indoor rodeo, buggy rides, a ping-pong ball toss, a bucking barrel, a "kake walk," games of chance, melodramas and musical comedies, a roping-contest, a showboat and a slingshot shoot will keep folks busy.

A COWBOY can wet his whistle at the saloon, and snack on pizza, popcorn balls and peanuts, or go roast another wiener. Anyone who wants to work off some steam will enjoy the car wrecking booth. Just rent a sledge hammer and demolish a car.

If a cowboy and his filly get carried away, there will be a marriage booth ready to give prompt service—shotgun weddings at no extra charge.

The preceding night's survivors will assemble Saturday morning at the Intramural Field for the big contests starting at 8:30 a.m.

CONTESTS WILL include egg throwing, sack races, a three-legged race; cigaret rolling, cigar smoking, tobacco spitting, balloon blowing, pie eating and greased pig catching. The annual girls vs. male faculty softball game will be held behind the tennis courts.

A noon barbecue lunch at $1 will be served on the Intramural field by Walter Jetton's.

At 2 p.m. the rodeo will get under way at the Cowntown Posse Arena.

The western dance at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Ballroom will end the wild and wooly week.

Winners of the contest and rodeo events will receive prizes at the dance and the best carnival booth will be named.

JUDGES WILL select the beard contest winners. Contestants for the longest beards will be checked for scissors as they enter the Ballroom.

The best-dressed cowgirl and cowboy will be selected, and representatives of other schools will be presented.

Get out those ranch togs and polish up those six-guns, partners, 'cause the Wild West will rise again!

Symphonic Band Will Play Sunday

University Symphonic Band will present a concert at 3 p.m. Sunday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The 85-member group will be conducted by Jim Jacobsen, director of TCU bands. The hour-long concert will be free.

Dr. Ralph R. Guenther will be guest conductor for one of the 10 numbers. The chairman of the music theory division transcribed the selection, "Evocation," for the band. Composed by Caesar Franck, the piece originally was a piano arrangement.

Ronnie Martin, Mack Guderian and Miss Yvonne Baker will play a trumpet trio, accompanied by the band, of "The Dover Coach" by Vinter.

The piccolo duet in Sousa's "Stars and Stripes Forever" will be played by Misses Janet Wolford and Connie Busbee.

Other numbers will be: "Procession of Nobles," from "Mlada" by Rimsky-Korsakov; "Sequoia," by La Gasse; "Universal Judgement" by De Nardis, and "Marcho Poco," by Moore.

Also, "Fanfare and Allegro," by Williams; "Air for Band," by Erickson, and "North Sea Overture" by Hermann.

Miss Keaton to Talk

Miss Marjorie Keaton will speak on "Current Trends in Bookkeeping Instruction" in San Antonio next Friday.

Miss Keaton, assistant professor of secretarial science, will address the Texas State Teachers Association's district convention at San Antonio college.

Slated March 15

Cafe Royale, TCU's version of a French night club, has been re-scheduled for March 15 in the Cafeteria.

Dancing will be from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight with floor shows at 9 and 10:30 p.m. The acts will include the Glory-tones, Epic recording artists, and the Jack Hines Marionettes — French can-can line to stripper, all on strings.

Admission will be 75 cents per person. Because of limited seating space, only 200 tickets will be sold. Advance tickets may be purchased at the information desk in the Student Center lobby beginning Tuesday.

A Negro band will play.

The New Orleans atmosphere will be accented by French murals and red and white checkered table cloths. Champagne bottles with candles in them will provide lighting.

The eight schools and colleges of TCU are served by a faculty of more than 300 specialists.

Honor Systems Evaluated By TISA Discussion Group

What are the advantages of an honor system?

This was one of the questions asked in a discussion group on honor systems at the Texas Intercollegiate Student Association convention here last weekend.

THE DELEGATION from Rice Institute, where an honor system is being used, pointed out that such a device has certain advantages as well as disadvantages.

An honor system isn't devised to be a multiple stool pigeon system, but gives students greater academic freedom.

WHEN STUDENTS at Rice take an exam, they leave all books at the front of the room and sit in alternate seats.

There are no professors or proctors in the room, and students are free to leave the room to smoke or get a drink.

It also was emphasized that you do not have to turn in a student you catch cheating on an exam — you are on your honor to do what you feel is right.

The Rice delegates said they had approximately eight trials a year in the student honor court on academic dishonesty.

TEXAS A&M, like TCU, is trying to establish an honor system.

The senior class at Aggie-land voted to establish the system, and hopes to have it in effect within the next two months.

The delegates from the two schools discussed some of the problems that should be expected in connection with an honor system.

Does excessive cheating have to be prevalent before a successful honor system be established?

Does an honor system legislate against morality?

It also was pointed out that when an honor system first goes into effect, students might be reported for cheating on exams because of personal grudges rather than actual academic dishonesty.

THE TRIAL before an honor committee might also tend to be one person's word against another's, instead of being backed by facts.

Student acceptance was another important step listed in establishing a system.

The student body would have to be indoctrinated to the extent that individuals would realize that it was their duty to turn in the name of a person they saw cheating on an exam.

THE DELEGATES at the discussion generally agreed that an honor system isn't something created overnight, but required many hours of work and thought.

Tony Hale, Miami, Fla., sophomore, was elected district coordinator at the convention.

Other officers elected are David Burrow, McMurry College, president; Ross Hutchinson, Texas A&M, vice president; Miss Lucia Dixon, Trinity University, secretary; David Malone, Abilene Christian College, treasurer; and David Steinman, Texas Tech, parliamentarian.

When You're Smiling . . .

Happy Faces Boost Grade-Point Average

By DAVE CHAMPLIN
neth W. Herrick, professor of insurance.

"Did you get a frown or a smile?" This question might arise as a result of a new grading system employed by Dr. Ken-

DR. HERRICK introduced the new grading symbols to his students last semester.

The "face" for an "A" in the insurance course had a big grin. "B" had a slight smile, "C" was straight faced, "D" had a frown and "F" showed a grim expression.

Dr. Herrick said purpose of the grading system resulted from students comparing posted grades.

"STUDENTS would compare the number of A's, B's and so forth that were given in the course. So, for variety, I decided to make it a little harder for them."

Dr. Herrick's new system, however, didn't revolutionize the grade-posting industry. He plans to return to the conventional style of letter symbols this semester.

Christian Cagers Surpass '57 Mark

Basketball made its exodus from the TCU campus this week, but it left on a sweet note.

The Frog cagers' defeat of Texas A&M, 62-42, Tuesday gave them an 8-6 record and a second-place tie in the conference race. That's an improvement over last year's 6-6 record and a third-place Southwest Conference finish.

THIS YEAR'S SWC race, the wildest in history from start to finish, saw Rice start off fast in the nation's top 20 teams, then be replaced by TCU, which in turn was nudged by Arkansas.

The family wars were too bitter and eventually the conference teams eliminated each other from national prominence.

TCU's Ronny Stevenson nabbed the season scoring crown, while SMU's Rick Herrscher took conference scoring honors. Stevenson led both divisions in rebounding with teammate H. E. Kirchner close behind.

Cooper Boosts Wog Golf Hopes At Meadowbrook

Lance Cooper, a flashy swinger from Miami, Fla., will shoot from the No. 1 position when the Wog golfers tangle with Odessa Jr. College on the Meadowbrook links Thursday.

Cooper easily outdistanced the pack in 72 qualifying holes at Glen Garden last week, winding up his tour with a two-under par 282. His nearest rival was Marshall Roberson at 303, good for the No. 2 slot. Bill Jones (312) and Carl Koch (322) will play the Nos. 3 and 4 positions, respectively.

Freshmen Open Baseball Season Against Northside

TCU's freshman baseball team, bulging with a 28-man roster, opens its 12-game schedule here Wednesday afternoon against the North Side High School.

The contest will begin at 4 p.m.

BEFORE WORKOUTS began last week Coach Clyde (Rabbit) McDowell feared that not enough players would turn out for the team, but was pleasantly surprised by the large turnout.

McDowell, in addition to coaching the varsity, will tutor the Wogs until regular coach Johnny Swaim returns from the high school basketball tourney at Austin.

OF THE TEAM'S prospects, McDowell said, "I haven't had a good look at them since the weather has held down workouts, but we got in an intrasquad game last Friday and from that it looks as if we'll have a good ball club."

McDowell praised the efforts of catcher Dick Santos, outfielder Ed Dore, pitchers John Ivey, Joe Linnville and Bo Shira.

The Wog schedule includes two games with North Side, four with Carswell Air Force Base, two with SMU, two with Baylor and two with Tarleton State.

Purple Baseballers Hunt Clear Skies

By PAT BECKHAM
There are no baseball fans among the rain gods!

Two important practice games with Texas Lutheran at Seguin tonight and tomorrow have been cancelled, bringing to five the number of Frog games postponed indefinitely due to downpours and resulting wet diamonds.

Coach "Rabbit" McDowell's charges are "scheduled" to face the Baylor Bears at Waco Monday in search of the season's second victory in as many outings.

FOR THE FROGS the hurler is undecided due to postponement of games this week. Charlie Rutherford, Ken Wineburg, Darrel Read, Rode Gonzales and Jim Gilbert are all possible starters.

In the Frogs' victory over SMU Monday, Rutherford took pitching laurels, while Catcher Harold Key led the batters. Key slapped a home run in the second inning and scored again in the seventh.

McDowell was pleased with his charges' fielding efforts, and volunteered they would make a good team with consistent hitting.

Whether the Frogs get to perfect that needed hitting strength will depend upon the weather. Three times return matches at Fort Worth with SMU were rained out this week.

Frog Trackmen Are Prepared For Laredo's Border Olympics

An unbalanced Horned Frog track team tests its muscles in competition for the first time this spring at the Border Olympics in Laredo tomorrow.

The varsity team goes into battle sans sprinters, but boasts a number of distance runners.

"We're not expecting to make much of an impression down there," Coach J. Eddie Weems said before the Purple trackmen left Fort Worth. "The meet will be strictly for experience, but several of the boys may show up well."

THE ONLY field event men making the trip are John Cantrell, shot and discus heaver, and Mike Howell, pole-vaulter.

Jerry Hutson and Robert Flores will run both the mile and two-mile events.

James Livergood, Joe Douglas and Mack Stewart are entered in the 880, and all are picked for possible legs on the mile-relay team.

Livergood and Hutson are the only returning lettermen.

GARY SHINKLE is entered in the open quarter-mile. He and Kelly Westlake will vie with Douglas, Stewart and Livergood for the four relay positions.

Preliminaries will be held for most of the events tomorrow morning, and finals will be run that night.

Next week the Frogs will be home for the Fort Worth Recreation meet at Farrington Field.

The freshman trackmen, who won't be making the trip to Laredo, are showing considerable promise in the very thing the varsity is lacking—sprinting.

WEEMS EXPECTS Harry Moreland, former Arlington

Heights sprint star, to give the team a big boost. Moreland has been busy with fotoball spring training.

Another bright spot on the Wog ledger is miler Pete Bond. Bond likely will run the half-mile leg of the distance medley. The first time the Wog machine will be tested in outside competition will be at the Texas Relays, March 28-29.

Their coach doesn't think anyone is likely to embarrass them badly if all the hosses live up to their reputations.

Phi Delts Quints Head Greek Basketball Loops

Phi Delta Theta teams are dominating Tuesday Greek basketball leagues.

IN THE Tuesday afternoon (B) league, the Phi Delts have a 2-0 record, leading Sigma Chi and Delta Tau Delta (1-1) and SAE (0-2). In the Tuesday night (A) league, the Phi Delt quintet leads with a 2-0 mark.

Delta Tau and Kappa Sigma are tied for the lead in the Thursday loop with identical 1-0 slates.

Four teams — Abe's Aces, the Dingbats, the Vigilantes and the Netters—share the top slot in the Wednesday independent league.

DELTA TAU meets Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta tries SAE Tuesday afternoon; Phi Kappa Sigma tackles Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Theta tests Sigma Alpha Epsilon Tuesday night. Thursday, Lambda Chi meets SPE and Delta Tau Delta plays Kappa Sigma.

The independent schedule will be announced later.

TCU Tennis Team Tests Texas Tech Tuesday

The TCU tennis team will see its first action Tuesday, meeting new Southwest Conference member Texas Tech on the Colonial Country Club courts.

The Frog netters are knee-deep in experience this year, boasting double lettermen Paul Pendergrass and Harlan Baker in the first two slots. Jim White, Gene Cook and Ronny Coleman, one-year lettermen, round out the team.
