Five Religious Leaders To Deliver Lectureships

Five distinguished religious leaders will deliver three main lectureships during the annual Ministers' Week Monday through Thursday.

Registration for the conference will begin at 2 p.m. Monday in the office of Brite College of the Bible in the south wing of the TCU Religion Center.

The Wells Lectureship will be given each evening at 8 p.m. Monday through Wednesday in the University Christian Church sanctuary, by Dr. James T. Cleland, a native of Scotland, who is dean of the chapel at Duke University and head of the homiletics department in Duke Divinity School. His topic will be "Our Ministry," and will include lectures on "The Church in the World," "The Minister in the Pulpit" and "The Layman in the Pew." This lectureship was founded in 1943 in honor of Dr. L. N. D. Wells, minister of the East Dallas Christian Church.

Dr. A. C. Garnett, Australian born and from the department of philosophy at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, will deliver the three McFadin Lectures at 9:10 a.m. Tuesday through Thursday at University Christian Church. His discussion on "Movements of Thought in Contemporary Theology" will include the topics "The Revival of Mysticism," "The Survival of Metaphysics" and "The Recovery of Enlightened Faith."

The McFadin Lectureship, established in 1943, is named for the founder of the McFadin Ministerial Loan Fund, G. D. McFadin of Dallas.

The third Lectureship, Oreon E. Scott, began in 1952 with the support of the Scott Foundation, and will be given by Dr. Blake Smith at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the University Christian Church sanctuary on "Law and Grace in Human Relations;" Harold E. Fey, editor of the Christian Century, one of the country's leading Protestant weeklies, will discuss "New Challenges to Faith and Freedom" at 11 a.m. Wednesday, in the church sanctuary also; and Bishop John E. Hines of Houston and the Episcopal Diocese of Texas will speak at 11 a.m. in Ed Landreth Auditorium on "A Christian's Responsibility in Education."

PAT? NO, PEG PEG? NO, PAT

"What's Pat Miller doing on the Texas Tech float?" a startled TCU coed exclaimed while viewing the pregame parade of SWC queens at the Cotton Bowl last Thursday.

Then a few minutes later her eyes popped out again when Pat came by on the TCU float as Cotton Bowl Queen.

The explanation's simple. The Tech queen was Peggy, Pat's twin sister, a senior at the Lubbock school.

Six Students Debate Today In Tournament

The TCU Debate Squad is in Amarillo today for the Amarillo Golden Spread debate tournament.

Three teams are entered in the tournament. Each member of the squad also will enter individual events in the speaking contest.

David Matheny, sponsor of the debate squad, made the trip to act as judge.

Tuition Raise Due in Fall To Meet Educational Costs

To meet ever-rising educational costs, tuition rates at TCU will be increased $2 per semester hour effective with the fall of 1959. President M. E. Sadler announced this week.

The increase will amount to about $30 per semester (half year) for the student carrying the normal full load of five courses.

Some fees, many unchanged for 40 years, also will be increased to a more "realistic" figure. Room rates in one dormitory, Jarvis Hall for girls, also were raised slightly.

The increases were approved recently by the finance and executive committees of the trustees which were authorized to

Runs Tonight, Tomorrow

'Snow White' Makes Debut

By NANCY ERWIN and MIKE WHITTAKER

Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" came to life in the Little Theatre last night, and it promises to be the best show yet produced by the Fallis Players.

The play is scheduled to run through tomorrow night before going out of town on tour. The next performance is at 8 p.m. tonight, followed tomorrow by a 2 p.m. matinee and the final performance at 8 p.m.

Exotic lighting effects, imaginative staging and a well-rehearsed cast tell the classic tale of the beautiful princess who is condemned to death by a wicked queen, and who finds her prince charming with the aid of seven dwarfs.

Beverly White, with her blonde hair dyed black, makes a perfect Snow White, and Johnny Simons as Prince Orlando is as charming a prince as anyone could wish.

Jean McBride, Marla Summerford, Susan Gephart, Marian McBride, Sally Ann Coates, Gwen Blanton and Mary Harris as the seven dwarfs kept the audience in stitches with their rollicking party scene. Jimmy Cohen as the pompous Sir Dandiprat also is a source of laughter as he tries, without much success, to keep law and order in the Queen's court.

Miss White sings "Some Day My Prince Will Come," and the dwarfs do a wonderful job with their "Hi-Ho" and "The Washing Song" numbers. Even Witch Hex and her eerie Flame Imps, played by Ann Hite, Linda Reese and Mary Littlejohn, are musically inclined, as they prove with their rendition of "Pop Goes the Weasel," and a lively dance under spooky red lights.

Cleve Haubold does a masterful job of direction on the show. Some Fallis Players who deserve special credit are Pat Belew, set designer; Houston Lumpkin, lighting director; Harvey Hysell, costume designer; John Waldrop, musical director; Ann Hite, choreographer, and Phyllis Alexander, stage manager. Special credit also goes to Florence Pulley, who produced the show.

"Snow White" is a big show in many respects. In fact, Haubold calls it "a DeMille-like spectacle." There are 50 members in the cast, seven scenes, four settings, over 250 separate props and even stereophonic music.

Admission at Little Theatre box office is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

DROP DEADLINE COMING UP

The last day on which a course can be dropped for the Fall Semester, 1958, will be Thursday, Jan. 15, 1959.

This projected date is based on a policy established by the Deans' Council.

Deadline Named For Teacher Scholarships

Deadline is Feb. 15 for class of '59 graduates, who wish to become teachers, to apply for scholarships and fellowships at the University of Chicago.

The university is offering 20 Board of Trustee scholarships and 6 Du Pont fellowships.

The scholarships are for students who wish to teach in either an elementary or secondary school. The fellowships are for graduates who wish to teach chemistry, math, or physics in a secondary school.

23 Frosh Cadets Promoted to Pfc

For the first time during the Army ROTC existence on campus, promotions have been awarded to MS-I cadets in the freshman class. Twenty-three cadets were boosted to cadet private first class.

Qualification firings were completed on the rifle range this week for 91 cadets. Scoring high was Cadet Richard Spell.

SPRING RUSH SET FEB. 8-21

Registration for Spring Rush now is in progress and will continue without penalty through Jan. 31. Following this date, rushees may register through Feb. 4 with a $1 late fee.

Dates for rush are Feb. 8-21. Parties to be given by the sororities are to be arranged verbally as there are no organized periods. The bid deadline is 8 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 21.

General on Campus For Survey of ROTC

Maj. Gen. Lewis S. Griffing, deputy Army commander of the Fourth U.S. Army at Fort Sam Houston, is on campus today to make a brief visit of military training procedures and facilities of the Army ROTC.

Accompanying Gen. Griffing is Col. John C. Cone. The officers will survey the Fort Worth military installations, and later dine with President Sadler, Mayor McCann, and school officials in the Board of Trustees dining room.

Foreign Languages Gain 149 Students

More than 149 students is the increase this fall over 1957 in the foreign language department.

Students of German, 41 more than last year, are responsible for the largest increase, while French students followed close behind with 38 more. Spanish, continuing to have the largest enrollment within the department, swelled by 10 students.

Radio Station Adds Dance Music Program

KTCU announces that it is adding a new show.

Entitled "Afternoon Dance Party," it will feature danceable music from 3 until 4 p.m. each weekday. The new hours for broadcasting began last Monday.

Whitney Art Works on Display

Selections from the 1957-58 Whitney Annual are on display in the TCU Art Gallery, Room 201, Fine Arts Building. The exhibition, which began yesterday, will continue through Jan. 28.

The Whitney Museum of American Art reviews works by living artists in a survey of recent trends in painting and sculpture each year. The American Federation of Arts selected and prepared a collection of works from this review. It is this selection which is on display.

The art show is on a year-long tour throughout art institutions and museums in the United States.

Sitters Available

Besides directing social activities, Miss Youngblood's office now offers a baby-sitting service. Miss "Y" keeps files on all TCU women available.

AEC Offers Fellowships

Deadline is March 1 for application for Atomic Energy Commission Special Fellowships in Industrial Hygiene which lead to the master's degree.

These fellowships are open to college graduates who hold bachelors' degrees in physics, chemistry or engineering.

The basic stipend for industrial hygiene is $2,500 for the academic year, plus $350 for a wife and $350 for each dependent child. Normal tuition and fees will be paid, as well as limited travel allowance.

Appointees for fellowships will study at Harvard University, the University of Cincinnati or the University of Pittsburgh.

Application materials and further information may be obtained from Dr. L. K. Akers, Industrial Hygiene Fellowship Office, Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

3 History Courses Added

History 334bi, "Indians of the Southwest," is among three new history courses offered in the spring. This course is a historical and cultural study of the contacts between the Indians of the Southwest and the Anglo-American settlers. Mr. Eugene McCluney will teach the course.

History 340bi, "Studies in American Biography," will be taught by Dr. W. J. Hammond. It is largely a seminar in reading and research. It will be restricted to students with a B average in nine hours of history, or an overall average of B for students who are not history majors.

Dr. James Vardaman will teach History 347ai, "History of Early Modern Europe, 1500-1815."

Col. Cross in Paris

Col. James C. Cross, past professor of military science here, is now in Paris, France, with the Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe. In April he will become secretary of SHAPE.

After leaving TCU in 1957, Col. Cross attended Naval War College for one year in Providence, R.I.

Editorial Comment

The Last Battle

If you are one of those fortunate few who are "caught up" on your courses, you needn't bother reading this.

But if you have postponed the major part of your studying until the very last minute by loafing your way through since September, then Review Week is for you.

Review Week, for the benefit of the freshmen and the uninformed, is the week before final examinations. It is officially defined as a period during which ordinary class loads will be carried on and no social functions will be held.

A few students have the wrong idea about Review Week, though. They seem to think it is a week during which no homework is to be assigned. This, however, is a slight misinterpretation. An ordinary schedule of class work is expected with normal assignments in order.

The primary purpose of Review Week is to eliminate all meetings and social functions in order to give students more time to prepare for the upcoming exams.

But usually the number of bridge games is doubled, freshman girls have dates every night, drag establishments are crowded beyond capacity and a few ambitious souls even try to catch up on a semester's work.

If the time during Review Week is used as intended, a student should be able to breeze through final exams.

The "good word" for Review Week is not "Beat the Air Force"—it's "Study."

In An Emergency

Some worry has come up over what would be done to reach a student in an emergency after the campus telephone switchboard had closed for the night.

A far-thinking soul solved this problem years ago and there is no need to worry if proper steps are taken.

Women can handle the problem by filling out 3x5 cards with the emergency numbers that they are given when they move into the dorms. These numbers are for pay phones in the dorms, and the phones are answered by the dorm mothers at night.

Men are taken care of by a private line to the Dean of Men's room. If there is a need to find a male student after hours, the Dean will contact the student.

Hurried and Harried

The Student Center Snack Bar becomes more of a problem each day for the hurrying student.

Waiting in a normally swollen line is nothing to what he must endure when he gets where he's going. He'll stand there while six or seven "waitresses" make him wait.

Finally one comes forward.

"What's for you?" she grudgingly inquires. The customer asks for vanilla ice cream. "Ain't got no vanilla ice cream," she says, and turns to the next person.

The worst is yet to come. When finally he is served he must face the ladies at the cash register. He'll be interrogated intensely by one of them if she feels he isn't using his own meal ticket.

When he can't convince her it is his, and he has been relieved of it, the hurried student stumbles off to class, harried and an hour late.

THE SCORE

We're Nicest Now?

By PAT BECKHAM

"And now I'll announce the winner of the Southwest Sportsmanship Award," said the conference's student committee executive secretary. "TCU and the University of Arkansas are co-champions with a total of 98 points each."

The delegates from Rice, SMU, Texas Tech, Air Force, A&M, Texas and Baylor applauded in true sportsmanlike manner. A representative from Arkansas expressed the gratitude of his university.

The TCU contingent, composed of Student Association President Paul Youngdale, Head Cheerleader Joel Hurley and this writer sat stunned.

Youngdale stood to thank the other committee members who had honored our school.

It was the first time a tie ever had resulted in the balloting. It was Arkansas' second award. Our school had copped its fourth. SMU and Rice have three each.

I do not think we deserved the award. Sportsmanship in the conference this year was exceptionally good and TCU's had much room for improvement.

Perhaps next year most of the people who give our school a bad name will be wised up or be gone. Although we are being called the school with the best sportsmanship (over the past dozen years), it sort of leaves a sour taste in a person's mouth when he hears TCU students vigorously booing perfectly fair officiating at some of our athletic contests.

Next to that, in order of peeviness, is the attitude of some campusites who cast verbal slams at the football and basketball teams and coaches "for not doing as good as they ought to."

Also, it never ceases to amaze us at the football games when the visiting group's band spells out T-C-U on the field and plays our school fight song. Then TCU goes out and does the same thing—spells out T-C-U and plays the school fight song.

Maybe the other schools see less to be desired with other conference schools besides TCU, but it surely would be nice if we could live up to the honor already bestowed.

Something that might fit in with a "good neighbor policy" of this sort was the proposal by Rice, seconded by Texas Tech and passed unanimously, that vulgar or crude language should be tactfully eliminated from school yells.

Some of the people of downtown Houston had complained to the Rice governing body, saying that some of the institute's raunchy cheers were somewhat degrading. The Owl people agreed and so do we.

On this subject, or any other for that matter, I would appreciate letters to the editor expressing the views of the TCU student.

RICE—

"To hell with A&M!"

Before some of those big Aggies come and stomp us to death with their crazy motorcycle boots, or skewer our hides with those giant letter openers they sport, we should explain that the above-mentioned "To hell with A&M" actually is the song sung by Rice students at the annual football clash.

It seems that this popular tune caused a great deal of controversial discussion at a recent Student Council meeting, due to a letter received from an alumnus in Pasadena, who stated that he felt the song was not a credit to the institute.

Following a heated discussion, the council voted on a motion to discourage the "to hell" song at all times. It passed 12-9.

"Some people," read the article, "will no doubt view this as the great white father Student Council telling us naughty children what to do."

One more smart crack out of you, junior, and we'll take away your sandpile privileges.

Irate letter to the editor spotted in the Texan:

"Perhaps moldy Spanish rice is not harmful, perhaps it contains penicillin and actually is healthful, but at 12:30 in the morning it certainly is not at all appetizing. Imagine being served a Mexican dinner—at a large, nearby eatery, as I was last night, and finding entwined among a rather wornout serving of Spanish rice a quite robust growth of what resembled green mold. Such culinary originality should be reported."

You idiot! That's the Guacamole salad!

Speaking of dining, the university certainly isn't very cordial to its guests.

At a recent supper, a guest arrived, and before he'd taken his seat, the officials immediately killed him.

Turned out the freeloader was a 10-inch copperhead snake.

I don't care what it is, Rush it to the chef. We're sick of fried chicken.

SMU—

After reading this student's letter to the editor describing the treatment given the band at the Arkansas-SMU game at Fayetteville, we give thanks that we're tone deaf:

"Our band was given seats so high in the stands that they were probably unheard on the field; and, when the band stood up to play 'Peruna,' they were pelted by cold drinks, paper cups, peanut shells, foul-mouthed invectives, and other refuse by Arkansas partisans."

Peruna? Isn't that the song that sounds like the "Darktown Strutter's Ball?"

Classified in the Toreador: "One date needed for Homecoming, 37-26-37, blond, blue eyes—Cadillac preferred. Call PO 5-8541, Ext. 423. Ask for Roy."

Gosh, Roy, we wish we could help you, but we don't know any Cadillacs that have these particular dimensions.

Let's Go Formal . . .

. . . has been an advertising slogan of the men's formal wear manufacturers, and we think it's a marvelous idea. When a man is dressed to kill, he just naturally enjoys the outing more; being dressed up makes the occasion more special.

But to inject a sour note into all this gaiety, nothing can spoil things more than inappropriate formal attire. Because there is little room for personal choice, your formal wear is either correct, or it is wrong.

Here are a few pointers:

The suit: Black or midnight blue dinner jacket with matching trousers. A white coat is wrong. The trousers should be fitted a little loose in the waist (worn with suspenders) and the cuffs finished plain without any break. We have a nice one for $45.00.

Shoes: In recent years the rules on shoes have become much more lenient. A plain-toe slip-on shoe of a fairly light weight will do as well as a regular tuxedo shoe, and can also be worn with street clothes.

Formal shirt: Soft front and soft collar with pleats. Ruffles are all right, but we really don't recommend them for any but the extremely daring.

Tie and Cumberbund: At a formal dance, where the girls wear long dresses, the only proper thing is black or midnight blue, depending on the color of the dinner jacket. Bright colors and maroon are best saved for summer or for an informal cocktail party.

Studs: Black, pearl, or plain metal; no bright colors here, either.

Job Interviews Scheduled for Seniors

The TCU Placement Bureau has scheduled student interviews with representatives from two major companies this week and one next week.

The Republic National Life Insurance Company will hold interviews in Room 214 of the Student Center on Friday, Jan. 9.

They will interview seniors with a major or minor in mathematics.

On Thursday, Hallmark Cards, Inc. will hold interviews with seniors of all majors in Room 214 of the Student Center.

Monday, Jan. 12, the University of California Radiation Laboratory will hold interviews with senior students majoring in chemistry, physics and mathematics.

Symphony Will Present Third Concert

The Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra will present its third concert of the season at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday.

Robert Hull, dean of the School of Fine Arts, will conduct the orchestra.

The program will include "Egmont Overture" by Beethoven, "Classical Symphony" by Prokofieff, "Adagietto" by Kirk and "Suite" from "Three-Cornered Hat" by de Falla.

Feature of the evening's music will be a solo by Roman Totenberg, violinist, of "Symphonie Espagnole" by Lalo.

Totenberg will be on campus from Wednesday until Saturday, teaching master classes and giving private lessons in violin.

Loan Program Gets Under Way

The University is participating in a student loan program sponsored by a new act of the U.S. Congress, according to L. C. White, TCU business manager.

Students who are qualified may borrow money to finance their college education. Both college students already enrolled and high school students who plan to enroll later, are eligible.

A meeting was held in Dan D. Rogers Hall auditorium yesterday to discuss the new program.

Woods and Waters

By GEORGE GOULD

The Christmas holidays afforded plenty of time to get out in the field and perform some of that well-needed hunting. Some reckless sportsmen even made the fishing scene, but this cold weather that recently set in has put the damper on both hunting and fishing.

Richard Handley, Lake Charles, La., senior, put in a few hours shooting geese in the rice fields around his home town. He also managed to find time for some quail and duck shooting.

Up until the sudden temperature drop a few days ago, the ducks were flying fast and furious. Teal, mallards, and pintails sat into hunters' decoys like it was old home week. Some of us were even inspired to get out in the 5-degree weather, but found that it was rather fruitless. Water froze on all the decoys, and as a result, they tipped over, leaving a very ineffective spread. Needless to say, we were back in bed by 8 a.m., feet cold and no birds. Just as a reminder, duck and goose season will close officially January 14.

Now is the time to take advantage of the spectacular number of quail found in many parts of the state. Cold weather will soon reduce these numbers and decrease available food supplies for all kinds of wildlife. Since the beginning of the season, some areas have already reported a fewer number of birds. Quail season ends January 16.

The exploding population this year is likely to do a complete turnabout next year, probably by spring. Survival will depend upon the condition of food and cover crops and the existing cotton rat population. The greatest losses will be found where rats are numerous and cover and food are low. Quail apparently will not move extensively if they have an ample food supply. Evidence of this comes from a report that one man shot a quail he had released at the same spot 18 months ago.

Purple, Longhorns Match Big Men

From the Sideline

By LEE GRIMSLEY

A look into the future as seen through the eyes of Nerfs, inhabitants of the Land of Ish:

JANUARY—The Frogs batter their way past seven Southwest Conference opponents and appear to be on their way to the league cage title. United Press International ranks them fourth in the nation. They are forty-seventh on the AP poll.

FEBRUARY—Texas' Albert Almanza, a 6-8 sophomore center, ties Bevo Francis' scoring record when he pours 113 points through the nets against the Christians, but TCU beats the Longhorns, 119-117. Frogs win SWC and NCAA titles.

MARCH—The Boston Red Sox stop off for an exhibition game here with the Chicago Cubs. Ted Williams slings his bat at a TCU student who is applauding a Cub home run.

APRIL—Purple baseballers get off to a roaring start, winning their first 17 games. Marshall Harris averages three home runs per game and is batting .836.

MAY—Frogs win conference baseball title. All three outfielders are signed by Red Sox to bonus contracts and Ted Williams is turned over to Rabbit McDowell for seasoning.

JUNE—School is out and someone very dear to this corner gets a long-awaited diploma.

JULY—The new flag of the United States is put into use. The Fairbanks Giants start trying to obtain a National League franchise.

AUGUST—The nation's sportswriters pick LSU as the No. 1 team in the nation in their preseason poll. The Frogs are due for a slump, they say, and are ranked forty-fifth.

SEPTEMBER—Harry Moreland gains 172 yards on three carries and scores two touchdowns as Frogs beat Kansas, 84-0. Moreland is benched because he cut back the wrong way on his third run and was hauled down on the Kansas two.

OCTOBER—Frogs beat LSU, 34-8. But the Chinese Bandits still are ranked first in the nation, mainly because Billy Cannon gains 34 yards on 108 rushing attempts.

NOVEMBER—TCU wins the SWC title with a 10-0 record and Abe Martin gets to go to the Cotton Bowl for the fourth time in five years. The twice-defeated and national champion Air Force Falcons are brought back for a rematch.

DECEMBER—The Cotton Bowl game is rescheduled for Dec. 31. The twelfth-ranked Frogs are favored by 27 points despite the minus-20-degree temperature and the 18-inch snowfall that covers the Cotton Bowl. Mach 1 freezes to death in midair during the pregame show. Abb Curtis, SWC secretary, decides it's too cold for football and the two teams put on ice skates and play hockey. The game ends in a zip-zip tie again, proving nothing; Dan Jenkins gets mad at Abe once more, and here we go again.

Big City Spawns Big Man; Kirchner Rules Hardwoods

By ROY STAMPS

In the lower section of Texas there is one of the largest cities in the nation. From that city

OUCH!

Ex-Staffer Aimed; Cute Coed Wounded

Gary Cartwright, former Skiff staffer who now works for a rival group downtown, ambled into the Skiff office as photo editors were planning the picture of Josie Lu Bird and announced he once shot her in the back with a BB gun.

"It was when she was about three years old. Our back yards backed up to each other and I was in my yard when I popped her a good one as she came out her back door," chortled Cartwright as he brushed a speck of lint from the snapped brim of his brown fuzzy hat.

comes one of the largest basketball players in the nation.

The city is Houston, and the player is H. E. Kirchner.

The 6-10 Houston giant has contributed more than 200 points to the Purple cause this year, and his great showing in the Southwest Conference preseason tournament won him the most-valuable-player award.

Kirchner possesses what the experts call the soft touch with a hook shot. Some say it's the best they have ever seen.

H. E.'s rise to fame this year was expected by Frog Coach Buster Brannon. He came to life in the last six games last season. In fact he outscored everybody as the Purple won five of those last six. "Huey," as he is tagged, is an example of what hard work and practice can do for a player.

He came to TCU on his height alone, earning only one letter in high school.

Kirchner's 51.6 per cent shooting average led the conference last year, and a 13.1 point average earned him ninth place in scoring standings in the league.

This year it appears that he could be tops. He is averaging almost 20 points per game.

Scoring Duel Forecast For Two Giants

By JACK HARKRIDER

The five tall Texans from TCU will lay their conference lead on the line as they go against the Texas Longhorns at 8 p.m. Saturday night, at Public Schools Gymnasium.

The Frogs, fresh from their 52-45 victory over the Arkansas Razorbacks, will have their hands full in trying to shut out Al Almanza, the Orangemen's "unknown" who has led the team in scoring in Texas' last two conference games.

The Longhorns have a 1-1 conference record, having upset favored Rice in the conference opener and losing a heartbreaker to SMU, 73-55.

TCU rushed past Arkansas Wednesday night and beat Baylor in the opening game, 72-62.

This, coupled with the Rice Owls' 70-65 upset of the Texas Aggies, the conference favorite, makes the Purple a prime target for an upset.

Almanza, a native of Chihuahua, Mexico, got his high school training at Thomas Jefferson of El Paso and was accepted at Texas as a leading basketball prospect.

So far, he has a 22-point-per-game average in conference play and is expected to increase that mark.

The Frogs will have their high-scoring center, H. E. Kirchner, going against Almanza in what will probably be a battle of individual scoring.

Tommy Meacham, who was hurt in the Arkansas game, suffered only a minor bruise and is expected to return to action against the Longhorns.

TCU is a clear-cut favorite in the match which gives Texas an even better reason for upsetting the Frogs and dimming their view of a conference championship.

STEER HEADS FROG CLUB

The Frog Club, booster organization for TCU athletics, took on a new twist this week when its members elected Clifton H. Morris, a former University of Texas student, president.

Morris succeeds the outgoing president, Rudy Copeland Jr.

At the last meeting, Copeland was presented a trophy by TCU gridmen and a plaque by club members. The trophy showed a lineman and a back in action.

Massengale Makes All-America Golf Team

Don Massengale, Jacksboro senior, was elected to the All-America golf team, being one of the top 25 collegiate golfers in the United States.

He was chosen as fourth amateur of the year by the Texas Sports Writers Association, following Don Meredith of SMU, Buddy Dial of Rice, and Bobby Morrow of Abilene Christian.
