

Four Buildings Will Be Dedicated

Dr. Harvie Branscomb Is Guest Speaker Tomorrow

Dr. Harvie Branscomb, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, will be guest speaker tomorrow at formal dedication ceremonies of four new buildings on campus.

Dr. James Moudy, dean of the Graduate School, will give the invocation at a luncheon in the Ballroom, which will open the program at noon. Honored guests will be families of persons for whom the new structures are named.

Buildings to be dedicated include the enlarged Mary Coats Burnett Library; the Bailey Building, remodeled home of the School of Education; and two dormitories—Sherley Hall for women and the new Clark Hall for men.

President M. E. Sadler will preside at the dedication. Emmet Smith of the music faculty will play the organ prelude; Dr. Noel Keith, chairman of the undergraduate religion department, will give the opening prayer and voice professor Ernest Lawrence will sing.

Business Group To Hear Educator

An outstanding business educator, Dr. Sam Wanous, from the University of California will speak to a group of business teachers and business education students at a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow in the Student Center.

Among Dr. Wanous' contributions in business education are two textbooks, "College Typewriting" and "Shorthand Transcription Studies." He will speak to the group on "Modern Trends in Teaching Typewriting."

Business teachers in the Fort Worth-Dallas area and business education students at Southern Methodist University, Texas Wesleyan College, North Texas State College, and Texas Women's University have been invited.

will be read by the Rev. James A. Farrar, director of religious activities, and Vice President D. Ray Lindley will give the prayer of dedication. Dr. Newton Robinson, minister of the First Christian Church in Amarillo and president of the Texas Board of Christian Churches, will give the benediction.

Dr. Branscomb, Southern-bred and Oxford-educated, became Vanderbilt's fourth chancellor in 1946. He is chairman of the Commission of Education and International Affairs of the American Council of Education. He is a trustee of the General Education Board, Cordell Hull Foundation for International Education, Colonial Williamsburg, and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and other organizations.

From 1947 to 1951 he was the first chairman of the U.S. Advisory Commission on Educational Exchange which reports to Congress on the problems and policies of the International Exchange Program.

MISS MEYER'S MOODS

Proving that she looks pretty wherever she is, Miss Gayle Meyer, Fort Worth senior, poses in three outfits. Similar photographs will be sent to Glamour Magazine with the entry blank and may be Miss Meyer's ticket to New York.

Gayle Meyer Named Best-Dressed Coed

By GAIL BECKHAM

Good looks, good grooming and a gracious manner, spiced with poise, vivacity and wit were the formula that won for Miss Gayle Meyer, Fort Worth senior, the title of Best-Dressed Woman at TCU and a chance to represent the University in a national contest sponsored by Glamour Magazine.

The English major who formerly studied ballet and voice in the School of Fine Arts here and at Ballet Theater in New York, was the choice of a panel of 10 judges who interviewed her and the four other finalists in the contest sponsored here by Student Congress and The Skiff.

Runner-up was Miss Cecilia Twyman, Fort Worth freshman. Votes for the other three candidates—Miss Linda Hildreth, Fort Worth junior, Miss Janice Michener, Midland senior and Miss Bettie B. Porzelius, Chattanooga, Tenn., sophomore—were evenly distributed.

Gayle, a senior Panhellenic delegate, was nominated by her sorority, Kappa Kappa Gamma. She served on their scholarship committee for three years (her grade-point average is 3.5) and was an Air Force ROTC sponsor in her sophomore year. This semester she is a member of Bryson Club and the English Club.

Much of the time she formerly spent studying and teaching ballet now is spent in studying for her English courses, but she still takes some ballet courses and dances "just for fun."

FOUR OF FIVE EYE CHEATING

During a recent Skiff lab period the instructor was reading a story from the Daily Athenaeum of West Virginia University on a poll concerning cheating.

The headline of the story was "Four Out of Five Students Have Seen Cheating."

One of the students commented blythely, "What happened to the fifth—was he blind?"

Her decision to change major subjects came after she dropped out of TCU during spring semester last year to study ballet and voice in New York, where she also worked as secretary for Morrow Printing Company and did photographic modeling at the Hal Berg Studios.

For the past two summers Gayle has danced in the chorus of the State Fair Musicals at Dallas, and she cites her role as a Teddy Bear in the Circus Ballet of Fannie as one of her favorites.

"It's very difficult to be a teddy bear," she said. "I'd find myself standing like a Teddy Bear in the scenes where I was a girl—and vice versa."

Although she is a dormitory student, Gayle often spends weekends at home with her family, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Meyer of 8605 Springhill Rd., and her brother, Henry (Bubba) Meyer, co-captain of the 1959 Horned Frogs.

As TCU's entry in the Glamour contest, Gayle is a prospective winner of a return trip to New York as guest of the magazine.

Editors there will select 10 national winners among entries from the United States and Canada. These will be fashion board members for the college issue.

Placement Bureau Offers Employment

Job opportunities available to graduating seniors will be published in Friday issues of The Skiff, through arrangements with the TCU Placement Bureau.

It is not essential to have completed the Biographical Qualification Form in order to participate in an interview, according to Mr. Raymond "Bear" Wolf, Director of the Placement Bureau. Special qualifications desired by the listed firms will be noted in the appointment book.

Interviews scheduled for the week of March 2: I.B.M. Corporation, Wednesday, March 4, 1959, Room 214, Student Center. Majors: School of Business, Liberal Arts, Speech, and Radio and TV.

Proctor and Gamble, Thursday, March 5, 1959, Room 214, Student Center. Majors: School of Business and Liberal Arts.

ARNOLD MOSS

'The Seven Ages of Man'

Moss Fills Bill For Series

Readings from Anon, Fontaine, Shakespeare, and others, will be presented by veteran actor Arnold Moss at 8 p.m. today when he brings his one-man show to the stage of Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Billed as "The Seven Ages of Man," the presentation will be the sixth in TCU's annual Select Series program.

Moss, well known for his Shakespearean interpretations, has won outstanding success in every field of the actor's art.

Since his Broadway debut with the Theatre Guild in "The Fifth Column," Moss has appeared in many films, including "Salome" and "The Loves of Carmen." In television, he has had leading roles on "Studio One," "Omni-bus," "Kraft Theatre," "Play-house 90" and "The U.S. Steel Hour."

A unique aspect of Moss' versatile career is his active association with the field of music. He has been commentator for the Sunday broadcasts of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra; he has appeared as narrator-soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in the works of Arthur Honegger and with the Boston Friends of Chamber Music in Stravinsky's "L'Histoire du Soldat."

His appearance will replace the originally scheduled performance of "Richard II" by the Barter Theater of Virginia. The change was announced by the Select Series Committee after it was notified that the Virginia company would not present the Shakespeare play but planned instead a mystery drama by a modern author. The contract with the Barter Theater, signed last week, was cancelled in favor of performance.

Although admission to the Select Series is by season ticket, seats will be sold at $1 each on a space-available basis.

Press Club to Discuss National Affiliation

Plans to affiliate with Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism fraternity, will be discussed at the J. Willard Ridings Press Club meeting at 1 p.m. Friday in Room 117 of Dan D. Rogers Hall.

Dues will also be collected for the spring semester, and the Press Club is accepting new memberships from all interested journalism majors and minors.

A fee of 50 cents may be paid to Mrs. Helen Ferguson, journalism department secretary, or to John Farr, Press Club treasurer.

Dance Poll Reveals Facts

The results of the Activities Council's dance committee questionnaires filled out during registration may reveal some facts for improving campus social life.

The purpose of the survey was to find out the general feeling of the students toward the way campus dances are being handled. Questionnaires revealed that more than the majority of the students like to dance, but only 45 per cent attended as many as four dances this year.

A continual problem of the AC has been the scheduling of dances on a weekend with a local band or on Thursday night with a big-name band. Opinion on this matter was equally divided.

Thirty-five per cent prefer the annual spring dance to be formal with corsages.

A choice of top bands find Ray Anthony, Les Brown, Harry James and Les Elgart nearest the top.

Suggestions offered for improving dances in the Student Center were 1) more mixers and get-acquainted dances, 2) square dances, 3) juke-box dances, 4) better intermissions and 5) better publicity.

Contest to Offer $1,050 in Prizes

Miss Gail Click, Godley sophomore, is conducting Reed and Barton's "Silver Opinion Competition" in which scholarship awards totaling $1,050 are being offered to winning entrants.

First prize is a $500 scholarship; second-place winner will receive $250 and third-, fourth- and fifth-place entrants will receive $100. One hundred other prize winners can choose between a $25 savings bond and a starter set of silver, china and crystal valued at $45.

Only women students are eligible.

Vigilantes Change

Group Gets New Laws, New Look

Changes are inevitable and the Vigilantes are no exception to the rule as the organization makes revisions ranging from their constitution to their uniforms this semester.

The new constitution will provide that membership in Vigilantes will be open to both Greek and independent men students who "want to contribute service for the betterment of TCU." Another revision will require that members maintain a designated grade index to retain membership in the service club.

Vigilantes this season will be wearing boots and hats with their white uniforms trimmed in purple, an outfit designed to make them easily identified.

"When you see a Vigilante, you'll know what he is," Sponsor Ben Procter said.

He added that the old "traditional" uniform still will be worn by members while they serve on work details.

Various chores the service organization performs on campus include gathering band props and wood for bonfires, leading torchlight parades, being on hand to assist in student elections and pep rallies, and decorating the goal posts for football games. They are best known on campus as being a "cheering unit."

Dr. Hardt Will Speak At Conference Friday

"Developing a Scientific Imagination" will be the subject of a speech given by Dr. Henry B. Hardt, chairman of the chemistry department, at the Texas Hotel Friday. He will speak at 3:30 p.m. on the second day of a 2-day conference of the Texas Junior College Association.

"Non-scientists as well as scientists need to develop a scientific imagination," Dr. Hardt said.

He recently testified as an expert witness in the recent Railroad Commission hearing on the matter of transportation of chemicals and the content.

Vigilantes Jack Minton, Richard Wetherill, Walt Heidmann and Dennis Robinson (l-r) demonstrate the volume strength of one of their cheering aids—the siren heard after TCU touchdowns.

Dean Gives Up Chairmanship

Dean Jerome A. Moore was honored by the University's languages faculty at a luncheon recently. He gave up his chairmanship of the language department earlier because of his increasing duties as dean and director of TCU's Summer School.

The language department presented Dean Moore with a scroll in appreciation of his "inspiring leadership as a teacher, a scholar and a crusader for languages" and with the newest edition of the Dicionario de la Lengua Espanola, the Royal Academic Spanish Dictionary which is the authoritative work on the Spanish language.

Ethical Code Failed in 1914

By J'NELL ROGERS

Editor's Note: This story is the first in a series discussing the merits, demerits and past history of the proposed honor system for TCU.

With an honor system a possibility in the near future for TCU, one might have a few questions in mind. Has the University ever operated under an honor system before? If so, when? Did it work?

Yes, an honor system once was instituted here. The Sept. 18, 1914, issue of The Skiff carried an article concerning the response to a student body petition. In 1914 the students were petitioning for student government at TCU and requesting the establishment of a student council. Along with the beginning of the student government an honor system also was to be established under the direction of the new student council.

At that time a committee consisting of both students and faculty members discussed an honor system whereby "every person in the University shall report to some member of the student council all cases of cheating, stealing, gambling, drinking and the visiting of immoral places."

The rules and regulations of the honor system were to be stipulated in the proposed constitution for the council.

At the next meeting of the committee, the proposed constitution was changed to limit the jurisdiction of the Student Council to cases of cheating and stealing only. Its power, according to the new clause, couldn't extend beyond the campus.

The reason for this decision was explained in The Skiff the following week.

"The sentiment expressed by those present at the meeting Tuesday night was that the student body would not support that section of the constitution which was first offered. It was a result of this belief that the clause was limited."

In a nearly unanimous election the constitution providing for student government and an honor system was ratified.

J. Eddie Weems, track coach and English professor, was a student here during the period in which the honor system was in effect. He was president of the Student Council for the school year 1922-23.

"The students didn't co-operate too well with the honor system," Weems said. "Furthermore, students didn't support the system because they disliked having to report infractions of the code by their friends," he added.

The system was soon discontinued.

Questions still remain. Will a future honor system here meet the same fate? Will the students support its provisions?

Possibly the manner in which it is begun will influence the outcome to a certain extent.

"The best way to introduce a new movement is to begin slowly and progress gradually," is the advice given in the issue of The Skiff dated Sept. 25, 1914.

The Mystique of India Madras

India Madras is a soft, coarse, cotton material, woven by hand on cottage looms in India. The natives use natural vegetable dyes, and consequently the cloth will fade, or as they say "bleed" each time it is washed.

An India Madras shirt gets more beautiful with each washing, as the colors mellow into each other.

Ivy Leaguers have always had a strong feeling for India Madras, because of its comfort, the way it holds up without wrinkling, the way it wears and keeps its color, and most of all because of its beauty, and the distinction of its soft, unusual color combinations.

We have lots of things made out of India Madras that we would love to show you.

Exes Meeting Will Be Led By Dr. Hewatt

The TCU Geology Exes luncheon will be held in Dallas March 17 in connection with the annual national meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists.

Approximately 50 exes have indicated that they will attend. Graduates as far back as the class of 1926 plan to be present.

Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, chairman of the biology and geology departments, will be chairman of the luncheon.

Members of the geology staff at TCU who will attend with their wives are Dr. Hewatt, Dr. Edward Heuer, associate professor of geology; Dr. Leo Hendricks, professor of geology, Dr. Dan Jarvis, assistant professor of geology, and Dr. Arthur Ehlmann, assistant professor of geology.

Also attending will be Mrs. Gayle Scott, whose husband was a prominent geologist at TCU for many years until his death in 1948; Howard Grubbs, executive director of the Southwest Conference, with his wife, and Hartwell Ramsey, director of the Ex-students Association.

Tour of Bailey Building Will Be Conducted

A conducted tour of the Bailey Building will be held for guests, faculty members and students on the afternoon following the building dedication program Thursday.

Dr. Sandy A. Wall, professor of education, members of his faculty committee and student organizations will be in charge.

Research Report To Be Published

An article by Clifton E. Dowell, B.A. '55 and Dr. Sanders T. Lyles, professor of biology, soon will be published in the "Texas Journal of Science."

The report, entitled "Antibiotic Resistance of Staphylococcus," is an account of the research work done by Dowell while working on his masters here.

The article is based on a comparison of the antibiotic resistance of organisms isolated from apparently healthy TCU students and those isolated from patients in the contagious wards of John Peter Smith Hospital.

mind. Like the time I walked to the mound in battle's heat, and asked the pitcher how we ought to pitch to the next man and he shot back:

"The bum's a sucker for a high changeup slider."

"Then fire one at me," I said relieved.

"I can't," he answered, "I don't know how."

And one time I remember, I felt so smug about striking the coach out three times in batting practice. It was nice I felt superior. It gave me something to do with myself. I sat on the bench the rest of the season with a sore arm.

Yes, those were the days of athletic youth, a period that crashed one day and ended before I realized what had happened. Actually only a few realized it happened, because not much of it did.

Frogs To Get Short Respite

By JOHN SHIELDS

The Frogs closed out regular season play last night but the role of a champion is never done. Now comes the biggest job of all, preparation for the NCAA play-offs just eleven days away.

They'll continue workouts today, but Brannon plans to give the team a rest until next Monday. He's uncertain when the recess will begin, but he says the boys will get one.

Lingering in the back of Brannon's mind, undoubtedly, is a 6-5 problem.

That would be in the form of All-America Oscar Robertson, the University of Cincinnati's one-man scoring machine.

The Frog coaching staff is uncertain who will have the job of guarding Robertson.

"The whole team is strong and if we double-team on one man, then the other boys may run wild," said Johnny Swaim, scout and assistant Frog coach.

"He can charge down court fast, he's all over the backboards with rebounds and you just can't let 'em stop and set for a shot."

But the Frogs will have a few big guns of their own to counter-attack. H. E. Kirchner has a 20-point average this season. Ronny Stevenson has about 13 per game, Derrill Nippert is next with 12 followed by Ken Brunson with a 10 average.

Mid-Week REPORT

By BOB SCHIEFFER

Border Olympics First Test As Speedsters Head South

Watching Rabbit McDowell put his husky charges through an afternoon workout the other day, brought back memories of sorts; of the times I spent in my high school youth, chasing fly-balls, hitting fungos, catching batting practice and standing around in the outfield swapping yarns.

Mostly standing around in the outfield swapping yarns.

Ah, sweet youth and the days I spent on the hill, (the hill that time was North Side High School) in fact, every school I've ever heard of or gone to, was on, or called one sort of hill or another.

But I digress, those were the days of Tommy Cantrell, who goes to TCU every once in a while now, but then on baseball trips, used to sneak into the restaurants ahead of the rest of us and eat the coaches' meal, then settle back and enjoyed his own serving while the coaches cussed under their breaths and wondered what happened to their food.

And another teammate who used to sop his dinner rolls in jelly and butter, then stuff them in his pants pocket for late evening snacks.

And Dick Morgan, who got benched because he chewed tobacco and John Shields, who didn't chew tobacco and hid behind the water fountain when the time came to run wind sprints.

Days when the smells of liniment and neetsfoot oil were like unto the sensations aroused in the body of the apprentice garbage collector when his boss shows him his first city dump and exclaims:

"This then, is our mission."

Days of finding analgesic balm, dabbed lovingly on strategic parts of my athletic uniform . . . making the discovery as I crouched behind home plate on a sticky May afternoon.

A lot of things stick in my Coach J. Eddie Weems' track squad, riddled by last year's graduation losses, went through final workouts yesterday before heading to South Texas and the Border Olympics Friday.

Only seven men will make the trip to Laredo for the traditional southwest track season opener.

Veteran observers see little chance for the Frogs to capture many points since most of the track powerhouses from this area, including all the conference teams, LSU and Oklahoma will be entered in the meet.

Weems won't make the trip with the squad. He'll stay in Fort Worth prepping the freshman team for a meet next week.

They will compete in preliminaries Saturday morning and finals will be held Saturday night. The team will return to Fort Worth Sunday.

Weems announced this traveling squad:

James Livergood, half-miler; Joe Douglass, miler; Kelly Westlake, Lafayette Heath, quarter-milers; John Cantrell, discus; Aubrey Linne, high-jumper and Mike Howell, pole valuter.

TCU will not field a relay team at the meet for the first time in several years.

Trainer Elmer Brown will accompany the team.

Meanwhile, Weems' face should brighten somewhat as he looks over the bumper crop of freshmen this weekend.

An all-out recruiting program last spring resulted in some of the state's top cinder men winding up here.

Lead by state 220 champion Bert Coan, the Wogs are being hailed as the finest freshman squad in the school's history.

Coan is also a threat in the 100. His 9.6 clocking makes him the best prospect in that event in over a decade.

Bobby Barrett, who enrolled at midterm, is rated by Weems as one of the best milers he has coached. Barrett was second at the state high school meet last year with a 4:23 clocking.

A youngster who turned in the best time in the state in the 880 is also in the Weems aggregation. He is Reagan Gasaway, who circled the track twice in 1:56 seconds.

RELIEF IS JUST A SWALLOW AWAY

Frog fans may never see this bit of half-time drama, but members of the team may witness this series of soothing actions when the Frogs tackle tough Cincinnati next week. Our sneaky photographers snapped these shots of Coach Buster Brannon during the half at Saturday night's SMU game.
