Legislators Reorganize For Summer

A committee to reorganize summer Student Congress was appointed Tuesday by President Paul Youngdale.

The group will work with a committee composed of summer Congress representatives headed by Gary Gafford, Fort Worth senior.

New members are John Tyson, Coleman senior; Jerry Johnson, Decatur, Ga., junior, Bob Patton, Fort Worth sophomore and Miss Allie Beth McMurry, Graham freshman.

Congress elected Harry Aston to replace Miss Jeanette Wertz, who resigned as Arts and Sciences representative. Miss Toni Fairley was elected to the School of Education seat vacated by Miss Ann Rapp.

Miss June Pence, Shreveport, La., junior, was elected homecoming committee chairman for 1959.

Named assistant Howdy Week chairman for next fall was Miss Linda Alexander, Fort Worth freshman.

Dr. Guenther Is Featured Soloist

Dr. Ralph Guenther of the music department faculty will be the featured soloist at the fifth concert of the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in Will Rogers Auditorium.

Guenther will play Griffes' "Poeme for Flute and Orchestra." Also on the program will be excerpts from Handel and Harty's "Water Music Suite," Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" and Sibelius' Symphony No. II.

Dr. Robert Hull, dean of the School of Fine Arts, is conductor for the orchestra.

This will be the final concert for the Fort Worth Symphony this season.

Senior Will Sing Recital

Mrs. Cynthia Davis, Fort Worth senior, will sing a voice recital at 8 p.m. March 23 in the Little Theatre.

Marie Wright, Fort Worth junior, will be the accompanist.

Southwest Rifle Title on Line

The Army ROTC Rifle Team ventures to Austin tomorrow to meet the University of Texas riflemen. By winning the match, the local sharpshooters will become the Southwest Rifle Association champions.

To this date the TCU marksmen have won every firing match in the association and also made an impressive showing last month in New Orleans at the Mardi Gras Rifle Meet.

If the match with Texas is lost, the team will share championship honors with Baylor.

Southwest Premiere

'Mary Stuart' Opens Tonight

By ANN STUBBS

The Southwestern premiere of "Mary Stuart" opening at 8 p.m. today in TCU Little Theatre is based on the conflict between Mary, played by Grace Selvin, and Queen Elizabeth, played by Elizabeth Schwarz.

"This production is less a historical and more a dramatic presentation of the conflict between two uniquely powerful women," said Cleve Haubold, costumer.

The costumes and sets are designed in a somber, forboding quality with a predominance of dark colors accented slightly by gold brocade. The effect produced emphasizes the heaviness and ornateness of the period and emphasizes intrigue and conflict.

Character aggressiveness is accented with bright shades as in the case of Sir Mortimer, played by Roger Puckett. Mortimer appears at first as a friendly sort but reveals later in his true, selfish character in a forest scene in which he throws back his cloak, exposing a bright red satin lining.

The Earl of Leicester, played by Jack Rader, and Lord Burchleigh, the strong man at the palace, played by Richard Williams, are adorned with elegant doublets.

The play, developed by Jean Stock Goldstone and John Reich from Frederick Schiller's "Maria Stuart," retains the rhythm and flow of verse, although the original language has been simplified to be more easily understandable. The Elizabethan work has been tightened and appeals more to the eye than to the ear.

As Mary awaits her execution she appears illuminated in white satin, surrounded by shadows of guards and other characters clothed in dark shades, sympathetically a beautiful and unfortunate woman.

The production is directed by Dr. Waither Volbach, assisted by Pat Wood. Stage manager is

Funds to Benefit Foreign Students, Needy Children

A goal of $1,600 for Campus Chest Week, Monday through Friday has been set, according to Bill Koberg, general chairman of the drive.

Funds received during the week, which will begin with personal contributions on Monday and wind up with a Greek Review on Saturday night, will be distributed among five charity organizations.

Organizations receiving benefits from the campaign will be World University Service, an organization to aid underprivileged children around the world; foreign students' scholarships to Jarvis Christian College; a Negro school at Hawkins, Texas; the TCU speech clinic, and the adoption of a refugee child.

Personal contributions will be gathered Monday and Tuesday in dormitories and classrooms.

The faculty will face Delta Tau Delta in a basketball game at 3 p.m. in the practice gym Wednesday.

A dance sponsored by the sophomore class in the Student Center from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. is on tap for Thursday, and Friday the SAE's will sponsor a women's track meet. Time for the meet tentatively is set for 3 p.m. The Greek Review in Ed Landreth Auditorium at 8 p.m. will conclude Saturday activities.

Each fraternity and sorority has selected a work project with benefits to go to Campus Chest, and the two organizations raising the most money will be presented with a trophy at the Greek Review. The Ugliest Man on Campus also will be presented at the Saturday show.

During the week a "thermometer" showing the progress of the drive will be kept in the Student Center lobby, and displays exhibiting the charities which will receive benefits through Campus Chest, also will be there.

'UGLIEST MAN' TO BE TABBED

In connection with the Campus Chest Week activities, the "Ugliest Man on Campus" will be selected by a vote of TCU students with votes selling for one cent each.

Each student may cast as many votes as he likes.

Nominations must be made Monday at the desk in the Student Center lobby. Voting will be held in the lobby Monday through Friday.

The winner of the annual contest will be presented Saturday, March 21, at the Greek Review which will close out Campus Chest Week.

Los Hidalgos Plays Host

High school Spanish students will be guests at the Los Hidalgos meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Room 203 of the Student Center. Colored slides of Monterey Tec will be shown and there will be singing of Spanish and Mexican songs.

Art by Durer, Faculty Will Be Shown

Twenty-two prints of reproductions of works done by German artist Albrecht Durer (1471-1525) will be on display in the TCU Art Gallery on the second floor of the Fine Arts Building.

The exhibition will open Sunday and run through April 12.

Works done by faculty members of the art department also will be included in the display.

Professors whose work will be shown are Dr. Karl Richards, McKie Trotter, Leonard Logan, Hylarie Morris, James Wozniak and Thomas Seawell.

WIND DAMAGE HIGH

The windstorm Tuesday night did considerable damage to the TCU campus. However there was not a great deal of damage to any one building.

The roof over the skylight in Ed Landreth Auditorium was blown off, shingles were blown off most roofs on campus, windows were broken and flashing was torn from many of the buildings.

Korean Family Flees Communist Intruders

By DORIS STANLEY

It was time for action. Danger was closing in like a thickening fog settling to the ground. Soon it would be too late to escape, for the Red Chinese had taken over northern China and were slowly throttling the non-Communist sympathizers in an ever-tightening Red grip throughout the Chinese mainland.

This was the situation in 1948 which many Chinese Nationalists faced. Among them was Margaret Hsueh's family. Margaret is now a graduate student in music at TCU.

In execution of the family's plan of escape, the father, along with the two older brothers, departed by boat for Formosa. Left in charge of the family home and what remained of their once-prosperous transportation business were Margaret Hsueh, her mother and a younger brother. The other family member, an older sister, was attending college in Hong Kong, a British colony, and was in relatively little danger.

Miss Hsueh recalled that it was her father's hope that once on Formosa, he would be able to re-establish his business. Consequently, some of his trucks were sent from the mainland by boat to Formosa. Inside these trucks the family hid some of their possessions in order to save them from destruction at the hands of the Reds.

In a few days Margaret Hsueh and her younger brother were placed on a plane by their mother and were flown to Formosa. The next day the mother followed, scarcely managing to escape before the Communists closed in about her.

The family, once again, was united on the island and the children's education was resumed. Margaret recalls "even through the most trying experiences, including those of World War II, our (Margaret and her older sister) music lessons continued. We loved music and many evenings the family gathered around the piano to sing while the older brothers accompanied with their violins."

In China entrance exams must be taken before a student can enter grade school. Examinations are required for entrance to junior and senior high school and college also. "This is necessary because of such stiff competition in education there," points out Miss Hsueh.

Miss Hsueh commented that while on Formosa she attended what is called a middle-school, the equivalent of junior and senior high in the states. A middle-school day lasted from 7:45 a.m. to 5 p.m. without a student's leaving the premises. The scholastic grading system there is based upon the point system, instead of the letter system used at TCU.

The piano major commented that each student in the middle-school wore a number so that if she did something wrong, the teacher simply "got your number and disciplined you accordingly."

Another characteristic of the all-girl school with the boys going to their own institution, was that each girl must wear her hair cut above her ear-tips.

Miss Hsueh, who was born in Fukien province, came to the United States in 1954 and graduated from Midwestern University in Wichita Falls on a scholarship. She came to TCU last fall to do graduate work on a graduate fellowship.

As for her major, music, the pianist modestly admits that she has collected some old Chinese melodies and written new arrangements for them.

The graduate student added "all of my brothers and sisters are now in America and I am anxiously awaiting the arrival of my parents from Formosa soon."

Air Force cadets from a 3-state area will convene on campus tomorrow for the AFROTC Drill Team Competition sponsored by the Samuel A. Anderson Squadron, Arnold Air Society of TCU.

Thirteen schools will be represented by approximately 400 cadets from Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

The competition will be held in Amon Carter Stadium beginning at noon and followed at 5:30 by an awards banquet in the Student Center. Trophies will be awarded for the best over-all unit, basic drill and fancy movements.

Guest speaker for the banquet is Dr. Saul Sells, psychology professor.

Cadet Maj. Jim White, Arnold Air Society commanding officer, said the meet is to determine which team is most proficient in both standard drill and precision drill.

He added the meet also provides for a closer and more efficient relationship between the cadet detachments in the three states.

Piano Recital Scheduled

Miss Elizabeth Ray, Hurst senior, will give a piano recital at 5 p.m. next Friday in the Little Theatre.

Included in her program will be works from Bach, Beethoven, Debussy, Toch and Chopin.

Miss Harriette Massey, Baytown freshman, was elected Air Force ROTC Sweetheart from among the members of Angel Flight. She was crowned at the Air Force Ball last Friday. Miss Massey is 19 years old, a member of Chi Omega and an elementary education major. She attended Robert E. Lee High School. Duchesses were Miss Dianna Leath, Jacksonville sophomore, and Miss Lynda Childress, Plainview freshman.

Theme Selected for Dance

"Spring Around the World" is the theme of the 1959 Spring Formal scheduled for Thursday night, April 9.

Les Brown and his orchestra will play for the formal event which will be held in the Student Center.

Plans for decorations are being formulated by the decorations committee, headed by Miss Janice Michener, Midland senior. A French cafe will be represented in the Cafeteria, the Ballroom will exhibit characteristics of southern gardens and the beauty of a Japanese garden will be depicted in Room 300.

Dept. Names Psychologist

Dr. Malcolm D. Arnoult of New Orleans, La., has been named associate professor of psychology at TCU effective in September.

He took his BA degree in psychology from Tulane University in 1943, also receiving his master's degree there in 1948.

Arnoult, 36, was a teaching fellow from 1948-50 at the University of Texas where he received his PHD degree in 1951.

DON DANNIT, WE AIN'T WILL

TCU's newly dedicated business building was almost renamed last week—at least in TWC's student newspaper, the Rambler.

A galley proof of a story printed in the publication concerning TCU's dedication of four buildings referred to the structure as "Don Rogers Hall."

A sharp Rambler staffer, sensing the mistake and striving to rid the newspaper of journalism's evil error, painstakingly marked out "Don."

Then displaying a true journalistic touch, the student replaced the deleted name by laboriously penciling in "Will."

Officers to Interview Coed Marine Prospects

Coeds interested in becoming commissioned officers in the Marine Corps Women Officers Training Program have been invited to meet with representatives Major Elaine Carville and Captain Constance Baker who will be on campus March 16-17.

Major Carville and Captain Baker, 8th Marine Corps Reserve & Recruitment District Women Procurement Officers, will interview women on several campuses and make recommendations for a limited number of commissions for college women.

HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that, small and spongy as I am, anybody who says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound thrashing!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom. But if, by pure chance, while a girl is engaged in these meritorious pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband? A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing—bar none—in a husband is health. Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Croesus, what good is he if he just lies around all day accumulating bedsores?

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure he is sound of wind and limb. Before he has a chance to sweet-talk you, slap a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, rap his patella, palpate his thorax, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails these simple tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't take a joke is a man to be avoided. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can take a joke or not. You can, for example, slash his tires. Or burn his "Mad" comics. Or steal his switchblade. Or turn loose his pet raccoon. Or shave his head.

After each of these good-natured pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool!" If he replies, "But this is February nineteenth," or something equally churlish, cross him off your list and give thanks you found out in time.

But if he laughs silverly and calls you "Little minx!" put him to the next test. Find out whether he is kindly.

The quickest way to ascertain his kindness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it clement? Is it humane? Does it minister tenderly to the psyche? Does it coddle the synapses? Is it a good companion? Is it genial? Is it bright and friendly and full of dulcet pleasure from cockcrow till the heart of darkness?

Is it, in short, Philip Morris?

If Philip Morris it be, then clasp the man to your bosom with hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is kindly as a summer breeze, kindly as a mother's kiss, kindly to his very marrow.

And now, having found a man who is kindly and healthy and blessed with a sense of humor, the only thing that remains is to make sure he will always earn a handsome living. That, fortunately, is easy. Just enroll him in engineering. © 1959, Max Shulman

Don't Be a Mullet

Clothing salesmen have a name for people who say they'll think it over, and come back. They call these people "be backs" or "mullets" (from "mull it over"). If the truth were known, all this soul searching doesn't lead to being well dressed. In fact, one seldom sees a mullet with really good taste; that's why they are always in an agony of indecision. Decide on the broad canons of taste, learn to judge individual items of clothing by these rules, and make your decisions quickly. Then you'll never be a mullet.

Woods and Waters

By GEORGE GOULD

Usually when the fish aren't biting, a group of fishermen will sit around and try to figure out just what the trouble is. The average fisherman may not be an aquatic biologist, but sometimes he knows where the problem lies.

In the case of most lakes in the Fort Worth area there seems to be several factors that are hindering good fishing. The most obvious of all is the heavy traffic that has swooped down from practically nowhere in the past couple of years. More people are turning to water sports and boating has become one of America's favorite pastimes. Fishermen on the shore are constantly bothered by water jockies who like to see just how close they can cut into shore without fouling up the lines. Waves knock your line, and sometimes it's difficult to tell if you have a bite.

The boats themselves aren't what bother people, it's the inconsiderate person running them.

The problem of enough natural feed in local lakes doesn't exist. Bass and crappie fill themselves on shad that run in schools all through the lakes and streams. In some areas, the situation has developed into a major conservation problem. The Texas Game and Fish Commission has attempted to solve this problem by "thinning" out the shad population. The last experiment was performed in Lake Whitney, but with negative results.

Recently I saw a fisherman who had given up all hopes of catching anything and was packing his gear. He took his minnow bucket and dumped it out upon the grass behind him. I asked him why he didn't put them in the lake. He remarked, "If those fish get any more to eat, no one will catch anything." The fish that were being caught, and they were few and far between, were being taken on minnows fished off the bottom.

TCU's Southwest Conference champion cagers fared quite well in gaining selections on numerous all-conference teams recently picked.

H. E. Kirchner, who won the scoring and rebounding crown, was everybody's unanimous choice as he made both wire service teams.

Ronny Stevenson also found himself repeating from last year as an all-conference performer. He was selected on the UPI's first five. He also got second team honors with the AP.

Derrill Nippert and Ken Brunson were named to several second teams and got honorable mention on all the squads.

Ken King was selected as the loop's outstanding defensive player by the Dallas Morning News and was termed the most underrated cager in the SWC by a Waco paper.

Brannon, however, cautioned the team not to concentrate on isolating the main thunderhead. "If we do, then the other four will run us down."

"We've got the boys that love to play basketball and we'll do all right up there," he went on to say. "We're rarin' to go."

In any event TCU will play again Saturday, either in the championship or consolation bracket. WBAP-820 will carry the final game Saturday night.

Weems' Wog Track Team Running in Big Rec Meet

By GORDON PYNES

Track Coach J. Eddie Weems unveils his pride and joy Saturday afternoon when his freshman team opens the season in the Southwest Recreational track meet here. The varsity, which opened last week at the Border Olympics, is also due to participate in the big gathering.

A strenuous recruiting job last spring gives TCU its best Wog team in history, possibly.

First-year Froggies entered are Bert Coan, the flashy sprinter who'll tie up in one of the big duels of the day with Baylor Speedster Tommy Minter in the 100 and 220. Glen McCrosky is also to run the dashes for the Wogs.

These two, along with Mike Loudermilk and Saul Pullman, will compose a sprint relay team.

Bobby Bernard, fresh off the basketball court, is a good bet to show well in his specialty, the 120 high hurdles.

Miler Bobby Barrett will make his college debut in what may well be the best frosh race of the day. He'll face an old high school nemesis, John Cooper of North Texas, in the four-lapper.

It was Cooper who edged Bobby for the state schoolboy crown last spring and he would like very much to even up the score Saturday.

Al Hizer and Mickey Alcorn will be entered in the open 440 race and each is slated for a stint on the mile relay.

Reagan Gasaway meets a strong half-mile field but the talented distance man may well be up to taking the race. He'll also help on the mile relay.

Varsity entrants are James Livergood and Joe Douglas in the 880. Livergood won the Rec two years ago and could do it again.

Kelly Westlake will try the 220 low hurdles; Aubrey Linne, who cleared 6-2 last week with little practice, is in the high jump. Others to compete are Vaulter Mike Howell, John Cantrell in the discus, and Lafayette Heath in the 440.

Heath, Douglas, Westlake and Livergood will team for a mile relay. They posted a fine 3:21 last week.

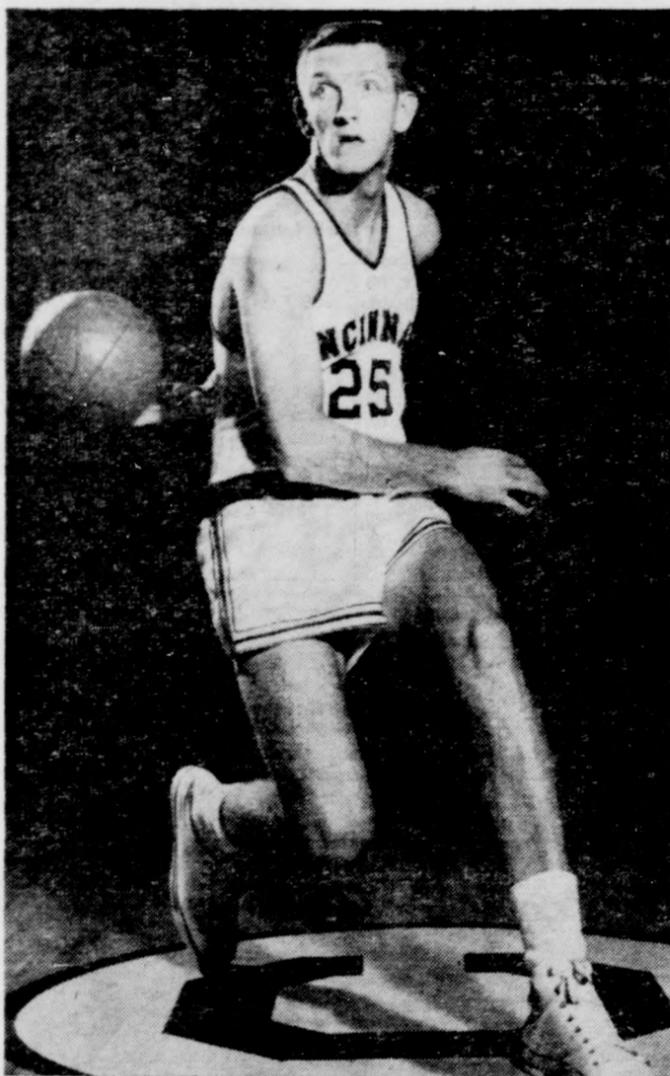

Golfers Eye Title

After seeing Charles Coody take the individual Border Olympics golf crown, Coach Tom Prouse has high hopes of seeing his team take not only the individual but the team trophy in this weekend's Southwest Recreational Meet.

Border Champion Houston won't be on hand for this one but Prouse still sees a struggle for his team with Texas Tech and North Texas, who edged the Frog linksmen last week.

Coody will team with Don Massengale, last spring's SWC winner, Jerry Johnson and Frank Mackey in this week's tourney.

The big affair will be held on the Meadowbrook fairways and gets underway Friday.

WBAP Airs Cincy Tilt

By JACK HARKRIDER

TCU's regional NCAA basketball contest with the University of Cincinnati Bearcats will be carried over radio station WBAP-570, Friday starting at 7:30 p.m.

According to the weather forecast and radar report, high scores and turbulent action will definitely be predominant in the encounter.

Flying arms and basketballs are expected to prevail in the basket area and a line extending between "Big O" Robertson and "Big H" Kirchner. Caution is advised as there appears to be tornado-like action centered around Ralph Davis, the Bearcats' hustling guard and Kenneth Brunson, the Frogs' capable defensive ball handler.

Fortunately for the Frogs, a concentrated line of activity by the name of Mike Mendenhall, has moved out of the Cincy guard area due to ineligibility. Mendenhall was one of the Bearcats' top scorers, defensive men and a team co-captain.

Also increasing the likelihood of violent action, is a Purple storm, Kenneth King, who will move into the "Big O" area and is expected to somewhat counteract the possible damage of the Cincinnati storm.

The head forecaster of the big storm from the Southwest Conference, Coach Buster Brannon, has predicted that both storms are at the height of their activity and extends the possibility that the SWC champions will have enough potential to force the Ohio big wind into complete submission.

The biggest worry, according to Brannon and other forecasters, will be the isolating of Oscar Robertson, Cincy's main thunderhead. Assistant Forecaster Johnny Swaim labeled the "Big Turn to FROGS on Page 7

JAMES' DEATH GREAT LOSS TO SWC, CAGERS AGREE

TCU's basketballers took time out from NCAA playoff preparation to express their respect for SMU Cage Star Bobby James, who died in a fire Sunday.

Derrill Nippert, who had developed a friendship with James, called him "the best basketball player I ever faced. He had a great attitude and always kept a cool temper during any game."

"I never had to guard a tougher man," declared Ronny Stevenson. "He had tremendous ability and was as nice a guy as you could ever meet."

Hail, King Buster

Cage Coach Buster Brannon added another feather to his cap this week when he was chosen as "Citizen of the Week" by radio station KLIF.

Owner Gordon McClendon lauded Brannon for "returning to his alma mater and raising it to basketball fame and greatness."

Three Losses in Row Plague Froggie Nine

Rabbit McDowell's injury- and eligibility-riddled Horned Frog baseball team will be out to break a 3-game losing streak Friday when it plays host to the Baylor Bears in a non-conference game at 2 p.m.

Two starting outfielders, I. B. Childs and Jim Walker, are still on the injured list, but may get to see some action Friday.

The ineligible player is John Floyd, a right-hander who McDowell had hoped would be a big aid to the pitching staff this spring.

Floyd started at TCU in 1955, but transferred to Kansas State at midterm. He came out for baseball here last year but was ineligible. Now he has been ruled ineligible again.

Walker and Childs both suffered leg injuries in last week's 2-game series with Texas Lutheran at Seguin.

The Frogs lost the last game to the Lutes, then dropped two straight to Southern Methodist. In the two games with SMU they committed 10 errors in the field. The Frogs will go to Waco Saturday for an afternoon game with the Bears.

They play host to an always tough Carswell Air Force Base team Monday, then meet the University of Oklahoma here Tuesday.

The Southwest Conference championship race will begin March 21 with the Frogs at Baylor. Their first league game at home will be against Rice March 24.
