New Courses In Physics Are Planned

Four new courses will be offered in the physics department beginning next fall.

The department has reorganized its major undergraduate offerings to include the following: Physics 434, "Electronics"; Physics 342, "Electricity and Magnetism"; Physics 143, "Physical Measurements," and Physics 344, "Modern Physics."

"These courses are required of all physics majors and are open to physics minors and others desiring to pursue these studies," Dr. Joseph Morgan, chairman of the department of physics, said.

He explains that these courses, along with the courses in "General Physics," "Optics," "Mechanics" and "Thermodynamics" are designed to satisfy a four-fold purpose. This is "to provide the subject matter and disciplines inherent in the field of physics both to the physics major and to majors in other fields, and to provide the undergraduate physics major with a training that will enable him to fit into modern industry and professional work on a high level, this technical training being superimposed on a broad liberal arts base." Dr. Morgan went on to say that other purposes are "to equip the undergraduate physics major so as to enable him to go on to significant graduate study and research."

Geologists Attend Meeting

Members of the TCU geology department are attending the 44th annual national meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium today.

"Fundamentals of Oil Finding" is the theme of the four-day meeting which began Monday. It will close tomorrow.

A three-dimensional display prepared by members of the TCU Geology Club is on exhibition at the conference along with displays prepared by other colleges and various companies.

A TCU geology exes' luncheon was held in Dallas yesterday in connection with the petroleum conference.

Fifty exes from as far back as the class of 1926 attended.

Also attending were Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Winton. Dr. Winton was chairman of the departments of geology and biology here for 45 years. Mrs. Winton was instructor in the departments for the same period.

Dr. Winton, who retired in 1956 and his wife, who retired in 1958, came as the guests of L. R. (Dutch) Meyer, a graduate of the geology department here.

But soft! What taste from yonder FILTER-BLEND ...

IT'S WHAT'S UP FRONT THAT COUNTS

This filter, be it e'er so pure and white
Must needs give flavor too, full clear and bright
Else would the trusting smoker, filled with hope
Again be dashed, dejected be... and mope.

And thus we come to Winston's obvious truth
It's what's up front that counts—and 'tis, forsooth
In that the fine tobaccos, in the end
Are by exclusive process—Filter-Blend—
Become the tastiest taste that e'er hath played
Across your dancing taste-buds, man or maid!

Be ye not slow, therefore, to test the wit
Of what we say: that Winston, friend, is it;
For that with ev'ry smoke ye do delay
Ye are not gath'ring rosebuds while ye may!

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Supreme Being Oath

Legislation proposed in Austin recently that would require state-supported college instructors to sign an oath proclaiming their belief in a Supreme Being has apparently been smothered by more demanding legislative matters.

The comment-stirring bill probably will receive few positive votes if the measure is presented formally to Texas solons.

But the measure does point up one serious weakness, the Skiff believes, in Article I, Section 4 of the Texas Constitution which states:

"No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification for any office or public trust in this state, nor can anyone be excluded from holding office on account of religious beliefs provided he acknowledges the existence of a Supreme Being."

This article, which on the one hand promises that no religious test shall ever be required and on the other hand stipulates that one must acknowledge the existence of God, seemingly contradicts itself.

The bill, currently shelved by the Legislature due to strong demands for favorable legislation by teachers and other groups, may be forgotten before the law-making body is dismissed in a few weeks.

The Skiff, however, hopes to see the bill discussed by the Austin delegates so that the full meaning of Article I, Section 4 might be clarified.

Education Express

Speeding forward like a crack passenger express train, the University's accelerated education program will include the offering of the doctor of philosophy degree beginning this fall.

This decision to offer Ph.D. work recently was made by the TCU Board of Trustees. As the University moves into the field of providing advanced education for doctorates, it is making a major move forward academically.

The trustees' decision culminated a long and careful study regarding advanced work. This in turn will mean the University's national academic standing will jump several pegs over many sister universities not offering doctorate work.

TCU students will be able to continue their education on the Hill instead of having to attend the University of Texas or some other institution. New professors especially trained for instructing in Ph.D. work will raise the faculty's already high standing still higher.

Now TCU will be as attractive to student scholars as it has been and is to the state's finest athletes who have kept the University in the national spotlight sports-wise.

President M. E. Sadler's longtime dream of doctorate work at TCU soon will become a reality. And doubtless not far behind will come the highly coveted Phi Beta Kappa recognition. The standards of education are being raised each year to rival the finest colleges and universities in the land.

The highest commendations are due Dr. Sadler and his associates in helping TCU to a top position in the field of education as well as the sports field. The express of progress is speeding faster; no reason to stop it now.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

SW Campus Confidential

SMU—

In the dry wastes of Dallas Hall, the Campus relates, there is a story circulating of a student, in a fit of thirst, leaping from a window in an attempt to reach Hyer Hall and a working water fountain.

This student probably had grown weary of looking in the Dallas Hall "water holes" and seeing only a card saying "No water, thank you."

It is difficult to understand why the writer of these signs wants to "thank" the student for not being able to get a drink. But, who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of the janitors who control the water?

In answer to a recent charge of atheism at SMU made by legislators, an SMU professor said, "It is my belief that we don't have any atheists teaching here at SMU. I don't think that I've seen a real live atheist (or an intelligent legislator either, for that matter) this side of the Mississippi."

THE SCORE

In Heat of Battle

By PAT BECKHAM

Browsing through Skiffs of bygone days, we came upon some priceless words, recorded for posterity.

As the Great War neared its climax in March, 1945, a Skiff editorial pointed out the hardships of obtaining and value of having a degree.

"The diploma isn't all that comes from this prolonged fever," said the editorial. "Unless you are lower than a Jap Aggie, you also will learn lifelong and valuable friendships while at TCU."

An earlier brightener in '45 told a story present-day Hill residents may have heard first hand.

"Students in Dr. H. R. Mundehenke's 'Applied Economics' class the other day were studying salaries paid to various famous people as compared with the value of the individual's ability.

"Dr. Mundehenke pointed out that President Roosevelt was paid $75,000 annually, while Mae West received $325,000.

"How do you think their abilities compare?" he asked.

"The students pondered the matter. Then Barbara Medford finally answered.

"That's according to what you compare!"

"Lights, lights, lights! All you can see around the campus after 9 p.m. is lights!" relates a mid-WWII Skiff quote.

"Everyone agrees—TCU is in danger of losing its standing as 'Texas Courting University' if any more lights are installed on the campus."

Again in an editorial, the word comes out:

"The letters TCU have not lost their double meaning 'Texas Courtin' University' still is living up to its name.

"Spring, it seems, comes to TCU in March and stays until February."

"If you can translate Japanese, your country has need of you," a '44 Skiff ad promised.

"Spring has sprung,
 The grass is riz.
 I wonder where the flowers is!"

With those lines of verse, a post-war prof assured his romantic class that, although he didn't wish to disillusion them, two cannot live as cheaply as one!

A&M—

The Aggie newspaper reports that like bailing wire, The Battalion can be used for almost anything.

Recently several copies of the paper were used for bases in a squadron softball game. After an hour of taking a beating from the running and sliding players the "Batts" were scattered all over the diamond.

TEXAS TECH—

"At Rice, the sophomores went 'beatnik,' and invited the rest of the student body to come along," the Toreador explains.

"This beatnik kick was the theme of the sophomore dance Saturday night as students gathered at the 'Chartreuse Pickle' to indulge in all sorts of activities, from dancing to hearing beatnik poetry recited by two male students.

"Before the event occurred, it was announced that plenty of cushions would be available for floor-lounging, and Leo Baxter's orchestra would be available for background music."

If there is a shortage of mump shots in Lubbock, it probably can be traced to Carolyn Symes, La Vantana beauty, and her Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters.

Miss Symes complained of a sore jaw in a recent chapter meeting. This quickly was diagnosed as an abscessed tooth by her sisters.

However, the next day Miss Symes revealed the "good news." She had exposed the whole chapter to the mumps.

ARKANSAS—

"Confusion, closed sections and chaos sum up registration once more and suddenly it's bookstore time. The University bookstore is the only non-profit institution in the world—it's amazing how they are able to operate without any money," the Traveler relates.

TEXAS—

Dr. Keith Young was explaining basic historical geology to his Geology 610b class.

"Actually," he said, "it's hard to get this without a lot of math background.

"Nowadays, mathematic understanding is getting to be important to everyone," he commented.

"Why, I don't even have enough math," he concluded, "to understand the new television commercials!"

Two 3-Dimensional Models

Students Show Club Project In Dallas Geology Meeting

By J'NELL ROGERS

Two 3x6 feet paper mache models constitute a display project which members of the TCU Geology Club have been working on since last November.

The display consists of one model of the bird's foot portion of the modern delta of the Mississippi River. The other model is of an ancient Bedford delta which was deposited in Central Ohio during the Mississippian Period of the geologic past.

They are to be exhibited at the 44th annual meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists which began in Dallas Monday. The exhibit will be shown in the Dallas Memorial Auditorium throughout the four-day conference which closes tomorrow.

The American Association of Petroleum Geologists, the largest geological society in the world, has chosen as the theme of their technical program the subject, "Fundamentals of Oil Finding."

This will be the first time that TCU has prepared a display for the meeting, because this is the first time which the conference has been held in this area in a number of years.

"One of the fundamentals of oil finding is to compare recent sediments with ancient sediments so that the conditions of deposition under which the ancient sediments accumulated may be better understood," Dr. Edward Heuer, associate professor of geology, said. Such a comparison is the subject of the display.

It compares the recent sediments of the Mississippi Delta with the ancient sediments of the Bedford Delta of the Mississippi age. The sediments which compose the ancient delta contain valuable deposits of oil and gas which are presently being exploited.

"The display draws a comparison between the modern delta and the ancient delta to yield clues that may lead toward the location of other ancient deltas in the geological column that might also contain oil and gas," Heuer added.

Colors in the two models vary to indicate the different types of sediment to be found in the deltas. Displayed behind them will be an illustration of a cross section of the deltas, showing the nature and the distribution of sediment.

Exhibits at the Dallas geological meeting are of two classes, educational and commercial. The TCU project is of the former type. Various companies have prepared commercial exhibits for advertising purposes.

"There are several reasons for our building such a display," Heuer said. "We used the comparison which we did to comply with the theme of the geological meeting, 'Fundamentals of Oil Finding'."

"A second reason was to contribute to the education of the students working on the project. They did a lot of research in books and geological periodicals before attempting even the drawing of the models."

The Geology Club members were able to take the data they learned from this research and to construct the 3-dimensional picture from it.

"Another purpose of the project," Heuer added, "is to bring to the attention of members of the geological profession the quality of work which students of the geology department here do."

Is It Superman?

It's a Bird! It's a Plane! No! It's Flunkin' Freddie

By LYNN SWANN

Flunkin' Freddie, a TCU freshman, has just received four failing slips and now has decided it is time for all good students to go to the aid of their books.

We find Freddie in his room with the study lamp at 33 degrees and the hi-fi flowing forth with smooth "Music to Study By." Gathering his books together, he sits down at his desk and falls asleep.

An hour later, Freddie awakens and repeats his ritual of study preparation. However, his plans for study are thwarted when three of his friends burst into his room and throw "poor ole" Fred in the shower. But our hero is determined and also good-natured.

Since the dorm was obviously no place to stay, our 4-F Kid (four failures) decides the Library is the logical site.

Now, 4-F Freddie must be having an off day, because when he walks in the library door he drops his largest book. This is not recommended as an attention-getter.

He consults the floor plan diagram for a small, quiet room. Finding one, he leaps up a flight of stairs as only a flunkin' freshman can do and strolls through rows of books only to find his room marked "Ladies."

Club Invites Guests

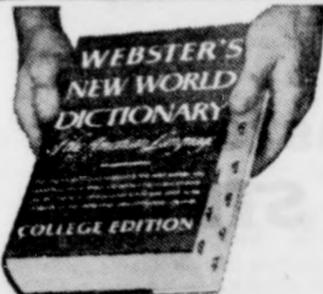

Los Hidalgos will meet in Room 205 in the Student Center at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. Fort Worth high school students have been invited to attend the meeting to see slides on Monterey Tec. Penny Disney, McAllen junior, will do some Mexican dances.

Who He?

Last week in a typing class, two male students were discussing the upcoming NCAA game between TCU and Cincinnati. During the course of the conversation, Oscar Robertson's name was mentioned.

A freshman coed inquired, "Who is he?"

"Why that's the best player Cincinnati has got," was the reply. "You mean that you have never heard of the 'Big O'?"

"Yes, on television," she countered, "but I'm surprised they let a boy who smokes play on their team, much less advertise it."

YOURS TRULY,

Library Suggestion

Editor, The Skiff:

For many students, the weekend is a time to catch up on their lessons. For a few, perhaps, it is a time to get ahead in their studies. Nevertheless, this 2-day interim between the week's classes is a good time to get some serious studying done. Needless to say, dormitory noise and confusion is hardly conducive to study. Many students are, therefore, forced to retreat to the small, often overcrowded rooms in the Student Center.

While the Student Center remains open on weekends, the Library, except for a few hours on Saturday, is closed. The Library is, or should be, the most important building on any campus. At other colleges and universities it is located at the center of the campus and is the center of campus activity. Not so at TCU, however. The Student Center takes first place with flying colors. Too bad, and such a new and beautiful place to study.

Since this is an institution of higher learning, why don't we see if we can get the Library open over the weekends. I feel quite sure that those students who are here to get educated will agree with me. How about these hours for the Library: Saturday 8 to 5, and Sunday 1 to 5.

Yours, truly, BOB WALKER.

Mid-Week REPORT

By BOB SCHIEFFER

That problem Abe Martin is faced with is not a new one. (Having three quarterbacks each adept at one particular phase of the man-under duties.)

Another coach was faced with about the same situation several years ago at a tiny high school in deep East Texas.

Seems the local bunch was having quite a time finding a quarterback and the first game was only two days away. There were only twelve men on the squad and each had been given his chance but nobody could produce.

There was one fellow who could throw the ball pretty good, another who could run fairly well and another who couldn't do either with much skill but did know a little football and could remember the plays.

Still the coach was in a quandary. There were no practice games and no chances to experiment.

Then one day a short stocky little fellow wearing shower shoes, a white T-shirt and levis was brought to the coach's office and although no one believed it then, he filled the bill quite well for a time.

He stood only four feet six and he had arms of a tremendous span that hung nearly to his knees and with a receding forehead plus his big shiny teeth behind thick lips, he was a comical sight to behold.

They arranged a tryout for him (more as a joke than anything else) but inside of 15 minutes the smiles had all been erased and replaced with stunned looks of glee.

The new candidate, Smiley, as he was later called, circled the field time after time and was never brought down. After 30 minutes the rest of the team flopped on the grass, exhausted, as Smiley just grunted and bared his shiny teeth.

The coach was sold.

He gave Smiley's friend the necessary papers to fill out while the little fellow showered and changed into street clothes.

Smiley's performance that opening night had never been, and probably never will be, duplicated in Texas schoolboy football. He put on the greatest one-man show ever witnessed until midway in the fourth quarter when it happened.

Smiley had just taken a breather after scoring his twelfth touchdown when there was a terrible crash near the railroad tracks to the north of the field. Smiley stopped as if smacked in the face with a brickbat, sniffed the air and jumped the sideline barrier, headed through the bleacher corridor and disappeared in the direction of the noise.

It took the local folks longer to figure out the answer than it does for me to tell it, but here's what they pieced together.

The crash had been a circus train passing through. The monkey cage had been shattered and Smiley had at last found one of his own kind. He grabbed a sheape by the hand and frolicked off toward a nearby wood.

The last time the two lovers were heard from they were doing nicely and had set up house-keeping in a tree 14 miles south of Alvarado.

Rabbit Smiles; Frogs Worthwhile, Get 13

By JOHN SHIELDS

Rabbit McDowell is as proud as a country boy with his first pair of shoes. And he should be. His Frogs put on their hitting bonnets and displayed a style to out-do those once-a-year church goers on Easter Sunday.

McDowell is only hoping Monday afternoon's 13-hit barrage won't be just a 1-day stand.

It came about in a 12-2 run-away over Carswell Air Force Base Monday afternoon.

"They were hitting that ball in the clutch and producing those runs," the baseball mentor said, "and that's what we've got to have to win."

The Frogs have been scrounging about four or five safeties in their previous outings, but Monday they buried Carswell pitcher

McDOWELL . . . mighty happy

Saturday is the conference lifter with Baylor.

Second baseman Charles Franklin banged out three hits in five at bats and pilfered two bases to lead the Frog attack.

Little George Banda also played bandit by taking two steals while McDowan wasn't looking.

Going the first six innings was a newcomer for the Frogs, Merle Littlefield. He gave up two runs on four hits while earning the decision before being lifted in favor of another right hander, Ben Shelton.

He told freshman football coach Fred Taylor that he would sign a letter of intention as soon as the current track season is finished.

Sportswriters Cite Kirchner As MVP

TCU's all-conference center, H. E. Kirchner, has tacked another award to his collection board. The most recent is the Look Magazine "Most Valuable Player" award for the western regional NCAA district.

Kirchner was named this week by the United States Basketball Writers Association.

The 6-10 Houston product led the SWC cagers in scoring this season as he paced the Frogs to the bunting.

er Richard McKowan on the mound in their assault.

"The boys were swinging at good pitches," related McDowell, "and keeping their eye on the pill."

Good hitting wasn't the only mark etched on the diamond.

That error plague that had been following the McDowell Men for the last six games was reduced slightly. The Froggies only booted one.

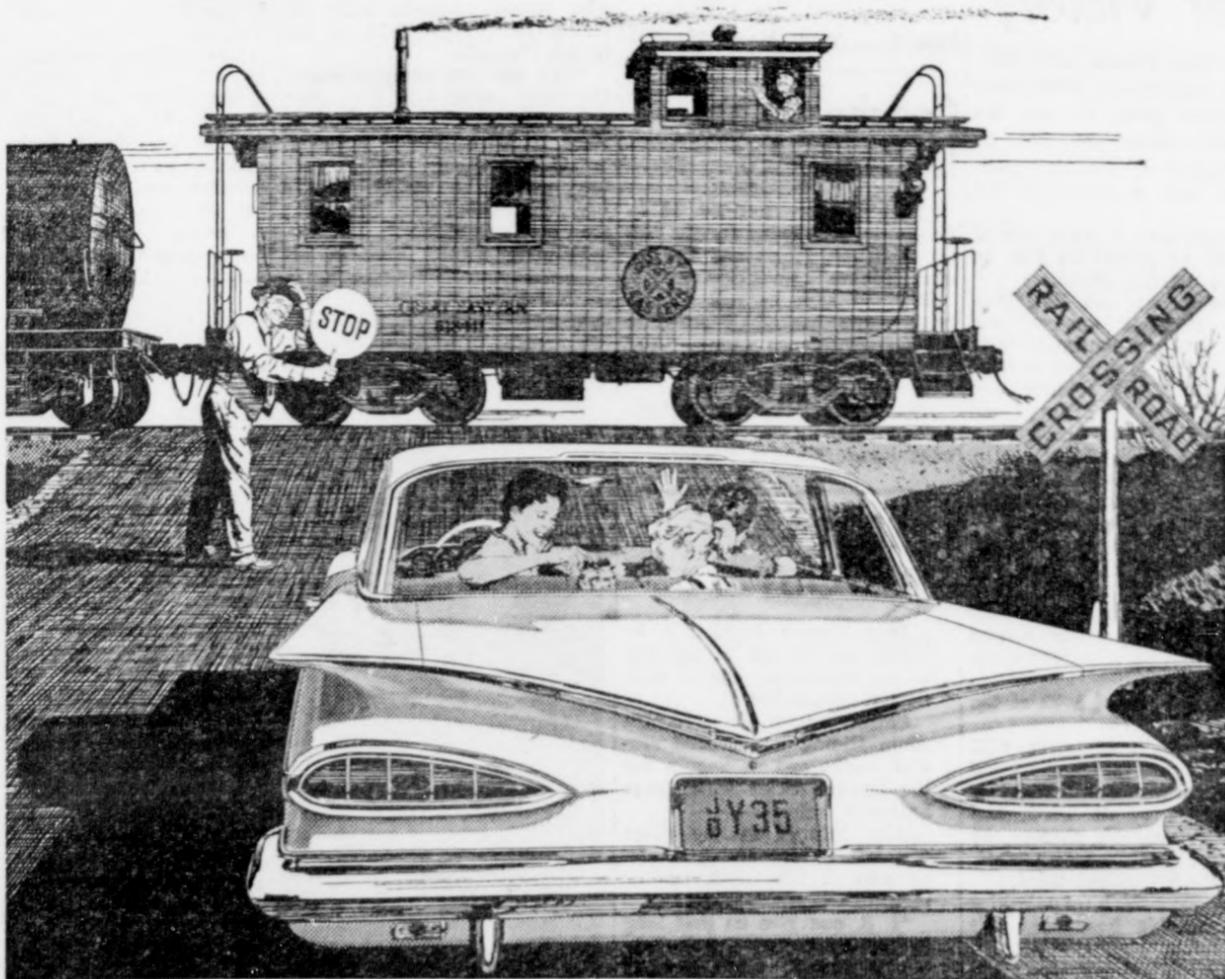

"Our infield does look better," drawled McDowell, "but then they haven't had many chances at the ball."

PROFS FEELING OATS AGAIN

JIM BROCK, JAMES FARRAR . . . they're ready for Delts

By BOB SCHEFFER
and BOB BULLOCK

Faculty members, still gloating about their victory over the intramural football champs, will try to pull off a similar stunt at 3 p.m. today when they face Delta Tau Delta in a basketball game of sorts.

The pedagogue squad will emerge from their musty little dens about midday and troop by one's and two's to the Practice Gymnasium, which has been designated battle site of the game, for benefit of Campus Chest.

History Prof. Ben Procter, spokesman for the group, says his team is in good spirits for the scrap.

"Fact is," says the Big P, "this bunch is asking no quarter (except the 25-cent admission) and is giving none."

"We do feel we'll have to make one concession, though, we won't start any player over 65."

The team is in top shape except for Jim Brock, sports publicity director.

Johnny Swaim, frosh basketball coach, mistook Brock for the ball during a workout and dribbled the little feller half way down the court before Brock was able to shake free.

Swaim was promptly demoted to the second team with instructions to see an eye doctor.

Brock will be joined in the starting lineup by Wesleyan Foundation Director Ken Glassen, Joe Hearn, who handles veterans' affairs on campus, Religious Director Jim Farrar and Procter.

Farrar will be playing under extra pressure; his wife has demanded that he give up the game if he doesn't letter this year.

Swivel-hipped Vernon Hallbeck will get first call from the sidelines. The former Frog footballer also will tend the water barrel and keep spectators off the players' bench.

Assistant Dean of Women, JoAnn James and Joan Jenkins, English instructor, will supply cheers under the direction of E. C. Polk, also of English.

Polk is being brought back by popular demand, Procter says, after stirring faculty rooters to near frenzy during the football game last fall.

The genial pep leader has authored a new yell for the occasion.

It's a sonnet-type cheer titled, "Waste no time to win with haste . . . but use good taste."

Dr. Marguerite Potter will head the officiating corps.

"I'm serving as parliamentarian," she said yesterday, as she slipped into a pair of old sneakers.

The Delta Tau Deltas apparently aren't too worried about the faculty strength.

One of their number said this week, that:

"We are stout-hearted, red-blooded f--- and 100 per cent American youths and we have nothing to fear, besides, the scorekeeper is one of our pledges who transferred in at midterm from Texas Tech.

Frog Golf Stock Soars After Victory

Coach Tom Prouse isn't making any out-and-out predictions about who's going to win the SWC golf chase yet, but he does admit that, "two hot golfers can send a team all the way."

It doesn't take a gypsy crystal ball gazer to guess the two he might be talking about.

Charles Coody and Don Massengale, Prouse's number one and two swingers continued their blistering pace last week as they teamed with Jerry Johnson and Frank Mackey to bring home TCU's fourth Meadowbrook Tournament title since 1941.

Coody posted another 69, his second in two weeks, to lead the four-man team to victory.

The 69 was good for a tie for medalist honors with Jerry Edwards, TWC's fine golfer who is current city links champ. Edwards however, took the honors with a birdie in a sudden-death playoff.

Massengale carded a 72 at the tourney.

Jerry Johnson came in with a 77 and Frank Mackey carded a 79 for a team total of 297.

The Frogs edged TWC, last year's Meadowbrook champs, by one stroke.

Texas Tech finished third. Prouse says Tech and Baylor will be his big headaches this year.

"Of course you just can't tell who'll do what on any day," he said.

In addition to copping the title, the Frogs' Mike Walling, a freshman, won the long-driving contest. Later he went to the greens to take the pitch-and-putt title.

The varsity will take a week off before heading to Houston March 26 for the Southwest Invitational Tournament.

Coaches Meet In Kentucky

Coach Buster Brannon is in Louisville, Ky., today for the National NCAA Finals and the annual coaches' convention.

Brannon says he will set up next year's basketball schedule for non-conference games. "And I'll be watching Cincinnati work their way to the title."

"We'll also have an opportunity to talk about the referees for next season," added Brannon.

CHILDS STILL OUT

Frog Center Fielder I. B. Childs is still out of uniform as the conference opener with Baylor approaches.

Childs injured his left ankle while sliding into second several weeks ago in Seguin for the 2-game series with Texas Lutheran college.

Also injured in the game was left fielder Jimmy Walker who is now back on his feet.

"I. B. can give us that long ball," commented Coach Rabbit McDowell, who's anxious to get the Poly product back in the lineup, "and we can always use that."

Trainer Elmer Brown says he's not sure when Childs will be back in full strength. He tapes the injured ankle and applies therapy treatments daily, in an attempt to reduce swelling.

Sooners Defeat SMU

The SMU Mustangs lost their first game of the season Monday as the Oklahoma Sooners blasted Pony pitchers for 14 hits. Mustang center fielder Glyn Gregory hit a home run in the seventh but it wasn't enough for the 14-7 defeat.

Big 'O' Just Kept Rollin' Along, Moans Purple Coach Brannon

By JOHN SHIELDS

"He's not All-America, he's All-World."

This sums up Coach Buster Brannon's sentiments about Cincinnati's 2-time All-America Oscar Robertson. It was Robertson who, almost single-handedly defeated the Frogs 77-73 in the NCAA play-offs.

"He's just the greatest player I've ever seen, and I've been going to basketball tournaments since 1939," continued Brannon.

"He can shoot, run, pass or feed under the basket. There's just no stopping him. I've never seen the likes of him."

Brannon leaned back in his wooden chair and recalled the first game in the tournament as he relaxed in his office.

"We had a real good chance, but those bad breaks just ruined us," added the TCU cage mentor.

Undoubtedly one of those bad breaks Brannon referred to was a referee's decision with six or seven minutes remaining in the game.

The referee called blue (referring to TCU) and the Frogs charged towards the basket. The official, however, changed his decision on the out-of-bounds ball and called white.

He then handed the ball to a Cincy player who threw it in court. The result was a quick two points that pulled the Bearcats to within one point of the front-running Frogs.

That was the one spark Cincinnati needed.

At any rate, it's all over for the Frogs.

"The boys did all right," spoke Brannon. "Kirchner and Ronny (Stevenson) did us a great job. Tyler turned in a good game, too. Brunson did us a good job defensively."

The Frogs didn't leave Lawrence empty handed. They defeated DePaul University, 71-65, in the consolation game to take third place.

'PRIVATE RANCH WEEK' PLANS FIZZLE

Plans for a "Private Ranch Week" tonight, at a west-side dance pavilion flopped when a group of about 50 students who had ramrodded the affair called it off "for the good of everybody concerned."

Rumors circulating on campus this week indicated the celebration would be sponsored by a group who had rented the pavilion and planned to sell admission tickets.

However one student who admitted he was an organizer disclosed yesterday, that "We've just decided to forget it; it didn't work out."

In other developments on the situation this week:

1. Signs proclaiming the affair would be held were replaced by a crudely drawn poster which reads, "Ranch Week has been called off because the damned Administration found out." (signed) The Sheriff.

2. Football Coach Abe Martin warned his players to shy away from such an affair.

Dean of Students Laurence Smith admitted the Administration knew of the proposed dance but indicated they would make no move to stop it. He did point out that if a disturbance was provoked action might be taken later.

"We aren't even worried about it," he indicated. "It was said to be a private party and we have no direct jurisdiction in the matter."

Smith also squelched rumors that members of the faculty planned to be on hand with note pads to copy student names in a "raid."

"Our course of action would be to wait for complaints by students, residents of the area or local police," he added, "then, if the situation warranted, the student or students involved would be called in for disciplinary action that would include a review of his past record.

It also was noted that under-age students caught with alcoholic beverages and the persons serving them would be left open for action by the State Liquor Control Board.

Coach Martin said he first heard of the affair last week when he saw a sign in the Student Center calling for the election of one of his players as Ranch Week Foreman.

"But I had a squad meeting," he said, "and this business came up. The boys assured me that the sign was a joke and I had nothing to worry about. I may be wrong but I'm convinced that nobody on our squad had anything to do with it."

Les Brown Signed for Formal

Les Brown and his "Band of Renown" has been signed by the TCU dance committee to play for this year's Spring Formal on April 9 in the Student Center.

The Les Brown Orchestra has just recently been voted the No. 1 dance band in the nation by both Billboard and Downbeat Magazines. The band has played more college dates in various parts of the country than any other band.

The "Band of Renown" gained world-wide fame on the Bob Hope radio and TV shows and on Hope's world tours to entertain troops.

These tours have been arranged by the State Department and have included Germany, France, England, Morocco, Tripoli, Libya and many other countries all over the world where US troops have been stationed.

The band records for Capitol records. Some of the late releases have been "College Classics," "Les Brown's in Town," "Dancer's Choice," "Composer's Holiday," and "Les Brown Concert Modern 1959."

Brown himself is considered one of the finest musical arrangers, as well as song writer. Among his many compositions is the hit, "Sentimental Journey."

Featured on the vocals with the band is Butch Stone and Jo-Ann Greer.

Style Tips from the CLYDE CAMPBELL UNIVERSITY SHOP (one of a series)

We Don't Give a Continental

Or sell one either when it comes to that. Because we're talking about the new so-called Continental suits that you have been reading about in the papers and perhaps seeing on television.

You know, the Continental is an Italian-inspired suit, with a short coat, usually two buttons, wide shoulders and a wasp waist. Now, we carry these beauties at our Clyde Campbell store for men, but we at the Clyde Campbell University Shop don't believe that this is a suitable suit for young men in college or just out.

The style is flattering to older men, and it takes some of its features from natural shoulder suits like we've been selling at the Clyde Campbell University Shop for three years now, but the fabrics are fancy (silk and wool or shiny gabardines) and the cut is not natural.

So, in brief, that is why you won't find Continental suits in the only store in the Fort Worth-Dallas area that is run exclusively for young men in college.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

A Wise Decision

The Administration's announcement on what procedure they would have followed in handling a "Private Ranch Week" is to be commended.

By publicly stating, before-hand, what consequences the student could expect to suffer, they have given the thinking person a chance to exercise his own judgment in what decision seems best for him.

Certainly, they used well thought-out plans when they spiked rumors that the affair would be raided when they announced that no school official would set foot in such an establishment to take names.

The action was a positive approach rather than a negative one, that indicated the Administration believed the function to be the work of a minority group and would be disregarded by the student body in general.

The Skiff believes the action is reflective of foresight and is indicative of the dignity and intelligence of the men who make our school policy.

Chest $-Ray

Once more students have the opportunity to dig into pockets and purses for contributions to aid Campus Chest. The entrance of Campus Chest for a few days once a year has become a very active and useful part of student life on this campus.

Church groups, Greek organizations, faculty and clubs will give donut sales, dances, food sales, a track meet, basketball games and a variety show in return for contributions to the charitable and benevolent organizations included in Campus Chest.

In past years it always has seemed to be a strain to meet the goal set by the Campus Chest Committee and this should not occur. Students are asked to contribute nickels, dimes and dollars or whatever they wish to contribute for people who are needy.

In a very small way, students can take an active part in this campaign and at the same time help to make a lot of people happy.

The goal is only $1,600 for the entire student body, so it can't be too hard to hit the top and make this year's Campus Chest a success.

For Student Health

The Student Health Care Program initiated by Student Congress is beneficial to the student body and should be considered by each individual. It is an insurance policy comparable to many policies offered by colleges and universities throughout the nation.

It provides benefits for hospitalization in case of illness for the married students and their families as well as for the single student.

For those who have bought the policy and have not received notification, the certificate proving ownership of the policy has not been sent to the policy holders. In case students would like to check up on their application, Dean Laurence Smith's office has the information.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

'ARE TH' BOYS TAKING US TO SEE THIS PICTURE IN A THEATRE OR A 'DRIVE-IN'?'

SW Campus Confidential

By JACK HARKRIDER

TEXAS—

A University associate professor of chemistry replied to a question of cheating on final chemistry exams:

"The chemistry department had gone over the final grades and compared them with previous hour quiz grades and found nothing to suggest anyone had the answers!"

Was it because the questions went unanswered, Prof?

In answer to a recent charge of atheism at the University of Texas, Howard Wolf, Student association president, was quoted as having said:

"With this state having a $65 million tax deficit and operation of the Legislature costing $11,000 a day, it looks like they could find something more to do than set up straw men and try to look like Matt Dillon taking pot shots at them."

But Matt Dillon never misses.

ARKANSAS—

Ever wonder where the expression, "He's yellow," originated?

It dates back to pre-Civil War days when cowardly attacks written on yellow paper were made against prominent figures.

Thus, anyone who had a cowardly nature became "yellow."

A&M—

A short Associated Press filler reads as follows:

"Some people in this town near Hamilton say they prefer skunks to cats as pets because they are excellent mousers as well as clean pets. The skunks, of course, are deodorized."

That would help the situation at times.

NTSC

It seems that TCU is not the only campus plagued with the time difference of school clocks. For example:

"Students won't be able to blame erroneous clocks in their dormitories any more for their oversleeping.

"Dean Imogene Bentley has directed Mrs. Urcle Timblin, social director of dormitories, to tell dorm mothers to check with Western Union in an effort to unify the oft-erratic timepieces on campus."

Western Union already has reported nine bribe offers from unknown sources.

TWU

According to the Daily Lass-O, the Let's Have Better Mottos Assn. announced its motto for the month and the runners-up.

"The motto: 'I welcome criticism—write yours here.'

"Runners-up included: 'If kindness fails, I'll hit you.'

"I don't want to shoot you—just the guy that introduced us." "Don't try and safe face—yours isn't worth it."

Continuing this further:

"Lend me your face, I want to scare a neighbor's dog."

Or, "I make it a habit never to forget a face—but in your case, I'll make an exception."

"I could grow to dislike you intensely, but I'm not even going to bother."

"I'd like to see your ideas go through the proper channel—one flush should do it."

THE SCORE

Northern Knowledge vs. Southern Saps

By PAT BECKHAM

At the risk of flunking a couple of 3-hour courses and failing to graduate in June, I'd like to comment on a recent article in Harper's magazine concerning education.

WHO NEEDS SENSE?
I Are a College Graduate

"The future of colleges depends on the quality of the student body," says Martin Mayer, author of the story.

Mayer says that the capabilities, as well as the ambitions, of the students must match the aims and requirements of the college, or something undesirable may happen to both the institution and the student.

The author brings out the point that a college will be damaged immediately and most likely permanently if it accepts students who cannot handle the work involved in higher education.

Very few schools are strong enough that they can suffer the loss of tuition which results from vacancies in the freshman class.

It also is the quality of the student body which attracts professors to colleges and retains them. Some colleges which can pay less than the big state universities attract a superior faculty because the quality of the students makes the work more rewarding.

The article further comments that the danger is in the fact that many of the private universities may become depressed to the point where they are good for no higher task than servicing the less able student.

In one area of his discussion, Mayer claims the Northern schools far out-distance our area and the rest of the nation in intelligent students. He does not necessarily refer to scholastic indexes or letter grades, as quite often a far superior-minded person has a lower index than a more limited person due to hampering circumstances.

Personally speaking, I do not know much about the great credence of Northern knowledge, but I do recall seeing statistics pointing out that the New England states, with less than 30 per cent of the nation's population, provide 60 per cent of the top scorers yearly on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

Considering some of today's seniors and graduates—it's no surprise.

Rodeo Club To Hold Annual Event Soon

By MARGIE CRONIN

TCU will have its annual all-school rodeo this year at 2 p.m. Sunday, April 5, at the Cowtown Posse Arena.

The TCU Rodeo Association is sponsoring this event on Sunday instead of Saturday, as has been done before, due to the full schedule of events already on the school calendar. When the calendar was printed the Rodeo Association had not decided to sponsor a rodeo due to Ranch Week.

The Association now is in the process of making plans for the rodeo and any student officially enrolled here is eligible to enter. General entries for the rodeo will begin in the Student Center lobby Tuesday, March 31, and will be completed Wednesday, April 1.

Entry in each event will be $5 except for the sorority and fraternity goat sacking event. Entry is $3.50 per team for this. All contestants will receive passes to the rodeo and admission for others will be $1.

The main events for the rodeo will be brahma bull riding, bareback riding, steer wrestling, calf roping and ribbon roping.

Two women's events will be barrel racing and goat tying. In addition there will be a fraternity and sorority goat sacking contest. Each fraternity and sorority may enter two teams of two members each.

Appropriate trophies and belt buckles will be awarded for the various events.

Officers of the association are George Powell, president; Aubrey

Taylor, vice president; Pat McDaniel, secretary; Rich Hankins, treasurer, and Dr. Comer Clay, faculty sponsor.

The group uses money earned in rodeos to pay traveling expenses of the rodeo team to various intercollegiate rodeo contests.

These contests will be at University of Texas and Southwest Texas State College, both on April 10-11; East Texas State College, April 17-18; Texas A&I April 24-25, and Texas A&M, May 1-2.

Accountants Society

Harold Achziger, assistant trust officer of the Fort Worth National Bank, will speak to the Accountants Society tonight.

His topic will be "The Trust Department's Use of Accounting."

The meeting will be at 7 p.m. in Room 216 of the Student Center.

Dr. John Hammond, chairman of the department of languages, was elected president of the Lone Star Chapter of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese at a meeting Saturday at Texas Wesleyan College. ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 2

Today, with earnestness and sobriety, we make the second of our forays into social science. We take up the most basic of all social sciences—sociology itself.

Sociology teaches us that man is a social animal. It is not instinct or heredity that determines his conduct; it is environment. This fact is vividly borne out when you consider the case of Julio Sigafos.

Julio, abandoned as an infant in a dark wood near Cleveland, was adopted by a pack of wild dogs and reared as one of their own. When Julio was found by a hunter at the age of twelve, the poor child was more canine than human. He ran on all fours, barked and growled, ate raw meat, lapped water with his tongue, and could neither speak nor understand one single word. In short, he was a complete product of his environment.

Julio, incidentally, was more fortunate than most wild children. They never become truly humanized, but Julio was exceptional. Bit by bit, he began to talk and walk and eat and drink as people do. His long-dormant mental processes, when awakened at last, turned out to be fantastically acute. He was so bright that he learned to read and write in a month, got through grammar school in three years, and high school in two. And last June as thousands of spectators, knowing the odds Julio had overcome, stood and raised cheer after cheer, he was graduated valedictorian from Cal Tech with a degree in astrophysics!

Who can say to what towering heights this incredible boy would have risen had he not been killed the day after commencement while chasing a car?

But I digress. To return to sociology, people tend to gather in groups—a tendency that began, as we all know, with the introduction of Marlboro Cigarettes. What an aid to sociability they are! How benignly one looks upon one's fellows after puffing on Marlboro's filter that really filters, on Marlboro's flavor that's really flavorful. How eager it makes one to extend the hand of friendship! How grateful we all are to Marlboro for making possible this togetherness! How good not to live in the bleak pre-Marlboro world with every man a stranger!

The groups that people live in today (thanks to Marlboro) vary widely in their customs. What is perfectly acceptable in one society may be quite outlandish in another. Take, for instance, the case of Ug Van Wyck.

Ug, a Polynesian lad, grew up in an idyllic South Sea isle where the leading event of the year was the feast of Max, the sun god. A quaint all-day ceremony was held, with tribal dancing, war chants, fat-lady races, pie-eating contests, and, for the grand finale, the sacrifice of two dozen maidens.

According to Ug's folkways, sacrificing maidens was entirely acceptable, but when, in his eighteenth year, he was sent as an exchange student to the University of Wisconsin, he soon learned that Americans take a dim view of this practice—in Wisconsin, at any rate. The first fifteen or twenty maidens Ug sacrificed, he was let off with a warning. When, however, he persisted, drastic measures were taken: he was depledged by his fraternity. A broken man, Ug quit school and moved to Milwaukee where today he earns a meager living as a stein.

Frosh Nine Meets Baylor On Saturday

By JAMES HARPER

"With the best infield that we have had in many years, we expect to have a winning team," were the words "Dutch" Meyer used to describe the Wog baseball team.

Meyer has been working with the freshman team in the absence of Coach Johnny Swaim. Swaim will take over the reins sometime next week.

Saturday at 2:30 p.m. the freshmen play Baylor University here. Next Tuesday they will battle Paschal High here at Trinity Park.

Discussing the players, Meyer said that he expected some good power hitting from outfielder Tommy Boyd and pitcher Charlie Clark, as well as hard throwing from freshman footballer Suggs Jolly.

Meyer said he was amazed that Phil Reynolds had not yet reported for practice. He said that he had heard Reynolds had played pretty fair high school ball.

Don Goodwin was lost to the team via semester grades. He would have rounded out the infield, making it one of the strongest in the area.

NO FIELD HOUSE, REALLY? BOOMER SOONER SWOONS

A University of Oklahoma sports publicity staff visitor, who was here for this week's baseball game, asked: "Where's your field house? I walked all over the campus and I never did see one."

When he was informed that there was no field house at TCU and that the Frogs played in a high school gym, he shook his head in disbelief.

"You mean the Southwest Conference champions have to play in a high school gym? I can't believe that. What do you do with all the people at the games?"

Woods and Waters

By GEORGE GOULD

This is the story of how a benefit can turn into a first-class problem. Control of nutria has become a puzzle in Texas, with this little South American import on an eating rampage pretty well over half of Texas.

For those who don't know what nutria is, he's nothing more than an overgrown rodent and slightly resembling a big rat. When full grown, he attains the size of a beaver.

Reports from various parts of Texas indicate heavy damage in the marshland where nutria have practically taken over thousands of acres of marshes. They are not only destroying duck and other game foods, but crops too.

The little animal also has spread over much of the eastern half of the state. Many country clubs with lakes are reporting that nutria have eaten off shrubs around the lake banks and are destroying the foundations of some of the dams.

They have also penetrated state-owned fish hatcheries and are eating all the growth supporting the levies, thereby weakening them so that water seeps out. Many privately owned small lakes in Texas are operating under special programs to kill off the nutria.

Nutria were imported into the United States a few years ago because it was felt they might control undesirable vegetation on lakes and streams. They did not stop at eating undesirable vegetation, however. They destroyed other vegetation and are now classed as a nuisance.

Texas Relay Prospects Bright

By GORDON PYNES

Frog tracksters were busier than ever this week as Coach J. Eddie Weems began an attempt to rejuvenate his sparse forces for an impressive showing at the Texas Relays two weeks hence.

Varsity performers were due to enter the San Angelo Invitational Relays this weekend, but the Purple cinder boss felt their performance in last week's Southwestern Recreation failed to merit a trip to the West Texas meet.

After watching several members of his team do well in the Rec meet and spirited workouts this week, Weems is far from downhearted as he looks toward the Texas Relays. In fact he feels some good hard work will cure the team's track ills to a large extent.

Probably the best showing of the windy day was that of Wog Miler Bobby Barrett who turned in a splendid 4:20 clocking for the 4-lap race, but still could manage only a third-place finish.

Bobby, though, fell victim to a couple of Australian imports from Houston who are nearly 10 years his elder, yet compete as first-year men. The Frog youngster ran away from all fresh milers from the SWC schools and established himself as the favorite for his race in the conference meet.

Hurdler Bobby Bernard, who had little practice following the end of basketball season, showed he will be a top contender on the high timbers when he rounds into shape. He placed second, losing by three strides to rival Bob Swafford of Texas Tech who was timed at 14.9.

The other impressive Wog was Sprinter Bert Coan who looked Turn to CINDER on Page 6

Men's Furnishings, First Floor

By LEE GRIMSLEY

The board of trustees has already met for its spring business session and the March 6 issue of The Skiff reported that a new Ad Building and an infirmary building were going to be constructed. A paragraph near the bottom of the story said: "The trustees also learned plans for a 12,500-seat field house are being formulated."

When, if ever, will TCU get a field house? One is certain to be built sometime, but it probably is at least five years away. Why? Money, or lack of it, is one reason that is given.

Money, however, is the best argument, and perhaps the only argument, that can be given for building a field house now. With the type teams Buster Brannon has been turning out the past few years, 12,500 seats could be filled every time the Frogs played at home. In about a 10-year period a field house would pay for itself and take a big chunk out of the loan that will be required to build any other new buildings.

And a new field house wouldn't endanger the academic program either. Athletics aren't being overemphasized. If they were, then why the new addition of the football stadium or the continuing issuance of large numbers of football and track scholarships?

If anything basketball is being underemphasized. In a recent issue of the Fort Worth Press, a reader wrote to Sounding Board, a column of letters to the editor, that TCU owed it to Fort Worth to construct a field house. Now this statement is open to attack, but a statement that might strike closer to home is: Does TCU owe it to the students?

Next fall a student will be required to pay $17 per semester hour tuition. Included in that figure is admittance to all athletic events. But to see a basketball game a student must find a ride for the 3-mile trip to Public Schools Gym, where the Frogs play their home games.

If a student doesn't own a car, it can be difficult trying to find a way to the games. A field house on the campus would provide an evening's entertainment to some 6,000 students, and it would be accessible to everyone.

Field houses in Lubbock, Dallas, Houston, Austin and College Station, located on the school campuses, are filled or nearly filled for each home game. Every time they open the doors to SMU Coliseum a capacity crowd fills the structure.

But when TCU plays at home a 4,000-seat high school gym is quickly filled. Then the ticket sellers begin telling prospective customers: "Sorry, we're out of seats. Better luck next time."

What's the answer? Build Buster Brannon a field house. He'll build the teams that will fill it up. Then all sorts of buildings can be paid for. Who knows? Maybe there'll even be enough to build Rabbit McDowell a new baseball field.

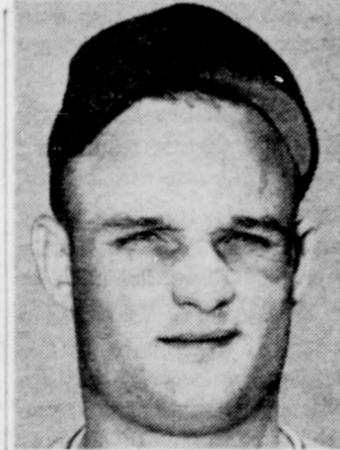

FROG '9' STARTS SWC TITLE CHASE

By JACK HARKRIDER

With plenty of non-conference experience behind them, the Frog nine travels to Waco Saturday to engage the Baylor Bears in a diamond duel which should provide an inside view of TCU's chances in the championship race.

For the first time in Southwest Conference History, TCU has a good chance of being the first school to win the triple crown of the conference. With the football and basketball trophies already salted away, Coach Rabbit McDowell and his players "would like nothing better than provide the third star in the crown.

While a 5-5 record might be considered a poor start for the championship trail, the Frogs have gained valuable experience from their non-conference frays and are expected to send the Bears running back to their cage.

According to McDowell, the starting pitcher for the Purples won't be decided until tomorrow.

"They've got a lot of left-handers on their squad and I won't know who to start until I see Baylor's starting lineup at the game."

However, if things go according to plan, the probable starter will be Darrel Reed, the slinging right-hander from Bovina.

Baylor is expected to start Rudy Baughton, a left-hander, who pulled the Bears out of a few hot spots during the first of the season.

Backing up Raughton, will be a diamond-wise team which includes Don Riddle, third sacker, and Bob Turner, shortstop. In their 9-6 victory over the University of Houston Cougars, Riddle turned in a home run and a double while Turner scratched his name on the hit roster with two doubles.

Bolstering the Frogs' batting power will be George Banda, shortstop; Hunter Enis, first base, and Marshall Harris, center field, who got two hits and two runs batted in when TCU was shaded by the Oklahoma Sooners, 9-7.

Banda also got two hits and two runs batted in while Enis added his contribution with one hit and one run batted in.

After the Baylor contest, the Frogs come back home to play the Rice Owls Tuesday. And, if McDowell's plans materialize, the Frogs will enter the game with a 6-5 season record and 1-0 in the conference.

ABE'S BACK; NO BOUNTY?

The Jacksboro philosopher, Abe Martin, has just returned from a recruiting tour of West Texas, but so far there has been no announcement as to which high school football stars the Frog coach has landed.

One of the top players on his list reportedly was James Parker, the bruising 190-pound fullback from Sweetwater who has been an all-stater for the past two seasons.

So far, the Frogs have nabbed only one top school-boy star. He is Donnie Smith, an all-state back from Taylor who is equally talented on the cinder paths.

COED STILL LIKES GOLF

By BOB BULLOCK

TCU's gain may have been the golfing world's loss, especially if Minnette Elder decides never to play professional golf.

"I had thought about playing golf professionally," the Kilgore senior said. "But when I came to school I didn't have much time to play and I sort of lost interest in golf. I guess Beverly Hanson has always been my favorite player."

Besides being a PE major and a history minor, Minnette still finds time to put in a few strokes on the golf course.

Her golfing interest was acquired from her parents, former club champions at Kilgore Country Club.

"We lived right across the street from the club and I could almost drive off from my front yard."

Minnette has done well at golf. At the age of 14 she won a driving contest with a drive that carried 201 yards.

She also won the East Texas Golf Association women's championship and the Kilgore Country Club women's title.

The Kilgore senior doesn't concentrate on one sport, however. She played on basketball teams that went to the state semifinals while in high school as well as winning other honors. She won the badminton singles title at Kilgore.

While at TCU her teams have won volleyball championships in the Women's Sports Association. She also is manager of the women's basketball team which currently is engaged in a series with North Texas State.
