Tyson, a senior from Coleman, was selected for his dynamic, though often-unnoticed, leadership in student government. Since his freshmen year, he has been a perennial participant in campus politics.

As election committee chairman, Tyson was responsible for completing the formulation of the new election code and conducting the first election to which it applied. His efforts resulted in a record 1,620 ballots in the primary of a blemish-free election, a rarity in recent years at TCU.

Named by the faculty to "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges," Tyson is an assistant biology lab instructor and a Clark Hall monitor. A pre-med major, he is a member of Alpha Chi, D.S.F., Biology Club and Phi Delta Theta. He plans to be a physician and will enter the University of Texas Medical School in Galveston next fall.

In February, Tyson was elected by Student Congress to succeed Theron Brooks, who had resigned as AddRan College representative and election committee chairman.

Tyson was elected a justice of Student Court and vice president of the senior class last fall. He is a member of the student welfare committee and acted as a discussion group leader at the March Texas Intercollegiate Student Association convention in Waco.

During the 1957-58 session, Tyson was a junior class representative, chaplain of Student Congress and a member of the T.I.S.A. executive committee.

As a sophomore, he was class treasurer and a favorite finalist. He was vice president of his freshman class and a member of the freshman track team.

John Bruce Moore was the recipient of last year's Skiff award.

Bandsmen Honored At Annual Banquet

John Giordano, Fort Worth senior and student band director, was named "outstanding bandsman," and Miss Martha Ann Hall, Wichita, Kan., sophomore, was chosen Band Sweetheart, at the Horned Frog Band annual awards banquet Tuesday evening in the Ballroom. Miss Hall is secretary to Jim Jacobsen, director of TCU bands.

Two surprise honorary band memberships were awarded to Bob Bullock, Fort Worth senior and Skiff photographer, and M. A. Doss, superintendent of grounds. They were honored for their outstanding services to the band during the past year.

Gold keys also were presented to seniors Roger Martin of Fort Worth and J. O. Heath of Carthage, who have been members of the band since their freshman years. Letter jackets were awarded to 27 bandsmen who completed their second year with the group.

Sprosser Wynn, Fort Worth attorney, was guest speaker.

"Outstanding bandsman" Giordano, a music education major, is student band director and leader of the Army ROTC Band. He has served as band secretary and is a member of Kappa Kappa Psi and Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia. In addition to her duties as secretary to Mr. Jacobsen, Miss Hall is a business major and a member of Tau Beta Sigma.

REHEARSAL POSTPONED

The regular Wednesday afternoon rehearsal of the University Chorus has been cancelled today, announced Dean Robert Hull, the director.

Dean Hull said rehearsals will be resumed next week with two meetings, May 18 and 20.

Both rehearsals will begin at 4 p.m.

This week's cancellation was forced because many of the chorus members are participating in an opera production, Hull said.

Opera Will Use New Approach

Using a new approach in production, the opera department will present Christoph W. Gluck's "Orpheus" Friday and Saturday nights in the Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The action will take place in the center of the stage on a raised platform, with the chorus on either side during the entire performance.

Misses Mary Alice Damman, Pat Atkinson and Linda Loftis will star in the leading roles Friday night. In Saturday's production, Misses Virginia Seelig, Margaret Ransom and Vickey Branch are scheduled.

On the production staff are Henry Hammack, designer; Robert Hull, chorus director; David Preston, choreography; Rudolph Kruger, conductor, Cleve Haulbold, costumer, and Dr. Walther Volbach, stage director.

Remembers Earthquake

Coed Has Home In Two Countries

By JUDY PURCELL

"Viva Mexico!" says Miss Roslyn Rowland, American student from Mexico.

Although she is an American citizen, Roslyn was born in Mexico City when her father was sent there by Goodyear Rubber

Co. She lived in Angangueo, Michoacan, a small mining town, until the age of five, when she moved back to Mexico City.

Though she attended an American school there Roslyn speaks Spanish very well and has developed a great love for a guitar and Mexican music.

Some of her favorite sports are water skiing, swimming and water ballets, and she has spent several vacations in Acapulco.

Shopping in La Lagunilla, the thieves' market, and hiking to the Aztec ruins, the pyramids, the floating gardens of Xochimilco, and Maxmilian's Palace, are favorite pastimes of hers.

As a result of her interest in the ruins around Mexico City, she plans to take a course in anthropology at Mexico City College this summer.

One of the biggest surprises she had in Mexico City was her first double-date with a Mexican couple. The girl brought along her mother! Ros says that parental discipline in Mexico is stricter than in the States, and arranged weddings still are not uncommon. Although Mexicans date as early as 15, their dates are chaperoned until they are about 20.

Roslyn's most frightening experience happened in August, 1956, at 4 a.m., when she was thrown from her bed by an earthquake. Although she and her family were unhurt, the quake was very severe and caused the condemning of the new Continental Hilton Hotel and the destruction of the Statue of Independence.

The blonde junior attends TCU on a grant and majors in Spanish with a minor in English. Upon graduation, she hopes to become a secretary at the American Embassy in Mexico City.

Miss Roslyn Rowland, junior foreign student, displays souvenirs from her home state of Mexico. Ros is majoring in Spanish and plans to do secretarial work in the American Embassy in Mexico City upon graduation.

Dr. Key Plans Summer Stay At Harvard

Dr. Henry Key, professor of accounting in the School of Business, has been awarded a Ford Foundation research grant for the summer to attend the 1959 Summer Case Seminar program from June 8 through August 7 at the Graduate School of Business Administration at Harvard University.

Dr. Key is one of some 20 persons selected from outstanding schools of business throughout the country to attend this program.

During the summer, the seminar members will also participate in a number of conferences with top people in the field of business throughout the nation, who will be brought to Harvard to discuss problems with the group that will form the research team. In addition, the staff of Harvard will be consultants for the seminar.

Dr. Key, who came to TCU in 1949, formerly taught at Sul Ross State College, the University of Texas and Stephen F. Austin State. He holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Texas and is a certified public accountant.

He is a member of the Texas Association of University Instructors in Accounting, the Texas Society of Certified Public Accountants and the American Accounting Association.

F.W. Grows In Retailing

The May issue of the Fort Worth Business Review, just published by the Bureau of Business Research of the TCU School of Business, proves the impressive and continuing growth of Fort Worth as a major retail center.

The total number of Texas-based, out-of-town charge accounts of the city's retail merchants has nearly tripled since 1946, according to a recent study made by Dr. Sam L. Leifeste, TCU professor of marketing.

Using figures supplied by 11 leading stores in Fort Worth, the survey compares the years of 1946, 1952 and 1959.

The survey indicates that charge accounts with Fort Worth merchants by out-of-state customers is increasing rapidly. In 1946, the 11 stores studied reported a total of 915 accounts in Arkansas, Louisiana, New Mexico and Oklahoma. In 1952, the figure was 2,060.

Nice Work ... If You Can Get It

Graduation approaches and many young men will be having job interviews soon. What to wear to this important interview is a vital question.

Consider the impression you wish to make—serious, hard-working, intelligent, gentlemanly, mature and well-bred.

A dark suit, silk repp tie, white button-down shirt, oxford shoes, dark plain-colored sox will give the best impression.

Remember, the one thing that will make you look younger than anything else is to wear clothes that are too old for you. Natural shoulder clothing is suitable for young men up to the age of about 35.

An Invitation to Learn More

During the depression year of 1933, a young English teacher, Miss Mabel Major, met for the first time with a special English class.

The 20 classmates had been assembled after being chosen on the basis of outstanding high school academic records and scores on college entrance examinations.

The class was a new concept in education, both here and in the Southwest. It had been common practice up until this time for educators to arrange special classes for the slower students, but as yet no concession had been made for his brighter counterpart.

Just whose idea it was to begin such a program has been forgotten down through the years, but apparently the idea was an excellent one.

Several other departments soon adopted the plan and it quickly caught on in other schools.

Although that first class had no outside funds supplied to them, they managed, by doing all of the work themselves, to issue an anthology of their works.

The precedent was set and each year following the anthology was produced.

This year's copy will be the Silver Anniversary edition, Vol. 25.

Since the first class was formed, the invitational program has grown with the university; it has quadrupled in size, numbering 80 members in four sections, one of which is taught by Miss Major.

Those who have had a part in this worthwhile endeavor should have justifiable pride as they glance back on the first 25 years of the program.

Get the Best, and Keep 'em

Changing coaches seems to be the latest thing in Southwest Conference football and basketball. At least three new coaches will take over next year at conference schools.

The only school to pass up the change-coach bandwagon in recent years is TCU. We have not had a new football or basketball coach since 1952, when Dutch Meyer moved up to the athletic director's job and Abe Martin took over the head football coaching reins.

The most frequent changers in the past few years have been Texas A&M and the University of Texas.

Congratulations are due the athletic department for securing the right men and keeping them.

Search Your Home?

A bare 5-4 Supreme Court majority last week made a dangerous move in approving searches of private homes by health inspectors without warrants.

We agree with Justice Douglas, whose dissent pointed out that "the decision today greatly dilutes the right of privacy which every home owner had the right to believe was part of our American heritage."

Such transgressions against the Fourth Amendment can only be counted as dangerous.

THE SCORE

Let's Abolish Trophies

By PAT BECKHAM

Perhaps the next move will be to abolish the Cotton Bowl. The Southwest Conference Sportsmanship Award is no more.

In December, delegates from the University of Texas proposed that the award, which TCU has won more than any other SWC school, be eliminated and replaced by a "more mature exchange of ideas." The Teasippers never have placed higher than fifth in the conference rankings, decided heretofore by semiannual balloting of the conference schools.

"The trophy will now be a symbol of co-operation to be passed from school to school each year at the Cotton Bowl," the Daily Texan states in an article explaining how the Texas delegation ramrodded the trophy killing. Under the new setup the Austin school stands to be honored every eight years.

The voting on the UT-proposed change took place last weekend when the sportsmanship committee, composed of the newspaper editors, student body presidents, head yell leaders and athletic representatives, met at Aggieland for the spring get-together.

TCU, like some of the other schools, sent the representatives who will take over next fall.

It's no surprise that the veteran lobbyists from UT were able to sway the committee members present into a unanimous vote to eliminate sportsmanship trophies.

Perhaps the long-suffering Longhorns made a good case of their proposal. So long as the move was for the good of the conference, and not just a case of "sour grapes," methinks the move to be alright.

Personally, there are things which make me wonder. "The committee usually gives the trophy to the smaller schools in the conference," the Texan reports. Wonder why? However, Baylor has never won the title, either, and those champs of good sportsmanship at A&M have secured it only once.

Scattershooting while wondering why it is that on the highway the dimmest wits have the brightest lights: seems that spring sports didn't come up to expectations as the baseball, tennis and track teams finished in the SWC cellar and the golfers came in way down the line in the tournament at College Station . . . Duck! Here comes exams . . . only two more Skiffs after this one . . . The U.S. Public Health Service Hospital Bands will make their third appearance at TCU tomorrow at 12:30 in the Ballroom . . . According to an Oklahoma State University doctor, the proportion of females to males is getting more and more unbalanced and there's a lot more femmes now . . . Harry Truman was made the usual butt (of the jokes, of course) at his 75th birthday the other day . . . Look for Ben Hogan to win another golf tourney or two.

SW Campus Confidential

BY JOHN SHIELDS

BAYLOR—
The Baylor Lariat had an unusual ad in a recent edition: "Honeymoon cottage set in Pecan Grove, two people only, $55 a month."

I think that's darn white of those people to allow only two people on a honeymoon. Dear mother-in-law didn't need to be along anyway.

And then an announcement read:

"Jack Hamm will teach the book of Ephesians at 6:05 in room 101 of the Student Union."

There's nothing like Hamm's teaching. Hamm's is great!

SMU—
These ads simply slay me: "Roommate wanted to share deluxe apartment with three other male students."

Call her at LA 6-1226.

TEXAS—
The dear old Daily Texan had a little headline that could be taken several ways. I think you know how I'll take it.

"Organist to Perform in Concert Today."

By the way, this organist used to be a belly dancer in a side show. Quite a concert she puts on, or, rather, takes off.

Then over on the entertainment page, the Texan reviewed the latest movie of Bob Hope, "Alias Jesse James."

"This is a real adult western, because all the horses are over 21."

Now, that sounds logical, doesn't it?

TEXAS TECH—
A strong editorial appeared in The Toreador, the campus newspaper, blasting the administration's lack of a "dead" dead week.

"Cutting out extracurricular activities during the week that is known as 'dead' week has been far more successful than cutting out regular classroom work."

"While the social life of Tech students slows to a crawl, instructors catch up with required course material, assigning papers to be written and giving last-minute hour exams."

The TCU administration could learn a lesson by this little column this week, too.

ARKANSAS—
The Sigma Chi fraternity has been placed on social probation after a party was discovered in a student-rented apartment in Fayetteville.

"The party was the scene of 'excessive drinking and disturbing of the peace,'" said a spokesman for the dean's office."

Yesh, I'd shay we had a bit party.

TWU—
The Daily Lass-O ran a little news item about this all-gal school: "TWU's Synchronized Swimming Club left this morning on a 10-day tour through Oklahoma and Texas."

These girls are great. You should see how they wiggle their fins in the water.

U. OF NEW MEXICO—
This school's paper, The New Mexico Lobo, believes in h-o-facts.

"May is going to be a pretty busy month at UNM, says the schedule for the month. However, we don't see a panty raid on the list."

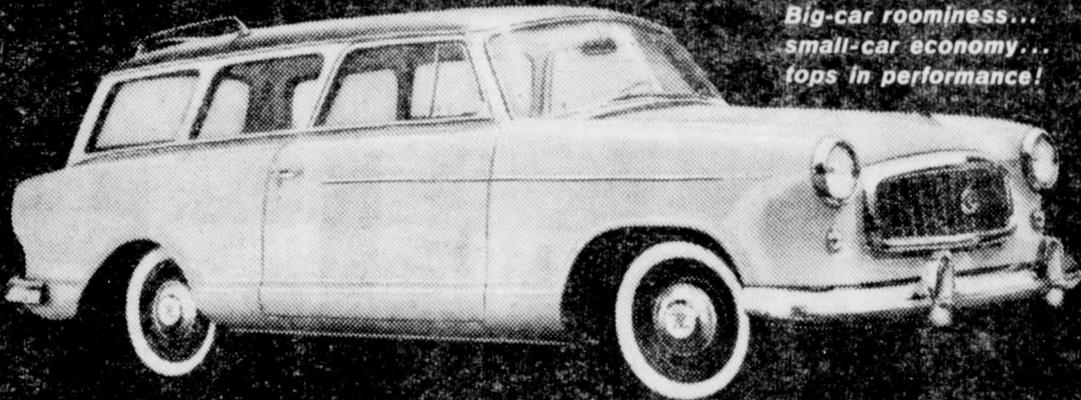

Fellows, you're s-l-i-p-p-i-n-g!

YOURS TRULY,

He's Enrolled

Editor, The Skiff:

I am sorry to say that my words of encomium as to the cultural aspects of our School of Fine Arts is somewhat limited. This is not to say that we do not have some highly talented students in the Fine Arts School; we do. However, I find the "green room," for the most part, sprinkled with the pseudo-intellectual set.

This is not to say, either, that the School of Fine Arts does not house some outstanding professors with a prodigious knowledge of their subject matter. It is disconcerting, though, when one or more of these professors are on the way out during a major part of the students' academic endeavors.

Culture, per se, has never been augmented to any great degree by petty jealousies, juvenility, biased thinking and preconceived conclusions about people, places and things. The proclivity of some individuals associated with the School of Fine Arts seems to be based on the aforementioned.

I've always felt that the growth of the arts was characterized by individualism, creativity and freedom of self-expression. How genius could possibly be indigenous in any of the arts when it is afflicted by petty actions and thinking is beyond me.

Culture? Ideologies? Creative thinking? Individualism? The School of Fine Arts of Texas Christian University should work, in my opinion, toward the advancement of these traits in each individual under its guidance. I feel it virtually would guarantee greater artists in every field of fine arts. It might even eliminate some hindrances for students and professors as well; who knows?

verbal pitchforks (or possibly real ones), I shall know that the shoe of reality has begun to pinch someone's toes. Then, the barrage of vitriolic propaganda designed to censor the thinking apparatus of the individual will begin, and this will insure a whirlpool of mediocrity for individuality.

It is costly when you commit yourself to a cause, because such a commitment usually involves thinking. Our society is gradually eliminating the thinking man, filter and all; this is one of the things that makes it so costly.

Keep thinking, frens!

Fallis Speaks to Club

Dr. Bruce Fallis, professor at the Southwestern Medical School in Dallas, will speak at the Parabola Club's annual banquet next Saturday night at the Colonial Country Club.

Church Leaders To Meet

The third annual institute for church leaders on "The Role of the Church in a Multi-Racial Society," sponsored by the University in co-operation with the National Conference of Christians and Jews and the United Christian Missionary Society, will be held June 30 to July 17 at Brite College of the Bible.

The purpose of the institute, according to Dr. Harold L. Lunger of Brite College who is in charge of the program, is to "help the churches meet the urgent challenge and opportunity of rapidly changing patterns in racial, religious and ethnic relationships in local churches and communities, against the background of social change in the nation and the world."

Participants will attend three weeks of study, lecture-discussion, round-table criticism and project analysis concerned with four specific areas of interest, including "Our Changing Society," "Color, Caste and Christian Conscience," "Issues of Segregation and Action."

Major consultant for the institute will Dr. Gordon Lovejoy, program consultant of the National Conference of Christians and Jews and professor of sociology at Guilford College, North Carolina.

35 Changes and Additions Yearly

School Teaching Staff Grows

Everything isn't all black in those long registration lines. Maybe you'll be able to get a new teacher who doesn't know you, and better yet, maybe one who hasn't heard of your reputation.

This is a possibility that arises each fall for registering students. Approximately 35 new teachers are added to the staff each school year. Some of these are replacements for professors who have taken leaves of absence for graduate study and other reasons. Many others are new, full-time professors.

New professors are added each year to keep up with the increasing enrollment. Over-all university enrollment has increased from 2,633 for the school year of 1944-45 to an all-time high of 8,589 in 1958-59.

The present faculty includes 208 full-time professors. This figure does not include part-time professors or administrative officials. Ninety-three of these full-time faculty members hold Ph.D. degrees.

This is in keeping with the basic policy of TCU that was set two years ago. This policy stated that the university would not expand in width. That is, it would not add new schools and colleges. Expansion would be in depth in the fields that are now included in the program.

The Ph.D. program which will begin in 1960 is a part of this policy plan. As a result of the program being instituted, all departments have made a study to see what their needs are in the way of faculty, library holdings, and new equipment.

Areas which will enter the Ph.D. program have not been decided, but the biology, geology, physics, mathematics, English, education, religion, psychology and music departments have indicated that they are the closest to being ready. Before this program is begun, it is evident that a large number of professors will be added to fill the need that will arise there.

As President Sadier has said many times, "The faculty is the key to the whole educational process, and in order to have a school of a high quality, we must first have a faculty of high quality."

Hodgkins Attends Fete

Dr. J. E. Hodgkins, associate professor of chemistry, attended a banquet at the Italian Village in Dallas, which was sponsored by the Welsh Foundation last week.

The banquet was in honor of Dr. W. Stanley, a Nobel prize winner, who first isolated virus and showed the infectious nature of crystal and virus.

Financial Aid Set Up for Graduates

A special graduate research assistantship, supported by grants and contracts from the National Institutes of Health and the Atomic Energy Commission, will be available to a superior student beginning Sept. 1, 1959.

This assistantship will involve research participation in the field of basic cytochemistry, histochemistry, or experimental cancer research.

The research may be applied toward a graduate degree and will involve about 20 hours participation a week. It is expected that a student will be able to register for 10 to 12 hours of course work a semester.

The research assistantship will pay an annual salary of $1,950 to $2,600.

Anyone interested may contact Dr. Willis G. Hewatt, chairman of the biology and geology departments, for information, or write Dr. Frederick H. Kaster, Texas A&M College, College Station, Texas.

LaGrone Receives Ph.D.

Herbert F. LaGrone, associate professor of education, has received his Ed.D. from Texas University.

LIVERGOOD ENDS DROUGHT

By BOB SCHIEFFER

James Livergood has just gained membership in an exclusive club of sorts.

When the lean half-miler from Kingsville skipped across the finish line ahead of the field last weekend, he became the eleventh TCU winner since 1915 to touch the tape in a Southwest Conference meet.

In fact, only 16 TCU men have ever won medals in the long history of the conference. (The additional five coming in field events.)

Livergood's victory was the most thrilling in a thrilling meet at College Station, as the SWC schools wound up their seasons with the final family show.

Taking to the inside of the track on the first turn, he bided his time until the stretch of the last lap, when he suddenly emerged from a crowd of thin-clads along the rail and outdistanced Texas' Drew Dunlap and Texas Tech's Charley Draper to the finish line.

The victory, which took up less than two minutes of the spectator's time, came as no surprise to Frog Coach J. Eddie Weems. The grey-haired mentor, who'll seldom venture a prediction, picked Livergood to win the 880 before he left Fort Worth.

Sophomore Mike Howell also grabbed part of a first place for the Frogs. He tied with three others in the pole vault at 13-6, but lost a coin flip for the gold medal.

In the freshman division, Bobby Barrett took firsts in both the mile and half mile with respective times of 4:22 and 1:56.

Bert Coan, a strong favorite in the frosh 100-yard dash, couldn't get out of the blocks and after the poor start, was never able to regain ground. He finished third as SMU's Jimmy Barber took first.

Recruiters Add Seymour To Intent List

The Frogs beefed up their future backfield this weekend when a husky Paschal High School fullback signed a letter of intent to play here.

Big Bob Seymour, a 195-pound second team all-district fullback last season said he was "tickled to death when officials offered me a scholarship to play."

Seymour, who is the son of a former professional star, managed to break into the starting lineup for only the last four games, but was so impressive he missed a first-team all-district berth by one vote.

Seymour's father, also named Bob, was a star during the thirties with the Washington Redskins.

Young Seymour also may throw the discus for the Wogs. He placed fifth in the state meet this year as a member of the Paschal team.

"But I won't if it interferes with football," he says.

Massengale Out As Golf Champ

Defending golf champion Don Massengale was ousted from his throne this past weekend in College Station, and squeezing into the champion's chair are two golfers.

Conference champion Texas Tech's John Farquhar and SMU's Gene Teter completed the regulation 72-hole play, tied at 284.

The new co-champions are the first in several years of SWC golf play.

Massengale finished with a 294 total.

★ HISTORICAL NOTE

Grad School Starts 1926

The organization of the Graduate School at TCU was started in 1926.

'CUE TIPS'

Being a sporting man, Robert Joplin, McKinney freshman, likes nothing better than spending a lazy afternoon with a date watching one of the Frog teams in action. But, alas, all the athletes have put up their gear and settled down for a long summer's nap. "So," said Robert to Julie Barnes, Marshall freshman, "let's hop over to the SC and I'll teach you to shoot pool." "Great," said Julie. Without batting a pretty 'lash, she banked the 4-ball off the rail and sunk the 9 in the side pocket. "How long 'till football season?" muttered Robert.

SW Fathers Set Violation Penalties

Penalties took the spotlight as the Southwest Conference fathers closed out their business meeting in College Station this weekend.

The representatives "laid down the law," so to speak, as to what they expect to do if a member is caught violating a rule.

They listed seven penalties that a school can suffer:

1. Reprimand, both private and public.
2. Probation.
3. Loss of time in pre-season practice.
4. Ineligibility for championship.
5. Ineligibility for post-season competition.
6. Suspension from the conference, with all games cancelled.
7. Expulsion.

Coaches can be spanked in the following ways:

1. Reprimand, both private and public.
2. Probation.
3. Loss of eligibility to coach, ranging from one day to a number of years.
4. Loss of recruiting eligibility.

And athletes can be scolded by:

1. Reprimand.
2. Loss of eligibility.
3. Loss of scholarship.

The rules penalties had been drawn up by a 3-man committee of Baylor's Abner McCall, Tech's William Davis and A&M's Cris Groneman.

The faculty men also hinted that some sort of TV plan might be worked out before next season and more games might be broadcast by radio.

No action was taken on the proposal of limiting scholarships.

Army Stops Air Force

The Army ROTC softball team clipped the Air Force, 11-6, Monday in the first game of a best 2-out-of-3 series.

The old rivals meet again Monday at 4 p.m., with a third game, if necessary at 11 a.m. the following Thursday.

Read Heads for Cool Climes

By JOHN SHIELDS

Darrel Read, hard-throwing Frog righthander, says he has signed with the Regina Braves for summer Canadian semipro baseball.

He is due to report June 3 in Regina, Saskatchewan, but adds he will be late since his last final examination is June 3. Read says he will likely report on June 5, three days before the league opens.

The Bovina junior, posting a 2-5 conference mark, will be playing his second year in the Canadian loop.

"It's good experience to play semipro, especially in Canada," Read commented, "because they allowed only three or four pros to a team two years ago and we get to work more this way."

Read was referring to his freshman year in Canada, when he played for the Saskatoon Gems and posted a 9-6 record.

Some of the semipro leagues in the United States will allow more than four former professionals to play.

Last year, Read took the mound for Yankton, S.D., where he had a 7-3 count.

The 22-year-old physical education major said he likes the Canadians.

"They're good to us and treat us just fine and that makes a fellow feel welcome.

Most of our games in Canada are twilight affairs starting about an hour before sundown. That gives us pitchers a sharp advantage over the hitters."

The semipro working deal while Read was with Yankton provided he must work at least 32 hours a week.

"I worked for Montgomery Ward in the morning and played in the afternoons or at night," said Read.

"This year, I'm not certain where I'll work or what I'll do," the crew-cut Frog said, "but I'm certain Mr. Tucker will have something nice for me."

Read referred to Wayne Tucker, former manager of Edmonton during Read's tour of duty with Saskatoon.

How does Read compare the Western Canada League with the South Dakota loop?

"Well, this Canadian league is set up better than the South Dakota league and we have better traveling accommodations," he said.

"Also we'll have better pitchers while the Dakotas have better hitters," he continued, "but I suppose those extra pros add that punch at the plate."

Read has another year's eligibility in the SWC and says Coach Rabbit McDowell is glad to see him play semipro.

"Coach tries to get us these working agreements to gain experience," he said.

HARDT CHOSEN SWC PREXY

Dr. Henry Hardt has been elected president of the Southwest Conference for the next two years.

The TCU chemistry professor was elected in College Station during the SWC annual conference business meeting last weekend.

Prior to his election, Hardt quelled rumors that TCU was the front-running factor in the question of a limit to scholarships.

Hardt said no fair limitations could be made since schools make different offers.
