Jack Spikes and Don Floyd Named On '59 National All-America Lists

★★★ Six Gridders Are Picked By Football Pros

TCU had more players drafted by the National Football League earlier this week than any other school in the Southwest.

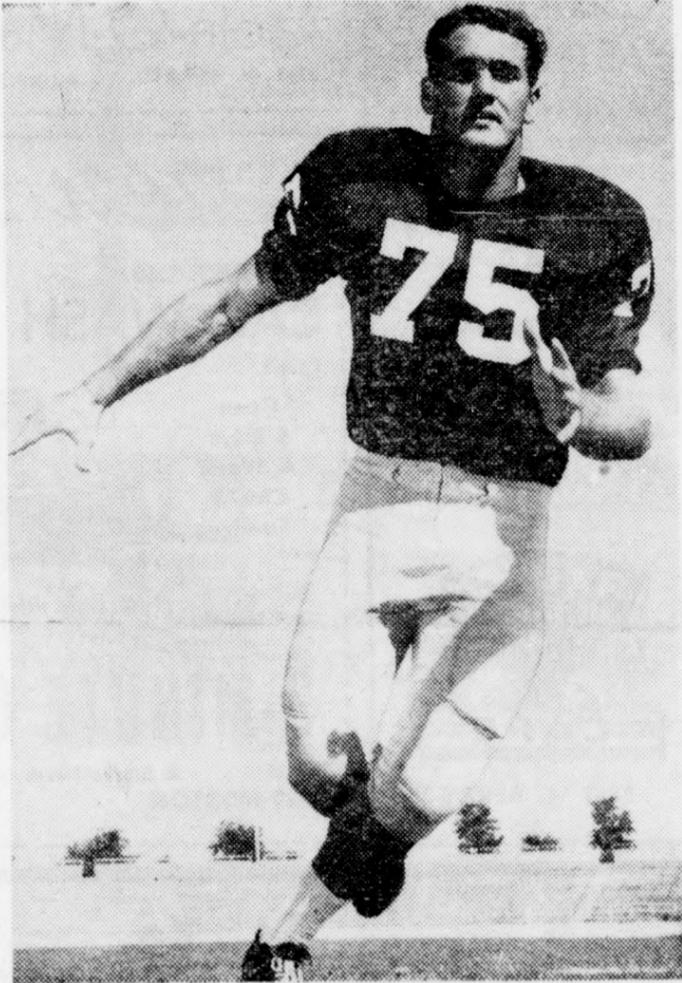

All-America fullback, Jack Spikes was the leading Southwest Conference draftee and went to the Pittsburgh Steelers in the first round. Spikes is reported to have a three-year, no release contract with the Pittsburgh club, but also has been drafted by Denver in the newly organized American Football League.

The Frogs' captain and two-time All-America tackle, Donald Floyd was grabbed in the second round by the World Champion Baltimore Colts.

The Colts also picked up Marvin Lasater in fifth-round choices.

Marshall Harris, Frog halfback, joined Spikes when the Steelers took him in the draft's ninth round. Another Frog, center Arvie Martin, also found a place with the Pittsburgh team when he was selected in the tenth round. Martin still has another year of eligibility with the Frogs and is expected to take it before considering a pro football career.

Guard Ramon Armstrong was chosen by the Philadelphia Eagles who already have former Frog tackle Joe Robb on their club.

Spikes Chosen By LOOK, Coaches, UPI Pick Floyd

By JACK HARKRIDER

FORT WORTH, Dec. 2 (Spl)—TCU's powerful fullback, Jack Spikes, today was named to the 1959 LOOK Magazine All-America team.

Spikes, a 6-2, 200-pound bruiser from Snyder, joins the ranks of teammate Don Floyd, who earlier was named to the Coaches' and United Press International All-America teams.

The LOOK All-Americans are chosen through the votes of the Football Writers of America and Bill Rives, sports editor of the Dallas Morning News, is the FWA representative for this area.

Other Southwest gridders named to the 22-man, mythical team include E. J. Holub, Texas Tech center; Don Meredith, SMU quarterback, and Maurice Doak, Texas right end.

Floyd is a repeater in his All-America role, having been a consensus choice for the left tackle slot in 1958.

Floyd's teammates on the UPI

All-America team include Monty Stickles of Notre Dame and Bill Carpenter of Army, ends; Dan Lanphear of Wisconsin and Floyd of TCU, tackles; Roger Davis of Syracuse and Bill Burrell of Illinois, guards; Max Baughan of Georgia Tech, center; Richie Lucas of Penn State, quarterback; Billy Cannon of LSU and Don Burton of Northwestern, halfbacks, and Charles Flowers of Mississippi, fullback.

The 550 coaches who are members of the American Football Coaches Assn. differed with the UPI selections at the guard and end positions only. The coaches picked Chris Buford of Stanford in place of Stickles and chose Zeke Smith of Auburn in place of Burrell.

Many Honors Amassed By Donald Floyd at TCU

By BOBBY HUGHES

Big Donald Floyd has done it again. Today it was announced that TCU's Captain has been named to the coaches' and the United Press-International All-America teams.

His outstanding playing, strong leadership and determination has paid off once again. Last year Don lead the Southwest Conference champions in tackles and superior offensive play. He was named to the LOOK Magazine All-America team, the NBC and Gridiron Re-

The 'Big Panther' Works Hard To Gain All-America Rating

By GORDON PYNES

TCU's bruising fullback, Jack Spikes achieved the dream of all football players, by being named to the LOOK Magazine All-America team. The selection was a fitting tribute to the greatest Frog fullback in the school's gridiron history.

Termed by his coach, Abe Martin, as the "dangest fullback I ever saw," Spikes gave the same impression to the Football Writers of America who named him to their 22-man mythical gridiron team.

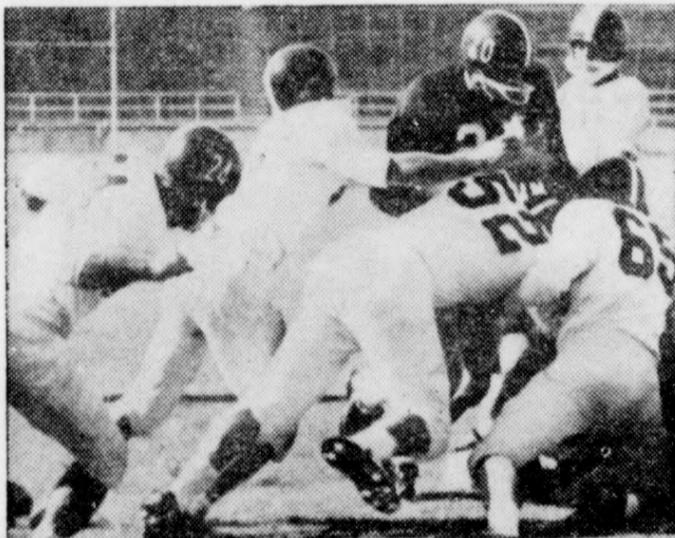

The thundering, 6-2, 205-pounder has been the big factor in the Purple and White's drive to a share of the Southwest Conference crown and a Bluebonnet Bowl bid.

Noted for his crushing smashes at enemy lines all season, Jack blasted his way to the top of the SWC rushers after finishing second to Baylor's Larry Hickman in 1958.

Called upon to lug the pigskin 140 times in the Frog offensive attack, the big lad responded with 660 yards for a steady and very respectable 4.7 yards per carry.

His amazing total left him almost 150 yards ahead of his nearest rival, Arkansas' Jim Mooty. The 660 yards gained this fall makes Spikes the fifth top rusher in TCU's all-time history. Only All-American Jim Swink, Lindy Berry, Gil Bartosh and Jim Shofner managed to gain more steps in a single season.

Spikes road to success has been one filled with great performances in all phases of the game. An All-State halfback in high school at Snyder, Jack came to TCU with the credentials for potential greatness. He was termed tremendous as a halfback on the 1956 Wog team and earned All-SWC Fresh honors for his exploits that season.

After an injury sidelined Buddy Dike in 1957, Jack was quickly switched to fill the role as a sophomore. His 1957 opener against Ohio State gave indications of his coming greatness. He simply plowed his way for 66 yards on 11 trips, including a 16-yard beauty for the Frogs' final score in the 18-14 upset of the Buckeyes. That first year with the varsity, he went on to travel 315 steps in 71 trips.

As a junior, Spikes got his big frame rolling even harder, as the Frogs went on to the league's championship and a Cotton Bowl clash with the Air Force Academy.

After the 1958 season, no more was expected of him, but this year he's given even more on every play. Besides being the most feared runner on any Saturday afternoon in the Southwest, he has come to be dreaded as a defensive mauler.

Leading the loop in pass interceptions with four, he also proved rugged on halfbacks who tried to sweep around his cornerback slot. Probably his greatest display in the role of a defensive player came just last week, when he pounded SMU's Don Meredith for several losses, far behind the line of scrimmage.

Blocking also was a big factor in the All-America nomination. Many times he used his powerful frame to flatten opposing ends, allowing his teammates to sweep for long yardage.

Jack has always loved football and it has proved that it loves him. The play and personality of Jack Spikes has made him a grid-iron great. No doubt Clemson will be unhappy when the Bluebonnet Bowl rocks with "The Big Panther's" thundering charges through the Tigers.

All-Americans Total 18

The selection of tackle Don Floyd and fullback Jack Spikes to All-America teams today brings the list of Frog All-Americans to 18 since 1927.

Although this is the first time two TCU players have made the list, three were selected in 1938 and 1951.

 core first teams, and was second-unit choice of the Associated Press-International and Sporting News.

This was quite an accomplishment for the handsome junior, as top-notch senior tackles headed the All-America check lists.

As a sophomore, Don played on the first team and made many outstanding plays.

During his freshman year under Coach Fred Taylor, Floyd was named to the Frosh All-SWC team.

This year, Don fell in line with his record of outstanding play. He stood out particularly in the Baylor, Rice, and SMU games this season. Floyd is noted for being able to cover a large territory in the line, and he showed it last year. However, this year Junior Robert Lilly has taken a lot of work off the All-American. And big things are expected from Lilly next year.

Coach Abe Martin, who of course is very proud of Floyd, said, "He's one of the finest linemen we've ever had at TCU. He isn't in on many sensational plays, like tossing a player for big losses, but he never makes a mistake. He is blessed with tremendous agility and strength, and has plenty of savvy. I think he's one of the best all-round linemen anywhere."

Line Coach Allie White says, "Don is a team man who never runs off and leaves his territory. I'll take him over any tackle we've ever had at TCU." Don has already been drafted by the National and newly organized American Football leagues. Based on Floyd's exploits, he may well continue his outstanding play in the ranks of the pros.

History Repeats in SMU Tilt

By JAMES HARPER

Twelve years ago Southern Methodist University brought one of their mightiest grid teams to Amon Carter Stadium.

It was the last game of the 1947 season for both teams, and SMU was entering the game with a highly rated undefeated and untied eleven.

On the other hand, TCU was coming into the contest with a 4-4-1 record. In their two previous games, they had been shut out.

However, as the game progressed, TCU managed to push across 19 points to SMU's 13, with 20 seconds remaining.

Then, the Mustangs' quarterback, Gil Johnson, threw a touchdown pass to tie the game, 19-19. The extra point attempt failed, and the game ended in a 19-19 tie.

A year later, the two again were ending their schedule against each other, just as they had for the previous 22 years.

Again, with 22 seconds left in the game, TCU led SMU. This time the Horned Frogs were ahead 7-0.

However, in about the same spot as 365 days earlier, and facing the same way, was none other than Gil Johnson.

Now it just couldn't happen again this time, the law of averages, the law of odds or the law of something was against it.

But nevertheless, Gil Johnson dropped back and shot a long pass into the waiting arms of a Mustang end, two yards from the goal. He turned and charged over for the touchdown.

Post Office Sets Holiday Postal Rules

The Post Office is urging public cooperation in handling the increased volume of mail during the Christmas season.

The public may relieve the mail load by following these suggestions from the Fort Worth Post Office:

1. Separate Christmas cards and letters into "local" and "out-of-town" bundles, tied securely with twine and correctly labeled.

2. Mail as early in the day as possible to give the post office opportunity to provide more efficient service with a possible 24 hour earlier delivery. Out-of-town mail should be deposited before Dec. 10 and local mail by Dec. 16 to assure delivery by Christmas Day.

3. Address all mail plainly and correctly and prepay postage. Unsealed cards without written messages require three cents postage. Sealed cards and those bearing written messages require four cents. Christmas cards for delivery in Canada or Mexico require four cents postage, sealed or unsealed.

4. Use postal zone numbers in all addresses when the zone number is known.

Miss Pat Powell, Washington Groves junior, puts the finishing touches on the Christmas tree in the Lobby of the Student Center. The special events committee of the Activities Council sponsors the tree each year. The official lighting of the yule tree took place Tuesday night.

Jones Reports on Honor Life

Honor Life Chairman Max Jones, Ruidoso, N.M. senior, and two men's dormitory presidents reported to Congress Tuesday night on the progress of the Honor Life program installed on campus at the beginning of the year.

Jones reported that the program has now been installed in all men's dormitories.

Each dormitory is divided into sections and each section has an honor life representative. These representatives compose the Honor Life Council in each dorm.

This council's function is to help in dealing with disciplinary problems and to aid in promoting student self-government.

Carkin reported that in Clark Hall, as in the other dormitories, the main purpose of the program at the present time is to promote a spirit of friendliness, integrity, courtesy and cooperation in the dorms. He said that Clark Hall held open house on Parent's Day and Homecoming and served more than 100 guests each time.

Carkin remarked that in one of the facets of the program, weekly room inspection, he had noted definite improvement in the condition of the rooms.

Joe Gonzales of Tom Brown Dormitory expressed his hope that the Honor Life program would encourage respect for private as well as school property. Joe said that in a recent meeting with Dean of Men Jewell Wallace, Dean Wallace expressed his belief that the honor life program had definitely been instrumental in lessening discipline problems on campus.

Melton to Speak Tuesday At 'Greater TCU' Meeting

Amos Melton, newly appointed assistant to the Chancellor, will be the principal speaker at the first meeting of the new "Committee for Greater TCU". Melton will speak to the group on "The New TCU Objectives."

The first meeting will be held Tuesday from 2:45 to 3:45 p.m. in Rogers Hall Auditorium.

This committee was proposed at the Student Leadership Retreat held at Brownwood in October. After discussion and approval there, it was presented to Student Congress and again approved.

The purpose of the committee is to provide a better means of communication between students, faculty and administration.

Student Congress President Jerry Johnson, Arlington Heights, Ill. senior, expressed his hope "that through this committee students will become better informed on University policies and be able to contribute their own suggestions on University matters. Thus through the means of better communication, understanding and sharing of ideas, it is hoped that we can help build a greater TCU."

Each organization on campus has been asked to send one member or delegate to the meeting. Faculty sponsors also are invited to attend.

Method of 'Role Playing' To Be Introduced Today

By DOLLYE JO LUTON

"Role Playing" is one of the outstanding study methods which will be introduced to the Region IX Convention this afternoon.

The purpose of role playing is to determine solutions to widespread problems which apply to committees and their chairmen. The role playing groups will act out hypothetical committee meetings and the discussion groups will attempt to analyze and solve the problems of the committees and chairmen.

The Regional Representative of Region IX will be Al Brieger, director of the Student Union Building at Texas A&I.

Brieger has held the position since his graduation from there in 1951 with the exception of one year. During that year he studied at the University of Heidleberg in Germany, as a recipient of a Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

The executive officers of Region IX attend SMU, Texas, A&M and TCU. These officers will be in charge of the activities of the convention.

Tri-Delts Plan Benefit Party

A bridge benefit will be held by members of Delta Delta Delta sorority at Wedgewood Country Club, 2 to 5 p.m. tomorrow.

The Tri-Delts are sponsoring the benefit to raise money for their scholarship fund for TCU students. Each year students apply for the scholarship and a committee composed of faculty members, the Dean of Women, and Delta Delta Delta alumni advisors choose the student to receive the scholarship.

The program for the benefit will include refreshments, hi-low score prizes and door prizes. Tickets may be purchased from Tri-Delt members for 75 cents.

Presentation Ball Features Favorites

Class favorites, Mr. and Miss TCU and eight campus beauties will be presented to the student body at the annual Presentation Ball Friday.

Teddy Phillips and his orchestra will play for the formal dance and will feature vocals by Miss Colleen Lovett. A local combo will play in the cafeteria.

The dance, lasting from 8 p.m. to 12 midnight, will be decorated according to a theme of "Rhapsody in White."

Admission will be $1.50 per person. Tickets may be purchased at the Information Booth Monday through Friday, but also will be on sale at the door.

Ranch Trainees to Study At West Texas Ranches

Ranch training students will study cattle and ranch management at the SMS ranches in West Texas Monday through Friday.

On the four ranches near Stamford, Throckmorton, Crosbyton and Spur, the boys will take part in the cattle marketing and dehorning operations.

SMS comes from the initials of Svante Magnus Swenson, a Swede, who came to Texas in 1836 and established the herd of Herefords in 1880.

"It is one of the oldest of the great Texas ranches," said Arthur Courtade, Ranch Training director.

Students also will visit the Anderson Farms where they will study irrigation, soil fertility and forage crops.

Young Democrats Return

Five students returned last week after spending five days in Toledo, Ohio for the National Young Democrat Clubs annual convention. They represented the Young Democrats Club of TCU.

Traveling on a chartered bus to Toledo were local president Spencer Oliver, Washington D.C. senior, Don Young, Fort Worth senior, Harry Wells, Plantersville, Missouri freshman, Roy Call, Fort Worth senior, and John Oaks, Amarillo senior. The bus was chartered for delegates from several clubs in the state.

Liberal and anti-liberal delegates fought for national offices. As a result of the convention, John Oaks is expected to be named Southwest Regional Director in January.

The Presentation Ball

Is coming up, and we thought we'd just list again the proper costume for men at that event. Starting at the top:

BLACK DINNER JACKET with black matching pants. We have a very nice natural shoulder one, with no pleats in the pants for $45.

PLEATED BOSOM DRESS SHIRT. Soft front, spread collar. Ruffles should be approached with the greatest of caution, not for the timid.

CUMMERBUND AND TIE, Black or midnight blue satin or barathea. No loud colors in the wintertime, and definitely no maroon. Leave that to the members of the band.

SHOES Plain toe, thin soled dancing shoes, either tie or slip-on. Silly to get all dolled up in a beautiful tux and then wear just any old black loafers.

FASHION MAXIM: A gentleman is never conspicuous, especially in his evening clothes. You are the prince, your date is the Cinderella. Your job is to form an appropriate background for her, not to try to outshine her.

Sports Lines

By GORDON PYNES

Caught between the start of basketball season and a football bowl game still to come I decide to stay with the gridiron sport for at least another column. The fact is that all sports scribes have been busy this fall with predicting a major upset and voting on this guy and that for All-Something-or-other honors.

Oddly enough I haven't cast a vote for a thing all season. Of course I haven't been of voting age long and that may have held me back. Anyway I'm going to jump in among my cohorts and have my say about whose best in the Southwest.

Voting honors are fun, you can leave off your enemies and vote for a favorite friend but when the pot comes to a boil your friends better have the vital statistics to back up your ballot. Sad to say, many friends failed to measure up in this poll.

BORN TOO LATE

Here's a peek into my voting booth:

Jack Spikes is the winner at fullback. Jack led the SWC rushers with 660 yards and all were gouged out the hard way. The "Big Panther" also earned plenty of respect for his defensive tactics too.

Don Meredith edges Charlie Milstead for the quarterback post. The men without teams were great, both were terrific leaders and tremendous passers despite poor protection all fall. Milstead's biggest fault was being born three years too soon or vice versa.

Arkansas' Jim Mooty gets a halfback vote. The guy was a big factor in the Porkers amazing season. Injured from head to toe last spring the little scooter made a remarkable comeback.

Many will disagree with this next pick but Rice's Billy Bucek edges Jack Collins for the other backfield spot. Collins had one of the best seasons ever for a soph but Bucek did everything for a dismal Rice team.

MUSCLEMEN MAKE MERRY

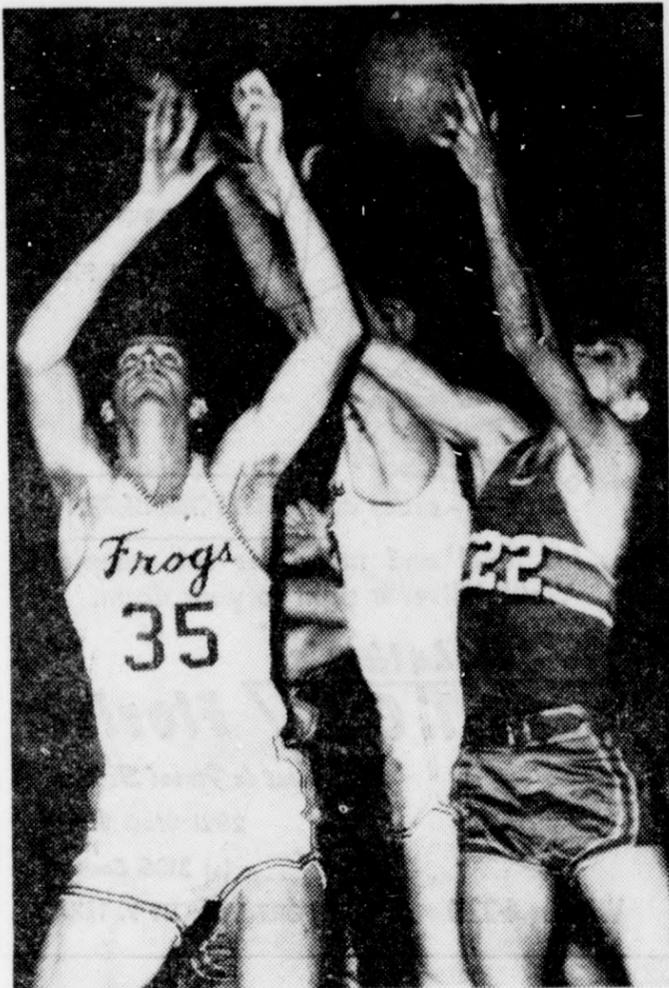

Finding good tackles is easy this year but there were only two great ones. That would be two musclemen named Floyd and Lily. No other tackle in the conference got the best of these two Frogs on any afternoon.

RAMON ARMSTRONG

Guards present a big problem. Texas' Maurice Duke is an easy winner with his great leadership of the 'Horns. The other is a toss-up. Many talk of Rufus King at Rice and plenty more go for soph bulldozer Herby Adkins at Baylor but the most underrated

'Old Reliable' Turns Runner

Need Yards? Call Marshall

By HARRY MORELAND

Froggie left halfback, Marshall Harris is the symbol of reliability to coach Abe Martin whenever top notch pigskin play is needed. The soft spoken senior from Jacksonville in East Texas might best be termed the "old reliable" of Purple grid fortunes in both 1958 and '59.

The TCU coaches will tell you that Marshall isn't great at anything on the football field but is good at everything. Used mostly as the lead man for interference in front of Jack Spikes and Marvin Lasater for half of the past campaign he suddenly exploded as an offensive standout.

After a good night at running through the Baylor Bears, Marshall came up with a key play in the all important encounter with Texas. There he grabbed a pass from Larry Dawson on the Longhorn five-yard line to set up the Frogs first score.

The next week "Old Reliable" shredded the Rice Owl defenses for several long gains and earned "Back of the Week" honors from the Frog club.

Last year Marshall was best as a pass receiver in Martin's offensive plans and came through to lead the team in aerial grabs with 19 for 265 yards and three scores.

Since the Frogs threw less passes this fall Harris quickly showed his blocking and ball carrying abilities by lugging the pigskin for 336 yards in 75 carries for a 4.5 per trip average.

Oddly enough, Harris came to TCU in the fall of 1956 better known for his talents on the basketball court and baseball diamond. In high school he led Jacksonville to the state cage title and was a top performer on East Texas semi-pro baseball clubs.

Upon arrival at Frogland he stuck with the baseball but dropped the hardwoods sport. He must have made the right choice for he has led Coach Rabbit McDowell's diamond teams in hitting in both his sophomore and junior years. Last spring he put on a great late season spurt to bat 392 and finish second among SWC hitters. His booming bat placed him on the All-SWC nine in the left field slot.

Purples Top Kangaroos, Hit Road for Oklahoma

By SANDY McSPADEN

The brand new Fredrickson Field House at Oklahoma City University will open its doors for the 1959-60 season tonight when the Chiefs host the Horned Frogs.

Game time is set for 8 p.m., and the big Chiefs will be out to even matters with the Frogs. TCU holds a 7-6 advantage over OCU after 13 previous meetings. Last year the Chiefs handed the Christians their first loss of the season by blasting them 75-65, and managed to even the season's record at one apiece. The Southwest Conference Champions had previously taken the opener 66-58.

Bowl Game Ticket Sales Start Monday

Ticket sales for the Dec. 19 Bluebonnet Bowl game at Houston will begin Monday at the Stadium Ticket Office.

Student and faculty tickets cost $2.75, each and according to L. R. "Dutch" Meyer, TCU's Athletic Director, cards or coupon books must be presented to obtain the tickets. Also, each student will be allowed one extra ticket at the regular price, with the activity card.

Public tickets will go on sale for $5.50, plus 25 cent mailing charges. General public tickets will be sold by mail only. Applications should be addressed to the TCU Athletic Department, Texas Christian University.

The University is not sponsoring a student trip, but there are several bus and train companies offering service to Houston. Also, the Frog Club is chartering several planes for members.

Last year the Chieftans compiled a 20-7 record and also played in the NCAA tournament. The Chiefs managed to retain three of last year's starting lineup, Bud Sahmount 5-9 guard, Fred Moses 6-3 center, and Harry Vines 6-6 junior forward will all be out to again deal the Frogs misery. Moses averaged 15.4 points per game last season. Rounding out the lineup for OCU will be 5-11 Larry Jones, a sophomore from Bowling Green Kentucky, Fred Weahque, 6-4 junior, David Hale 6-5, and Rex Norton also 6-5. Norton led the OCU fish last year with a 22.6 average.

A young, inexperienced basketball squad from TCU handled the backboards with the grace and ease of veterans Tuesday night in the Public Schools Gymnasium while blasting Austin College 65-47.

Bobby Bernard, Jerry Pope, Jerry Cobb, Bobby Tyler, and Don Williams rolled up a 13-0 lead before the Kangaroos from Sherman could manage to steal a bucket. The Frogs left the court at the halftime with a 34-24 advantage. Big Don Williams 6-5 senior letterman from Dallas managed to snare a total of 15 rebounds from the visitors boards to lead the Frogs in this department.

Charles Smith, the Kangaroos' 6-6 center was high point man for the night as he connected for 22 points. Bobby Bernard, 6-5 post man from Graham led the Frogs scoring with 15 points. He was followed closely by Cobb and Tyler, who each sank 14 tallies.

UP A NOTCH

The Horned Frogs moved up a notch in the national grid ratings this past week and are now almost a cinch to finish higher than last fall.

The Associated Press poll moved the Frogs up to seventh while the United Press International had us a notch back in the eighth spot. Last season's SWC champs ended up tenth in the former poll and were ninth in the latter.

Clemson, the Purples Bluebonnet Bowl foe was ranked tenth in both the polls earlier this week. The Tigers finished the year with an 8-2 won-lost record.

Sports Fact

Jim Shoffner, the Frogs' former halfback great, is now employed by the Cleveland Browns in the National Football League.
