Leaders Leave Today on Retreat

Officials said students could dress casual in attending the Leadership Retreat in Brownwood, and that's just what Miss Anna Lou O'Malley, Fort Worth junior, plans to do. The retreat, jointly sponsored by Student Congress and the Activities Council, is the second of its kind from the University.—Skiff staff photo.

Reverend Jablonowski To Give Kickoff Speech

The second annual all-school leadership retreat promises to start with a bang tonight with a kickoff speech by Richard Jablonowski, minister of St. Stephens Presbyterian Church.

Jablonowski's speech is to be one of several which will be delivered following supper at the Brownwood Christian camp retreat grounds.

Following supper, the film, "This Is TCU" will be shown.

Joe Short, Student Congress president, will give a preview of the retreat and will introduce the kickoff speaker.

Dr. Lindley to speak

At the Friday evening session, President D. Ray Lindley will speak on honor life from the administrative point of view. He will be followed by Jim Wright, student chairman of the Honor Life Committee, who will apply honor life to the students.

Recreation Friday night will consist of ping pong, volley ball and basketball.

Following breakfast Saturday morning and a short opening speech by Short, delegates will be divided into two discussion groups. These groups will discuss honor life in the dormitories and academic honor life.

The final panel discussion to be held immediately before lunch will be concerned with miscellaneous aspects of honor life.

At 2 p.m. a panel discussion called "Meet the Administration" has been scheduled. Delegates will have an opportunity to ask administrators questions brought up during the group discussions.

Registration 12:30-2 p.m.

"All students planning to attend the retreat must register at the Student Center between 12:30 and 2 p.m. today," James Whitehead, Texon junior, and co-chairman of the retreat announced. "Those students who have a 1 p.m. class should register from 12:30-1:00 so we will have their names and no one will be left," he said.

The retreat, which is jointly sponsored by Student Congress and the Activities Council, will have representatives from departmental, interest and religious groups, honor societies, cheerleaders, fraternity and sorority representatives and representatives from the band, KTCU, the Horned Frog and Skiff.

Administrators who have definitely confirmed their reservations are Dr. Lindley, Dean of Students Lawrence Smith, Dean

Concert Tonight; Public Is Invited

The 65-piece TCU Symphony Orchestra will present its fall concert under the direction of Dr. Ralph Guenther at 8:15 p.m. tonight in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

This will be the first appearance of the orchestra for the general public this year. The orchestra played the same program for the students yesterday at 11 a.m.

Selections which will be played are "Symphonic Poem, Les Preludes" by Liszt; "Waltzes from 'Der Rosenkavalier'" by Strauss; "Academic Festival Overture, Opus 80" by Brahms and "Symphony No. 7 in A Major" by Beethoven.

Guenther invites all students who were not able to attend the earlier concert, to attend tonight. Admission is free.

Renowned Psychologist Will Speak on Campus

"Children Coping with Problems" will be Dr. Lois Murphey's topic when she speaks at the Psychology colloquium at 10 a.m.

Professors Will Report On Research

"Baseball Terminology in Mexico," by Dr. John H. Hammond, chairman of the foreign language department, will be among six papers presented by faculty members at the 17th annual convention of the South-Central Modern Language Association.

Eleven members of the faculty will attend the convention at the Biltmore Hotel in Oklahoma City Nov. 11-12.

Dr. Ann Gossman, assistant professor of English, will address the Comparative Literature section. Her subject will be "Samson, Job, and the Exercise of Saints".

Renaissance Section

Dr. Karl Snyder will discuss "Thomas Heywood's Use of Proverbial Expressions in His Dramatic Works" at the Medieval and Renaissance Literature section.

Dr. Estus Polk, professor of English, will speak on "Samuel Johnson and the Gentlemen's Magazine".

"The Friendship of Wieland and Schiller" will be the subject of an address by Dr. L. John Monday in room four, Psychology Building.

Dr. Gardner Murphey, her husband, will describe his "Personal Impressions of Psychology in Japan, India and the Soviet Union" at 8 p.m. in room 104, Dan D. Rogers Hall.

He and his wife have recently returned from visiting these countries on a world tour.

Successful Author

Director of research of the Menninger Foundation in Topeka, Kan., Dr. Gardner Murphey is a former president of the American Psychological Association, a former chairman of the psychology department of the City in New York, and he is author of books and articles.

"He is one of the greatest living psychologists of the day, and his wife is also internationally known," remarked Dr. S. B. Sells, professor of psychology.

Former Professor

Dr. Lois Murphey, research psychologist at the Menninger Foundation, is the author of several books on child psychology and a former professor at Sarah Lawrence College in New York.

"We feel very honored to have these two psychologists on our campus," said Dr. Sells.

Dr. Gardner Murphey will confer with Dr. Sells on research during his stay here. Sells was assistant to Murphey at Columbia University in 1937.

Dr. Sells pointed out that these colloquiums are arranged as a part of the general program related to graduate studies in the department.

This is the University's first year to offer a Ph.D. program in psychology.

Class is Fasting

"Why do John's (the Baptist) disciples fast, but your disciples do not fast?" quoted Dr. Ambrose Edens from one of the synoptic gospels in his religion class.

"Now you Baptists," directed Dr. Edens, "when was the last time you fasted?"

"This morning, I didn't eat breakfast!" blurted a front-row student.

Self Study Will Reflect Standards of University

What are we doing? What have we done? How can we do it better?

For two years more than 400 University staff members have been involved in a "self-study program," seeking answers to these questions.

Now with 3,000 pages of reports before them, they are getting ready to take a cold, analytic look at their answers.

A 20-member team of educators from the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools will be on campus Nov. 6-9 to appraise the results of the study.

Their report will be turned over to the accrediting agencies involved in the program.

But what does it all mean?

Overall Study

For an answer to this it is necessary to go back into the history of the University, its goals and achievements, and some of the organizations with which it is affiliated.

About 1912 the leading colleges of Texas joined in organizing the Association of Texas Colleges. It recognized the fact that certain standards were essential if a university of high quality were to be maintained.

Dropped Colleges

As a member of this organization, TCU discontinued its College of Medicine in 1918 and its Law School in 1920. Both were

Overworked Job

News has leaked through the Iron Curtain that I. A. Saratov, high ranking Soviet engineer, has been imprisoned in Chernikovsk, Russia.

Saratov had been working for 15 years in the rich Baku oilfields on a "secret" machine that would do the work of 100 men and finished it just last week.

Informed sources said Saratov was imprisoned because it was discovered it took 1,000 men to operate the machine.

dropped because they could not be maintained at the high educational level the University thought to be necessary.

The University was elected to membership in the Association of American Colleges in 1921 and accepted as a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1922.

It is the Southern Association which is responsible for the current self-study program.

Old Accreditation

"Many universities were accredited 20 or 30 years ago," Dr. Otto Nielsen, general chairman of the self-study program, said recently.

"At that time," he went on, "accreditation standards were lower than they now are."

No organized system of self-evaluation has been conducted within these schools since their date of accreditation.

"It would be possible," Dr. Nielsen further remarked "for a school to have gone down in its educational standards rather than to have improved them."

SELF STUDY

New Study Program

With this in mind, the Southern Association recently instigated a program whereby member schools would study themselves for a given period of time.

At the end of this self-study period a team of educators from the Association would visit the school and review the results of the study. Their report would be submitted for a reaffirmation of the school's accreditation standing.

TCU had not undergone such a self-evaluation study since it reached the status of university 20 years ago.

Pilot School

Recognizing the value of such a study, the University agreed to act as a "pilot school" for the new program.

On Dec. 8, 1958, the intensive self-probing began. It will come to an end Nov. 10.

A steering committee under the leadership of Dr. Nielsen has guided the study. Other members of the committee are Dean Jerome Moore of AddRan College, Dean Ike Harrison of the School of Business, Dean of Students Laurence Smith, and Amos Melton, assistant to the chancellor.

Wide Participation

Every aspect of the University from the new doctoral degree program to the maintenance departments, has been studied. According to Dr. Nielsen every staff member has had some part in the study.

The result is three volumes of reports consisting of more than 3,000 pages.

The visiting committee will study the reports and attempt to add objectively where they feel it is lacking. In any program of self-appraisal, Dr. Nielsen indicated, some subjective elements will creep in.

The committee will be completely free to investigate anything it chooses on campus, according to Dr. Nielsen. He indicated that members of the committee would very likely interview students as well as faculty members.

Study Affects All

"The thing we want to point out," Dr. Nielsen said, "is that this study affects everyone on campus, students as well as faculty."

Even the grading system has been a subject of study.

While the University as a whole is simply seeking reaffirmation of its accreditation, two programs are asking for initial accreditation.

New Accreditations

The School of Business is looking for accreditation from the American Association of Collegiate Schools of Business. The teacher education program seeks accreditation from the National Council of Accreditation of Teacher Education.

In addition to the accrediting processes involved, the study has had another important effect on the University.

Before the two-year program got underway, Dr. Nielsen pointed out, students and faculty members too, tended to identify themselves with a specific program or school instead of with the University as a whole.

'Multiversity' Feeling

There was a growing feeling of a "multiversity" instead of a university, according to Dr. Nielsen.

Now, he feels, the faculty has a better overview of the entire school. There is more unity of purpose and sympathy with the problems of other departments than had existed before.

The team from the Southern Association is not a professional "inspecting team." The men are educators in their own right. This is the first time this particular group of men has served together, Dr. Nielsen said.

The chairman of the team is Charles Davis, president of Winthrop College of South Carolina.

The Southern Association called the group "the most distinguished group of educators yet to be assigned to a single institution."

Inter-Seminary Movement Conference Held in Austin

Sixteen students from Brite College visited Austin recently to attend the Inter-Seminary Movement Regional Conference.

The conference was held at the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest.

Theme of the conference was "Christian Initiation" or "Baptism." Sessions were held Oct. 17, 18 and 19.

The ISM is a movement by several denominational seminaries to work together to define common goals and work toward those goals.

Disciples of Christ Schools represented were Brite College and Phillips University of Enid, Okla. Perkins School of Theology of Southern Methodist University participated. Students from the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary and Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest also attended.

Charles (Chuck) Isbell, chairman of the Brite ISM Committee and Hal Dungan, vice chairman, headed the group from here. Dungan is vice president of the Southwest Region of ISM which sponsored the convention.

Views of the different denominations represented were aired.

"Everyone gained a better understanding and felt a definite challenge. Most gained a deeper understanding, or realized the lack of understanding, of their own positions. An appreciation of other views on baptism were also felt," elaborated Dungan.

Next year the spring regional conference will be held at Phillips University. Theme for this conference will again be "Baptism".

In the fall the conference will be held here on campus with 150 to 200 students expected to attend from other colleges. The theme for the conference will deal with "The Eucharist" or "The Lord's Supper".

Brite College's committee of ISM meets each Tuesday for a luncheon. At this time a program is presented and discussed.

Election Backdrop

Absentee Ballot May Be Mailed; Voting Rules Established by States

By SUE GOLDSMITH

Are you sure you know who can vote come November 8? Now hear this!

The voter must be a United States citizen, at least 21 years old (20 in Hawaii, 19 in Alaska, 18 in Georgia and Kentucky), must be registered and, in most states, be able to read and write.

In Texas, the voter must have lived in the state one year and in the county six months. He must also pay a $1.50-$1.75 poll tax. Texas requires no loyalty oath or literacy test.

In all 50 states qualified voters who will be away from home on election day are permitted to vote by mail. Any citizen—including those who are ill, in most states—can apply for an absentee ballot.

In some elections, at all levels, the absentee vote has been the weight that tipped the scales.

President's Duties

Here are some of the officials American voters will elect Nov. 8.

President: As the nation's chief executive, he speaks for a united America. The President enforces national laws, signs or vetoes bills passed by Congress, directs foreign relations, and makes treaties with the consent of two-thirds of the Senate. He also appoints ambassadors, cabinet officers, federal judges and others. He is commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

Of all elected officers, only the President and Vice President are not elected directly by the people. Instead, they are chosen by members of the Electoral College, whose members are elected by popular vote.

Vice President: He presides over the Senate, but votes only in case of a tie. Recently, the Vice President has been called on to share many presidential responsibilities.

Ad Man Elected By Write-In Vote

Last week Ernest White, Fort Worth senior and advertising manager of The Skiff wondered to himself: "Is it possible to get elected by placing notices on bulletin boards?"

Ernie, as he is known by journalism students, placed notices on the black boards, bulletin boards, and every place available suggesting "Ernie White For Press Club President. Write-in Candidate."

The notices were somewhat effective, although passing journalism students attached witty things to his notices such as "For Dogcatcher" etc., and Ernie was elected vice-president of the Ridings Press Club on a write-in vote.

Mrs. Ida Burritt, Fort Worth special student was elected president of the press club and commented, "I'm really very pleased."

Miss Adrian Adams, Dallas junior, and Miss Sue Goldsmith, Mineral Wells senior, received the same vote-count for secretary-treasurer. A coin was tossed in the presence of Dr. D. Wayne Rowland, with the office going to Miss Adams.

Seven Vice Presidents have succeeded to the presidency upon the death of the President.

Senator Election

Members of Congress: One Senator will be elected from each of 34 states, including Texas, in 1960. The terms are for six years. In addition to its law-making functions, the Senate approves treaties with other nations and confirms presidential appointments.

All 437 members of the House of Representatives are up for election. The number from each state varies, depending on population. Twenty-two representatives will be elected from Texas. Representatives serve two-year terms. Apart from law-making duties, they institute impeachment proceedings and originate financial bills.

Governors and other state officials: Twenty-eight states, including Texas, will elect governors in 1960 for terms of from two to four years, depending on the state constitution. In Texas, the term is two years.

'Wizard' Gets New Music For Opening

"The Wizard of Oz" will be the annual children's musical for this year," the Fallis Players have announced.

Something new has been added to the script. Carl Hoyt, Theatre major from Port Carbon, Penn., has written new lyrics and a new musical score for Dorothy, the Cowardly Lion, the Tin Woodsman, and the Scarecrow.

The orchestration is being done by Ryan Edwards, musical director, with a script adaptation by Charles Jeffries, Fort Worth senior.

"Wizard" opens Feb. 10, to run through Feb. 18.

Faculty Trio Schedules Spring Italian Concert

The Faculty Trio composed of Mrs. Harriet Woldt, cellist; Tully Moseley, pianist and Kenneth Shanewerk, violinist, has scheduled a spring Italian concert.

The concert, which will be part of the fine arts department Italian Festival, will be performed on April 30.

Single Vote Can Be Decisive

On Nov. 8 citizens of the United States go to the polls to elect a president. Will you be one of these?

Probably so, but possibly not.

Is it that you may be busy that particular day? Or do you feel your one vote won't help, so why bother? The country is in a big enough mess, and though you favor one candidate, what good would one little vote do?

A great deal.

First, it is the citizen's duty to vote. Isn't democracy a government "of the people, by the people and for the people"? And, aren't you one of these people? You may be a brick at the bottom of the building. Remove it and the wall lacks a part of its support.

Second, your one vote could be the deciding factor in how your state votes, electorally. Texas elects one member to the Electoral College for each Texan in the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives, a total of 24.

Actually your vote isn't for the presidential candidate but for a set of electors, either 24 Democrats or 24 Republicans.

So what? You still don't see the necessity of voting?

Let's say you voted, half of the popular votes go to the opposing candidate and half—plus yours—go to your choice. Your candidate gets your state's 24 electoral votes. This might be the deciding factor in a national election.

Oh, you're not 21. Well, read this again come 1964.

Coeds for Nixon--Or Kennedy?

In the present presidential campaign the candidates are giving much attention to the young people.

This is very well, but most influence and money are in the hands of older people. This limits the influence of the younger vote.

Workers for both candidates have passed out party buttons to young people, and also have planted well directed party thoughts. Nixon, some observers feel, may have his share of the girls in tow. At least more TCU coeds may be wearing Nixon buttons than Kennedy badges.

If this is a fact, does it mean more young females are for Nixon? Are Kennedy workers falling down on the job?

From answers given by a number of students, those wearing Kennedy buttons think they know why they are wearing them, while many Nixon supporters just say, "He's the best man."

This may indicate that some Nixon votes might be converted to Kennedy, with a little help. In the closing days of the campaign a few votes could mean a lot in the final tally and final choice.

With very few exceptions, writers of biographies leave out the details you would like most to know about.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

BACK TALK

Immature Segregationists

By JERRY JOHNSON

The following paragraphs were submitted as a letter to the editor by Lonny Taylor, Fort Worth senior. Taylor is a judge on the University Student Court.

Dear Editor:

Last Monday (Oct. 24), the Campus Y and the Public Affairs Forum began to put up posters around the campus advertising a joint meeting at which Kenneth Henry, a professor at Jarvis Christian College, was to talk.

The subject of his speech was advertised as "The Negro's Quest for Fair Play".

Henry is well qualified to talk on this subject. He is a Texan, and a graduate of Jarvis and the Yale Divinity School. He is the first Negro ever to be elected president of the National Disciples Student Fellowship, the youth group of the Christian Church, of which I am not a member. At present he is a teacher of philosophy at Jarvis.

But evidently some people here on campus do not want Mr. Henry's talk advertised. Perhaps the word "Negro" on posters offends them, or perhaps they are afraid someone might attend the meeting and learn something.

Or maybe they are just plain destructive; I don't know. The first hypothesis is made plausible by the fact that on the poster in the Fine Arts Building, "Negro" was crossed out and "nigger" substituted. In the Student Center, the operation was done a little more efficiently: the posters—four of them—were simply pulled down and taken away.

Subsequently, three more posters were put up to replace the stolen ones. The next day they, too, were gone. In this way these two groups have been very effectively prevented from advertising their meetings to the students who might have been interested in attending them.

A university, and, in a larger sense, a democracy, depends for its vitality upon a free competition of ideas. When any group tries to stifle an idea, they are making two very dangerous assumptions. First, they are saying that their fellowmen do not have the sense to tell a good idea from a bad one.

Up to a certain point, this may be true. But then they are going beyond this and saying that they, through some mysterious power given to them, do not have this ability and are going to make use of it by simply censoring out all the bad ideas.

On this campus, this attitude takes the form of tearing down signs advertising meetings where "bad" ideas may be expressed. In Soviet Russia and the Dominican Republic, and more recently "Free" China, it takes the form of controlling all communications through the government, so that only the "right" ideas are expressed. The attitude remains the same, only the location and the efficiency of its application differ.

Sincerely,
 Lonny Taylor

Editor's note: Evidently a small group of students on campus are ardent segregationists. Not only do they disapprove of the colored race, but are so immature that they feel they should suppress any information about the Negro.

If we are to cope with the segregation problem, we must look at it from both sides. And if a man of the colored race is willing to come to the campus and objectively discuss the problem, we should welcome him—not censor him!

Kerry and McCracken Defend Views in Debate

Political challenges were tossed back and forth Tuesday night in the Little Theater.

Democrat Henry Kerry and Republican Paul McCracken defended their views in a debate sponsored by the Forums Committee.

A panel of students questioned the two men. Young Republicans David Barry, Tyler junior, and John Roach, Fort Worth senior, posed questions to Kerry. The Young Democrats were represented by Bob Slaydon, Houston graduate student, and Emmett Brunson, Houston senior.

GOP Record Cited

In an opening speech McCracken said the Republican administration has a record of peace and economic growth. He quoted men such as Gen. Nathan B. Twining, retired chairman joint chiefs of staff, to back up his statement that our defense program is good.

Kerry replied that some Republicans have admitted that our defense is behind Russia's.

Barry asked Kerry about the Democratic plan to give more federal aid to education.

Aid Best Investment

"School aid is our best investment," answered Kerry, "and economic measures will balance money spent on schools."

On the right to work laws McCracken said "The laws are really a protection against labor unions."

"Members have a chance to withdraw from a corrupt union," he continued, "and the union would be forced to clean up."

Kerry graduated from the Texas University school of law and is now with a local law firm. He is a director of the State Junior Bar of Texas.

McCracken is a chartered life underwriter and studied in the School of Business here. He received his DDA from the University of Michigan.

Club Plans Tour Of Med School

The new Southwestern Medical School in Dallas will be inspected by members of the Biology Club Saturday.

Mrs. Stephen Huff, the club's sponsor, and other faculty members will accompany the students.

Mrs. Huff said visitors have been promised a complete tour of the facilities which are considered exceptionally fine.

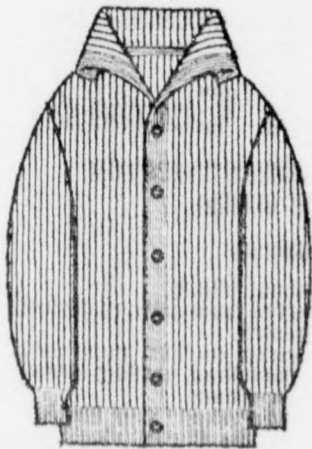

"Besides admiring all that up-to-date equipment, we expect to see a lot of old friends," she said.

"Dr. Bruce Fallis is a pathologist on the staff. He is one of our graduates and his father was chairman of the speech department. Then there's Clifton Dowell. He graduated here and is about to finish his doctoral work in bacteriology over there. And we have several graduates in the medical school," Mrs. Huff continued.

Persons making the trip will meet in the parking lot behind the Science Building at 8 a.m. Saturday.

ROBERT LILLY... one more chance.

Coming Attraction: Lilly's Last AA Stand

By DANA CAMPBELL

Robert (Tiger) Lilly, the Frogs' giant bamboo tackle, has one more chance to prove he's an All-America. At least in the eyes of the National Football Writers of America.

Lilly and the Frogs rest this weekend. Then comes the Homecoming encounter with Texas University. That's when the writers go to the poles to vote.

So that's the game in which Lilly must do some final impressing to insure a spot on the most heralded All-America team of them all.

The man he must convince is Blackie Sherrod, executive sports editor of the Dallas Times-Herald. Sherrod is the only representative in this area that will jog to the National Football Writers of America convention in Chicago.

In other words, Sherrod is the man who can make or break a player's chance at this dream team from this area of the country.

BUT IF SHERROD feels like the majority of the writers in this state, and all indications are that he does, then Lilly will make the first team. After all, he made every pre-season selection and has received more publicity than any other Frog player.

If Lilly does make this team, he'll be the fifth Frog to do so in the last six years. Jim Swink and Hugh Pitts made it in 1955, Norman Hamilton in 1956 and Donald Floyd in 1958.

And if the monstrous tackle goes ahead to make consensus All-America he will be the fifth Frog to accomplish this feat. Others were quarterbacks Sammy Baugh and Davy O'Brien, halfback Swink and tackle Floyd.

Floyd didn't make the Sports Writers' team his senior year ('59), but he did make every other team. In fact, Floyd is TCU's only consensus All-America tackle.

Arvie Martin, the Frogs' center and team captain, appears to have an excellent chance to make the United Press International first team. He has been mentioned three times during the season as one of the week's outstanding linemen in UPI's poll.

ONLY TWO OTHER Southwest Conference players have definite claims to the All-America listings. One is E. J. Holub, Texas Tech's strong center. There seems to be a shortage of great centers in the nation and Holub is already "in."

The other is Ronnie Bull, Baylor halfback. Bull has the backers and Baylor has the record and a national ranking to help him out.

Now back to earth.

The Frogs have spent a hectic week with Coach Abe Martin scrimmaging on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Although idle this week, Martin and Co. have come to the realization that the SWC title isn't out of reach and appear ready to make a final three-game thrust to corral the top spot.

Martin will probably let the team rest over the weekend and then come right back with rugged workouts at the first of next week. As yet, no changes have popped up in the starting lineup.

Shutouts Dot Action

Shutouts dominated independent play in touch football Monday afternoon. Army defeated BSU, 8-0 and DSF blanked the Vigilantes, 10-0.

The Army will attempt to keep winning next Monday afternoon against the Newman Club. The victory over BSU brought the Doughboys' record to .500 and kept them in the fight for third place.

Doug Moore ran 40 yards with a sideline pass from Bobby Cloud for the only score.

The winless Vigilantes play the Falcons in the other game Monday. DSF handed the Vigilantes their fifth straight defeat, 10-0, last week. A 60-yard touchdown pass from Jim Rudd to Charles Roberts in the first half was all the Crusaders needed.

Jim Wright kicked a 30-yard field goal in the second half for some added insurance.

The Falcons are in the thick of the fight for third place in the standing with Brite and the Army.

Five Teams Planning For Chances for Title

At last the Southwest Conference is back to normal. Now five teams have a chance to escape with all the goodies instead of only three.

As any veteran SWC follower knows, by the first of November almost every team is still in the running. This year, Arkansas, Baylor, and Rice are all in good position to win and TCU and Texas with a little bit of luck could still make it.

A game that could make the Hatfield-McCoy feud look like a party will take place in Little Rock Saturday. Arkansas plays host to Rice in a battle of survival in the race. It is traditional to throw rice at a wedding, as of yet no SWC team has been able to throw Rice. Playing in the foothills gives Arkansas an advantage. They have been beaten there once this year by Baylor and that could make them double tough. Rice has allowed two touchdowns against them while rolling up 117 points in six games.

Two players in the spotlight will be the rival centers, Wayne Harris and Boyd King. Harris, the pivot man for the Razorbacks, is comparatively small for a center, weighing 190 lbs., but has exceptional speed and hits impressively. Rice's center, King, plays a hustling game and is in on many of his teams' tackles.

Another dust raising game will be played in Waco. Baylor's Bears attempt to get back on the winning track against Texas.

Baylor was brought back to earth last week at the hands of the Frogs, while Texas played mud-pies with SMU. Neither team was too impressive and seemed to be pointing for this week. Texas was particularly happy with the return to form of Jack Collins who aided in the 17-7 win. He has been rather quiet this year.

A&M and SMU finally meet a team with which they are on the same level. They play each other. SMU has yet to scratch the win column. This game could go either way in Dallas.

Texas Tech plays an intersectional game with Tulane in Lubbock. Tulane is currently resting in the number ten position in the Southeastern Conference.

The Frogs are enjoying a well-earned rest after defeating Baylor. Their next effort will be against Texas Nov. 12.

If you think the conference is all fouled up this week, wait till next week. Like the man said, "You ain't seen nutten yet."

Lilly, Terrell Outstanding In Bear Play

Outstanding play against Baylor earned the titles of "most valuable" lineman and back for Robert Lilly and Larry Terrell.

This marks the second straight time the Frog Club has selected Lilly for the award. The huge tackle was cited for his outstanding playing, and especially the touchdown play on which Sonny Gibbs scored.

Larry Terrell was recognized for playing the "best game of his career" against Baylor. Terrell's pass interception in the fourth quarter stopped a drive deep in TCU territory.

The awards were presented by Cliff Morris, president of the Frog Club.

Phi Delts Moving On

From the depths of utter speculation Phi Delta Theta has risen up to take a commanding position in the fraternity pigskin chase.

A team that had a long way to go at the beginning of the season has galloped along that path at full speed and has been jumping over opponents faster than Susie-Q can hop rope.

But while the Phi Delts continue to mow down the opposition, Sigma Chi continues to do the same. It all points to the two clan's final meeting Nov. 17—the game that will decide the fraternity championship.

Sigma Chi has the passers in Billy Stites and John R. Smith. Phi Delt has the runners in Mark Clifford and Tim Walters.

This week the Phi Delts whipped SAE, 32-0, and will rest until next Thursday. Sigma Chi battled the Phi Kaps yesterday.

Next Tuesday's games pit the Phi Kaps and Sig Eps and the Kappa Sigs and SAEs.
