Fans Make Rodeo Hit Despite Mud

A crowd of 500 turned out Sunday for the mud-covered rodeo competition, according to Dr. Comer Clay, Rodeo Club sponsor, who pronounced the event "very successful."

Coeds doffed their shoes and those participating were as brown as mud itself by the time events were over.

But Kappa Delta spirits were rosey. The sorority walked away with first, second and third place in the goat sacking contest and the first place trophy in sorority goat sacking.

In fraternity competition, Sigma Chi won first place goat sacking.

Horse Race Cancelled

The wild horse race was called off because of mud. Other events went on as scheduled.

David Gwynn, Fort Worth junior, set the record time for bare back bronco riding, and Doyle Blagg, Denton freshman was first in calf roping. Mae Ruffeno, Stanford sophomore, won the steer wrestling competition and Hershel Upton, San Antonio sophomore, ribbon roping. Bob Watson, Grandview sophomore won the bull riding event.

Finances Team

The Rodeo was held at 2 p.m. in the Cowtown Posse Arena to finance the TCU Rodeo team in competition against schools in the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. A district event will be held April 4 at Sam Houston State College in Huntsville. The Rodeo Club, which sponsors the Rodeo Team, raised $175 from the event Sunday.

Reduced Cliburn Tickets Offered

Tickets to the Van Cliburn concert March 27 are available at a discount to students and faculty members.

The $6 tickets may be purchased for $4 in the Fine Arts office in the Ed Landreth Building.

The seats are located on the main floor in the right and right-center sections of the second block back from the stage.

Association Names Lehman Director

Jim Lehman, assistant public relations director, has been elected district director of the American College Public Relations Association (ACPRA) for the coming year.

At a recent Oklahoma City convention, where Lehman was elected, the University's public relations department walked away with five of eleven first-place awards presented by ACPRA.

Awards Listed

First-place "citation awards" were given for the "50 years in Fort Worth" public relations project; the faculty bulletin, edited by Amos Melton; "TCU Puts an Extra Plus in Education," advertising project by Lehman; and "That Ancient Fish," top news story, written by Mrs. Bobby Barratt.

MRS. FRANKLIN DELANO ROOSEVELT

Eleanor Roosevelt Will Close 'Series' Calendar March 22

Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt comes to Fort Worth to close the year's Select Series programs with a discussion of "How Can the United States Best Influence the World Against Communism" at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

Mrs. Roosevelt, widow of the man who was president from 1932-45, has a distinguished record of her own.

Fine Arts Classes To Be Required For Bachelor's

Beginning in the fall, all students who hope to be graduated with bachelor degrees must have three semester hours in art, music or theatre, President D. Ray Lindley has announced.

The plan has been under study for some time and has been approved by the University Council and the Board of Trustees.

The requirement may be met by taking one-semester survey and appreciation courses in the subjects, by completing six hours in other fields of art, music or theatre, or by completing the six-hour course, "Interrelations of the Arts."

"Some knowledge of these areas is required of students entering graduate schools at most universities. In addition, no graduate can be called 'well-rounded' without some understanding of the fine arts," Dr. Lindley said.

Hall Leads Faith Study

William D. Hall, associate professor of missions, will lead a study and discussion group on personal faith at 5 p.m., tomorrow in the Faculty Lounge of Brite College.

Members of Student Volunteer Movement, those interested in foreign missions, expressed a desire for this type of study at their last meeting.

More Students Will Live Off Campus Next Fall

Notices are now being placed in the dormitories that will permit more students to live off campus.

About 100 women and 250 men students will be given permission to live off campus next fall, said Dr. Laurence C. Smith, dean of students, at the monthly meeting of the Committee for Greater TCU last Thursday. Last fall only 38 women and 108 men students were given this permission.

Each Fall the University does not have vacancies to fill the room reservations it receives. Capable students, preferably juniors and seniors, will be permitted to move off campus, so that more of these students can be admitted.

Students living off campus will have the same restrictions and obligations as students living on campus.

Students from Fort Worth must sign for a dormitory room for the entire year. In the past many students have been moving out at

Timers, Judges Needed for Meet

Two hundred time-keepers are needed for the National Forensic League tournament to be held on campus March 24-25.

Students desiring to serve are urged to contact Debate Coach Dave Matheny at Ext. 255.

Also, 350 judges for the debate rounds are needed. Any student with experience or who has worked with NFL contests as an undergraduate may qualify to be judge. Those interested also should contact Matheny for details.

Judges other than undergraduates will be attorneys, faculty, members of the Fine Arts Guild and public school teachers.

Dr. Paul Siple, Army Scientific Adviser for Research and Development, gives Skiff reporter Claude Brown a few notes on his antarctic experiences. Dr. Siple, an ecologist, was among the 32 scientists attending the Isolation and Stress Conference last week.

Ex Boy Scout Makes Good In Antarctic

By CLAUDE BROWN

Dr. Paul A. Siple, who has spent more time in the antarctic than any other man, was among the scientists on campus last week for the Isolation and Stress Conference.

When Richard Byrd led his little group of adventurers into the frozen vastness of Antarctica in 1928, Paul Allman Siple, a teenage kid went along. He had been chosen from all the Boy Scouts in the nation after a series of tests and a training period.

Usually a youngster in such a group bears the brunt of unending practical jokes. But looking back, Dr. Siple says such was not the case for him.

Youngest in Group

"Not only was I the youngest," he laughed, "I was also the largest and as strong as anyone in the group."

By his appearance he might yet be as strong as any man experiencing the unique Antarctic life today.

No wonder Paul Allman Siple has made ecology, the study of man's reactions to his environment, his life's work. Since his days as a Boy Scout in Erie, Pa. he has made six other trips to the big deep freeze down south. He was scientific director of the 1956-58 venture and has become known as an explorer and geographer.

Men Have Visions

Some men have visions of vast mineral deposits beneath the ice crust. Others dream of an antarctic commercial airport to shorten the distance in traveling between certain parts of the world.

Space vehicles could be launched with more accuracy from this southern-most continent due to its proximity to the worlds axis. This proximity to the axis would eliminate most errors caused by the earth's turning.

The Navy maintains three detachments of twenty men on the continent through the winter; twenty men compromising their own little world—just a pulse of life in a chunk of ice almost as large as North America.

This is what is meant by "behavior and stress of small groups in isolation." By it man gains a greater knowledge of himself and may one day be prepared for the conquest of space, thanks to men like Dr. Paul Allman Siple, explorer, geographer, ecologist and ex Boy Scout.

Exhibit Date Announced For Art and Advertising

The third annual Exhibition of Advertising and Editorial Art, sponsored by the Dallas-Fort Worth Art Directors Club, will be displayed from March 20 to April 13 in the Fine Arts Gallery in the Ed Landreth Building.

Included in the show are 315 pieces chosen from almost a thousand entries from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Arizona and Louisiana.

The jury which made the selections was composed of Austin Briggs, Connecticut, nationally known magazine illustrator; Bill Tara, Los Angeles, advertising consultant to Campbell-Ewald, Inc., and chairman of the International Design Conference at Aspen; and Bradbury Thompson, designer and editor of Westvaco Inspirations, and formerly art director of Mademoiselle magazine.

Gold medals, representing the "best of show", were awarded to Robert Hallady of Dallas for his design of the catalog for the Gallery of Modern Art of Fort Worth; to Jim Howard, Dallas, for his design of a Neiman-Marcus Bride's Shop advertisement; and to Tom Ballenger, Houston, for his cover illustration for the Schlumberger annual report.

The competition is held each February. Any artist, art director, photographer, advertising agency, printer or film producer in the Southwest may enter.

Gallery hours are 9-5 daily, 9-12 Saturday, closed Sunday.

midterm. There will be a $40 room reservation fee.

Dr. Smith said the important thing is that students are either living at home, married and have their own homes, live in the dormitories, or have permission to live off campus.

"We became aware that the General Information Bulletin needed changing," said Dr. Smith, "when a student wrote asking if he could please live at home with his wife."

TCU is housing more students because more students are attending here from out of state and beyond Tarrant County. In 1953-54, 74 per cent of the undergraduate students were from this area. Now only 62 per cent are from Fort Worth and Tarrant County.

Future building of dormitories depends on land and financing, said Dr. Smith. Dormitories of the kind wanted will cost between $175,000 and $250,000.

President D. Ray Lindley, when asked about possible use of Worth Hills, said that he had never stated it would not be used for dormitories.

TWU Coeds To Present 'Campus Originals' Show

A showing of the best 46 creations in the "Campus Originals" fashion design program at Texas Women's University, Denton, will be held in the auditorium of Titche-Goettinger Company in Dallas at 6:30 p.m., Thursday, March 23, according to Dr. Bethel Caster, head of TWU's clothing and costume design department.

The program is aimed to encourage originality of design among students.

The creations were selected by fashion instructors from 70 participants in the program.

Each student sketched her own design, made the pattern and produced an original ensemble, related Mrs. Jackie Block, Titche-Goettinger's Fashion Coordinator.

Three girls will be selected from the show as having designed the most outstanding garments.

The show will be open to the general public. Tickets can be obtained by calling RI 8-4811, Ext. 498 in Dallas or writing to the Special Events Office, Titche-Goettinger, Dallas.

Now Hear This...

Of Men and Donkeys

Decisions are a private matter. They are not something that one adult can make for another.

Once, in one of those unknown times and places that frequently appear in legend, there lived a man, his son and their donkey.

One day all three began a trip into the village. Upon starting out, the father placed his son upon the donkey and walked in front of the donkey, leading him. Soon, however, they passed a crowd of field hands who jeered and shouted, "Hey, look at that mean boy making his poor father walk while he rides."

The father thought about this, and decided that the field hands had a point, so he took the boy off the donkey and mounted himself. Going along this way, the trio then chanced to pass three women doing their washing by a stream. One of the women looked up and said in a loud and horrified tone, "Will you look at that horrid man, riding that poor little donkey and making his poor son walk on the hot, dusty road."

The father began to feel that the women were right, so he lifted his son up beside him and he thought surely everyone would think him and his son right and just.

But then a caravan passed and one of the leaders shouted to another, "Look at those two lazy slob. They will kill that poor animal for they are much too heavy for him."

So the father took his son off the donkey and got off himself. And both walked in front of the animal. A group of villagers passed them, laughed loudly and said, "How stupid of that man to lead the animal when he could be riding him."

It is not what others say is right that matters, it is what one knows to be right.

Insurance Plan Modified

Two years ago at the request of the student body and Student Congress a health and accident insurance plan was provided for students. The program this year has been modified in both the coverage offered and premiums charged. The new plan also offers a 9 month or 12 month policy period and differing rates for dormitory and off-campus students.

The coverage of the plan offers participating students twenty-four hours protection during the school year.

Accidents and sickness are covered in the benefits of the plan. In case of an accident, up to $500 is provided for medical expenses. Such expenses include x-rays, laboratory fees and registered nurses fees. These expenses may be incurred in or out of a hospital.

In case of sickness, up to $10 a day for 30 days will be paid for expenses. Also included in the hospitalization is $300 for surgical expense.

This plan would be worthy of investigation by all students.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"AN' REMEMBER, WHEN HE PINS ON HIS FRATERNITY PIN—DON'T FORGET TO GIVE A LITTLE 'OUCH!'"

the Soothsayer

By JACK HARKRIDER

Jack Parr is a "welcher"—Ed Sullivan is a "chicken." Parr is a "cry-baby"—Sullivan is a "liar." Big deal.

One of the hottest feuds to hit the entertainment field in a long time, is the fight between Parr and Sullivan. And if you're a Sullivan fan, you may as well stop right here because I am definitely anti-Sullivan.

Briefly summarizing the story, Sullivan gave notice to all booking agents that any personality who appears on Parr's show for $320, would receive the same amount and no more on the Sullivan show. Since Sullivan usually pays up to $7,500 for performers, this represents a serious economic threat to them and, in effect, a boycott to the Parr show.

Both Parr and Sullivan have turned this into a personal fight, just as NBC and CBS have turned it into a private war. Perhaps it's the natural thing to do, but that does not necessarily make it right.

To begin with, the press has had a great hand in clouding the issues at hand. It has been the fourth estate which has played up this personal feud and which has been eagerly seeking words of sarcasm from both parties. But have they tried to find out what the fight is really about? Apparently not.

Morris Ernst, a noted constitutional lawyer, made the same observations and drew the conclusion that this fight represents a threat to the first amendment—the freedom of expression of ideas.

As it stands now, Sullivan has the legal right to make such demands, in effect, doom the Parr show. It may not be morally right, but there is no law preventing him from doing it.

Actually, there are two points to consider. The one Ernst mentioned, and the idea of a performer's right to work. Both of these points are important and it is up to the public, rather than the government, to decide the issues.

Parr is an individual to be admired for his convictions and his willingness to fight for them. Sullivan, judging from his columns and from his recent statements, is a person to be criticized and denounced. However, even this should not enter into the issues at hand.

Granted, a producer or network should have some control over the personalities appearing on a show. But how far should this control go?

The public has a right to express and to exchange ideas. A performer does the same in his "act" and, therefore, should have the same rights. The public has the right to work when and if it pleases. The performer should have the same right.

Of course, it should be noted that these rights are not complete freedoms, but, for the general welfare of the public, they have certain restrictions, depending on the people and the times.

Thus, the real question is: How far can an individual go or exert his power, before it infringes on the rights of others? In this case, the question is not "can," but "should" Sullivan have the right to dominate another show—on another network?

The answer is up to you, the citizen.

Be careful what you start when you try to stop something.

Culture, like custard, curdles when it's overdone.

Are We Really This Bad?

What do foreigners really think of us?

"Americans are too much in a hurry to take time for friendship," said one foreign student at a recent meeting of International Friendship Club.

Miss Jane Reynolds, sophomore from the Philippines, led a panel of five in summarizing impressions of the United States which TCU foreign students expressed in questionnaires.

Members of the panel were Morris Horesh, sophomore from Iran, representing the Middle East; Julian Guerrero, freshman from Cuba, speaking for South and Central America; Miss Viola Baliko, junior from Hungary, representing Europe; Anant Negandhi, graduate student from India, his country; and Miss Annabelle Erskine, freshman from England, for Southeast students.

When asked if they took part in American sports, most replied that not many did. "Most of your games are very different," a graduate student from India said. "We can't play this baseball." Another student said, "Your sports are not for the sake of sport, but for fame."

Are American students well informed about the world in general? No. Answers were unanimous. Students attributed this to lack of interest and material. "You are well-informed only on bad points of Communism," one member said.

Foreign students find American college women "attractive, well-dressed, beautiful and more cultured than American College men." They think American dating is good for getting acquainted with the opposite sex, but they do not think that high school students should be allowed to date in cars.

In speaking of the general attitudes of other countries toward America, the students said American ideas of freedom are well accepted, but often Americans abroad leave bad impressions. Some said the United States was a champion of peace but has a bad foreign policy.

Foreign students who answered questionnaires agreed that it is hard to make close American friendships but said they would like to do so.

"Segregation problems cause a lot of countries to look down on the United States," one student said. As a Cuban student expressed it, segregation is "a dark spot on the white face of democracy."

Other comments on Americans and America:

"Americans don't care about anything but dollars."

"I expected a more Christian nation and higher moral values."

"I was an idealist before I came, but now I am a materialist."

"American people are honest in general, more so than in my country."

This is something to think about.

Baptist Seminary Began As Outgrowth of Baylor

By TOM HOKE

Fort Worth's Baptist Seminary is an outgrowth of the theological department of Baylor University.

In 1901 a theological department was established in Baylor University with Dr. B. H. Carroll as dean. In 1905, under Dr. Carroll's leadership, the department was organized into the Baylor Theological Seminary with five full time instructors and authority to confer theological degrees.

The Seminary separated from Baylor in 1907 and was chartered March 14, 1908. The Seminary remained in Waco until 1910 when it moved to Fort Worth. Dr. Carroll was chosen first president of the Seminary.

The present president, Dr. Robert E. Naylor, was elected Sept. 1, 1958.

The Seminary, situated in South Fort Worth on 70 acres, is located on Seminary Hill. The great white round dome of one of the buildings can be seen for miles.

Five main buildings occupy the grounds: Fort Worth Hall, George E. Crowder Hall, Floy Bernard Hall, Memorial Building and J. M. Price Hill. All buildings are fireproof.

The Baptist Seminary is composed of three schools: Theology, Religious Education and Church Music.

The Faculty Council stated the relationships between these schools in 1925. The council said, "The School of Theology shall be the great center and unifying heart of the institution."

The Baptist Seminary has a veterans training program, correspondence study, various scholarships and memorial awards as well as adequate dormitory facilities.

Marine Corps Recruiter Plans Interviews Here

First Lieutenant Carolann F. Martin of the Marine Corps will be on campus March 22 to interview college women interested in becoming commissioned officers in the Marine Corps Reserve.

Undergraduates enrolled in the Women Officer's Training Corps will receive a six-week indoctrination course at Marine Corps Schools, Quantico, Va. during summer vacations from college. Seniors and recent graduates will complete their training in one continuous twelve-week session, according to Lt. Martin.

Graduates of the WOTC program will receive commissions as 2nd Lieutenants in the Marine Reserve and will serve on active duty for two years.

College women enrolled in the WOTC program may withdraw at any time prior to being commissioned. Applicants must be unmarried and over 18 years of age. The starting salary for a Woman Marine 2nd Lieutenant is $338.58 per month. All officers receive 30 days paid vacation each year, social security benefits, uniform allowance, free medical and dental care, free recreational facilities and travel allowance.

Dr. Lucy Harris, dean of the Haris College of Nursing, made a consultation visit March 15-16 to Emporia College, Emporia, Kan.

While in Kansas, Dean Harris talked to several interested persons, including the president of the college, about the intended nursing school.

Hammond To Review Book, 'Ugly American'

Dr. W. J. Hammond, chairman of the history department, will review the book, "The Ugly American," at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 21 in the St. Joseph Hospital School of Nursing auditorium. Brian Vincent, spokesman for the hospital, said the public is invited to hear the review. There will be no admission charge.

Adderly Quintet Brings New Jazz Sounds to SMU

By LYNN SWANN

Julian "Cannonball" Adderly, called by many jazz buffs, the greatest alto sax man in America, since Charlie "The Bird" Parker, hit McFarlin Auditorium at SMU Wednesday night with a new innovation—"soul jazz".

Adderly and his quintet, brother Nat on coronet, Sam Jones on bass, Lou Hayes on drums, and Vic Feldman on piano and vibes, made cool sounds with a quiet undertone for the approximately 1,000 who attended the concert.

Although an undercurrent of rhythm was evident in every piece the group played, there was an overtone of sweet melody.

"People say I started 'soul jazz,' but the movement has been going on for a long time. Why, musicians had souls when my daddy was playing jazz," said Adderly.

He was voted first alto sax in the 1960 Playboy, Downbeat and Metronome jazz polls.

Crowd Receptive

The near-capacity crowd in McFarlin Auditorium was receptive. Composed primarily of Negroes and SMU students, it was dotted with the white heads of elderly couples, a surprising scene at jazz concert. A number scene at a jazz concert. A number scene at a jazz concert.

Pianist, Victor Feldman, was especially outstanding in the slower arrangements. New to the quintet this year, he has appeared with Woody Herman, Shorty Rogers and other West Coast groups since his coming to the United States from London. He is the only white musician of the group.

Nat Adderly, a shorter, thinner copy of his brother, handled the cornet beautifully. In "Autumn Leaves" he made the instru-

Pianist Van Cliburn will give a benefit performance at 8:15 p.m. Monday, March 27, in Will Rogers Auditorium. The concert will raise funds for the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition to be held on campus in 1962.

People are expected to come from as far as Minnesota to hear the young pianist.

The competition is being sponsored by the National Guild of Piano Teachers, the Fort Worth Piano Teachers Forum and TCU. It will feature artists from all over the world, with a prize of $10,000 going to the winner.

Tickets for next week's concert, which range from $3-$8, may be purchased from the concert ticket service at Washer Brothers in downtown Fort Worth.

Students Perform At Art Meeting

University Place Art Club held its annual guest day tea Monday at the Colonial Country Club.

Miss Betty Hillgoss, Pasadena sophomore, gave two dramatic readings; Misses Jo LaRue Black, Fort Worth junior, and Randie Guenther, Fort Worth freshman, accompanied by Mrs. Ralph Guenther, played a composition for two violins and piano.

Program chairman were Mrs. Leo Kent and Mrs. Douglas Tomlinson. Mrs. O. P. Bombarger, president, presided at the meeting.

Special guests were Mrs. George T. Cope, club sponsor; Mrs. Raymond Winn, president of the general University Place Club; Mrs. Galen Unger, president of the Book Club, and Mrs. H. C. Deckard, president of the Music Club.

ment perform as if it were at his full command—as, indeed, it was.

Tune Lost

The tune would often be lost as the group improvised the new sounds they seemed just to be discovering. Once Nat fell into the semi classic "Lover", before returning to the theme.

The concert was sponsored by the Dallas Jazz Society. The Modern Jazz Quartet will appear under its sponsorship at McFarlin on April 8.

SMU is having another concert April 7. Featuring pianist Roger Williams, it will be held in the Student Center.

A special rate is being offered TCU students and dates for a limited number of reserved seats at $1.50. Mail orders will be accepted at the SMU Student Center, Dallas 22.

Dutch Couple Perform Here

By DON BUCKMAN

Marias and Miranda entertained Select Series showgoers with low pressure but high caliber music for a rainy evening last week.

Sometimes the pair seemed like Burns and Allen with a guitar and Dutch accents, but their presentation of nostalgic folksongs from around the world was more than compensatory for their occasional weak attempts at humor.

It was clear from the tardy beginning that Marias' guitar was to play—pardon the pun—second fiddle to the couple's singing.

Selections were varied enough to sustain interest. "The Cruelty of Barbara Allen" was an unusual arrangement of the song whose lyrics are familiar to English literature students. "Beside the Windmill" was a truly charming piece constructed by the pair from a fragment of a Dutch folk song.

Marias (the husband) became so involved in some numbers, notably the Ukrainian song "My Boat Is Drifting," that he seemed oblivious to all else. His wife's performance prompted one young lady in the audience to comment to those with her, "She's cute."

Three encores concluded the performance, although Marias declined to play "Waltzing Matilda," which he is said to have introduced to this country.

Her Last Time on TCU Stage

Coed To Act in McCrary Play

The performance of "John Brown's Body," to be held at 11 a.m. Thursday in the Student Center Ballroom, marks the fifth Marc McCrary production in which Miss Jean McBride has appeared.

It will also be her last time on the TCU stage.

The Texas City senior has had

MISS JEAN McBRIDE

a role in all of McCrary's original plays since the spring of 1955.

It all started when McCrary, Fort Worth senior, won the TCU creative writing contest. He later put on a special campus production of the play in which Miss McBride had the leading role of Mlle. Monique.

The second McBride-McCrary performance was another special campus production. "The Garden," was a poetic one-act play. In it Miss McBride had the leading role of Simone, a wandering poetess.

Appears in "Carol"

Miss McBride appeared in McCrary's adaptation of the "Christmas Carol," given for a convocation on campus in 1959. It was later shown on television in 1960.

In the Howdy Week musical revue which McCrary staged this fall, Miss McBride played the part of a fading actress.

Plays Narrator

On Feb. 9, Miss McBride was the leading narrator in "John Brown's Body," performed at the Ridglea Theatre for an audience of 1,000. She will repeat the one-hour performance Thursday in the Student Center Ballroom.

Admission is 50 cents with benefits going to "Descant," the University's literary magazine.

Female roles wear chiffon dresses and the male actors are dressed in formal attire. There is little action and no scenery, McCrary explained. All is carried on by the voice, actors becoming the sounds of battle, troops marching, bands, trains and the wind.

INTERVIEWS for: Sales and Sales Management Training Program

This Program is designed to develop young, inexperienced men for careers in life insurance sales and sales management. It provides an initial training period of 3 months (including 3 weeks at a Home Office School) before the men move into full sales work. Those trainees who are interested in and who are found qualified for management responsibility are assured of ample opportunity to move on to such work in either our field offices or in the Home Office after an initial period in sales. The Connecticut Mutual is a 114-year-old company with 520,000 policyholder-members and over four billion dollars of life insurance in force. Aggressive expansion plans provide unusual opportunities for the limited number of men accepted each year. Arrange with the placement office for an interview with:

I WAS A TEEN-AGE SLIDE RULE

In a recent learned journal (Mad) the distinguished board chairman (Ralph "Hot-Lips" Sigafoos) of one of our most important American corporations (the Arf Mechanical Dog Co.) wrote a trenchant article in which he pinpointed our gravest national problem: the lack of culture among science graduates. Mr. Sigafoos's article, it must be emphasized, was in no sense derogatory. He stated quite clearly that the science student, what with his gruelling curriculum in physics, math, and chemistry, can hardly be expected to find time to study the arts too. What Mr. Sigafoos deploras—indeed, what we all deplore—is the lopsided result of today's science courses: graduates who can build a bridge but can't compose a concerto, who know Planck's Constant but not Botticelli's Venus, who are familiar with Fraunhofer's lines but not with Schiller's. Mr. Sigafoos can find no solution to this hideous imbalance. I, however, believe there is one—and a very simple one. It is this: if students of science don't have time to come to the arts, then we must let the arts come to students of science.

He will know that he is a fulfilled man...

For example, it would be a very easy thing to teach poetry and music right along with physics. Students, instead of merely being called upon to recite in physics class, would instead be required to rhyme their answers and set them to familiar tunes—like, for instance, The Colonel Bogey March. Thus recitations would not only be chock-full of important facts but would, at the same time, expose the student to the aesthetic delights of great music. Here, try it yourself. You all know The Colonel Bogey March. Come, sing along with me:

Physics
Is what we learn in class.
Einstein
Said energy is mass.
Newton
Is highfalutin
And Pascal's a rascal. So's Boyle.

Do you see how much more broadening, how much more uplifting to learn physics this way? Of course you do. What? You want another chorus? By all means:

Leyden
He made the Leyden jar.
Trolley
He made the Trolley car.
Curie
Rode in a surrey,
And Diesel's a weasel. So's Boyle.

Once the student has mastered The Colonel Bogey March, he can go on to more complicated melodies like Death and Transfiguration, the Eroica, and Love Me Tender.

And when the student, loaded with science and culture, leaves the classroom and lights his Marlboro, how much more he will enjoy that filter, that flavor, that pack or box! Because there will no longer be an unease gnawing at his soul, no longer a little voice within him repeating that he is culturally a dolt. He will know—know joyously—that he is a fulfilled man, a whole man, and he will bask and revel in the pleasure of his Marlboro as a colt rolls in new grass—content, complete, truly educated—a credit to his college, to himself, and to his tobaccoist!

And while he is rolling, colt-wise, in the new grass, perhaps he would stop long enough to try a new cigarette from the makers of Marlboro—unfiltered, king-size Philip Morris Commander. Welcome aboard!

Bobby Bernard first place is getting to be a habit.

Bernard, Upton Hike Frog's Cinder Morale

Add another first place medal to the trophy case of Bobby Bernard and Jackie Upton.

Upton for the third straight meet has racked up a first place in the high jump. And Bernard for the second straight meet has a first place ribbon to show for his efforts.

And, if all goes well, the two should extend their winning streak in a tri-meet with SMU and North Texas State at Denton Saturday.

The smooth striding Bernard skimmed over the high hurdles in 14.5 to beat off the challenge by Tech's Bob Swafford at Odesa's West Texas Relays.

Upton Misses Record

Upton sailed over 6-5 $\frac{3}{4}$ to keep his streak going. The sophomore then failed in his effort at a new West Texas Relays record of 6-7 $\frac{3}{4}$.

As a team, the Frogs enjoyed one of the best afternoons since who-knows-when in a track meet. The Frogs, besides Upton's and Bernards' first places, picked up points on places in the 440, mile relay and 100-yard dash.

But despite all this, the best the Frogs could finish was sixth with 28 points. They were nudged for fifth by mighty ACC who had 28 $\frac{1}{2}$ points.

University of Texas won the games, amassing 70 points to defeat favored Baylor which had 63 points.

Gassaway Leads Mile Relay

Reagan Gassaway pulled the mile relay team from last place to third with 47.1 final lap. Texas won the mile relay in 3:12.7 followed by Baylor, then TCU.

TCU's Sam Ketcham placed fourth in the 100-yard dash behind Texas' Ralph Alspaugh who won the dash in 9.7. Baylor soph Bill Kemp was second.

Jerry Spearman contributed a third place for the Frogs in the broad jump, with a leap of 21-8 $\frac{1}{4}$. The broad jump was won by Tech's Bake Turner who leaped 22-2 $\frac{1}{4}$.

Another third place was taken by the Frogs in the 440 yard relay. Glen McCroskey, Ketcham, Al Heizer and Gassaway teamed up to finish behind Baylor and Texas. Baylor had the winning time of 41.2.

Pole Vault Record

In the pole vault, Dexter Elkins vaulted higher than any other Texan has before, 15 feet, in a Texas track meet. Of course, this broke the old meet record of 14-9 set by Jim Brewer of USC, in 1960.

Elkins became the 13th pole vaulter in the world to go over 15 feet. David Clark of NTSC, who cleared 15-3 in the Olympic Trials, preceded Elkins.

Baseballers' Next Action Title Race

Time for the seventh inning stretch.

Although the season is far from being completed, a break in the schedule has come for the Frog baseball team. The Frogs took it on the chin for the last time from a non-conference foe Friday, losing 6-10 to Sul Ross.

That was the last non-conference game scheduled and now the conference race looms ahead.

Loop play begins here Saturday, March 25 against Rice. All home conference games are at Rockwood Park.

The loss to the Lobos from Sul Ross pushed the Frog record to 1-7 for their pre-conference action.

Errors continued to plague the infielders. Shortstop Leon Baze, getting to a slow start this season, committed three errors in the 10-6 loss last Thursday. A total of eight errors was committed by the Purple defense in the two game series against Sul Ross allowing 13 unearned runs to score.

Lefty Don Schmidt went the distance for the second straight time but absorbed his fourth loss of the season. Schmidt has worked 23 innings, giving up 26 hits.

Second sacker David Terry continues to lead Frog hitters with a gaudy .451 average. The only other batsmen above .300 is catcher Ken Anderson with an even .300.

Don Reynolds, first baseman is the top RBI man with 9. Terry is also leading in total hits with 14. Reynolds ranks second with 8 base hits.

The home schedule for the Frogs reads: Rice, March 25; Texas, April 4; Baylor, April 14-15; A&M, April 21-22; SMU, May 12-13.

Purple Linksmen Try H-SU Today

Still in quest of their first victory, the Frog golf team journeys to Abilene for a match with Hardin-Simmons University today.

In a recent match, the team fell 2-4 to North Texas State's linksmen.

Jack Montgomery figured in both TCU points. He defeated his opponent four and three. Montgomery then teamed with Bill Jones to defeat the North Texas doubles team, three and two.

Montgomery also shared medalist honors with two North Texas golfers with a two-under 69.

Many have said that Montgomery is as good as or better than ex-Frog golfer Don Massengale. Massengale, now making the tour with the pros, was the former TCU great two years ago.

Other members making the trip to Abilene are Bill Jones, Mike Walling, Nick Encke and Gabe Cunningham.

Maze Gets Crowded In Cage 'Frat Race'

By RUTH ANN KINDIGER

Like the old saying, 'Something's gotta' give' in the fraternity intramural basketball race this week.

Going into the seventh week of play, first place is a little crowded with the SAE's, Sigma Chi and Phi Deltas all desperately hanging on to a corner.

The story repeats itself in second position with the Kappa Sigs and Deltas all tied up. Bringing up the rear are the Phi Kaps, Sig Eps and Lambda Chis.

Clinging to the first place spot since the beginning of the season, the SAEs were rudely-awakened Thursday night as they were edged by the Deltas' razor-thin mark, 38-39. David Redford kept the SAE's in the game by pumping in 13 points while Pat Kennedy scored 10 to take high-point honors for the winners.

In other games the Phi Deltas took an easy win over the Sig Eps with a one-sided score of 80-31. Bob Stanton led the Phi Deltas with 20 points and Gary Brown scored 10 for the losers.

High scorer in the Thursday night round of games was Hal Brumm who hit 21 as his Phi Kap team lost to the Kappa Sigs, 51-63. Jim Switzer led the winners with 19 points.

The remaining game saw the Sigma Chis defeat the Lambda Chis, 42-14.

After Thursday night's games there will be more room in the first place spot. The Phi Deltas and Sigma Chis, both tied for first, will meet in the practice gym at 8 p.m.

The other first-place contender, SAE, will meet the Sig Eps at 9:15 p.m.

Opening the night's action will be the Lambda Chis and Kappa Sigs as play begins at 5:30 p.m. The Phi Kaps and Deltas will play at 6:45.

Wonder What Ty Cobb Thinks?

Some major league records are being set in spring training that will never appear in the baseball record books. Most of the records have to do with players getting ticketed on their way to Florida.

Cy Williams, Detroit Tiger's scout, warned players following him to beware of Georgia. He added, "One state trooper in Georgia collected $2200 in fines one week."

Williams was nicked for $44 on a violation he didn't know about. At sunset, the speed limit in Georgia changes from 60 m.p.h. to 50.

Said Williams, "Baseball people have been trapped so often that they're boycotting Georgia's motels and restaurants, as are hundreds of other northern tourists."

Karr Rolls Highest Score Among Student Keglers

Patrick Karr, Fort Worth sophomore, rolled the highest game, 214, in last week's student league bowling.

Karr is a member of the White League. Larry Richards, Fort Worth junior, came in second for the White's with 193.

The Purple League's top scorer was Gary Ashmore, Fort Worth freshman, whose highest game was 205. Mick Ashworth, San Antonio senior, followed closely with 204.

The two leagues have chosen unusual names for their teams.

The "Bwana's," "Flintstones," "Glass Cutters" and "Untouchables" are some of the teams in the White League which bowl on Wednesday afternoons.

The Purple League, bowling on Tuesdays, boasts such teams as: "Should Have Been's," "Strike Outs," "Three Hits and a Miss" and "The Conquistadors."
