4 Volleyball Teams Tied

Action after the first week of play in the women's intramural volleyball tournament left four teams in first place. Alpha Gamma Delta, Burdine, Chi Omega and WSA each has two 2-0 records.

The closest game in Thursday's play was Zeta Tau Alpha's 14-12 victory over DSF. Zeta's Bev Bishop served 10 consecutive points.

Fourteen teams, ten sorority and four independent, are entered in this year's competition, according to Intramural Director Glenda Craddock. Every team plays a 10-minute game each Monday and Thursday afternoon in the Little Gym.

Intramural Standings

SAE Elects Loudermilk To Public Relations Job

A new office, that of public and alumni relations chairman, has been added to the roster of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Mike Loudermilk, Fort Worth senior, has been elected to the post. "The office is a new one," said Bill Smith, Hurst senior and president of the fraternity. Through it the fraternity hopes to improve relations, not only between the general public and SAE, but also between the public and the fraternity world as a whole.

designed to bring better student government to the University.

The proposal, which will be released in full later this week, favors increased student participation in the areas of Student Congress and elections, plus faculty support in improving communications and intellectual atmosphere.

Specifically, the document recommends monthly forums, at which students and faculty members can interchange ideas and questions. It advocates the forming of a student assembly composed of representatives from all campus organizations.

Early in the retreat, students heard addresses by individual officials to familiarize them with policies and standards of the University.

Then a panel of administrators answered written questions submitted by the students during a "hot spot" period. Answering the queries were Laurence Smith, Dean of Students; Jewell Wallace, Dean of Men; Miss JoAnn James, Dean of Women; L. C. White, business manager; Calvin Cumbie, registrar; Miss Elizabeth Youngblood, social director; and Logan Ware, director of student financial aid.

Key speakers for the event were Dr. D. W. Halladay, dean of students at the University of Arkansas, and TCU President Dr. D. Ray Lindley.

In his opening address late Friday, Halladay told the group that in order to build better student government students must understand the policies of their school and recognize its authority. "Democracy on a college campus does not mean the absence of authority," he stressed. "The president and his staff must impose various controls in order for the institution to run smoothly."

Urges Loyalty

"Loyalty to one's alma mater is another key factor," the Arkansas educator said. "Once a person decides on a school to attend, he should transfer a certain amount of loyalty to that institution. Too often in a large university the students tend to place their main loyalty in a small group rather than in the college itself."

Halladay said, "Loyalty to the university doesn't necessarily mean blind acceptance of its policies."

He listed three pitfalls common to student government systems:

Committee To Give Party

Happy Halloween!

Goblins'll be out in full force on All Saints Eve. But coeds will have their dates to protect them at the Halloween Party this year.

The night of mischief will kick-off with a witch movie, "Bell, Book and Candle," at 6:45. The party follows immediately.

The movie, starring Jack Lemmon, James Stewart, Ernie Kovacs and Kim Novak is the story of witches, witch hunters and a black cat named Pawacket.

The hospitality committee has transformed rooms 215 and 216 of the Student Center into a haunted house.

Goblins, ghost, monsters and skeletons will be found in the haunted house as well as other unmentionable horrors.

Besides the haunted house and flick, there will be a fortune teller, a kissing booth, fishing for prizes, bobbing for apples and dancing to a juke box.

Refreshments of caramel apples, pop corn balls and apple cider are planned for the party.

A special evening meal will be served in the cafeteria which will be decorated with jack-o-lanterns and masks.

The party and evening meal are planned by the hospitality committee in conjunction with games and outings committee.

"We hope everyone will have as much fun at the party as we have had planning it," said Kay Allen, hospitality committee chairman.

University Gets Thanks From Mexican Consul

Dean Jerome A. Moore received a letter of thanks to the University for co-sponsoring the Mexican Independence Day celebrations. The letter was written by the chairman of the committee, John H. Hall, and was also signed by the Consul of Mexico, S. M. Pereyra.

In the letter Hall stated that "Texas Christian University has contributed greatly toward the most successful Sept. 15 celebration in years" and that we had helped "to tie a closer cultural bond and to improve friendship between the peoples of Mexico and of the United States . . ."

Fans To Rally For Frog Game

"If we want the Frogs to stay ahead, we've got to show that we're behind them," said Allie Beth McMurtry, Graham senior and head cheerleader.

Illustrating this support, a student pep rally is scheduled for 7 p. m. Thursday in front of the Student Center.

Essay Contests To Award $1,000 For Best Entries

Two essay contests open to college students throughout the country are being sponsored by the Thomas Jefferson Society of the United States.

A $1,000 prize will be awarded to the college student submitting the best essay on "Thomas Jefferson and the Constitution of the United States."

Another contest, also with a $1,000 prize, is open only to students of theological and divinity schools. The essay topic is "The Religion of Thomas Jefferson."

The purpose of the society, according to national director Albert Levitt, is "to disseminate the economic, political and religious ideas of Thomas Jefferson and so help to stop the spread of communism and fascism within the United States."

Levitt said that the society would like to establish a chapter at the University if there were favorable response.

Anyone wanting further details on the essay contests or the society may see Dean of Students Laurence C. Smith.

Dr. Neilsen Addresses Fort Worth Counselors

Otto Nielsen, dean of the School of Education, spoke on "Person to Person" before a meeting of the Fort Worth Area Counselors in the Bailey Building recently. Changes in the counselor-counselee relationship was the theme.

Freshman Queen Crowned

Amid a setting of fish, sea shells, fish nets and sea weed. Julie Ullrich was crowned Freshman Prom Queen at the annual Freshman Prom Thursday night.

The Dallas Coed was chosen from a field of 16 candidates who had previously been nominated by clubs and organizations on campus.

Finalists were Harriett Eaker, Marshall, representing Zeta Tau Alpha; Judy Higby, Fort Worth, nominated by Sigma Chi; Jackie Nantz, Fort Worth, representing Alpha Delta Pi; and Miss Ullrich representing Pi Beta Phi.

Approximately 400 people attended the dance. Each was allowed one vote for choice of queen.

Bob Walker, freshman class president from Lake Jackson, presented the queen with a dozen red roses and a charm bearing the inscription, "Freshman Prom Queen, 61-62."

Hardt Joins Worth Staff

Dr. Henry B. Hardt, professor of chemistry, has been appointed director of research and development for Worth Chemical Products Co. of Fort Worth.

His appointment was announced Saturday by company president Roy Coleman. Coleman said this was a new post concerned with developing new products for the consumer market and expanding applications of current products.

Dr. Hardt also is chairman of the University's Athletic Council, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) and president of the Texas State Board of Examiners in the basic sciences.

He has been at the University since 1946 and until recently was chairman of the chemistry department.

thrilled to think I was even a finalist. My family will be as thrilled as I am."

Majors In Business

Majoring in business, Miss Ullrich has not yet decided whether she will go into business administration or personnel management.

On campus, she is active in the Newman Club and the hospitality committee. She was also one of the 12 finalist for Howdy Week Queen and is treasurer of her pledge class.

The willowy blonde attended high school in Wichita Falls. While there, she was president of her sophomore class and treasurer of her senior class. She also was a Student Sponsor which is a group chosen by the faculty to assist the teachers and help new students adjust to school life.

ROTC Officers Elected To Honorary Fraternity

Samuel E. Anderson Squadron of the Arnold Air Society recently elected officers for the 1961-62 year.

Newly elected in the Air Force ROTC honorary fraternity are juniors: Bruce Holliman, Rockdale, squadron commander; Emory E. Gose III, Houston, administrative officer; Dale Arthurs, Terrell, information officer and chaplain. Carl Ramley, Kansas City, Mo., senior, was named comptroller.

Both her junior and senior year, she was chosen one of the school beauties and was also a finalist for Miss Posture.

As for her reaction to the University, she explains, "I just love it. It is so friendly that you get to know everybody. I also think TCU has a beautiful campus."

What with all the other activities, the new queen doesn't have much time for hobbies. But when time permits, she enjoys swimming, bowling and skiing. "Sounds very athletic," she laughed.

Graduate Exams To Be Offered

Students planning to apply for graduate scholarships and fellowships should take the Graduate Record Examination on Nov. 18, according to Dr. Curtis J. Firkins, director of the testing and guidance bureau.

Deadline for exam applications is Nov. 3. This is the only time the exam will be given in Fort Worth until April 28.

"Our students need to take this examination now so that their scores will be available at the time they will be under consideration by the various committees," Dr. Firkins said.

Full information and application forms may be obtained at the testing bureau in Building 8.

United Religious Council Sets Up Three Committees

Convocation, service and publicity committees were set up recently by the United Religious Council with 22 members involved.

Co-chairmen of convocations are Miss Sydney Payne, Fort Worth, and Ronnie Moore, Amarillo.

Other members are: Jim Walter, Abilene; Craig Fowler, Dallas; Ruth Reed, Wichita Falls; and Maralyn Schroeder, Atlanta, Ga. This committee will plan Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter convocations besides First Call introductory religious assembly next year.

Service committee members will be in charge of ushering for chapel services and special projects during the year.

Barbara Jacobson, Galveston; Carol Foy, Omaha, Neb.; Harold Guess, San Angelo; Margo Smith, Abilene; Ed Vasquez, San Antonio; Tarver Bailey, Orange; Carole Applewhite, Corpus Christi; Paula Mauldin, Borger; and Diane Davis, Tuscon, Ariz. Make up the service committee. Working with Chloe Broyles, chairman from Breckenridge, are publicity members: John Wrench, Waco; Barbara Gabert, Fort Worth; Henry Rockwood, Carnegie, Pa.; Sarah Moody, Mineola; Kay Burford, Shreveport, La.; and Elyn Sidweber, Columbus, Ga.

Somebody Goofed

Faculty Section Wrong In Student Directories

BY JACK GLADDEN

Somebody goofed! It wasn't the Skiff. It wasn't the Public Relations office. It must have been the printers who printed this year's edition of Frog Calls.

A few columns of type slipped some cogs before the faculty section of the directory was printed, and several unauthorized departmental transfers were the result.

The mistake wasn't caught until the directories went on sale in the bookstore last week. A few faculty members must have been shaken to find themselves temporarily dislocated.

Musical Mathematician

Take John Giordano, for instance. He is assistant director of band. According to Frog Calls, however, he was English instructor in the Evening College.

And Dr. Ben Goldbeck, Jr., in the mathematics department was listed as a band director.

Dr. Ann Gossman, assistant professor of English, might become a little confused trying to fulfill the duties of a "cashier, business office."

Mae Goldust, who really is a cashier, business office, was listed in Frog Calls as a librarian, while Emily Garnett, librarian, had become a professor of biology.

Dr. W. C. Nunn, who according to some students, "just bubbles over with Texas history" might not feel too comfortable teaching Air Force ROTC, but that's where Frog Calls put him.

Mail Clerk, Ph. D.

Then there is Dr. Maybelle Tinkle, associate professor of physical education. Her doctoral work in education might not help a bit in the position assigned to her by Frog Calls — "clerk, printing and mailing."

Just as uncomfortable as Dr. Tinkle, though, might be Dr. C. Allen True, director of the Construction Management Program. The directory had transferred him to the maintenance department.

And John Graves, free-lance writer, creative writing professor, might feel out of place in his listed category. It's "Nursing, Harris Hall."

Order Restored

But the transfers were only temporary, according to Jim Lehman, assistant public relations director. As soon as the errors were discovered, sale of the directories was stopped.

The faculty copies have been picked up by the printers for correction and a new edition, with the words "Revised Edition" stamped on the back cover, will go on sale in the bookstore Thursday.

Choir Seeks Additional Singers

Chapel choir is looking for additional members. B. R. Henson, choir director, announced that membership is open to students interested in singing.

Additional members would make it possible to have two separate choirs. The choirs would alternate services on Tuesdays, giving students more time to prepare for the program.

Henson urges students to come to rehearsals which are held at 11 a. m. Thursdays in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The choir furnishes music for chapel services.

LEADERS

1. Faulty communications.
2. Lack of continuity in the student body.
3. Complex organization.

"Informed communications is the biggest factor in fostering good student relations," he said. "When students fail to communicate with their leaders or the leaders with the administration, good government cannot exist."

"The complex, formal organization of most student governments confuses many students," he warned. "They become lost in the procedures of the system and fail to take proper advantage of it."

Halladay said that a student government is not measured by the number of problems it manages to deal with but by how many it eventually solves.

Lindley Speaks

Speaking at Saturday's opening session, President Lindley commented on some religious aspects of education. "Many people speak of TCU as 'having' a program of religious education," he said. "I would say that an institution such as ours should strive to 'be' a religious program."

He said, however, that he felt a university should not strive to propagate any one religious view, emphasizing, "A college's prime business should be educational, not evangelical."

Turning to the area of student rights, Lindley claimed a student's one basic right is to the best education possible from his college. "The university has a responsibility to provide the atmosphere, interfering as little as possible with academics," he said.

Groups Caucus

Late Saturday the student leaders broke up into ten small discussion groups which eventually gave birth to the proposal for better student government. In his final address, Halladay had hammered hard at his theory of informed communication, urging frequent informal talks between student and faculty members.

He advised the leaders to attack the major problems of student government before turning to the minor ones. "If parking fines and meal tickets are the only concerns of student government, then there is no need for it," said Halladay.

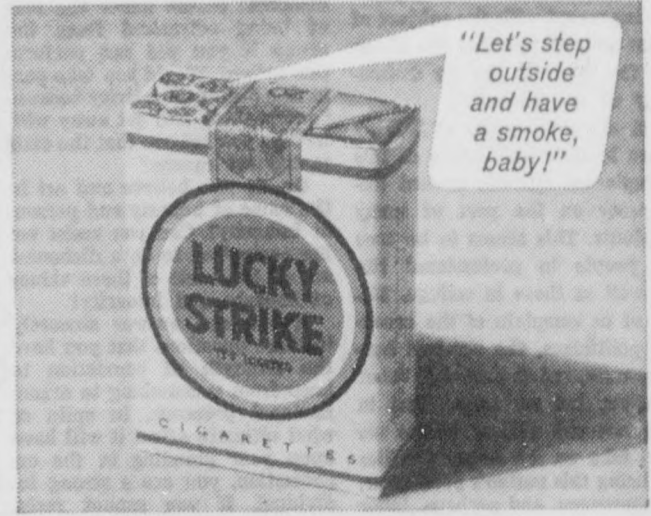

Ronnie Moore and Bonnie Kingston were co-chairmen of the leadership retreat.

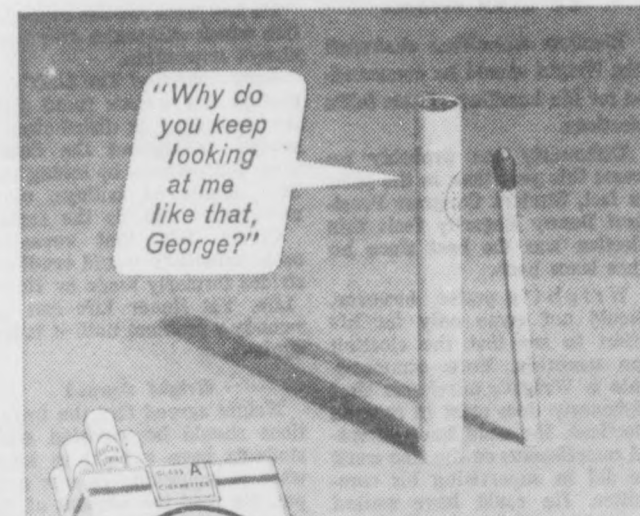

"SATURDAY NIGHT"

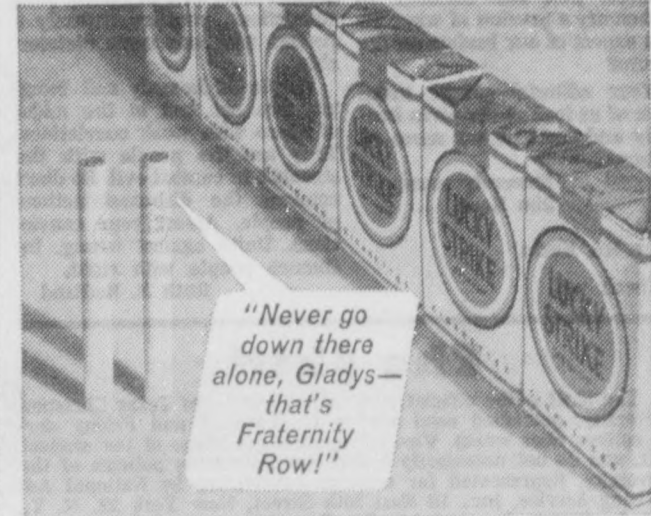

"Does he have to walk on his hands at every party?"

"Let's step outside and have a smoke, baby!"

"Why do you keep looking at me like that, George?"

"Never go down there alone, Gladys—that's Fraternity Row!"

WHAT HAPPENS ON CAMPUS SATURDAY NIGHT? If you could peek into an average campus on Saturday night you would see students planning a hunger strike and smoking Luckies, ironing their Sunday suits and smoking Luckies, playing dominoes and smoking Luckies. College students smoke Luckies all the time—and more of them than any other regular cigarette. If you go to college, you should smoke Luckies. It's expected of you.

Reader Applauds Skiff

Dear Editor:

I would like to compliment The Skiff on its fine reporting and excellent editorial in the Oct. 24 issue concerning the dishonesty which took place in the fall elections. I was particularly impressed with the subject of your editorial: putting the blame on the majority for the dishonesty of the minority.

In my three years at TCU, I have become well aware of this complacent attitude toward dishonesty on the part of many students. This seems to be true of people in professional life as well as those in college. Many of us complain of the crooked politicians, the crooked businessmen, and the crooked labor leaders; but we forget that in the not too distant future we will take on the responsibilities of being this nation's politicians, businessmen, and perhaps, labor leaders! Isn't this incident of dishonesty a preview of what we can expect of our leaders of the future?

Your editorial should make each of us look at ourselves honestly and reorient our sense of values.

Sincerely yours,
Jim Koch

Dear Mr. Koch:

Thank you.

Ponder Questions

Dear Editor:

I would like to ask several questions. Consider them carefully and then answer them to yourself.

Do you belong to an organization to which membership means a great deal to you? Would you engage in a basically dishonest action under the fear of being ostracized from the group if you did not perform this action? Would you take part in this dishonest activity because "others do it and get away with it?" Do you believe that the ends justify the means?

Or, do you believe and act in the name of honesty and personal integrity? Can you resist being compelled to do a dishonest act on the basis of these values of honesty and integrity?

If you can answer sincerely to these questions that you have the strength of conviction to keep from succumbing to organizational pressure, in spite of what ultimate effect it will have upon your standing in the organization, you are a strong individual. If you cannot resist pressures which run against your convictions, you are virtually a person who condones dictatorship.

People of honesty and integrity are not lost in the midst of those with weak convictions. They are the people with the strength to combat evil. So don't condone the dishonest actions of people. Assert your convictions. Unite against wrong. Influence people with right.

World Nations Worry; The Cynic Will Russia Do It?

A little TNT goes a long way. The Army uses cans of about a quarter pound of it to simulate the explosion of a grenade or shell in training. Anyone who has had one of these things go off near him knows it can be quite a surprise, and even a quarter pound of TNT, under some circumstances, can be very dangerous.

Now the Russians say they have a nuclear bomb which, if detonated, will be equivalent to the explosion of 50,000,000 TONS of TNT.

There have been recent expressions of doubt that Russia really has such a super-bomb. Proponents of this theory say that Russia, pretending to respond to pleas not to explode their bomb, can gain stature by saying, "All right—just because we're really good guys, we aren't going to set it off."

Perhaps the 50-megaton bomb really is an invention only of Russian propagandists. Much of the world is angry at the U.S.S.R. for ending the moratorium on nuclear testing. By agreeing not to test the biggest bomb of all, Russia can regain some lost respect—even if it doesn't even have such a bomb!

On the other hand, maybe Russia isn't fooling—maybe she really has concocted this weapon. We don't know. The nations of the free world must assume the monster exists, and find themselves in the embarrassing position of pleading, "Please, Mr. K., don't set this thing off, because fallout from your other tests already is getting in our milk."

We're willing to bet Russia won't set off this 50-megaton blast, either because it can't or because of the propaganda advantage in not exploding it is greater than the military value in testing it.

Meanwhile, the United States continues its popgun experiments with tactical nuclear weapons, deep underground and with virtually no fallout. Instead of praising the U.S. for this, other nations gripe because of our "an eye for an eye" philosophy in resuming tests just because Russia did.

It's heads they win, tails we lose.

Editorially Speaking

Wright Should Be Praised

BY LYNN SWANN

Election committee chairman Jim Wright should be commended for his handling of this fall's elections.

Dishonesty was probably no worse this year than in the past. In fact, Student Congress President Denny Megarity feels this election was the best since he has been here.

Wright's praise, however, should not come only for his effort to see that the election ran smoothly. More commendable is Wright's admission that dishonesty does exist in campus elections. He could have accepted compliments on the fine work he did in supervising his committee. He could have smiled agreeably and let pass the trouble which he knew existed. Yet, he is man enough to admit there are loopholes in the present election rules.

And, he is man enough to do something about it.

Checks Cheating

First, he made sure that little or no cheating could occur in Friday's primary. When "fixed" ballots were discovered, he destroyed them immediately, thus assuring that the votes of honest students would carry weight.

He has plans for the next election which will make dishonesty almost impossible.

Some criticized The Skiff's reporting last week's fraud since the newspaper is distributed to schools throughout the Southwest. But perhaps by seeing that TCU admits its failings, other universities will do the same.

Others felt that revealing such dishonesty would eradicate strides formerly made by Honor Life. Yet Honor Life can not remedy a problem until it is recognized.

Wright Agreed

Wright agreed that the infractions should be revealed since students have a right to know what is happening on our campus. He read the account of the election dispute before it was put into print for Tuesday's Skiff.

Another person read the article at the same time. It was the man suspected of stuffing the ballot boxes. He knew a full day before The Skiff was released, how it would read.

Several people have asked why the man was not named. The Skiff questions why he should be.

Last week's story was not written to expose a specific group or individual, but to make the students as a whole aware that

The Cynic Assorted Nonsense

BY DON BUCKMAN

Don't fall for the trap now making the rounds. Instead, try to trap somebody else. Walk up and say, "Have you heard the latest knock-knock joke?"

"No," the sucker will reply.

"Okay," you'll say, "you start it."

"Knock, knock," your victim responds immediately.

"Who's there?" you ask. Then stand there. Watch your victim. See how long it takes for him to realize what's going on. Some never do.

Then there's the one about the cannibal chief who called his warriors on the carpet for boiling a missionary. "Didn't you guys see that he was a friar?" he asked.

Sometimes little things can ruin good things. As a case in point, consider the cardboard squares that butter patties come on in many eating places. It has got to the point that you can tell how high-class a joint is by whether the butter comes on a glass plate or a hunk of cardboard.

It's next to impossible to get a dab of butter from one of those infernal paper things with one hand. Buttering a roll becomes a major problem. Diners should organize to outlaw all paper butter patty holders. (So maybe you can think of a better name for them?)

Along the same lines, what became of the glass milk bottle?

Nowadays milk comes in cardboard cartons, and only starry-eyed dreamers even hope to pour the milk without having a lump of wax falling into the tumbler, too.

And can anybody explain the label on a certain brand of French dressing? "Homogenized—will not separate" it proclaims, then adds "shake well." Somewhere there must be a sane reason.

Don't tell me that worry doesn't do any good. I know better. The things I worry about don't happen.—Anonymous.

their rights are being violated.

A member of the organization in question was overheard Tuesday. He said, "Boy, have we caught it today," referring to the comments the article caused.

It is a shame that innocent members of the group must suffer with the guilty. And it is a shame that one organization must bear the brunt of the crime that others have committed for years.

Yet something must be done.

Court Investigates

The Student Court is investigating the election. Chief Justice Leo Watkins is vitally interested in the case and is eager to put his court in action.

People are concerned and disturbed over the thought of dishonest elections at TCU now. The Skiff hopes they will stay that way.

If the guilty party is discovered and the student body does not continue to resent the guilty persons, the same dishonesty will occur next year and the year after.

It is the duty of every student on campus to get excited about the dispute. It is their duty to back Wright, Watkins, The Skiff and the administration so that another crooked election will never take place at TCU.

When Halloween Comes

Trick or Treat

BY PATTI RICHARDS

Tuesday night the doorbell will ring. The homeowner who answers will be greeted by a masked and costumed urchin with a bag. Immediately the homeowner knows he's going to be drained.

If the "victim" decides not to treat he is apt to be answered with, "I'll go and get some sand OR SOMETHING and throw it on your porch."

He's faced with two alternatives: the unknown peril of a premeditated prank; or the "pay-off" in candy or cookies. The homeowner pays.

Kids Bribe

Usually, the "trick or treat" is rewarded, not for his work but his play. The kids aren't working, they're bribing.

Like in economics 321, the "victim" is faced with consumption and production. The "trick" is production; the "treat" is consumption. The kids that will come around are consumers, pure and simple.

Assuming that the usual child gets pretty excited over Halloween, designers have created wash 'n wear costumes. It's a mesh wastebasket turned over an opening in a giant cardboard box with armholes. On front of the box, printed in a firm adult hand: Take Me To Your Leader.

Takes Christian Name

Halloween, in spite of the fact that it takes name from a Christian festival (All Hallows or All Saints' Day), comes from pagan times.

Among the Celts there was a custom, which still continues, to try to foretell the future, especially in matrimonial matters. For instance, a girl puts three nuts in the fire. Then she names one nut for herself and two for possible husbands. The nut that cracks will be unfaithful, the nut that burns really likes her and will be a good mate. If the girl's nut and one of the others burns together, then a wedding is certain. And to think, some ladies waste their time at the fortune teller!

The expression "Go west, young man." did not originate with Horace Greeley, as history has recorded. It was first used by John Babson Lane Soule in an article in the Terre Haute, Ind. Express. Greeley was attracted by the quotation and used it in an editorial in The New York Tribune. He later printed Soule's article to show the source of his inspiration. — Bartlett's Quotations.

Coodies was a nickname applied to those members of the Federalist Party in New York who favored the War of 1812.

Lights Candle

When someone lights a candle inside the jeering pumpkin face, he is in a small way imitating the Celts of northern Britain. They lit a fire to scare away evil spirits who were waiting to come in when summer was over.

Whoever said that the celebrants of Halloween would be children must have realized that beyond the stuffing of their pudgy stomachs, kids don't know why they are filling their shopping bags.

Europe Offers Summer Work

Summer jobs in Europe are now available to almost every American college student. The American Student Information Service (ASIS) has more than 3,000 summer jobs on file awaiting applicants.

In the past four years, ASIS has placed thousands of American college students in varied summer jobs throughout 11 European countries. Jobs are mostly unskilled and many do not require a knowledge of a foreign language.

Monthly wages range from cost of room and board in Spain to $150 for the highest paid positions in West Germany.

Jobs include work in factories, resorts, hospitals and on farms as well as child care and camp counselling. Students receive the same wages as the Europeans with whom they work.

For further information and complete details write to ASIS, 22 Avenue de la Liberte, Luxembourg.

Mayfield Paper To Be Published in December

A paper by Dr. Robert Mayfield, chairman of the Geography Department, has been selected for publication by the University of Lund in southern Sweden.

The article will be included in a volume of papers given at the 19th International Geographical Congress held in Sweden in August, 1960. Publication date is tentatively set for December.

Entitled "Conformations of Tertiary Activities in the Lower Orders of an Urban Hierarchy in a Lesser-Developed Area," the paper was presented by Dr. Mayfield to a symposium on problems in urban geography. Dr. Mayfield was one of 35 participants in the symposium.

Pianist Leon Fleisher Presents Faultless Dedicatory Recital

BY DON BUCKMAN

Finding just the right adjective to describe the playing of Leon Fleisher is a difficult job. Instead, we might quote a student who observed, "He doesn't know what a mistake is."

Fleisher was on the campus Sunday to play the dedicatory recital of the University's new concert grand piano. And he made no mistakes we could detect. His playing was superb in all respects.

The 33-year-old prize-winning pianist opened the recital with "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, a slow and flowing selection. Fleisher's head moved in time with the music, and frequently he would bend over the keyboard until his head almost touched the keys.

The high point of the program, in our opinion, was the superb playing of the sonata in B minor by Liszt. Fleisher's performance of this demanding work — completely from memory — was amazing. The sonata is ideally suited to demonstrate the capabilities of both pianist and piano. This selection especially showed off to best advantage the new instrument, presented to the University by Mrs. Charles D. Reimers of Fort Worth.

Sustained applause brought

Fleisher back for three encores. The pianist, seeming genuinely pleased at the response of the audience, played brief but pleasant encores, the names of which were not announced.

Bridge Battles Mean 'Full House'

From 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. most students are studying — bridge hands. They study so hard that they wear out between five and ten decks of cards a week in what has become one of the most popular indoor sports on the campus.

The indoor arena for bridge here is the Student Center. And better than a three ring circus, there are 18 to 20 hands going strong in the rush hours.

Although a driver's license or similar card is required, more than 20 players have not returned the cards, or got their licenses back.

Women's Archery Fall Tournament Set Wednesday

This fall's women's intramural archery tournament will be held at 3:15 p. m. Wednesday at the shooting range adjacent to the Little Gym.

Each sorority and independent team may enter three contestants, according to Intramural Director Glenda Craddock.

Four ends (24 arrows) will be shot at distances of 20, 30 and 40 yards. Highest total individual scores will determine first, second and third place winners.

At the annual Awards Banquet in May, winners will receive certificates. In addition, their teams are awarded 20, 10 and 5 points toward the Intramural Trophy which also is given in May.

Dean To Speak For Press Club

Miss Dorothy Shuler, assistant dean of women, will speak at the second meeting of J. Willard Ridings Press Club, University club for women in journalism.

Members will meet at 7 p. m. Thursday in room 216 of the Student Center. Interested students are invited to attend.

Formerly an editorial assistant with the Ladies' Home Journal, Miss Shuler received an M. A. degree in journalism from the University of Oklahoma.

She was graduated with a B. A. degree in English and journalism from Oklahoma State University.

Miss Shuler's communications experience also includes a stint as public relations director for Philbrook Art Center in Tulsa, Okla.

Ghost Haunts Dean's Office

There is a noisy ghost haunting the office of Dean of Students Laurence C. Smith.

A tapping sound is coming from somewhere in the lower part of a wall or from the floor.

Dean Smith said he first noticed the noise Monday morning but could not figure out what caused it.

Maintenance men called in to see if they could solve the mystery also were baffled.

They are going to consult blueprints of Sadler Hall to see what equipment is located beneath the Dean's office. In this way, they hope to find the noisy ghost.

Safety Division Notices Increase in Fatalities

Fatal accidents in Texas have increased 11 per cent compared to the total this time last year, according to a recent Associated Press news release.

The facts were issued by the Texas Department of Public Safety.

said T. D. Caldwell, coordinator of construction management and faculty sponsor.

The group plans luncheon and dinner meetings with guest speakers, inspection of building projects in the Fort Worth area and introduction of new building products.

Officers are: Tom McCann, Fort Worth senior, president; Forrest Meacham, Graham junior, vice president; and Bob Driskill, Fort Worth senior, secretary-treasurer.

Meeting dates for the group are the first Tuesday of the month at 7 p. m. in the Student Center.

Information on how to become a member may be obtained from Caldwell in room 103, Rogers Hall.

Registered Cars Number 5,000

More than 5,000 cars have been registered on campus this year, including 548 faculty vehicles and 833 dormitory students' cars. The remaining cars belong to non-resident students and employees.

Chief Security Officer Bill Biggars reported that many of the registered vehicles do not have permits attached to the left wing window or vent.

The security office is issuing violation tickets to cars without permits.

Dream Come True

Alton Adams, a big 6-9 junior, will hold down the fort for the Frog cagers at center when the squad opens the season in its new fieldhouse.

Baylor Next For Froggies

The Frog football brigade is jumping out of the frying pan and into the fire.

Still recovering from the Texas A&M ambush that saw the team sneak by the firing line, 15-14, Coach Abe Martin and his men turn their sights toward Waco and the Baylor Bears.

The experts will more than likely make the Frogs the underdog. There's only one catch . . . TCU has yet to lose when not the favorite, and is yet to lose a daytime contest, which is just when the Bears and Frogs match forces.

It was a good thing the team was off over the weekend. Guard Ray Pinion was going to classes on crutches and reserve half-back Larry Thomas didn't work-out because of an injured back.

The remainder of the week, before the game Saturday, Martin will have his squad drilling and trying to find out a way to break through Baylor's heralded pass pocket.

There's also another problem. The Bears have a pretty fast corps in Tommy Minter and Ronnie Goodwin, and the Frogs' only speed is in getting to the training table in time.

Perhaps the newest "threat" in the TCU lineup is halfback Danny Smith.

When he came to TCU, Smith was billed as a replacement for Jim Swink. The pressure has been tremendous on him and only in the A&M game when he averaged better than six yards a carry did he finally relax.

If he's finally "exploded," then TCU may be on its way.

In the meantime the Frogs are going to have to get ready for Baylor.

Keg Boom Growing

What with the invention of the bowling ball, students may find an easier way in the future to dispose of those P. E. credits.

The school's current bowling program, staged three days a week at GSL Bowlanes, is catching on in a big way.

Over 100 students are testing their luck during the week days and most of them enjoying it.

Already the "newcomers" to the kegling world have been doing things like shooting 220s and averaging 170 for three games.

But what about the P. E. credits?

At the present time credits are not given for the sport. The future for such a move gets brighter every day though.

Other schools, such as Texas A&M, SMU, Arlington State and Texas Tech give hours for bowling.

The question is why doesn't TCU?

Don't be surprised in the future, though, if the school installs a few alleys of its own. After all . . . why not?

BY DANA CAMPBELL

It's been a long, hard haul for Frog basketball coach Buster Brannon.

He's finally got his long-awaited field house . . . now the Frogs have a place to call home. And with it this year, Brannon may have another Southwest Conference champion.

In most pre-season polls Texas Tech and the University of Texas have been billed for top honors. Arkansas has to figure too, along with Texas A&M and SMU.

Only Baylor is not given a chance this season in what may be one of the tightest races in the loop's lengthy history.

TCU is the darkhorse.

They're Ready

Seldom in his career at Frogland has Brannon coached as spirited a group as has gathered here now. "They're ready," Brannon has said of his men, "and I believe we're going to do all right."

Last year the Frogs were an up and down club, losing to the nobodys and doing things like beating champion Texas in a four-overtime engagement. Incidentally, those four overtimes set a SWC record.

This year, as Brannon said, "the men seem ready."

The big question, as with every team, is at center.

Alton Adams, 6-9 junior who started last year, is back and is said to be in the best physical shape ever. His legs, oversized and often giving out quickly, responded to summer treatments, and Adams has yet to show signs of weakness in early workouts.

If he can go the entire game, then he will have no peers in SWC play.

At forwards right now Brannon has Billy Simmons, a talented defensive performer, and hometown product Johnny Fowler.

Both 6-4

Each are 6-4, and have the "coolness" and shooting ability to give some teams trouble. Fowler, in Brannon's opinion,

BUSTER BRANNON . . . at long last

"is going to be a great ball player before he leaves this school."

Guards are probably the Frogs' biggest asset.

Phil Reynolds, a regular last year, will have one spot all to himself, while the other position is between junior Tommy Pennick and sophomore Bobby McKinley.

Reynolds is rated one of the finest shooters to ever join the Frog corps, and Pennick "has the fastest hands I've ever seen," says Brannon.

McKinley, who built quite a reputation for himself while at Bowie High School, is being tagged by Brannon as possibly "the best all-round guard prospect in the school's history."

Three Figure

There are three others who will definitely figure in every game.

One is Pete Houck, a 6-7 lad who was held out last year. Houck and 6-7 Don Rosick, a junior, will work behind Adams in Brannon's planned single-post offense.

David Warnell, a starter last season, is out with a broken cheek bone, but is expected to move into the lineup by the December starting date.

Brannon's dream has long been to win the Southwest Conference title the first year the new field house is used . . . which is now.

This year his team has the size, speed and most important, the attitude.

And seemingly, with a little luck, that's all it takes.

Martin Eying Paschal With Fond Memories

The team that is making history right here in Fort Worth is Paschal High School.

And the man who is watching them closer than anyone is Frog coach Abe Martin.

Martin's interest is a genuine one.

In 1944 he coached at Paschal, and brought the Panthers through 10 straight games without a loss. It was the only year he was head man there, and his season was so good that TCU quickly hired him.

This year's Paschal squad has yet to lose a game. It appears that the Panthers aren't going to either . . . at least not in regular season play.

If so, then it will be only the second time in the history of the school that it has gone unbeaten.

And in the same breath, it brings back pleasant memories to Abe Martin.

The darkhorse of the SWC basketball race this season will be TCU. And these five men are figured in Coach Buster Brannon's plans.
