

Changes Made in Publications

★ ★ ★ Fall Delivery Date Voted Horned Frog

Next year's Horned Frog will be issued in the fall of '63 rather than at the end of the school year as in the past.

The change in distribution date was announced at the publications committee meeting before the Easter holidays.

The committee made the decision after a careful study of annuals from other schools. A sub-committee, headed by Dr. Betsy Colquitt, professor of English, sent questionnaires to 13 colleges and universities in states throughout the nation. After considering the colleges' replies, the committee agreed unanimously that fall delivery is preferable to spring distribution.

According to the previous plan, deadline for submitting Horned Frog copy to the publishers was in mid March. This early deadline excludes all spring functions such as baseball, awards banquets and commencement.

"With a fall delivery date, the annual will present a true picture of the year's activities, not just

Miss Klinksiek And McKinney Chosen Editors

Harold McKinney will edit next year's Skiff with Janice Klinksiek in charge of the Horned Frog.

They were appointed by the student publications committee comprised of students, faculty and administrators.

McKinney, Fort Worth junior, presently is the assistant editor of The Skiff. Last semester he was sports editor.

During the summer McKinney worked as an intern on the Gainesville Daily Register.

He is newly elected president of Sigma Delta Chi, international journalistic society on campus.

Other hopefuls for the editor's post were Francie Gillespie, Ray Reece and Paul Blackwell.

McKinney Appoints

McKinney will appoint his managing and sports editors with the approval of The Skiff adviser or the publications committee.

Skiff and Horned Frog editors receive full tuition. The Skiff editor is appointed for a semester; Horned Frog editor, for a year.

Coed Heads Annual

Miss Klinksiek, a sophomore, will head the annual staff next year.

She is a member of the J. Willard Ridings Press Club and of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

Diane Turner and Linda Kaye were the other contenders for the Horned Frog editor's chair.

Jay Hackelman, Fort Worth sophomore, was named business manager for The Skiff.

The House That Illinois Built

Western Illinois University is trying to build a student union — but they don't have enough funds.

So they are asking centers all across the land to send one brick from their student union to go into the one at Western Illinois. One wall will be built with the donated bricks, each tagged with the name of the giver.

Student Center Director Charles Peveler has agreed to the plan but wonders, "How in the world can you 'steal' a brick from a wall?"

Court Hears Final Arguments On Worth Hills Issue Today

BY BILL SEYMOUR

The Court of Civil Appeals for the 2nd Supreme Judicial District of Texas will hear final arguments today on two motions before it concerning the sale of Worth Hills Golf Course to the University.

On one hand is a motion by the City of Fort Worth to affirm on certificate, which would uphold the ruling handed Feb. 13 by District Judge Fisher T. Denny denying an injunction against the sale of the 106-acre tract. TCU has signed a contract of sale with the city, in which Fort Worth agrees to the sale of the property after claims against it are cleared. The University will pay $691,000 for the land.

Seeks Extension

The other motion by attorney Richard Churchill, representing the TCU-Civic League (opponents of the sale), is to extend the time for filing a transcript and statement of facts, which includes legal documents of the trial and attorneys' statements.

The court's decision on the motions probably will not be known for several weeks, according to S. G. Johndroe Jr., attorney for the city.

If the court rules in favor of the City of Fort Worth, the sale then could be transacted. However, the homeowners' still may appeal their case to the State Supreme Court.

If the ruling favors Churchill's motion for additional time for filing, the hearing would be put off for an undetermined amount of time.

Absence Noted

In the motion to extend time for filing transcript and statement of facts, filed with clerk of the court, Churchill noted that he had been out of the state for periods of time during the 60-day period following the original decision by Judge Denny, and had been unable to file the necessary papers to conclude the appeal.

The city claims in its reply to this motion, also filed with the clerk of the court, that the papers were not filed and that the appellants (the homeowners) "have wholly ignored the plain provision," of the rules covering the filing of such papers.

Judge Denny's ruling was on Feb. 13, thus the 60-day filing period expired on April 16.

Nursing College To Admit Two Negro Students in Fall

While students were vacationing over the Easter holidays, the administration made changes in University policy.

According to a ruling by the executive committee of the Board of Trustees, qualified Negroes will be admitted to Harris College of Nursing in the fall. Two have been accepted.

Negroes enrolled in Harris or in Brite College of the Bible will be allowed to attend regular undergraduate classes to compensate for deficiencies in their programs.

Faces Problem

"Harris College is facing a grave problem of helping to produce enough trained personnel for our community, but with the new regulations, Negroes will be given the opportunity to receive nursing degrees," said Chancellor M. E. Sadler.

Negroes at area hospitals have in many cases completed preliminary work but need to finish their degrees.

For this reason, Negro coeds may take regular undergraduate courses toward their bachelor of science degrees in nursing.

Students in Brite who need to make up deficiencies in undergraduate school also may enroll in regular courses here. Negroes have been admitted to Brite for more than a decade. However, lack of undergraduate training has prevented some from meeting entrance requirements.

Brite students petitioned the Board of Trustees in March to "establish the means whereby all areas of University life be made available to all qualified students regardless of race or color."

Officials made it plain that the move to integrate Harris was in no way connected with the opinion poll taken during spring elections.

Favors Integrations

However, Brite and Harris Colleges showed a greater tendency toward favoring integration than did the five other schools in the University.

In Brite, 66 per cent answered yes to the question: "Do you favor admission of qualified Negro students to all colleges of TCU?" In Harris College, 51 per cent favored the proposal.

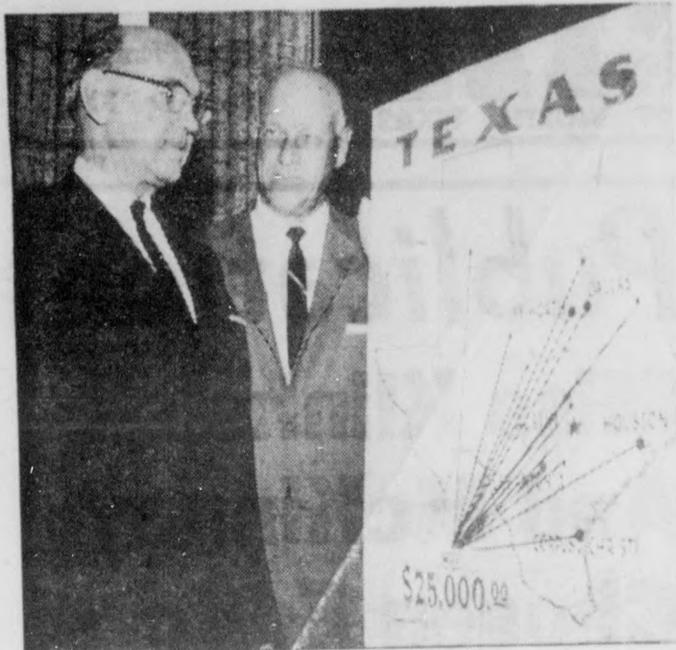

There will be no change in University policy regarding housing or other schools in the University.

'God Is Needed In Divided World'

"There are forces that divide us and threaten to destroy us," said Dr. John Knowles in chapel Tuesday. He recently has come from the First Christian Church in Houston to be director of church relations for TCU.

Our world, he stated, is divided into east and west, Communist and democracy, rich and poor, white and Negro.

"There is a power to bridge the chasms that divide us," said Dr. Knowles. First, one must re-establish the right relationship with God. If a person is reconciled with God, he is at right with his fellow man.

Dr. Knowles said that even in this tragic, divided world, there is hope to carry on reconciliation.

The chapel speaker next week will be Dr. W. A. Welsh, minister of the East Dallas Christian Church. Dr. Welsh is a member of the Board of Trustees of the University.

More Than Ants at Picnic

BY LYNN SWANN

With the thought, "We should be studying, but the weather is lovely," several of us went on a picnic recently.

But the day's discusion far outvalued study time.

My girl friend warned that some "different" people were meeting us in the park. They were two Negroes, Karey Gee and his wife Patricia.

During the picnic, Mrs. Gee looked rather self conscious; Gee seemed at ease. One of the two Negro students enrolled in Brite College, he has daily classes with white students.

Men Took-Off

After eating, the men took-off for a nearby field to play pitch and the women took a stroll. Mrs. Gee and I were left to clean the table. As soon as the crowd was gone, she spoke freely. Mrs. Gee talked about her five-month-old baby, about the problems of being a preacher's wife — and about going to school.

She attended a Negro college before her marriage. But in Fort Worth there is no place for most Negroes to go to school.

Mrs. Gee isn't "pushy," nor is she timid. She simply wants to attend school in the city, and since her husband is in Brite, she would like to go to TCU.

Keep "Their Place"

Many Negroes of the Old South feel they have "their place." They like the security of their position, perhaps as the maid or yard man of a white family. The average Negro is expected to attend high school but no more. He quits at 16 or is graduated to work at a low wage. However, since this is in keeping with most of his neighbors in a typical Negro community, he doesn't feel compelled to improve his standard.

In contrast to the "satisfied" Negro is the one who is going to get his rights — "or else." Some college-educated Negroes develop a too-sure-of-themselves attitude which is objectionable to whites. These over zealous people will use any measure to get what they want — from reasonable conversation to sit-ins, freedom rides or riots.

But Mrs. Gee falls into neither of these categories. She simply wants a college education but cannot get one.

She is intelligent and personable.

Mrs. Gee is probably like many Negroes in the city. She might prefer to attend college with members of her own race, but this is impossible in Fort Worth.

University Is Aware

The University is not unaware of such cases. Registrar Calvin Cumbie receives numerous requests for admission from Negroes each year.

He and other administrators have studied the problem. In fact, the recent decision to admit Negroes to Harris College has "been under consideration for many months," according to Chancellor M. E. Sadler.

The University administration is not necessarily content with the status quo.

The administrator's policy is much like that of Mrs. Gee. There is a need to meet, so they will meet it, rationally, calmly and, we predict, with success.

Letters

Criticizers Turn-Out

Dear Editor:

F. M. Ashley Montagu recently visited the TCU campus for a series of lectures. An article in the Skiff informed the populace of this fact the day before the first lecture. This article was not considered front page news, in fact, it appeared on the next to the last page. I saw no posters or any other type of advertisement of this event.

Montagu is a brilliant anthropologist, a prolific popular author, and an interesting and challenging speaker. Without attempting to enumerate or evaluate his qualifications, it can fairly be said that he is one of the foremost scientific writers in the world today, quoted and requested in many and diverse fields.

I do not know the number who attended on the second day, but I do know that Rogers Hall auditorium was not nearly full on the first day.

While the idea of calling out classes to hear this man is an excellent one, I wonder how many would have been present if this maneuver had not been utilized. The mere fact that Rogers Hall was chosen for the lectures instead of a larger room is an insult to a man of Montagu's stature. The "crowds" who attended added injury to that insult.

If more such incidents occur, it will become difficult, perhaps impossible, for TCU to attract men of this caliber. The whole incident is indicative of the intellectual atmosphere on this campus, which can only be described as "neutral," since "negative" implies concern.

Loss of Words? Try a Cliche

What ever happened to the good old cliché? It seems that writers have been convinced that variety is the spice of life in the present day and generation, and after all is said and done the cliché has been nipped in the bud and smashed to smithereens.

But everyone knows Betty Coed and Joe College. And what better description would fit G.I. Joe, John Q. Public, Father Time, Lady Luck or the Grim Reaper?

The bitter enemies of the cliché view it with alarm, saying it annoys the reader and is the work of a rank amateur. They swoop down on it like a bolt out of the blue and in no uncertain terms give it the fatal noose.

But the cliché has been laid to rest for so long that nobody recognizes it. No one goes through a checkered career in breathless silence by leaps and bounds to the bitter end anymore either.

It's taboo to be: abreast of the times, at a loss for words, bathed in tears or wreathed in smiles. And one should not work like a Trojan, unscramble the situation, make a pretty picture or put in an appearance.

Lady Godiva rode through the streets of Coventry in the nude. Enemies of the cliché would deny that she was stark naked in broad daylight, cool as a cucumber or an impressive sight.

Think of the descriptive quality of the cliché. Something is green as grass, red as a rose, blue as the sky, brown as a berry, white as a sheet or cold as ice.

Although the fate of the cliché hangs in the balance, there is a long-felt want for its return from the great beyond. Each and every day writers who are strong as lions and sturdy as oaks are using the cliché again, and it is none the worse for wear.

In its struggle for existence the cliché will return in great profusion and glory to the tumultuous applause of the seething mass of humanity.

Thereby hangs the tale.

Job Opportunities Look Good for Grads

EDITOR'S NOTE: Now that graduation is nearing, seniors here and at other universities are confronted with the task of planning their futures.

This editorial appeared in the April 26 issue of "The Vista," student newspaper at Central State College, Edmond, Oklahoma.

College students often seem to be in the dark as to what their job prospects will be after graduation. Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg has issued an "Open Letter to the College Graduates of 1962" which outlines prospects for work in various fields.

Here are some facts disclosed in Goldberg's memo:

Due to the current stress on science, government job opportunities appear good for engineers, physics and mathematics majors. Government agencies need physicists, chemists, mathematicians and engineers in all fields including electronics, electrical, aerospace and mechanical.

Salaries? Graduates with a bachelor's degree can start at $5,335 a year. Under some conditions, graduates with a masters degree may start at $8,340 a year. Those who hold a Ph. D. may start at $8,955.

In the field of business, students interested in accounting might find the field wide open in certain sections of the country. Starting salaries for accountants range between $450 and $550 monthly for graduates with bachelor's degrees. Higher salaries are possible for graduates with higher degrees.

Prospects appear good for business administration and liberal arts graduates who want to be sales representatives and trainees. Management trainee positions aren't too numerous but opportunities appear good. Starting salaries vary between $425 and $500 a month for most business trainee and sales jobs. A master's degree in business administration will boost these salaries $100 a month. Retailing will provide managerial positions for women graduates. Prospects for jobs in the banking industry are good.

In the field of physical science, employment opportunities for well-trained chemistry graduates at all levels appear excellent. Goldberg stresses that employers will choose according to the graduate's grades and academic standing. Starting salary for chemistry graduates with a bachelor's degree averages around $500 monthly. The same holds true for physics graduates.

Nuclear Weapons Tests Stop! (According to Model U.N.)

Suspension of nuclear testing, population growth and re-organization of the Security Council were some of the questions discussed at the Model United Nations at Texas University recently.

About 400 delegates from 32 schools attended the meeting sponsored by the Collegiate Council for the United Nations. Fifty-two nations were represented.

Debates Testing

The General Assembly debated suspension of nuclear testing, neo-colonialism, population growth and development and re-organization of the Security Council.

The vote to cease nuclear testing passed with "Afghanistan" voting for.

One problem most of the delegates seemed to have was remembering their country. At one session, a "representative" for a communist country started speaking for the United States before someone reminded him he was a "communist."

Afghanistan Protests

Afghanistan got into the act by protesting two votes. One was an Argentine vote cast by a member of the Venezuelan delegation; the other a Turkish vote cast by a non-member.

"The first time the chair ruled in our favor," Cook said. "The second time the vote was counted because the Turkish delegate had asked the other to stand in for him."

Cook summed it up like this: "We had studied a lot, but still felt we were lacking in some areas. In all we learned quite a bit about working procedures in the United Nations."

Alfred Lowenstein, author of "Brutal Mandate," a book about his trip through the Union of South Africa and the territory of South West Africa, was keynote speaker. He currently is a professor at Stanford University.

Physics Colloquium Slated Friday

Dr. Aleksandar Svager, TCU physics research fellow, will lecture on "metal whiskers" at the next physics graduate colloquium. The lecture will include the theory that crystals called whiskers form on metals in the shape of screws.

p.m., Friday in room 151 of Winton-Scott Hall. A coffee will precede the meeting at 4 p.m.

Alloys of copper and nickel, containing from 10 to 50 per cent nickel, are noted for their resistance to corrosion, particularly in salt water.

Beauty Finalists To Be Selected

Residents of Texas for six months who are between the ages of 18-28 are eligible. Contestants will be judged on beauty, charm, poise and personality. There will be no talent competition.

The Casino Beach winner receives a trophy, merchandise prizes and a trip to Lake Whitney where she will participate in the Texas Miss Universe finals June 11 and 12.

The Texas winner receives a trophy in addition to a wardrobe and expense-paid trip to Miami Beach where she will represent Texas July 6-16.

What with all the fuss these days about "Ben Kildare" and "Dr. Casey," or whatever their names are, perhaps we should put more emphasis on the Harris College of Nursing.

I wonder how many gals have changed their majors to nursing since the current fad of medical TV programs came along?

According to the latest issue of Campus Illustrated, a University of Wisconsin student, making a study of juvenile delinquency, telephoned 12 homes at 9 p.m. to ask parents if they knew where their children were.

The result: seven of the calls were answered by children who had no idea where their parents were.

Two popular Warner Bros. movies of not so long ago, now are appearing together at the TCU Theater for return engagements.

"The Sundowners," starring Robert Mitchum, Deborah Kerr and Peter Ustinov, and "Marjorie Morningstar," starring Natalie Wood, and Gene Kelly, are the two in-color features.

It's funny, or maybe not so funny, how people pack up and travel great distances when weekends or vacations come around.

One of my pettest peeves is people who think they have to go to Europe, or Bermuda, or Mexico, or California, or some other far-off place, to take a vacation.

Many of these same people never bother to take advantage of the attractions close to home, which other people come great distances to see. I guess that's just human nature.

But isn't it strange, and somewhat stupid when you get right down to it, that many people in San Antonio have never seen The Alamo? Or that people in San Francisco never have seen the Golden Gate Bridge? Or the same for New York Cityites who never have seen The Empire State Building or the Statue of Liberty or the million other wonders of that city?

When was the last time YOU visited the Botanic Gardens, the Museum of Western Art or the Forest Park Zoo, right here in Fort Worth... and all FREE.

Not so long ago, the federal government ran a "See America First" campaign to keep some of the tourist dollars in this country. Texas has been on a similar campaign for some time, and Fort Worth probably is working along the same lines on a smaller scale.

YOU can help by keeping the dollars which you earn in your own community, in your own state, in your own country.

Another recent Campus Illustrated item reports that salaries of college faculty members are rising — but that they still aren't up to the level of head football coaches.

The average faculty salary is $7,480, while the average campus mentor makes $8,500 yearly. A few leading coaches, with salaries in excess of $20,000, are in higher income brackets than many college presidents.

Although athletic coaches have a great deal to do with raising school morale, bringing people and money to the college community for sports events, and teaching sportsmanship and the like, still it is disappointing that too many of our nation's educators are under paid.

It is not difficult to understand why there is a shortage of teachers.

Megarity Receives Honor By Collegiate Magazine

Denny Megarity, Waco senior, has received honorable mention by Campus Illustrated magazine in its poll for the Ten Top Collegians for 1962.

Megarity is one of 22 students who received honorable mention, in addition to the Top Ten.

He was a classmate at Waco High of Michael Henke, a senior at Baylor, who was named to the Top Ten list. Henke has compiled a 3.95 as a chemistry major, in addition to numerous other honors.

Other Top Ten winners are Rex Adams, Duke; Robert Baxter, Air Force Academy; Stephen Dickinson, Carleton College; Laurae Fortner, University of Denver; and Stephen Gage, University of Nebraska.

Also named are Walter Kirititsu, University of Hawaii; Jennifer Lauterbach, Smith College; Joyce Ormsby, George Washington University; and David Schindler, North Dakota State University.

James Doty of Rice University and William Hardin of the University of Texas are other Southwest Conference students to receive honorable mention.

Megarity has been president of Student Congress this year. He is a member of Alpha Chi, national scholastic fraternity, the Select Series Committee, Phi Delta Theta fraternity and was Chief Justice of Student Court last year.

University Offers High School Lab

A new "visiting program" will enable junior and senior high school students and teachers to participate in operations of the University's foreign language lab.

"The practical use that the students will receive is necessary in the early stages of learning," said Dr. John Hammond, lab director. "This experience cannot be gained entirely from classroom practice."

Groups may visit the campus from 9 a.m. to noon any Saturday during the semester for one hour listening sessions in Spanish, French, German, Russian, Italian and Portuguese.

ADS Sets Eatin' Meetin' Tonight

Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising fraternity, will hold its last regular meeting of the school year at 6 p.m. today at the home of sponsor Jim Lehman, 3205 Binyon.

Supper will be served to chapter members and prospective members, according to Dennis Schick, ADS president.

Following supper, a business meeting will be held, during which new officers will be elected and prospective members will be presented to the chapter. Initiation will be held at 5 p.m. May 11 in room 120 of Dan Rogers Hall, after which members will attend the Communications Headliner Banquet in the Student Center.

Schick urges all members and prospective members to be present at tonight's meeting.

Education Dean Named To 'Men of Science'

Galen Hull took possession of the president's gavel when members-elect were installed Tuesday at Student Congress meeting.

Tarver Bailey and Elaine Valencia have pledged to uphold the duties of vice president and secretary respectively. Bill Biggs retains the office of treasurer.

The old Congress established a general policy proposed by Stan Reed that the Congress elect a substitute to represent TCU at extracurricular functions if the Sweetheart is unable to attend.

Expenses incurred by the representative while representing the University in Texas will be paid completely by Congress. However it will withstand 75 per cent of out-of-state expenses. (Congress decides to which events the University will send representatives.)

Old members voted to purchase certificates commemorating their service to Congress.

Annual Fun Day Frolics

Everybody Goes Country

Milking cows, calling hogs, tossing eggs and pulling ropes were in vogue on Fun Day — the day everyone goes country.

It is sponsored annually by the games and outings committee of the Activities Council.

Contests are held in the afternoon on the quadrangle with a dance scheduled in the Student Center Ballroom for the evening.

Winners of the competitions are announced at the dance.

Second-year winners in the contests are Bernard Barteck, Belton junior, in pie-eating; Dean of Men Jewell Wallace in cow-milking for male faculty and Elizabeth Youngblood in the female faculty cow-milking.

Newcomers to the 1962 winners circle were Tommy Skipper, Pasadena senior, and Jim Knowles, Fort Worth freshman, in the egg-tossing; Bob Morris, Glen Rose freshman, and Patsy Mueller, Lytle sophomore, in the student cow-milking and Joe Holt, Corpus Christi junior, in the hog-calling.

The Kappa Sigs won the tug-of-war for the male organizations. Sue Sanner, Popular Bluff, Mo. sophomore, won the sorority tri-cycle races for the Alpha Gams.

Willane King, Jefferson, Mo. freshman, and Doug Mann, Barton, Fla. junior, who both entered the hog-calling contests, were selected as "Mr. and Miss U.R.A. Hick."

Service Station People Think She's High Octane

BY DONNA HUFF

Good luck must be contagious! At least two TCU coeds are convinced of it. Vicki Adams, Colorado City sophomore, was "Miss Service Station of Fort Worth" last year. This year her past roommate Jerry Lynn White, Harlingen sophomore, is the new title holder.

Miss White was chosen from a group of five contestants. Other University women in the contest were Terry Mike Johnson, Amarillo freshman, and Sue Funck, Kansas City freshman. They were runners up.

Entrance in the contest is by invitation of the Fort Worth Service Station Association. Contestants were judged on the basis of poise, beauty and personality.

Judges were from the John Robert Powers Modeling School, the Chamber of Commerce and the Interstate Theaters.

Miss White will represent the association at its State Convention April 23-26.

An all-expense paid stay in Dallas during the convention is part of the winner's prize. She also won a 10-hour scholarship to the John Robert Powers School of Modeling and a trophy.

Purple Nine Ends Season Against SMU

Coach Frank Windegger's Frog baseball team will travel to Dallas next week to wind up its 1962 season.

TCU takes on the winless SMU Mustangs in single games Monday and Tuesday.

A crowd of more than 500 watched the Texas Longhorns strike early and then put down several Frog threats to win, 4-3, here Wednesday.

Yesterday TCU and Texas closed out their season series with a single game.

The Longhorns got four tallies off starter Don Schmidt in four innings and then were blanked by relievers Larry Kveton and Rox Covert in the final five.

Kveton gave up only one hit in the fifth, sixth and seventh, and Covert allowed but one safety in his Southwest Conference pitching debut.

Shut out for six innings by Texas starter Tom Belcher, the Frogs took advantage of a Longhorn error to push across three runs and turn the game into an exciting contest.

Rightfielder Leon Baze was the big sticker for the home team going two for five and driving across three runs. Gary Lee, Bob Bigley and Freddy Jones each had two safeties for the Frogs.

TCU had several opportunities to win but the Purple batsmen could not come through with the clutch hits. The Frogs left 13 men stranded on the bases.

The Purples had their finest opportunity to pull the game out in the final frame. A single by Baze, a walk and a wild pitch put the tying runs on second and third with two out. Longhorn chucker Bob Meyer got pinch-hitter Sam Reynolds to ground out third to first and end the contest.

Catcher Freddy Jones takes the throw to force a sliding Texas Longhorn at home. The action occurred Wednesday as Texas edged the Frogs, 4-3. Yesterday, TCU played host to the Longhorns in a single game here. The Purples end their season next week playing Southern Methodist in Dallas Monday and Tuesday.

Frogs Hit West Texas For Tennis Race Finale

Frog netmen move into West Texas Saturday to close out their season in a Southwest Conference match against Texas Tech.

TCU owns a 10-20 record in the SWC race.

Today the Frogs oppose Hardin-Simmons in a non-league match in Abilene.

The Purple netmen pulled a mild upset by tying Texas A&M, 3-3, at the Ridglea Country Club.

Earl Van Zandt was the Frogs only winner in the singles matches. He topped Doug Sassman, 6-1, 7-5.

In the first doubles match Van Zandt teamed with Paul Christian to whip Carroll Kell and Ray Salazar, 6-2, 6-3. TCU captain Roy Persons and sophomore Harold Wise defeated Sassman and Jerry Foster, 6-0, 6-2, in the second doubles encounter.

★ Pullman Waves At 'Blind' Judges

Competing in the San Angelo relays in March, Saul Pullman completely was overlooked by the judges in the 100-yard dash even though he ran third.

So, later that month in the Texas relays, to make sure the judges didn't miss him, Pullman waved at them as he crossed the finish line in second place.

Pitchers Didn't Like That Next Guy at Bat

Yankee homerun slugger Roger Maris was not walked intentionally the entire 162-game season last year.

The reason: pitchers were more afraid of the other M-boy, Mickey Mantle, who followed him to bat and had a considerably higher batting average, than they were of the record-setting Maris.

Running Coach

Frog track coach J. Eddie Weems heads out on his morning constitutional — a one mile jog. Weems says he has been taking his daily runs for 30 years and sees no reason why he should stop in the near future.

Frogs' Meador Bowls 'Em Over

TCU bowlers took third place in the team event in the 12th Annual Texas A&M Collegiate Bowling Tournament in College Station.

Phil Stroud paced the Frogs with a 622 series.

Leonard Meador defeated more than 100 bowlers from 17 colleges to bring the singles trophy back to Fort Worth. Meador rolled a 614 series with game scores of 222 — 206 — 186.

Stroud, Meador, Gary Brown, Bill Bailey, and Pat Karr made up the third place Frog team. With a team score of 2,737 TCU finished only five pins behind first place St. Mary's of San Antonio and four pins behind runner up A&M.

TCU teams placed ninth and sixth in the doubles competition.

Golfers To Meet Texas In Season's Last Match

Frog golfers will meet Texas at 1:30 p.m. today at Glen Garden in their last match of the season.

Facing Texas today will be Gabe Cunningham, Mike Walling, Leland Phillips and Jack Montgomery.

In a match Monday Paschal High School nipped the Frog freshmen, 3½-2½, at Colonial.

★ Unmarked Cover Marks Professor

"Incidentally, your textbooks should have your name in them by now."

As he pulled his own text from his brief case, the cover flipped open to disclose . . . a plain, unmarked book cover.
