Congress Recommends Loosening of Drinking Ban

Student Congress Tuesday urged a loosening of alcohol restrictions for off-campus social functions and recommended a raise in academic probation standards.

In a one hour and forty-five minute business session lengthened by a 15-minute special session, called because of premature adjournment, Congress readied its suggestions for the airing of social regulations by the Student Organizations Committee Wednesday.

A special committee headed by Congressman John Matheny led the recommendations action for Congress with members discussing and voting upon suggestions.

Matheny said the alcohol proposal for off-campus social functions called for alcohol to be permitted at functions but that the organizations and their sponsors would be responsible for conduct resulting from the use of intoxicating beverages.

Conduct Is Key

"Conduct is the key rather than the possession of alcohol," Matheny explained.

He also explained that action resulting from misconduct should be directed at offending individuals rather than the organization concerned.

In further action Congress suggested that the grade point cut-off for academic probation be raised from a 1.5 to a 1.8 for freshman and be set at 2.0 for upperclassmen.

Matheny noted that as the system now stands, students going into their senior year may never have been on academic probation and still may not have the required 2.0 grade index to graduate.

Congress also made suggestions regarding the scheduling of social events, a proposal asking permission for off-campus scheduling of all-school social functions and a recommendation that the social director have discretion to decide whether or not functions need faculty sponsors.

UPI News Chief Relates Grim Details of 'Biggest Story'

By DAVID STEVENSON

"Bulletin—Three shots were fired today at the Presidential motorcade." This was the first hint the division news manager for United Press International received of the terrible tragedy of Nov. 22 and the fast moving events to follow.

John Fallon, news manager for the Southwest division of UPI with offices in Dallas, related the UPI's coverage of the four historic days beginning with the President's assassination. Fallon addressed the Journalism Assembly Wednesday afternoon.

"Those four days were a situation without parallel," the youthful-looking newsman said. He related the events as they unfolded.

"We had all of the Dallas staff out to cover the President's visit. This would be the last time we (UPI) would be in contact with Kennedy on his Texas visit since he would be leaving for Austin and be in seclusion. We wanted to cover the crowd reaction to his visit."

Gives Topical Account

Fallon divided the events of the four-day period into three major stories: the shooting itself, the condition of Gov. Connally, and the arrest of Lee Harvey Oswald for the murder of Dallas patrolman J.D. Tippitt.

As soon as Fallon received the bulletin he sent reporters to police and sheriff offices to obtain more information concerning the gunfire. He soon received another call which confirmed that Kennedy had been hit and might have been fatally wounded.

Clubs Protest Proposed 2.0 Grade Requirement

By BARBARA JOHNSTON

Should students be required to have a 2.0 grade average from the previous semester in order to take an active part in campus organizations?

This question was the center of discussion at Wednesday's open meeting of the University Committee on Student Organizations, called for the purpose of hearing suggestions for revision of the current regulations governing student organizations.

The committee is in the process of combining and up-dating the various publications relating to the organization and operation of student organizations.

2.0 Minimum

Present regulations do not contain a minimum grade average requirement for active club participation. However, one of the committee's proposed revisions would prohibit students failing to make a 2.0 the previous semester from such activity.

A Student Congress recommendation, read by President Mark Wassenich, suggested that the committee reconsider the proposed revision.

Objections Voiced

Wassenich said that congressmen felt the requirement of a 2.0 for club participation would be more harsh than the University's present policy on academic probation.

Various objections were voiced by other representatives of campus organizations. Financial effects of such a ruling on the various clubs, especially Greek organizations, were noted.

Others were concerned with the effects of the ruling upon individual students, especially underclassmen. Congressman John Matheny suggested the University's academic requirements first should be raised.

Dr. Karl E. Snyder, chairman of the 17-member Committee on Student Organizations, explained that no final decisions yet have been made. He added that the committee hopes to finish its study of regulations governing student organizations by "sometime in February."

Other Congress recommendations presented by Wassenich included:

A change in the policy prohibiting off-campus school-wide dances "to allow such dances to be held off the campus."

A change in academic probation standards now in effect to those of 1.8 for freshmen and 2.0 for upper classmen.

Alcoholic Beverages

A change in the regulation concerning drinking at functions sponsored by TCU organizations to read, "Any conduct reflecting unfavorably upon the University resulting from the use of intoxicating beverages at functions sponsored by or for TCU organizations will result in disciplinary action."

This recommendation, explained Wassenich, recognizes that drinking does occur at off-campus functions "in spite of rules and often with sponsors, chaperones and administrators aware of infractions." It would make the

'Whirlybirding' Scheduled For Students at Red River

Pilots at Bell Helicopter may have taken their whirlybirds up many times, but they've never really been "whirlybirding" unless they've been to Red River, N.M., the site of the All-University Ski Trip.

"Whirlybirding" was originated during the first ski trip two years ago and the Red River resort has the only setup in the world.

Actually whirlybirding has nothing to do with helicopters. All the skier, or non-skier, has to do is sit on a truck innertube, which has a seat built on it, and slide down the 1,000-foot slope.

Students who have gone whirlybirding say that it is more fun than sledding, skiing and tobogganing all put together. The entire area is floodlighted for the sport at night.

At the bottom of the slope is a lodge which serves coffee and snacks and has music for dancing while students wait for their friends.

Ski Trip Deadline Next Wednesday

Twice as many students as last year are signed up for this season's University Ski Trip to Red River, N.M., on Jan. 22-26.

Reservations will be available in the Social Director's Office until Wednesday, Jan. 15.

It's not necessary to know how to ski, says the Ski Trip Committee; qualified instructors will teach novices.

Other activities are ice skating, sledding, sleigh riding, trout fishing, dancing, hiking, "Whirly-birding", and after ski partying.

The boy-girl ratio is about even, with most students going stag.

Cost of the Ski Trip is $41.50 per person, which includes transportation and lodging.

Dr. Moudy Visits Dallas Soon for P.E. Conference

Dr. James M. Moudy, vice-chancellor for academic affairs, will address the first general session of the 67th annual conference of the National College Physical Education Association in Dallas, Jan 8-11.

Moudy's address, "What is Everybody's Business", will be Thursday afternoon in the Baker Hotel. His talk is expected to set the theme of this year's conference, for the association strives to define the basic issues of the physical education profession and its relation to the remainder of the academic world.

President of the Association, Dr. Karl W. Bookwalter, professor of physical education at Indiana University, announced Dr. James W. Standifer, also of TCU, and manager of the convention has scheduled three general sessions.

In addition to the address by Moudy, a breakfast scheduled for Fri. morning will feature John Bridgers, head football coach at Baylor University. His address is entitled "Something New Has Been Added."

Resolution Sent To Dr. Sadler

The Student Congress resolution calling on the administration to open academic facilities to Negroes has been forwarded to Chancellor M. E. Sadler, Mark Wassench, Congress President, told the Skiff Friday.

In a letter to Congress written three days after the passage of the resolution, Dr. Sadler thanked congressmen for it. He said that he was receiving recommendations from other organizations and would soon act.

The resolution, which asks the University's Board of Trustees "to remove any racial restriction from admission requirements to any part of our academic program," was approved by an overwhelming majority early in December.

2 TCU Students Win Prizes at Dallas Contest

Mrs. Mary Seller Thomas, Fort Worth senior, and Eleanor B. Moore, Galveston junior, won first and second places in a statewide art competition sponsored by the Preston State Bank of Dallas.

The "Commemorative Emblem Competition" was open to art students in colleges and universities in Texas.

Mrs. Thomas, first place winner, will receive four shares in the bank's corporate stock for her design. Her emblem was a large "P" in a square area colored in tones of grey, white and black; the center of the "P" was an outline of the State and the words "Preston State Bank" were printed in the corner.

Miss Moore, the second place winner, will receive $30 for her design. An art student from the University of Texas received third place.

C. J. Isoline, assistant professor of art, directs the commercial art program at TCU. All commercial art students submitted designs for the competition. Mrs. Isoline selected the best of these to be sent to Dallas.

Computing Oscar-Winners

The Cornell University Engineering Journal reports a potentially disturbing development:

Computers are being used to make movies.

The initial efforts are small, dealing with design of films on orbits of satellites. The implications of computer movies, however, are staggering.

Imagine how screen epics like "Cleopatra" might have emerged if created by a computer. The basic aspects of legend and history are fed into the machine and ZAP!:

As the film opens, Julius Caesar is running a hot tamale stand in the Circus Maximus (the computer analyzed his personality traits and determined this for what he was best suited).

Before the movie ends, Julius has cornered the hot tamale market in all of the Roman Empire, but won't give Cleopatra a tumble (the computer studied their characteristics and decided they weren't compatible). Mark Antony is a mathematician. After all, aren't all heroes (in computer films) mathematicians? Naturally.

As the sun sets over the Nile, Cleopatra and Mark are in the palace studying logarithms together (the computer decided they were compatible).

Hopefully computers will stick to technical films. Elizabeth Taylor does much better with the human touch.

Cypriot Tinderbox

Greek and Turkish troops on the island of Cyprus stand at gunpoint after communal fighting that has raged since last Saturday. The Greeks have demanded an extraordinary session of the NATO Permanent Council in Paris; the Turks have sent a flotilla of warships steaming toward the island; and efforts to resolve the crisis by placing troops of both nations, garrisoned on Cyprus, under the command of a British officer have failed to lessen the tension. This is one of those teapot tempests that, unless calmed, can lead to grave consequences. Calmed it must be, whether by direct NATO intervention with troops of its own, or by talks between the heads of the two states involved. Cyprus is one of those quasi-independent nations under a triple treaty guarantee from Britain, Turkey and Greece. The Turkish Cypriots believe themselves, as a minority, unjustly treated by Archbishop Makarios, a Greek and their president. The archbishop has sought to strengthen Turkish rights while taking away their power to block legislation.

Because Turkish is Arab in lineage, the implications of the struggle for Cyprus are grave indeed. Any island lying so close to the nations of the Middle East has the power to infect them with war fever. Therefore action is needed, to forestall a recurrence that so wracked the island a few years ago. Thereafter, both NATO and the UN need to take a long, hard look at how the Cypriots are being governed, or misgoverned.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

FYI

By MIKE MILLIGAN

Since the semester is evaporating like water on the Sahara, the new Average College Student (ACS) would be well advised to take stock of the past few months.

By now the ACS must be in full swing of things, unless he's taking large strides down the road to Flunkville. He is well acquainted with such campus atrocities as 8 a.m. classes and implacable professors, term papers and pop quizzes.

During his college sojourn to this point, the ACS has had to cope with a form of mechanized mayhem euphemistically called parking. It's likely he has encountered the new traffic regulations, and this meeting may have lightened his wallet.

Jitters, Too

The first-of-the-semester jitters, a syndrome common to beginning ACS's, might have afflicted our hero, and it could have led to contemplating the validity of Extra Sensory Perception. If he tried tuning in on a professorial wavelength, he quickly found that the frequencies were different.

After class and homework our Undergraduate Ulysses toiled around in his shiny new putrid-purple Detroit monster sans fins, which he secretly abhors because it lacks the sporting blood of its foreign brethren.

He certainly stopped to take in a flick, but didn't much enjoy it because of the mumble-tongued new whipper-snappers masquerading as actors.

Leaving the theater in disgust he might have tuned in a TCU radio show that lasted exactly 14 minutes and 30 seconds.

Apprised of the latest campus news, the ACS turned his thoughts to warmer lands to the far, far south—Italy. But this dreamy bubble was pricked by remembrance of his Music Appreciation homework. He tried listening to Beethoven's Fifth, but hated it because his sixth grade teacher had attempted making it number one on his Hit Parade.

Shoe-Beater

Mr. K. might have been beating his shoe again, so the Average College Student may well have wondered if there was going to be a next semester.

It's too bad, he thought, nations don't think as well of each other as they do themselves.

Our protagonist lapsed into another day dream, this one about the veracity of certain sooth-sayers, such as Michael Nostradamus. Ah, if only our ACS could read the stars!

A little more time passes, a few more tests are returned and a mid-semester depression sets in.

Totally irrelevant facts assail the ACS' fevered and over-worked brain, such as the world's face slapping record and piano smashing record; he fears he will set the world's low grade record.

Good Cheer

This too passes away and Christmas finds our hero full of good cheer, for he remembers the true import of the holiday, and reflects upon the teachings of the Man whose birth it celebrates.

All that lies ahead now are (gulp!) final exams.

It's been an eventful semester for ACS, hectic, perhaps, but full of promise. But For His (or Your) Information the next one may be more frenetic.

Dishonorable Discharge From Armed Forces Puts Shame on Civilian

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

WASHINGTON, (AP)—"I find it very hard to live with the shame . . . they will not hire me . . . I can't enter the college of my choice."

With words such as these, many former enlisted men petitioned the Navy to let them escape from the shadow of undesirable, bad conduct and dishonorable discharges.

Now, the Navy is using these words to drive home an object lesson—to impress on young sailors "the handicaps and consequences" of receiving less than honorable discharges.

"Many young enlisted men are under the erroneous impression that a less than honorable discharge will not penalize them as civilians," said a notice being circulated to all ships and shore stations.

To dispel that impression, the bureau of Naval personnel has selected remorseful quotes from petitions asking a change to honorable discharge.

WITHOUT identifying the writers, the Navy is making sure the quotes are shown to sailors throughout the fleet—and that they realize none of the petitions quoted were granted.

"Separations from the Navy with less than an honorable discharge remained consistently high during the past few years," said the notice.

Since 1959, officials said, undesirable, bad conduct and dishonorable discharges from the Navy have been running at the rate of about 3,600 a year.

"It is hoped that if personnel are informed of the effects in civilian life of receiving such discharges, commanding officers will be assisted in their efforts to improve conduct," the notice said.

THESE WERE some of the excerpts distributed:
 —"I have been out of service about two years during which time I have had a very hard time securing a good job. Always during that time I have been confronted with the discharge I received. I have a wife and child."

"I only wish that I could relieve this part of my life over and earn the honorable discharge. I am married and have four children. The area that I live in has many defense industries in it . . . but they will not hire me because I do not have the honorable discharge."

Naval review boards are tough. Heartfelt appeals aren't enough to change decisions. There must be new evidence, officials said.

During the first nine months of 1963 the Navy Discharge Review Board considered 653 petitions. Only 47 discharges were changed.

This, too, is being brought home to the sailors.

'Vixen' May Look Like a Sad Doe

New York, (AP)—The Bronx Zoo today exploded the myth about the fully antlered reindeer pulling Santa's sleigh.

A big buck reindeer at the zoo lost his antlers this afternoon and his mate can be expected to drop hers any day.

Not only that, said zoo officials, it happens every year—at least to the zoo's reindeer. If they were pulling Santa's sleigh early Christmas morning, they would be antlerless.

And, added the zoo spokesman, "You've never seen anything more dispirited than a reindeer who just lost his antlers."

Thinking of the youngsters who will come to the zoo between now and Christmas to see the reindeer, the zoo has taken steps to soften their disappointment.

The fallen antlers will be tacked up on the door of the reindeer barn—draped with a Christmas wreath.

'64--Year of Hope

SKIFF STAFF REPORT

Last week President Lyndon Baines Johnson boarded Air Force No. 1 at Bergstrom Air Force Base in Austin, and returned to deliver his State of the Union message to Congress.

In Albany, New York, Gov. Nelson Rockefeller took to the rostrum at the State House and gave the legislators a taste of the political philosophy the candidate for the Republican nomination will take to the people in the coming months.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev hunted boars in an East German forest with his German stooge, Walter Ulbricht. Pope Paul VI returned from a triumphal and unprecedented pilgrimage to the Holy Land to meet a separated brethren, Athenagora I.

Throughout the United States and the world, a spirit, only recently shackled with the sadness of the tragic death of President Kennedy, looked with optimistic yearnings to a year of peace and prosperity. Skiff reporters last week interviewed University professors to ascertain possible developments for 1964.

Election Year

Civil rights will be one of the most important pieces of legislation in the new year, maintains Charles Procter, professor of government.

Procter said foreign aid has gone as far as it can. He stated he believed President Johnson won a clear victory in the passing of the bill.

One of the most controversial issues in the United States is the '64 presidential race. "It is a wild guess, but possibly Rockefeller and Goldwater will knock each other off, leaving the field open for Nixon," Procter said.

"Some people have suggested that Scranton will run as a 'darkhorse' vice presidential candidate. If he runs, it will not be as a 'darkhorse' candidate—he will have become a household word. The Republicans would never run an unknown man."

Procter voiced doubt that either Margaret Chase Smith or Jacqueline Kennedy would be nominated by either party for vice president. "It is a little early for women to be considered for top political places, but it will be something to think about in the future," Procter said.

Texas for Democrats

Procter stated that to be a top contender in the presidential race, a person must be well known and must be familiar with foreign affairs. "A governor of a state is no longer always a first choice. Now, the senator is equally available."

Texas will probably go Democratic in the election, Procter said. "For nearly 100 years of unbroken tradition, excluding Eisenhower's election, Texas has been a democratic state."

This is the first time Texas has had a favorite son in top contention for President. Procter said he thought Texas would go Democratic, especially because Johnson is a well known mediator between liberals and conservatives."

Prospects for the rapid enactment of the administration's 11 billion dollar tax cut are favorable as the second session of the 88th Congress convenes. Mr. Johnson has secured the promise from Senate leaders that a tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1, will be passed after scheduled committee debate. President Kennedy was unable to prod Congress into passing such a bill unless the administration coupled it with decreased government expenditures.

Dr. John L. Wortham, chairman of the Department of Economics, says, "Everyone feels we will have a tax cut and this tax cut should cause a 25 billion dollar expansion in the economy." Dr. Wortham says the gross national product, the measure of billion in 1963 and by the end of next year the GNP should be 645 billion dollars. "This represents a 6 or 7 per cent increase based on the assumption that nothing new happens in world affairs."

Unemployment Problem

Dr. Wortham doesn't see any major reduction in the unemployment situation, which was about 5½ per cent of the labor force in 1963. Unemployment shouldn't go much below 5 per cent in 1964. The reason for this is the U.S. is having a large increase in the population entering the labor and automation is preventing the expansion of job opportunities in many areas."

Dr. Wortham said the unskilled worker would have trouble finding a job but he said he believes that President Johnson will try to help old skilled workers who in the past have been untrainable for new skills.

Concerning world trade, Dr. Wortham says the U.S. has a favorable balance of trade and this should persist in 1964. He stated that the U.S. is selling more countries are buying from us. He said the European Common Market will lower some of its trade restrictions with the U.S. "The people living in the common market countries will discover rising costs in 1964 and should exert pressure on the market to tear down some of the trade barriers that exist between it and the United States."

Recession Unlikely

Dr. Wortham says a recession in 1964 was a small probability because of the tax cut. He also states that the federal, state and local governments plan to spend 80 billion dollars in 1964, thus providing a deterrent to recession.

The automobile market will see 20 per cent of the families buying cars, either new or used, which means that the new car market this year should be as good as it was last year.

"I don't think you will find any economist who is pessimistic about 1964's economy," says Dr. Wortham. "I think the question is how high will the economy go."

Dr. W. C. Nunn, professor of history, sums up the international outlook for 1964 as "wholesome."

In Viet Nam, the U.S. is involved and will probably continue to be involved. The recent overthrow of the Viet Nam government has not worsened the situation; it seems to be more stable than this time last year, commented Nunn.

The opening of the Berlin Wall during the Christmas holidays is a gesture that indicates that a more amicable feeling toward the West is being sought by Russian Premier Khrushchev. This, Dr. Nunn believes, is also a wholesome sign.

Prospects of world peace are much better now than they have been in several years. However, there continues to be a "lack of amiability between Red China Russia which has not yet been overcome. Nunn added that this situation has not materially altered since last year.

Cuba Declining

Another international controversy on which Nunn commented was the Cuban-Castro situation which he described as gradually declining in importance. And Nunn termed the U.S.-Russian agreement toward the banning of atomic testing as a "forward step."

Concerning the new Administration, Nunn expressed optimism, saying that President Johnson is exhibiting wisdom and practicality in his policies.

"Johnson is a practical man with his feet on the ground. He has a lot of common sense at a time when common sense is needed in government," said Nunn.

He further stated that Johnson is adhering to many of President Kennedy's policies but is still showing individuality. This individuality and his strong initiative, Nunn opined, will become more obvious in the months ahead.

JANUARY 15 DEADLINE

Between hectic moments, a few find time to relax in the Brown-Lupton Student Center. Some only have minutes for a Coke and a sandwich, while others manage a hand of bridge. Cards are a popular diversion at exam time.

Tension mounts in the Mary Coats Burnett Library as students spend extra hours of study in preparation for approaching final exams. The usual whispering sessions and social get-togethers have disappeared for at least a week. For those who have played away the semester, Dead Week in the library seems the only solution.

Though exams are only six days away, sometimes the pressure of finals has to be broken like so many pool balls. Hopefully the next shot will not be from behind the eight-ball. Students like these believe the best solution to good grades is to prepare all semester so they will not have to rely on stimulants and other foolish devices at this critical time.

However, there are those of us who would much rather take our free moments to relax seriously. True, we can not always be choosy about our resting places. At times like these, books make just as comfortable a headrest as any pillow. And what ideas go through our groggy minds? Why, those few days between semesters when we will be going to Red River for skiing.

Black Coffee Heads Menu For Finals Time

January—and all that comes with it—is back. Within the next 11 days, students will be breaking out coffee cups, notes, and sharp pencils in preparation for final exams.

The mood on campus is typical. Students return to Mary Coats Burnett Library for serious work on material that in some cases should have been prepared months ago. Others are at the library, just as they have been all semester, making certain that they will have their "A's" and another 4.0 index.

Dormitories are quieter. Record-players are softer, with longer periods of quiet. "Roomies" ask their mates to turn down the radio and cut phone conversations short. Familiar signs such as "Quiet—We Are Studying" and "Go Away Until Jan. 22nd," are again making their appearance.

Front porches on the girls' side of campus are practically deserted at 11 o'clock, as last minute "goodnights" are speeded up.

Movie dates are changed to study dates, and out-of-dorm coffee breaks are fewer.

In fearful anticipation, some students' desks are cluttered with telephone numbers of local recruiting offices, clippings from help-wanted sections, and travel folders from far-away places.

Tucked under a blotter is a list of excuses to be sent home. Hopefully "Carl College" thinks "Daddy" will believe he "got sleeping sickness in Mexico during Christmas vacation, had his semester notes stolen, didn't have enough money to buy a ball-point, had his writing hand stepped on, or studied so hard he couldn't remember where the exam was to be given."

Some students even consider matrimony in preference to facing their families.

However, for those who have been conscientious all semester, finals will be no problem. Instead of taking cold showers and pulling "all-nighters," they will be able to play a hand of bridge or watch a favorite TV program.

Dr. Sadler Sparked TCU's Growth to Major Status

By DIANE TURNER

Here is a man who grew with a university; who planted the seeds in '41, watered, fed, and watched it grow into a top major school in the country today.

The man's name is McGruder Ellis Sadler, 67, chancellor of TCU.

Sadler became chief administrator for TCU in 1941. Since then 29 buildings have been constructed, renovated, enlarged or acquired. The campus totals 243 acres.

DR. M. E. SADLER

Since Sadler became top official, and although TCU receives no support from taxation, it has never operated at a deficit.

In 1941, the University enrolled

1,504 students for all sessions. By 1963, enrollment has grown to 9,014. By its centennial year, 1973, the enrollment is forecast at 12,200.

Established New Offices

Dr. Sadler reorganized the University into schools and colleges. He established the Public Relations Department on campus. He organized the Ex-Students, Student Life, and Social Director offices.

Dr. Sadler has said that our academic expansion will be in "depth" rather than in "width." Instead of attempting to establish new and costly professional colleges, the University will develop the Doctor of Philosophy degree in 10 or 12 major fields in which it already excels.

Future Bright

Research will be expanded and intensified in all areas. All undergraduate work will be enriched and up-graded.

When Sadler, the master architect finishes his design, it is hoped TCU will claim membership among the top 10 per cent of all senior institutions.

Undergirding Needs Doubling

When Sadler came, the annual budget was $540,000. Now it is $7,563,800. Productive endowment has climbed from $4,000,000 to $26,500,000. While this gives TCU the second largest endowment among the independent institutions of Texas, the University's base of financial undergirding needs to be almost doubled to meet the challenge of the tenth decade, Dr. Sadler points out.

To honor the years of dedicated service Chancellor M. E. Sadler has devoted to the University, the Board of Trustees in 1960 voted to name the new administration building in his honor.

regulation more realistic, he said.

A representative of the Geology Club presented a recommendation to the committee concerning a change in the restriction on organization meeting nights so that departmental groups can bring in an outside speaker any night.

Dr. Snyder said his committee would consider the recommendations and pass on to the proper authorities those matters not in their jurisdiction.

A tribute was made to TCU ex-students who made the supreme sacrifice by giving their lives during World War II on Friday, January 12, 1945, at the University Christian Church. Dean Jerome Moore gave the scripture reading, and Chancellor Sadler presented the eleven names of the honored.

stantinople on Jan. 6 began the new year with an example of Christian unity. This was the first meeting of the head of the eastern and western branches of Christendom since 1439.

What will happen here at home? According to George P. Fowler, professor of religion, there will be unity in the Protestant world. This year promises increased cooperation between faiths and denominations. Efforts by the local, state, national and world Councils of Churches are steps toward better understanding and increased accomplishments among the churches.

1964: YEAR OF DECISION

Well sir, here we go into 1964, which shows every sign of being quite a distinguished year. First off, it is the only year since 1954 which ends with the Figure 4. Of course, when it comes to Figure 4's, 1964, though distinguished, can hardly compare with 1444 which, most people agree, had not just one, not just two, but three Figure 4's! This, I'll wager, is a record that will stand for at least a thousand years!

1444 was, incidentally, notable for many other things. It was, for example, the year in which the New York Giants played the Philadelphia Athletics in the World Series. As we all know, the New York Giants have since moved to San Francisco and the Philadelphia Athletics to Kansas City. There is a movement afoot at present to move Chicago to Phoenix—the city, not the baseball team. Phoenix, in turn, would of course move to Chicago. It is felt that the change would be broadening for residents of both cities. Many Chicago folks, for example, have never seen an iguana. Many Phoenix folks, on the other hand, have never seen a frostbite.

There are, of course, certain difficulties connected with a municipal shift of this size. For instance, to move Chicago you also have to move Lake Michigan. This, in itself, presents no great problem, what with modern scientific advances like electronics and the French cuff. But if you will look at your map, you will find Lake Michigan is attached to all the other Great Lakes, which in turn are attached to the St. Lawrence Seaway, which in turn is attached to the Atlantic Ocean. You start dragging Lake Michigan to Phoenix and, willy-nilly, you'll be dragging all that other stuff too. This would make our British allies terribly cross, and I can't say as I blame them. Put yourself in their place. What if, for example, you were a British costermonger who had been saving and scrimping all year for a summer holiday at Brighton Beach, and then when you got to Brighton Beach there wasn't any ocean? There you'd be with your inner tube and snorkel and nothing to do all day but dance the Lambeth Walk. This, you must agree, would not help make you NATO-minded!

I appeal most earnestly to the residents of Chicago and Phoenix to reconsider. I know it's no bowl of cherries going through life without ever seeing an iguana or a frostbite, but I ask you—Chicagoans, Phoenicians—is it too big a price to pay for preserving the unity of the free world?

I feel sure that if you search your hearts, you will make the right decision, for all of us—whether we live in frostbitten Chicago, iguana-infested Phoenix, or narrow-lapelled New Haven—are first and foremost Americans!

But I digress. We were speaking of 1964, our new year. And new it is! There is, for one thing, new pleasure in Marlboro Cigarettes. How, you ask, can there be new pleasure in Marlboros when that fine flavorful blend of tobaccos, that clean efficient Selectrate filter, have not been altered? The answer is simple: each time you light a Marlboro, it is like the first time. The flavor is such that age cannot wither nor custom stale. Marlboro never palls, never jades, never dwindles into dull routine. Each puff, each cigarette, each pack, each carton, makes you glad all over again that you are a Marlboro smoker!

Therefore, Marlboros in hand, let us march confidently into 1964. May good fortune attend our ventures! May serenity reign! May Chicago and Phoenix soon recover from their disappointment and join our bright cavalcade into a brave tomorrow!

BASKETBALL SAT. AFTERNOON

Frogs Set for Hogs

By RICHARD RATLIFF

The Frog cagers play Arkansas here Saturday to try again for their first conference victory. They lost their first two conference outings to Rice, 82-73, an Texas A&M, 92-64. The latter game was played in College Station Tuesday night, and Bennie Lenox of the Aggies scored 27 points to take scoring honors.

way, and after the first few minutes chance for victory looked slim.

Arkansas has a 4-8 record so far, winning one conference game against a favored Texas five, 58-53. The Razorbacks lost in their first conference outing to Texas Tech.

According to Frog Coach Buster Brannon, Warren Vogel, 6-4, and Jim Magness are top guns to watch in Saturday's game.

Vogel was the high point man against Texas with 17 points. Magness had 11. These two men also are the top rebounders on the team, and both are in contention for conference honors in this specialty. Vogel set a school record at Arkansas last year in rebounding.

Brannon has altered the Frog starting five the past few games.

FOR SATURDAY'S game he said he plans to start Gary Turner, Bobby McKinley, Archie Clayton (for the extra height), David Hull and Pat Peebles.

Brannon said it should be a tough game since Arkansas has one of the best shooting teams the Frogs will meet this season.

"You have to watch out for those boys from the Ozarks," he said. "They always have good scorers."

Commenting on the Aggie game Brannon said the TCU quintet did not play as well as they did against Rice.

He said they did not move the ball as well. They could not find the goal, whether shooting from the floor or at the free throw line. They totaled only 20 of 38 free throws.

"But most of all, they failed to move and maneuver as well as they have earlier this season."

HE ALSO SAID that the low post position was hurting the Frog badly. "We simply can't get up on the boards. They box Turner in and the low post man can't pull down the rebounds."

"When they do rebound well, we always play better. They moved well against Florida State, Houston, and Alabama. We beat them."

Saturday's game will mark the first of four afternoon games this year. It starts at 2 p.m.

The future afternoon games are with Texas, Feb. 8; SMU, Feb. 15; and Rice, Feb. 29; the latter of which is to be played in Houston.

Coach Johnny Swaim's Wogs fared better than did the varsity five.

They beat the Aggie Fish, 88-64.

COACH SWAIM said his boys played well, and he was especially pleased with Wayne Kreis and Rodney Chitsey. Kreis was the leading scorer with 22 points, and Chitsey led in rebounding with 17.

Swaim did say that the Wogs are having trouble with the low post men and their rebounding.

During half-time Saturday the Pee Wee boxers of Fort Worth's Panther Boys Club will entertain.

The performance is part of the coordinated effort being sponsored by the TCU Spirit Coordinating Council, recently organized by the Frog Club.

Also, the Frog band will be playing for the game, and the cheerleaders are scheduled to have a yell practice 15 minutes before game time.

Ph. D. Candidate Will Speak at Physics Confab

Jack S. Donaldson, physicist and Ph.D. candidate, will speak at the meeting of the Physics Graduate Colloquium on "An Analysis of the Energetics of the Tritium-Helium-three-plus Reaction."

The meeting will be held in the Physics Lecture Room 151 in the Winton-Scott Science Hall at 4:30 p.m. following a coffee at 4 p.m. in Room 145.

Pat Peebles, Frog forward, will be ready for Arkansas' Razorbacks, which TCU's quintet meets Saturday at 2 p.m. Peebles, 6-3 sophomore from Houston Lamar, pitches on baseball squad during the spring.

Song for Car Buff Might Well Be: 'Nearer Thee by XKE'

What does it feel like driving 115 mph, knowing there are no brakes on the car, and seeing a sharp turn move closer and closer

John Lamond, Skiff reporter, found out.

Preceding a recent sports car race, he drove a Jaguar XKE coupe at the Green Valley Raceway Sports Car Track in Fort Worth.

The Fort Worth division of the Sports Car Club of America borrowed the car from Overseas Motors so that news media representatives could receive first hand knowledge of race driving.

Lamond described his experience as follows:

"The first laps went pretty well. Then, at 115 mph and toward the end of the straight, I started to brake for a chicane (a dog-leg turn marked with pylons).

"I tapped the brake pedal. Nothing happened. I stabbed the pedal. The effort was as futile as the first.

"I scattered pylons all over the place, and fifty yards ahead lay a rocky gully. I pulled the racing (emergency) brake, but that burned the spare brakes out completely.

"The only thing I could possibly do was gear down and slow the car enough to power drift (four wheel skid) the corner.

"I shifted from fourth to neutral. Then to third.

"The engine slowed down and I braced for the turn. I had gone beyond the normal track, but luckily the immediate area was paved.

"I turned the steering wheel slightly and we began a 25-yard skid.

"We came out of the skid when the car finally slowed down a little. Then it was just a matter of coasting to a stop."

When he was questioned about what had happened, Lamond could only mumble, "No brakes."

An investigation revealed that a pebble had broken the brake line and the fluid had drained out of the car.

Later, when commenting on his experience, Lamond said, "That was a pretty fast corner, wasn't it. About the fastest I ever tried."

Baseball Coach Slates Meeting

Baseball-coach Frank Windegger has scheduled the first meeting of both the freshmen and varsity players next week.

The freshmen are to meet Tuesday and the varsity Wednesday. Both meetings are at 4:30 p.m. in the Little Gym.

John Lamond comes out of a skid at Green Valley Raceway Sports Car Track. He is driving his Mercedes Benz 190SL.

Tumbling Class Set To Perform

The women students of Physical Education 317 and 123 will present a program titled "Tumbling Across the U.S.A.," Monday at 10 a.m. in the Little Gym.

The program serves as the students' final skill examination and there will be no admission charge.

Eight acts are on the program and all routines are original compositions by the members of each group.

Davey O'Brien, class of '28, was chosen on 18 All-American teams.

★ Victory Secret Must Be Yell Loud So Players Can't Hear Brannon

Most of the basketball players have commented on the spirit of the student body which they say has encouraged them even though they lost.

Recently Coach Buster Brannon was discussing the spirit at the games with Houston and Florida State.

"Actually the biggest help may have resulted from the players not being able to hear my instructions during timeouts," Brannon said, somewhat tongue-in-cheek.

In all seriousness, Brannon wanted to express his appreciation to the student body for its support—which he did at the last Spirit Co-ordinating Committee meeting.
