Investigation Urged In A&M Situation

By JUDY GAY

Eddie Nelson, House of Representatives vice president, reported at Tuesday's meeting that a TCU resolution concerning the censorship of the Texas A&M Battalion should be made only after investigation of both sides of the controversy.

Nelson, who is also chairman of the Student Life Committee, said his committee believes the constitutional rights of A&M students have not been violated.

However he said, "Whenever there is a restriction of expression, we wonder if there's not something the administration has to hide. We feel that the facts need to be investigated more."

Nelson added that the committee agreed that the Battalion is no longer a student newspaper, but an administration bulletin.

David Pruitt said he thought that asking A&M to further investigate would be "butting in on their business."

Situation Clouded

Disagreeing with him was Susan Havran, who said, "I think we're helping them stand up for their rights."

Mike Stewart suggested a resolution asking for an open hearing "so the situation won't be clouded by obscurity."

The proposals and suggestions are to go back to the committee. A concrete resolution is to be voted on at next Tuesday's meeting.

In other committee reports, Drew Sawyer, chairman of the Permanent Improvements Committee, mentioned some of the things his committee had discussed.

They included people putting books on the tables at the cafeteria, the need for more sidewalks, the cleaning of the pond behind the Greek dorms, the infirmary, lighting on campus, housemothers' pay, a pond in front of Sadler and a car wash on campus.

Sawyer emphasized that these were just in the discussion stage.

Lighting Problem

Malcolm Loudon, House president, stressed the lighting problem on campus, saying he wanted something done about it.

Pruitt reported on a recommendation from the Student Congregation Board of University Christian Church.

The recommendation urged the House to conduct a poll concerning the Selective Service.

According to the recommendation, the President's National Advisory Committee on the Selective Service is to make a report at the end of this year dealing with "the whole concept of voluntary or compulsory service."

The committee, according to the recommendation, welcomes student reaction since that is the age group most notably involved.

Louden appointed a committee to study the recommendation and look into the feasibility of a poll.

Photos Due For Annual By Nov. 12

Noon Saturday, Nov. 12, has been set as the final deadline for annual pictures.

No pictures will be taken past that deadline, either at the Horned Frog office or at Orgain's downtown studio, announced Editor Corlea Harren.

All students, regardless of classification, are urged to come to Building 2.

Orgain's studio has announced that more than 600 students have not yet had their pictures made. Only 90 seniors have been snapped so far.

The studio is open Monday through Friday from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 12 to 5 p.m. It will be open Saturdays from 9 to 11 a.m.

Charges for senior pictures are $2.50. All others are $1.50. Men must wear a coat and tie.

New Street To Trim Worth Hills Campus

By JOHN MILLER

Within the next year bulldozers will shave approximately 170 feet off the east and south sides of the Worth Hills campus to make way for a four-lane major thoroughfare.

Survey stakes recently placed along the two sides of the Worth Hills campus mark the route of the new thoroughfare. Preliminary planning is almost complete and construction is scheduled to begin next fall.

According to Jerry Allen, city traffic engineer, the traffic artery will connect with Berry Street at University Drive, run west to the campus, cut around the east and south edges of the campus and connect with Bellaire Drive South.

The multi-lane thoroughfare will come within 140 feet of two Greek dorms, Beckham-Shelburne Hall and Tomlinson Hall. Approximately 310 feet now separate the dorms from Stadium Drive.

All on Campus

Plans call for all four lanes of the new thoroughfare to be built inside the present campus. Now existing Stadium Drive and Bellaire Drive South will be closed off at both ends.

The four traffic lanes will be separated by a 38-foot median. Allen explained that such a wide median would allow for turn lanes and possible future expansion to six lanes.

The trees lining the edges of the campus will not be disturbed, according to Allen.

The University purchased the 106-acre Worth Hills campus, then the Worth Hills municipal golf course, from the City of Fort Worth for $691,600 in 1963.

The sale of the golf course was hotly contested by property owners but was approved in a public referendum in 1961. TCU could not take title to the land until two years later when all legal appeals by the property owners had been exhausted.

One-Year Option

At the time of the sale city planners were contemplating street construction and requested a one-year option during which time they could buy back land needed.

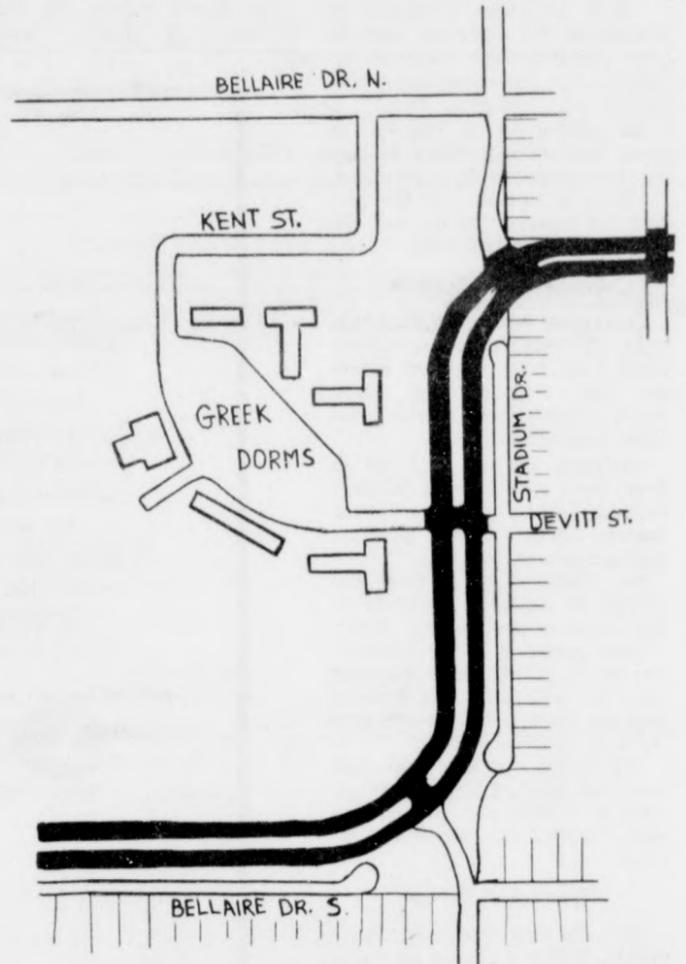

According to vice chancellor for fiscal affairs L. C. White, the city has not yet approached the school to buy back any land.

Allen said he doubted the city would have any difficulty buying back land even though the year option had expired.

"It can't do anything but help TCU," Allen said. "The new thoroughfare will make the land more valuable."

Allen said that plans to construct a fire station at the intersection of Devitt and the new thoroughfare have been discarded.

The new thoroughfare is part of a planned major traffic artery that will extend from Berry Street all the way to Loop 820 on Fort Worth's west side.

Painting, Etching Exhibits Open Campus Showings

Art seems to be the order of the day as two separate showings of paintings and etchings open on campus.

A prize-winning collection of oils from Region II of the Association of College Unions, displayed on the second floor foyer of the Student Center, will feature the works of two local students.

Glenda Green, senior art major from Weatherford, will have her painting, "Cherry's Place," included in the exhibit. The oil won the $75 first-place award in regional competition last spring.

Mrs. Elizabeth Proffer, student activities adviser, said the collection includes work submitted by member institutions and is sponsored by the Texas-Louisiana-Arkansas region.

Another TCU student, Billie Rosine Geist of Arlington, will also have a painting in the display.

A showing of the London Grafica Arts exhibition, scheduled for room 315 in Ed Landreth Hall, will feature works of nationally-renowned artists of the 19th and 20th centuries.

The collection of original lithographs, etchings, woodcuts and serigraphs will be for sale, according to C. J. Isoline, art instructor in charge of the showing.

Included in the show are the works of Picasso, Cassatt, Damier, Dufy, Chagall, Rouault and Toulouse-Lautrec.

Both exhibits are open to the public free of charge.

Ecumenical Leader Due For Chapel

Guest speaker for Tuesday's chapel service will be Dr. George Beasley, president of the Council on Christian Unity of the Christian churches.

Active in the ecumenical dialogues going on among nine Protestant denominations in the United States, he will speak at the 11 a.m. service in Robert Carr Chapel.

Editor of "Mid-Stream," a journal published by the council he heads, Dr. Beasley will be a guest of Brite's Homiletic Guild following the service.

Lecturer Charges 'Church Denial'

By JANIS MOULTON

A Drew University professor charged theologians Tuesday night with failure to recognize four natural bridges for serious dialogue between the church and social institutions.

Dr. Frederick Shippey, a professor of sociology of religion from Madison, N.J., spoke in Weatherly Hall for the second lecture in the fourth annual Brite Series.

He opened his technical address by saying that Protestants deny "institution" because they can't explain its complete structure.

"Most American definitions of institution fall along the line of culturally-patterned behavior aspects," the Drew professor continued.

He pointed out the concepts of need, interest and culture as bases of organization for institutions.

"Each institution sets the pattern for behavior in its own domain," Dr. Shippey said.

"Dangerous" Religion

Describing the institution of religion as "dangerous but manageable," he then reminded listeners that religion must share space, people and wealth with other institutions.

"Religion doesn't send off to Sears for a special set of people," he said. "Like a business, Protestantism struggles for position, dominance and influence."

Dr. Shippey said that the church in America obviously is bureaucratic, groping for order.

Then referring to institutionalism as the "Protestant whipping boy," he said that many Protestants see form and structure as a block to spirit and faith.

The guest speaker next outlined four bridges to the development of a deep and serious dialogue between the church and society.

Typological Bridge

First, he said, Protestantism is visible, fulfills a human need and is based on authority conferred by the people. This bridge he defined as "attributes."

Discussing a "typological" bridge, he said that denominations are characterized by adaptability and willingness to preserve the pluralistic nature of religious life.

On the other hand, he said, sects are the "out groups," characterized by withdrawal and resistance to influence of others.

Dr. Shippey defined another bridge as Protestantism's self-imposed institutionalization, or "limitedness." He explained that the church has certain stopping points in its unique social role.

The fourth bridge, the lecturer said, is the church's "embed-dedness in society."

"At the University of Paris I've seen records of parishes more than 1000 years old," he explained.

"The church already is rooted and indigenous to society. It's not in a book, but in people, and people are in society," he continued.

Obligation of Church

Dr. Shippey concluded by reminding the audience of the church's obligation.

"The church's permanent problem is to redeem a certain extent of its embeddedness from secular society and its influences," he said.

"The church is right beside society and institutions, within easy reach," he finished, restating that theologians nevertheless have failed to use the bridges and thus have denied institutionalism.

Dr. Shippey addressed Homiletic Guild Tuesday on "The Denial of Social Class."

In addition to his Brite Series lectures on "Sociological Denials of American Protestantism," the Drew University professor was guest minister at the regular University chapel service Tuesday morning.

Escape!

Get out from under this weekend. Fly someplace—for half fare on Eastern.

Visit a friend in another town. See an "away" game. Change the scene. Leave late, come back late, enjoy a long weekend—without cutting classes.

Use your Eastern Youth ID Card, or another airline's version. If you don't have one—and you're under 22—you really ought to.

To get your Youth Fare Card, send a $3 check or money order, proof of age (copy of driver's license, birth certificate or passport) to Eastern Airlines, Department 350, 10 Rockefeller Plaza, N.Y., N.Y. 10020

With your Youth ID Card, you can get an Eastern ticket for half fare. No advance reservations are permitted. But if there's a seat free at departure time, after passengers holding reservations and military personnel have been seated, you can fly to any Eastern city in the United States. And look down on all the drivers.

Tower Over Carr In Slim Turn-out For Mock Ballot

The mock senatorial election Monday gained little support from the student body.

Final results showed only 250 votes cast. Sen. John Tower amassed 202 votes; the other 48 went to Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr.

Balloting was controlled by voting lists and student activity cards.

The TCU Young Republicans sponsored the activity.

Refrain of the Past: M-i-c-k-e-y M-o-u-s-e

By SHERMAN STEARNS

Success is measured by many standards. One group known to every child in the late 1950's has achieved success.

Mouseketeers have gone their separate ways. Some, such as Annette Funicello, have achieved notable success in show business.

One, University sophomore Debbie Sikes, has achieved this goal in her private life.

The radiant ex-Mouseketeer, now an interior design major, is engaged and prefers the prospect of domestic bliss and professional success to the fading memory of five television shows.

Amazed at the continuing interest in her short career as one of Walt Disney's chosen few, Miss Sikes, a Delta Gamma, wishes only to look to the future.

Show Regulars

A substitute Mouseketeer, she worked on the program in 1956 when she was eight years old. Twelve of the youngsters serving as Mouseketeers were considered regulars, she says, and the other eight to 13 were substitutes.

The regulars were the sons and daughters of actors, actresses or other show business personalities. When any of these children were absent on location for a picture, the substitutes filled in.

Miss Sikes substituted five times. Twice she was dressed in an animal costume for circus shows, and the other times she appeared in the standard Mouseketeer uniform of black sweater, black skirt and black mouse ears.

Disneyland promotions were her favorite type of show. During these, the Mouseketeers rode Disneyland rides and strolled or ran through the amusement park.

Once, she remembers, the children rode the rollercoaster five times in a row when the crew was trying to film one good take.

The part of her experience she values most is the many people she met. One of Miss Sikes' favorites was Walt Disney. He was like a grandfather to all the Mouseketeers, even inviting all of them to his house, she says.

Disney may have been a grandfather to the children, but the show was run tightly, with much study and preparation required. The children were strictly controlled, and parents weren't allowed on the set.

End of Show

To the children, the best part of the show was the end when they relaxed and had a good time.

Miss Sikes received from a next-door neighbor in California a miniature Mouseketeer contract as a birthday present. Later she was interviewed and won the real contract.

Although she has no mementos of the show, she feels it was one of the most valuable of all children's shows and would like to see a revival of that kind of show to help entertain and educate children.

Friends, who watch the reruns of the shows, ask her why they don't see her. The reruns, she says, generally include only those shows where all the regulars were present.

Unsatisfactory Progress Can Stop at Mid-Term

Next week's mail may bring traumatic experiences for many students. Mid-semester reports of unsatisfactory progress should reach students about Nov. 15 or 16.

Assistant Registrar Joe L. Enochs reports that last November 1567 students received reports of unsatisfactory progress in 2236 courses.

When figured on strictly an undergraduate day school basis, 1417 students, out of an enrollment of 4541, received reports.

This means that almost one student out of every three enrolled in the undergraduate day schools, such as AddRan College of Arts and Sciences, School of Business, School of Education, etc., received notice of unsatisfactory grades.

Enochs pointed out that this number does not tally with the actual failures at the end of the semester because many students raise their grades after receiving notices.

For many students the unsatisfactory report acts as the propellant to get them off the launching pad. After the recognition of their bad grades they can try to raise the quality of their work by the end of the semester.

Whether it's the fear of failing or the fear of Uncle Sam's calling after failing, in the case of men students, an unsatisfactory grade report can be a strong incentive.

For these students who raise their grades, then, a mid-semester grade report is a constructive thing.

But for those who will sit in the Student Center for the rest of the semester and mutter that the prof has a grudge against them and that they didn't really deserve that grade, the report will be worth little.

It is only a cause for worry or complaint, not action.

With an unsatisfactory grade report—like many other things in the world—it's what you make of it that counts.

Flaming Floats No Joke

Now seems an appropriate time to mention something on the subject of flaming Homecoming floats.

A great deal of work goes into the construction of these floats—a fact no one who has ever spent many hours making paper "growies" can fail to appreciate.

Yet last year the morning after the winners were announced, the first-place float had been reduced to a mass of charred chicken wire.

Unfortunately, despite the attractive array of floats left standing, this one was easily the most attention-getting of them all.

The sight must have made visiting alumni wonder exactly what level of intelligence was possessed by the students who had inherited their university.

The floats are a major attraction during Homecoming weekend.

The product of weeks of planning and hard work, most are beautifully colored and well-executed. In addition they represent the expenditure of a large sum of money.

We cannot understand what might possess anyone to damage or destroy any of these floats. We cannot understand what sort of person would have this kind of resentment, jealousy or distorted sense of humor.

However last year someone did.

Let's avoid a repeat performance. An action such as this serves to mar Homecoming weekend for many more people than just those whose efforts of many weeks are destroyed.

'39 War Protests

Demonstrations against the opposition to the Viet Nam war seems to be the watchword on many campuses throughout the country.

We were wondering what student opinion was on U.S. involvement in World War II. Checking through the past issues of The Skiff, we came across an article in the Nov. 10, 1939, paper titled "Students Take Stand on War Situation."

The article is based on a nation-wide poll called the Student Opinion Survey. The Skiff aided in conducting the survey.

The poll reported that 58 per cent of American college students were opposed to changing the neutrality law, mainly because they believed this would involve the U.S. in an European war. The law was changed and greatly aided England.

The students felt that the U.S. shouldn't send troops to aid England and France even if Germany appeared to be winning the war. Sixty-four per cent favored this policy.

Six out of every 10 college students said they would not volunteer even if Germany were winning and the U.S. had declared war on Germany.

The poll was conducted immediately after Hitler had made a peace offer to the Allies. The students, 87 per cent strong, believed this offer should be rejected.

From here, it looks as if students haven't changed their view of U.S. foreign policy in almost 27 years.

'29 Frog Gets Stoned

The University has placed emphasis on quality instead of quantity for a long time.

In 1929, the senior class pointed out this pride and refused a stone horned frog. They had ordered a bronze frog, but due to several misunderstandings a granite frog was built.

The class didn't accept the substitute, and according to 1929 Skiff, called the workmanship inferior. The man who built the monument tried to remove it from campus, couldn't and then destroyed his work, leaving the senior class with 8000 pounds of granite.

The article stated that the president of the senior class had left for Providence, R.I., to talk with eight companies about building a bronze frog.

Girls' Conduct Controls

Girls, don't protest too much against the school's rules on conduct and behavior!

In the Sept. 28, 1929 Skiff, we find this quote about student life.

"Mrs. Beckham has already given the freshmen girls talks about holding hands and pulling down their skirts . . . Things are improving this year, however, red dresses are being tolerated."

Mrs. Beckham was also mentioned in a later issue of The Skiff that year. A boys' quartet had been singing to the girls locked in the dorms.

Mrs. Beckham chased them away from the building. The boys had more bad luck, the article stated, when a faculty member fired on them.

Wonder what earlier deans of women would think about the 1 a.m. dormitory hours on Friday and Saturday, or the now popular mini skirts?

By JON LONG

If at first you don't succeed, try, try again. Whoever made that statement must have gone to TCU.

Last Sunday I had a date to see the Ballet Folklorico. If I were going to have any trouble, I thought it would be in getting the tickets.

But no problems were encountered. In fact, when I made my appearance at the ticket office Saturday morning, I found that I had my choice of almost any seat in the Coliseum.

Now all I had to do was to call my date, tell her I had the tickets and tell her what time I'd pick her up.

At about 11:30, I put in my call to her dorm. After a couple of minutes of waiting and some strange clicking on the other end of the line, a girl finally answered.

Relay Message

"Susan?" No, it was her roommate. "Tell her I have the tickets and I'll call her later." She said she would give her the message.

That afternoon, after the Baylor game, I called again. Again she wasn't in. "May I have her call you?" the hostess asked. I left my name and phone number.

She didn't call. I decided to try again and I dialed the campus about 10 p.m.

"Just a minute and I'll see if she's in," came the reply, then I was put on hold. I held for a full five minutes. Finally, someone came back on the line. "Are you still waiting?"

I replied in the affirmative.

"Oh, well, she didn't answer the buzzer."

I would have to try again in the morning. I wonder if she'll be upset when I call and ask if she can be ready in 30 minutes?

Bright and Early

Bright and early Sunday morning—it was almost 11 o'clock—I hit the wires again.

The switchboard operator came on with a cheerful greeting. "Good morning, TCU."

Could he ring extension 999? I'm not mentioning the real number.

"Yes sir, just a moment."

The phone began to ring. And it rang, and rang, and rang some more. Finally the receiver was lifted and without anyone's saying a word, was put down on the desk.

In the background I could hear someone shuffling some papers, or something, but she apparently didn't feel like talking to anyone on the phone.

Just a Few Susans

After waiting about three minutes, I slammed the receiver down. I was just a little mad, but it wasn't my date's fault and I resolved to try again.

My date was on the phone within a minute. She hadn't known I spent a whole day trying to reach her. She had found no message on the bulletin board.

Also, it turned out that her roommate had not spoken to me on the phone. Apparently I had spoken to the roommate of some other Susan. There must be quite a few Susans on this campus, and one of them is probably wondering who's got what tickets.

I wouldn't be so arrogant as to tell dorm hostesses how to do their job. I enjoyed our date, the ballet was magnificent, and it was worth all the trouble.

But still . . .

War Scribe Discusses Viet Strife

Bob Schieffer, former Fort Worth Star-Telegram Viet Nam correspondent, spoke to a Wednesday journalism assembly about "television's first war."

"The Viet Nam situation is confusing," Schieffer said. "I don't think there is anybody who truly understands everything about the war."

Schieffer a 1959 TCU journalism graduate, is now associated with the WBAP-TV news staff. His topic was "A Reporter Reports on Reporting Viet Nam."

While in the war-torn country, he wrote feature stories about Fort Worth and Dallas area soldiers.

"There is no censorship as such Schieffer said and then added, "They just don't tell you things. A reporter just has to know somebody who will tip him off."

Schieffer said he believes the war is "going very well and will continue to do so."

Said Schieffer, "This war is so much more than just a military war. The important thing in Viet Nam is to develop a government that the average man in the rice field can feel a part of."

The morale among the servicemen is "very, very high," according to Schieffer.

He mentioned, however, the fact that 1/7 of the Vietnamese army defected last year.

"This is a little discouraging to a guy who's 12,000 miles from home," Schieffer said.

Fifty Schools To Participate In Weekend Debate Tourney

By DOUG FOWLER

The debaters are battering down the hatches in preparation for the biggest forensic event of the season, when 50 schools will be represented here for the annual TCU Debate Tournament, Nov. 4-5.

Sponsored jointly by the Speech Department and Pi Kappa Delta, the national speech fraternity, the tourney is the largest in the Southwest and tenth largest in the nation. Some 154 debaters will spill in from 12 states to joust orally for team trophies and the E.L. Pross Award.

The visitors will assemble at 2:30 Friday. Debating starts at 3 p.m. There will be four rounds of preliminaries Friday afternoon and two more Saturday morning. Preliminary results will be announced at 11:30 a.m. Saturday.

The six preliminary rounds will determine the 16 top teams from each division. There are 69 teams registered for senior division competition and 85 for junior division.

The preliminary winners will go into elimination rounds at 1 p.m. Quarterfinals are set for 2:45; semifinals will be at 4:15; and the finals will be at 5:30.

Eight team trophies will go the four top teams in each division. The Senior Division winner will receive the E.L. Pross Award, a traveling trophy honoring the former chairman of the TCU Speech Department. Medals will go to all debaters who reach the quarterfinals.

Southwest Missouri State in Springfield, Mo., is the defending champion in the senior division; The University of Houston is last year's junior division winner.

TCU debaters, official hosts for the tournament, will not join in the competition, except to stand in for a team that might be absent.

In last week's competition, TCU debaters took 27 wins in 47 debates. According to Dr. David L. Matheny, "that wasn't bad," considering the fact that four freshman teams were participating.

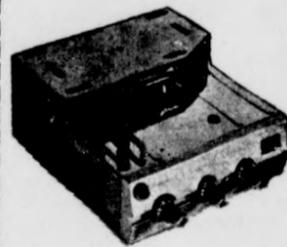

At Bethany, Okla., Linda Cordell and Brad Rice took first place in the senior division by defeating Oklahoma State University. Miss Cordell also took second place in oratory.

In the junior division, Andy Lang and Jay Wood, Dianne Wynn and Joyce Slate had team records of 3-3. The senior team of Carol Miller and Al Mitchem won 2 and lost 4.

Paul Madden and Mike Hadley placed eleventh at the Kansas State Teachers College tourney with a record of six wins and two losses. This eleventh place win is the best yet in the five years of attendance by TCU debaters at that meet.

At the Texas Tech tournament, Donna Sherer and Janice Peterson, Frank Lewis and Pam Writter won two and lost four in junior division team competition.

DEAR REB:

Even When She Answers, He Still Gets the Busy Signal.

DEAR REB:

Lately, every time I call my girl, she's either "not in" or "not interested." Last week I called her 23 times and couldn't even make a coffee date. The trouble started when she started dating a guy who owns a Dodge Coronet. Now she goes to parties with him, dances, football games, etc. Do you think I should call her again, or should I forget her and break her heart?

BAD CONNECTIONS

DEAR BAD CONNECTIONS:

I think your next call should be to your Dodge Dealer. Then make a date to see the '67 Coronet, the car that's breaking hearts all over America. You'll find that its good looks are pretty hard to resist. Now, before you break your girl's heart, give her another break. Ask her to go for a ride in your new Coronet. I think she'll get the signal.

Sincerely, Reb

Here's the heartbreaker... '67 Dodge Coronet 500. A campus favorite with its great new looks, ride, and list of extras that are standard. Like bucket seats with either a companion seat in the middle or a center console. Plush carpeting. Padded instrument panel. Padded sun visors. Seat belts, front and rear. A choice of Six or V8 models. And lots more. So get with '67 Dodge Coronet and get busy.

Vacancies Ready for Filling

Jerry Kirkpatrick, chairman of the Student Honors Cabinet, has announced several vacancies on the cabinet.

Honors and pre-honors students with a 3.4 grade average are eligible for membership on the cabinet.

Honors students interested in serving on the cabinet are requested to contact the Honors office, room 221, Undergraduate Religion Building. Deadline for nominations is Nov. 15.

New members appointed to fill the temporary vacancies on the cabinet are John Robin, senior, and Leslie Rowland, junior.

Other members are Jerry Kirkpatrick, chairman; Jeff Janes, vice chairman; Carolyn Marvin, secretary; Martha Mayes, Pat McCammon, Tobin Quereau and Bill Hubbard.

The Cabinet acts as go-between for faculty and students in the Honors Program. It helps plan and coordinate the various activities of the program.

Leaders of SEA Chapter Attend Austin Conference

The TCU chapter of the Student Education Association (SEA), made up of about 200 education students, is actively concerned with raising teaching standards.

The chapter leaders recently attended the annual SEA Drive-in Conference at Austin, as part of the preparation for the Area III conference here this spring.

Among the nine students from TCU attending the conference were Dale Young, Area III president; Court Crow, Area III membership chairman, and Linda Taylor, state treasurer.

The theme of the conference was "Accent on TEPS." According to Dr. Porter J. Crow, TCU chapter advisor, "TEPS" stands for "Teacher Education and Professional Standards."

Some 26 colleges and universities were represented at the meet. The morning session was devoted to group discussion of teaching as a profession.

The school leaders worked to share ideas and to help each other in furthering the SEA goals.

One of the points discussed was that teachers want to set their own standards and qualifications and to raise the criteria for entering the teaching profession.

The afternoon was devoted to speeches by authorities in the various areas of the profession. Atty. Robert T. Davis, director of the Texas Youth Conference, headed the list of speakers.

Physics Students To Hear Lecture On Holography

Dr. K. L. Vander Sluis of the physics division of Oak Ridge National Laboratory in Tennessee will speak on holography Friday at 4:30 p.m. in room 151 of Winton-Scott Hall.

A coffee period will precede the physics graduate colloquium meeting at 4 p.m. in room 145.

TEXAS IS ON THE MOVE!

In virtually every field of endeavor, our state has made dramatic progress the past four years under the strong leadership of Governor John Connally. His administration's bold, yet sensible programs have helped provide new opportunity and a better way of life for all our people.

IMPROVED EDUCATION — Since 1963, state investment in higher education has doubled, and faculty salaries have increased 40%. State support of local public schools have increased 44% in four years, including a $100 million teacher pay raise enacted in 1965. Technical and vocational training programs have been vastly increased; junior college enrollment doubled during the current bi-ennium. Special literacy programs for migrant workers and their children have been expanded. A college student loan fund of $85 million has been established. And a special Governor's Committee on Public Education currently is studying all facets of elementary and secondary education.

WATER RESOURCES DEVELOPMENT — Long range planning and development have been given top priority. $100 million in bonds have been issued for development of needed storage facilities; authorization has been granted to expand this program to $200 million for the next two years.

CONCERN FOR THE AGED AND NEEDY — Since 1963, assistance to our elderly has been increased 27%. The Governor's Committee on Aging is continually working for the benefit of our senior citizens.

OUTDOOR RECREATION — More than $2 million has been invested in improving ten of our most attractive state parks during the past two years to provide additional recreational facilities.

INDUSTRIAL EXPANSION — A record 855 new industrial plants have been established the past three years, moving Texas into second place in the nation in industrial expansion. Last year, more than 23,000 new jobs were created in manufacturing alone — the best year ever for the Texas labor force.

INCREASED TOURISM — More than 12 million tourists visited Texas last year, adding more than $900 million to the state's economy, and creating 140,000 new jobs. The state's tourist advertising program has been sharply expanded.

MENTAL HEALTH AND MENTAL RETARDATION — New emphasis on prevention of mental illness and mental retardation has been achieved through establishment of new community centers, replacing the former practice of "warehousing" patients. Investment for research into causes of mental disorders has doubled the past four years.

BETTER HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION — Texas has more farm-to-market roads than any other state — more than 35,134 miles. We lead the nation in construction of interstate highways, at a cost 40% below the nation's average.

COMBAT AIR AND WATER POLLUTION — New legislation for public health, "The Clear Air Act of Texas," provides state action to combat air pollution. Similar vigorous action has been initiated to control pollution of Texas streams, bays and estuaries.

NEW CULTURAL GROWTH — The Fine Arts Commission was established in 1965 to nurture the cultural enrichment of Texans. The state's cultural heritage will be preserved and portrayed in the state's pavilion at HemisFair '68 in San Antonio.

BUSINESSLIKE ADMINISTRATION — With unprecedented teamwork, our state government has operated responsibly and efficiently. The Legislature has finished its work on time in each session. Following a pay-as-you-go policy, we have maintained a healthy surplus in the general revenue fund without curtailing essential services.

HEALTHY, GROWING ECONOMY — Business activity rose 11% last year, as Texas continues one of the brightest growth areas. Employment and income are at an all-time high, unemployment at an all-time low. Despite increased responsibilities, our state government costs only $168.78 a year per citizen, fourth lowest in the nation. No broad-based tax has been enacted the past four years. Texas still has no personal income or payroll tax, no corporate income tax, and is one of few remaining states with a limited sales tax of 2%.

LET'S KEEP THIS KIND OF PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY FOR TEXAS! HELP GIVE AN OVERWHELMING MANDATE FOR THE VISIONARY LEADERSHIP OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNOR JOHN CONNALLY AT THE POLLS NOVEMBER 8TH!

SWC Roundup

Purples Relax, View Action

As Bruce Alford and the Frogs take a break this weekend, most Purple supporters will be looking at the action in the rest of the conference.

SMU, now leading the loop with a 3-0 mark, has the dubious privilege of playing the Pig-bitten Aggies, who did have the SWC's top spot until being methodically torn to pieces by the Arkansas machine last week, 34-0.

If the Mustangs get past A&M, they have only to beat Arkansas, Baylor and ye olde Froggies to take the crown . . .

A&M, tied for second place with a 3-1 mark, has only to beat

Rice and Texas after the Mustang match to finish near, if not at, the top—but those naughty Aggies are ineligible for the crown or the Cotton Bowl.

The other second-place team, Arkansas, journeys to Rice for what should be a snap win. (But that, if you'll remember, is what they said about UCLA, LSU, and SMU when they played the last-place Owls.)

Arkansas then has to get through SMU and Texas Tech for a 6-1 conference record, a SWC trophy and a third straight Cotton Bowl visit.

Texas, tied for fourth place with TCU, gets to play a disappointed Baylor team.

The Baylor team is disappointed of course, because the sadistically-inclined Frogs knocked them out of a Cotton Bowl chance last week. The Bears are now down in sixth place.

Texas Tech, dropping to seventh place, takes a week's vacation from the conference grid wars by tackling Colorado State before returning to back-to-back matches with Arkansas and the Bears.

The Frogs are being non-conformists again. They have won their two home games in the conference, and lost their pair on the road.

In most of the SWC duels—10 of 15, to be exact—the visitors have taken home the goodies. Arkansas, for instance, has won all out-of-state games and lost the one at home—quite a switch from the last couple of seasons, when a trip to the Ozarks was the same as chalking up a loss . . .

That Rice is surprisingly tough this year, most experts will agree—Hayden Fry, Darrell Royal for instance—but what will they do next year?

Only two seniors start on offense, and two on defense. So whoever takes Jess Neely's place will have good material to work with.

Sic 'em, Soccermen; Frogs Get Kicks Against Longhorns

By PAUL GREEN

It has been quite a few years since an undefeated TCU team met an undefeated University of Texas team—in any sport.

This year—tomorrow, to be exact—this dream of athletic promoters will come true.

It won't be football, of course, but soccer. And according to the Frog co-captain, Memo Trejo, Longhorn soccermen are a lot more impressive than their gridiron brothers—this year, at least.

"After all, the Texas soccer team has remained undefeated since they started the program four years ago," Memo informs. "They've played about 60 games, and nobody has beaten them yet."

Which, admittedly, is a bit groovier a record than Super Bill and his Sophomore Sensations have been able to turn out.

ischer of last week," Memo worries.

"I hope they come out to watch."

The Rheinischerof—pronounced vaguely like "rhinoceros"—game brings up Memo's first worry.

Bad Game

"Sure, we won (by a 2-1 score), but it was the worst game we have played," he confessed. "Our goalie, Bob Walton played a great game. If he had had a bad day, they would have scored a lot more goals."

The Rhinoceros—er, Rheinischerof match closed out the TCU team's share of exhibition games in the Dallas Soccer Assn.

In the other exhibition match, the Frogs routed Fort Worth International, 5-2.

Memo feels that the game will help prepare the Frog extramural team for the Association's regular season—which opens for the Purple kickers Sunday, 2:30 p.m., at Forest Park, again against Fort Worth.

"It's like this," Memo explains. "We played a good game against the Fort Worth club. But we didn't play well at all last week. Everybody seemed to let down."

"But we'll play well against Texas. The two schools are rivals and all that. And it being Homecoming. . . ."

Another reason the team will play a tough match against the Horns is last year's Texas-sponsored tournament.

"They beat us, 3-1. After the game, they told us TCU was the best team they ever faced. And we're better now," Memo says.

Game on Golf Course

The match will be at 2:15 p.m. on the southwest end of Worth Hills Golf Course. Memo is a trifle worried about his own team's showing—which isn't too surprising, considering the Longhorn record—but is a little more worried about having a big audience.

"I think we'll have a large crowd," Memo says. "I hope so. After all it's sort of a preview for next week's Homecoming game with Texas in football. And it's close enough to the campus for people to walk over and watch. And a lot of people realized how exciting a soccer game was last year when we played here."

"On the other hand, not too many people saw us beat Rhein-

A team for a better Texas for you!

Governor John Connally and Attorney General Waggoner Carr have worked together for 4 years to give Texas and YOU a better state and better opportunities.

As a United States Senator in Washington, Waggoner Carr will co-operate with Governor Connally to work for better education, more jobs, benefits for our elderly, and better prices for our farmers, ranchers and dairymen. He will do what is right for Texas!
