SATURDAY'S MINIFEST features three bands, wellknown at TCU, including The Sticks.

Minifest Tomorrow In Worth Hills

An affair with the flair of Woodstock will take place Saturday, Oct. 23, from 1-5 p.m. with

Friday's Flick:

'Sweet November'

Inviting a man to live with her every month is the hobby of Sara (Sandy Dennis) in TCU's showing of "Sweet November."

The movie is centered around an unusual Brooklyn girl who invites men to live with her every month in order to ease her terminal illness and to leave the man changed for the better. Anthony Newley plays the role of Sara's boarder.

The movie will be shown Friday, Oct. 22 in the Student Center Ballroom at 4:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Admission is 50 cents.

three Dallas rock groups performing for spectators sitting on surrounding hilltops.

Deryk Jones Party is the featured band. The two other groups are The Sticks and Daniel.

New Skiff Editor

Rosalind Routt now captains The Daily Skiff crew.

The Student Publications Committee accepted Carol Nuckol's Oct. 15 resignation in a called meeting Wednesday, expressing regret and commending her for the work she's done.

Miss Routt's application for editor was reviewed and accepted by the Committee.

The Minifest, sponsored by the Student Programming Board, will be held on the Worth Hills golf course, almost directly behind Brachman Hall. The bands will perform in a valley situated about 300 feet south of the Maintenance Building.

In case of rain the Minifest will be moved to either the Snack Bar or the Student Center Ballroom.

Free refreshments will be available with a TCU Student ID Card. Without identification there will be a cost of 10 cents.

Control vs. Tragedy

By KATHLEEN TERRELL

Speaking at a presentation sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi and Theta Sigma Phi, teenage-advice columnist Ellen Peck advocated population control as the only alternative to tragic overcrowding of this planet in the future.

Mrs. Peck recently testified before a Senate Human Relations subcommittee on the need for a national population policy.

"So far we have 33 co-sponsors of the resolution in the Senate. To pass in the House there will be a need for more people to communicate their feelings about population control," stated Mrs. Peck. "We need a President who will instill a patriotism signified by the smallness, not largeness of the American Family."

"The birth of one middle-class American child does more damage to our planet than 50 Indian children," explained Mrs. Peck who is the author of "Baby Trap." This is because Indian children have no cars to pollute the air, no electricity to burn, no jars filled with baby food to throw away.

Advocating the childless marriage, Mrs. Peck stated, "The world doesn't need our children. Already there is substantial oxygen loss due to pollution of oceans and cutting down of trees. I wouldn't want to bring a child into the world as it is today."

"Besides," added Mrs. Peck, "it's more fun without kids."

'Peace' Label Not Official

The general assembly of the Disciples of Christ of the Christian Church, meeting in Louisville, Kentucky, has adopted a resolution which condemns U.S. involvement in any war and supports a conscientious objector status for its youth.

The resolution which passed the assembly, however, was not the original one on the agenda, which was quoted in several local newspapers as calling for the Christian Church to be known as a Peace church like the Mennonites, Quakers and the Church of the Brethren. The substitute resolution does not contain the Peace Church provision. This information came from the Rev. Johnnie Moore, Minister to Youth and of Adult Education at University Christian Church. He said he would be able to furnish a text of the actual resolution to The Daily Skiff today.

According to the Associated Press, this mostly middle America body of Protestants urged an end to all "direct and indirect military involvement in Indochina within six months."

Bring 'Em Back Alive

The Church also voiced hope that an American pullout would facilitate release of prisoners, a cease-fire to "stop the killing and destruction," and a start on rebuilding the war-torn region.

The resolution came as a result of a debate in which the Rev. H. Austin Smith, of Indiana, said President Nixon's plan for "winding down" the war seemed to mean "simply killing more brown people and less white people."

The main opponent of the resolution was Jake Forter, of Oklahoma. He said it was wrongly based on a "platform of anti-American propaganda." He continued, "God does not ask to lift up the cross over the ashes of our beloved flag."

Stressed

Rev. Moore stressed that the resolution may be brought up to each church and the attention paid to it will be decided on an individual church basis. The assembly does not force its views on Disciple congregations.

Chancellor James Moudy served as moderator for the conference.

Commenting on the Christian Church as a "Peace Church," Dr. Moudy said, "The term 'Peace Church' came about slowly, because of different people's beliefs, not because it belonged to the Quaker or Mennonite faith. If anything, the Disciples must earn the title over many years of professing its beliefs."

Schola Cantorum Offers Broadway Music Evening

The Schola Cantorum, local professional chorus, will present selections of Rodgers and Hammerstein at the Tarrant County Convention Center Theatre, Oct. 23, at 8:15 p.m.

R. R. Henson, director of choral activities at TCU, is founder-conductor of the nine-year-old group which includes many TCU music students and graduates. Among those singing solos and duos in the upcoming presentation are Kenneth Bowles, Phyllis Hunter, Ed Hawkins, Byron McGilvary, and Ronald Brumley with his wife Anne.

Other soloists include TCU exes Julie Blackard, Richard Barrett, Lynda Wimp and Gloriana Tadlock.

The "Evening with Rodgers and Hammerstein" will include selections from six of their Broadway musical hits—"Sound of Music," "Carousel," "The King and I," "State Fair," "South Pacific" and "Oklahoma!," with a 30-piece orchestra accompanying Schola.

The decision to do a "pops" concert was made through the generosity of Fort Worth music lover, Arthur Ginsburg, who believes that the great tunes of Broadway should be given in a choral setting for the pleasure of the music.

Although virtually all members of Schola are professional musicians, neither members nor conductor are paid. Proceeds from the concert will help pay the orchestra's expenses for future performances.

Tickets priced at $1.75 for students and $2.50 for adults are now available in the Choral Activities Office, from any Schola member, at Central Ticket Office and may also be purchased at the door.

SUPPER SONG—TCU students and exes "sing for their supper" with Schola Cantorum.

Peck Sees Threat To Planet

The writer cited evidence that chances for divorce directly increase with each child born to a marriage. "A child too often can interfere with the sexual and emotional relationship in a marriage," she stated.

"Being a parent is a specialized occupation. I would like to see a childless culture as a social norm and let people who are suited to be parents raise one or more children," Mrs. Peck continued.

"Communal living is a great solution for children. They don't have to get only the hang-ups of mommy and daddy, they can get a large variety," she added.

ELLEN PECK rapped with a full house Tuesday, advocating zero population growth to counteract environmental ills.

Banning Guns No Solution

By GARY KIMBREL
Guest Editorialist

The crusade against private ownership of guns in the United States continues to threaten our constitutionally-guaranteed right to keep and bear arms.

Sen. Birch Bayh is trying to ban the sale of cheap handguns in America. Others are advocating the outlawing of private ownership of all guns. No one can doubt the sincerity of these people, but often their arguments are "shot through with holes." This is especially true of the crime argument.

Guns Don't Cause Crime

America faces a complete breakdown of society, says Los Angeles Police Chief Thomas Reddin, unless the crime rise is slowed. According to the FBI's statistics, since 1960 crime has been increasing about nine times as fast as population. In the first six months of 1971, Fort Worth alone had 62 murders and 433 robberies.

Gun enemies say we can reduce crime by banning firearms. They ridicule the bumper-sticker slogan: "When guns are outlawed, only outlaws will have guns." But it's one thing to ridicule and another to refute. Most gun banners will even admit that no hardened criminal is going to walk into his local police station and hand over his weapon.

But most criminals in the U.S. are not "hardened." What about the "novice criminal," seeking some easy money and not a life of crime? Wouldn't he be afraid to use a pistol to hold up a liquor store, if he knew he could get a long prison term for just possessing a gun?

What of Other Weapons?

Possibly, but a novice criminal looking for a little easy money obviously thinks he's going to get away clean. Perhaps a gun would even help his chances. Could he be "forgot" to turn in his pistol when it was banned or he knows where to get one.

What about the many shootings that are committed by "ordinary people" who fly off the handle? Granted, it's hard to shoot somebody without a gun, but there are other ways to kill in a fit of madness.

Gun supporters must admit, however, that in this respect outlawing guns would save lives. Does this mean it's desirable, after all? If it saves even one life, the gun banners ask, won't it be worth it? Not necessarily.

It may well be that private ownership of firearms prevents more killings than it causes. A would-be burglar knows that with a gun he's going to be more than a match for a sleepy man armed only with a baseball bat.

The gun banners say it's time to decide whether the right to live is more precious than the right to own a gun. We need to keep both of these rights.

Nixon Court May Include KKK Man

By JIM ELSTON
Guest Editorialist

With two seats on the United States Supreme Court having been suddenly vacated, and with the President having the power to fill such vacancies, this will probably go down as the year of the "Nixon Court." The question facing us, however, is whether this is good or bad.

In the words of Dr. Robert D. Forst of the Government Department, the President must make sure that "the nominee is of the very highest intellectual and moral character." Yet Nixon has made indications that West Virginia Senator Robert C. Byrd, a former member of the Ku Klux Klan, is a possible candidate for his nomination.

Dr. Forst also said, "Just because he was once a member of the Klan doesn't mean that he won't change once he's on the court. Just look at Hugo Black." We as a nation did, and generally we liked what we saw. However, just because one man "saw the light," as it were, doesn't mean another will.

We are frightened. Liberalism in the courts is the only hope of those of us who wish to see the death penalty abolished, the Vietnam war ruled unconstitutional, further aid to the various minority groups in their struggle for equality, and perhaps most importantly, the Bill of Rights retained in its present form.

'Baby James' Next Big Show

Popular singer James Taylor will appear at the Convention Center Arena at 8 p.m. Wed. Oct. 27. Tickets for the concert are available at the Central Ticket Office, Rowlands of Ridglea, Wedgewood Music, Stripling's Dept. Store and Preston Ticket Agency in Dallas.

Tickets are priced at $4, $5 and $6. TCU student discount tickets, which were on sale in the Student Center, are sold out.

Taylor's breathtaking album, "Sweet Baby James," has sold over 1.5 million copies. Along with the hit single "Fire and Rain," it was nominated for five Grammy awards. He has since released another popular album, "Mud Slide Slim," and starred in the film "Two Lane Blacktop."

The son of a North Carolina educator, Taylor grew up in a musically oriented family. Brothers Alex and Livingston and sister Kate have all begun promising music careers.

Taylor's folk-rock-blues style reflects the troubles of his adolescence. He attended Milton Academy, a very "straight-laced" school, which did not match his frame of mind, then dropped out.

In the summer of 1966 Taylor went to New York and formed a musical group "The Flying Machine." New York life was hard on Taylor and the group had little success. After a year and a half he left for London and the "Flying Machine" disbanded.

In London, Taylor met Peter Asher, a former singer (with Peter and Gordon) who had been appointed talent director of Apple Records.

The first album, "James Taylor," sold only 30,000 copies, and, with Apple having difficulties, Taylor signed with Warner Brothers, for whom he recorded "Sweet Baby James."

Honors Films Run Sunday

If you were on the Honors Retreat and wonder whatever became of the films you made or if you weren't on the Honors Retreat but wonder what happened to the films, you are invited to view them this Sunday, Oct. 24.

The films were made under the direction of Dr. R. C. Norris, head of the Radio-TV-Film Division, and several film students as part of the Honors Retreat weekend. The uncensored films made by the ten film groups were edited by Dr. Norris and freshman Honors student Bob Bintliff who described them as ranging in content from "environmental comment" to "intellectual seduction."

All interested are invited to the two hour presentation in room 107 in the Student Center at 4:00 p.m.

Frogs at Penn State

The TCU Horned Frogs were scheduled to leave Fort Worth this morning at 9 a.m. for Pennsylvania and a date with the Nittany Lions of Penn State.

Currently ranked 7th in the nation and undefeated in five outings, Penn State will host the Frogs before a sellout crowd of 48,344 tomorrow afternoon.

The game will get underway at 1:30 p.m. EDT at University Park's Beaver Stadium.

The Frogs downed Texas A&M 14-3 last week for their first SWC win while Penn State trounced Syracuse 31-0.

Only one line up change is planned for the TCU squad this week. Defensive halfback Lyle Blackwood, who missed last week's game after suffering a knee injury against Oklahoma State, is ready for action and due to start for the Frogs Saturday.

The game will be broadcast locally over KFJZ radio and 19 other stations by the Humble Network.

Wog Offense Breaks Two Team Records

The 1971 Wogs are already establishing themselves as a record breaking team after only three games.

Wednesday night the purple freshmen footballers mauled the Baylor Cubs 47-14 and set two team records in the process.

The Wogs piled up 395 yards rushing and 491 yards total offense in their first home game, both new freshmen records.

Operating from the wishbone set, the Wogs scored in every period, including one touchdown scamper by halfback Marcus Martin with just nine seconds remaining in the contest.

The Wog defense, meanwhile limited Baylor to minus 20 yards on the ground and a total offense output of just 66 yards.

Running backs Danny Scott and Mike Luttrell paced the winners with 141 and 109 yards respectively.

Wog quarterbacks Terry Drennan and Vic Morriss passed for 37 and 32 yards each before Gary Crawford came in to mop up.

Rick Isel started the scoring for the Wogs by booting a 27-yard field goal midway through the first quarter. Fullback Ronnie Duvall collected the initial purple touchdown a few minutes later from 12 yards out.

Baylor came back to take the lead 14-10 in the second quarter, but a 15 yard touchdown by Scott quickly put TCU out front to stay.

Gene Hernandez took a 32-yard touchdown pass from Morriss to run the tally at halftime to 24-14.

Morriss scored in the third period on a one-yard dive and the Wogs covered a bad Baylor snap on a punt attempt in the Cub end zone for a safety.

Scott scored again in the final stanza behind outstanding blocking by Luttrell.

The game marked the Wogs' second win in three starts, having defeated North Texas State last week. The TCU freshmen lost their opener to Texas A&M.

The Wogs play next against Texas Nov. 12 in Amon Carter Stadium.
