

Bellow, 'Sissy' on tap today

Students have the opportunity to hear two noted speakers today as author Saul Bellow and Democratic gubernatorial candidate Frances "Sissy" Farenthold, visit the University.

Dr. Bellow, recipient of the International Literary Prize for his novel, "Herzog," and professor at the University of Chicago, will be guest speaker at the Creative Writing Convocation at 11 a.m. today in Ed Landreth Auditorium.

The award-winning author will speak on "Joyce's 'Ulysses': A Personal View." He will also pay tribute to the late W.H. Auden, poet-dramatist who was scheduled to be the convocation speaker.

The Creative Writing Awards luncheon, honoring student and alumni winners in various categories, will follow at 12:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom.

Mrs. Farenthold, who has served two terms in the Texas Legislature and was a vice-presidential nominee at the 1972 Democratic National Convention, will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom. The campus appearance is in connection with Women's Awareness Week at the University.

A coffee hosted by the American Association of University Women will be held in the Student Center Lounge today from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

Advising approved

House rescinds budget OK

By STEVE BUTTRY
News Editor

The budget of the House of Student Representatives was rescinded Tuesday in a meeting that ended with two resolutions passed, another rescinded and an expenditure approved.

Because it was in violation of the House fiscal policy, the budget, which was approved last week, was rescinded. The House voted for a resolution to support the proposal of the University-wide Academic Advising Committee and for one to lengthen spring break.

Dr. Ronald Flowers, chairman of the Academic Advising Committee, was present to answer questions and ask for the House's support for the proposal, about which he said, "Nothing has been done."

The purpose of the proposal, said Dr. Flowers, is to "encourage those departments that do a good job to keep on, but tell those that aren't to shape up."

The House unanimously passed a resolution supporting the committee's proposal.

Treasurer Martha Phillips recommended that the House rescind the budget and return it to the Finance Committee for reworking, because it was in violation of the fiscal policy. After some debate about meanings of words in the policy, the House voted 27-7 to rescind the budget.

President Bruce Gibson told the body in his report that he would strictly enforce the ban on smoking in meetings. He added that he would also enforce an often-ignored ban on food and drinks in the House chambers.

Clark representative Keith Clark moved immediately to rescind the food and drink ban, which was passed in 1969. Discussion centered around distractions from House business. Vice president Bob Stanley, speaking to keep the ban, said, "We look enough like a three-ring circus," without the cups and food around.

Town student Randy Moresi explained that he went directly from class to work to the House meeting to a night class and

Old Germany offered in 'Fasching' celebration

Students will get a taste of old Germany this weekend when "Fasching" comes to the University.

The combination dinner, dance and masquerade party will be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Center Ballroom. Music will be provided by "Rush."

"Fasching" is a traditional German religious festival. In the Old Country, parades, dramas, feasting and drinking are included in the celebration. The holiday is thought to be the predecessor of New Orleans' Mardi Gras.

The buffet dinner for the "Fasching" festivities will include American and German food. All those attending are encouraged, but not required, to wear costumes.

The carnival-type event is sponsored by the International Students Association (ISA), Creative Programming and the Dance Committee.

Jackie Segars, ISA adviser, said the organization has annually held an international festival during its two years of existence. Last year's event was a parade celebrating the Chinese New Year.

Tickets are $3 ($2.50 for ISA members) at the Student Center Information Desk or from Miss Segars in Sadler Hall room 110. Deadline for buying tickets is Thursday.

Discrimination was a major issue on campus last semester; one group of students, however, remained silent in the face of discrimination against them. I speak now to draw attention to this, and hopefully, to motivate students concerned to take action to remedy this situation.

The students of which I speak are the freshmen—especially freshmen commuters—in regarding the parking permits we are able to obtain. The current policy regarding freshmen parking is "Freshmen students must park in a restricted area" (page 73 of TCU catalog).

Why must freshmen be restricted to parking on the Stadium parking lot or Worth Hills parking? We have the same rights as upper classmen, yet the administration requires us to park farther from classes and dorms than other students.

For freshmen commuters, the discrimination goes even further. Classes are concentrated along University Drive. Commuters have parking facilities close to classroom buildings; freshmen commuters, however, must use the stadium parking lot and walk the distance to class through the rain, wind, and the cold with an armload of books.

Sometimes a student will have a special activity class or review session at night; in that case, a student must cross a darkened campus to a dark parking lot. It isn't quite safe for freshmen women commuters to do this.

Also, freshmen commuters are subject to the same unexpected traffic tie-ups and weather driving conditions as upper class commuters, yet we are unable to use the parking facilities that would enable us to get to class on time.

Generally speaking, commuters are not able to take as much advantage of campus facilities as on-campus students because of family and work responsibilities, yet we pay the same fees for their use.

It seems that at the very least, we ought to be able to take advantage of the parking facilities—especially since we pay the same five dollars on a parking permit for the facilities on Stadium as other students do for commuter or dorm parking. Why can't freshmen have the same opportunity to use parking facilities on the same basis as other students?

The whole concept of restricted parking for freshmen is a carry over from hazing which is based on the assumption that freshmen are "lesser" beings.

The same administration whose policy is that "Hazing of all kinds of forbidden" (TCU catalog pg. 72) practices a form of hazing in their freshmen-parking-restricted policy.

It is clear that the administration favors upper-classmen and discriminates against freshmen simply because we are freshmen. This policy violates equal rights. I protest it and appeal for its abolition.

TCU turns on to streaking—but with lights, cameras, action and a cheering group. Maybe with some organization and careful planning—it'll happen again—I mean such a spontaneous effort.

Jim Vivian

Editor's Note: The streakers stirred up enough interest during their 20-minute jaunt that they accumulated a good-sized following. The photographer, who happens not to work for the Daily Skiff, received a phone call and investigated. He saw what was happening and began shooting pictures as fast as possible. He then offered the Daily Skiff one of the photographs. If the photography had been planned, let us assure you, it would have been of better quality.

Smoking ban lifted

didn't have time to stop and eat. "If I don't eat here, I won't eat at all," said Moresi, who claimed hunger was a greater distraction than food.

The move to rescind the resolution failed. Moments later, town student Tami Gant moved to rescind the resolution that had been passed last week, banning smoking during films, classes and House meetings.

Speaking to keep the ban, Brachman representative David Glendenning cited the report of the Surgeon General that said smoking is hazardous to one's health.

More students seemed to agree with secretary Becky Rambin, who said a compromise could be worked out. The motion passed and the resolution was rescinded. Instantly, cigarettes and cigars were lit up.

The motion to tentatively give $10,000 to help remodel the cafeteria passed on a voice vote, despite arguments from those who feared something like last summer's remodeling of the Snack Bar. "One 'Romper Room' is enough," quipped town student Steve Miller.

The House passed a resolution to lengthen spring and Easter breaks. Since gas stations are closed on Sundays, several students thought they should be allowed to have Monday to drive back to school, especially since dorms don't open until Sunday.

The Faculty Senate and acting Chancellor Howard G. Wible must approve the resolution before it can go into effect.

In order to foster informal interaction between musicians attending TCU there will be informal jam sessions on Sunday, March 3rd and 17th, from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in the basement of Ed Landreth Hall. Everyone is invited to bring their instrument and sit in.

Bullock bullies Frogs

By PHIL JOHNSON
Sports Editor

It may be a very old axiom that only fits certain circumstances, but with regard to the Southwest Conference basketball steeple chase the more games that are played, the more the standings stay the same.

Tuesday night SMU prevailed over Rice to remain a game off the leaders' pace, Texas whopped Arkansas to remain one of the leaders and Texas Tech—to the dismay of the Purple home crowd—put another one over on TCU by 77-66 to stay knotted with the 'Horns.

The Purples actually played it close through the first stanza, ending the initial 20 minutes behind by only a point at 37-36. As Frog boss Johnny Swaim said afterwards, "Yeah, we had a chance. Then they'd throw it to Bullock...."

Raider super soph Rick Bullock, it would be well to note here, dialed for a hefty 41 points on the evening from his center position. The only other Raider in double figures was forward Grady Newton with 10.

"Isn't that Bullock something?" Swaim remarked in awe. "Seventy per cent of the time if he catches it deep it's two points. No matter how you play him, it's wrong."

The Frogs were simply not strong enough defensively to stop the Techsans' inside game, and offensively they had problems with the Raiders' matchup play—a combination of zone and man-to-man defense.

Junior forward Ted Jones had perhaps his finest game in lavender duds, tallying 21 markers while picking off nine caroms and playing good defense. Senior guard Jeff Wright had 14 points and soph center Wayne Wayman got 11 counters to go with his game-high 15 rebounds.

"We had great effort," Swaim said after the loss that dropped TCU's league record to 2-11.

From the other viewpoint, Tech coach Gerald Myers echoed Swaim's sentiments. "We had to work for everything we got after the first three or four minutes," the Techsan mentor said.
