Past cultist to relate 'brainwashing' Deb saved by 'deprogramming'

By KEITH CLARK

Assistant Managing Editor

A "deprogrammed moonie" will speak at University Christian Church Sunday as a part of her campaign to alert people to the dangers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon's Unification Church.

Cynthia Slaughter, 25, a former Fort Worth debutante and a member at University Christian, says she was "brainwashed" by the religious cult. The efforts of "deprogrammer" Ted Patrick saved her, she and her family say.

At 4:30 p.m., Sunday Oct. 12, a one-hour documentary film on the Unification

THE REV. SUN MYUNG MOON

Church, prepared by NBC-TV News, will be shown at University Christian. A snack supper will follow at 5:30 p.m. financed by voluntary contributions from those in attendance.

Slaughter will speak at 6:15 p.m. and then will answer questions till 7:45 p.m.

The story of her involvement in the Unification Church was carried on the front pages of city newspapers last week. The Fort Worth Press first reported it Sunday, Sept. 28. The Fort Worth Star-Telegram came out with its first coverage of the story, Tuesday morning, Sept. 30. The following is a summary of their reports.

In Denver, Colo., July 11, she made her first contact with the cult, responding to an advertisement which said, "If you are interested in humanitarian work, contact . . ." and gave a phone number, she said.

She went to a Unification Church center in Boulder, Colo., for introductory lectures which lasted all day Saturday and Sunday. The teaching made sense to her then, she said, so she went for further training to a camp in Noble, Okla.

Because of poor diet, loss of sleep, and no time to think, the convert becomes confused, gives up his will, believes and does whatever he is told out of commitment to God and the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, she said.

Slaughter estimated she made $115 each 16-hour day selling candy and flowers on city streets for the Unification Church.

Her family accepted her involvement in the cult at first but when they learned more about it and saw what it was doing to her, they took steps to get her out.

They hired Ted Patrick, 45, who estimates he has "deprogrammed" more than 1,000 members of various cults since 1971.

He has been taken to court in New York City, Seattle, Denver, and a Los Angeles suburb on charges of kidnaping and false imprisonment. Twice he was convicted and spent time in jail.

His technique is to badger and taunt the converts he is trying to "deprogram" until they get mad and begin to have wills of their own again. Slaughter and her family say it is an emotionally trying experience.

After six weeks with the Unification Church, it took Patrick 12 hours to "deprogram" Slaughter. Now she is taking her experience to the public and has helped Patrick "deprogram" the daughter of a prominent Dallas attorney.

brainwashing techniques. The Unification Church recognizes him as a "new messiah."

Moon lives in a $620,000 estate in New York. The church also owns an $850,000, 22-acre estate in Barrytown, N.Y., which is used as a training center.

Moon also has a couple of yachts, airplanes and another mansion in San Francisco in addition to the church centers scattered across the country.

Housing input sought

RHA officer election tonight

Election of officers for the newly forming campus chapter of the national Residence Hall Association (RHA) will be held tonight at 10 p.m. in Brachman Hall room 123.

Each dormitory and each pair of Greek fraternity or sorority houses should have one voting delegate at the meeting. Anyone may come to the meeting but only delegates may vote, said Pam Cowan, a junior who has been working to help organize the association.

Besides electing officers, RHA will plan how to spend the $135 credit it has with Swank motion picture distributors. The bill for the movie shown at the interdorm activity last spring, "got paid twice," Cowan said.

Among items to be considered at the meeting will be how RHA can influence residence hall staff selection, input to the trustees through the Student-Trustee Relations Committee and Greeks moving off campus, Cowan said.

The role of RHA is not well defined yet, said Bob Neeb, director of housing. "RHA is probably just a change in terminology from the former president's council. We will seek to use them as a sounding board and advisory board," he said.

"I am delighted that RHA is functioning. We will give them any kind of staff support we can," said Elizabeth Proffer, dean of students. "I think we will want to hear anything they want to say. But not all their questions can be answered."

Edd Bivin, coordinator of residence hall operations, said RHA grew out of a need expressed by students in residence halls. On other campuses the national association has been involved in students' rights, programming and physical improvement of residence halls, he said.

"I feel very optimistic about the group. I think it's a good avenue for getting student input," Bivin said.

But funding for RHA is still uncertain. Cowan said state universities have funds provided for their chapters of the Residence Hall Association. But private universities must collect the funds some way.

"One possibility would be to ask the trustees to raise dormitory rents 50 cents and pass that money on to the RHA," Cowan said.

But for the coming year, the association will probably ask the dormitories to give 50 cents a resident from their programming fees, she said. Showing the movie which has already been paid for, should encourage some support, Cowan added.

RHA began forming as part of the national organization last April. The first meeting this semester, held Sept. 11, was attended by about 25 people, "which is pretty good," Cowan said.

Suggestions and ideas for the Residence Hall Association should be sent to TCU Post Office box 30660.

"THE STRUCTURE AND FUNCTION OF UNIVERSITIES" is Dr. Paul Saltman's topic at a discussion at 3 p.m. today in SWR Lecture hall 3. The vice chancellor for academic affairs at the University of California-San Diego is the second professor to fill the Green Honors Chair this semester. Thursday Dr. Saltman will speak on "Mysticism Versus Reason: The Struggle for Man's Mind" at 8 p.m. in S. Lecture hall 1.

Editor:

Let me comment on (1) your policy-practice regarding printing unsigned letters, (2) the question regarding Sam Woodson, and (3) the availability of Coca-Cola and Dr Pepper at TCU.

(1) It was a cheap shot to publish an unsigned letter containing an implied criticism of a benefactor of TCU. While there might be occasional reasons to violate your policy of not printing unsigned letters, it was more than the interests of a "freak" that led you to print that one.

(The excellent style of the unsigned letter makes me think I know who wrote it, and also makes me believe he did not intend that you would print it; rather, I believe it was intended as a genuine suggestion as to a topic you could spend some journalistic energy on. And it still is.)

(2) Dr. Sam P. Woodson, Jr. has been a trustee of TCU since 1959 and has been recognized with both an honorary degree and a Royal Purple Award in recent years. Mr. Woodson came to Fort Worth to head Fort Worth Coca-Cola following the death of his late brother, Glen Woodson

(for whom the Woodson Room in the Brown-Lupton Student Center is named).

He is also the principal officer of the Brown-Lupton Foundation. Thoroughly knowledgeable of the interests of the late Mr. Tom Brown, one of the founders of Fort Worth Coca-Cola, Mr. Woodson has been influential in bringing to TCU numerous benefactions from the Brown-Lupton Foundation, including the original Brown-Lupton Student Center, the Brown-Lupton Health Center, the expansion of the Brown-Lupton Student Center, one-third of the cost of the football dressing and training rooms, and all of the cost of the artificial turf and the new track now being laid.

Also, he was influential in the Brown-Lupton Foundation transferring completely to TCU the Brown Memorial Trust, in excess of one million dollars, the annual income from which is about $85,000 and is used in the support of graduate research fellowships at TCU through the TCU Research Foundation. These continuing gifts amount to an average of about $200,000 per year, which is the equivalent of about $500 of the salary of every faculty member or a tuition saving of about $40 per year for every student.

Mr. Woodson has also served as chairman of the Trustee Intercollegiate Athletics Committee for a number of years.

Not an alumnus of TCU, he is nevertheless wholly committed to this institution. His service has been remarkable. Next to Coca-Cola, TCU is his greatest interest.

(3) TCU has used Fort Worth Coca-Cola as the single-supplier of drink vending machines for many years because we don't know of anyone that will give us a better deal than Fort Worth Coca-Cola and the Brown-Lupton interests. Coca-Cola has helped build TCU.

To be sure, Dr Pepper is a good drink too, and Fort Worth Coca-Cola began to put Dr Peppers in our vending machines at my specific request. It is Mr. Woodson's and my intent that both Coca-Cola and Dr Pepper should always be available, together with such other products as will sell and the machines can handle.

That machines will run out of a product or malfunction from time to time is not surprising. When this happens, a note or call to the office of the TCU Business Manager, Mr. Joe Enochs, should be made in order to report the situation. If malfunctions or shortages occur in a pattern, I can assure you that steps will be taken to replace or augment the machines or correct service deficiencies.

No one is obligated to prefer Coca-Cola because of the Brown-Lupton benefactions, but Mr. Woodson and Fort Worth Coca-Cola are deserving of the profound and the continuing thanks of every person interested in the advancement of Texas Christian University.

Questions 7 years late

Sirhan Sirhan shot one of our best and brightest that day in June. Countless witnesses and a television camera capturing the event or film will tell us that Sirhan shot Robert Kennedy. Sirhan himself admits to the shooting.

However, seven years later the case was reopened by a Los Angeles court at the request of CBS and a former United Auto Workers Union executive, Paul Schrade, who was wounded in the shooting. There was some question, they contended, whether Sirhan's was the only gun shot at the senator.

It seems rather strange that it took the plaintiffs seven years to question the events surrounding Kennedy's death. Possibly there are a few people who are looking to get their names in the paper and stir up some dust in the process.

Seven ballistics experts determined there is no substantive evidence that a second gun was fired. Hopefully, these findings will be filed away someplace for future use. By 1982, journalists won't have time to cover the re-digging up of the Bobby Kennedy assassination. "Squeaky" Fromme, Sarah Moore and their colleagues might be keeping them busy enough.

GAIL BEATY

International student adviser filling two pairs of shoes

Gail Beaty, new international student adviser and administrative assistant in the Office of Residential Living and Housing, will be handling jobs formerly held by two people.

Beaty is replacing Jacqueline Segars, former international student adviser, and filling many of the roles of Anita Purvis, former assistant to Bob Neeb, director of Residential Living and Housing.

As international student adviser her main duty is "to be a resource person to the international students—giving them information in terms of getting with the proper campus people for problems they might have," Beaty said.

Other functions she has and will perform this year include helping any of the 108 non-U.S. citizens on campus become oriented to American life, getting immigration paperwork straightened out, coordinating different activities between international students and churches and other groups and supervising the international women's and men's dormitory sections in Colby and Milton Daniel.

Beaty is interested in trying to determine if there is a need to establish more alternatives for different types of housing programs for the various lifestyles and cultures represented on campus.

Her duties as administrative assistant for housing include overseeing the use of guest rooms and coordinating summer conferences for outside groups.

Presently she is evaluating guest room provisions and investigating the need to establish more effective policies.

Debate team wins top honors

The debate team of Jim Paulsen and Mike Veitenheimer took first place at the sixth annual Oklahoma Christian College Debate Tournament last weekend.

Competing against over 40 schools, the team beat Bethel College of Oklahoma City in the final round. Paulsen also was the top speaker of the tournament.

The University's other team, Kathy Hooker and Brock Akers, finished fourth in the contest.

This weekend the debate team travels to Lexington, Ky., for the University of Kentucky Debate Tournament.

Construction ousts 40 cars

Faculty from Rogers Hall and the Bass Building purchased parking permits for $25 in hopes of using the parking lot adjacent to the Bass Building.

However, with construction underway for an additional third floor to the Bass Building, the parking lot now has become inaccessible. According to Buck Beneze, Jr., assistant dean of students, arrangements have been made to accommodate those faculty members.

Half of the 40 cars formerly parked there will park in the parking lot north of Daniel Rogers Hall and the other 20 faculty members will park in the parking lot south of the Bass Building. The deans were notified of the change, Beneze said.

Oklahoma's JV romps past Wogs, 36-5

By KIRBY RALSTON

It could have been closer if it wasn't for one thing—the flashy heels of Billy Sims.

The Oklahoma freshman from Hooks, Tex., found Amon Carter turf to his liking Monday night, rushing for 180 yards on eight carries, helping the Oklahoma junior varsity thrash the Horned Frog junior varsity, 36-5.

In some instances the Oklahoma JV looked almost like the OU varsity.

Penalties and fumbles took a heavy toll on both squads. OU fumbled four times and was penalized 114 yards on 10 infractions. The Wogs lost the pigskin twice and had 90 yards in penalties stepped off against them.

After a Tony Biasatti field goal attempt for the Wogs landed short, OU safety Tyrell Jackson picked up the ball, but had to reverse field because of a Purple onslaught, and was forced out of bounds in the end zone for a safety with 2:14 left in the first quarter. The Wogs had a 2-0 lead.

With the start of the second quarter it was time for Sims to do his thing, weaving and bobbing through the grasps of Wog tacklers for the third longest run in the stadium's history, a 92-yarder. A bobbled snap from center kept the Boomers from scoring the extra point, making the score 6-2.

The Wogs got on the board again when Rueben Ray booted a 41-yard field goal with 1:16 remaining in the first half, pulling the Purples within one at 5-6.

OU scored two touchdowns in 24 seconds via a 57-yard keeper by quarterback Thomas Lott and a three-yard plunge by fullback Ken King.

Uve von Schamann, a Fort Worth Eastern Hills product kicked field goals of 53, 35 and 29 yards, lengthening the margin to 27-5.

Sims romped 14 yards, 43 and 4 yards for OU's final touchdown drive. Von Schamann tacked on the extra point for a 34-5 lead.

Oklahoma's final points came when Wog punter Ray Hummel was smothered in the end zone after a high snap, for a safety.

Wog coach Mel Thomas explained that the team did a good job considering it hadn't been together long. "We couldn't get our offense going because they just lacked experience as a unit. Some of the people we were expecting to play, played in the Arkansas game." NCAA rules prevent gridders from playing in a junior varsity game, if they played in the preceding varsity game.

The Wogs second and final game of the year will be Oct. 27 in Norman, Okla.

"Next time we'll be better organized on offense," said the Wog boss. "And surer tackling will stop Sims pretty well."

First meet successful

Powerlifters take 2nd

The TCU powerlifting team returned from the Central Texas Powerlifting Championships in Yoakum, Tex. last Sunday, boasting two first place winners and a second place finish by the team.

Steve Kreuzkamp grabbed a first in the 198 pound class while Vaughn Bailey took a first in the 220 pound class. Tom Kelchner took third in the 181 pound bracket, with Hal Hopkins securing a third in the 148 pound class. Hopkins also lifted enough weight to earn him a place on the team.

Texas A&M nosed out the Frogs for the team title, besting the Purples by only three points. Kreuzkamp said this was due to the fact that the Frogs had no one lifting in the 242 pound class while the Aggies did.

Ed Gaylord, Jim West, Tom Henderson and Bill Cantrell also participated for the Frogs.

Kreuzkamp said the team's performance was excellent considering this was their first meet. "The results from this first meet are very promising. We should be a good team for the remainder of the year. We were considering this a training meet, but we did quite well in the end," he said.

The powerlifters' next meet is scheduled for Dec. 6, in Stillwater, Okla.

Soccer men trip Tech

The Horned Frog soccer team whipped Texas Tech last Saturday, 3-2. Tech had been tied for first place before the loss. On Sunday, though, the squad dropped a 4-0 decision to Richland Jr. College, a game in which every team member saw action.

The Frogs led at the half in their game against Tech, on a goal by Dave Medanich. But, the Red Raiders bounced back and held a 2-1 lead midway into the second half. Dave Rubinson then scored the tying goal and Medanich kicked the winner with about 10 minutes left in the game.

Against Richland, three mistakes ruined the Frogs' chances of winning.

The team plays Fort Worth United today at 6 p.m. in Forest Park. On Sunday the team will play West Texas State behind Daniel-Meyer Coliseum.

PIG STOPS FROG—Horned Frog running back Marvin Brown is brought down from behind by an Arkansas defensive man. Looking on is Purple quarterback Lee Cook and another Hog defensive man. The Frogs are working out now, in preparation for their encounter against SMU, in Dallas, this Friday at 7:30.
