Shofner calls it quits

Assistant Sports Editor

Head football coach Jim Shofner announced Monday that he will resign his position at the end of the season.

Citing his 2-28 record while head coach as a determining factor, Shofner said, "About 9:30 this morning Dr. Moudy and I decided that it would be the best for all concerned if I resigned."

In a prepared statement, Chancellor James M. Moudy said, "Jim Shofner achieved excellently TCU's first priority of restoring character to Horned Frog football. We'll be indebted to him forever," Moudy stated.

"Even the timing of his decision shows his character, for he made an early decision so that his assistant coaches could receive maximum notice."

During an interview Sunday afternoon with the Daily Skiff, Shofner flatly denied rumors that he was leaving.

But Monday he said, "I don't want to put any words into anybody's mouth," Shofner said, "but the Chancellor and I decided together."

"The last couple of years have been a lot of fun," he added. "The simple fact is that we haven't won enough football games."

Shofner, who came to the University from the San Francisco 49ers, plans to return to the professional ranks.

"I'm going to try to get back into the NFL. A lot of jobs keep opening up there also," he added with a smile.

According to Shofner, his replacement will be left up to the Chancellor. Moudy was unavailable for comment yesterday afternoon.

"I'm going to finish the season," Shofner added. "The main thing we are going to try to do is win these last three ball games."

BRUSSELS, Belgium—The co-chairmen of the U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe said Monday the Soviet Union has violated the spirit of the 1975 Helsinki accord by refusing to let them into Russia to discuss how the agreement is being observed.

The Helsinki accord, which was pushed by the Soviet Union, calls for increasing security and cooperation in Europe by encouraging both human and trade contacts. Critics say the pact tacitly recognizes the Soviet domination of Eastern Europe.

LONDON—The price of gold soared as much as $5 an ounce on European bullion markets Monday. Dealers attributed it to growing speculation that President-elect Jimmy Carter's economic policy might touch off a worldwide inflationary spiral.

The U.S. dollar and the British pound both declined sharply in busy trading on money markets.

Gold is traditionally a haven for investors and speculators when currencies are in trouble because of inflation and other factors.

DETROIT—The United Auto Workers told General Motors

Corp. on Monday that the company had until midnight Nov. 18 to come to terms on a new contract covering 390,000 hourly employees.

ALEY, Lebanon—Syrian troops in Lebanon assumed their new role as Arab peacekeepers Monday, bulldozing away Palestinian roadblocks and moving toward Beirut. Christian leaders ordered all armed patrols stopped and roadblocks dismantled in the territory they hold.

But the Lebanese Arab Army, the Moslem remnant of the former Lebanese army, said an artillery clash broke out near the border with Israel. Rightists still are trying to clear the area of Palestinians.

WASHINGTON—The State Department on Monday appeared to rule out any new foreign policy initiatives during the ten weeks that remain before the Carter administration takes office.

The department "will do its utmost to avoid preempting the new administration's flexibility from making decisions on issues it may want to review after taking office," spokesman Robert Funseth told reporters.

Discrimination charges against school dropped

Discrimination charges against the University filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission by the University chapter of the NAACP have been dropped.

Eliazar Salinas, deputy district director of the EEOC's Dallas district office notified the University of the action in late October. "We are honoring the Charging Party's request that the matter be closed, and on this date we have administratively terminated action on the charges," Salinas' letter said.

The original charges, filed in April, 1974 said, "This college discriminated against Negroes and Spanish-surnamed Americans in its recruitment, hiring qualifications, and placement. Caucasian professors also use derogatory language in classes."

Vice-chancellor Howard G. Wible said the University did not know why the charges were dropped or what the investigations had found.

"We're glad to have an answer. It's been going on for two years," he said.

Chancellor James M. Moudy tossed the coin in last Sunday's football game between the Student Foundation and the Faculty-Staff. The Student

Foundation emerged the victor, 15-6, in the benefit game for leukemia victim, 6-year-old Tommy Kimball. Photo by Steve Van Fossen

'Action' proven by Democrat

Editor:

I enjoyed reading your article in Thursday's Skiff and I wish to join with you in praising the Young Republican Club. As a student of politics it is encouraging for me to see involvement in our Constitutionally ordained electoral process (except when it comes to tearing down opponent's signs).

In a one-party state such as Texas it is good to see involvement in the Republican Party. Without a two-party system, this nation would pass into an oligarchy.

Although I may praise the Skiff for their involvement, I do not praise the Skiff for its unbiased reporting. I feel another group on campus deserves equal praise, even though they were not as obvious as their vivaciously vocal opponents.

There were many who cam-aigned tirelessly for the Democratic candidates. They nailed up posters and passed out brochures. They sat at tables and phoned voters. They were concerned, involved and optimistic. They made the electoral process work. They elected a president.

However, these students were not as visible or vocal as their obsessively obvious opponents. Does this make their work any less important? Does this make their involvement any less sincere? I think not.

So I praise these students for their involvement. It is not easy to sit at a table when nine-tenths of those passing by sneer. It is not easy to be a vocal Democrat on a campus that is over two-thirds Republican.

Let us not equate participation with egregiously, encroaching, enthusiasm. If you desire the "roar of the grease-paint and the smell of the crowd" type political involvement, TCU offers such. But if you desire involvement on a quieter tone, it too is available.

Congratulations on a job well done.

The Horned Frogs fell nine yards short of their first win of the season and one of the biggest upsets in the Southwest Conference.

The Texas Tech Red Raiders outlasted a fired up Purple team to snatch a 14-10 victory Saturday at Amon Carter Stadium.

With 78 seconds left to play, Steve Bayuk, starting in the place of injured Jimmy Dan Elzner, drove the Frogs down to the Tech nine-yard-line. The Purples had a first and goal with the Frog fans calling for an upset.

Bayuk let fly with a pass towards dependable Mike Renfro on the first down play who was blasted by a Red Raider on a play that looked to everyone in the stands, on the sidelines, and on the field as though pass interference was committed.

"That was the hardest I was hit all day, and it was before the ball got there," Renfro said.

"Yes, I saw that non-call," Frog coach Jim Shofner said. "But that's nothing different for us."

On second down, Bayuk tried for Renfro again but the ball fell short of its mark in the left corner of the end zone.

With third down facing the Frogs, Bayuk again went back to pass, but the Raiders' Eric Felton came up with an interception to preserve Tech's seventh victory of the year.

Shofner felt like it was an emotional, a mental edge, that let Tech get away with the 14-10 victory.

"We haven't got enough poise in that type of situation to win.

We just haven't played well enough to be in many winning situations," Shofner said. "They have been through it and they felt they could stop us."

It looked like the game was going to be the predicted run away in the first quarter as the Raiders struck for two quick touchdowns.

The Frog defense stiffened and from the second quarter on stifled the Raiders' multiple offense. The Raiders had 171 total offensive yards in the first quarter alone but could only manage 212 in the last three quarters.

The Frogs got on the scoreboard in the second quarter when Bayuk hit Renfro on a 77-yard touchdown pass. Reuben Ray added the extra point to make the score 14-7 at halftime.

Tech took the second half kickoff and drove down to the Frog one-yard-line where the Purple defense turned the game around.

The Red Raiders had a fourth and goal from the one and decided to go for the touchdown instead of kicking a field goal. Alan Teichelman wrapped up Tech quarterback Rodney Allison for a 17-yard loss.

Instead of leading 21-7, the Raiders watched the Frogs catch fire and drive the ball down for a 22-yard Ray field goal.

The Frogs moved the ball 77 yards with only 13 of them coming through the air. The big play was a 43-yard scamper by Tony Accommando.
