Serbs withdraw under pressure from world community Peacekeepers demand settlement

BY PAUL ALEXANDER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — With the threat of NATO air strikes averted, peacekeepers Monday moved in to control the remaining Serb guns around Sarajevo while diplomats turned up the heat for a political settlement.

WORLD

Immediate air strikes against remaining Serb artillery positions were unnecessary, NATO and United Nations officials said.

Although some Serb guns remained in place after the Monday 1 a.m. deadline, the Serbs were credited with trying to comply with an ultimatum that could have put NATO into combat for the first time ever.

Monday's catchword was momentum: Use this halt in the siege of Sarajevo as a model for a wider settlement in Bosnia.

"We're absolutely going to use the momentum to reach a comprehensive political settlement," White House spokeswoman Dee Dee Myers said in Washington, where Bosnian Premier Haris Silajdzic met Secretary of State Warren Christopher.

"We have a long way to go, but we believe that this is the first step towards the peace because it restores the balance of power in Bosnia," Silajdzic said.

The Bosnian Serbs said Russia's stronger role was welcomed. Russia sent 400 troops to join U.N. peacekeepers in Sarajevo.

"It was not natural that Russia was out of the whole process," Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic said in Pale, his power center southeast of Sarajevo.

Karadzic said the Serb side would

WASHINGTON — It took 22 months and the slaughter of 68 people before NATO mustered the will to act decisively to end the siege of Sarajevo. The question now is whether President Clinton and Western allies will go a step further and extend their bombing ultimatum to other cities in war-torn Bosnia.

The apparent answer is, not immediately.

In view of NATO's strong reluctance to take the first step, there's likely to be stiff resistance to doing more.

"Our first and most important objective is to secure the gain we've already made and we will not seriously consider taking more options until we are certain that this one is really secure," Defense Secretary William Perry told a Pentagon news conference Monday.

"So, those options are certainly weeks away; they're not days away," Perry said.

More warplanes and more pilots would be required to expand the demilitarization formula and the threat of air strikes. The risk of retaliation against allied forces on the ground would grow. There would be a threat of deeper and deeper involvement.

Clinton, at a news conference, would go no further than to say that U.S. officials would talk with European leaders this week about extending NATO's ultimatum to other parts of Bosnia.

He said the United States must be sure its allies are prepared to back up any further ultimatums, guaranteeing that "NATO not undertake a mission

Auto chase with police crosses TCU

BY JOHN LUMPKIN
TCU DAILY SKIFF

Between 15 and 20 Fort Worth police cars and a police helicopter passed through and over campus about 2 a.m. Saturday while chasing a car full of Fort Worth youths.

Two juveniles, a 14-year-old male and his 15-year-old wife, were arrested following the chase. The couple's 3-month-old daughter and another 14-year-old male were also in the car.

The chase began around 1 a.m. at the 1300 block of East Butler when an officer tried to stop the juveniles' speeding car.

Police pursued the car around south Fort Worth, according to police reports. Additional police cars and a helicopter joined the chase.

The suspects' car got up to 60 mph, turned the wrong way on an interstate on-ramp and went through several stop signs.

The suspects' car also struck a police car during the pursuit. The col-

Campus increases security

BY JOHN LUMPKIN
TCU DAILY SKIFF

The university has added two security guards to the east side of campus in response to recent crimes against students, said Don Mills, vice chancellor for student affairs.

Guards from Pinkerton Security and Investigation Services will be walking on campus from 8 a.m. to 11:30 p.m., Mills said. Their first day was Monday.

Students can treat the officers as if they were members of Campus Police, said Oscar Stewart, Campus Police chief.

"They're basically an extra set of eyes and ears patrolling the campus," he said.

Mills said the Wednesday robbery of a woman inside her car and the Feb. 5 robbery of a woman at the tennis center prompted the administration to increase security.

Both robberies were at gunpoint. In the Wednesday robbery, the victim was driving her car and was robbed by a man hid-

Today's House of Student Representatives agenda includes the announcement of the first House newsletter called "House News," said Scott McLinden, president of the House.

The House newsletter, McLinden said, will update students about what House committees are doing and what programs are going on.

Another announcement is that the all-you-can eat food program begins this week, McLinden said. Every Tuesday and Wednesday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., Eden's Greens will serve an all-you-can-eat buffet for $3.99, he said.

"The all-you-can eat program is a semester-long experiment to see if the students are interested," McLinden said. "If there is a lot of interest we'll have a new choice in meal plans next fall. Students will be able to choose a la carte, all-you-can eat or a combination of both."

The trial all-you-can eat program will include a minimum of two entrees, four vegetables, a starch (rice or potato), deli bar, full salad bar, dessert and beverages.

Scott Wheatley, vice president of the House, said he will announce a "town hall" meeting for university students.

The "town hall" meeting has been put together jointly by Students Reaching Out and the Student Concerns Committee, Wheatley said. "The date is tentatively March 14 and will allow students to voice their concerns and gripes," he said.

McLinden said the House will also be voting on a bill for freshman parking. He said the bill was presented for voting last week but was given back to the Student Concerns Committee to be rewritten.

The bill would allow freshman parking privileges anywhere on campus from 5 p.m. Friday to 5 p.m. Sunday, McLinden said.

"They didn't vote on it last week because the language was not clear enough," he said.

The House will also discuss a new project that involves the Fort Worth community, McLinden said.

"It's good we do stuff for the university," he said, "but I think it is also

EuroDisney pales to Paris experience

BY ANN RICKERMAN
TCU DAILY SKIFF

The streets and shops are desolate. The few faces of the people walking around are serious, even solemn.

Sounds more like a ghost town than Disney World, but Krystin Tisch, a political science and French double major, said that EuroDisney was like an abandoned city.

"No one goes there. We heard EuroDisney was a bomb," said Tisch who spent the fall semester in Paris.

She went to EuroDisney on her last day in Paris and said, "We had more fun than the 5-year-olds there."

Tisch said there were 40 ticket windows but only three had ticket sellers in them. "There was no line to get in," she said.

"Europeans can't let loose and enjoy a fantasy world," she said. Her experience at EuroDisney told a lot about the people in Europe, she said.

"Everything is business and making money," Tisch said. "On the metros if you talked you were looked at weird. Everyone was solemn."

She said younger kids act like adults and the only age group that seemed to have any fun were people her age.

"Everyone my age was easy to talk to," she said. "We practiced our French more when we were out at night than in class."

"Paris was neat," she said. "There was always something to do, go out to a discotheque or hang out at a historical monument. One night we went to Pont Neuf, the oldest bridge in Paris, and hung out with some bongo players."

"Paris is so culturally diverse," Tisch said. "It's not like here. I learned how to accept people of all backgrounds and lifestyles."

She said she admires France because it has a strong sense of nationalism.

Student nurses take part in Dedication Ceremony

BY CAROL ANN COOKSEY
TCU DAILY SKIFF

The annual Harris College of Nursing Dedication Ceremony was held 7 p.m. Saturday at Robert Carr Chapel.

The purpose of the ceremony is to recognize nursing students who have completed their first semester of nursing clinicals.

The dedication ceremony originated from a tradition when nurses wore white caps. After a semester of clinicals, nurses would make a commitment to nursing. When they were dedicated into the nursing profession, they would be capped.

Saturday's ceremony followed the tradition except the nurses were presented with a pin to symbolize the cap. Today, nurses do not wear the actual cap as they did in the past.

President of Student Nurses Nori Wetwiska introduced guest speaker Anita Willis, a registered nurse. She is the unit leader of gynecology-oncology at Harris Methodist Hospital in Fort Worth.

Willis said nurses should dedicate themselves to treating all patients equally without prejudice. She also stressed the importance of a good attitude while striving for goals as well.

The actual dedication consisted of the capping ceremony, lighting of candles, and the reciting of the Nightingale Pledge.

The Nightingale Pledge was led by Wetwiska. The pledge was written in 1893 by Lystra Gretter, a registered nurse and her committee.

"I thoroughly enjoyed the ceremony and the nursing faculties contribution to it," said Cindy Hixon, junior nursing major.

A reception for the nursing students immediately followed in Weatherly Hall.

Indian bones laid to rest

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — The remains of 37 Plains Indians were laid to rest Monday at San Fernando Cemetery. The remains, in one box, were led to the gravesite by a contingent that included Native Americans pounding drums and chanting.

Historian Henry Guerra said the Indians settled around the Alamo area in the mid-1700s. The bodies were removed during a 1935 construction project to prepare for the Texas Centennial, according to Guerra.

Grandmother in custody battle

HOUSTON (AP) — A grandmother goes to court Thursday to fight for custody of her dead son's children.

Robert Schlaepfer, who died last September of AIDS, said in one will that his twin girls should go to his mother, Phyllis Durichek, of Houston. A later will asked that the children go to his friends, Lance Rhicard and Candice Geary of the Duluth, Minn. area. Both parties have been awarded custody in different states.

Iraqis claim camp slaughter

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iraqi exiles claim Saddam Hussein's regime recently slaughtered hundreds of prisoners at the Radwanieh death camp southwest of Baghdad.

Most of the victims were apparently Shiite Muslims who have been rounded up by the Baghdad government since an ill-fated uprising in southern Iraq right after Saddam's Gulf War defeat in early 1991.

Sign language made 'politically correct'

By Jodi Wetuski
TCU Daily Skiff

Political correctness, traditionally associated with the things people say, has made its way into the things people sign.

The American Sign Language Institute, along with other centers, is working to develop alternatives to signs that may be considered offensive to women or minorities. A list of these neutral signs will soon be distributed to schools and agencies nationwide.

The questionable signs include those for men, women, Asians and Africans.

"Men's signs are denoted at and above the forehead because 'men did all the thinking,' while women's are signed between the cheek line and the side of the mouth because 'women did all the talking,'" said Teresa Gonzalez, lecturer for the habilitation of the deaf program.

Gonzalez said these signs originated from the caps men wore and the bonnets women used to wear.

The signs referring to Asians are slant-eyed gestures, and the sign for an African is the letter "A," shaped like a fist, circling the face. Gonzalez said that sign had to do with the different tribal paints Africans wore.

Gonzalez said it is important to remember that sign language was developed with visual cues in mind and was never meant to be offensive to anyone.

"What was a visual cue then and very evident in distinguishing groups of people has perhaps now, in this day and time, been considered politically incorrect," she said. "Visual imagery and visual cues are extremely important in comprehension and understanding of the messages being presented."

The development of new signs for different races has been helped by travel, Gonzalez said.

Americans can learn what signs deaf people in other countries use for themselves, and bring those signs back to the States.

For example, the new sign for Africans involves making the shape of the African continent with the hand.

Gonzalez said that in the world of the hearing-impaired, people's color is secondary to deafness, and they are often not aware of the political interpretations of their language.

The change in signs is good, she said, because deaf people expect the hearing to be sensitive to their needs. Changing the signs gives the deaf a chance to be sensitive to the feelings of the hearing.

It will take time to incorporate the new signs into everyday language, Gonzalez said. The learning will start with the children and will be passed on to future generations.

Students say TCU should ban smoking

By Carol Ann Cooksey
TCU Daily Skiff

The residents of Arlington, which recently adopted an anti-smoking policy in restaurants, are not alone in their crusade. Several TCU students said Fort Worth should adopt such an anti-smoking policy as well.

A telephone sampling of students on Feb. 8 indicated how some students feel about smoking. The participants were chosen randomly from Frog Calls. The participants were asked if they smoked, if smoking bothered them and if they felt smoking in restaurants should be banned.

Out of 30 people called, 12 were smokers. Twenty-two participants said smoking did not bother them. Nineteen said smoking should be banned in restaurants.

The sampling showed that both people smoking in restaurants and non-smoking participants.

"I feel Fort Worth should consider an anti-smoking regulation as Arlington did," said Teel Miller, a senior broadcast journalism major.

The Arlington ordinance forbade smoking in all city restaurants unless extra ventilation systems were installed. Cigarette vending machines were also banned throughout the city. Some restaurant owners said they might lose business under the new rules while others applauded the change.

Dr. Burton Schwartz, a TCU staff physician, said such an ordinance would help prevent health problems due to second-hand smoke.

Respiratory problems are the main ailments treated in the health center, Schwartz said.

"Smoking only enhances these respiratory problems for both smokers and non-smokers," Schwartz said. "Most younger students do not have the motivation to quit smoking because they don't think anything will happen to them in the future."

only use its withdrawn weapons for self-defense, not employ them as some feared against other towns held by Muslim-led government forces under siege by well-armed Serbs.

He said a few weapons were "stuck" in their positions "but will also be controlled."

How informally that could happen was shown in the snowy hills northeast of Sarajevo. French U.N. troops arrived in two helicopters to control several cannons and a howitzer.

They demanded that the Serbs turn around the howitzer aimed at the center of Sarajevo, and the Serbs complied.

After nightfall Monday, U.N. Maj. Rob Annink said all sites had been visited and either brought under U.N. control or had the weapons withdrawn.

"The last scraps of metal are being put in the regroupment sites," he said.

NATO emphasized it would continue to monitor Serb compliance and made clear air strikes were still an option.

The Feb. 5 robbery took place at the Mary Potishman Lard Tennis Center. The victim had her purse and car stolen.

The university is also considering other plans to increase security.

"We are also looking at patrol patterns and working with the Fort Worth Police," Mills said.

Students should not be any less careful when walking around campus, he said. Students should walk in groups and try to park on campus, Mills said.

Sarajevo, whatever its origin, by an immediate military response," said French Gen. Jean Cot, commander of U.N. forces in former Yugoslavia.

Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Vitaly Churkin, talking to reporters in Sarajevo after meeting Bosnian President Alija Izetbegovic, said

Russian President Boris Yeltsin could take substantial credit for removing Serb guns from around the badly shelled capital.

He is to go to Bonn, Germany, today for a meeting with U.S., European and U.N. officials to work on next steps.

Churkin said he would push for "a firmer political arrangement in Sarajevo, U.N. control and other matters of a peace settlement in Bosnia-Herzegovina."

The special U.S. envoy on former Yugoslavia, Charles Redman, was in Zagreb, Croatia, on Monday working on the Croatian aspect of the three-sided war in Bosnia. Redman met Croatian President Franjo Tudjman and other top leaders.

it is not fully capable of performing."

Secretary of State Warren Christopher said "Let's wait and see" if a wider commitment is prudent. He said the emphasis should be on the peace table.

"This situation is not going to be resolved on the battlefield," Christopher said.

Muhamed Sacirbey, Bosnia's ambassador to the United Nations, pleaded with the West to protect other cities, such as Bihac, reported to be under Serb attack. He said weapons removed under threat from Sarajevo are being rushed to other battle fronts.

"It seems to us that the focus on Sarajevo has somehow encouraged the Serbian forces to attack in Bihac," Sacirbey said on NBC's "Today" show.

"But there is also, for instance, Zepa, Srebrenica, Gorazde, Tuzla, not to mention Mostar and several other Bosnian cities that are suffering quite badly right now," he said.

"This situation is not going to be resolved on the battlefield."

WARREN CHRISTOPHER,
Secretary of State

It was not until the world was repulsed by the massacre of 68 people by a single shell in a marketplace that NATO laid down an ultimatum for the withdrawal of heavy guns and the end of the shelling of Sarajevo.

Bosnian Vice President Ejup Ganic said life would have been normal in Sarajevo if NATO had issued its ultimatum two years ago.

Ganic sadly wondered "why they needed 10,000 graves in Sarajevo in order to write one page of NATO resolutions."

UNFORTUNATELY, THIS IS WHERE PEOPLE ARE PUTTING TOO MANY RETIREMENT DOLLARS.

Every year, a lot of people make a huge mistake on their taxes. They don't take advantage of tax deferral and wind up sending Uncle Sam money they could be saving for retirement.

Fortunately, that's a mistake you can easily avoid with TIAA-CREF SRAs. SRAs not only ease your current tax bite, they offer a remarkably easy way to build retirement income—especially for the "extras" that your regular pension and Social Security benefits may not cover. Because your contributions are made in before-tax dollars, you pay less taxes now. And since all earnings on your SRA are tax-deferred as well, the money you don't send to Washington works even harder for you. Down the road, that can make a dramatic difference in your quality of life.

What else makes SRAs so special? A range of allocation choices—from the guaranteed security of TIAA to the diversified investment accounts of CREF's variable annuity—all backed by the nation's number one retirement system.

Why write off the chance for a more rewarding retirement? Call today and learn more about how TIAA-CREF SRAs can help you enjoy many happy returns.

Baseball team loses three to UTSA

By THOMAS MANNING
TCU DAILY SKIFF

After winning its first nine games and cracking the top 25, the TCU baseball team looked invincible for the first week-and-a-half of the season.

BASEBALL

But the team was anything but invincible last weekend, as the Frogs were swept in a three game series by UT-San Antonio at the TCU Baseball Diamond.

The weekend began harmlessly enough as the Frogs (9-3) bludgeoned Centenary 16-3. TCU pounded out 15 hits against the Gents (2-3), led by third baseman Kerby Smith, who had three hits and also drove in three runs.

Gavin Millay and Beto Garza-Gongora homered for TCU, and senior Reid Ryan (2-0) took advantage of the offensive support by pitching seven strong innings and picking up the win.

TCU loses another home game

By TY BENZ
TCU DAILY SKIFF

The TCU men's basketball team learned the hard way that one man is not a team.

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Despite junior center Kurt Thomas' 29 points, 15 rebounds and five blocked shots, the SMU Mustangs defeated the Frogs 65-64 Saturday at Daniel-Meyer Coliseum before 2,622 fans.

SMU raised its record to 5-18 and 2-9 in the Southwest Conference while TCU's record fell to 6-16 and 3-8 SWC.

Thomas said the key to his performance was his ability to get good shots.

"I was beating their big guys down the court and I was taking good shots," he said. "My teammates were getting me the ball and I did the job."

But despite his 29-point game, Thomas wasn't satisfied with his effort because he went through several dry stretches in the first half.

"I missed four straight at one point and that really hurt us," he said. "But then I started hitting again down the stretch."

Kurt Thomas

While Thomas was scoring points in bunches, the other TCU players were ice cold. They hit only 12 of 41 shots from the field, an icy 29 percent.

"We got some good shots and got the ball where we wanted it to go," said TCU head coach Moe Iba. "We just didn't get the job done and made too many mistakes."

It was TCU's inability to make the outside shot that killed them against the Ponies.

TCU made only five shots outside five feet. TCU's backcourt of Jeff Jacobs and Jentry Moore combined for only 11 points and shot a combined 4-of-21 from the field.

"SMU took our guards completely out of the game," Iba said. "Last time (TCU played SMU), both guards had big games. Today they got nothing."

But it wasn't TCU's offensive execution that frustrated Iba, it was the Frogs' defensive effort.

Even though the Mustangs shot only 34 percent from the field, they grabbed 12 offensive rebounds and turned the ball only five times.

"SMU executes as good as anyone in the conference," Iba said. "They'll cut you up and they did us."

SMU head coach John Shumate said the Mustangs won because of mental toughness.

"Our guys were focused coming out," Shumate said. "We're not the worst team in the SWC (the Ponies are one game back of sixth place behind TCU and Houston) and they wanted to show everyone. Our kids haven't received enough credit for the mental toughness this year and they showed it tonight."

Iba said TCU lost because of a lack

SMU edges Lady Frogs 77-71

Another game, another close loss for the TCU women's basketball team.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The TCU Lady Frogs lost its 10th consecutive game with a 77-71 loss to the SMU Mustangs in front of 963 fans in Moody Coliseum in Dallas on Saturday.

The Lady Frogs have lost their last three games by an average of four points.

TCU (5-16, 1-10 Southwest Conference) shot 45 percent from the field while the Lady Mustangs shot only 37 percent. However, SMU used its advantage from the free-throw line.

The Lady Mustangs took 17 more free throws than TCU (34-17). SMU outscored the Lady Frogs from the free-throw line, 23-12.

TCU head coach Shell Robinson said the free throw differential played a big factor against SMU.

"If we didn't send them (SMU) to the free-throw line," Robinson said. "We would have won the game."

The Lady Frogs trailed 37-34 at halftime despite the fact that they held SMU to 29 percent shooting from the field. The Lady Mustangs hit 12-19 from the free-throw line while TCU hit just 1-2 from the charity stripe.

The lead changed hands 16 times during the game. TCU's largest lead of the game came in the first half when it had a five-point lead.

TCU shot 45 percent from the field in the game while the Lady Mustangs shot 37 percent from the field.

Robinson said she was happy with the Lady Frogs' play despite the loss to SMU.

"I'm pleased with their effort," Robinson said. "We just didn't play two halves."

The Lady Frogs had four players score double figures. Senior forward Donna Krueger led the Frogs with 18 points and 12 rebounds. Senior post Amy Bumsted added 17 points and eight rebounds off the bench. Junior guard Stephani Gray and freshman guard Kayla Courtade scored 12 and 10 points, respectively.

SMU was led by its sophomore forward Kerri Delaney with 17 points and six rebounds. Delaney shot 8-10 from the free-throw line. Sophomore guard Jennifer McLaughlin and senior forward Leslie Frazier each scored 14 points for the Lady Mustangs. Sophomore guard Shawna Ford scored 13 points off the bench for SMU.

SMU improved to 15-6 and 6-5 in SWC play with the victory. The Lady Mustangs have now won seven of its last nine games.

The Lady Frogs look to break its losing streak on Wednesday against Texas A&M in College Station. TCU lost to Texas A&M on Jan. 26 in Daniel-Meyer Coliseum, 81-70.

Robinson said she is optimistic that the tide will turn for TCU.

"Things will turn around for us," Robinson said. "We are going to surprise someone."

But UTSA came to town and ruined the Frogs' weekend by beating TCU in all three games of their series.

Saturday was a bad start to the series for TCU, as the Frogs led the Roadrunners (8-1) 9-6 in the ninth inning but lost when UTSA scored four in the top of that inning to squeeze out a 10-9 win.

For the first time this season, the Frogs relief pitching failed them, as relievers Tim Grieve and Jeff Baker (2-1) faltered down the stretch with the aid of a critical throwing error by Smith that led to an unearned run and opened the door for the winning runs to score.

The Smith error was one of three committed by the Frogs on Saturday, and the miscues led to five unearned runs for the Roadrunners.

Sunday's doubleheader was a disastrous end to the weekend for TCU, as the Frogs lost by scores of 9-7 and 6-0.

TCU fell behind UTSA 8-3 after four innings in the first game, and a late comeback was not enough for the Frogs as they dropped their second straight contest.

Senior Jason Carruth (0-1) lasted only two and two-thirds innings and suffered the loss, and for the second straight game the relief pitching broke down and allowed UTSA to put the game out of reach.

The final game of the series was no contest, as UTSA starter Jamey Morton (3-0) two-hit the Frogs in the Roadrunners' 6-0 win.

TCU was limited to two singles in the contest, a far cry from the offensive outbursts that were seen in earlier games this season.

The weekend seemed to be a case of a tired TCU team running out of gas. The Frogs have now played 12 games in 16 days since the beginning of the season.

TCU's next contest will be against the powerful Oklahoma Sooners Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m. at the TCU Diamond.

"We played better as a team than what we did at Rice last Wednesday, but we didn't play with much intensity," Iba said. "We certainly didn't play hard enough to win the game. That's my fault for not getting that point across in practice."

But despite this, TCU had a chance to win at the end.

TCU cut a 7-point deficit and trailed the Ponies 60-58 with 4:09 left in the game.

But SMU showed its mental toughness as Troy Dörner made five free throws down the stretch to seal the win.

TCU had two chances to tie the game, but Thomas threw the ball away inside and Moore missed two desperation three-point field goals.

TCU junior guard Marco Jeans leads a fast break during TCU's 65-64 loss to SMU on Saturday.

CFL franchise wants SMU's Forrest Gregg as head coach

ASSOCIATED PRESS

DALLAS (AP) — A Canadian Football League franchise is trying to lure SMU athletic director Forrest Gregg to its head coaching job, according to a report Monday.

The former head coach of the Cincinnati Bengals and the Green Bay Packers told The Dallas Morn- ing News he has been approached by the Shreveport, La., Pirates franchise owner.

"They have not finalized that decision," said Kay Brown at the Pirates' office. "That announcement will come in the next couple of days."

She would not confirm details of what she called ongoing negotiations. "I am going to look at this," Gregg told the newspaper Sunday. "I have a renewed interest."

Gregg did not immediately return a telephone call Monday from The Associated Press.

The Pirates, scheduled to begin play when the 1994 CFL season begins this summer, opened its ticket office Monday from temporary quarters at the Louisiana State Fairgrounds. The 60-year-old Gregg told the newspaper he couldn't elaborate on this talks with the franchise.

Owner Bernie Gliberman, who announced his CFL entry Friday after selling the Ottawa Rough Riders two days earlier, said he expected to name a coach this week.
