Opera, "Chimes of Normandy," to Be Given in Stadium

Scene of Story Is Laid About Time of Louis XV, in Corneville.

300 ARE IN GYPSY DANCES

Plot Concerns Lost Heiress, Ghostly Visitors, Hidden Treasure.

Ghostly visitors, a lost heiress and gypsy dancers are all to be found in "The Chimes of Normandy" which will be presented in the stadium May 10, as part of the Music Week celebration and as entertainment for mothers who are visiting on the campus for Mothers' Day, which is May 11.

This opera was written by Robert Planquette and was first produced at the Folies Dramatique in Paris in 1877.

Village Fair Is Scene of Act I. The story opens on a gathering of village gossips who are discussing Serpolette, who is one of the main topics of conversation between the belles of Corneville. Serpolette comes in just in time to turn the tables on them and make them furious. In the meantime, Henri, Marquis of Corneville, returns home for the first time since childhood. He has been exiled but now feels safe to return home on the occasion of the annual fair.

An old miser, Gaspard, wishes to marry his niece, Germaine, to the chief magistrate. This naturally does not suit either Germaine or Jean Grenicheux, a young fisherman. Germaine takes advantage of the fair and becomes the servant of the Marquis. Grenicheux and Serpolette follow her example.

The second act concerns the supernatural visitors who haunt the Castle of Corneville. Henri is determined to find out what the trouble is. He finds out that Gaspard, the miser, has hidden his treasure there. When the bells of the castle ring for the first time since the disappearance of the Marquis, Gaspard loses his mind.

300 Girls To Take Part. In the third act there is a grand fete given in honor of Henri. Serpolette comes on the scene with some papers which indicate that she is the lost Marchioness. The miser, recovers his senses in time to prove that Germaine is the real heiress and the curtain descends as Henri and Germaine sing a love duet.

About 300 girls from the physical training department will take part in the colorful fair scenes. The whole cast will be in the elaborate costumes of the time of Louis XV.

Chicken sandwiches made from cotton seed also were on the menu and

Rabbits, Lilies, Eggs, Chicks, Signify Mythical Easter

Easter rabbits, Easter lilies, Easter eggs and Easter chickens.

All of these symbols have been used in connection with the celebration of the Easter season for years and years.

Among the legends which are still told, one is that the eggs are the gifts of the Easter rabbit; and nowadays the little bunnies are quite as popular gifts as are the eggs.

But a long, long time ago there fell from heaven one day an egg of immense size; it rested upon the Euphrates river, where doves descended and hatched it, when out from it arose in splendid beauty, Easter, or Venus; and that explains why eggs are favorites during the festival of this lovely deity.

Eggs Are Symbolical. The eggs are symbolical of creation

'It' Is Possessed

By Prof. Ballard And Miss Smith

Want to know how your personality rates? Leave it to the 22 applied psychologists in Dean L. L. Letwisch's psychology 23 class.

Of national figures the class rated first not Lindbergh, but President Herbert Hoover.

Of the T. C. U. faculty the majority of the class ruled that Prof. J. W. Ballard had the most outstanding personality. Miss Rebecca Smith of the English department came out second in the possession of wit. The third most striking personality among the faculty according to the class is Prof. E. W. McDiarmid. And on down the list came President Waits, Coach Schmidt, Dr. Clinton Lockhart, Edwin A. Elliott, now at the University of Texas, Dr. G. R. Shaver, Dean Colby Hall and Miss Julia Lee Carter.

And then the class cast its eye on the student body. Bill Rogers was mentioned for first place, Hugh Buck for second, Cy Leland, third, and Miss Vera Turbeville, fourth.

Dr. Twenhofel is a widely known authority on this subject and is the author of "Treaties on Sedimentation" which is used as a text book in many colleges. The lecture was well illustrated with lantern slides.

Seniors to Give $1000 Loan Fund

Six Members of Class Are to Serve as Trustees.

Full details for the administration of the senior class gift of $1,000 loan fund were outlined before the class by Dr. Henry G. Bowden Monday morning. Prof. John W. Ballard was elected to the board of trustees of the fund as the faculty representative. Six members of the class, three girls and three boys, were elected to serve as trustees. They are: Misses Sarah Beth Boggess, Vera Turbeville and Elizabeth Newsum, and Hugh Buck, Rainey Elliott and Stewart Hellman.

Of these trustees, two are to serve for one year, two for two years and two for three years. It was decided that each class that adds to the gift in the future will have the privilege of adding two more trustees.

The fund is to be so arranged legally as to make it permanent. Seniors only will receive the benefits of this fund. Each borrower must have his note endorsed by at least three reputable persons. The money is to be loaned out at the rate of $25 a month. It will be so arranged that at all times the principal will draw interest.

The class also decided that each member would give $6 straight in place of attempting to raise some of the money by an entertainment.

The class will have a picnic on May 1, according to Miss Vera Turbeville, head of the social committee.

Invitations may be ordered now from Stewart Hellman. The price of the leather invitations are 41 cents each and the plain ones are 19 cents each.

Lecturer Tells Of Adventures

Eben Fine Shows Slides of Scenes in the Rockies.

That the future oil fields are in the Rocky Mountains is the belief of Eben G. Fine, who spoke in the T. C. U. auditorium Friday night on "Rambles Through the Rockies." The lecture, illustrated by colored slides, was a record of his tramps and climbs through the Rockies.

Mr. Fine contrasted the winter and autumn scenes in Colorado with those of spring and summer. He said there are twenty-six mountain peaks in Colorado that are higher than Pike's Peak. Mr. Fine gave a brief history of Colorado, showing pictures of the Cliff Dwellers.

Other scenes in the lecture were Lookout Mountain and Buffalo Bill's grave, Boulder Valley, Boulder University, Lake Isabelle, the Lonesome Pine, Ever Summer Mountain Range, Grand Lake, and Arapahoe Glacier.

Mr. Fine was the first to make known to the world the glacial character of the snow between the North and South Arapahoe Peaks. He told of his adventure upon this snow and the danger of attempting to cross it.

Mr. Fine is a travel lecturer of Boulder, Colo. He represents the Boulder Chamber of Commerce, the Fort Worth and Denver, and Colorado and Southern railroads.

"THE CHIMES OF NORMANDY"

"The Chimes of Normandy," directed by Dr. H. D. Guelick, will be the first opera to be presented at T. C. U. It will be given May 10 as part of the National Music Week Celebration, and as a preliminary to the Mother's Day program May 11.

The department of music and the physical education department are working together on the opera. Seventy-five voices will be in the chorus, 300 girls will take part in the dances, and fourteen principal characters will participate in the event. Several business men from Fort Worth are taking time off to assume leading roles in the presentation. The gypsy dancers, from the physical education department, will be directed by Mrs. Helen Walker Murphy.

Enterprises such as this indicate progress in T. C. U. For some time, other prominent universities have been staging operas. And now T. C. U. can compete with the best of them.

Dr. Guelick, Prof. Frank Agar, Mrs. Helen Fouts Cahoon, Prof. Claude Sammis, and Mrs. Murphy deserve praise for the splendid work they are doing. Their directorship assures success for "The Chimes of Normandy."

SONNET FOR THE SOPHISTICATED

We lolled about the valleys, Life and I,
 And gambled out the time in ecstasy.
 For Life was softer than an autumn sky,
 And always was she playing hot with me.
 And once upon a hushed and heavy night,
 When every merry devil was astir,
 She bantered me to take what was my right.
 To ask whatever boon I would of her.
 I looked—and she was cloaked in mystery;
 So eager (doing what all men must do)
 I said, "This is the boon give thou to me:
 To know thee well yet ever love thee too."
 And thereupon I saw her smile and wince—
 And she has been a husky ever since.
 —Dr. Herbert L. Hughes, from "The Rectangle."

FIREHEAD, by Lola Ridge; Payson & Clarke, Ltd., New York.

The crucifixion furnishes the mighty theme of the poem, "Firehead." In fact the scope of the book is so large that it is difficult for the author to handle and still more difficult for the reader to comprehend. The surge and turmoil of the crowd is keenly felt as the people gather around the three crosses. As life is slowly departing from the body of Jesus, the earthquake frightens the people, but the face of Jesus is illuminated as He passes on to His home. This glorious face recalls memories in the lives of some of His followers who watched the crucifixion. The influences and effects on these lives go to make up the book. John recalls the time when he and James left their work and followed Jesus. Judas recalls the time he betrayed Jesus. He picks out the hiss and hangs himself, but just as he is about to die, a light swarms around his face. The scene of the Stone furnishes a beautiful soliloquy as Mary is waiting for the stone to roll away. The ### merchant of Babylon, Peter, Thaddeus, the Unborn, and the bondman each go through his own particular experience.

The resurrection brings everything to a glorious climax and closes the book. According to a review in the New Republic, "Lola Ridge does not seem perfectly at ease in her art, and her illuminations are most frequently the lightning flash of analogy rather than the lyricism of flesh and steady possession." She is difficult to understand, because of the type of poetry. All of it is free verse, but she changes forms frequently. She is easily misunderstood, and each reader will probably get an individual opinion of the book. The book has an attractive cover with the colors of orange, brown and gold, which are suggestive of the title, "Firehead."—Leora Bennett.

The Majestic

Janet Gaynor and Charlie Farrell sing to the tune of a ukulele in "High Society Blues," which is the main attraction at the Majestic this week. "Just Like a Story Book" and "I'm in the Market for You" are the song hits.

The picture is a pleasing comedy, with Lucien Littlefield and Louise Fazenda furnishing the laughs. William Collier, Sr., and Hedda Hopper are good as the parents of Miss Gaynor.

"High Society Blues" does not compare with that first Gaynor-Farrell success, "Seventh Heaven."

In the vaudeville Marty May and his "Twelve o'Clock Revue" are fairly entertaining, but May is particularly good in his special act preceding the revue.

The Bruno Weise Trio, which opened the stage show, is of the usual first-act variety.—M. T.

Camp Jarvis to Have Lights and More Furniture

The two club houses which belong to T. C. U., located at Lake Worth, were donated last year by Mr. and Mrs. Van Zandt Jarvis.

The camp is located next to the Fort Worth National Bank club building, just to the left of the new bridge, overlooking the lake.

Mrs. Sadie Beckham, dean of women, and Mrs. Helen Walker Murphy, physical director, have been discussing plans to put into the club building electric lights, running water, a new stove, and some additional furniture. If these plans are carried out, the club houses will accommodate about sixty people. The accommodation of more than thirty people at one time has been impossible in the past due to the fact that only one of the buildings is furnished.

According to Mrs. Beckham, plans are being made to furnish the buildings in order to hold group meetings of all T. C. U. organizations as a part of the social life of the University.

Three On Public Speaking Staff

School of Expression in T. C. U. Is Aim, Says Fallis.

This is the twelfth of a series of articles describing the courses of instruction offered in T. C. U.

"The department of public speaking has been growing, especially in faculty. There are now three full time teachers, all graduates of public speaking and of graduate schools of expression, and all have specialized in some certain phase of work. It is to be hoped that we will have a regular school of expression in the university," said Prof. Lew D. Fallis, head of the department of public speaking.

There are seven majoring in public speaking, and several have public speaking as their first minor. The majors are: Misses Mary Louise Bridges, Ruth Rosella Pfeiffer, Winnie Roberson, Gladys Seigler, Frances Morgan, Anna Beth Baker and Mary Sue Rumph.

The department now offers fifteen courses. They are: "Practical Speaking;" "Argumentation;" "Public Speaking;" "Advanced Vocal Expression;" "Fundamentals of Expression;" "Vocal and Platonic Training;" "Diction;" "Advanced Voice and Pantomime;" "Public Reading;" "Platform Art;" "Dramatic Production;" "Principles of Play Production;" "Dramatic Thinking and Interpretation;" "Private Lessons," and "The Teaching of Public Speech."

"Public speaking is beginning to be recognized and Ph.D.'s are being given in some of the large universities now," said Professor Fallis. "T. C. U. and the Curry School of Expression, of Boston, one of the oldest professional schools in this work, have a joint department in the summer. The term will be continued this coming summer."

Besides the head of the department there are two on the staff, Misses Hazel Carter and Katherine Moore.

Rhodes Scholarship Changes Announced

Two Students From Each State to Compete Annually for Stipends.

Beginning this year, students from every state in the United States will compete for Rhodes Scholarships following a change in the method of selection made last year by the Rhodes Committee of Selection. The forty-eight states are divided into eight districts, and each year each state will select two candidates. The district selection committee will choose four of the twelve candidates from the six states in the district for the Rhodes Scholarships.

Each Rhodes Scholarship carries a stipend of 400 pounds a year. Beginning in 1930, Rhodes Scholars have the option of studying in Oxford or any other university outside their native land. ## College Life

When a girl proposes—watch out—there's a 'CATCH' to it!

Miss Barnes, Editor, Picks Daily Texan as Best Student Paper

"The Daily Texan ranks number one among the college papers which come to the exchange department of the journalism office," said Miss Pauline Barnes, editor of the T. C. U. Skiff. It is published on the campus of the University of Texas, Austin, by Texas Student Publications, Inc., every day except Monday.

The Baylor University's Daily Lariat at Waco, published every day except Sunday and Monday by the Baylor University Student Publications, Miss Barnes places second.

Third place, in her opinion, goes to The Semi-Weekly Campus of Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

J. B. Cowan of the journalism department also considers the Daily Texan first among the college dailies of Texas. "Because," said he, "State University has a large campus from which to select news and a large journalism department to do the selecting." The Daily Texan averages six pages daily and ten pages on Sunday including a feature section. Wm. Kay Miller is editor-in-chief and David Hall is managing editor of the Daily Texan. The Texan is a morning paper and each issue has an editor and two or three assistants. "They go to work at about 8 o'clock in the afternoon and are not through until about 1 in the morning," said Mr. Cowan who has had "a lot of fun as a member of the night staff."

The Texan has a classified ad department, four special columns of humor and chatter, a book review column, a comic strip, besides the regular news, feature, and sports departments.

There is a Will Rogers on the staff of the Daily Lariat. He is a reporter. Murray Neal is the editor of the Baylor University's four page daily. However each edition, like the Skiff, has an issue editor. The Lariat is well conducted and supervised by the Students Publications, Inc., managed by Ed Gooch. Its type is large and

SPORT WAVES

By JAY WILLIAMS

This is "feud week" for T. C. U. athletes, with the Horned Frogs of the diamond and of the cinder paths being called upon to meet their traditional enemies, the Baylor Bears, at Waco and here. Dutch Meyer took his loop-leading Frogs to Waco yesterday morning for a game yesterday afternoon and again this afternoon. Tomorrow the track teams of T.C.U., Baylor, and Abilene Christian College will participate in a triangular meet here on Clark field.

Cy Leland will be seen tomorrow in probably but one event, the century, which he ought to take without being pushed close to the limit. The Flying Frog is training for the Kansas Relays, in which he will participate Saturday, and hence won't be called upon in the 220 or the relays. In Goddard, Baylor has perhaps the best dash man in the conference—outside of Leland and Bracey. Leland has met the Bear flash once already, during the Stock Show meet in March, but the Bear has been hitting the tape in exceptionally good time. He won the century against Texas last week with a time of 9.8 but lost the 220.

The Frogs, under Coach Poss Clark, are showing the best balanced track team that the Purple has ever had, and the meet tomorrow should prove a close one. Leland and "Red" Oliver are good for points in any competition and lead the field which boasts of good and fair men in all the track and field events. While on the subject of track it is well to note that T. C. U. is fast developing a second Ted Canty, who is famous the country over for his ability and charm as an announcer. Leo Butler is the embryo Canty, and again Holland, (Texas) gets a hand.

Track fans are expectantly looking forward to the Kansas Relays, where Leland, Bracey, and Eddie Tolan will headline a brilliant array of track talent. The Leland-Bracey feud will flare forth again, but the two Texans are going to find themselves in rough going when they toe the mark with Eddie Tolan, the diminutive Michigan negro, who is one of the fastest in the nation. Tolan beat Leland and Bracey at the national meet in Chicago last summer.

Sectionally speaking, neither of the Texans will want to finish behind the negro, a fact which is likely to make the century and the 220 sensationally fast and close.

Leland will be no stranger to part of the crowd that will watch the Relays. Kansas is the Leland homestead of generations back, though Cy has never lived there. Nor will the Frog ace be the only Cy Leland at the meet. There are at least a half dozen of his kin that have the same given name, and it is likely that some of them will be in Lawrence to see if what they read in the papers about "Cousin Cy" is true.

An important and interesting fact about T. C. U.'s dual track meet with Rice two weeks ago has been generally overlooked. Leland broke the conference record in the 220 by a half second, though little was ever said about it. The Frog's time was 21.1. Bracey got quite a hand last week after Rice's meet with the Aggies, in which he ran the distance in 21.2.

Dutch Meyer's pitching staff continues to improve in quantity and quality. Last season the Frogs had only Walker and Cox on whom they could depend to any great degree. This season is far different. Noble Atkins entered baseball's hall of fame last Saturday by pitching a no-hit, no-run game against an all-star aggregation of Fort Worth sandlotters, and thereby showed that he, along with Flynn, Eury, and Chappell can make a creditable showing against conference competition.

Atkins' performance was not surprising. He has lacked only control to rank with the best the Frogs have to offer, and Saturday he had almost perfect control. As usual, the Frogs were in a batting mood and hit the ball to all corners for 12 runs. If the Christians continue their terrific batting spree, Walker, Cox, and the other hurlers can win ball games chunking left-handed.

Frosh to Meet Plowboys Today

The freshman track team will meet the John Tarleton Plowboys this afternoon at 2 o'clock. This is the second of a number of track meets the first year men will engage in this season. In their first meet they were defeated by North Side High track team.

Tracksters Win Dual Meet From Simmons, 75 1/2-54 1/2

T.C.U. Team Takes Nine First Places Out of Fifteen.

MARSHALL IS HIGH MAN

Frogs Meet Baylor Bears and Abilene Wildcats Thursday Afternoon.

The T. C. U. track team won its first dual meet in several seasons Saturday by defeating the Simmons aggregation 75 1/2 to 54 1/2. The Frogs, with nine first places and a tie for a tenth out of a total of fifteen, completely outclassed the Cowboys.

Marshall Is High Man

Marshall of Simmons was high point man for the day with a first in the discus and seconds in the javelin, shot put and pole vault.

The Frogs meet the Baylor Bears and the Abilene Christian College Wildcats in a three-cornered meet here tomorrow afternoon. If the Bears and A. C. C. divide enough points in the distance and field events, the Frogs have a good chance to win the meet.

Buckley Resumes Play As Frogs Meet Bears

Leo Buckley, the sensational batter of the Horned Frog baseball team, went to Waco yesterday morning with Coach Dutch Meyer's aggregation and was ready to take his place by the plate and swat one over the fence if the team was in need of some pinch hitting.

Buckley was injured in the last game with the Mustangs when he stumbled over the first-base sack and severely injured his foot. It was thought at first that Buckley had broken a bone, but an X-ray examination gave the Frogs assurance that Buckley would be back in the game in a short time. Jay Williams took the place behind the bat in the absence of Buckley.

Miss Inez Renfro spent the weekend in Mineral Wells.
