'Six Lily Whites' Organize Against Co-ed Slanguage

The "Lily Whites" are here; Who are they? Well, just to let you in on some inside information, Misses Louise Briscoe, Virginia Bradford, Isabell Wofford, Violet Mikeska, Hannah Ann House and Kathleen Wiseley are the charter members.

What is the purpose? They are trying to clean up their English—now don't get evil minded—for they are just trying to eliminate the slang words from their vocabulary.

Every time one of the girls in the "Lily Whites" says some slang term such as "Piffle, piffle; Oh, Lord; he's no green pastures; my gosh; listen, baby; cripes; darn it all; cute; aw shoot; ah heck, and any number of others, the other girls who happen to be listening are treated to five-cent drinks at the drug store.

This might be a good idea to some of the other skirts and shies on the campus to clean up the dirt in our slanguage—says your writer of this yellow sheet, choosing his words very carefully.

The first day that the "Lily Whites" were organized, Miss Bradford lost two drinks on the way to buy another that she had lost—the corner drug store should offer cut rates to this club.

T. C. U. Debaters Win Over Trinity

Mehl, Sayers Receive
2-to-1 Decision In Contest.

Milt Mehl and Reagan Sayers won a 2-to-1 decision from Frederick Isely and T. E. Lander of Trinity University Tuesday evening in a debate on the question, "Resolved, that Congress should enact legislation to provide for the centralized control of industry, constitutionality waived."

S. F. Houtchens and Dr. C. Q. Smith were the critic judges for the contest. Milt Mehl and Sam Sayers won both of the judges votes but lost the plurality in the audience decision which constituted the third vote. The T. C. U. debaters took the negative side of the question. Dr. Edwin A. Elliott served as chairman for the contest.

This contest completed the Trinity-Southwestern-T. C. U. triangle for this year, giving Texas Christian first place for the second consecutive year. Paul Martin and Marion Hicks won from Southwestern on Feb. 26.

Men's Glee Club Has Engagements

Convention at Texas
This Morning.

The T. C. U. Men's Glee Club, under director David Scouler, will entertain the delegates of the Convention of Music Dealers and Publishers Association this morning at the Texas Hotel.

After this program the "fading quartet," a feature of the glee club, composed of J. R. Crump, Don Smith, Boaz Hoskins and John Mings, with Sam Cotton, club soloist, and Miss Rowena Doss, accompanist, will sing for the North Side Kiwanis Luncheon Club.

The Glee Club will give its next formal concert at the Hemphill Heights Methodist Church Sunday evening, March 13. Selected members of the group will collaborate with the choral in presenting a Palm Sunday service for the next twilight hour musicale at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, March 20.

Selected Queen

Miss Mozelle Bryant, who has been selected as "Queen of the R. V." of A. & M. by the Ross Volunteers, highest social organization of the college. Miss Bryant will be crowned at the Coronation Ball to be given the night of April 28 at College Station.

Miss Bryant is one of the junior beauty candidates for the Horned Frog this year.

Tree Planting Held on Campus

Program Is Conducted by Camp Fire Girls
Mothers' Club.

The planting of the two cherry trees which were presented the University by the T. C. U. Mothers' Club and the Wabohiyi group of the Camp Fire Girls was held last week on the campus in front of Jarvis Hall. One of the trees was named "Wabohiyi." The other was christened "Sadie Tevis Beckham" in honor of the dean of women.

Mrs. M. K. Rose, president of the Mothers' Club, and Mrs. George Mercey, guardian of the Camp Fire group, presented the trees to President E. M. Waits, Dean Colby D. Hall pronounced the invocation. Miss Nancy Beth Pyatt gave a reading of Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

Six members of the Mothers' Club read short poems on historical trees. They were Meses. Charles O. Shugart, William C. Wynn, Arthur Brown, E. C. Blankenship, Emil Johnson and H. H. Leaf.

The Camp Fire girls who took part in the ceremony were: Misses Kathryn Kingsberry, Milbry Polk, Mary Belle Chilton, Carolyn Fortson, Anne Ryan, Martha Teas, Anne Newton, Catherine Johnson, Sue Hazen, Mary Barrows and Edith Mercey, mascot.

The Horned Frog Band, under the direction of Prof. Claude Sammis, assisted with the service.

Adolph Dietzel Rings Up 20 Points As Mustangs Down Texas Christian 32 to 30 in Extra Period Tussle

Rhea Williams of S. M. U. Scores Two Crip Shots in Added Time to Give Conference Biggest Upset of Basketball Season.

By LAURENCE COULTER.

DALLAS, March 3.—Texas Christian was defeated by the Southern Methodist Mustangs here tonight in one of the roughest games of the entire Southwest Conference season. The 32-to-30 defeat handed the Frogs by the Ponies gave Baylor undisputed possession of the Southwest Conference cage title.

Texas Christian went into the game as heavy favorites and the Mustang victory was the biggest upset of the entire season. Previous to the game tonight, S. M. U. had one game in the victory column. The Frogs would have tied for the championship had they won.

Extra Period Played. The game went into an extra period when the gun found the score 26 to 26. Rhea Williams broke loose for two crip shots without a Frog guard near him in the extra five-minute period and iced the game away for the Ponies.

Adolph Dietzel scored 20 points for high point honors. This brought his

Orators Contest To Be Wednesday

Second place winner will receive $10 and will also represent the school in the Durant contest.

Sprinkle won first place in 1931, while Paul Martin was runner-up. Sprinkle also won the Texas State Oratorical last year. Martin won second place in the Pi Kappa Delta provincial meet which met in Waco last spring.

Speeches must be 10 minutes in length and may be on any topic. There is no admission charge for the contest.

season's total to 191, breaking his last year's record by 23 points. Dietzel was the outstanding man on the Frog offense, scoring seven field goals and six free shots. Another field goal was not counted since the referee called a foul and gave the lanky center only one free shot.

Ponies Grab Lead.

Southern Methodist grabbed an early lead and only once were the Frogs ahead in the scoring column. The half ended 14 to 12 in favor of the Mustangs.

Brannon shot just as the gun sounded for the end of the regular playing time and the ball barely missed the basket for the winning tallies.

Conference Standing

Two Southern Methodist eagars and one Frog left the floor via the foul route. Both Johnsons of the S. M. U. quint collected four fouls each and Harlos Green of the Frogs took the count. Thirteen personal fouls were called against the Frogs and 14 were called on S. M. U.

Referees Are Undecided.

Both teams played a rough game and at one time five players were on the floor at once trying to get the ball. The refereeing was not up to the standard of Southwest cage officials and one decision had to be decided by tossing the ball when the officials could not agree.

The crowd, which numbered only about 1500, was on its feet during the entire last half as first one team would score and then the other. The crowd boomed nearly every decision for either team and was in a continuous uproar during the entire game.

The outstanding man of the S. M. U. quint was Ray Graber, guard. He intercepted many Frog passes and scored seven points to play an all-round floor game.

Summer Bottled Up.

Capt. Doc Sumner was bottled up most of the game and scored only one goal and two charity shots in the last half. His floor game was consistent as was Buster Brannon's work. Brannon took the ball off the enemy backboard repeatedly to save points for the Frogs.

Texas and Texas A. & M. play the last game on the schedule Saturday night, but it will have no bearing on the championship.

A Reward!

The student body council receives less recognition for its work than any other organization in Texas Christian. The members of the council give their time to help benefit the student body as a whole and yet they receive little or no credit.

The Skiff wishes to extend to the members of the council and to the student body officers its sincere appreciation for the work that it has done this year. When special rates were obtained for the football specials, the student council was the factor which received the low rates.

When Texas Christian played a football game away from home, the student council was the organization which brought you a play by play report. But the student council has done much more than this. A short time ago, The Skiff carried an editorial on the fact that the council had succeeded in placing two representatives on the discipline committee. At that time, the representatives had not been sanctioned officially, but this week the resolution passed the president's office and the student council is to be given credit again.

The Skiff carried an editorial not long ago trying to get the hour for dormitory girls changed to 12:15 o'clock. Without the influence of the student council this would have never been sanctioned by the administration.

What reward do the members of the council receive? There is no reward except the honor that goes with the position. After one year of service, the members are forgotten. The Skiff wishes to suggest that the members of the council be rewarded each year with gold keys or some other token of remembrance for the duties that they have performed.

Such tokens of esteem given by the remainder of the student body would be paid out of the student body fund each year. The members of the council have to pass on all money spent, so it is rather embarrassing for them to designate something for themselves. If the council feels that it would not be justified in setting aside an amount for tokens or keys for themselves this year, it might start the tradition to begin next year.

Those seniors who are now on the council should be included in such an honor this year, if the council feels that such action should not include all members until next year. The emblem might be given as part of the annual senior day program. The Skiff feels that those members of the council who are really making progress for the University should be rewarded.

Congratulations, Baylor

In the heat of a great battle for the basketball throne of the Southwest, The Skiff pauses long enough to congratulate the Baylor University board of trustees on its selection of former Governor Pat M. Neff to succeed the late Dr. S. P. Brooks in the presidential chair at the Baptist institution.

There is no doubt about Mr. Neff's capability. As governor of our state, railroad commissioner and various other minor positions of trust, he has proved himself an efficient administrator, a perfect gentleman and an ideal public servant. What more could be asked of a college president?

Baylor and all connected with it were grief-stricken at the death of their late chieftan. No one disputes that he was one of the greatest twentieth century Texans. Inasmuch as the late president and Mr. Neff were roommates in Baylor during their undergraduate days and have been the closest of friends since then, there is bound to be much in common between them. College roommates know each other better than each knows himself.

The old adage, "Birds of a feather flock together" may be antiquated; it may have been contradicted in many instances, but nobody in the Southwest who knew Dr. Brooks can conceive of his intimacy with anyone who was made of "smaller stuff" than himself. From all indications, it seems that the Baylor board nominated the nearest man that they could get to their late leader, and now Mr. Neff will take up the torch where death forced Dr. Brooks to drop it, and Baylor University will remain as one of the most respected educational institutions in the South today.

A Private Life

At first I started out as just a tiny bit of green stuff. I didn't know just what I was to be until I kept on growing and grew into a blade of grass. Rain, rain, rain kept pouring down, and I thought that I would surely drown, but the wet weather only served to make me grow more each day.

The rain finally ceased and I started straightening up to take in the sunshine. The ground around me started drying and those people who had used the hard piece of white ground started walking closer and closer to me. Some of my fellows were not so lucky and were steppon two or three times.

One big old boy stepped on me one day and soon after two or three more people walked over me. They were talking about being in a hurry to get to one of the buildings and were taking the shortest way. It appeared to me as if the hard white ground was the easiest way to go, but they saw different.

More and more people started walking over me and now I am turning brown, while not over a foot away my fellows are getting greener every day. If I could only have grown just a little out of the reach of the many hurrying feet, I would do my little bit to help beautify the campus. If only the rain would come again and lengthen my life just a little longer! When just two or three people walk on me, I can straighten up again in a few days, but with so many trying to trod me down I can see that my life will be short. In my place will be only a rugged path.

If people could only read our hardships, I am sure that they would walk on those little strips of hard white ground. I only wish that I could warn those who will follow me in this place, but perhaps next year there will be no blades of grass like me in this hardening path. Ah, me!

COULTER'S COLUMN

WHO is the perfect girl of Texas Christian? Jack Shackelford would say one girl; Parson Brown would say another; Red Oliver would say another; Gibson Randle would say two others; every boy would have his own opinion.

Who would I say? Well I'm going to give you my idea of the perfect girl in Texas Christian—a composite of several different beauties and personalities.

LET'S start with pretty hair. Now if you like long hair, Mozelle Bryant would make a good start. Others with pretty long hair are Mary Louise Gilliam and Janet Largent. For bobbed hair, Dorothy Scott is no green pastures and Margot Shaw has pretty hair.

But this is my ideal girl, so I'll pick Mozelle's hair for the ideal.

NEXT I would like a girl with the eyes of Irene McCommas—of course they would have to be brunette to go with the hair, but her eyes have feeling in them. I'd like Mary Louise Gilliam's eyebrows to go with the eyes.

For a nose—well, it's hard to tell whose nose would be the best in this case, but Marian Tyson's nose would add greatly to the picture. Yes, I'll take Marian's nose.

FOR a mouth, I would like to have Lollie Botts'. Her lips are well shaped and are very attractive. This selection is made from appearances only.

Camille Moore's chin would be my ideal—and while we're on the subject of Camille, I'd take her demureness and sweetness. Now whose neck would I take? Any of them!

INSTEAD of taking the parts of the figure one at a time, I'll pick out the figure that appeals to me most. Snappy Miller gets the call in this case.

The girl who has the prettiest feet—this includes the part that is just above the ankle—is Doris Higgins. If you want to argue—why I'm not going to because this is my selection and not yours. You pick your best and I'll let you do your own picking.

I HAVE now set forth the qualities as far as physical abilities are concerned. Now for the other qualities that go to make up the perfect girl:

There are so many personalities on the campus that are near perfect that it is hard to choose one. But Elizabeth Morrison is given credit on my list for having the best personality of all the girls on the campus. My girl must be appreciative and for this I'd pick Elizabeth also.

FOR size, I'd like to have a girl just the size of Kathryn Elkins. For a smile, I'd take that of Camille. A girl that could cook like Jo Beth Arledge would satisfy me.

Humor would give Doris Higgins the break again. For a good listener, the choice would be Lillian Muse. Of course, the girl would have to dance, but how could I pick her without giving myself away?

FOR a girl with real sincerity, I'd just have to pick Snappy and for faithfulness Margaret Reeder would get the call—not meaning anything, if you please!

IF all the traits, physical and otherwise, that I have mentioned were put together in one girl, she would probably be without a date every Saturday night, she would be able to study in the library without any boys molesting her, and she might be able to die happy—an old maid!

So you see that if you were to take the parts of the ideal girl and put them together, you would get such a different conception that you would probably have a freak.

Campus Wolves

What could be more inspiring to the soul of a poet than the sight of some burly exponent of the pig-skin or some sleek haired young representative of the student body walking—or rather floating down the hall gently caressing the hand of a beautiful and trusting damsel? There is no answer. Any insane poet would ask for no more.

Now, I for one am bitterly opposed to this practice. I say practice. It must be an art. I have tried it—merely as an experiment. Now you might say that I am prejudiced or even that someone has been holding my soul mate's hand, but I can refute any such statement. I have no soul mate, nor am I

THE GARDEN WHERE SWEETHEARTS GROW.

For years I'd been a rover Wandering to and fro Searching the wide world over For the garden where sweethearts grow.

I knew that the garden existed; An old witch had told me so.

But she'd said I must search unassisted For the garden where sweethearts grow.

One day I came to the garden For which I'd searched high and low, 'Twas a wondrously beautiful garden,

The garden where sweethearts grow. Through daisies I wandered undaunted,

And violets hiding below, Seeking the one that I wanted In the garden where sweethearts grow.

At last I came to the fairest, Her petals were whiter than snow, Lily they called her, the rarest In the garden where sweethearts grow.

"I've found you my long search is over!" But alas, she answered me, "No." For she waited a handsomer lover In the garden where sweethearts grow.

I left her, my heart growing sicker And my footsteps more feeble and slow.

O God, may some worthy one pick her From the garden where sweethearts grow.

New Shows Will Star George O'Brien and Carole Lombard

George O'Brien and Victor McLaglen will gallop through another film at the Worth starting Sunday; the Palace will bring on Carole Lombard with her beauty to the screen, and the Little Theater will play Gorky's Lower Depths again tomorrow.

The Little Theater has been drawing large crowds all week with this drama of Russian life prior to the revolution. William Gonder, Texas Christian senior, is cast as a tailor and Lloyd Armstrong, graduate, has the leading role. Miss Pauline McCollum, former student, is also cast in the production.

The show will start at 8:30 o'clock tonight and will close tomorrow night with no matinee in the afternoon.

The smart sophisticated West is portrayed in the new film, The Gay Caballero, which comes to the Worth Sunday. The picture is being slated for four days instead of the usual three-day run. The setting is along the Rio Grande with O'Brien taking the leading role.

Victor McLaglen, Conchita Montenegro, Linda Watkins and others support O'Brien in this film.

The new stage show is called the Fanchon and Marco Dream House Idea. Comedy tops the list of entertainment in this new production. O'Donnell and Blair and Company, comedians; Ben Omar, Arabian whirlwind dancer, and Louis Glenn—and armful of dancing, will compete the stage show.

And of course, we'll get to look upon another set of Sunkist Beauties. Have you ever tried watching the whole chorus dance instead of watching the girls individually?

Carole Lombard moves into the Palace in No One Man. This film is rated good entertainment by eastern critics. Here's some inside dope on Carole: She is the wife of William Powell; she just returned from a voyage to Honolulu. (Dr. Smith please note); she is a great wisecracker; she prejudiced. Some of the Romeos of whom I speak might run me a close second in a prize sap's face screen test. I have several concrete—I intended to suggest later the use of concrete or baseball bats as a remedy—reasons for my objections.

First, the practice of holding hands in the halls is highly immoral. What would grandma have said? Second, the practice slows up traffic in the halls often causing one to be late to class. Third, the campus abounds in trees, shrubs and bushes planted for no other purpose than for the privacy of such endearing caresses.

I am surprised that the Student body has not already taken steps to abolish a practice that threatens the very foundations of the standards of our institution. Instead of heralding them in print in the "Innocent By-stander's" column—they revel in such publicity—why not herald them before a tribunal and sentence them to be handcuffed while listening to reproduction of Bing Crosby for 24 hours?

Student Council Plea Approved

Two Representatives to Sit on Discipline Committee.

Two students selected from the junior and senior classes will represent the student body in all future meetings of the faculty discipline committee. This move petitioned for by the student council, received the official sanction of Dean Colby D. Hall and the faculty discipline committee in the early part of the week.

The class officers of the two classes will choose six students from their respective groups, three men and three women, to be approved by Alf Roark, student body president, the council and the faculty discipline committee.

The official statement received from the administration by Dr. Edwin A. Elliott, faculty sponsor of the student council, reads as follows:

Leap Year Is Not Welcome Era To All Texas Christian Girls

Leap year comes in for its share of discussion—some good and some not so good.

Now the historians in discussing the subject are neutral as historians should be. Here is the story as they tell it: The Egyptian girls were the first to get the lucky break, because the fad of having a "leap-day," as they named it, rose in Egypt. The priests who had charge of the operations measured shadows cast from the pyramids for several successive years, and they discovered that every four years the shadows increased by four and one-half feet. And then at the beginning of another four-year period, the shadows were reduced to normal size again.

Historians, however, have failed to recount the most interesting details of the story—the modes and practices of the leap year wooings. But if Cleopatra is to be taken as an example of Egyptian technique, our imaginations can fill in the omitted details.

Gives Feeling of Security. Some genial people regard leap year as a true life saver and as a gallant thing. At least it gives certain people a feeling of security. Bashful swains and hard-to-please maidens have the knowledge that they are leading a solitary life from a matter of choice.

T. C. U. girls are of varied opinions concerning the merits of leap year. After having interviewed a representative number of campus girls, we realized that leap year was regarded in a rather unenthusiastic manner. The general verdict was that leap year does no real good. It just gives people something to talk about, according to a good many of the T. C. U. girls.

Ideas Expressed. A very few interesting ideas about leap year and its good deeds were expressed. Miss Ernestine Scott says she has seen a good many leap years; and if this one is going to be like all the rest, they might as well do away with leap year as far as she is concerned. She has made at least five attempts to make it a success and has not even had one success. Miss Louise Cauker is indignant at leap year! "Leap year? Shucks, I wouldn't—well, it's a lot of boloney." Miss Mildred Kelly says she forgot that leap year lasted a whole year and she thought that Monday was her last chance. It was a great relief, she says, to find she has a year instead of a day. She intends to hang on and maybe she will meet with success sometime. Miss Anita Wilson hopes the rest of the year will be more interesting than the beginning. She emphatically says, "If the rest of the year is as unsuccessful as the beginning, it will be a decided flop!" Each person to her own opinion!

Six Freshmen to Get Basketball Numerals

Coach Dutch Meyer and his 1932 Polliwogs brought their season to a close by defeating the Arlington Heights Christian Church and Blackstone Men's Shop by close scores. The Wogs finished in the cellar of the City League race but lost to only two other teams outside the league chase.

Coach Meyer announced Tuesday that only six men will receive their basketball numerals. Those men are Woodson Armes, Judy Trulson, Dan Harston, Wesley Green, Olin Gaskin and Hulin Martin.

Lambert Selects All-Conference Basketball Team

Three Frogs, One Hog and Strickland Are First Choice.

SCHMIDT NAMED COACH

Alford, Hess, Sexton, Beard and Wells Dropped to Second Mythical Quint.

By STANDARD LAMBERT Another torrid basketball season has closed and as usual it has produced such a galaxy of talent that picking the deserving all-conference quintet is a difficult one.

Having seen every team in the conference in action except Arkansas and basing our judgment of the Razorbacks after consultation with every man on the Horned Frog squad, we are picking the following teams:

First team—Sumner (Capt.) (T. C. U.) and Strickland (Baylor), forwards; Dietzel, (T. C. U.) center, and Brannon (T. C. U.) and Murphy (Ark.) guards. Coach Frances Schmidt, (T.C.U.) Second team—Alford (Baylor) and Hess (Rice) forwards; Sexton (Ark.) center and Beard (A. & M.) and Wells (Baylor) guards. Coach "Chuck" Bassett (Ark.) Dietzel at Center.

We need no defense for the selection of Dietzel at center. He is a human scoring machine in himself. He is the key man of the champion Frogs' offense, and is a valuable cog in the Frog defense. As a center he has had no peer in Southwest conference history.

It is generally considered an honor to the player to name him on your mythical selection, but we consider it an honor to us to be able to name him. Sexton gets the call on the second team because, with the exception of Strickland, he is the second best center.

The forward positions also need little discussion. Captain Sumner is still the most polished floor man in the conference in spite of the fact that he played the entire season one-handed. He ranks third in scoring and is a valuable defensive asset. The only legitimate place to give to the great Bruin, Raymond Strickland, is forward. Here he would be a great player. His scoring and all-around ability, when paired with Sumner and Dietzel, would form a dazzling offensive trio.

Alford, the Baylor midget, and Hess, the diminutive Owl, are also deserving of honor so they are shifted to second team.

Guards Hard to Select. The guard positions have caused the most controversy and debate in our minds. There is no doubt that Buster Brannon is the best guard that we saw in action, but we did not make the Arkansas trip. Thus, one place was given to Brannon, and because of the fact that we needed a good second-team center, Murphy of the Hogs was given the position over Sexton of the same team. There is little to choose between them.

It is a shame to have to leave a man like Charlie Beard of the Aggies off the first team, but since his team did not get started until after mid-term and finished in second division, Beard has to suffer the result of properties over which he had no control.

Schmidt Is Best Coach. The question of the outstanding coach in the loop was easier to solve than the center position Coach Francis A. Schmidt is the all-time all-Southwestern basketball coach and we named "Chuck" Bassett of the Razorbacks as his running mate. We based this partly on the fact that the Hogs lost the first game of the Baylor, T. C. U. and A. & M. games but after looking things over won the second tilt.

Miss Jo Beth Arledge spent the week-end in Dallas.

Misses Velma Smith and Lucy Mae Merritt attended the concert given by Paderewski in Dallas Tuesday night.

country hall team this year... hope Prexy Roark makes a letter... just think how much fun that would be initiating him into the "T" Association... Prexy hopes that he will too... Elton Miller has that good ole Baylor spirit... I hope he has some all-conference baseballers that he wants to crow about... also hope that T. C. U. has some good enough to give me grounds for a good argument... sport writers are the skum of the earth... isn't this a helluva way to fill up a column?

"I Faw Down and Go Boom" Song Of T.C.U. Skaters

By "SHORTY" HATHEWAY. "We have rollers on our feet—" "But bruises on our tra-la-la—" to the tune of "I Faw Down and Go Boom," would be a fitting theme song for the W. A. A. skating club.

One might say of a T. C. U. co-ed, "She's such a bad skater," but it will never be said, "She's a pretty good skater."

Why the girls wear skates on their feet is certainly a puzzle when they all do their skating on another part of the body.

Monday the W. A. A. group started from the University and continued going down University Drive, but before reaching the bottom of the hill they were badly in need of four wheel brakes. Now they are sorely in need of them. Heaps of bruised and partly dismembered arms and legs were piled up on the sidewalk. The young ladies are not quite sure whether they assorted each part of the anatomy to its right owner or not.

After the club tried skating up hill and found no better success, they decided to stick to their old method of walking home—when they do, if ever.

Frogs Win From Ponies 52 to 19

Dietzel Breaks His Own Record—Doc Sumner Makes 19 Points.

By BEN BOSWELL. Led by the exceptional playing of Capt. Doc Sumner, who was closely rivaled by Dietzel, the Horned Frogs gave the Mustangs a sound 52-to-19 trouncing last Saturday night in the Frog Fieldhouse.

Although Dietzel broke his own conference scoring record in the Pony contest, he did not play his usual brilliant game. The Ponies knew that he was out to break his record and were trying desperately to keep him from doing so. They succeeded in bottling the big fellow up until the closing minutes of the game when he came through with 10 points.

It was the playing of Capt. Sumner that gave the Frogs their big point advantage in the first three quarters of the game. The flashy forward looped the hoop from all angles and made all but two of his gift shots count. He counted for 19 points, being outscored by Dietzel, one point for high point honors for the night.

Brannon played his usual consistent style of game. It is his dependability that makes him such a valuable man for the Frogs. Walker and Green did their best work in getting the ball to their mates.

Box score table with columns: T. C. U., FG, FT, FTM, PF, TP. Rows include Sumner, Kinzy, Wallace, Walker, McCulloch, Dietzel, Green, Vaught, Brannon, Meyers, and Totals.

Both Magoffin and Sprinkle are sophomore students in the University.

The play opens with the unpacking of the trophies of Reginald Jay, the African explorer. It has been requested that students who possess such skins or animals please advise a member of the property committee.

Besides Musgrove and Miss Lewis, the committee consists of Dean Harrison, Miss Jessie Hawkins, Miss Sheila Grace Whitener, Miss Mary Davis and Miss Mary Jean Knight.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

By CHARLIE CASPER. As the intramural basketball season comes to an end, the seniors of both leagues find themselves at the head of the percentage column.

The A League finished as follows:

The B League finished as follows:

In the A League B. W. Spearman set the pace for the men in the scoring race with 49 points to finish in first place. Harris Brewster, stellar junior forward, was only two points behind. Jack Grayes occupied third place, having a total of 41 points.

In the B League the scoring tale was different with more points, and an all-senior scoring affair. Alf Roark, frisky senior forward, hit the bucket for a total of 95 points to win the scorers' race and to barely nose out Johnnie McDiarmid by one field goal behind. Abe Martin from guard position scored 75 points to win third place.

McDiarmid, erstwhile ex-Frog tennis captain, made a name for himself in the handball world last week by defeating Marion Hicks to win the title of "all-intramural handball singles champion." His play was far below par in the first two games of the match, but he came back with a burst of speed that swept Hicks off his feet to win the next three straight games, winning the match and the title. John's first year of handball competition since 1929.

The old dope bucket took a great spill last week when it was upset with the defeat of Grassy Hinton and Frank Wynne by McDiarmid and Clyde Yarbrough for the handball doubles championship. Hinton and Wynne were doped to sweep all competition aside and carry away the title. Wynne played through the contest with two broken ribs. The winners will be presented silver medals as their reward.

Seniors of the B League won over the seniors of the A League 19 to 16 yesterday afternoon to be crowned champions of the Intramural Basketball League. Alf Roark was high point man for the B team making 13 points.

Track Meet Will Be Large in South—One Thousand Entrants Expected.

The T. C. U. Horned Frog Band will start the Thirty-Sixth Annual Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show tonight with a concert on the platform in front of the Coliseum. The concert will start at 6:45 o'clock and will last until 7:45 o'clock when the world's championship rodeo contest start on the inside of the Coliseum. #### Tomorrow Students' Day.

Saturday, March 5, has been designated as university and college students' day. Students from many schools over the state are expected to be present. Special consideration of attention will be given them.

T. C. U. will occupy the same booth in the main exhibit hall that it had last year. The school is anxious to have all ex-students and alumni go by to register at the booth.

Titles at Stake Friday.

Friday night's performance will be the longest ever presented at the Show. All of the major rodeo championship titles are at stake. The performance will include nine rodeo events, three horse show events, and four special acts.

The Fat Stock Show track meet will be held on the old Clark field on Saturday, March 12, beginning at 10 a. m. Since this is the only big meet south of the Mason-Dixon line, due to the fact that the S. M. U. Rice and Texas relays have been suspended, the entrance to mark, which was over a thousand last year, is expected to be broken.
