Members of All Classes to Help In Building Fire

Baxter Urges Frosh and Upperclassmen to Co-operate.

Obtains Two Trucks

Yell Leaders Head Groups in Gathering Combustible Material.

Upperclassmen will have to co-operate with the freshmen in building the bonfire this year, Ben Baxter, head yell leader, told the University men at a meeting held Wednesday morning.

The small number of freshmen makes it necessary for members of other classes to aid in the gathering of material, according to Baxter.

A student body vote taken last week resulted in favor of having the bonfire this year. The question arose over the matter of gathering in the wood and building a bonfire or leaving it for the poor people to use this winter. As a result of the students' decision, work has been started on the constructing of the fire. Two trucks have been obtained for the gathering of material and the men are working in shifts to hasten the work.

Baxter placed Kuyrk Palmer, assistant yell leader, in charge of the boys working on the bonfire.

Play Production Is Scheduled Nov. 18

Succession of Laughs Expected by Dramatic Players in "The Nut Farm."

In the opinion of Miss Katherine Moore, the first major production of the Dramatic Club, "The Nut Farm," to be presented Nov. 18 in the University Auditorium, is likely to be one of the most highly enjoyed plays ever presented by the club.

"The Nut Farm" is a rollicksome three-act comedy written by Brownell, Miss Moore related, "The play centers around the Barton family, consisting of Willie, who yearns to be a movie director; his married sister, Helen, who is ambitious to become a movie star; his mother, whose patience is sorely tried by her two children, and Helen's husband, who has $30,000 with which to buy a 'nut farm'."

"Poor hubby! By the time a slick film producer, an effeminate scenario writer, a bored leading man, his wife, and brother-in-law get through with the $30,000, all he has left is a memory," Miss Moore continued.

In the three acts of its telling, the play reveals a clever depiction of characters, and a succession of hearty laughs. Miss Moore thinks that nothing more convulsing than the second act, including the reading and acting of parts of a movie scenario, has perhaps been seen on the contemporary stage.

The play enjoyed a long run in New York and Chicago and has just recently been released for amateur production.

B.C.B. to Present U.R.F. Play Sunday

A one-act play, "Bread," by Fred Eastman, will be presented by members of the Brite College of the Bible Association Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the University Auditorium at services of the University Religious Fellowship.

Faculty Receives Another Reduction

A new reduction of 25 per cent in faculty salaries was announced this week by the administrative committee and the board of trustees. This cut comes as the third of a series amounting to approximately 43 per cent reduction from the salaries paid in 1930.

A voluntary cut of 10 per cent was voted by the faculty last fall at the beginning of school. A further reduction of 15 per cent was announced last spring at commencement time, applicable on the salaries for this fall. The September checks have been paid on that basis. The new cut of 25 per cent begins with the October salaries.

The financial report issued by the administrative and executive committees this week announced that T. C. U. operated with a $67,953.05 deficit last year.

Portraits Given to Hall by Mrs. Jarvis

Addison Clark and Old Faculty Member Pictures Also Are Exhibited.

On the same floor hang pictures of Addison and Randolph Clark, early founders of T. C. U., and group pictures of old students and faculty members of old Add-Ran College at Thorp Springs, Waco, and later at Fort Worth.

These pictures were only recently brought to light and hung in Jarvis. Miss Nell Andrews, librarian before the recent library was completed, preserved the picture of Addison Clark, and Mrs. Mothershead discovered along with the old group pictures a later picture of Major Jarvis in a closet in the Mary Coats Library. Miss Andrews is also responsible for the preserving of valuable records relating to T. C. U. and its history. Miss Andrews is now living in Austin.

Come Back to the Alma Mater

You owe it to yourself, old man. You've worked pretty hard all fall. Let up awhile; take that day off the boss has promised and drive in to Fort Worth. Bring the wife and kids. You can't imagine what a kick you'll get from showing them your name on the class gift.

What's a depression? We're all broke. It doesn't really matter. Everybody else is coming, all your old friends from everywhere. The gang will sing the T. C. U. fight song and the Alma Mater. You wouldn't want them to sing it without you. Come on, man, what are you waiting for?

Old varsity has showed up pretty well so far. They want another championship. There'll be a game on Nov. 11—Texas vs. T. C. U. Doesn't that bring back old memories? We beat them in 1929! They beat us in 1930 and 1931. It's our time again. The old gang will be in the stands yelling again, yelling for the Frogs. They can't yell without you.

It's all in your honor. We've even declared a holiday. The campus is wide open. The dorms are your dorms. Forget those intervening years, man. Come on back!

Let Well Enough Alone

This fall a supervisor was appointed over the chapel monitors. Since this appointment a great amount of discussion has been going on among the teachers and students concerning the policy being carried out by this newly appointed officer.

It is futile to undertake something with which one can not cope. During a recent freshman-sophomore chapel the supervisor handed the monitors slips of paper on which was written something on this order: Stop the talking and studying regardless. The monitors followed out instructions and passed the slips around. Instead of prohibiting talking, these slips only brought on more conversation. Each slip was the occasion for a general discussion of the matter by those in the group. In a group of 30, the piece of paper was the origin for 60 conversations.

As for studying—the student will listen as long as there is something interesting or new and beneficial for him to hear. If the chapel speeches are dry, he will not hear what is said although his eyes are directed at the speaker. If he is studying, he will at least get some good out of the hour. One boy was seen recently to be reading his Bible during chapel. No harm can come of that.

It is out of the question to think that a group of freshman, or even sophomore, boys and girls are going to settle down to college life as the juniors and seniors have. They have not become well enough assimilated in this life on the campus to be expected to sit for an hour and listen to something which does not hold the slightest interest for them.

By trying to stop the studying, talking, sleeping, etc., the trouble is only being aggravated. Let well enough alone!

Want to Study? Here's When

A library, according to the student conception, is described by that distinguished American man of words, Noah Webster, as an apartment, series of apartments, or a building devoted to a collection of books kept for study and reading and not for merchandise.

T. C. U. has all the tools for a library—building and books for reading and study—Aye, to study, "there's the rub." It verges upon the humanly impossible to study in the library at times. It is psychologically impossible for the would-be student to study from 3 to 4:30 and 7 to 8:30 o'clock. The power of suggestion is too strong. The reader may be able to resist the temptation to look at the first two or three entrants, but sooner or later he decides that he is missing something more valuable than book learning and glances up to see who is coming in. One peep and all is lost. He joins the rest of the judges of beauty, both masculine and feminine, and students of personnel psychology. Possible he even begins to gamble on whether the next arrival will be a girl or a boy.

There are periods of the day when study is possible, but like all good things, there must be a compensation. The first period begins immediately after lunch and lasts until 2:30, but it has a physiological handicap. The student's system is busy digesting food, which is not conducive to heavy brain activity. Then, too, to study at that time of the day one must sacrifice the afternoon nap. The second opportunity, from 5 to 7 o'clock, is the golden hour of study. The library will be practically empty and digestive functions will have ceased—compensation—yes, the evening meal will be missed or postponed. The last chance to study is from 9 to 10, but such a time is not favorable for maximum efficiency because the student is tired both mentally and physically.

The ambitious ones and non-geniuses may make their choice from the above table. Of course, if too many take the advice, the wise student will know to reverse the schedule.

You can lead a mule to water, but you can't make him drink; you can send a fool to college, but you can't make him think.

If speech is silver and silence is golden, a lot of people seem to have gone off the gold standard long ago.

What beautiful gold fish ponds our sidewalks would make in rainy weather!

Did the song writer have T. C. U. in mind when he wrote "Why Dance?"

Why not use some of our auditorium stage scenery in the bonfire conflagration this year?

OPEN FORUM

A STUDENT'S CHOICE?

It seems to me that the recent action by the student council was not in the best interests of the student body as a whole. This action was in regard to the student body special to the T. C. U.-Rice football game. The facts regarding the case are briefly this: The council wanted to use a certain railroad. When certain men from the city heard that this railroad was to be used, they immediately brought pressure to bear upon the Administration to use another road—one that left from the T. & P. depot. The council wanted to be as democratic as possible and chose an alternate railroad—one which left from the Santa Fe depot and one which had its main offices in Fort Worth. This railroad was chosen by the council mainly for the one reason that it wanted to show its democratic spirit. Yet, the choosing of this railroad was not in the best interests of the students.

The railroad that was first chosen by the council offered better service and better time schedules for the trip. This railroad has one of the best equipped systems in the South and offers the students a choice of returning on any of its regular trains or any schedule that pleases the student on the trip to Houston. This railroad offers a chance to go on to Galveston for one day after the game with no additional charge. It also offers a special observation car together with any type cars on the special train.

The main objection to the railroad chosen by the student council is that if the student misses either of the two special trains on the railroad chosen, the student can not ride any other train on this line because the line is only using the tracks of another of the railroads and does not maintain a regular schedule to Houston on its own tracks. It is not so much the fact that the council is trying to act democratic, because if it was acting democratic it would have stuck to its first choice. The reason for this protest is that the council has not acted in the best interests of the student body.—V.O.L.

LET'S DO SOMETHING.

What was the matter with T. C. U.'s pep squad last Saturday at the Baylor game? There was more pep in the stands than I have seen in all of the time that I have been at T. C. U. and—somehow or another the pep squad wouldn't give the students a chance to uncork it. When they did let go it was always with the same old "Yes, Frogs" or "Frogs Fight." Are those the only yells on the list? If that is the case, shouldn't we have a few that are not so much-eaten and something that at least is a little different? We have a lot of the old pep worked up in the student body and so far have not had an adequate outlet for that pep.

It is not my purpose to criticize or to razz anyone. Goodness knows that we all get too much of that at the least, but it does seem to me that we could get some new medium of outlet in the form of a few new yells. We have 11 of the finest lads in the world down there on the football gridiron and we have the makings of a wonderful twelfth man in the stands if we would only make it a peppy one. We have the team down there on the field, we have the coach that can make our team a championship team, we have the school spirit till it hurts. So why can't we have a way of showing those Horned Frogs and the coach that we do love them and are behind them to the limit?

Here is a suggestion that can be taken for what it is worth to anyone interested: Other schools have been known to put out a yell book that had a lot of yells in it that were numbered and the students learned those yells by numbers. The pep squad only had to call for the number of the yell and it was known by every member of the student body in the stands. There it is. Use it if it is of any value to you.

I noticed in the paper recently that the scribes were saying that the T. C. U. football team had entirely too many plays but the pep squad has never been accused of having too many yells.—WILBUR M. MIX. FOR ROOSEVELT.

The country is at one of the most important crises in its history. How do I know? I should for that seems to be the politicians theme song. And again that poor question—Farm Relief—is being discussed.

Farm Relief brings me to the interview with ex-Senator Davis of Arizona, who was the leading man in the Arizona Senate for 15 years. He gave me an entertaining new slant on the political situation.

Davis says, "People will listen to Hoover and they'll think that he presents an excellent case"—but Hoover's mind is the cold, calculating mind of an engineer. "Then they'll listen to Roosevelt and they'll comment on how well he states his views. Alone, they'll begin to analyze all they've heard and read. Looking the staid, dignified mrs. helen fouts cahoon has gone ultra-modern.

"loose lyrics" are leading mrs. cahoon astray

"I find that to keep up with the times," said the head of the t. c. u. voice department, "I must be ultra modern. in my late forties (she said "late forties") I am deserting my three b's, bach, beethoven, and brahms, and going in for the ultra modern writers." as proof of this fact mrs. cahoon exhibited a book of new songs which she had recently acquired. across the cover in futuristic design is the legend, "loose lyrics for lovely ladies" within the covers are songs about such well known "lovely ladies" as marie antoinette, mona lisa and helen of troy.

a feature of this book is that throughout it pages no capital letter has been used.

the following is taken from "mona lisa":

"lisa was a charming girl, 'tis certainly a cinch she was popular with other gents beside the great da vinci. now in the louvre she smiles and smiles while tourists hold their breath. someday she'll surely lose her poise, and laugh herself to death."

according to apothecary lyric the reason there are so many smiths in the telephone directory is that pocahontas was uninformed about matters of birth control.

mrs. cahoon plans to sing these lyrics to faculty members only, inasmuch as they contain subtleties that only faculty members will catch.

"no, i have never become so modern as to croon "the saint louis blues", she said as she prepared for her next student, "but who knows but that sometime i shall do so."

Miss Major Has Book of Ballads

Texas Folk-Lore Tales Are Gathered by Professor.

"British Ballads in Texas" is the subject of an article which appeared recently in "Publications of the Texas Folk-Lore Society," 1932 edition, written by Miss Mabel Major, associate professor of the English department.

Miss Major read her article on British ballads before the eighteenth annual session of the Texas Folk-Lore Society last April in Austin. She is vice-president of this society.

During the two or three years that Miss Major has been interested in Texas versions of British story-songs, she has collected some twenty separate ballads with several versions of a number.

The tune is "the life of the ballad," so much so, that no ballad can survive if it ceases to be sung. So Miss Major collects music as well as words.

So far she has found in Texas no ballads of historical or legendary heroes. The type of British ballad most prevalent in the United States, certainly in Texas, is the love ballad, usually tragic.

"The Cambric Shirt," which is not in any other collection that Miss Major has found, is a variant of "The Elfin Knight" (Child 2), one of the oldest ballads in the English language. It belongs to the "problem propounded" group of "ballads of superstition."

Many people in Texas are familiar with "Bonny Barbara Allan," of which Miss Major has two excellent versions and one astonishing Negro version. Dr. Newton Gaines of the

Mrs. Helen Fouts Cahoon, teacher of voice, and Dr. Merrill D. Clubb of the English department will be featured on the Woman's Hour at 11:30 o'clock this morning over radio station KFJZ. The Woman's Hour is a regular radio feature sponsored by the Woman's Hour of Fort Worth.

Dr. Clubb will give a lecture and Mrs. Cahoon will sing a group of songs, with Miss Adeline Boyd accompanying her at the piano.

physica department sings "Barbra Allen." He learned it from his mother-in-law who came to Texas from Mississippi.

"Ballads date back as far as the thirteenth century in England. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries they were brought to America by the people who came over and settled. British ballads, as would be expected, came to Texas mostly from Virginia by the way of Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Arkansas. A few have come from the North and a few directly from England and Scotland," says Miss Major.

From her collection, ten of these Texas versions are of ballads recorded by Child or Percy. Four are what folk-lore calls "traditional vulgar ballads." They are of later origin and were printed on broadsides. Four ballads she has not been able to trace. Three of these are Scotch and perhaps early Nineteenth Century.

Miss Major has enjoyed her work in connection with this subject. In the future she hopes to enlarge her collection.

Folk-lore collecting is a cooperative process. Miss Major pleads with all of those who know old songs which have not been learned from books to send them to her. They may be British ballads in Texas.

"Let's say you're painting clouds. You've got your primary colors here on the palette. But you haven't the clouds until you blend certain colors into the special tone you want.

"This is very much what happens in making a good cigarette. And I gather that what Chesterfield means by Cross-Blending is what an artist does with colors. Their Domestic and Turkish tobaccos — many varieties of each — are the primary colors.

They blend and cross-blend these tobaccos until they get the special tone they want — in other words, the Chesterfield flavor.

"And just as each color you use acts on the others to change and enrich them, so each Chesterfield tobacco partakes of the fine qualities of every other.

Texas Christian Coaches Have Come From Scattered Colleges

In 1929 Coach Francis A. Schmidt became head mentor of the Horned Frogs. In 1929 the Frogs won the Southwest Conference Championship, in 1930 they placed third in the conference and in 1931 they ranked second.

Behind the victories of recent Horned Frog teams are traditions of teams and coaches of years past. The teams of today have been made possible by a long succession of coaches who have fought to keep alive and build up athletics in T. C. U. Who were those men?

Football was introduced in T. C. U. in 1896, when the school was known as Add-Ran College and was located at Waco. The game was not well thought of by the college officials or the general public. The team of 1896 played without professional coaching and with whatever teams they could schedule a game.

In 1897, Addison Clark, Jr., returned from the University of Michigan to interest himself in the football team. He began to manage it, also acting as coach. The 1897 team won the Texas State Championship, winning from A. & M. 30-6 and losing to Texas 10-16.

There are no accurate accounts to show who handled the team from 1897 to 1904. In 1904 C. E. Cronk was coach. His team was runner-up for the state championship. During the years of 1906 and 1907 E. J. Hyde was coach. The 1906 team lost five and won two games.

L. C. Wright was selected to captain the 1908 team. J. N. Langley came to T. C. U. from the University of Michigan to coach the team. The Frogs ended the season in second place, having scored 155 points and having been scored against for 63 points.

In 1909 the school was disrupted by the fire at Waco. In 1911 Henry W. Lever, a graduate of Ohio State, took the football team and experienced a bad season.

Willis T. Stewart became coach in 1912. He had played at Vanderbilt in '08, '09, '10. His team won eight games, losing one to the University of Texas by a 10-to-30 score, and scored 239 points against the opponents 53.

T. C. U. was suspended from T. I. A. A. in 1913, the athletic association of which she was a member at that time. Coach Frederick Cahoon, head of the violin department assumed the coaching duties of the team and scheduled six games.

In 1914 T. C. U. was received back into T. I. A. A. with S. A. Boles as coach. He came to T. C. U. from Poly University where he was coaching the year before. He was a graduate of Vanderbilt and Wesleyan College, Ky.

The 1915 team was coached by E. Y. Freeland, another Vanderbilt graduate, who had made 13 athletic letters. The team finished with a percentage of 500 in the T. I. A. A. The slogan they adopted for the ensuing year was "Beat Baylor in 1916."

M. E. Daniels coached the team in 1916 and 1917. Both years were fairly profitable. T. C. U. beat Baylor 34-0 in the 1917 Turkey Day game and lost to only Rice in the T. I. A. A. Coach Daniels left for the army in 1917.

In 1918 Frederick Cahoon again assumed the coaching duties in the school. He continued to coach until 1920 when Coach W. L. Driver came from Texas A. & M. to become head coach and win a T. I. A. A. championship for T. C. U. He brought with him as assistant coach John McKnight, an All-Southwest Conference guard from A. & M. Driver left T. C. U. in 1921.

In 1922, the 50th anniversary year of T. C. U., the Frogs entered the Southwestern Conference under the tutelage of John McKnight who had become head coach. Pete Wright became athletic director in this year. The team made a bad showing.

Madison Bell came to T. C. U. in 1923. He coached the Frogs until 1928 when he resigned to go to Texas A. & M. in the capacity of head coach. He came to T. C. U. with coaching experience at Haskell Indian Institute and the University of Wisconsin. He was himself a graduate of Centre College, Ky.

Dutch Meyer became freshman coach. S. M. U. won the conference and T. C. U. placed third.

Bill James came to T. C. U. as line coach in 1924 and left in 1925 to go to the University of Texas in the same capacity. He was succeeded by Edwin Kubale, another Centre graduate, in 1925. Raymond "Bear" Wolfe was added to the staff in 1928. Kubale left with Matty Bell in 1928. Then came Francis Schmidt.

Alumni in 1913 Said Texas Christian Was Not University

Did you know that in 1913 there was a movement among the alumni to change the name of Texas Christian University? Did you know that students grumbled about "college hash" in those days just as they do now? Did you know that Bryant Collins, University Junior, at the age of six months was capable of competing with almost any glee club in the country?

If you don't know these interesting facts, you should hunt up some T. C. U. graduate who took an alumni publication, "The T. C. U. Grad", which was published monthly from October, 1913, to November, 1914. This magazine, although small, contained many interesting facts concerning happenings and students at T. C. U. The magazine was edited by Dan Rogers, A.B. of 1909, from October, 1913, to October, 1914, when Douglas Tomlinson became its editor.

Among the interesting discussions in the magazine were those advocating the changing of the name of Texas Christian University to Add-Ran College or to Clark College. In an article by Dr. Ellsworth Farris, a graduate in '94 and now professor of philosophy at the University of Chicago, the change to Add-Ran College or to Clark College was advocated because "T. C. U. is not and never has been a university in any fair meaning of the word. More than that we are not even a first class college . . . claiming that we are a University in name does not make us one, and one of the most humiliating experiences that a graduate has to undergo is the taking of a lower rank from the North and East who are merely from colleges." Other prominent alumni who were also in favor of changing the name were Bonner Frizzell, 1909, Douglas Tomlinson, 1909, A. C. Easley, '90, who ended his discussion with "in God's name let me plead for a name instead of the meaningless monogram which we now have."

Humor was also prevalent in "The Grad." Several essays were written in which "college hash" was defended as not being as bad as it seemed, because it was positively worse. It was described as being a word used to denote the total output of the mess hall, and being composed of soup, a collection of minute articles of odds and ends suspended in immense quantities of water; syrup, a sweet substance for breakfast purposes compounded of glucose and H.2O., purified biscuits and putrified butter.

A list of all the romances of T. C. U. exes that had culminated in marriages was also given. Among some included are the parents of various T. C. U. students. The marriage of Bryant Collins and Natalie Miller was listed, who now live in T. C. U. a daughter, Natalie Collins, and a son, Bryant Collins, who was described at the age of six months as developing his voice powers in a loud way.

The Skiff was described in 1913 as not only being one of the best edited and readable college papers in the Southwest but one which was receiving favorable comment from many of the large dailies in Texas. At that time it was edited by E. R. Bentley.

Other interesting discussions concerned T. C. U.'s suspension from the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association; the first homecoming ever attempted by the University on June 6-9, 1914, which was one of the biggest events of the year in Fort Worth, and the writing of a chain letter to be circulated among all T. C. U. graduates.

At any rate one can not accuse the T. C. U. graduates of lacking in school loyalty and spirit.

University Roster Shows T. C. U. To Be Veritable "Melting Pot"

The desire for learning, for the betterment of oneself intellectually is a powerful urge. Psychologists would not call it an instinct, for it is not present at birth, but as a conditioned urge, it is a power that has brought students to T. C. U. first from Fort Worth, then Texas, from twelve different states, from one foreign North American nation and from two distant continents.

Five hundred and thirty-nine, over half the students in the University, live in Fort Worth; 266 come from other parts of the state, and the third group, 40 in number, come from other states, countries and continents. The European and Asiatic continents are represented respectively in the University by Miss Gerada Agsman of Berlin, Germany, and Sankin Sano from Tokio, Japan. The accents and intonations of old Mexico are to be found in the speaking of Arturo Campirano Marcias of Monterrez, Leon.

In the parade of the states, Oklahoma and Arkansas rank first, each having six of her native sons—and daughters enrolled in the University. They are: Miss Phyllis Burman, Loveland; Miss Margaret Hamblin, Muskogee; Miss Florence Turfer, Madill; John Kitchen, Okmulgee; Robert Mitchell, Morris, and Dan Salkeld, Norman.

From the land where razorback hogs flourish, six names: Miss Ernestine Scott, Pine Bluff; Miss Marion Tyson, Camden; Manuel Godwin, Hot Springs; Paul Stroud, Jonesboro; Roy Baeus, Newport, and Buster Brannon, Pine Bluff, appear on the roster.

The columbine state, Colorado, falls in line for third place with four students enrolled—Miss Selma Harris, Two Buttes; Elisando Gonzales, Antonito; Roy O'Brien, Denver, and Perry Gresham, Denver.

Five states, Missouri, Kansas, Indiana, New Mexico and Louisiana, tie for fourth place, each having three students in the University. Misses Leta and Dorothy Luyster live at Linneus, Mo. Jewell Wallace is from Carrollton, Mo. Paul Martin, Merle Grove and Ralph Palmer think of home as being respectively at Newton, Mena and Arkansas City in the old sunflower state. James Gaalma and Robert Preston live in far away Indianapolis, Ind. Jack Roe comes from the neighboring city of Muncie. Cleo McGehee, James Parrott and Elbert Walker live respectively at Carlsbad, Orogrande and Clovis, N. M. The report cards of Miss Eva Keeling, Charles E. J. Hanna and Gordon Voigt are sent to parents or guardians in Alexandria, Dubigny and Shreveport, La.

In the miscellaneous group, states which have only one representative, traveling from east to west are: Miss Helen Shelburne of Rocky Mount, Va.; John Waits, Cynthiana, Ky.; Sidney Lightfoot, Chicago, Ill.; William Gonder, Sheridan, Wyo.; Lester Rickman, Billings, Mont., and Harold Johe, Oakland, Cal.

Writes Song for T. C. U.

Mrs. Carpenter, Mother of Alumnus, Is Composer.

Mrs. A. Carpenter of Waco has written a song, "The Frogs Go Marching On," to the tune of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," which she wishes dedicated to "Sheriff" Otha Tiner.

Mrs. Carpenter is the mother of T. W. Carpenter, a graduate of the University this last June and a former member of the T. C. U. football team.

The song is as follows: We have seen the gridiron battle in sun's heat and chilling rain When "to miss a goal by inches" gave our loyal hearts keen pain. But they called another signal as they tried once more to gain. The Frogs go marching on.

Chorus. Fighting, fighting, keep on fighting. Fighting, fighting, keep on fighting. Fighting, fighting, keep on fighting. The Frogs go marching on.

We have seen them win the victory, also when they met defeat. Once again they're up and fighting when another foe they meet. Never giving up the struggle as once more they strive to beat. The Frogs go marching on.

Miss Smith Talks To Faculty Group

Dr. Rebecca Smith, chairman of the English department, spoke Tuesday night at the November meeting of the faculty in Jarvis Hall.

Her subject was "The Civil War in American Fiction, 1861-1899," which was the topic of her Ph.D. dissertation at the University of Chicago.

The talk was a summary of the introduction of the dissertation, showing the scope and trends of the Civil War in American fiction.

The foods class prepared sandwiches and chocolate which were served by Ann Mattox, Virginia Bradford and Mary Helen Sims, majors in home economics.

Horned Frogs to Face Longhorns in Homecoming Day Grid Classic

T. C. U. and Texas To Meet Nov. 11 For Crucial Tilt

Outstanding Game of Season Will Be Featured.

Purple Is Unbeaten

Boys Will Be Playing for "Old Bear," Who Made Them What They Are.

By BEN BOSWELL

Friday, Nov. 11, has been set aside as official Homecoming Day at Texas Christian University. The feature of the homecoming will be the annual gridiron battle between the purple Horned Frogs of Fort Worth and the orange-clad warriors of Texas University. The game will be played in the new Frog Stadium and will start at 2:30 o'clock Friday.

No critic is honestly brave enough to pick a winner for that day. Some Longhorn followers have predicted a one-sided Texas victory. Horned Frog fans have predicted the same kind of victory for T. C. U. Some have predicted a tie. The really wise ones have not commented beyond the fact that it will be the outstanding game of the 1932 Southwestern Conference season. The advance sale of tickets shows that the people of the Southwest realize the quality of football that will be played on that day.

Frogs Must Stop Stars to Win. The points that will determine the victory in the championship game will be this: Can the giant Christian line stop the giant Ernie Koy? Can they bottle up Bohn Hilliard? Can they break the famous Texas interference, led by the brilliant Harrison Stafford and his mate, Hank Clewis, who by the way is the unsung hero of the Longhorn backfield? If the stubborn Frog forward wall can accomplish these feats, then victory for them should be easy.

And now these: Can the slightly smaller Steer line stop the powerful running plays that feature the Horned Frog attack? Will the Longhorns stop Blannard Spearman and Hubert Dennis and Red Oliver? Texas will have to break up a pass now and then to stop the Frogs.

The foregoing questions should furnish much material for hot-stove league debates before next Friday, but no one will be sure of the outcome until the game has ended. Then will come the storm of "I told you so's."

Schmidtmen Preparing Plays. The Horned Frogs have already started preparing plays for the Longhorns. They are not worrying too much about the game in Abilene tonight, though they know that the Simmons University Cowboys will give them a hard fight. Their primary purpose in life at present is to get ready, to the last degree, for the Homecoming game. Unless injuries show up in the Abilene game, the entire Christian outfit will be in good shape for the tilt with the Steers.

The Texas game will be an important one for the Purple and White for more than one reason. Primarily, the Frogs are out to win a championship. Then, bear in mind, it will be the last home appearance for the entire starting line-up for T. C. U. These big boys have been shooting at a conference flag since they were unpolished freshmen. The Longhorns kicked them over in 1930 and again in 1931. It was the loss of these two games that separated the Christians from a championship both years. The Steers will have to play a brand of football thus far not exhibited by them to wind from the Schmidtmen.

Past Records Mean Nothing. The season's record of the two teams give the Frogs a slight edge, though this will mean nothing Nov. 11. The Austin boys dropped a game to Centenary, while the Purple has not lost a single start. They were held to a 3-to-3 tie by a powerful Louisiana State team in September. It is sure that the 65-to-0 victory scored by Texas over Missouri was impressive to the public. The public does not know how weak the Tigers really are.

The man most interested in the Horned Frog line will not be in the stands. He will be on the sidelines with pencil and paper jotting down the things he sees. This fellow will be Line-Coach Raymond "Bear" Wolf. He calls those big bullies his boys, and they are his boys. He has been more instrumental than any other individual in making his boys what they are. If the Longhorns win the game through Bear's line, it will be a broken-hearted man that meets them in the dressing room after the game.

BEN'S BARQUE

By BEN BOSWELL

"The biggest cinch I ever played against." That is what Lon Evans has to say about Baylor University's would-be slugging artist, Red Clemm. The same opinion is shared by myself and others—who played against him. Let's get this straight. The general opinion is that Clemm gave me my split lip via the slugging route. Red denies this. He thinks he stepped on me. Now let me tell my story. I received the injury when I rushed the passer and fell at the passer's feet. As I fell, my face hit his (the passer's) foot. Clemm was somewhere else when this happened.

I will admit that I was slugged by Clemm a time or two before, but no damage was done to me.

Red, I can't see the advantage to be gained from that type of play. Obviously, it leaves you open to be carried clear out of the play by the offense. I would gamble my last dime on the belief that you are not taught that brand of football by the Baylor coaching staff. There is a difference between the efficient use of the hands on defense, and slugging. The only time you ever used your hands on the defense was when you tried to slug the opposing man. Tell your coach just how many times you ended up on your back, clear out of the play. I remember seeing you break up and stop one play back of the line of scrimmage. That was when your team was penalized 15 yards for your slugging. The play I have in mind was the next one following the penalty. You looked good on that play.

As long as you try to slug your opponent instead of using your hands correctly and efficiently, the more and the easier you will be to take out.

Jewell Wallace proved Saturday that he is a good football player. "Wallace is the best blocker I have ever played against." That is what Red Wells of Baylor had to say about him. Jewell justly deserves the honor. He is fast and shifty and big enough. His greatest asset is his sportsmanship and his genuine love of the game. If every Horned Frog wanted to win the conference championship as badly as does Jewell, there would be nothing to worry about. He will and should see more service from now on.

It was my rare privilege to meet Elton Miller, half-brother to our Standard Lambert, and step-son of Jinx Tucker. Miller is a swell fellow and is much better looking than Lambert.

Hubert Dennis cannot be praised too highly for the work that he has done in the dash that the Frogs have made for a championship. Football playing comes natural with him.

The big Horned Frog line will get its supreme test when the Longhorns invade Fort Worth on Nov. 11. My belief is that it will show critics that there could be no Hilliard without some powerful blockers. Domingue was helpless. Hilliard will be in the same fix if the Frog line does what it is capable of doing.

Tonight's game in Abilene is not going to be nearly so easy to win as some think. Certainly the Schmidtmen are capable of defeating the Cowboys, but this must be remembered: The Cowboys always play their best.

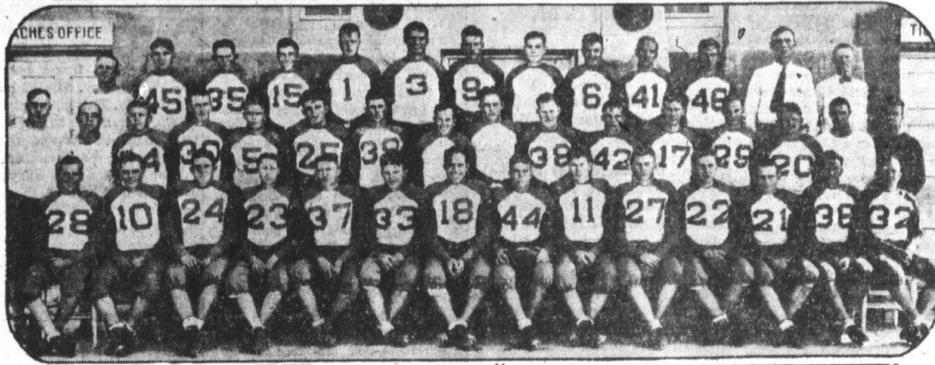

Bear possibly thinks more of his boys than they realize.

The boys in the line will be playing that one game just for "Old Bear." Large Gathering Expected.

Invitation have been mailed to all Texas Christian University ex-students, and the largest gathering in the history of the institution is expected to be present at the reunion. Old friends will shake hands and recall past joys and then go out to watch the most spectacular and most important game that has ever been played in Fort Worth.

Exes, we are expecting all of you!

Math Department to Offer Another Course

Prof. Sherer Will Instruct Class in Astronomy if Number Justifies It.

Prof. Charles R. Sherer of the department of mathematics has announced that the department will offer a course in descriptive astronomy next semester if there is sufficient demand for the subject.

The course, listed as Math 129 in the catalog, will be purely descriptive with probably a little observation work, according to Prof. Sherer.

The course will not be necessarily confined to those students majoring in mathematics. In fact it will not count as credit on a mathematics major.

Those students interested in such an elective have been asked by Prof. Sherer to come into the math office and hand in their names.

games against Texas Christian. They played them on even terms last year and the year before. The 1930 game was a scoreless tie. Last year the Frogs were lucky to beat them 6 to 0 on an intricate pass. Both games were played in the mud.

Here is the conference standing as given by Wilbur Evans, Sports Editor of The Daily Texan:

Team	G	W	L	T	Pct.
TEXAS	2	2	0	0	.1000
T. C. U.	3	0	0	0	.1000
Arkansas	2	1	1	0	.500
Rice	2	1	1	0	.500
A. & M.	2	0	1	1	.250
Baylor	3	0	2	1	.200
S. M. U.	2	0	2	0	.000

He had a lot of nerve to put the Longhorns first on the list, even in their own paper. The Steers have played and won only two conference games while the Frogs have played and won three. Then, too, the latter team has scored more points in conference competition, not counting the set-up tilts played. The Schmidtmen have scored on an average of 10 more points per game than have the Longhorns. His standing shows that we have not won ANY conference games. Obviously, this is a misprint, unless he means that Arkansas, A. & M. and Baylor are set-ups and should not be counted.

Word has been breathed around town that the Frogs MIGHT have a post-season game somewhere. Here's hoping that someone catches the scent and arranges the game. It would be welcomed by the football team.

Frogs Overcome Jinx; Win 27 to 0

Spearman and Dennis Turn in Long Runs for Scores.

Upsetting the jinx that the Bruins have held over them since T. C. U. entered the Southwest Conference in 1924, the Horned Frog gridder defeated the Baylor Bears 27 to 0 Saturday on Frog Field, and continued undefeated on their way toward the conference championship.

The game, the first since 1924 in which the Frogs have won on their home field from the Bears, was played on the first cool game day that has greeted the team this season.

For the whole of the first quarter "that good old Baylor line" held the Schmidtmen in check, and no scoring was done. Although the ball was in Baylor's territory during most of the period, the Frogs made no serious threats. In the second quarter, however, the Phrynosoma Cornuti—the scientific name for Horned Frogs—began to "click" and Blannard Spearman, half, made the first touchdown of the game on a long run from the 50-yard line. Otha Tiner went in and kicked goal for the point after touchdown.

Spearman made his run down the left side of the field, and a short time later Hubert Dennis, playing quarter, took the ball from practically the same spot that Spearman had taken it and ran 50 yards down the right side of the field for a touchdown. He kicked goal for the extra point.

In the third quarter the Frogs were unable to cross the Baylor goal line, but late in the quarter they staged a drive which put them within striking distance of the goal. In the early minutes of the final period, Dennis heaved a long pass to Wallace Meyers which gave the Purple first down eight yards from the goal. The Schmidtmen gained ground a few inches at a time for three downs, and on the fourth down Buster Brannon plunged over the line from the five-yard stripe. The try for point was missed.

No more scoring was done until the closing minutes of the game. Then,

Four Teams Will Stage Tournament

A volley ball tournament will be staged between two of the girls' physical training classes next Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock in the girls' gymnasium.

Four teams will take part, two from each class. Instructors of the two sports classes are Misses Juanita Freeman and Kay Prather.

Captain, Miss Frances Hardesty; Misses Betsy Ann Hooker, Lanetta Lawrence, Loraine O'Gorman, Hulda Shumate, Elizabeth Williams and Eva Workman.

Captain, Miss Helen Estes; Misses Jane Sloan, Mary Roark, Mildred Reese, Lydia Burgess, Millie Pearis, Mary Louise Hall and Martha Pressley.

Captain, Miss Doris Twitty; Misses Dorothy Luyster, Grace Nichols, Drew Evans, Natalie Gorin, Louise Watson and Elizabeth Hardy.

Captains, Miss Louise Cozzens; Misses Anna Ruth Denton, Elna Bess Evans, Ilo Gaalema, Helen Shelburne, Mary Elizabeth Gregory and Ila Nance.

with the ball in T. C. U. territory, Dennis threw a long pass which Jewell Wallace, reserve fullback, took about 20 yards from the Bruins' goal line, and scampered across the line for a touchdown. Dennis kicked goal.

Dennis, Spearman, Brannon and Wallace all acquitted themselves well in the Frog backfield, while Kroner, Reeve and Pearce look good for the Bears. The entire Frog line turned in a good performance.

Class Hears Newsboys

T. C. U. Paper Carriers Relate Collecting Experiences

Students in the Credits and Collections course, offered by Prof. J. W. Urdy morning when a group of Star-Telegram carriers spoke to the class on their experiences in making collections.

Professor Ballard consulted with K. F. Pumphrey, city circulation manager of the Star-Telegram, and asked his permission to engage the carriers to speak before the class. The boys were taken from the T. C. U. district.

Those speaking to the class were: D. T. Jones, district manager, John Terrell, Eugene Coleman, Bill Russell, John Justin and Scott Coleman.

Baptists Default To Frog Harriers

T. C. U. won the cross-country meet Saturday by a default, when the Decatur Baptists failed to arrive.

The next meet on the schedule, according to Coach Clark, is with S. M. U. on Nov. 12 here.

Coach Clark's squad has decreased from twelve men at the beginning of the season to seven at present. Those now on the squad are Bill Anderson, Jinx Powell, Captain Bob Chappell, Henry Spencer, Ralph Brown, Paul Donovan and Wirth McCoy.

All of these men are expected to run against the Ponies.

Frogs Will Play Simmons Cowboys

Christians After Large Tally to Retain Score Lead.

Coach Schmidt and his entire squad are in Abilene, where they will meet the Simmons University Cowboys tonight on Parramore Field. The coach has not announced a definite starting line-up.

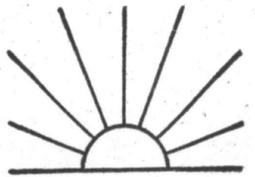

The two teams met on the same field last year at night, and the Christians were lucky to beat the Cowpunchers 6-to-0 on a rain-soaked field. In Breckenridge the year before, the two teams battled four quarters through mud and water to a scoreless tie.

Coach Leslie Cranfill of Simmons will send his best aggregation against the Frogs, though his best back and star of the team, Carl Pee, may be forced to remain on the sideline due to "shin splints." It was this big fellow that broke over the left side of the Frog line last year on a quick-opening play and raced sixty yards before being forced out of bounds. If he is not in the game, the Cowboys will have lost their best bet for a victory.

Coach Schmidt will probably keep his regulars on the bench much of the time, if they score on the enemy early. Straight football will be used, unless the Frogs are forced to open up.

Jewell Wallace will get a chance to show some more of his real football ability as will Dan Harston, Joe Coleman, Ellis Taylor and S. L. Phelps.

Phelps will be playing on his old retreat Friday night. He and Dan Salkeld were the big shots of the Abilene High School team that won the state crown in 1928. Jack Shackelford was also a member of this team. Shackelford has been crowding Howell all the way at right tackle and will see plenty of service.

'Y' Forum Hears Fowler

Negroes Discuss International Conference and Works.

S. H. Fowler, secretary of the colored Y. M. C. A., and four representatives of that organization addressed the student "Y" Forum last Monday night on "Racial Relations and the Work of the Colored Y. M. C. A."

Robert Anderson, negro representative to the International Conference in Toronto last year, discussed the conference and the work done there by the colored race. Three boys from the local colored Y. M. C. A. told of the work accomplished in Fort Worth by the Hi-Y and similar organizations.

Those attending the forum were Dr. W. C. Smith, sponsor, Herman Winkler, Cleo McGee, Paul Martin, Fred Miller, Marion Hicks, Pat Henry, Bud Taylor, Arle Brooks, Billie Dickey, Paul Wassensch, Nat Wells, Norman Welsh and Lynn Brown.

Fowler, secretary of the colored Y. M. C. A., will also speak to members of the B. C. B. at a meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Brite College clubroom, according to an announcement made by Roy O'Brien, president.

I'm Through With Collège; I'm in High School, I Am

A college student degenerating into a mere high school pupil. The situation has its advantages judging from the fact that 10 former T. C. U. students' names appear upon the books of Central High School as post-graduate students.

And, according to some of these former T. C. U. students, the "come-down" does not even prick their pride. To go back to high school after a few years in college and show people a thing or two about who knows what! That is the secret ambition of many a university student.

The erstwhile college savants say that the sensation of being "smart" to fellow students and to teachers, by all means, is quite overcoming. They say that for the first time in their lives they are fully appreciated.

Since the "depression" has been the cause of the formation of a leisure class, designated by Norman Thomas as "the unemployed proletariat," it is very much the thing to do to enroll as a student in a good high school.

Art, typing and shorthand, sciences, music and languages tend to be the most popular "post" courses at Central High School. The following former T. C. U. students are now attending Central: Miss Johnnie Ruth Cassidy, Miss Estelle Engler, Miss Dorothy George, Miss Ruth Harkrider, Jennings Duran, Miss Velma Marlin, Miss Margaret Newsum, Lee Phenix, Miss Marian Rankin and Miss Deborah Von Zeuben.

Seniors Advance With Clean Slate

The seniors defeated the freshmen 26 to 12 Tuesday to retain their undefeated record in the intramural football race. In the other game scheduled the juniors won by a forfeit from the sophomores when the latter team failed to appear.

The contest between the frosh and the fourth-year men was closer than anyone had anticipated. The first-year men offered the most serious competition that the seniors have faced. Although the frosh were never ahead the seniors never held a safe lead until the last few minutes. For the victors Alf Roark, Howard Walsh and Marion Hicks were outstanding. Ronald Wheeler and John Knowles led the freshman attack.

The second round of the schedule opens Tuesday with the frosh taking on the juniors and the seniors meeting the sophomores.

The tennis singles tournament found six men advancing to the quarter finals with the other two to be determined by matches this week. Atys Gardner defeated William Glen Walker 10-8, 4-6, 6-3. Alf Roark beat Alto Tatum, 6-2, 11-9. Billie Dickey downed Warren Logan 1-6, 6-4, 6-4 to become the favorite. Jack H. Sigmon won over Horace McDowell 6-3, 6-2. Glen Clark beat B. F. Johnson 6-1, 8-6, and Paul Snow defeated Robert Gidden 6-2, 6-2.

In the quarter final matches Gardner plays Roark, and Dickey meets Snow, with the other two matches undecided.

Jay Williams, who is employed with an oil well supply company in El Dorado, Ark., will be on the campus for Homecoming next week-end.

William Joekel, principal of the Howe High School, will be one of the Homecoming visitors on the campus. Miss Jouridine Armstrong spent last week-end at her home in Cisco. Miss Nina Whittington spent the week-end visiting in Dallas. Miss Ada Assman visited in Denton Sunday.

Post's 'Etiquette' Useless as Bear Runs on Campus

It is a generally accepted fact that Emily Post covers, in her widely-read book on etiquette, the subject of what to do on any occasion. Unfortunately for one T. C. U. student, she failed to mention the course of action one should take when he sees a 225-pound bear coming his way.

Joe College, the big black bear who accompanied the Baylor fans to T. C. U., becoming tired of being tied to a tree on the campus, decided to stir up a little excitement. As his large chain was tied with a loose knot, he gave a little tug and was free.

A large crowd was gathered around Joe, but it happened that Sanko Sano, Japanese student in T. C. U., was directly in his path. Sano did not know exactly the correct thing to do, but he did the best thing he knew how. He started to run. He "tore out" at full speed across the campus, with the bear right at his heels. Joe followed for a short distance but soon lost interest in the chase. It took too much effort.

The Baylor students who were caring for Joe soon caught the big bear and appeased him with a few lumps of sugar and a bottle of orange soda pop.

Joe College spent the whole day on the campus Saturday and witnessed the T. C. U.-Baylor game Saturday afternoon.

Frogs Lead National Grid Scoring Parade

Oliver Holds Lead in Southwest While Key Is Inactive Against S. M. U.

The Horned Frog football team leads the entire nation in scoring, amassing 218 points so far with four more games yet to be played. Colgate University is the Christian's closest rival with 195 points.

Although held scoreless by the Baylor Bruins last week, Red Oliver, sorrell-topped Horned Frog halfback, retained his kingship of the Southwest's scoring parade.

Ernie Koy, University of Texas fullback and Oliver's nearest competitor, was held out of the Texas S. M. U. game because of injuries and did not have a chance to overcome Oliver's lead. Thrasher, Rice Institute flash, jumped into the scoring race last week by scoring three markers against Creighton University.

Hubert Dennis and B. W. Spearman both took a scoring jump when they scored one tally each against Baylor. Of the scorers in the conference T. C. U. has 14 men who have scored at least six points thus far this season.

Leading scorers follow:
Oliver, T. C. U. 48
Koy, Texas 44
Hillard, Texas 37
Spearman, T. C. U. 36
Stafford, Texas 36
Dominique, A&M 34
Brannon, T. C. U. 31
Wallace, Rice 31
Thrasher, Rice 24
Dennis, T. C. U. 24

Registrars Meet Here Nov. 11-12

Sessions Will Be Held at Texas Hotel and on Campus.

The Texas Branch of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars will hold its twelfth annual convention and fourth institute in Fort Worth Nov. 11 and 12, according to S. W. Hutton, acting registrar of the University and member of the local arrangements and registration committee of the Association.

Four sessions will comprise the convention. Three of these will be held at the Texas Hotel and one on the T. C. U. campus. At the first session, to be held at the hotel from 9 to 12 a. m., on Nov. 11, speakers will be E. L. Dohoney of Texas Technological College, Max Fichtenbaum of the University of Texas and Miss Pearl A. Neas of Southwestern University.

The afternoon session of Nov. 11 will be held on the University campus, and the T. C. U.-Texas game will be the principal feature of the session. At 7 p. m. the same day a banquet will be held at the Texas. At the banquet Dean Colby D. Hall will make an address, "Phases of the College and Junior College Standards Not Thoroughly Understood."

One session will be held Nov. 12. At this meeting E. J. Mathews of the University of Texas will preside and the registrars will discuss various problems which have come to their attention.

MORE ABOUT HOMECOMING

president of the association, will make addresses at the luncheon.

The climax of the Homecoming celebration will begin at 2:30 p. m. Friday, when Coaches Francis Schmidt's and "Bear" Wolf's Horned Frog grid warriors tangle with the Longhorns from the University of Texas in the year's most important Southwest Conference battle. The Steers have kept the Frogs from winning the championship for two years straight, and the Purple and White team will be fighting its hardest to avenge past defeats and continue its present undefeated season record to a conference championship.

A football dance will be held at The Woman's Club after the game in honor of the two football teams.

Misses Vinita Green and Lamoyne Laurence, T. C. U. graduates who are now studying at the University of Texas, will return to Texas Christian University for the Homecoming next Friday.

Misses Margaret Oliver, Frances Landers and Vera Marble of Henderson spent the week-end with Miss Grace Maloney in Jarvis Hall.

Miss Huldah Lou Shumate had as her guests over the week-end, Misses Effie Pearl Simms and Iva McLaughlin of Tioga.

Miss Marian Honea visited her parents in Cleburne Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Beulah Boggess visited her sister, Mrs. W. H. Tarkington, in Dallas during the week-end.

Red-Heads Flourish in T. C. U., Give School 'Hot' Reputation

Synthetic or real, the red-heads would rather be a brunette with very black hair. It is also her opinion that red hair has nothing to do with temper for she has seen other people with tempers quite as bad as hers. That there are so many red-heads this year is purely accidental.

"All the red-heads are making T. C. U. a hot school," says Miss Margaret Hutcheson, "but it doesn't allow them the individuality they have been used to." Miss Hutcheson would personally rather have grey hair.

Miss Louise Watson has a plausible theory to offer concerning the increase in red-headed students. She believes that the birth rate of red-heads is increasing. Red hair is "o. k." in her estimation but some other type would be more distinctive just now.

"There were just as many red-heads four years ago, for I remember feeling as undistinguished then as I do now," says Miss Rose Sweet. As to temper, she simply says, "I don't have one." Cora Jennings agrees that there are too many people with red hair this year but she thinks it's only a coincidence. And, furthermore, red-heads do have tempers (a purely personal observation.)

Miss Myrtle Nell Taliaferro climaxes the list. She believes that there is a casual relationship between temperament and red hair. But she likes her hair all right. She believes that red-headed people are smarter than other people, that there are more red-heads in the freshman class than any other class and hence that the freshman class is the smartest class in school.

Miss Bobbie Sue Whitten visited in Grandview last week-end.
