"Mr. Wright Discovers America"

It appears now that Texas Christian has a reasonable chance to have a representative schedule for her grid team in the future. The citizenship of Fort Worth has made a definite move in demanding games with schools of equal strength. The officials of the University should see that the body who made the protest was not joking. Their protest was no weak gesture.

It all came about when the Lions Club gave its annual banquet for the Horned Frogs. In the course of the ceremonies, Julien C. Hyer, former president of Lions International, presented L. C. Wright with a large map of the United States, explaining at the same time that such teams as Notre Dame, Northwestern, Southern California, Colgate, New York University and Michigan were still playing intersectional games. He went on to say that games with these schools might be arranged.

Of course, Mr. Hyer made his speech with a humorous air, but underneath it all, it was no trouble to see that the Lions Club meant business in presenting the map to Mr. Wright. After the map had been presented, the Fort Worth Press was distributed over the banquet room. It was an extra edition and bore the headline: Pete Wright Discovers America.

After all, it is the business man of the city, to a large degree, who furnishes the chief force that keeps the University in operation. A university that does not have the support of the city in which it is located is not apt to get along too well.

The Skiff wishes to congratulate the Lions Club and Mr. Hyer for the serious gesture that was made.

Retrenchment

Texas Christian University is operating under a deficit. The Burnett Trust cannot guarantee more than $2000 a month during the present academic year as compared to $12,000-$15,000 a month a few years back. The budget must be cut $100,000 to balance it, which includes cuts already made as the 48 per cent cut in faculty salaries.

Like every other institution, Texas Christian University must cut her budget so as to operate within her income. The question of financial retrenchment is not one of advisability; it is one of necessity. The Burnett Trust properties have not disappeared, but have been caught up in the general deflation of values. The economic necessity of retrenchment is not questioned, but its effect upon the value of T. C. U. as an educational institution should be a source of grave concern to all.

The Skiff will always protest against a retrenchment in the ideals and standards of T. C. U. There must not be a relative cut in the ideology of the faculty and student body. T. C. U. must not become picayunish and provincial. In this hour when the Burnett Trust is not able to promise the assistance which it has offered in the past, this institution must stand as true to the promises upon which the Burnett endowment was granted, non sectarianism and the advancement of learning.

It is not an idle boast that Texas Christian University is one of the most democratic schools in the nation. It is true that last year and this year have seen the rise of a great deal of student thinking. Students of T. C. U. are accepted as leaders in student conferences where student opinion is at its best.

The liberalism of student thinking has tended to bewilder and somewhat alarm some of the patrons of T. C. U. who have never been accustomed to students thinking except in theory. If this institution is to become the great center of learning that her founders planned for her, she must be unyielding in protection of student and faculty thinking no matter whose toes it may tread on.

With regret and resignation the Skiff views the retrenchment in the budget, but never can we allow a retrenchment in the ideology of Texas Christian University.

An Educational Honor

T. C. U. has passed another goal in attaining a high educational standard. Although it has ranked among the leading colleges and universities of America for the past several years, it has not had any definite foreign ranking. The decree recently issued by the French minister of national education to the effect that graduates of T. C. U. with Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts degrees will be admitted to "enseignements supérieur," or graduate work, in all French universities is, indeed, a great advancement in our educational standing.

Europeans have been accustomed to ranking their educational standards above the American. America, realizing that the school systems of Europe have been in existence much longer than ours, has been coptent to accept the idea. The European educational standards are firmly established. America is ever trying to raise her standards; she realizes that she can never use the same standards so effective in Europe. America is in a stage of experimentation, but she is ever striving to attain a new level.

T. C. U., along with other American colleges, is always trying to reach a higher level. We have, indeed, been honored in receiving equal ranking with the universities of France.

THIS WEEK

On Other Campuses

Something new in making excuses—a freshman at the University of Texas was called on to make a speech before the class. "I can't, Mr. Instructor," the freshman replied. "I just bit my tongue."

A class in leading cheers has been started at Tulane University under the direction of two co-ed cheer leaders. They have reported that progress is being made and promise a bumper crop of well-schooled cheer leaders for next year.

Bad checks were passed around at the University of Missouri at the rate of 75 a day last year.

A professor at Fordham University is reported to have passed a student in one of the classes who has been dead for six months.

A feature of the "Nudist" issue of the Rammer-Jammer, Alabama humor publication, will be a reader's guide, carrying the names and rating of all popular co-eds.

It was an engineering drawing class. The problem was to draw a tree; the instructor entered. He turned and read the note on the blackboard: "Dear teacher: Only God can make a tree."

The war debt situation at a glance: France, England and Italy petitioned the United States for a postponement of the December installments of the war debts.

France, with the second largest gold supply in the world has stated her determination to pay debts in relation to her reparation receipts from Germany.

Temps, the semi-official organ of the French government, declares that the postponement of the December payment of war debts "seems to be the normal, equitable and necessary consequence of the Hoover moratorium."

England, now off the gold standard and with insufficient gold reserves in her own treasury, will pay to the ruination of her own credit position.

Italy, with the most enviable position of the three, will pay without greatly affecting her credit structure. Italy received the greatest cancellation of debts after the war.

Literary Gleanings

(Sigma) Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity, begins this week its sponsorship of a literary column open to contributions from all students of Texas Christian University.

The organization hopes to present through the medium of this column short stories, poetry, skits, essays, sketches, etc., which are both representative of some of the best student efforts and the interests of the readers.)

Rain Lesson
Did you ever look at the threatening sky?

The dirty-grey clouds all piled up high;

And listen to rumblings of thunder afar,

And the swirl of wind in the tree-tops hair,

And fret and fume, though all in vain,

That on picnic day it's going to rain,

Stand at the window, look out and say,

"Rain, rain, go away."

Blow moist rings on the glass and pout,

Draw with your finger, then rub it out;

Walk the floor then back again,

Stamping, and saying you simply hate rain?

—Nina Whittington.

A very wise person one day told me To search the sky, and if I could see Enough of blue the color to match A torn place in a little boy's pants, To patch the pants, and mend my blues.

There'd be no more rain that someone could use.

Herbert Marshall in the role of an impoverished nobleman and Sari Marita taking the part of a very charming daughter of a bourgeois merchant appear at your Palace Theater Saturday in "Evenings for Sale," a romantic comedy of post-war Vienna. The production will run through next Tuesday. The story of the picture is based on a work written by I. A. R. Wylie.

"Flesh," starring Wallace Beery as a wrestling waiter in a beer garden, will be offered to the Fort Worth public at the Worth Theater Saturday.

The opening scene of the picture is laid in Germany, but Beery returns to America, where he experiences the heartaches and joys of being a world's champion. The picture presents a comparison of the sport in other countries and the attitude held by commercial supporters here.

Karen Morley and Ricardo Cortez are the leading stars in the supporting cast. Others of note are Jean Hersholt, John Miljan, Vince Barnett, Herman Bing, Edward Brophy, and Greta Meyer.

John Ford, of "Arrowsmith" fame, directed "Flesh." The production was adapted from an original story by Edmund Goulding, who directed Beery in "Grand Hotel." The picture is a Metro-Goldwyn production.

Students Downtown Day Welcome!

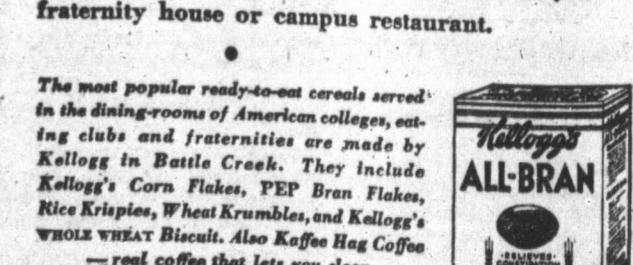

Put HEALTH in your curriculum . . .

GOOD HEALTH means vitality. And it takes lots of energy to be a leader in the classroom, and in the social activities of college. So to succeed, you must make your health a required course.

Too often constipation is permitted to undermine health and sap vitality. It may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy.

Try this pleasant "cereal way" to health. Two tablespoonsfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily will promote regular habits. It supplies "bulk," vitamin B and iron. Ask that it be served at your fraternity house or campus restaurant.

Mildred Jumps Counter; Scribe Becomes Poetic

Clyde L. Waller, 1926 graduate of T. C. U., received his Ph. D. degree from George Washington University last June and is now practicing law in Washington, D. C.

Miss Mildred Kelly, secretary in the registrar's office, believes, as many other people do, that it is harmful to suppress one's desires.

Now Mildred has had one such desire to hurdle the long counter in the registrar's office for quite a while. Consequently, when an opportunity presented itself Monday, she took advantage of it, (because you know, dear readers, opportunity knocks but once!) and leaped over the desk in the main office of the registrar!!

For details of this stupendous feat, ask any one of Miss Kelly's co-workers or Dan Packard, a spectator. Perhaps Miss Kelly could be persuaded to repeat the event.

John Hammond will have charge of the program when Alpha Zeta Pi, modern language fraternity, meets Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in Brite College clubroom, according to Miss Virginia Bales, sponsor.

The fraternity will have a Christmas party Monday, Dec. 19, in Brite clubroom at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Annabel Phares is in charge of decorations; Miss Maurine Justin, of entertainment, and Miss Martha Laura Rowland, of refreshments.

Post-Season Grid Contest Pending

Tennessee Is Possible Opponent as Auburn Suffers Tie.

With the post-season game situation still hanging on hinges, Coach Francis Schmidt has been playing the role of an "iron man athletic coach" for the past week. Starting Monday afternoon the Purple mentor has been holding two practices for two different sports. At 2 o'clock he starts working with his basketeers and then at 4 o'clock he jumps into his car and runs down to the football field and drills his gridsters until after dark.

When Auburn failed to defeat South Carolina last week hopes died out for the scheduled T. C. U.-Auburn contest, which was to be held in New Orleans on Dec. 31. The Winter Sports Committee of the Crescent City is now trying to arrange a game between the Horned Frogs and the University of Tennessee or possibly Colgate University, the Christian's nearest scoring rival and one of the few undefeated, untied football machines of the nation.

Whether or not his champion gridsters play a post-season game Coach Schmidt is devoting the allotted amount of time to his basket ball team in hopes of producing another championship quintet. At Arkansas University he won four straight cage crowns in a row. Since he has been directing athletics at T. C. U. he has won one pennant in that sport. Last year the Frogs were barely nosed out for the flag when S. M. U. eked out a one-point victory over them.

Dr. Waits to Canvass

University for Chest
President E. M. Waits and Prof. E. W. McDiarmid have been appointed by the Fort Worth Community Chest to canvass the University faculty and University employees for contributions to the cause of that organization.

Heads of all departments have been asked by President Waits to canvass the members of their departments.

The postmaster of Santa Claus, Ind., handled 1,000,000 pieces of mail from all over the world just before Christmas last year.

BEN'S BARQUE

By BEN BOSWELL

There seems to be no late development in the matter of the game in New Orleans. Tennessee is the logical champion of the Southern conference, and as yet, no definite agreement has been reached between that institution, The New Orleans Winter Sports Committee and Texas Christian.

Unless something is decided upon in the very near future, the game will fall through.

By the way, the Horned Frogs are scheduled to put another powerful team on the gridiron next year. Two freshmen and Boswell will be on hand, and they look better than did Boswell and Howell in their freshman year. They are "Tiny" Godwin and Paul Hill. Both boys will weigh 230 or more and have shown great promise.

Woodson Armes will be a great center with a little more experience. Bassinger, Brown, Taylor and "Corn Flakes" Kellow will hold down the guard positions. In the backfield the list will be headed by Charlie Casper, Jewel Wallace, Johnny Kitchen, Joe Coleman and Jimmie Lawrence. The latter is likely to become one of the greatest backs in the conference. He is a freshman. Ellis Taylor will also be in for a position.

Most of these fellows could have made any conference team this year, but the great amount of material forced them to take the back positions. That is the shameful thing about football. But it can't be helped much. Many men, who if used, would become all-Americans, never get a chance to perform.

Norte Dame used four fullbacks a year or so ago. The last one used was better than the former ones. Savoldi, Mullins, Hanley and O'Connor, and O'Connor looked the best of the lot.

Frog Basketeers Settle Down to Drive for Flag

Scrimmage Frosh and Rehearse Plays for Future Use.

Slim Kinzy at Center

Capt. Brannon, Vaught, Myers and Perkins Battle for Guard Posts.

Scrimmage with the freshmen and rehearsal of plays have been on the program for the varsity basketeers to date.

A lively session with Dutch Meyer's Polliwogs Tuesday revealed weaknesses that Coach Schmidt will attempt to iron out before the first game on the Frogs' schedule.

As yet no practice games have been announced, but Schmidt hopes to have an opponent for his team within the next few days.

The post-season football game is still pending, making it difficult for Schmidt to devote his entire time to the cage work. The majority of the cagemen are also members of the championship football squad that is awaiting news of the arrangement of an intersectional grid contest.

Hersel Kinzy, 6 foot, 4 inch center from Marshall, has been running at center on the quintet since the opening of practice and will probably step into Ad Dietzel's shoes at that position.

Doc Sumner and Elbert Walker, veteran forwards, are back at their regular positions. Captain Buster Brannon is filling one of the guard positions. At the other, Johnny Vaught has been dividing time with Wallace Myers, Love Perkins and Judy Truelson.

Richard Allison at center and Jewel Wallace, Robert Chappell and Wesley Green at forwards have also been seeing much service in practice sessions.

Prof. Karl E. Ashburn to Speak

Prof. Karl E. Ashburn of the economics department will talk Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "The Place of the Church in the American Economic Order" at the Mulkey Memorial Church.

Dr. Clinton Lockhart is pastor for the month of December.

Seven Win Places On All-Conference

Vaught Is Sole Gridster of Conference on All-American.

By placing seven men on the all-conference team and one on the all-American team this year, the Horned Frogs set a record in the Southwest Conference. Never before have so many men from one team been selected to make up the personnel of the mythical eleven. Johnnie Vaught, sole gridster of the conference to make the all-American eleven this year, is the first wearer of the Purple and White ever to receive that distinction.

Blanford Spearman, Ben Boswell, Madison Pruitt and Vaught were unanimously selected for the second time as members of the all-conference team. Boswell, rated by critics as the best tackle ever to grace a Southwest Conference gridiron, made the 1930 honor roll but because of injuries failed to repeat last year. He barely played 60 minutes of conference football last season which gives ample reason for his failure to repeat. Pruitt, Vaught and Spearman were unanimous selections last year and this year too.

J. W. Townsend, stellar Frog center, was given first choice over Nolan of A. & M. because of his steadiness throughout the year. Some critics claim Nolan outplayed T. C. U.'s ironman in the Frog-Aggie contest, but Nolan was playing one type of defensive center and Townsend was playing another which did not give him a chance to show up as Nolan.

There was little discussion about the guards. Fay Lagow of Rice and Cheesy Cook of Texas polled two or three votes for the guard position, but these few were not enough to overcount the majority of votes compiled by those ever fighting Poly guards, Vaught and Lon Evans.

Evans was handicapped last year because of injuries. This year he came back physically fit to gain for himself the honors which were due him, and although some critics praised him highly, there were not enough to give him what he justly deserved, that of being all-American.

Besides having one all-American and seven all-conference men, the Frogs had several men to receive all-American honorable mention. Those to receive such distinction were Richard "Red" Oliver, hard driving halfback and one of the outstanding scorers of the nation, Boswell, Spearman, Pruitt and Dan Salkeld.

all season again gained for him the mythical honors, although he played most of the season with severe injuries. Foster Howell, too, gained for himself all-conference honors this year of which injuries robbed him last season.

The aggressiveness of Jack Shackleford, Howell's running mate, was one of the big reasons why Howell played the type of ball of which he was capable.
