New Horned Frog Annual Presents Odd Arrangement

Clubs Are Featured

Martin and Montford Originate Merry-Go-Round Section to Pass Censors.

By ROY IRWIN BACUS.

The 1933 Horned Frog is the talk of the campus, and although the staff members may have fled as pictured on the last page of the book, it was not necessary. The book is a remarkable one from all standpoints and Dallas has done a few things which no editor ever dared do.

Probably the biggest "upset" that you received when you opened your annual was the snapshots right in the very first pages of the book, followed by the popularity winners and then the clubs. The long established tradition has been to put the faculty first, the class next and then proceed with the rest, but this year it was different—and why not? Isn't the snapshots and the popularity pages the first thing that you look for upon opening the book?

New Idea for Clubs!

And for one an interesting club section has been produced. Instead of the usual collection of club members, Miss Scott, organization's editor, chose to add snapshots to the pages, so that she would give the students a reason for looking up the club pages. In doing so the long write-ups, which were copied each year from the preceding annual in many cases, were discarded and the printing was brief and to the point. And if you don't believe that the printed matter is a trifle out of the ordinary, read the write-up for the freshman class. (Part of it was originally censored by the editor but a witty scribe "overlooked" the notation to strike out certain paragraphs, so it's all there.)

Possibly one criticism of the book is that not enough credit was given the Frogs for winning the football championship. However, this was more than made up for by the large action pictures and the sensational snap of Captain Vaughn giving the spectators a good reason why he was named as all-American. This snapshot was voted the sensation of the book by members of the Aggie student body who will build the yearbook at College Station next year.

Classes Subordinated.

And now we'll skip the faculty and class sections, because that is probably what you did after you made sure your picture was there. One reason why the class and faculty sections are there is because first of all the annual is a record book and second because students are

Mrs. Brockette Is Ph. D. Candidate

Mrs. Consuelo Brockette, assistant professor of Spanish in T. C. U., will spend next year at the University of Texas completing work on a Ph. D. degree, she said this week.

Mrs. Brockette received B. A. and M. A. degrees from Texas University, and she has done preliminary work on the doctor's degree there. As an undergraduate at the university she made the highest record of grades ever made there, 59 "A's" and one "B."

At the end of her junior year Mrs. Brockette was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, national scholarship fraternity, being the first of five members of the class with the highest grades.

Dr. Elliott Preaches Baccalaureate Sermon

Dr. Elliott preached the baccalaureate sermon and Prof. Ashburn pronounced the benediction. Mr. Joekel has been principal of the Howe High School for two years and has signed a contract to teach there again next year.

Delegates Leave for Hollister Conference

Dr. Elliott Will Go to Missouri June 8 to Address "Y" Summer Camp.

Seven students and one faculty member left in the school bus yesterday afternoon at 12:30 to attend the Y. M. C. A.-Y. W. C. A. Summer Conference to be held at Hollister, Mo. June 2-11. Another faculty member will leave June 8 to deliver two lectures at the camp.

Those who left yesterday were Mrs. Mirth W. Sherer, who will have charge of a group of girls during the camp, and Miss Elna Winton, Miss La Verne Brunson, Roy O'Brien, Fred Miller, John Knowles, Nat Wells and Marion Hicks, who is co-chairman of the conference.

Dr. Edwin A. Elliott will leave June 8 to deliver two lectures at the evening platform hour. His subjects are "Christianizing the Economic Order" and "Strategic Vocation for Building a Christian World."

The Student Body Association appropriated $50 to send delegates, and the school is lending the bus to the party for transportation.

Editor Announces '33-'34 Skiff Staff

Sargent States Plans for Next Year's Paper.

The staff for next year's Skiff was announced this week by Joe Sargent, editor-elect.

According to Sargent's announcement, the staff will be made up of the following students: Paul Donovan, news editor; Charlie Casper, sports editor; Miss Louise Cauker, society editor; Ben Sargent, make-up editor; Miss Maudalen Young, exchange editor; Miss Helen Puckett, feature editor; Roy Bacus, theater editor.

Miss Ruth Morgan will be assistant society editor and the reportorial staff will be made up of Misses Lucille Hatheway, Elna Evans, Louise Cozzens, Florienn Turner, Felicia Seigel, Katherine Edwards, Mary Herman, Hulda Lou Shumate, Carolyn Slay and Grace Maloney, and Rex Clark, Charles Dannelly, Edwin T. Phillips, William Tunstall, James Crenshaw and Hindu Van Zandt.

Additional students are expected to sign up for the class in journalism 123, elementary reporting, and these students will also be on the staff of reporters.

Sargent this week stated plans he has formulated for the paper next year, adding, however, that the plans were not complete and that details were yet to be worked out.

"I want students to know," he said, "that The Skiff next year will be their paper as much as it is mine and that it will uphold what the staff believes to be for the best interests of the student body. The paper will strive to back the Student Council at all times, but will not be ruled by the council or by any other group except the student body as a whole."

Sargent said that the open forum column of the paper will be open to everyone at all times. He will always welcome suggestions for the betterment of the paper, he said.

Plans are being made for the issuing of several special editions next year, according to the new editor.

Miss Scott Has Position on Press

Miss Ernestine Scott, this year's Skiff editor and senior who will receive her A.B. degree Monday, will begin work on the Fort Worth Press Tuesday.

Miss Scott was editor of the Press for a day when the T. C. U. journalism students edited several editions of the paper this spring. The Skiff this year under the direction of Miss Scott received an All-American rating for the third consecutive year.

Youngest Is 19, Oldest Is ??? Among Seniors

"When May and December wed" is an oft quoted phrase, but here's a case of when May and December graduate.

The youngest graduate is Miss Hannah Ann House, who was 19 years old the 23rd of March. And "December"? Well, we have a special request to withhold from the press the age and birth date of the oldest graduate, but any one who wants to know might ask H. B. Beckman. (And it's not so old at that!)

Miss House, whose home town is Mansfield, tied for the place of valedictorian when she was graduated from high school, and received a scholarship to N. T. A. C., which she attended one year. Her last three years have been spent as an economics major in T. C. U.

Miss House was vice-president of the Y. W. C. A. this year and secretary-treasurer of the International Relations Club. When she gets her degree Monday, Miss House wishes she could walk into a teaching position.

Beckman was born in Meppen, Hanover, Germany. He was graduated from the Gymnasium after a nine years' classical course. He is also a graduate of a normal college of physical education in Milwaukee, Wis. He taught physical education and German in Milwaukee for six years, then came to T. C. U. He has been in Texas two years.

He will receive an A. B. degree in languages Monday. After that he plans to teach and then get his Master's Degree.

Beavers Elected To Head Juniors

Lon Beavers was elected president of next year's junior class in an election held recently by the sophomores and was presented to the class at its annual banquet last Friday evening at the Blackstone Hotel.

The other officers elected were: Jimmy Jacks, vice-president; Miss Edythe Black, secretary-treasurer; Heard Floore, business manager, and Miss Christine Ackers and Clarence Crotty, council members.

The arrangements for the banquet were in charge of Misses Margaret Day Trigg, Helen Veatch, and Betty Givens, and Bill Wise and Morton Gause Ware. Judy Truelson, vice-president, acted as toastmaster for the banquet, which was attended by 64 guests.

Summer Library Hours Will Be Daytime Only

With the exception that Mary Couts Burnett Library will not be open at night, there will be little change in the rules of the library for the summer school.

The library will open each morning at 7:15 o'clock and will close at 4:30 in the afternoon. Reserve books may be taken from the library at 12:00 o'clock and must be returned by 9 a. m. on the following morning. The staff of the library will include A. R. Curry, Mrs. J. E. Mothershead, Mrs. A. L. Nelson, Miss Natalie Gorin and Billy Allen.

Bridge Is Played on Campus as Vicars Parade in Review

Some three months ago the game of bridge was not allowed to be played in the boys and girls dorms here at T. C. U. but the story today is different. Through gracious and polite agreement the girls are allowed to entertain their boy friends with the card game in Jarvis Hall today and the boys are privileged to bring their cards out and play with them in the parlor of the halls.

No report as yet had been received as to how the game is going over with the administration but reports from several of the faculty show that America's beloved game has been used as a form of entertainment and to even go further prizes have been

Around 100 Horned Frogs Are Unclaimed

Annals Will Be Available at Yearbook Office Until Tomorrow Noon.

Approximately one hundred yearbooks have not been claimed, according to Paul Martin, business manager, who has been issuing books since Monday from the Horned Frog office.

Martin stated that books will be available at the Horned Frog office until tomorrow noon, after which a limited supply will be placed in the business office for those unable to get their book any sooner.

Students may receive their books from L. O. Dallas, editor, or Roy Bacus, assistant editor, or R. L. Trimble, assistant business manager.

Plans Perfected For Honor Group

During the spring of 1932 an organization designed to honor young women of senior standing on the campus of Texas Christian University was conceived and founded by Mrs. Colby D. Hall, Mrs. Sadie T. Beckham, Mrs. Gayle Scott, Miss Eula Lee Carter and Miss Lide Spragins.

Membership in this senior honor society is based upon at least two years' residence work at T. C. U.; an average of B over the work of the last two years; active participation in campus activities and leadership in the life of the University. Loyalty to the ideals of Texas Christian University is the cardinal recommendation to membership.

After a period of five years from the date of the founding of the society, members of the organization may petition Mortar Board, national honorary society for senior women, for admission into that national organization.

Election to this senior society must be by the unanimity of vote of both the faculty and the active members.

The petitioning group of girls consists of Clotilda Houle, president; Marian Smith, vice-president; LaMoynne Lawrence, secretary-treasurer; Bith Mae Hall, Mary Jean Knight, Siddle Joe Johnson, Elizabeth Ruff, Elizabeth Male, Thelma Breithaupt, Dorothy Conkling, Rowena Doss, Janet Largent, Virginia Bryson, Marian Howry, Ina Bramblett and Jane Jarvis.

Monday, May 22, at the home of Mrs. Gayle Scott, 3705 West Cliff Road North, the following girls were pledged from the class of 1933: Helen Pannill, president; Mary Louise Mobley, vice-president; Sarah Smith, secretary; Helen Hall, treasurer; Mae Housel Oliver, publicity director, and Hortenz Baker, project chairman.

These girls in turn selected from a group of girls approved by the faculty the following from the class of 1934: Lollie Botts, Mary Anderson Bowden, Janelle Bush, Irene Cassidy, Virginia Oliver and Anniel Phares.

The initiation service for both groups of pledges was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Lide Spragins, who entertained with a buffet luncheon. The initiation was performed by Misses Mary Louise Mobley, Thelma Breithaupt, Rowena Doss, Virginia Bryson and Dorothy Conkling. One pledge, Miss Anniel Phares, was absent because of illness and will formally enter the organization.

Butler Is Saved In Brite College (Escapes Rabies)

When a dog bites a man, it's not news; but when a mad dog gets after a man and forces his prey through a window, The Skiff comes to the rescue of Charles Anderson Dana's canons of journalism and covers the story.

Leo "Stumpy" Butler, former T. C. U. student and now a man about the campus and University Drug Store, was coming across the University campus Wednesday morning presumably on his way to the corner of University Drive and Bowie Street to take up the day's activities when a mad dog jumped from behind Brite College and started after the diminutive football player.

Butler bucked many lines during his days as a football player to help the Horned Frogs win their first all-conference grid championship, but a charging mad dog was too much for him. He crashed through a window of Brite College and sought refuge in a building in which he learned that preservation is the first law of life.

However, crawling through windows before raising them is hard on the epidermis, according to Butler's version of the story as he told it to a crowd about him at his place of business on University Drive at Bowie Street.

Dr. Alexander Has Grant From Council

Dr. C. I. Alexander, of the science department, has received Grant-in-Aid from the National Research Council. The council has a trust fund from which any scientist may receive aid to carry on a research problem.

Dr. Alexander received $200 to aid him in collecting specimens in South and East Texas this summer. The specimens will remain in his possession when he has collected them.

Other members of the faculty that have received aid from this council are Dr. W. L. Moreman received aid for a geology research. Dr. Leslie Chambers and Dr. Newton Gaines received aid in biology and physics.

Colleges Will Give Fewer Scholarships

Association Discontinues Practice of Granting High School Awards.

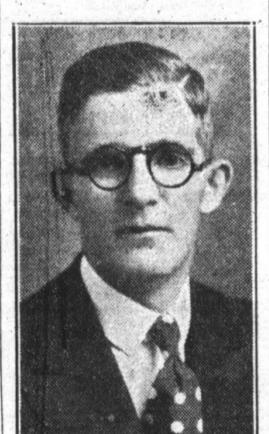

Scholarships for the honor boy and girl graduate of all accredited Texas high schools have been temporarily discontinued by action of the Texas College Association, according to Dean Colby D. Hall.

"This does not mean that T. C. U. will give no such scholarships next year," Dean Hall commented, "but it does mean that they will be few in number and that each case will be investigated and decided upon its merits."

The T. C. U. pre-junior scholarships will not be awarded for next year either. Students attaining the rank will be listed for honors on the commencement program.

The band scholarships will be continued, as will those awarded to high school graduates who live in orphan homes and to ministerial students.

To Address Seniors

The Rev. H. T. Wood, pastor of the First Christian Church in Wichita Falls, who will deliver the baccalaureate address to the graduates in the University Christian Church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The principal speaker of the convention will be Dr. George A. Campbell, president of the International Convention of the Disciples of Christ. Dr. Campbell will speak at the Wednesday evening session and at the Thursday morning and evening sessions.

Four special dinners will be given during the convention. On Wednesday a women's dinner will be held in the T. C. U. dining room and a men's dinner in the new church. Thursday one for the young people will be held in the new church and one on behalf of the brotherhood pension fund at T. C. U.

Reports of state and national projects and inspirational sermons and addresses by church leaders will constitute the principal business items. Officers of the convention are: President, Dr. L. N. D. Wells, pastor of the East Dallas Christian church; vice-president, Judge Elmer Lincoln, Texarkana, and secretary-treasurer, Patrick Henry, Sr.

Welty, decoration, and L. C. Wright, equipment.

Miss Reeder Gets Knox City Position

Miss Margaret Reeder of Knox City, who will receive her B. A. degree Monday night, was elected recently to teach the seventh grade in the Knox City school.

Miss Reeder has been active on the campus, and was chosen a senior beauty in the Horned Frog this year. She majored in English, and took her first minor in philosophy.

Miss Kennedy Receives Gift

Miss Lucille Kennedy, a member of the senior class, will receive as a graduation gift a trip to the World's Fair in Chicago. This is to be a gift from her family, she said.

20 Students Will Be Employed on Campus

L. L. Dees Announces Plans for Improvements to Be Made in Summer.

The campus has been kept in excellent condition during the spring and will be kept equally as well this summer, according to L. L. Dees, supervisor. The school is keeping approximately twenty students during the summer to mow the grass and keep the hedges and shrubbery trimmed and the grounds clean.

Many improvements have been made during the spring. Twelve dozen rose bushes and approximately two thousand plants of different varieties have been planted in different beds, most of them in front of the Main Building, Jarvis and the library. All the trees have been pruned and the shrubs trimmed.

The sunken garden in front of the library has been planted and should soon be the same as it was before cold weather killed the plants.

The arbor that was killed in the winter has been replanted with honeysuckle, and Dees says that at the rate it is growing now it will cover the whole trellis by fall.

Dees stated that the road behind the Main Building will be resurfaced and graded before fall. This, with other planned improvements, will add much to the appearance of the campus.

Bring a New Student

Every student who plans to return to T. C. U. next fall is naturally interested in the welfare of the University. The students who will not return are also interested. One can not attend T. C. U. for even a year and not become imbued with that campus spirit and pride that is equalled by few other schools.

Everyone hopes that September will find a marked improvement in economic conditions. If such is the case, an increased enrollment is expected. Regardless of financial improvements, T. C. U. students may do a great deal to help the Alma Mater.

In stringent times such as these it behooves us all to strike a cooperative note and lend our assistance to a common cause. It is only by such a procedure that we will be assured a successful year next session. Let's all do our best to bring a new student to T. C. U. in September.

The Hollister Conference

T. C. U. students should be especially interested in the Southwest Student Conference of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. at Hollister, Mo., this year since some of our own students and professors are participating in the program. This conference is held annually at Hollister, a quaint little village in the "Shepherd of the Hills country" in Missouri.

The purpose of the 1933 conference is "to study the religious life of Jesus; to gain new insight into the implications of his religion for our personal and world relationships; and to make definite plans for building the kind of Christian association program on the campus that will meet the deeper needs of the students."

T. C. U. has had representatives at this conference practically every year. Those students who have attended the meeting have made very enthusiastic reports about the instruction they have received, as well as the good times they have had. Especially since one of our own students, our student body president for the past year, is to be one of the chairmen of the conference, T. C. U. should be well represented at the 1933 Hollister Conference. It is a good way to spend a vacation.

Just a Hidden Treasure

The trophy case which is the gift of the senior class of '33 arrived several days ago—long enough for all the silver trophies to be arranged attractively within its glass inclosure. But how many have seen this beautiful gift? Only a few it is safe to say. Not even a large number of seniors have seen their gift to the University.

It is a disgrace that a thing of such value and beauty should be hidden away in that dark room in the gym. It displays the honors and fame which past athletic teams have procured for this University. It has been through them that T. C. U. has made a place in athletics among universities. We should be proud of our trophies and place them where everyone may know of the achievements of T. C. U. athletically.

A group of seniors will again go before a committee Monday requesting that the case be placed in the library. It is hoped that the committee will give a favorable answer. It is to be admitted that perhaps a library is not just the proper place for a trophy case, but T. C. U. being no larger than it is, there is no other worthy place for it. If T. C. U. were a larger university, there might be a special place for trophy cases, but since this is not true, we must make the best of the space we have. In view of that, that dark room in the gym is certainly not the place for the trophy case.

Which Achieves More?

Student A graduates with summa cum laude honors. Student B sits humbly in the stands with the rest of the gowns and watches Student A graduate with summa cum laude honors, hears the name read from the scroll, and observes the diploma being presented.

Yet in the seat of his own consciousness, Student B knows himself for a better student than Student A—knows he has worked harder at more difficult assignments, that he has used more initiative in developing his assignments, that he has not padded his course card with "snaps" but has selected the courses that could be of value to his life program.

Consequently Student B feels secure in his better training and more adequate background, and feels that his college training will carry him farther than the education which Student A has elected for himself. Yet, somehow, he can not help feeling rankled while he sits immobile with the rest of the gowns and observes the honors of the school being bestowed upon a man he knows to be his inferior.

This little drama is being enacted every day in the educational institutions of the nation. The student does not have to wait until the graduating exercises to become cognizant of it. Every time the paper comes out with the honor roll, when the students meet one another on the campus, when the parents write to inquire the reason for the honors going to another student, when the scholarships are awarded—there are many situations of which the students are aware, if not the faculties.

Perhaps it is another example of the undeserving receiving the prizes and virtue going unrewarded. Student B, in passing Student A on the campus, can soliloquize, "I'm taking stiffer work in a harder department where the grades are lower, but I'm not getting as much to show for it as you are."

There is no use remarking upon the destructive forces which are being turned loose in the system of education in the universities by such a lack of uniform grading. Students who have had it ingrained into them to shoot at the high grades will continue to drop into the "snap" departments as long as such a situation undergirds the educational structure.

SCOTT SAYS

Well, this is the final edition of The Skiff in the term of 1932-33, and as all editors must have their last word, so must I. Yes, the length of this column demonstrates what an editor thinks a word is when it is his to say. But just ask an editor for a word with him and see how long he considers it.

Although I may become a little sentimental in the course of things—even editors have their weak moments—remember that I am turning over to some one else, something that I have become a crank about—just like an old maid is about her pet parrot. Anyway, after putting one's heart and soul into something for nine months, one does come to feel that the thing belongs to him. Of course, a paper never belongs to an editor, but try convincing him of the fact.

One of the bright spots—it has had many—has been working with Edwin Van Orden. It's been great to hear him say, "Oh, yeah? Well, you're only the editor," when all the time I knew I was having my way. Still he has had his sometimes and when he did—But he has always been most willing to co-operate whenever possible to make it easy for the editor. And I must say he's a great scout.

To Joe Sargent, I wish as industrious a staff as I wish had this year. Sometimes I've been provoked when the members didn't do all I expected, but I'm like a mother is about her child—I expected wonders of them. They've really done fine work and it was through their effort that The Skiff made all-American honor rating again this year.

Joe, let me give you this little tip and you follow it up as you see fit. Next year you will lose some friends, for if you stand true to color, which there is not the least doubt you will, you will sometimes step on their toes. Again if you will do something someone likes, he will come around and pat you on the back. But remember the student body and let neither adverse criticism nor praise make you waver in your steering of The Skiff.

Under Prof. Ridings, courses have been stiff and have taken plenty of work, but at the end I realized that it was all worthwhile. Under him I have received some wonderful training.

To Mr. Cowan I wish to say that I have never considered him as just a teacher, not even when I had classes under him. He has been a friend, too. He has given me points about journalism that I know will make the game, which I intend in one way or another to enter immediately, easier.

No, I have no brickbats to throw. At the end of the road with the sun setting fast on my college career, everything seems right with the world and me. Although I have at times severely criticized persons and policies around this institution, it was because I wanted to see T. C. U. a bigger and better University—one that anyone would be proud to boast of—and not because I lacked any love for the school or those connected with it. After all, it's my Alma Mater and I have the same feelings and sentiments about it that anybody else has.

It seemed, though, that oft times some forgot that the students elected me and therefore I owed allegiance to them. Just as any one of the administration feels it his duty to uphold the administrative side of the University, so I have felt that I must uphold the student views. Not that I did not also agree with the students, for being one, I also saw as they did. Anyway, the storm is over and I am sailing into port with The Skiff.

—Ernestine Scott.

French College Life Different From American, Student Writes

"College life" as it is known in the United States is unknown in the universities of France, according to Miss Rita May Hall, daughter of Dean Colby D. Hall and former T. C. U. student, who has been studying at the University of Toulouse, France, this year.

In a letter to The Skiff, received this week, Miss Hall tells of the life of college students in France. Miss Hall will return to Texas Aug. 10.

Student-Body Activity Unknown. The atmosphere of a French university seems very strange to an American, she says. There is no student-body activity or organization. Students attend classes and talk to each other in the halls before and after classes but beyond that are not bound together by the university itself.

The only organization they have is the "Association Generale des Etudiants," which has clubrooms, sometimes has parties and obtains reductions for members to movies and theaters.

The university has no campus. Each "Faculte," or school, is located in one large building, each in a different part of town.

The school has no athletic teams. There is a football team representing the town, much as a professional baseball team represents a town in America. Their football is Rugby and is much different from American football.

Classes Not Held Often. Most university classes are held only once a week, and classes are held at various times throughout the whole day, some being as late as 5 p. m.

The classes are usually so full that extra folding chairs have to be brought in by late comers. When the professor enters the room the students stand, and they stand when he leaves the room.

Handshaking is one of the essentials of French politeness. A person never says "bonjour" to another without shaking hands—and the handshaking is always a hearty one. If one stops merely to pass the time of day on the street, he shakes hands with the other person both before and after speaking. On entering or leaving a room, even if it is full of persons, one must make the rounds and shake the hands of every individual in it.

Strolling Is Pastime. The French boy's equivalent of hanging around the drug store is sitting for hours in cafe, sipping a drink or playing cards. Between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, practically every student in town begins to saunter along the principal boulevard of the town. They stroll for about an hour before time for the evening meal.

To an American college girl, a French girl's life would probably seem tame and dull. She spends most of her time studying, for she is not allowed to go out with boys. When she goes to a dance, she is accompanied by her mother and meets the boys there.

The average date at the University of Washington costs $2.49, according to an estimate made during the course of a debate there—and with the appearance of 3.2 the figure will doubtlessly increase.

And while speaking of beer—a freshman at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., raised a minor rumpus on the campus when he wrote an authoritative theme on "How to Make Moonshine."

Miss Florence Williams, former student of the University and now a student at N. T. S. T. C., visited Miss Annie Phares during the week-end.

Meacham's Organdy and Lace graduation frocks $5.95. Thrills ahead... when you select that all-important graduation frock! White or pastel organdy, plain or embroidered in elaborate designs is quite the smartest selection you can make! They're here in many styles at $5.95. Meacham's Second Floor. Large hats are very flattering! —they look positively angelic worn with an embroidered organdy frock! Dainty flower tints. Hair or embroidered organdy hats. Do see yourself in one! $5 Meacham's Second Floor.

Well, folks this is the last dirt that you will see for a long time. In the past maybe we have said the truth. Maybe not.

JACK GRAVES will never regret that he did not publish his letter from the girl at Denton. We also hear that WALLACE MYERS has been cured of the itch. LOUISE COZZENS says that her past in Lamesa is not to be brought up. JOE LOGAN also wishes to say that he is still, in fact more so, in love with one MARGARET HALL, MARY LOUISE and HELEN'S sister. We found out that CABOT STEIN'S full name is JOHN SEBASTIAN EDWARD CABOT VON STEIN (This is the truth).

ROY BACUS has thoroughly enjoyed the painting of the showers in Jarvis Hall and says that he will be in a better position to nominate the right girl to be sponsor of the band. I still wonder what kind of neck FLORENE TURNER permits. Ask PAUL SMITH the answer of the last question and then ask him what kind of lipstick he uses to keep his lips so rosy. What will CHARLIE CASPER do without LOUISE WATSON to pester? I bet that CHRISTINE ACKERS listens to all the announcing that GENE CAGLE does. Or maybe she even goes to the studio.

SALLY BRUNSON will have a hard time finding a substitute for MARIAN HICKS, and ROY O'BRIEN is already occupied with HANNAH ANN HOUSE. JUDY TRUELSON will not have such a hard time having the biggest feet next year, for his are still growing. HINDU VAN ZANDT hopes to find plenty of good looking women in Arizona. R. J. DUCKWORTH has taken the place of JACK PANTER with JACK'S former girl. Who will take OTHA (the mighty) TINNER'S place in the heart of NATALIE COLLINS? Ask HEARD FLOORE what he drinks to make him mistake a dog for a deer. "To sit or to be sat upon," that is the question between FRED HAMMOND and VERA CONNELL. We wonder how MONDA MARIE HOSEY would look running across the desert with a bear behind.

ELNA EVANS went on a party the other night and got to school the next morning at 11 o'clock. DORIS SELLERS and BEN BOSWELL were seen riding (horses) in Forest Park last week. BILL HUDSON and KATHERINE DAVIS are trying to start an affair.

The Indian question—If Hindu Van Zandt married India Leach, would they raise a lot of little Mahatma Gandhis?

PAUL DONOVAN is sweet looking. ARLE BROOKS and LOUISE GLASS seem to have some sort of mutual understanding. JACK ROE was back on the campus Senior Day looking wistfully at caps and gowns. (Weren't we all?) CHARLES DANNELLY isn't nearly so bashful as he seems. LOUISE CAUKER, ye society editor, is about the most fearless journalist around.

Annual Presents Odd Appearance

The Merry-go-round section is the invention of Paul Logan Martin and Archie Montford, and thanks to Dean Hall it is all there. He let the builders of the section use their own judgment as to what to leave out, and now much to his disgust, he finds that they put everything in!

Martin Writes Puzzles. However, to those students who are interested in the petty politics around the campus the section will furnish many laughs. Some of Martin's humor is rather puzzling, but explanations will be gladly given upon request.

And as a parting word—if you don't believe that picture puzzle works, just cut it out and put the pieces together. Yes, it really makes a picture.

Plans Perfected For Honor Group

"Amperand" was selected as the name of the new organization. The name, which was suggested by Mrs. Artemisia Bryson, is the Greek character for "and other things." The significance is that members of the organization are selected for scholarship plus other things.

At the Theaters

At the Worth Olive Olesen, comedienne and star of "Follow Thru," the Schwab and Mandel musical comedy, will come in person to the Worth Theater Saturday for four days.

Another favorite in the "Follow Thru" cast of forty is the well-known screen personality Franklyn Farnum, brother of the famous William Farnum also of the films.

At the Hollywood Real gangsters are not used in gangster pictures, but when Joe E. Brown starts out to do a baseball picture—that's a different story.

Brown, at one time a professional baseball player, saw to it that many real baseball players were included in the cast.

"Elmer the Great" is the name of the picture and is based on the stage comedy by Ring Lardner.

Not Many Days Left When Annuals and Pens Appear

By LOUISE CAUKER.

Time's up! When it gets to the place where somebody pokes an annual and a fountain pen at you every two steps, you can be sure there are only a few more exams and a commencement ceremony left between you and the end of what seemed like a long school year just a few months ago.

Yes! Goodbye until September, or goodbye forever. It makes you think a little, and it makes you want to write all kinds of nice things in people's annuals.

Main Hall is an exhibit of gymnastic feats probably never equaled except in other college halls. People scribble in big, flat dark books placed on their knees, arms, shoulders, heads, or on some other person's convenient limb.

Everybody signing annuals and asking, "Whatcha doin' this summer, Jack?"

Yes, time's up.

DONOVAN'S DOPE

By PAUL DONOVAN

That's the way it goes; just when you get started on something you like, you have to stop. It seems only a few short weeks ago that I became your sports editor and now the time has come to call a halt to the whole business.

It is needless to say that it is with regret that I write this final chapter. It is customary on an occasion of this sort to pay tribute to those who have helped and encouraged you during your period of service. So here we go.

First thanks go to the editor who entrusted me with this position and gave me a chance to make a success of it. If the success of a sports writer were measured by the success of the teams he is writing about, I would have something to gloat about, but unfortunately such is not the case and I can only hope that these few columns were satisfactory.

Next come the coaches, all of whom have proved inspiring by their co-operation and patience. It would be hard to find a more congenial, helpful and successful coaching staff anywhere in these U. S.

Then come the athletes who provided material for sports writing by their achievements. In every sport the University was represented by men who made a name for themselves throughout the country. Football had its list of stars too long to name, basketball had its Sumner and Brannon combination, baseball had its Slim Kinzy and track had its Charlie Casper.

Then there is the Athletic Council which has done everything possible under the trying conditions to keep the Purple flag waving in every sport and have been rewarded by seeing that same flag hoisted to the top in two major sports, football and baseball.

Last, but by no means least, are all you students who have put up with this column week after week. Thanks to all of you.

Next year Charlie Casper will take over this department and you can rest assured that he will give you something enlightening and entertaining. He has it in him and I wish him the best of luck. He has been sports publicity man this year and has kept the world informed as to how the Frogs are progressing in athletics.

It is most gratifying to see the forward progress that this institution is making even in these lean years. She is recognized and respected in every section of the land for the powerful teams she puts out. None of the great football teams in the country were willing to risk their records in a post-season game with the Frogs.

There is more progress ahead too, take it from me. Although it is a little early in the year for such statements, I will predict that the Frogs will win both basketball and baseball next year and be in the running all the way in football. That's a big order but not too big to expect with the many stars due to report for service next year.

It is also encouraging to see the outstanding high school athletes of the state enrolling in the University for next fall. Only this week I saw Scott McCall of Masonic Home and Elmer Helbing and Harold Holland of North Side on the campus signing up for next year. With stars like that making their choice of colleges known, it is certain that others will follow.

Best wishes to the University and all her students and to The Skiff for next year.

Horned Frog Band In Final Showing

Plans Laid for Several Trips During Summer Months to County Fairs.

The Horned Frog Band, under the direction of Prof. Claude Sammis, will make its last appearance of the year on the evening of June 5, when it plays for the march of the seniors to the honeysuckle arbor where the commencement exercises will be held.

The band, which is one of the University's widely-traveled organizations, will turn in all equipment but will not disband until officially notified that they will not make any trips during the summer.

At the present the band is considering a three-day trip to the fair at Clifton in July and also a Chamber of Commerce trip which would be over West Texas and parts of Mexico. This trip would last over a period of two weeks.

Prof. Sammis is making plans for the largest band ever to represent T. C. U. next year and is communicating with prospective band members all over Texas and Arkansas. Plans are being made to print a leaflet and send to all men interested in the University's musical organizations.

The only officer to be elected for next year is Roy Bacus, drum major, who will take the place of Sprouser Wynn, who will go to the University of Texas.

Graduating Class Will Take Heavy Toll in T. C. U. Athletes

The graduating class of June 5, 1933, will strike a heavy toll in the ranks of T. C. U. athletes. Seventeen Horned Frog athletes will end their career at this time. This is the largest number of lettered athletes to ever depart from the institution via the graduation route.

Of the outgoing seventeen, some of them will continue their studies in college while others will settle down to work on their respective fields of occupation.

Capt. Johnny Vaught, T. C. U. first All-American grid star, will enter the ranks of athletic coaches, Blanford Spearman has signed to teach and coach at Olney High School next year.

Hubert Dennis has been elected to the position of athletic director and principal at the Rockdale High School for the coming year. Monday he will sign another contract, this one for life, Madison "Pap" Pruitt, all-conference wingman for the Frogs for the past two years, will teach and coach in some Texas high school.

S. L. Phelps also plans to coach and teach.

Red Oliver will join the ranks of the Olympia Club in San Francisco this summer. Dan Salkeld intends to play pro football with some major league outfit. Ben Boswell has signed a contract with the Boston Braves, a pro grid squad. Buster Brannon plans to play pro basketball with some classy Eastern quintet in the East.

Doc Sumner will study medicine in Galveston. Marion Hicks and J. W. Townsend will study law at the University of Texas next year. Otha Tiner contemplates studying law at Baylor University. Howard Walsh will enter into the accounting business in Fort Worth next fall.

Poster Howell plans to play professional football with the Portsmouth Cardinals during the coming grid season. Jack Shackelford is undecided as to his future but may coach and teach. Lon Evans is working for the city but will either join the Olympia Club or play pro football next season.

Fifteen of the seventeen outgoing men entered T. C. U. as freshmen in 1929. They were undefeated and untied during their freshman and sophomore years. They hold the record of losing only four games during their college careers on the gridiron. They are the only senior athletes that received a 100 per cent for letters earned during their senior year.

Casper May Go to National Meet

Appeal Is Made to Ex-Students to Give Travel Funds.

Coach Mack Clark, track mentor, announced Wednesday that there is a possibility of Charlie Casper, age timber topper for the Frogs, attending the National Interscholastic Track and Field meet at Chicago, which will be held in conjunction with the World's Fair in June. The meet is scheduled to be run off June 16 and 17.

Because the athletic funds at T. C. U. are running low this year, Coach Clark has made an appeal to the various ex-students to contribute enough money to send his cohort to the meet. Just as yet no check-up can be made but the entry blank for Casper has been mailed and there are more breaks in his favor than against him in this campaign, Coach Clark said.

Casper has won the high and low hurdle events at the conference meet for the past two years and holds the conference record in the low timbered event. Lack of funds robbed him of this chance last year and a probable berth on the U. S. Olympic team.

Cy Leland and Red Oliver are the only two Frogs ever to enter this meet as representatives of T. C. U. Casper entered the National Interscholastic meet there while in high school.

The low hurdles will be run around the curve which should be an advantage for the local star. He will encounter some of the best hurdlers in the world when the timber toppers take their marks and wait for the final gun. Jack Keller, holder of the world's record in the lows, who has been timed in 14 seconds flat this season in the highs, is entered and will be a favorite to cop both events.

Other outstanding stars such as Charlie Schiefley, of Minnesota University; Slati Hardin of L. S. U., the boy who caught Red Oliver and prevented his making a touchdown that would have won the T. C. U.-L. S. U. game the past season; Jack Herbert of Texas A. & M.; Arthur Herbert, Stanford ace who won the I.C. 4A championships last week, and Gus Mier, another Stanford hurdler who won the high sticket events in the same meet.

Casper has rested during the last two weeks and has resumed training on the cinders with Red Oliver, who is going to the Olympic Club about the middle of this month, and Elmer Helbing, winner of the dash events at the state meet this year. Helbing will enter the National Interscholastics this year. The interscholastics will be held in the day time and the intercollegiate will be held under the same arc lights that shined down on Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney some four or five years ago.

Star Performer From Colorado to Head Track Team.

Powell hails from Colorado, where he was a stellar performer. Since coming to T. C. U. Powell has run the middle distance races and Coach Mack Clark is relying on the Colorado flash to carry the Frogs through in the longer races next season.

The captain-elect won the majority of his races this year and holds a victory over Red Ledbetter, S. M. U. half-miler, in the two-lap event. Ledbetter won the conference 880-yard event this year and finished some 30 yards ahead of the field.

Joe Bacon Talks With Celebrious Rogers on Texas

If anyone has any questions on Will Rogers that need answering, they may consult Joe Frank Bacon, who enjoyed a half hour talk with the famous humorist, who was held over in Abilene because of bad flying weather recently when Bacon was visiting there.

According to Bacon, Rogers was serious for the few minutes they conversed and appeared deeply interested in Texas affairs. He also expressed regret for his friend, Bob Crosby, rodeo star, who was injured during the recent Fat Stock Show at the Coliseum.

Answering many questions popped at him by Bacon and his friends, the humorist revealed that he uses no prepared manuscript in his radio programs. He just talks until the alarm clock goes off. When it falls the Gulf Company is just paying a few hundred dollars for overtime.

Rogers disclosed some very clever tricks of photography which were accomplished in the picture "State Fair." He said that although the background of the picture and all the carnival scenes were filmed at the Iowa State Fair, the picture was made in Hollywood. He said this was accomplished by projecting the Iowa scenery upon a large screen and placing the actors in front of it and making another reel of the new set-up.

He said that although Sally Eilers and Lew Ayres had prominent parts in the production he did not see them on the set until after the picture had been completed when all the actors were called in for a group photograph.

Rogers, who began his career twirling jokes and not making wise cracks, said that had he known the exact date of the Fat Stock Show, he would have made an attempt to attend it.

Walker Elected Baseball Captain

Elbert Walker, star second baseman of the Frog nine for the past two seasons, was elected captain of the 1934 team at a meeting of the lettermen last week.

Walker, during the last three years, has been outstanding in both basketball and baseball and will be closing his career in both these sports next year. He has won recognition as one of the outstanding forwards in the conference and this spring was the keystone of the infield on the championship Frog nine.

With the entire 1933 nine returning next spring, the Purple will be the favorites to retain their championship.
