Chemistry Prof Says Cellophane Uses are 'Legion'

How many uses has cellophane? That is just one of the many questions answered in a new study added to practically all the courses in the chemistry department, according to Dr. J. L. Whitman.

Shoes, lampshades, colored ribbons, party decorations, silver envelopes, moisture-proof cloth, kites, curtains, purses, wrappers, table mats, umbrellas, hats, jewelry—these are some of the different shapes that commercial enterprizers have given this chemical product, it is shown in an exhibit received from the Du Pont Cellophane Company.

Dr. Whitman, in explaining the general process of manufacture, pointed out that the product starts as wood chips; then concentrated lye is used to treat it with. From a bleached form, after glycerine is mixed in, the product is transformed to thin sheets.

An exhibit of samples of rubber from its crude to manufactured stage has also been added to the department. The treatment of the sap in its course of changing to a rubber tire, is explained to the students in Dr. Whitman's courses.

A Professor and the Student Election

An Editorial by Joe Sargent

The primary duty of a university professor is that of instruction and guidance in university courses.

A professor, of course, has other duties and functions to perform—but taking part in student body politics is decidedly NOT one of these duties or functions. When a professor takes part in any way in a student body election he is overstepping his bounds.

A professor in T. C. U. is circulating a petition for the nomination of a candidate for a student body office this year, and in doing so the professor is performing a function that should be reserved to students only. Recently he presented a nomination petition to each student in one of his classes and told the student to sign the document. The student signed. What else could he do? When one student said that he had already signed a petition for another candidate for that office, the professor told him to sign anyway, as signing the petition did not mean that he had to vote for the candidate.

There is no doubt that a professor has more influence—even power—over students than a student has over other students. In taking part in a student body election, a teacher not only is overstepping his rights, as students only—and not professors—are members of the Student Body Association, but also is, by means of his authority and influence, taking unfair advantage of candidates who are backed and supported, as they should be, only by students.

The student body election is strictly a student affair. It should not be entered into by any professor in the University.

Insane Asylum Is Scene of Opera

Cast of 40 to Be Presented in Comedy Next Friday.

The desire of Celia Benson, a student of abnormal psychology, to find out conditions in insane asylums and to learn why people go crazy, forms a background for the comic opera, "Just Us Nuts," which has been written by Don Gillis and which will be presented at 8 o'clock next Friday evening in the University Auditorium.

The cast will include Miss Mary Bowden, Miss Helen Moody, Waller Moody, Jimmy Duvall, Bill Rodier and Albert Jones in the leading roles, and Frank Aguirre, Roland Balch, Ronald Wheeler and Misses Milli Fearis, Frances Talbot and Nina Whittington as inmates of the asylum. More than 40 persons will be in the cast, Gillis said.

The opera will contain seven songs that have been written by Gillis. They are "America is Nerfs," "I'm Crazy Boutcha," "Oola Gurle," "Raskata Wolf," "Better Times," "Show My Love Back to Me" and "Forgive Me."

The opera is being directed by William Gonder. Tickets will be on sale early next week. Admission will be 25 cents.

It is being sponsored by the T. C. U. Alumni and Ex-Students' Association.

Glee Club Has Had Everything From Measles to Police Escort

By RAYMOND MICHERO

ENROUTE FROM FAYETTEVILLE, ARK., TO SHREVEPORT, LA., April 18.—Today we are making the longest single jump on our entire concert tour. We left Fayetteville at 6:30 this morning and hope to reach Shreveport, a distance of some 325 miles, just before concert time tonight. We didn't like the idea of having to get up so early, but nothing could be done about it. Our route today had taken us through the Ozarks and the hilly country. We have been going up one mountain and down another all day, consequently we have made exceptionally poor time. We now understand the reason for the story about the proverbial "slow train through Arkansas."

The past eleven days have been eventful for the Glee Club. We have had everything from measles to police escorts. The measles struck us in Newton, Kan., Friday and have been haunting us ever since. It was there that two ailing members of the club, Weldon Allen and Elton Beene, were pronounced "measleites." The rest of us were sent home and to bed immediately after the concert that night with orders to "keep our mouths shut" and to be at the bus early Saturday morning in order that we would be sure of getting out of town. Since then everybody has been trying to that he doesn't have measles. The loss of Allen and Beene lowered our company to 31. Having left Fort Worth with a party of 36, we had lost S. A. Wall at Sherman, Lee Glasgow at Oklahoma City and Pat Henry at Tulsa.

Without a doubt, the biggest thrill on the entire trip was experienced in Kansas City Saturday afternoon. On arriving in the city our bus driver couldn't find the church where we were to sing, so he stopped and asked a motorcycle officer for directions. Not knowing exactly where the church was, the officer volunteered to find it for us and escort us there. And he did so in grand style. With siren shrieking, he led us through some of the main streets of Kansas City to our destination. Officers on the street corners, hearing the siren, stopped all traffic in order that we might pass. And were we in our glory? You said it, pal.

"Busted" financially and tired physically, this bunch will probably present a bedraggled appearance when it reaches Fort Worth Friday morning, after an all-night drive from Tyler. After this trip is finished, the Glee Club will still have the Southwest Glee Club Convention and its home concert to look forward to. The convention will be held May 4 and 5, and the home concert will be May 8.

Wednesday, May 2, Set as Date For Student Election; Midnight Tonight Deadline for Petitions

Friday, April 27, and Monday, April 30, Named for Campaign Meetings in Auditorium—Nine Petitions In.

Frosh, Sophomores Will Have Picnic

Date Set for May 4—'Hope to Make It Yearly Event.'

The freshman and sophomore class will have a picnic at Lake Worth the afternoon of May 4, reports Miss Louise Watson, secretary of the sophomore class and member of the social committee.

"Both classes planned a picnic on that date and so we decided to make it a joint affair," Miss Watson said. "We hope it will be a yearly event from now on, just as is the junior-senior banquet."

The members of the sophomore social committee are: Miss Watson, Miss Grace Maloney, Johnny Crews and Sid Lightfoot. The members of the freshman class committee are: Waller Moody, L. D. Meyer, Miss Nancy Lee McConnell and Miss Betty Foster.

Miss Foster and Lightfoot are on the finance committee, Melvin Diggs and Meyer are on the transportation committee, and the entertainment committee is composed of Waller Moody, Miss McConnell, Miss Mazelle Duckworth and David Hickey.

'A' for Activities, 'B' for Buildings; In New Bulletin

Do you know your ABC's about T. C. U.?

The bulletin explains in an interesting way the curricular and extra-curricular activities. It was prepared under the supervision of Dean Colby D. Hall.

It is written in a narrative fashion and is illustrated with appropriate pen drawings of the various campus activities. Copies are available at the registrar's office.

Spring Is Here—and Politics

Today is the deadline for petitions for student offices. The candidates for each position are generally known and the stage is set. All right, students, on your mark; get set; go!

Let's all get interested in this campaign and be not only a voter but also a supporter of the candidates which we think deserve the offices.

There's nothing like a good ole political campaign to get the school spirit revived.

On your mark; get set; go!

Equipment for Seniors

What should the student, who is soon to be out in the world, try to cultivate most?

Taking for granted that all college "job-hunters" who leave T. C. U. will have the qualities of honesty and average intelligence, what next is the order?

Of the many, many qualities which have been named by successful men, probably two of the most outstanding are "initiative" and "perseverance." If the college graduate will develop those two qualities to a fine degree, then he is most likely to succeed.

For instance: Napoleon had perseverance—even obstinacy—when as a youth he was engaged in a fight with a larger opponent. The big fellow was dealing the little general misery. He was knocking him down as fast as he could get up. But Napoleon came bouncing back like a rubber ball, still taking it on the chin. Such persistence was not expected and the big bully soon grew tired of the repeated advances. He was soon retreating under a hail of blows from a youth who was destined to conquer vast armies. It was a case of never-give-up.

A very good example of the opposite is illustrated in a wood-chopping contest. Each participant was to be timed as he cut a log in two. Finally, one healthy looking lumberjack took the axe and immediately began chopping vigorously. A wise-cracking spectator bleated: "He swings like a washer woman!" The contestant dropped the axe and walked out of the ring.

He couldn't take it.

The question of initiative is best illustrated by a man who was questioning a friend.

"Do you think they'll give me a raise?" he asked.

"I don't know," replied the friend. "Do you know one way you might save your employer $10,000?"

"Why not?" the man replied.

"Then," said the companion, "do you know a way you might save your employer $1000?"

The man reflected a few moments and said he believed not.

"Then," said the friend, "Go home and think this over. Do you know any way that you might better your employer's business or save him money at all?"

The man reported the next day that he did not know how he could better his employer's business.

"Well," concluded the friend, "don't ask for a raise. Keep quiet. If your employer knew you were so lacking in initiative he would fire you at once!"

The old day when men worked as mules and were paid to slave and not to think is gone. Only the other day a laborer advanced an idea to a foreman as to how the company could operate more efficiently and economically in that department. The foreman reported the idea to the manager. The result was that the new idea was installed and the laborer received a bonus and a raise in salary.

It takes ideas to run enterprises, and those who are alert and thinking are the ones who will get ahead. Initiative; it's a rare quality nowadays but it CAN be developed.

Aren't We All?

I'm admitting it. I'm just another sucker. I still thrill at the thought of a train trip and invariably I get there 20 minutes ahead of time—without any breakfast. I still can't pass a carnival without investing in one of those greasy hamburgers which smell so good and taste so otherwise. My curiosity will not permit me to pass a newsboy who is yelling "Murder" as loudly as he can. As soon as I make a purchase I find that my mind wasn't made up and there's a better article (I think) up the street.

My conscience hurts me when I pass up a beggar, even though he is secretly laughing because his clothes are as good as mine. It broke my heart when the circus stopped the street parades. Although I have good intentions, my actual achievements bear out the motto: "Never do today what you can put off till tomorrow." I'd rather be ostracized from society than pass up a dish of green onions. My ambition will be satisfied when I win on a marble machine.

I'm just another sucker. Aren't we all?

The Nation-wide Tests

The annual sophomore tests will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. These tests will not show the sophomore how much he knows but they will show him how much he doesn't know. They are so designed that they are far ahead of even the most intelligent member of the class.

Sophomores, enter into these examinations with a spirit of wanting to learn. Make a real effort to find yourself. The grades will give you an accurate indication of just what part of a well-rounded schedule of education you are lacking.

College should be neither a refuge for the book-worm nor a haven for the "ost-sower," but a place where people drink deeply of education, enjoy companionships and pursue a well-rounded life.

Mr. Roosevelt has said: "I don't expect to make a hit every time I come to bat." After all he who doesn't make mistakes, doesn't make discoveries.

Curiosity killed a cat but the cat WAS a martyr. Thank goodness, everyone doesn't get killed for being curious.

Amusement ABOUT TOWN

By ROY BACUS

Why is it that Cleburne scoops Fort Worth on up-to-the-minute picture shows?

Last week this department asked for "Men in White" and here it is. The Hollywood is introducing Clark Gable in this picture and the popular actor does a real piece of work. The picture is about a doctor who is torn between a difficult scientific career and easy medical practice with love of Myrna Loy. Elizabeth Allan, Jean Harsholt and Otto Kruger merit praise.

There can't be any complaining as to the merits of the pictures this week. At the Palace tomorrow Katherine Hepburn in "Spitfire" will be introduced. If you like character studies at all, this one of Katherine Hepburn as a Kentucky mountain girl should appeal. Ralph Bellamy and Robert Young are male leads.

"By Candlelight," with Elissa Landi and Paul Lukas, is ending today at the Majestic. Lukas plays the part of a butler who falls in love with a "lady" who is really a maid. The supposed-to-be lady thinks Lukas is a prince. In this masquerade they meet each other. Of course the truth will out.

Pirates Intrigue Readers For Campus Ramble Items

By LOUISE CAUKER

Yo ho ho and a bottle of rum . . . That's what the big bad pirates used to say, and don't ask why I'm thinking of pirates, because I'm not. That "yo ho ho" was just to intrigue you into reading this campus ramble. Am I subtle, or am I subtle?

That's a good sentence form, so here's another sample: Is the T. C. U. Faculty Women's Club good, or is it good? That Tuesday afternoon tea for senior girls was a mental and actual achievement. Hostesses were charming, refreshments delicious, and the company the best.

But can't a group of women talking in ordinary conversational tones make a terrible amount of noise? . . . Ruth Cowan was sporting a smart blue crepe suit and the most astonishing of hats—She was looking her best . . . Mrs. R. A. Smith is one of the most completely charming women we've ever met . . . Gertrude Wiedeman is certainly blooming forth attractively.

Senior rings are scarce on the Froggie campus . . . Speaking of seniors reminds us of the Junior-Senior Banquet, concerning which there seems to be a good deal of confusion. The seniors want it during Senior Week, and the juniors object because their exams will then be in progress, more or less. So what?

Those T. C. U. students who not long ago presented the Stephen F. Foster recital under the direction of Miss Corinne Lewis are going to recital it again—before the state convention of the Pi Omicron Sorority at a tea Sunday afternoon at the Worth Hotel . . . Dr. Rebecca W. Smith, that inveterate and popular speaker, will address the same convention tomorrow, and Miss Lide Spragins, who is director of the local chapters, will make the welcoming address at the luncheon tomorrow.

This Jarvis Hall annual May Fete, held for the first time last year, should be getting under way we think. Election of the May Queen was held the last of this week, but those in charge could not be persuaded to divulge any information as yet.

Miss Janelle Bush, red-haired senior, ruled supreme as May Queen (were we ever the poet?) last year . . . There's only one thing certain about this year's event—it won't be held on May-Day. 'Cause as how the Girls' Glee Club will be off on their jaunt.

That Girls' Glee Club isn't going to let the boys' group get ahead of them this year. This is the first time the girls have taken a concert trip. Blessings upon you, little warblers, and may you escape the plague which has descended upon our handsome men singers, the measles, hurry!

Frogs Desirous Of Comeback In Chase for Flag Will Battle Farmers Today in First of 2-Game Series.

Harston Due to Hurl Aggies Far in Lead With Four Victories—Purples and Steers Are Second.

Coach Dutch Meyer's Horned Frog baseballers will attempt a comeback in their Southwest Conference flag chase on the T. C. U. diamond today and tomorrow against the Texas Aggies.

After winning two games from Baylor University last Friday and Saturday, the Christians dropped a pair of games to Uncle Billy Ditch's Texas Longhorns Monday and Tuesday.

Jake Mooty, ace right-hander from Fort Worth, will start on the mound for the Aggies in this afternoon's contest. Coach Meyer will probably start Dan Harston in the box.

Ike Lowenstein, Aggie center gardener, and Bob Connelley, third sacker, have led the Cadets at the bat this season. Moon or Martinez will likely hurl for the Aggies in Saturday's tilt.

The Aggies are ahead in the flag race, having defeated the Baylor Bears and Texas Longhorns two games each. Because the Frogs dropped a two-game series with the Steers this week, the Aggies will be given an edge in today's contest.

Frog Infielding Is Ragged. Ragged fielding on the part of the Christian infield contributed to the two losses at the hands of Texas Monday and Tuesday. The defeats dimmed the Frogs' championship aspirations considerably.

Bennett, diminutive Steer southpaw, pitched the Longhorns to an 8-to-6 victory over the Meyermen Monday afternoon. He allowed the Frogs but six blows. Jimmy Jacks twirled for T. C. U.

Bohn Hilliard of football fame pitched for the visitors as the Longhorns humbled the Christians 4 to 2 Tuesday afternoon. Slim Khzy, who hurled the Frogs to a championship last year, pitched for the Christians, allowing the Dischemen eight blows. Wallace Myers led the Christians at the plate.

Harston pitched the Frogs to a 7-to-2 victory over the Baylor Bears in Waco last Friday. Besides his work on the hill, Harston smashed a home run and a double to aid in the scoring.

Hoskins Pitches for Purples. Sweeping the series, the Meyermen beat the Bears 5 to 3 Saturday afternoon. Boaz Hoskins, curbeball artist, pitched for T. C. U., allowing but four safe hits.

Capt. Flash Walker, Taldon Manton, Jimmy Jacks and Warren Logan led the Frogs in hitting.

tending the test automatically excuses absence from class for that period."

Juniors who were not in T. C. U. last year may take the test by applying in advance, according to Dean Hall.

"The report on scores will be available much earlier than heretofore, probably before June 1," Dean Hall continued. "They will be in the form of percentile distribution showing how each student ranks by subjects with some 15,000 sophomores over the nation. The figures will not be made public, but each student will have his own and the teachers will have all of them.

Dean Hall pointed out that the figures would be used largely to discover facts concerning each individual, to be used by him for his own guidance. There will be no "general" and "honors" lists compiled as there were last year.

Data for Student's Benefit. "The major professors will use the data in advising the student about his courses," Dean Hall said. "The student will also find it a valuable picture of himself, in comparison with a host of American students of his own rank.

"The scores as a whole, compared for several years, will be studied by faculty and administrators in this and many other live colleges, as a basis for revising and strengthening the curriculum. Students are invited to join in this enterprise, not as a task imposed or as an extra burden, but enthusiastically as an opportunity for self revelation, as a contribution to the improvement of college methods, and as a fellowship in one

Burr-Head's SPORT GOSSIP

By CHARLIE CASPER

BIRD'S EYE view of what the '34 edition of the Frog football team will look like can be seen these days as Coaches Bear Wolf and Dutch Meyer send their cohorts through a variety of spring training drills.

The Purple mentors have changed several of the Frogs around, in hope of placing more strength in the weaker positions.

Paul Hill, Taldon Manton, Cotton Harrison and Sandy Hagler have been the "victims" of these changes. Hill has been converted into a tackle and will share one of those positions with Tiny Godwin next fall. The other three have been called to the guard holes, where the Frogs are the "weakest". Manton and Harrison were raming fullbacks but the Frog coaches saw where their services were needed more in the line. Both boys are big, mean and tough and have the makings of hole-openers.

Hagler was an all-state center in high school but were he playing this same position next year he would be competing with an all-conference pivot man in Darrell Lester. The pivot hole is hard to change men in, and for this reason Dutch saw fit to switch the former Cleburne flash. Harrison and Manton aren't gifted with natural speed and have their difficulties clearing a path for a ten-second man in the backfield. Their physical ability and what speed they do have will help them in their new positions.

Some of the game's best guards started out as high school fullbacks and changed over when they came to college... so what? Well, just this: these boys might easily follow in the footsteps of the boys who have made the same changes before them. Such men as Johnny Vaught, Stumpy Butler, Bear Wolf, Tracy Kellow, Paul Hill and others started out as high school backs and then went to greater fame as guards.

of the most progressive steps in college advancement.

"T. C. U. aims to be in the forefront of progressive education and this is one of its opportunities," Dean Hall continued.

Test Is General One.

He pointed out the futility of trying to cram for the test, in that its purpose is to discover, by sampling, that kind of familiarity and usage of subject matter the student has to keep and use.

"This one last thing each student should keep in mind," he concluded, "no one can answer all the questions. It is made to reach beyond the best so it can measure all, just as the sand pile for the long jump in a track meet is made longer than the best jumper will need so it can measure all."

Names Are Listed.

Following are those due to take the tests:

The freshmen are in second place in the race, having won two and lost one game. With one victory and two losses each, the juniors and sophomores are occupying the cellar berth. All intramural tennis matches must be played before April 27, according to Knox.

Bans High School Letters at T. C. U.

The Student Council, at a meeting Monday night, passed a resolution indorsing a recommendation made by the "T" Association that no high school athletic letters be worn on the campus by T. C. U. students.

The association's recommendation suggests that the absence of various high school letters will give the University's "T" the prestige that it should have. A further suggestion is made that students who wish to wear high school athletic sweaters remove the letters from the sweaters.

"T" Assn. Party Postponed
Because of conflicts with athletic contests, the "T" Association party has been postponed indefinitely, according to Jack Langdon, president of that organization. "However, we will have the party at an early date and it'll be bigger and better than ever," Langdon said.
